

0000

L 900

REEL

L 900

INDIANA STATE LIBRARY

PHOTOGRAPHIC LABORATORY

APRIL 1975

ST. JOE NEWS

1883 TO 1888

C. CROSS

16 X

ISSUES

MISSING

NOVEMBER

Issues Missing

Feb. thru Oct.

Knickerbocker Dress Plaids Reduced to 5 cents.

ST. JOE NEWS.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1883.

Farmers say that the wheat throughout the county is looking splendid.

Smoke our Nimble Nickle Cigar. Its one of the best 5 centers in town.

Wash Boilers from $1.25 to $4.50, at Conrad's.

The best elbows in the market, found at Conrad's Tin Store.

Six cakes of good toilet soap put up in a fancy wooden box, all for the small sum of 25 cents.

Jacob Sechler is a sort of a grass widower, his wife having gone to Ohio on a visit.

We received a new supply of Hoods this week from Chicago. Some handsome new styles and colors.

George Blecks built an up ground cellar this fall. George thinks they are better and more convenient than those put under the ground.

Those new shades in changeable dress goods are very fashionable. We have sold a number of these patterns during the past week. Call in and see them, and also take a peep through our bargains in other goods.

Rev. Hussey will preach in the church at this place, next Sunday evening.

We've got some of the prettiest little baby hoods you ever saw.

J. H. Conrad has his room well filled up for the fall trade. Call and see him.

Wheat 90, Oats 30, Butter 10, Eggs 20, Dried Apples 8 cents.

The new Methodist church at Spencerville will soon be completed.

We have sold lots of Boots this week. Its because we sell cheap.

Dr. Sturgis of Huntertown, talks of locating in St. Joe.

We have a full line of Men's, Ladies' and Children's Overshoes.

We certainly have as handsome a line of Ladies' and Children's Hoods as ever was brought into this town.

Why don't you attend singing on Tuesday evenings? Its free gratis for nothing, and by going, you might learn something.

That worsted dress goods at 10 cents is a bargain you don't happen on to every day in the week, so call in and get what you need, before it's all gone. We have several different patterns.

Boys Winter Caps, Good Quality Only 25 cents.

Knickerbocker dress goods a new supply at only 5 cents per yard.

We have some handsome new styles in Ladies Dress Flannels.

Canton Flannels, big assortment at prices that defy competition.

We guarantee every sack of Hursh's flour to be good or no sale.

Morris Widney of Auburn, spent last Sabbath with his brother O. H.

We are offering some rare bargains in Underwear. Take 'em in.

If we can't give you some bargains in goods this fall nobody else can.

A full line of Saxony and Germantown Yarns in all the latest colors.

Boys, don't you want a pair of Fine Boots this fall? We have a good boot for a small lot of money.

Shirting that most of the stores sell for 12 cts, we have cut the price down to 10 cents.

Teacher's meeting Sunday afternoon at three o'clock,, to which all are invited who are interested in Sabbath school work.

Canton Flannel

Canton Flannel

Canton Flannel

Reduced Prices

Reduced Prices

Reduced Prices

Come and see.

Come and see.

Come and see.

Smoke our Nimble Nickle Cigar. Its one of the best 5 centers in town.

Hon. C. F. Mosier, editor of the BRISTOL BANNER, was in town last Monday.

If you want a new calico dress we can suit you, as we have some new styles.

We've got a piece of Table Linen that is'nt all linen, which we are selling for 20 cents. It's cheap.

The present term of school at this place will close this week, and after a vacation of one week the winter term will commence. Mr. Merica as principal and Mrs. Jennie Batt teacher of the primary department.

Boys Winter Caps, Good Quality Only 25 cents.

The boys at railroad bridge call Hi Bleeks "Jumbo."

WANTED, a good lively barking dog, apply at once to Mack Leighty.

French Mustard for 10 cents or three bottles for 25 cts. Who's next.

Shilling shipped a car load of hogs from this place last Monday.

Oat Meal is cheap and healthy. Call and get some of our number one.

Frank Scholes of Fort Wayne, was in town last week. Frank is now deputy surveyor of Allen county.

We can sell you an all bristle shoe brush for 25 cents, and if that don't suit you we'll throw you in a box of blacking.

Perhaps you haven't heard of the Nimble Nickle Soap, so we take the liberty of calling your attention to the fact that it is the best and biggest cake of soap in the market for the money.

Work is being rapidly pushed forward on the new iron railroad bridge that is being built over the St. Joe river near this place, and it is expected have it completed by the first of December.

Don't forget to call and see our blankets and get our prices before you dare think of buying.

All goods advertised in this paper for sale only by Case & Olds, St. Joe. Call and see us and get a paper.

Having recently purchased some new material we are prepared to do all kinds of job printing at low rates.

We received a supply of choice New York Buckwheat Flour this week, and some splendid new syrup, and now you can have pancakes and 'lasses.

Mack and Ben Leighty have the contract for loading fifty car loads of gravel to be used in grading the streets of Hicksville.

J. H. Conrad our enterprising tinsmith has got one of the neatest and cleanest little store rooms in De Kalb county, and Cooney knows just how to arrange a stock to make it look well, too. Call and see him.

While down at the elevator yesterday we asked Weighmaster Baker whether there was anything new or not. Mahlon began to scratch his head and think; Finally he looked up in a kind of a cross eyed way and said "Have you heard from Ohio." We left.

Real Good Canton Flannel for 8 and 10 cents.

Rev. Hussey went to Kendallville last Tuesday.

A new fence has been built in front of Mr. Zern's residence.

We sell four boxes of Parlor Matches for 25 cents.

Christmas is on the way, and will be here. Look out for our Holiday goods.

Sam'l Wasson bought two pair of our $2.50 boot. He said they were the best boot he had come across for the money.

Frank Zern spent a few days with his parents last week. Frank is now night operator at Kendallville.

We can show you a splendid assortment of goods if you will but come in and give us a chance.

Fur Caps are beginning to go. And it is no wonder, at the prices we are offering them at. Buy one.

Mrs. John Engle and Miss Sarah Boyle left Thursday morning, for a visit among friends in Ohio.

Mack Leighty says he don't know now just when he will be married, but he rather thinks he will or he wont, just as him and the rest of the folks think about the matter.

The boys had a whole pocket full of funny fun last Wednesday night, and by the appearance of the streets the next morning it looked as though a young hurricane had swept over the town. The fronts of the stores were piled up with boxes, planks, scantling &c. Joe Baker had a number of old wagons and carts left in front of his shop to be shaved and shampooed. A big gale stuck down the alley around Sol Barney's barn and turned his buck-board up side down in the ditch. Dr. Sheffer was hurriedly called from his midnight slumbers by a loud ring at the door bell, which he found upon opening the door, did not originate from any one who needed his services, but came from a string attached to the door bell, and a lot of boys at the end of the string, but when Doc got to the end of the string the boys was't there. The wind then took a southern direction and scattered a lot of empty boxes in Mell Bishop's front yard; it then whirled to the west, around the corner it piled up a lot of rubbish in front of Mart Testison's grocery, it then flopped across the street and became so severe as to cause the trees in front of Curt Washler's saloon to bloom out with beer bottles, it then proceeded on in its wild career, now tearing up a few cabbages, and then again putting down a street crossing in the wrong way, until finally, about 12 o'clock the wind went down and the boys went home and went to bed.

Call and see our stock of Lard Presses, and Lard Cans at Conrad's.

Conrad keeps a full line of stove pipe dampers &c. Call on Vic for bargains.

ISSUE

MISSING

DECEMBER

ISSUE

MISSING

Come in and see us

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 1.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1883

No. 32.

Dolls.

Shell boxes.

A B C Blocks.

Drums, Toy Chimes.

Books, Banks, Tool Boxes.

Mugs, Toy Tea Cups and Saucers.

Writing Desks, Children's Rooms.

Fancy Paper, Pens, Mustache Cup and Saucers, Shaving Mug.

Setting Hens, Cake Stands, Hobby
Horses, Picture Handkerchiefs.

We sold fourteen dress patterns last Wednesday.

We have an elegant line of Silk Handkerchiefs, from 30 cents up.

Christmas Undies, Raincoats &c. at our store awful cheap and cheap.

The young people had a party at John Leighty's Dr., on Friday evening, in honor of Misses Silas and Dora.

We thank you for your patronage in the year that is past, and solicit a share of your 1884 purchases.

Mervin Whitney thinks that Michigan girls are a great deal nicer than our good looking hoosier girls.

Some of the boys living on Main street who make a practice of jumping on to moving freight trains, will get hurt if they don't stop it.

William Leighty, wife and little May went to St. Joe last Saturday and Sunday, visiting with Dr. Mitchell's family.
He reports that Doc is well pleased with his location, and is building up a good practice.

Don't fail to attend Prof. Gordon's concert.

We wish everybody a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

There will be an Oyster Supper at Leighty's Hotel, after the concert to be given at the close of Prof. Gordon's singing class, which will be either Friday or Saturday evening, Dec. 18th or 20th.

Dr. Bowman will move into Loran
Saylor's house as soon as it is vacated.

Children's Knives, Forks and Spoons make a good Christmas present. We bought 3 dozen sets, and have sold part of them already. Call at once.

Nothing less than a shower of pitchforks can keep the St. Joe people at home, when there is an entertainment on hand, as was fully demonstrated the evening of the Hard Tack Social, when notwithstanding the disagreeable weather, there was quite a large attendance, and all were well repaid for going out, by an evening of enjoyable fun. Everybody had a good time, and the speeches, songs, beans, pork and hard tack were excellent.
We say, do it again sometime.

The

Very Best in the Market.

We received a new supply of Men's wool and woolen shirts.

Men's Boots.

Men's Shoes.

Call and see those Wool Knit Caps.
They arrive this week.

Boy's Boots.

Boy's Shoes.

Men's Heavy Coats warranted not to leak, just received at our waterproof store. Prices all right.

Ladies' Shoes.

Children's Shoes.

We have run out of Knickerbockers for a week or more, but we received a new supply this week, coming at a rate.

In Fact, Shoes

For Everybody.

Who'd be the lucky man to marry? It's a safe prescription for himself.

Over Shoes

For Men and Boys.

J. D. Lehigh was at Indianapolis last week, attending a meeting of the Temple.

Over Shoes For

Ladies and Children.

The poultry business has not been a very paying investment this season, on account of warm weather.

In Fact, Over Shoes

For Everybody.

All goods advertised in this paper for sale only by Cass & Ohio, St. Joe. Call and see us, and get a paper.

Ladies' shoes and slippers at prices that will make your head spin.

It is predicted that this will be an open winter, with plenty of rain and slush, and there is nothing that will be of more real benefit to a lady in a wet rain, than a "Winter Circular." We thought it would likely be a wet winter, consequently we bought quite a supply, and are able to sell them cheap.

Ladies' All Wool Hose cheaper than you can buy the yarn and knit them at the N. X. O. P. store.

Give me liberty, or give me two dollars and a half and I'll go down to Mortimer and get a pair of four dollar boots.

Our Japan Tea is the Best the Market Affords.

Come in and see our holiday goods, and buy the baby a new dress.

Well, we've just got this to say, if you don't, why don't you—buy the Nimble
Nickle 5 CENT soap.

J. H. Conrad is the worst man to spout in this country; fact of it is he spouts about all the time, and when he can't get any thing else to spout about, he spouts a house.

Misses Sidie and Dora Leighty, daughters of Alex Leighty, who formerly lived in this place, are visiting friends here and at Spencerville, and will remain until after the holidays.

Have you ever been scared to death?
If you hav'nt, but would like to be, just go over to George Bleeks' and have an interview with his dog. He can chaw a man up in 5 or 10 seconds and not half try. We've been there and know something about it, I thank you.

Two smart alecks from the rural districts bought a bottle of beer the other day, and had the impudence to come down right in front of our store and drink it, without offering us even a taste. They thought it was cute, you know, to stand out in the middle of the street and drain a beer bottle. People admire such exhibitions of smartness, and it is such an excellent example to set before the young men and boys. Shame on you boys, be a man, be something,
but don't be a hog.

U. P. Houser of Auburn, was in town
last week,

Three car loads of live pork were shipped from this place last week.

We can show as fine a line of holiday goods as the market affords.

George Miles, the present railroad agent at this place, has resigned his position, and will leave the first day of January.

We offer the special bargains in Gloves and Mittens, for the next few days. Boys wool lined calf front Mittens 40 cents.
Boys' all-calf felt lined reduced to 35 cts.
Men's Mittens 40 and 50 cts. Gloves 75 and $1.00, Boys' Gloves 35 cts.

Good Gingham Reduced to 5 & 6 cents per Yard.

A new year will soon poke its nose in upon us, and we, like all of the great newspapers, must have a prospectus for 1884. We had one last week, but it got away from us. We expect to make this paper one of the northern lights of 1884. It will be published semi-occasionally, that is, now and then, or otherwise, just as the weather will permit. It will be illustrated with the same illustrations that we used last year. It being leap year, we shall lend the use of the columns of this paper, and its brains too, if necessary, in assisting bashful young ladies and old maids in popping the question. Our politics are in prohibition. Our subscription price will remain the same, unless the democrat should happen to elect a president, and in that case, we should make immediate preparations for moving up salt river. Our terms are nothing, payable in advance. Chromos furnished on application. Subscribe at once.

If you want a nice new, stylish calico dress, we've got some new patterns.

We have some beautiful hanging lamps at low prices. Look at them.

Hugh Culbertson of Auburn was in town Tuesday.

I wish to inform the public, that I am prepared to do all kinds of Stamping. Having lately received from New York, some beautiful designs, I wish especially to call the attention of gentlemen belonging to the Masonic Order, as I have on hand some very pretty patterns for Masonic aprons. My patterns are all new. I will receive orders at the residence of O. E. Miller. F. J. Borst.

Harry White while at school last Tuesday, fell and fractured his ankle.

We have the handsomest assortment of Lamps ever brought to St. Joe.

We can give you a big bargain in Hosiery and Suspenders.

A number of new buildings will be erected in St. Joe, next season.

We have a bang up good piece of Linen Toweling at a price that will astonish you. Only 5 cents.

Mahlon Baker has moved into the house formerly occupied by J. H. Conrad.

A series of revival meetings will be commenced in the church at this place, immediately after the holidays.

We have some fancy embroidered Slippers for gentlemen, that will make a handsome Christmas present.

Morris Widney of Auburn, sang some fine selections of music at the hard tack social last Thursday evening.

O. E. Miller has leased the St. Joe Cheese Factory for five years, and solicits the patronage of the surrounding country.

The boys who had so much fun hollow eve night, paid for it last week, and some of them thought it was pretty expensive amusement.

Prof. Gordon will give a concert in Leighty's Hall at the close of the present term of singing school, which will be either Friday or Saturday evening, between the holidays. Due notice will be given of the time. Make your arrangements so that you can attend.

JANUARY

Mr. T. P. Keator, The re-on Tuesday Evening, January 22, 1884, undelecture.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. I

SATURDAY, JANUARY 12, 1884.

No. 23.

One of the most foolish and uncalled for habits, that men engage in, is that of swearing; nor is it altogether confined to men. Sorry to say, there are young men and even small boys in our town, who oftentimes are heard to use profane language. Now the question arises where do they learn it? Certainly not in their readers or spelling books; no, it comes from hearing older ones, and oftentimes parents themselves, indulging in this awful habit. Small boys are allowed out on the street until 9 or 10 o'clock at night, listening to all that is being said, and of course they hear men swear, and they are quick to follow the example, and if you ask them why they do so, they can truthfully reply "the big folks do that," or "my father swears, and if it's right for him, why not for me?" Is this not true to a certain extent, and if so, why not make a resolve at this, the beginning of a new year to quit using profane language, and after you have made the resolution, stick to it. There are other vices equally as bad, if not worse, which we shall speak of hereafter.

Call at the Brick Tin Store for good Tin Ware &c.

Call and see the stacks of wash boilers at Conrads.

Get a pail of our prepared Coconut Handsome pail and fine cocoa.

Conrad is getting ready a lot of spouting for the spring trade.

Plenty of brick for sale at the St. Joe brick yard.

Our job lot of Ladies' Hose includes some that usually sell at 20 and 25 cents. Bargains sure.

Phleta Shirts sold his horse, buggy harness and a brand new pin sleigh for $110 cash.

George Miles, commonly known among railroad men as "big foot" has quit railroading. J. H. Trippe is now agent at this place.

Up in Minnesota the thermometer was down to 45 degrees below zero. Just think of it, 19 degrees colder than it was here. Whew!

That cold snap last week reminded us of the winter of—let me see; I believe it was some where along about August, 1857. It was so tormented hot, we came near freezing to death.

Vick Conrad will give you bottom prices on the neatest small tin pails in the county. Call on Vick.

The attendance at church has been good this week, but there is room for more. The meetings will probably continue for a number of days yet, and all are invited to come.

Top Yeast. Its the Best.

Joe.

Mart Testison now carries a stock of Queensware.

St. Joe is one of the most lively towns in the county.

Morris Widney was in town on New Year's day.

John Widney will commence work on his new house as soon as spring opens.

Never run in debt if you can find any thing else to run into.

Dan Baker and his family have moved back from Iowa. He will farm the old homestead.

We have a bang up good piece of Linon Toweling at a price that will astonish you. Only 5 cents.

Buckwheat flour made into flap-jacks is always the best about this time of the year. We can supply you.

Our Tens are guaranteed to be first class, and the prices we will make way down low cheap.

Mr. Morica, principal of the Garrett schools, and brother of our Merica, was in town on New Year's eve.

We sold thirty eight silk handkerchiefs during the holidays, and still there are people who wont keep their nose clean.

ent of St.

The hunters who were down to the big woods last week, were very successful, bringing home with them seven deers.

Smoke the Nimble Nickle cigar. They are as good as the N. N. soap.

Men's and Boy's Rubber Boots of a first class quality for sale at the Nimble Nick store.

We noticed Joe Bull going home the other day with a cradle in his sled. Now we don't mean to insinuate that he was taking it home for his own use, but we just merely mention it as an item of news.

Alex. Filley's sister and mother spent New Years with him.

"Roastbeeflambmuttonandham," said the girl who waits on the table at the Isle of Rhosia. "Well said the old gentlemen, I never tasted it, but you may bring me some, and I'll see what it is like."

Say, who was it said they were going to build a grist mill in St. Joe?

Complete line of Men's Underwear at cold weather prices.

There was an average attendance of over 100 scholars at Sunday school during last quarter.

It was quite a difficult matter to keep the school rooms at this place warm during the cold snap last week. Trustee Brown came down and put up another stove, and done all in his power to made the scholars comfortable.

Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is the Very Best.

St. For

News.

Published every two weeks, by Mort E. Olds in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, Dealers in Dry Goods, Groceries, Notions, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy. It will be sent to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid.

THE INSTITUTE.

The Institute was called to order at 10:20 o'clock by County Superintendent Merica, followed by singing by the choir. The teachers present and the districts in which they teach is as follows:

- No. 1, Not present.
- 2, Amelia Sechler,
- 3, J. H. St. Clair,
- 4, Mrs. Nannie Kosht,
- 5, Annie Timmerman,
- 6, Chas. Merica and Jennie Evans,
- 7, Laura Shutt,
- 8, J. E. Dermott,
- 9, Byron A. Hadsell,
- 10, Prof. D. A. Holmes and Clara Wannemaker,
- 11, Eva Shutt.

Prof. Holmes gave some valuable thoughts on the much neglected subject of penmanship, and we think that if his theories were practiced by all teachers, there would be less of this so-called running hand. Miss Annie Timmerman then spoke upon the "Different Methods of Spelling," which was followed by a general discussion of the subject; developing the benefits of both oral and written spelling, with a decided preference for the written. Mrs. Kosht then gave a class recitation on "Parts of Speech," to a class of primary pupils, which was very interesting and profitable. The meeting then adjourned for dinner.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Exercises open with song by choir and prayer by Rev. Baker. Miss Amelia Sechler gave a lesson in Mathematical Geography. Her ideas of relative distance were well presented, and likewise well received. Her remarks were supplemented by a talk by the Superintendent on primary geography taught orally, including such work as map drawing on a small scale, such as the school house and grounds, thus teaching a scale of miles as used in our maps. B. A. Hadsell then illustrated in a well chosen manner, the growth of our county from the days of the revolution. Miss Eva Shutt then gave an interesting talk on "Letter Writing." A lesson on Hygiene by J. E. Dermott, shows that teachers are beginning to see the practical uses of the book called "Physiology." In connection with this subject, Mr. Keeran of Auburn, being present, he was requested to explain the working of his new window blind. The Superintendent then gave an interesting and somewhat puzzling lesson on decimal fractions, after which he gave a talk to the teachers upon various topics in which they should interest themselves. Cooperation and organization was urged as absolutely necessary. The selfishness and jealousy of both parents and teachers was shown forcibly, and every teacher felt the truth of the remarks. A lesson on "Keeping the Register" was then presented in a brief manner, after which the Institute adjourned to meet at half past nine o'clock on Saturday morning.

When in town, call in and see us.

Try a Pair of our Twenty Shilling Men's Boots.

Stand by Your Own Town.

We clip the following from a Chicago Journal, and hope that every citizen of St. Joe, that is interested in the welfare of our town, will read it and profit thereby. "The growth of a town depends upon the character of the people who make up its population. This may seem so self evident a truth as not to need any mention, but we wish to call attention to one class of people who work much injury to their town. We refer to the grumblers who run down their own place as a business point, and think every other village sells goods cheaper and offer greater inducements. The men who refuse to stand by their own town are not few in number, and their influence is a bad one. If a stranger comes along to invest in some kind of business or manufacturing institutions he is told by these croakers that the place is "no good," and if they could get away themselves they would be glad to do it. They tell the new comer he will make a mistake if he invests and they would advise him not to. Such talk is enough to discourage the most enthusiastic investor and drive him away. There are but few towns which have no representation of this class of croakers. They may mean no harm, and would no doubt like to see their places advance, but they cannot see that they themselves are the barnacles which prohibit any progressive movement. Stand by your own town and and sound its praises, if you would see it grow."

William Shambaugh a prominent young attorney of Fort Wayne, visited friends in St. Joe during the holidays.

WE INVITE

YOUR SPECIAL ATTENTION

TO OUR

CLOSING OUT SALE OF
WINTER GOODS.

1884.

Leap year.

Hoods at cost.

Days are getting longer.

Our $2.50 Boot is a rattler.

2500 Tooth Picks for 10 cents.

Closing out winter goods at reduced prices.

B. S. Pettit of Hicksville, called upon us one day last week.

Cash Samburg was married one day last week.

Nimble Nickle Soap still takes the lead of all laundry soaps.

Mrs. J. D. Leighty was at Fort Wayne a few days last week.

Last Thursday was a billious old day for Griner's sale.

Knickerbocker Plaids knocked down to ONE NICKLE for three feet.

Use the National Dry Hop Yeast. Its the Best.

Milt Boots of Edgerton, Ohio, was in town last Monday.

Some nice new dress prints can be seen by calling at our store.

If you want any printing done give us a call. Prices extremely low.

Communion services at the church on one week from next Sunday, at half past ten o'clock.

John McCue has been promoted to the position of walking boss, and Jerry Irwin is now foreman of this section.

Two county ditches have been laid through the low lands of Sodom, which will when completed, drain and fit for cultivation a number of acres of land, that is now almost worthless.

SODOM ITEMS.

REPORTED BY S. S. WIDNEY.

Millie Sechler is teaching the Sodom school this winter.

Wm. Sechler is getting out lumber to build a new house next summer.

George Tappin received a severe cut on his foot, a few days ago, by coming in to close a contact with an axe.

Wm. Stamen bought an oak tree of Frank Sechler, the butt cut of which, measured 16 feet in circumference.

Mrs. Alice Tappin who has been quite sick for the past two months, is slowly regaining her usual health.

Alfred and Chalmers Reasoner have lately purchased a circle and drag saw, and are prepared to do all kinds of wood sawing.

Notwithstanding the severe snow storm on New Year's night, a sled load of young people went over to Henry Sechler's, east of Newville, to an oyster supper. They report a jolly time.

Dan Baker and wife, formerly of this neighborhood, but who have for the past three years been living in Iowa, have returned to make this their future home. Their return is welcomed by many friends.

Job Lot of Ladies' Hose--Your choice for 10 cents.

We have an elegant good sugar now for 9 cents.

Is Wyatt has purchased the Concord store of Henry Garrett.

If you want a bargain in Men's shirts, call on we, us and company.

Frank Draggoe took a load of dead hogs to Fort Wayne last Monday.

We have reduced our 8 cent sugar to 7 cts, and our 9 to 8. They are bargains.

Charlie Meek has another pet. It is not in alcohol this time, but on his neck. Its a boil.

A sled load of young folks went over to Coburn's Corners Tuesday night to a literary.

There are several mistakes in this issue, both in spelling and composition. Our proof reader is getting near sighted.

Orange Fales was married a week ago Thursday, to a lady at Napanee, Ind. They spent last Sunday with father and mother Fales, at Spencerville.

Dr. Bowman pulled a tooth for Burt Hull on Tuesday, the roots of which reached clear down into his feet; at least they said that when Doc yanked on the tooth, Burt's feet flew up.

I hay ben hird bi the editer of this pa-par tu rite peaces. I am a boy 17 1/2 years old. I live on Porke Avaneu, Sant Jo.
I gus i hav graguatid, anyway I dont go tu serle any moor. I was goin tu be a lawer, but mi paw said i was tu wel edecateled, so i conclooded to be an editer an rite peaces an draugh picturs fur illostratead nuzpapars. (The above photo is me. i skeetched it, so you cood see what i lok like. I wil rite another peace in the nex papar, an draw sum moor drawings, so gud bi,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Willis Brown of Auburn, was in town
Tuesday.

Is this what they call an open winter?

Mrs. Wm. Saylor has been quite sick, but at this writing she is some better.

Mrs. Win. Volmar, who has been visiting her parents for the past few weeks, returned to her home in Fort Wayne,
this week.

Examine our stock of Ladies' & Children's Shoes.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 1.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 26, 1884.

No. 24.

A MISHAP.

BY JOHN, BURT AND FRANK.

Not long ago in the town of St. Joe,
There was a case in which there was a chase
One man was small, the other tall,
And oh it was fun, to see them run.

The tall man said
Hold on Shorty, I'm almost dead,
Then Shorty replied, I'm hunting bail;
Then the tall man said you must go to jail.

When before the Squire they did appear,
Shorty began to feel rather queer;
And he said, what's all this fuss about,
Then Solomon said, you're gone up spout.

Then Sam didn't look very immense,
For he had got goods under false pretense;
And then in order to settle the fun,
They sent E. J. after Robinson.

Then very much against Sam's delight,
They said he could not come to-night;
And they found that the best they could do,
Was to take him to Auburn on number two.

And after all his day's toil,
They turned him over to Sheriff Boyle;
Sam was marched through whitewashed halls,
And finally lodged between stone walls.

The pay car passed through last Wednesday.

We have a supply of Red Pontiac Mittens in stock now. Call and get a pair.

One of our good looking young farmers will be married Sunday.

On Friday morning the mercury was down to 32 degrees below zero.

Mrs. Reed has been quite sick, but is now some better.

Quarterly meeting at the Methodist church in Spencerville, one week from Sunday.

O. M. Meeks will move to St. Joe, and engage in the work of house and sign painting.

Look out for some new novelties in Glassware at the Nimble Nick glassware store. Fruit dishes for 5 cents.

Uncle Billy Allen is getting material on the ground for a new brick house, to be built the coming summer.

If any one would have asked us how long Mr. Keator lectured the other night, we should have answered, not over three quarters of an hour. It didn't seem possible that he had spoken over two hours, and yet such was the case.

One of the largest and most intelligent audiences that ever assembled in Leighty's Hall, greeted Mr. T. P. Keator in his lecture "My Trip Around the World," on last Tuesday evening. The lecture was intensely interesting; and Mr. Keator held the close attention of his hearers for over two hours. It was a literary treat rarely ever enjoyed by the citizens of this community, and we wish there might be many more such. The G. A. R's are to be congratulated on the success of the enterprise.

Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is the Very Best

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY JANUARY 26, 1884

Chas. Shephard was registered at the hotel one night last week.

French Mustard only 10 cents per bottle, or three for twenty-five.

We are prepared to do job printing in a first class manner.

Everything seems to indicate lower prices on wheat.

What kind of yeast shall I get? Why the National, of course.

The institute was well attended last Saturday, and quite interesting.

Nels Thomas' house came near getting on fire one night last week.

The BUTLER REVIEW man called on us last week.

Sheriff Boyle of Auburn was in the city one day last week on business.

Nimble Nickle soap will clean your clothes, and make them white.

We print about 300 copies of this paper every issue, and then oftentimes do not have a sufficient number to supply the demand.

Seven boxes for 25 cents. Ask about it. It will pay.

Sol Barney and wife went to Fort Wayne last week.

A gentlemen from Wauseon, Ohio, is talking of starting a photograph gallery in St. Joe. Plenty of room.

Two ladies were canvassing the town last week for a patent knitting machine. They sold several.

Large quantities of splendid ice has been harvested during the past few days.

A new brand of Plug Tobacco on sale at our store this week. Its the best thing on the market.

Sugars are very low, but they will be higher one of these days. Lay in a supply now and save money.

It is reported that Mr. Griner is anxious to build a grist mill here, if he can secure a good man to go in partnership with him.

Wall Fales has moved into the building formerly occupied by Joe Slaughter. We understand that Dr. Bowman will use the front room for an office.

Bear in mind that all goods advertised in this paper, as well as a great many other bargains, are for sale only by Case & Olds, St. Joe, Ind.

We printed some sale bills for Levi Lawhead last week. He will sell on Saturday, Feb. 16, 1884, 1 Milk Cow, 2 Work Horses, 1 Yearling Calf, 1 Wagon, 1 set of double Harness, 1 Buggy, 5 head of Hogs, Plows, Drags &c.

Examine our stock of Ladies' & Children's Shoes.

Geo. Depew of Michigan, is visiting with his brother Abe.

If you want some good clean beans, we can supply you.

A car load of fork handle material left town the other day.

J. K. Culbertson, the Auburn furniture man, was in town last week.

Dol Kester has the contract for building John Widney's new house.

Men's Rubber Overshoes at the Nimble Nick overshoe store.

Dr. Sheffer will build an office on the corner of his lot next summer.

Mr. Ther of Minnesota, visited here among relatives, last week.

Wm. Stamen is buying and shipping large quantities of logs.

Miss Ida Blair of Waterloo, visited with friends in town last week.

Call and see the stacks of wash boilers at Conrads.

The thermometer was down to 14 degrees below zero last Sunday morning.

Those who have street lamps ought to see that they are lit, especially on dark nights.

New goods arriving, and low prices prevailing, with prospects for a thaw, at the Nimble Nick.

Josh Lounsberry and wife spent last Sunday in Hicksville. Alex. Filley and family visited Mrs. Filley's mother at Newville, who is quite sick.

John Henderson Esq., says he prides himself more on the quality of his sheep, than upon the clothes he wears. Those who are capable of judging claim that he has as fine a collection of sheep as this part of the country affords.

A good many farmers are doing something this winter they have never been guilty of before. Buying corn.

Oats are looking up about 34 cents worth.

The lawsuit held before Squire Woodcox last week, between Ad Chubb and Wilson Countryman, was decided in favor of the latter.

This is an age of wonders, and one of the latest is, that the stove in the waiting room at the depot, has been blacked. Score one for the new agent.

Mr. and Mrs. Griner and son, went to Ohio last week, to visit among friends and relatives.

There are nineteen millions of bushels of wheat in the Chicago elevators.

Get a pail of our prepared Cocoanut. Handsome pail and fine cocoa.

There is considerable work attached to the printing of this little paper, and the only compensation we can, and do expect, is the patronage of the public, or at least a share of it. And so, while you enjoy the perusal of it's columns week after week, don't forget to occasionally call in and show your appreciation of our endeavors to please you, by giving us a share of your purchases. Thus we will be mutually benefited.

Examine our stock of Ladies' & Children's Shoes.

Another car load of corn is expected to arrive this week.

Miss Clara Shull was married last week to Mr. Lewis Lake.

We can furnish you a splendid good broom for 25 cents.

Try our new smoking Tobacco called "Honey Dew."

Dr. Bowman expects to go to Philadelphia about the middle of next month, to attend a course of medical lectures.

Alex. Donaldson has secured the contract for building a brick school house in district number four, Concord township.

There is quite a demand for houses to rent in this place at the present time. Why don't some one who has money, put up a few dwellings?

Will Carrie is trying hard to raise a moustache. Get some of Hall's Hair Invigorator and dope it on you upper lip three times a day, and that will fetch it every time, sometimes.

It is very seldom indeed, that we are able to present to our readers such lovely and at the same time, such highly interesting poetry, as that to be found on the first page of this issue. It was composed and written by three promising young men of our village, who are not yet out of their teens, and how such young and tender brains could produce such a thrilling description of a recent capture and trial, and then rhyme it into choice poetry, is more that we can tell. The boys ought to be careful and not over-task their brains too much, or it might produce a softening.

The editor he wanted me to draw a picture of Gorge Blinks' dog, so I went over and stood afar off, and sketched him. The aboy is him. He is a fine specimen of true doghood; his name is like. He is gentil, meke an myll. Should yu hapen into the lot where he stays, an want to sea him, yu need nt call him, he'll cum without calling, an most likly when yu sea him comin you'll hav busnis outside the lot. His master says he wont bite, but the editor says he dont beleave it, becas he's tried him, an he alwas found him willin an anxious to take a hold. I aint much posted on dogs, an ther4 I leav the subject wher I left off. I wil debate on sumthin els in the nex paper, untel then I am

Yours Very doggly,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

A car load of milk cows were shipped from this place last Tuesday.

Quite a number of Newville people attended the lecture Tuesday evening.

Mr. Keator has been invited to deliver a lecture at Spencerville, and will probably do so sometime next month.

FEBRUARY

Three Big Pounds of Fresh Crackers for 25 cts.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 1.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1884.

No. 25.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

All persons interested in the building of a Grist Mill in St. Joe are requested to meet in Leighty's Hall, next Monday evening, February 11th, 1884.

John Davis was at Defiance last Wednesday.

Com. O. H. Widney went to Garrett Wednesday.

Revival meetings at Spencerville in M. E. church.

Russ George is working for the B. & O. railroad, painting engines.

Charles Widney is confined to his house on account of sickness.

Lawyers Rose and Moody of Auburn were on our streets last Wednesday.

Those Dried Peaches we received this week are the finest we have ever had.

Miss Lizzie Evans has been quite sick but is some better to-day.

Temperance meeting at the church next Wednesday evening. All are earnestly invited to be present.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer is suffering from a dislocation of the brain, consequently he does not expectorate in this week's paper.

Remember we guarantee our goods to be as cheap as any one else will sell you the same quality of goods for. We work to please our customers.

John Henderson Esq., tells a good story about the BUTLER REVIEW man, who was through the county a couple of weeks ago writing up the farmers. John invited him to call at his place, which invitation he promptly accepted. Now any one that has ever met Mr. Henderson in his home, knows that he always makes people welcome. So it was with this newspaper man, John took great pains to show him over his farm, and the various things of interest connected therewith, until finally they came to the stock, and while in the barnyard, making an examination of the different kinds that Mr. Henderson prides himself upon, a sheep of the male persuasion, probably in a playful way, boughed his head forcibly to bear against the rear end of the REVIEW man, landing him on the opposite side of the fence, the worse case of printer's pi you could imagine. He picked himself up and went into the house, and stood up while he wrote a description of Mr. Henderson's farm and his stock, especially his fine quality sheep.

Charlie Meek is on the sick list.

No preaching in town to-morrow.

Jake Martin is selling out at cost.

Chas. Merica, principal of our schools, went to Garrett yesterday.

Miss Sarah Boyle is canvassing the town for a book called "Among the Poets." It is a splendid book.

Don't use any thing but the Nimble Nickle Soap.

St. Joe

Notes.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY FEBRUARY 9, 1884

Spear Head Tobacco.

Valentine day next Thursday.

Call and see our bargains in sugar.

Give us share of your patronage this year.

Literary at Coburn's Corners every Saturday evening.

D. M. Meek occupies rooms with his brother Charlie, in the Widney house.

The doctors all live at this end of town, consequently it is the healthiest part of the village.

George Bleeks' dog pitched into the wrong dog the other day, and got badly whipped. Good! we will set up the cigars to that dog if he will call around at our office.

We desire to call your attention to a list of our Canned Goods to be found on another page of this paper. Look it over and then call in and get our starvation prices.

The other morning Uncle George Willnot drove by the store with a saw log, and Billy Leighty was riding on a hand sled hitched on behind. As they went by, we, boy fashion, ran out and jumped on to the hand sled with Billy. Then Uncle George thought he would have some fun and he began to whip up the old horses. Away we went, around the corner, and over the railroad, and as we turned the corner by Bleeks' house Uncle George in his anxiety to see us tumble off, leaned a little too far back and away he went, head over heels, into the very identical snow bank he had expected to dump us off into. Moral: don't fool with boys.

Dr. Ward of Newville was in town last week.

Filley & Lounsberry have their mill yard pretty well filled up with logs.

Several of our citizens are getting ladders made for use in case of fire. A good idea.

Our garden seeds arrived last week. Good time to plant them, so as to have early vegetables.

We have a splendid quality of Choice New Dried Peaches. Call and lay in a supply.

Bear in mind that all goods advertised in this paper, as well as a great many other bargains, are for sale only by Case & Olds, St. Joe, Ind.

Don't fail to get one of our 5 cent Fruit Dishes.

---

The following is the way a juvenile dictionary defines words:

"Dust--Mud with the juice squeezed out."

"Fan--A thing to brush the warm of with."

"Ice--Water that stayed out in the cold and went to sleep."

"Monkey--A very small boy with a tail."

"Pig--A hog's little boy."

"Salt--What makes your potatoes taste bad when you don't put any on."

"Snoring--Letting off sleep."

"Wakefulness--Eyes all the time coming unbuttoned."

---

February.

Leap Year.

Twenty-nine days.

Girls do the sparking.

Use the National Dry Hop Yeast.

Wid Patterson was at Hicksville one day last week.

---

Have you seen those fruit dishes we are selling for 5 cents.

---

Biggest line of Canned Goods in town at the Nimble Nick.

---

Look out for some new novelties in Glassware at the Nimble Nick glassware store. Fruit dishes for 5 cents.

---

It is reported that Henry Fales will build a large room on the corner west of the hotel, this summer, to be occupied by him in the furniture and undertaking business. We hope the report may prove to be true.

CANNED Tomatoes.

Pie Peaches.

Green Gages.

Yellow Peaches.

Strawberries.

Lima Beans.

Sweet Corn.

Pumpkin &c.

Dried Peaches.

Turkey Prunes.

French Mustard.

Cove Oysters

PICKLES &c.

---

ST. JOE!

It's Past, Present and Future.

Many are the changes that have taken place in this vicinity within the last eight years. At that time there was no railroad, and the land whereon the beautiful little village of St. Joe now sits, was used for farming purposes. The only house near here at that time was the one now standing opposite the depot, and owned by the railroad company. To-day there are nearly one hundred and forty buildings, among them some as good dwellings and business rooms as there is in the county. Eight years ago only one family resided here, while to-day between three and four hundred people find homes and employment within the limits of the town. When the railroad was first built, and there was talk of starting a town here, some of the wise ones shook their heads, and said, its use, it will never make any thing of a place. But, notwithstanding all that, it has had a slow, but steady and permanent growth, until now it ranks among the cleanest, neatest and most enterprising young towns of the county. We have endeavored, in a crude way, to present to our readers this week, a plat of the town, showing some of the business houses, hotel, school house, mills &c. The location of the following places are designated on the diagram by the capital letters:

- A Leighty's Hotel,
- B Leighty & Bishop's Store.

- O Church.
  - D Conrad's Tin & Hardware store.
  - E Testison's Grocery.
  - F Patterson's Drug Store.
  - H Case & Olds' Store.
  - K B. & F. Barney's Store.
  - L Wineland's Handle Factory,
  - N Filley & Lounsberry's Saw and Planing Mill.
  - P School House.
  - T St. Joe Brick Works.
  - U Grain Elevator.
  - V Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Depot.
  - W Fales Furniture Rooms.
  - Y A good place for a Grist Mill.
- In addition to the above there are two wagon shops, two good meat markets, two boot and shoe shops, one blacksmith shop, two livery and feed stables, one
- (continued on last page.)

Don't fail to get one of our 5 cent Fruit Dishes.

We can furnish you a splendid good room for 25 cents.

Try our new smoking Tobacco called "Honey Dew."

We have a supply of Red Pontiac Mittens in stock now. Call and get a pair.

Don't be deceived. The Nimble Nickle soap is the best.

Cake Stands at remarkable low prices at the Nimble Nick store.

J. H. Conrad has his room jini-jam-cram full of Tinware &c. Please call.

Samuel Warner Esq. was in town last week. Deputy Constable Thomas please take notice.

Geo. Bleeks sold a car load of lumber last week to Hamilton & Co., of Kendallville.

Dan Baker will move on to the old Evans farm, now owned by George Barney.

We invite your attention to our stock of Quensware and Glassware. We have bargains to offer.

Shearer & Wilson of Auburn, secured the contract for building Chris Currie's new brick house. Patronize your own town.

The following is a statement of the material used by our enterprising tinsmith, J. H. Conrad in the two years of his residence in St. Joe,

1882	{ 31 Boxes Tin Plate @ 5675 lbs.
	Solder	298 "
	Sheet Iron	812 "
1883	{ 36 Boxes Tin Plate @ 8155 lbs.
	Solder	375 "
	Sheet Iron	1134 "

Showing an increase of 1478 pounds over the year 1882. Mr. Conrad is a first class workman, and worthy the patronage he receives.

Don't use any thing but the Nimble Nickle Soap.

Last week's BUTLER REVIEW devoted a column and a quarter of its valuable space to taffy about our town and its citizens. While there were some things slightly exaggerated, yet in the main, the article but did justice to our village. However we are inclined to think that most of the puffs were measured by the length of the subscription given that paper.

Barney Woodcox offers his property in St. Joe for sale at a bargain.

Come in and carry off some of our canned fruit. We're selling it cheaper than you could put it up, if the fruit didn't cost anything, and some one gave you the cans.

Biggest line of Canned Goods in town at the Nimble Nick.

Two car loads of western corn arrived in town last week, to be sold at a fair price. Those who want to buy should come immediately, as it is selling quite rapidly.

The second day of this month was what they call ground hog day. It was a beautiful day and the sun shown out bright and clear, and if the ground hog didn't see himself, it was because he was too poor to make a shadow, or too lazy to come out of his hole.

We had the misfortune to get our printing rollers too close to the fire the other day, which flattened them out until they resembled a couple of good sized pancakes. For this act of carelessness, we were compelled to use an old and worn out pair, which accounts somewhat for the blurred appearance of our paper this week.

Shull & Hadsell, at their yard, situated one half mile south of Colburn's Corners, offer for sale some Tile at the following prices:

8 Inch Tile @	$60.00	per Thousand.
7 "	$40.00	"
6 "	$30.00	"
5 "	$25.00	"
4 "	$17.50	"
3 "	$12.50	"
2 "	$10.00	"

Get a bottle French Mustard to eat on your meat.

There were lots of people in town last Saturday.

Quite a demand for timber at the present time.

Our prices on Boots and Shoes are as low as the bottom.

Five car loads of corn have been shipped to this place this winter thus far.

Ask Frank how it is about his Dunkard preacher.

Don't you want a new calico dress? We have some pretty styles. No trouble to show goods.

Barney Woodcox is putting a cellar under the house he recently purchased of his mother's estate.

We expect to have as fine a collection of wall paper and border, for the spring trade, as can be found in the market.

Conrad has 1500 feet of spouting made up and ready to be put up as soon as the weather will permit.

Wm. Saylor is about to let the contract for building a new house on his corner lot, located just west of Mr. Grill's residence.

Three Big Pounds of Fresh Crackers for 25 cts.

(continued from fifth page)

good barber shop, one millinery shop, one cooper shop, one saloon, two contractors, three painters, two masons and plasterers, two lumber dealers, two doctors &c. Leighty's Hall is a large room 24 x 70 feet in size, seated with chairs, and is well adapted for concerts, lectures, suppers &c. The G. A. R's have an organization here, with a large membership. Good Sunday school and church facilities are afforded, and take it upon the whole, St. Joe is a very desirable place to locate in.

There were 115 persons present at Sunday school last Sunday.

Miss Olive Dermott returned from an extended visit in Iowa, last Thursday.

Pickles, prepared in vinegar, only 12 cents per dozen, at the Nimble Nick.

Over 400 cans of Fruits and vegetables received this week at the Nimble Nick store. Prices eatable.

Miss Plumie Rex of Newville, spent last Sabbath in town the guest of Miss Minnie Nichols.

What shall we eat? Why go down to the Nimble Nick store and get some of their Canned and Dried Fruits, Vegetables, Pickles &c.

Ed Coburn and Charles Shephard of Hicksville, were in town Tuesday advertising the dedication of the New Opera House at that place.

Becks Erick was married last Sunday to Miss Viola Yarnell. They left Monday morning for Middleberry, Ind., to visit the bridegroom's parents.

It is our painful duty to announce to our readers this week the death of George Bleeks' dog, which occurred last Monday night, from some unknown cause. It is sad to think that right in the prime of his glory he should be so suddenly called away, and yet it is a relief to know that he is gone. We mourn as those that have no hope, and don't want any.

Dearest doggy, thou hast left us,

But thy loss we'll never feel;

Thou no more will ever caress us,

Nor thy teeth our breeches feel.

Alex. Filley was at Auburn Tuesday on business.

T. P. Keator lectured in Newville last Tuesday evening.

Our best Tea is the best, and if you don't believe it, ask Wm. DeMarauville what he thinks about it.

Send a copy of this paper to your friends, and let them see the improvement that has taken place in this vicinity in the last few years.

Clide Woodcox purchased the Meat Market owned by Bailey & Fales this week, and will conduct the business hereafter at the old stand.

Theron P. Keator will lecture in the Lutheran church in Spencerville on next Tuesday evening, Feb. 12, 1884. Subject: "Queer and Curious Things I Have Seen."

Lige Saylor undertook to turn the corner at Robert Davis' residence to quick last Sunday, causing his horse to slip and fall, breaking both shafts, and otherwise damaging the outfit.

Everybody uses the National Dry Hop Yeast.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 1.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1884.

No. 26.

The following is the programme for Temperance Meeting, to be held at the church in St. Joe, on Wednesday evening, February 27, 1884.

1. Song by Congregation.
2. Responsive Readings.
3. Prayer by J. A. Reed.
4. Song by Young Folk's Choir.
5. Address by O. H. Brown.
6. Declamation by Vick Conrad.
7. Quartette by Mattie White, Faith Hull, Frank Boyle and Frank Hart.
8. Essay by Miss Ida Scholes.
9. Exercise by the children.
10. Select reading by Mrs. B. S. Sheffer.
11. Declamation by Cora White.
12. Miscellaneous Exercises.
13. Closing Song.

It is intended to make this meeting one of the most interesting ever yet held. All are invited. Reserved seats for the children.

Sugar making season is fast approaching.

Ask Alex. Donaldson how much he got a pound for old iron.

Rubber Circulars are just the thing for wet weather.

We can sell you a good Bed Spread for a small amount of money.

Prof. Merica has been quite sick part of this week, and unable to be at the school room.

High waters.

Roads getting bad.

No grist mill in town yet.

George Bleeks has a new dog.

Friday was Washington's birthday.

Miss Ella Emanuel was married last Thursday.

There is considerable sickness at the present time.

The G. A. R's will give a pork and bean social sometime next month.

Misses Sidie and Dora Leighty returned to their home in Michigan, last Wednesday.

Mrs. Nelson Bartlett, of Painesville, O. visited with Alex. Filley's family last Sabbath.

There was a good attendance at temperance meeting last Wednesday evening, and the exercises were quite interesting.

Mallon Baker steps around as fatherly as you please, all because he has another voter at his house.

Prof. Merica and several of our young people assisted in the entertainment given at Coburntown last Saturday evening.

John Davis had the misfortune to cut his foot quite severely a few days ago and not being satisfied with that, last week he tried to cut off the end of one of his fingers.

Call and see our stock of Embroideries & Laces.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is prepaid. The mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY FEBRUARY 23, 1884

Two week's more of school.

Use the Nimble Nickle Soap.

Township election occurs in April.

Wm. DeMaranville will make cheese this season.

Try our new smoking Tobacco called "Honey Dew."

O. H. Widney will enlarge and remodel his farm house this summer.

Wes Hart is now sole proprietor of the St. Joe Brick Works, having recently purchased Mr. Currie's interest.

Ladies who want tins for crimping their hair, will find a good supply by calling on Vick Conrad.

The school house at Widney's corners has been declared unsafe, and the school dismissed.

Mr. Davis the new agent at this place, has moved his family into the upper rooms of the Case house.

Conrad made some of the biggest milk pails last week we have ever seen. They were probably intended for a cow shed and milk pail combined.

Don't buy a plow this spring until you see and try the "Burch."

Billy Currie's moustache is beginning to sprout.

If you want a nobby new hat, call at the Nimble Nick cheap hat store.

There was a large demand for the last edition of this paper.

Wm. Leighty sold a new wagon last week to Lewis Lake.

Call and get a supply of Pickles—already prepared in vinegar.

Rich Culbertson will sell machinery for Wm. Shutt this season.

Wm. DeMaranville wants to buy some good milch cows.

Over one hundred persons from this vicinity, attended Keator's lecture at Spencerville last week.

Wallace Ables was coming over to St. Joe one of those icy days last week, carrying a basket of eggs. Well, what of it? Why nothing, only he fell down and broke the eggs.

J. H. Conrad's Tin and Hardware Store. Built in 1883.

Three Big Pounds of Fresh Crackers for 25 cts.

There is annually spent in the United States for intoxicating liquors over one billion of dollars, and it is estimated that at least 100,000 men, women and children are directly or indirectly, killed from the effects of strong drink every year. And yet, right in the face of these startling facts, there are men in our community who uphold and encourage saloons, if not with their patronage, they lend what influence they may exert, in that direction. They allow their boys to frequent such places, until they become acquainted with all manner of vice and immorality. It is true, there are men who warn their boys not to go into a saloon, and yet, these very same persons who will not allow their boys to enter such places, go themselves. They say there is no harm in taking a glass of beer once in a while, as long as a person knows when to stop. But how many there are who don't stop, but keep going on from bad to worse, and in the end become confirmed drinkers, and perhaps fill a drunkard's grave. Supposing some one should come into St. Joe and open a store and offer for sale an article that was guaranteed to destroy human life in a very short space of time, how many of our citizens would patronize such an establishment? None, of course; and still we have in our midst a place where an article is being dealt out, that will not only destroy the body, but the soul. An article that is crowding our penitentiaries, jails and poor-houses with inmates, it is ruining many happy homes, making widows and orphans, and otherwise destroying the peace, happiness and prosperity, of not only this community, but of the whole nation. The evil of intemperance is one of the greatest there is in the world to-day, and every means possible, ought to be used for its suppression. There is ample room for work in this direction in this place, and all who are interested in the temperance cause, ought to say and do what they can to stay the blighting influence of this great evil.

Russ George has moved his family to Garrett.

Jake Martin has sold off all of his stock and tools and left town.

D. P. Hale of Sioux City, Iowa, was in town last week.

We invite your attention to our choice selection of staple and fancy groceries.

There is only an average attendance of six scholars at the Orangeville school.

Go to the Nimble Nick and supply yourself with some splendid Syrup.

Ote Coburn went to Nebraska last week, where he expects to engage in the work of herding cattle.

What shall we eat? Why go down to the Nimble Nick store and get some of their Canned and Dried Fruits, Vegetables, Pickles &c.

Bear in mind that all goods advertised in this paper, as well as a great many other bargains, are for sale only by Case & Olds, St. Joe, Ind.

Mack Leighty says he has made about $700.00 worth of improvement on the Yarnell farm since he has been living there. Now let's see, if he has made that much improvement in two months, in five years the farm will be worth $21,000.00 more than when he moved on to it. Mack is a snorter to work.

Everybody uses the National Dry Hop Yeast.

O. M. Meek has rented the building formerly occupied by Martin, the wagon-maker, and will use it for a paint shop. Give him a call.

Arton Thomas was hit in Gasville last Tuesday.

350,000 valentines passed through the Chicago post office on Feb. 14. Valentine's day.

William Bleck is building a barn on his lot.

Rev. Frank Hussey began a series of revival meetings at Concord last Thursday evening.

Our canned fruits are selling off quite rapidly. Try our vinegar pickles.

Mr. Evans will move back to St. Joe next week.

Mrs. Louisa Bradley was married last week to E. E. Wilson, a book agent, who has been canvassing through this part of the county for the past few weeks.

Steve Silberg went to Napanee last Monday.

It was highly amusing last week, on those icy days, to see how particular people were about how they walked. They acted as though they were afraid of falling down.

Ruf McDonald has been working in the saw mill this week.

Wm. Stamen was about the only person in St. Joe who got a valentine last week. It was one of the kind that can keep a fellow awake when he wants to sleep. Its a boy, and he will probably be out buying lumber in a few days.

The editor of Lib. about me in the last number; he said I was sufficient with a "lokation" of the bridge: it was not so. I had the bridge. I don't believe the editor will ever have any more about the bridge-gate. I asked it, & was told not to any. As for the "Lib. on the Bridge"
I saw the other day, a thinking man self, I heard a grate royal just ahead, and I saw a man coming out of a house, and a woman was after him with a broom.
It was just awful the way that grate big woman pelted that poor harmless innocent man; all because he wouldn't carry in the wood and make fires. The idea, that in this enlightened age, under a free government, a man must carry in the wood, and get up on a coal morning and start the fire, while the woman keeps the bed warm; it's preposterous to think of.
And yet, this man was driven from his own house, under the point of the butt end of a broom, (see above engraving) just because he refused to do as she said.
I had loved to take a companion this fall, but seeing this incident has kinder upset me. Yours in trouble,

Barcus/Q: Hippenhammer:

MARCH

Canned Strawberries, Green Gages & Sweet Corn.

ST. JOE NEWS.

Vol. 2.

SATURDAY, MARCH 8, 1884.

No. 1.

Programme for Temperance meeting to be held at the church in St. Joe, on Wednesday evening, March 12, 1884.

- 1 Song by Young Folk's Choir.
- 2 Prayer by Wm. Hollabaugh.
- 3 Song by Congregation.
- 4 Declaration by Ashton Stamen.
- 5 Address by Dr. Sheffer.
- 6 Quartette.
- 7 Select Reading by P. A. Shirts.
- 8 Declamation by Effie Davis.
- 9 Chalk Talk by C. A. Meek.
- 10 Exercises by the Children.
- 11 Election of Officers.
- 12 Closing Song.

A special invitation is extended for all to be present at this meeting.

We have two ear loads of corn on the way.

John Saltsgaver is able to be out again.

Ben Leighty will work for Clide Woodcox this summer.

Mrs. Henry Jenkins is slowly recovering from her late illness.

Mrs. George Willmot has been quite sick, but is some better to-day.

Hard Tack social at Leighty's Hall on next Tuesday evening.

Willie Erick of Middleberry, has been visited in town this week the guest of Merit Barney.

Mary Maxwell, sister of Mrs. O. H. Widney, died last Saturday evening, and was buried in the Newville cemetery on Monday.

The temperance meeting on Wednesday evening was one of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings ever yet held. John W. Baxter of Auburn was present and delivered an interesting address, showing some statistics in regard to the liquor traffic in this county, and closing his remarks with an earnest appeal to the people to be temperance men every day in the year. Mr. Green, also of Auburn, being present made a few appropriate and well chosen remarks. Nina Filley in her usual good manner, spoke and excellent declamation. The singing was good and the exercises by the children were of a very enjoyable and pleasing character.

The winter term of school closes to-day.

Charlie Meek is confined to his room with sickness.

Large quantities of wheat have been marketed in St. Joe this week.

T. S. Merica of Garrett, is in town visiting his brother C. O.

Rev. M. L. Blaney of Kendallville will preach at the church next Monday evening, in the interests of the General Christian Missionary Convention.

Bear in mind that all goods advertised in this paper, as well as a great many other bargains, are for sale only by Case & Olds, St. Joe, Ind.

Canned Strawberries, Green Gages & Sweet Corn.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Please to all who will call at our store and get a sample of it will be sent free to any post office at which the same is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY MARCH 8, 1884.

Days are getting longer.

Cash on to some of our canned fruit, and pickles.

Frank Hart dug a well for Wm. Stamen last week.

Fremont Nelson of Hicksville was in town last week.

We shall keep a supply of western corn on hand at all times, to be sold at reasonable prices.

Quit a number of our citizens had business at Auburn last week.

There was a party at Mr. Conrad's last Thursday evening, given in honor of Miss Bitha Baughman.

Last week Thursday was the birthday anniversary of Miss Violet Barney, and also of Miss Bessie Patterson, both occurring on the same day. They, with a few of their intimate friends were entertained by Mrs. Patterson. We hope that Violet and Bessie may live to enjoy many happy returns of the day.

Dr. Bowman has a skeleton hanging up in his office, and the other day Art Woodcox was in looking at it, and then went out on the street and calling to some boys he said: "Say, you fellers come down here, they have got a man in here that aint got any meat on him."

We can and do offer you the best 7 cent sugar in the market. Fact.

Henry Maxwell was made happy last week over the event of a girl baby, which came to stay at his house.

David Grill is making a fine office desk for Conrad.

Several of the young men of our town were subpoenaed to appear before the Grand Jury last week. The boys were considerable frightened when the Sheriff came for them, and we hope that this will learn them, as well as many others, a lesson that they will profit by.

The debate at Jukes's school house on Friday evening was quite interesting.

MARRIED: at the Methodist parsonage in Spencerville, by Rev. Frank Husey on Wednesday February 27, 1884, Mr. John Hull to Miss Ettie Quonce.

The temperance meeting held on Wednesday evening, Feb. 27th, was unusually well attended, and the exercises were of a highly interesting and pleasing character. The speaking and singing by the little folk's was exceedingly well done. Trustee Brown delivered a short but well pointed and practical address on the power of influence. Prof. Merica read an excellent essay on "Will Power." The other exercises were equally as interesting, and all seem to enjoy it.

Everybody uses the National Dry Hop Yeast.

If you would not be a drunkard,
Of the drunkard's drink beware!
It has ruined many millions,
Though it seems so good and fair.

When you're asked to take the first glass,
If you would escape its woe,
Do not hesitate or falter,
But just firmly answer, "No!"

From the many thousand victims,
Yearly, filling drunkard's graves,
Comes this fearful note of warning:
"Drinking lightly makes us slaves."

Boldly, then, refuse the first glass,
The subtle, evil taint,
Lest you feel its cruel mocking,
And at last its fatal sting.

Eggs 15.

Butter 18.

Sugar lower.

Try our pickles.

Use Nimble N soap.

Buy your Tea of us.

Sample our canned fruits.

Get a box of our toothpicks.

Cake stands for sale at a bargain.

French Mustard 10 cts. per bottle.

There are 10,500 grains in a bushel of wheat.

The ground hog theory is being verified
this year.

We have the best 7 cent sugar in the market. Call and see about it.

Mrs. O. M. Meek went to Lima last week to visit friends.

Get your sale bills printed at the Nimble Nick store. We do job work neatly and cheaply.

Step in and examine our goods and get a paper.

J. H. Conrad was at Hicksville one day last week.

We can sell you a good Bed Spread for a small amount of money.

Rubber Circulars are just the thing for wet weather.

Last month was jam full of all kinds of weather. It ought to have been ashamed of itself for getting so full.

P. K. Greer moved his household goods to Michigan last week and will probably make that his future home.

Call in and see our stock of Boots and Shoes. We can show you some interesting bargains.

Phlete Shitts' brother who has been visiting with him for a couple of months, returned to his home in Michigan last week.

There is scarcely a single crime committed in the world to-day, but what is caused either directly or indirectly from strong drink.

Sometime ago the ARIZONA REPUBLICAN put a cylinder press into its office, and last week the CORONA followed suit.
Now gentleman, let us have a little less blowing about presses, and a few more items of news.

A great many boys, even very small ones, seem to think it a manly thing to smoke, and so they learn just as soon as they can get money enough to buy a little tobacco. But, although there are a great many bad things about using tobacco, there is not one really good one.
Boys, don't never learn to smoke.

Canned Strawberries, Green Gages & Sweet Corn.

"Winter lingers in the lap of spring." Well, I shude say so! I wonder if Miss Spring aint gettin tired of havin' old man Winter settin' around on her lapp? Here it is nigh on to the middel of march an still its actuly cold enuf to freeze one of Ukel Sammy Lawhed's ears. I guss the young hog did a mity sensible thing wen he went bak into his whole to stay six weeks. By the way, they've ben havin' sum of the boys up to four the gran jury, an I herd they wer badly frightened. Its a purty scary piece of business to hav to be set up on a hi stool befor a lot of inquisitiv men an tell all ya kno an sum things ya don't kno, and its no wonder the boys hare stood on end lik the abov illustrashun which I drawd. The editor says I mussent rife satch lenthly peeces so I pursum I'd beter clothes.

Yours Lovingly,

Barens Q. Hippenhammer.

Mr. Latin Zimmerman of Goshen was in town last Tuesday.

Over 1,000,000 hogs were sold last year in Indiana, the value of which amounted to $8,000,000.

We were aroused from our slumbers last Tuesday morning by a loud rattling on the store door. Wondering who it was that was out so early, we hurriedly dressed and decended. Upon opening the door we found Frank Sechler standing there, acting as crazy as a loon. We were at a loss to know what made him act so strangely, and indeavored to quiet him down a little and find out what was the matter. Finally after his excitement had somewhat worn off, he said: "I've got my dunkard preacher." The facts in the case were that Frank was the father of a nine pound boy baby, and he was as happy as a clown in a circus.

George Metcal has moved his family to Garrett.

Mell Bishop went to Fort Wayne last Tuesday.

Twenty seven persons united with the churches at Spencerville last Sunday.

Don't buy a plow until you see the old reliable "Eurch" with its recent improvements.

Amos LaRue of the ACBURN COURIER, was in town last Tuesday looking up the interest of that paper.

The well known firm of Leighty & Bishop desolved partnership last week, M. T. Bishop retiring. Mell will engage in the lumber business.

We received another supply of Japan Tea this week. We guarantee it to be the best ever brought to St. Joe, and we mean just what we say, too.

Alex. Donaldson drove up to Hugh Maxwell's Sunday evening and neglected to tie his horse, the consequence was his horse came home in the sleigh, and Alex. walked home afoot.

Programme for temperance meeting on Wednesday evening, March 26, 1884.

- 1 Song by Choir.
- 2 Prayer by M. E. Olds.
- 3 Song by Congregation.
- 4 Declamation by Cora Dilley.
- 5 Select Reading by P. A. Shirts.
- 6 Duett by Mrs. Olds and Miss Evans.
- 7 Essay by Mrs. Sheffer.
- 8 Address by John Engle.
- 9 Exercises by the Children.
- 10 Declamation by Wm. Vanzile.
- 11 Song by Merit Barney.
- 12 Closing Song.

Turn out everybody, and encourage this good work.

See our handsome new patterns of Wall-Paper.

Its time to begin to save up eggs for Easter.

Call and see our assortment spring shoes. Prices cheap.

We have a full assortment of Men's and Ladies' Overshoes.

We shall have a full line of Garden
Tools, Nails, &c, for the spring trade.

Mrs. J. M. Lounsberry has been at Fort Wayne this week visiting her daughter Mrs. Volmar.

We are anxious to have a share of your trade this summer and shall offer you special inducements. Come in and see our stock.

Hanford Tiffany started for Missouri last Thursday.

The Burch plow runs the lightest and does the best work.

William Hollabaugh will build a new barn this summer.

Mell Bishop will receive a car load of lime next week.

Bill Blecke killed a muskrat in front of Leighty's store the other evening.

There was lots of people at Hugh Maxwell's sale and every thing sold high.

H. H. Fales & Son talk of selling their stock of furniture to A. Kinsey.

We have taken special pains in selecting our Wall Paper stock, and we think we have the handsomest variety ever shown in St. Joe. No trouble to show goods.

John Bowman of Butler, who formerly lived at Spencerville, and is well known by some of our citizens, had his head nearly severed from his body last Wednesday by falling on to a saw in a saw mill. His death was instantaneous.

The disagreeable weather last Wednesday evening prevented a very large attendance at temperance meeting: however the exercises were up to the usual good standard. These meetings are growing better and better, and they ought to be attended by more of our citizens.

Interests in Case & Oils, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND. SATURDAY MARCH 22, 1884.

The National Yeast is the best in the market.

Milo Walker and Ben Wasson are selling a patent fence.

Two weeks from next Monday is the township election.

The best plow for real practical use is the "Burch."

J. S. Davis the B. & O. agent has moved into Wm. Bohls' house.

We have some rare bargains in Ladies' Silk Neck-ware.

Henry Baker has secured the contract for building William Saylor's new residence.

O. H. Widney has discovered a new use for cross cut saws, that of stopping up hog holes in a fence. The more the hog roots the more he don't want to.

We received another supply of Japan Tea this week. We guarantee it to be the best ever brought to St. Joe, and we mean just what we say, too.

escape from something worse.

Look out for our stock of wall paper and bordering.

Notwithstanding the hard times, quite a number of new buildings will be erected this summer.

Bargains in hats at the Nimble Nick store, 20, 25 and 35 cents.

The AUBURN COURIER contained quite a lengthy description of St. Joe and some of its business firms last week.

Eat some of our canned fruits and you will get fat.

One of the most interesting features of the temperance meeting last week was the Chalk Talk by Chas. Meek. The big folk enjoyed it, and the little children was tickled all over.

We never knew why it was that Frank Draggoo liked to sell the Deering Binder until we saw one of their advertisements the other day, and that explained the matter. From the illustration on the advertisement we inferred that the man who buys a Deering Binder is usually so well pleased with it that when the agent calls to settle, he sends his wife out to hug and kiss him, (the agent.) No wonder Frank brags up the Deering. The more machines he sells the more settlements he makes—don't you see?

Call and see our new assortment of Embroideries.

Harry J. Juty, a 17 year old boy at Easton, Pa., is the latest example of what time-novel-reading will do for the rising generation. He was an enthusiastic student of trashy literature, and when his father attempted to chastise him for some misconduct the lad drew a revolver and shot his parent. Not the least of the evils in the world that need to be corrected is that of printing such reading matter and permitting it to get into the hands of the young. Supply your children with good wholesome literature, and although it may cost you something, it will be money well spent.

See our line of Laura's Fancy Worked Handkerchiefs.

The last two cars of corn we received are the best we have had.

We have some handsome new patterns in Lace Curtain Net. Call and see.

Whether the G. A. R's are partial to rainy nights or not for holding their hard tack socials, they have been unfortunate enough to appoint their meetings on just such evenings. However, there was quite a number in attendance at their meeting last week and they all seemed to enjoy themselves highly. Gen. Blair of Waterloo, was present and delivered an interesting address. John Provines related in a pleasing way, some of his army experiences. The inimitable Morris Widney of Auburn was present and made people laugh whether they wanted to or not. The pork and beans were eaten with a relish that indicated that people had been saving up for the occasion, and the bill of expense for the whole evening's entertainment was nothing. The soldiers "set 'em up."

J. W. Dills was at Fort Wayne last week.

We have a good assortment of Silk Handkerchiefs.

The "Burch" Plow is on the war path for spring plowing.

Get one of our FIVE CENT pocket handkerchiefs.

How to do your washing without much work? Use the Nibble Nibble Laundry Soap.

Don't buy a plow until you see the old reliable "Burch" with its recent improvements.

Mell Bishop was in the northern part of Michigan last week buying in a supply of lumber, shingles &c.

The feud in regard to the removal of the old bridge at the west end of St. Joe was postponed until the next term of court.

We received a letter from the Col. last week enclosing $25 for the purpose of requesting us to send him the St. Joe News. He is located at Indianapolis.

H. H. Fales & Son offer their old stock of furniture at cost for the next ninety days. Give them a call if you want a bargain.

A pair of new boots and some old cast off clothes were found in a field near Coleman's school house last week. It is supposed that some thief had been on a lot of goods, among them a new suit of clothes, and had stepped at the school house to put them on, and in his hurry he forgot to put on his new boots.

If you want the Best Plow, buy the "Burch."

J. D. Leighty was at Indianapolis this week.

Frank Herrick is agent for a patent road scraper.

Arron Thomas is building an addition to his house.

Byron Woodcox offers his two lots in this place for sale at a bargain.

Barney Woodcox has to use a cane to walk with on account of a badly sprained ankle.

Frank Schples of Fort Wayne was around shaking hands with his many friends, last Saturday.

We received another invoice of choice hand picked Marrowfat Beans this week. Call and get a supply.

Our stock of canned fruits and vegetables is worthy your attention, both as to quality and price.

Filley & Lounsberry proprietors of the St. Joe Saw and Planing Mill have sawed 1005 logs in the last two months and a half. Who can beat it?

Vince Dilley has sold his property in this place to Joe Baker. Joe will move in about the first of April. Vince has not yet decided where he will go.

Chris Currie will move his old house on to a lot near the brick works, and build his new brick where the old house stood.

M. T. Bishop will give you bottom prices on Lumber, Lath, Shingles &c. He has the finest lot of lumber ever brought to St. Joe. Give him a call.

There was a large attendance at church last Sunday evening. The next regular appointment will be one week from next Sunday (March 30th) at half past two o'clock.

This is the year we men want ofis, an' sum ov them want it purty bad, tu. Thay hav a thirstin an a hankerin fer tu be a candidate fur sum hi posishun. Ther mouth waters fer tu be Trustee or Justis or Constabel or a skule director, or presidant ov a debatin club or a section boss or anything jest so its ofis. Thay chun forth in the day ov the caucus or convenshun lik mushrooms in the spring time an on election day thay ar cut down an thay wither away. Thay spend ther time an money fer that wich is nix. Politix dont pay; it cost tu much tu be elected. Ther ought tu be more ofises so everbody could hav one. I am not up fer ofis, that is i am not up, but, however, if thay want tu run me fur Constabel i will let em run. I'll guarantee not tu let the prisners git away from me lik that deputy feller did sumtime ago; he cudnt help it tho the prisner wus tu much fer him; it wants a big man fer that ofis. I aint partickler about it tho.

Yours Fer Ofis.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

G. B. I hav concludded not tu be a candidate unles thay want me tu.

APRIL

Examine the reliable Burch Plow before buying.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, APRIL 5, 1884.

No. 3.

T pot T.
National Yeast.

Examine our wall paper.

Try Silver Star Baking Powder.

Our T pot T is selling like hot cakes.

We can sell you a bolt of good muslin at a very low figure.

Get one of our Patent Horse Polks and keep your horse from jumping.

Hanford Tiffany expects to move to Missouri in a few weeks.

Our wall paper is selling off quite rapidly, and the reason why is, the styles suit the people. Don't you see?

Mrs. Steele and Mrs. Hart of Hicksville were in town Friday visiting with Mrs. George Brecks.

Frank Draggoo will occupy the Slaughter building with a line of agricultural implements.

Bear in mind the fact that we trim all wall paper bought of us free of charge. It saves lots of tedious work.

Jake Sechler bought a tea pot full of our tea and his wife says its the best tea they ever had in the house. One pound of choice tea and a good tea pot for only 50 cents.

We have something special to offer the trade this week in the shape of one pound of good Tea put up in a good tea pot for 50 cents. This tea is put up by us under our own brand and we guarantee it to be of a good quality. Try it.

Rev. Frank Hussey will preach in the church Sunday evening.

We can sell you a good curly comb for 10 cents.

The Burch Plow has been greatly improved. See it yourself.

Our stock of Garden Tools are as cheap as the cheapest.

Boys don't fail to see our stock of new hats. Nobly spring styles.

Frank White has moved into the house formerly occupied by Champ Bailey.

Vote next Monday and then come in and see our stock of men's shoes.

There is plenty of wall paper in St. Joe but we think we have as handsome patterns as there is in the market.

Buy a can of Silver Star Baking Powder and get a piece of Silver Plated ware free.

Fifty one pieces of Triple Plated Silver Ware to be given away at the Nimble Nickle store in the next 30 days. First come, first served.

One of James Platter's sons died Wednesday evening with the measles, and the rest of the family are down with the same disease.

The programme for temperance meeting was not handed in to us in time to print this week, but we can assure our readers that if they go to the church next Wednesday evening they will be well entertained.

Examine the reliable Burch Plow before buying.

St. Joe  News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY APRIL 5, 1884.

Wall Fales will work for Wm. Leighty this summer.

The time for paying taxes expires the third Monday in April.

The new bell for the Methodist church at Spencerville arrived last week.

The prospects for a good crop of wheat never was better at this season of the year.

Vince Dilley will move into the house formerly owned by Henry Maxwell near John Widney's residence.

Get your Fish Hooks and Lines at the Nimble Nick store. The fish will bite better if you do.

James May has been promoted to the position of foreman of the fence gang on the B. & O., working between Garrett and Deshler.

Bear in mind that all goods advertised in this paper, as well as a great many other bargains, are for sale only by Case & Olds, St. Joe, Ind.

Joe Baker, our own Joe the barber, he thought business was picking up some and he needed help in the shop, so he got a little "shaver" last week. The boy is doing well, but his papa was so nervous he could'nt have shaved the head of an oil barrel. The second day after the baby was born Joe went over to Nels Testison's and got a whole wagon load of potatoes, smoked meat, cabbage &c to feed the baby with. Its a wonder he had'nt killed the poor child. Joe was out of head considerable, but he's better now.

See our stock of Men's Shoes.

Ask John Widney what he thinks of the Burch Plow.

See our stock of Ladies' Shoes.

Try our "Old Peaches" Plug Tobacco. Biggest hunk for the money we have ever had.

Mrs. O. M. Meck has brought her loom here from Lima, and is prepared to weave carpet in a satisfactory manner, and at reasonable prices.

We have a new supply of Willow Clothes Baskets. They are without any doubt the most durable basket to buy, and no well regulated family can get along without one.

House cleaning time is here and of course you will want some wall paper, window curtains &c. We invite your attention to our stock of such goods.

We have taken special pains in selecting our Wall Paper stock, and we think we have the handsomest variety ever shown in St. Joe. No trouble to show goods.

Examine the reliable Burch Plow before buying.

A new breed of Polan China chickens for sale by Barney Woodcox.

The Burch plow runs the lightest and does the best work.

The Burch Plow runs easy.

One week from next Sunday will be Easter.

The Burch Plow is easy handled.

B. F. Blair will open up a drug store at Newville,

The Burch Plow has the best jointer.

Os Allen was in town last week. He was't after any of the boys this time.

The Burch Plow runs steady.

Uncle Johnny Jenkins of Waterloo, was around shaking hands with his many friends last week.

The Burch Plow is the boss.

We have been kept quite busy of late doing job printing. Our terms are very reasonable and we endeavor to do work in a neat and workmanlike manner. If you have any printing you want done give us a call.

See our handsome new patterns of Wall Paper.

See our wall paper.

Call and see our assortment spring shoes. Prices cheap.

See our wall paper.

We have a full line of Garden Tools, Nails, &c, for the spring trade.

See our wall paper.

We have a full assortment of Men's and Ladies' Overshoes.

See our wall paper.

Try our "Old Times" big chunk of good plug tobacco for 5 cents.

See our wall paper.

Our stock of canned fruits and vegetables is worthy your attention, both as to quality and price.

See our wall paper.

Lyman Knight went to Valparaiso last week to attend Normal school. Lyman is bound to know something.

See our wall paper.

We are anxious to have a share of your trade this summer and shall offer you special inducements. Come in and see our stock.

See our wall paper.

At the temperance meeting last week Uncle John Engle made an eloquent appeal to the people to do something, but what that something was is more than we were able to tell. He probably forgot himself and thought he was delivering a lecture to a class of medical students.

Examine the reliable Burch Plow before buying.

Last Tuesday was the first day of April, and as a consequence a good many people got fooled. About the best thing we heard of was on Alex Filley. Alex is a great hand for plenty of sugar in his tea, and one of his girls knowing his failing in that direction, emptied the sugar out of the sugar bowl and filled it up with salt. Alex put a liberal supply into his tea, stirred it up and took a big swallow. You can imagine the rest.

We have some handsome new styles of dress prints. Their just lovely.

We certainly can show the largest and best assortment of Ladies' Fine Shoes ever brought to St. Joe. We kindly ask you to call and examine our stock before you buy. Will you please?

There are 50 car loads of coal on the side tracks at this place.

Bill Vanzile will build a new fence around his property.

Our line of Overalls, Cottonade Pants, Coats &c is worthy your attention.

Charlie Meek talks of building a new house this summer.

Remember we have a stock of Nails, Garden Tools, Horse Polks &c.

Champ Bailey moved on to his farm below Spencerville last Monday.

We have a fine collection of shoes especially adapted for old ladies' wear. Call and see them.

The car house for the upper section is to be moved up near Auburn. This will compel some of the men to move or lose their job.

SKUNKED!

This world is full of disappointments. I was willin an anchus to hav my naim go befour the cawcus as a candidate for constabel. I didn't care mutch wich party take me up, jist so I was take, but alas fur humain expectashuns, my naim wuent even suggested or thot ov. Man perposes an the cawcuses upset the hole business. What hav I ever dun tu deserve sutch treatment? Hav'nt I always ben on the fence ready tu flop off on the side that had the most cigars? Hav'nt I always dun jist as my party leaders told me tu? Hav'nt I dun all this an moor tu, and yet wen I ask fur offe they pas me bi unnoticed an uncared fur. Its a long lane that aint got a big mud whole an it sum whare.

Yours in Deep Sorrow,
Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Tea Pot Tea.

New line of Shirting.

Big assortment of fine shoes.

Several barns are being built in St. Joe.

Don't fail to get a pound of our choice tea put up in a good tea pot, all for 50 cents.

Three Pound Cans of Pie Peaches for 10 cents.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, APRIL 19, 1884.

No. 4.

The following is the programme for temperance meeting to be held at the church on Wednesday evening April 23, 1884.

- 1 Song.
- 2 Prayer by Samuel Lawhead.
- 3 Song.
- 4 Declamation by Effie Davis.
- 5 Paper by M. E. Olds.
- 6 Song.
- 7 Declamation by Charlie Hart.
- 8 Remarks by P. A. Shirts.
- 9 Song } accompanied by Frank Hart on the Harmonica.
- 10 Select Reading by Mrs. A. B. Filley.
- 11 Declamation by Merit Barney.
- 12 Dialogue by Addie Widney & others.
- 13 Closing Song.

Music for the evening to be conducted by Mattie White and Lona Testison.

Croquet balls are on the roll.

Frank Meek was in town yesterday.

Lots of people had business at Auburn this week.

Our T pot T pleases everybody that gives it a trial.

Don't forget to go and see Miss Bartlett's spring stock of millinery goods.

Shade trees have been set out around the depot at this place. Quite an improvement.

New Embroideries!
New Embroideries!
New Embroideries!

Fancy Window Curtains!
Fancy Window Curtains!
Fancy Window Curtains!

Handsome Dress Prints!
Handsome Dress Prints!
Handsome Dress Prints!

Ladies' Silk Gloves!
Ladies' Silk Gloves!
Ladies' Silk Gloves!

Complete line of Hosiery!
Complete line of Hosiery!
Complete line of Hosiery!

Will Koch and Miss Anna Timmerman were married last Sunday.

We have a few choice dried apples for sale. See our wall paper.

Several of the newly elected officers were sworn in this week.

Call and see our line of Ladies' Fancy Handkerchiefs. Prices from 10 cents up to 25 cts.

Charlie Bartlett, brother of Mrs. Alex. Filley, who has been in the west for the last four years, returned home last week.

Mrs. Wes Hart read an excellent essay at temperance meeting last Wednesday evening. It was right to the point and ought to have made moderate drinkers and tobacco users feel sick.

Examine the reliable Burch Plow before buying.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY APRIL 19, 1884.

Tea Pot Tea.

New line of Shirting.

Big assortment of fine shoes.

Rev. Frank Hussey will preach in the church Sunday evening.

Our line of Hosiery is large, prices ranging from 10 cents up to 50 cents.

Mr. Z. Hathaway of Newville, died last Wednesday morning and was buried on Thursday.

Don't fail to get a pound of our choice tea put up in a good tea pot, all for 50 cents.

Buy a can of Silver Star Baking Powder and get a piece of Silver Plated ware free.

We have a fine collection of shoes especially adapted for old ladies' wear. Call and see them.

Bear in mind the fact that we trim all wall paper bought of us free of charge. It saves lots of tedious work.

M. T. Bishop sold a bill of lumber to parties in Hicksville this week. Mell is making prices so low that people come from quite a distance to buy building material of him.

We have something special to offer the trade this week in the shape of one pound of good Tea put up in a good tea pot for 50 cents. This tea is put up by us under our own brand and we guarantee it to be of a good quality. Try it.

We have some handsome new styles of Dress Prints. Small checks are being worn a great deal this spring and they make a very pretty suit. We have some new patterns and invite you to call and see them before buying.

Examine the reliable Burch Plow before buying.

T. pot T.

National Yeast.

Examine our wall paper.

Try Silver Star Baking Powder.

Our T pot T is selling like hot cakes.

John Baker went to Ohio last Tuesday to work on the railroad.

The republicans will not hold their election until next fall sometime.

We can sell you a good curry comb for 10 cents.

Boys don't fail to see our stock of new hats. Nobby spring styles.

Our stock of Garden Tools are as cheap as the cheapest.

The Burch Plow has been greatly improved. See it yourself.

Get one of our Patent Horse Polks and keep your horse from jumping.

There is plenty of wall paper in St. Joe but we think we have as handsome patterns as there is in the market.

Our wall paper is selling off quite rapidly, and the reason why is, the styles suit the people. Don't you see?

The St. Joe schools commenced last Monday with Miss Laura Shutt as principal and Miss Swineford, assistant.

Some one made the remark that there wasn't any thing in the last edition of the News but advertisements. That's it exactly: we don't print this paper just for the fun of it—not by a long shot. We want to sell our goods, and are making use of the columns of this little paper to let people know what kind of goods we have and how cheap we can sell them, and at the same time furnish a few items of fun and news.

We invite your attention to our stock of Fort Wayne Overalls Coats &c. They never rip, that is, hardly ever. Our prices are rock bottom.

We can sell you a bolt of good muslin at a very low figure.

Our line of Overalls, Cottonade Pants, Coats &c is worthy your attention.

Remember we have a stock of Nails, Garden Tools, Horse Polks &c.

Call and see our stock of Fancy Window Curtains.

Kanned Korn & Tomatoes Reduced to 10 cents.

P. P. Shukr will have a sale one week from to-day.

J. D. Leighty was at Indianapolis last Thursday.

They will not build a church at Concord this year.

Monday is the last wag of the hammer for paying taxes.

Miss Bartlett will receive her spring stock of millinery goods this week.

Just for the fun of it we are selling canned corn for 10 cts.

W. B. McClaran and wife of Argos, Ind., were in town last week visiting friends.

In the next issue of this paper we will publish a letter from C. O. Merica, formerly principal of the school at this place, but now attending school at Valparaiso.

We certainly can show the largest and best assortment of Ladies' Fine Shoes ever brought to St. Joe. We kindly ask you to call and examine our stock before you buy. Will you please?

We have done thirteen different jobs of printing since our last issue. It has taken up about all our spare time and we have not been able to devote much attention to our paper, which accounts somewhat for its unusual thinness. It is always thin, but this week it is thinner.

Man is ingenious an alvus has ben ever since. We hav men in Sant Jo who mite hav ther naims carved among the graight enventours ov the age, if they wussunt so bashful. Reef Mackdonall has inventead a car cuppler that takes the cookes. Its an automatick back actin dubel jointed self adjusting arrangement. All the breakman has tu do is to set in the caboose and blow a little wistle an awa she goes. The diagrapha repersents in a feabel manner, this newly discoverd invenshun. The letters A A are the cars: L is the cuppler. The bumpers ar fasened to the cars by a bolt running lenthways through the tender; the cuppler is connected to the bumper by the connecting rod which connects the connectshun. The simplicity of the affair is very simple: ther is no endangering ov life an lim becaws the breakman is in the caboose aslepe. The cuppling is easly uncuppled by taking off the rear end of the car with a munky rench and detaching the air brake frum the cow-catcher. Its a wunderfool improvement ovar the old whey. Mr. Mackdonall will take out a pattent on it as soon the soap making seson is over. Ther are other invenshuns an enventours in town which we shal speek by hereafter.

Yours Enventivly.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer

MAY

Try a Box of our Choice Boneless Cod Fish.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, MAY 3, 1884.

No. 5.

In the spring tyme gentel Anni,
Wen the frogs begin tu hum,
Then's the tyme wen thay tare up
Carpets an clean hous an scrubb,
An a feller has tu eat a cold bite
On a flower-barrell.

I think that potry is emmence; the latter end ov it dont rime eggactly, but there's lots of centiment in it espeshly to a man who is unfortunate enuf tu be married. Hous cleaning tyme is the most deliteful seson ov the year; it is then that you ears ar greated with the musickal voic ov your wiffe as she yelles "James come hear an help me take down this stov pipe," or "Jake you hurry yourself around hear an shack that ar carpet."
Its etacks ov fun i tel you. If i was cauled upon tu chuse between hous cleaning tyme an a Picknick i druther go tu the Picknick.

Yours Most Trooly,
Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

P. G. The editor he said ther wusnt room fur a pickture in this weeks papar, so ther wont be eny.

T pot T.

See our wall paper.

Kanned Korn only 10 cts.

No preaching in town to-morrow.

Mell Bishop received a car load of shingles this week.

Why do people use the Nimble Nickle soap? Because its the best.

If you want to hear some good speaking go to Auburn next Saturday.

Say, by the way why don't you come in and see our wall paper, window curtains &c.

Programme for temperance meeting on Wednesday evening, May 7, 1884.

1. Song.
2. Prayer by J. M. Lounsberry.
3. Song.
4. Essay by Miss Laura Shutt.
5. Song.
6. Select Reading by S. S. Widney.
7. Duett by { Elsie Stamen,
Ida Boyle.
8. Declamation by Vick Conrad.
9. Dialogue by Mattie White & others.
10. Miscellaneous Business.
11. Closing Song.

Music for the evening to be conducted by Messrs Bishop & Olds.

Hanford Tiffany left for his new home in Missouri yesterday.

Go to temperance meeting next Wednesday evening.

August Kinsey is selling lots of furniture. Call and see him.

Three pounds of choice lard put up in a tin pan for 40 cents.

Don't forget to go to Auburn next Saturday. Train leaves at 1:05 P. M.

Why not have a rousing Fourth of July celebration at St. Joe this year?

We have a splendid assortment of Ladies' Summer Gloves.

P. A. Shirts has got the Michigan fever and offers his property for sale at a bargain.

All members of the Sunday school and church, as well as all others who are interested in organizing a Mite Society, are requested to meet at the residence of Robert Davis on next Friday evening,
May 9th, 1884.

Don't Use any but the National Dry Hop Yeast.

St. Joe

Peters.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Please to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY MAY 3, 1884.

We received another car load of corn this week.

We are selling lots of canned fruit and why? O because.

Get one of our straw hats and keep your head cool.

"Old Times" Plug Tobacco is taking the lead. Try it.

Harvey Ackley and wife of Hicksville, were in town last week, visiting friends.

A good fanning mill for sale at a bargain. Call and see it.

Quite a number of the G. A. R's from this place attended the Hard Tack Social at Garrett last Saturday evening.

Gil Barbeau was in town last week. He deposited money to have the News sent to him every week.

I tell you now
if you want to see a nice lot of Spring Goods
call on Case &
Olds, St. Joe.

Its a splendid good time to go fishing and get a bite. However the mosquitoes are not thick enough yet to make bites very plenty.

Workmen have been engaged during the past few days in painting the new iron railroad bridge over the river at this place.

Vester Widney has bought a lot next to the one his father is building upon, and will devote his attention to raising chickens. Vester will also furnish eggs at all times of the year.

The gravel put upon the streets of St. Joe last fall was a big improvement. We hardly know what bad roads are now until we get out of town. Why would it be a good idea to gravel the road between here and Spencerville.

Don't Use any but the National Dry Hop Yeast.

What might have resulted in a very serious accident occurred at Wineland's handle factory a week ago last Saturday. The shingle bolter while running at a high rate of speed bursted, and pieces of it flew in all directions: one piece weighing about eight pounds was thrown into George Bleeks' floor yard: other pieces tore off the roof and siding. Mr. Wineland and his sons were working in the mill at the time, one of the boys was working at the machine when it bursted but fortunately none of them were hurt. It was a narrow escape, for had any of the pieces struck any of them it would have caused almost instant death.

Try "Old Times" Plug Tobacco

Walt Cheeseman was in town one day last week.

Nels Thomas is brakeing on the B. & O.

Our T pot T pleases everybody that gives it a trial.

We can sell you a good sewing machine very cheap.

Burt Donaldson expects to leave the printers trade.

William Vanzile is working in the carpenter shops at Garrett.

Call and see our stock of Fancy Window Curtains.

We have a few choice dried apples for sale. See our wall paper.

Four weeks from yesterday is Decoration Day.

Buy a can of Silver Star Baking Powder and get a piece of Silver Plated ware free.

There's danger in the glass. Beware lest it enslave. They who have dreamed it find, alas! Too often early graves. It sparkles to allure with its rich ruby light: There's no antidote or cure, only its course to fight.

It changes men to brutes, makes women bow their heads, fills homes with anguish, want, disputes, and tears from children's eyes.

Then dash the glass away and from the serpent flee, drink pure cold water day

day

day

and walk

God's footstool free.

Chicago Sun.

Call and see our line of Ladies' French Handkerchiefs. Prices from 10 cents up to 25 cts.

Mr. Brooks has bought Shugart's house, moved it out on to the street and converted into a shoe shop.

Our wall paper is selling off quite rapidly, and the reason why is, the styles suit the people. Don't you see?

We have a fine collection of shoes especially adapted for old ladies' wear. Call and see them.

Don't fail to get a pound of our choice tea put up in a good tea pot, all for 50 cents.

Mr. Harter has bought George Bleeks' Orangeville property and will make that his future home.

Three Pounds of Choice Dried Peaches for 25 cts.

Letter from O. O. Merica.

Valparaiso, Ind., April 26, '84.

As I begin this letter I hear, in memory of editor saying, "Mr. Merica, you are on program for an address," and imagine I see an immense array of excuses offering their services gratis; and I think how welcome and yet how useless. Though I wish to write yet my desire amounts almost to reluctance; because, except that I recite four times each day, and study, or ought to study each lesson, Valparaiso doings and I are scarcely acquaintances. Coming from Fort Wayne over the Nickle Plate, I arrived here at 6 P. M. - It was dark and rainy, so, seeing an ancient-looking vehicle, which, by the way proved to be a sort of a cab, I entered it, giving orders to be driven to the college. I soon found a place to stay all night; and being tired, soon tested the comfort of a College Hill bed. Along, my brother and myself all slept in the same bed, in a room as dirty as one often sees. But we didn't complain, for we thought that maybe they wasn't expecting company. Notwithstanding the dirt I slept, and in the morning, when I awoke, wonder of wonders! the sun was rising in the north, or it seemed so to me, and so it has seemed ever since. Thus it would evidently, be difficult for me to become acquainted with the city; for I wouldn't know from which side to approach. Valparaiso became incorporated in 1865, and now numbers about 5000 inhabitants, not including students. The fame of its schools has extended over the whole country. The N. I. N. is the largest in the U. S., enrolling nearly three thousand each year, and having a term enrollment of about thirteen hundred. The High School contains over seven hundred pupils, and is one of the best in the state. St. Pauls Academy has about 300, and the Lutheran about 100. College Hill, the site of the Normal, is about three quarters of a mile south-east of the Public Square. It is, as its name implies, a high plat of ground, and is separated from the rest of the city by a ravine. The Normal School building was built in 1859, the renowned Dr. Sims establishing at that time, the Valparaiso Male and Female College, a Methodist institution. This continued until about 1873 when H. B. Brown and B. F. Perrine organized the first class of the N. I. N. Not much assistance in teaching was then required by the founders; now the faculty numbers more than twenty, some of whom work nine hours each day. (to be concluded next week.)

Arrangements are being made so that those who desire to attend the Mass Temperance Meeting at Auburn next Saturday, can return on the fast train fare for the round trip 55 cents. Everybody ought to go.

The railroad machine shops at Butler burned down last week.

Wid Patterson went fishing the other morning before sun-up and caught one poor little lonesome sucker; at least he said he caught it, but we are rather inclined to believe that he found it laying along the river bank somewhere.

We have a quantity of choice lard for sale. Call at once.

The Old Settler's Meeting will be held at Waterloo this year.

A real spicy little lawsuit occurred in our town last week between a man and his wife who reside at one of our small neighboring villages. Six of our prominent citizens sat up the seat of judgment, two eminent lawyers in an eloquent manner, argued the rights and wrongs of the case until finally it was given to the jury and they returned a verdict of "not guilty!" Why not move the court house over here?

Three cans of Standard Tomatoes for 25 cents.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, MAY 17, 1884.

No. 6.

Programme for temperance meeting
Wednesday evening May 21, 1884.

- 1 Song.
- 2 Prayer by Charles Widney.
- 3 Song.
- 4 Declamation by Charlie Hart.
- 5 Select Reading by C. A. Meek.
- 6 Song by Miss Swineford.
- 7 Address by Mrs. Widney.
- 8 Song by the children.
- 9 Remarks by Samuel Lawhead.
- 10 Song by Hadsell Brothers.
- 11 Declamation by Cora White.
- 12 Closing Song.

Music for the evening to be conducted by Addie Widney and Faith Hull.

Charlie Meek went to Avilla last Wednesday.

Dr. Sheffer will have a fine office when completed.

M. T. Bishop received another car load of Lime this week.

We got in another invoice of those handsome window curtains this week.

We are having a good trade on Ladies' Gloves. Call and see our assortment.

Prof. Holmes of Spencerville is conducting a writing school at this place.

After the first of July the St. Joe post office will be a money order office.

Dr. Bowman went to Philadelphia this week to attend a course of medical lectures.

John Leighty received a postal card from Fort Wayne the other day, with the following written upon it:

"Cousin John, I've received the St. Joe News, And heard it read from beginning to end; Can only say it beats the Jews! What customers get when so little they spend. Your town is growing, I see very plain, And already has the airs of a city! Although not as large as Fort Wayne, It is very sprightly and pretty."

Your Cousin, Walter Filley."

Howard Northrup and B. F. Hoyt went to Kansas this week.

Moulding to suit everybody for sale by M. T. Bishop.

Wm. Hollabaugh has purchased an interest in the saw mill at Spencerville.

250,000 shingles in one lumber yard is a good many, but M. T. Bishop has them, and they are good.

The ladies all say that Miss Bartlett has the finest line of millinery goods ever brought to St. Joe.

Rev. Frank Hussey has gone to conference, consequently there will be no preaching here Sabbath evening.

Filley & Loonsberry are manufacturing a new wrinkle in house siding, which is certainly an improvement over the old style.

We are still selling lots of canned fruit. Strange, isn't it? Oh! not so very when you consider how cheap we are selling it.

Try a Box of our Choice Boneless Cod Fish.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY MAY 17, 1884.

Why don't you buy one of our 5 cent towels.

Donaldson & Brooks will do your painting for you.

Call on Wid Patterson for Paints, Oils, Varnishes &c.

We have some handsome patterns of floor or cloths.

Three cans of sweet corn for twenty-five cents. Take it in.

Wm. Leighty is having a new fence built around the hotel.

The young people had a party at the residence of Henry Jenkins on last Thursday evening.

August Kinsey has finished plastering his house and will move his family here in a few days.

While Quince Fusselman's horse was hitched in front of the store one day last week some one tied a large placard to it which read "Oats wanted, inquire within."

USE THE SILVER

BAKING POWDER

T pot T.

See our wall paper.

Kanned Korn only 10 cts.

Wm. Hellabaugh is building a new barn.

August Kinsey is selling lots of furniture. Call and see him.

John Widney will move to town in a couple of weeks.

Why do people use the Nimble Nickle soap? Because its the best.

Go to temperance meeting next Wednesday evening.

If you want to get any screen doors made call on Alex. Filley.

Dr. Bowman drove to Fort Wayne one day last week.

We sell the best corn planter in the market.

There will be an exhibition at Spencerville on one week from next Saturday evening.

Try a Box of our Choice Boneless Cod Fish.

Letter from C. O. Merica.

(continued from last week.)

Mr. Perrine is no longer teacher, being the manager of the Normal Book Store, a place where, to my astonishment I found Webster selling for $8.00, Chambers, ten volumes for $14.00, and so on all through the list, except text books, which are about the usual price. Many students rent their books there, which can be done at a cost of from 10 to 20 cents a term. I am told that there are fourteen hundred students in attendance this spring; yet, I do not find any of my classes too large. Lyman and Lung are in Brown's grammar class, which is said to be the largest—only about two hundred. But one is most surprised at the chapel. Every morning at the nine o'clock devotional exercises, a hall that will seat about eight hundred, is crowded with students; and then one stops and thinks that the other half didn't come this morning. Besides the devotional use of this meeting, in it are made all business announcements, and enquiries for lost articles. If anything from a shoe-battler to a stove-pipe hat is lost, all one has to do is to advertise in the chapel and the article "returneth again to its own home." Truly the school is a great one! Every thing is great, even the boarding halls are great—great frauds. No, they are not after all. Who could expect to "fare sumptuously" at 7 cents per meal? I am not so very lean yet; but if I were back to St. Joe, I think Mrs. Leighty or Miss Boyle would see that, after I became a little used to it I could eat about three times as much as before, a feat seemingly impossible. If I failed to do so at all other times, at meal time I would think of home and St. Joe. I have very few acquaintances here. One young man, a Mr. Grubb of Maysville; I esteem very much. He is one of the seniors in the commercial, and is said to be among the best in his class. Lyman is doing meritorious work, and, I am sure is receiving returns. He is one of the boys that, when persons in class say things that are vague and false, finds out the real meaning. But my article is already long, and begging the pardon of the people for using so much space in their valuable little paper, I remain as ever

Their friend and well-wisher,

Chas. O. Merica.

Cod Fish.

New straw hats.

Nobby New Shoes.

Silver Star Baking Powder.

Use National Dry Hop Yeast.

Charlie Shephard was in town last week.

Remember that we keep a supply of corn constantly on hand.

Several fine strings of fish have been caught in the river this week.

Remember we keep Nails, Forks, Rakes, Hoes, Spades, Shovels.

Three pounds of choice lard put up in a tin pail for 40 cents.

We have a splendid assortment of Ladies' Summer Gloves.

Say, by the way why don't you come in and see our wall paper, window curtains &c.

Examine our stock of Working Coats & Overalls.

We are having quite a trade on Nails. Don't forget us.

Fusselman & Moody shipped a car load of sheep to Buffalo this week.

Ves Wise of Spencerville is working for Wm. Leighty.

How is it about that fourth of July celebration? Are we going to have one?

It is time to wash and shear sheep. Buy your wool twine of us.

John Hamilton of Butler was upon our streets last Monday.

The supervisors are beginning to warn men out on the road to work out their taxes.

Call and see the Freemont Corn Cultivator. The best corn cultivator made. Buy no other.

Sol Barney talks of digging a cave so that in case a cyclone passes this way he will have a hole to crawl into.

Twenty-five persons from this place attended the temperance rally at Auburn last Saturday, and they all had a good time, too.

We are having quite a trade on Cheese Cloth. The ladies all say it makes the finest kind of summer dresses. We have sold all the first lot we bought but will have a new supply this week. Yard wide and only 6 cents per yard.

The other evening at temperance meeting some of the ladies happened to see a mouse running across the church toward them and it was real amusing to see how frightened they became. They acted as though they wanted to stand up on the seats. It's strange, isn't it, how one poor little mouse can frighten a half a dozen women.

This world is full of changes. Spring changes into summer, summer into autumn, autumn into winter and so on. Every thing changes more or less, but perhaps there is nothing changes so regular as the style of ladies' hats. Last year if you remember the style was a grate wide sun-shade, big enuf for a circus tent; this year the style makers nocked the old fashioned last year's sun-shade into a four storry hat, with the call the latest an hansomest stile for the seson of 1884. The above pictur represents one of them as neer as we cud git at it. The range all the way from 18 to 24 inches high, an the usually trim them with preserved sun-flowers, with now an then a band of black dress brade. A butifool effect can also be maid by puttin a bunch of live chicken fethers on the top of the hat. This is certainly the purtiest stile that hav had out fur years.

All Yours, Fur Stile,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Ladies' Kid Shoes for One Dollar.

Frank Dills was in town last Monday.

Farmers are unusual busy getting in their corn.

Remember the Strawberry and Ice Cream Festival in Leighty's orchard, St. Joe, on Friday evening, June 13, 1884. A splendid good time is expected. Should it rain it will be held in the Hall. The Jackson Cornet Band will be here.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, MAY 31, 1884.

No. 7.

Programme for temperance meeting on Wednesday evening June 4th, 1884.

- 1 Song.
  - 2 Prayer by W. C. Patterson.
  - 3 Song.
  - 4 Declamation by Nina Valley.
  - 5 Select Reading by Frank Walker.
  - 6 Duett by M. Bishop and Miss Lizzie Evans.
  - 7 Address by Prof. Holmes.
  - 8 Duett by Mattie White and Ida Boyle.
  - 9 Declamation by Mervyn Widney.
  - 10 Closing Song by the children.
- Music to be conducted by Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Olds and Miss Bartlett.

Another republican voter arrived at Vince Dilley's last Wednesday.

We got in another lot of National Yeast this week. Its the best.

We received a letter from Prof. Gordon last week. He is well and sends his regards to all his friends here.

Wire Clothes Lines used to sell for 5 cents a foot and now we can sell you 100 feet for 50 cents.

Joe Baker went to Hicksville yesterday to assist one of the barbers of that place.

H. K. Reynolds is now agent at this place, J. S. Davis having been transferred to Milford Junction. J. H. Trippe is back working at night again.

The Immortal J-N is in town to-day.

We are selling a splendid sugar for 6 cents.

Wm. Stauffer formerly agent at this place was in town Thursday.

Wool is beginning to come into market, and now prices prevail.

John McHugh will sell his household goods at auction next Monday.

Charlie Meek and wife will leave for their new home in Avilla next week.

Quite a heavy frost occurred through this section of country last Wednesday night.

The railroad bridge over Bear Creek near Concord came near burning down yesterday morning.

Quite a large number attended the Social at Mrs. Engle's last Friday evening, and they report having a splendid time.

Remember the next social will be held in Leighty's orchard, and the Jackson Township Cornet Band will be present. Strawberries and Ice Cream will be the bill of fare. Don't forget it.

The Decoration Day exercises were well carried out and due honor was paid to the memory of those who died in their country's defence. Rev. Stewart of Garrett was the speaker of the day, and the Jackson Township Cornet Band furnished the music.

Three cans of Standard Tomatoes for 25 cents.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

St. JOE, IND., SATURDAY MAY 31, 1894.

Sugars are cheap.

Politics are getting hot.

Please buy your fish of us.

The pay car went through one day last week.

Come in and see our stock of Ladies' Gloves and Mitts.

Commissioner B. D. Thomas of Garrett was in town last week.

Moulding to suit everybody for sale by M. T. Bishop.

T. S. Merica trustee of Keyser township, was in town a few hours one day last week.

George M. Williams and wife of Zanesville Ohio, were visiting in town last week, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Davis.

We have sold nearly 400 cases of fruits and vegetables this spring.

John Widney moved into town last week and thereby increased the population of St. Joe by an addition of seven inhabitants.

The De Kalb County Sunday School Convention will be held at Cornuda this year, on the 10th and 11th of June. An interesting programme has been arranged, and it is hoped as many as possible will attend.

We are having quite a trade on Cheese Cloth. The ladies all say it makes the finest kind of summer dresses. We have sold all the first lot we bought but will have a new supply this week. Yard wide and only 6 cents per yard.

The drink bill of this country last year is estimated at $750,000,000, and the number of criminals caused by the whiskey traffic is 500,000. The money squandered in drink and its consequences in Ohio alone in one year would buy lots and build comfortable houses for over 25,000 families. Just please Mr. Beer-drinker, set down and think about these startling facts.

Three cans of Standard Tomatoes for 25 cents.

John P. Widney and wife, of P. O. Box 10, were in the vicinity of the following relations.

Cal and John P. Widney, of the Widney family. The Widney family made the following relations.

Not much progress for several days, as the wind was destroying the crops and the ground.

We are still selling here in cans. Let's see, what is it? Let's see, very well, you can see it, and you are selling it.

Say, you can see it, and you are selling it. You can see it, and you are selling it. You can see it, and you are selling it.

Mrs. Hart of Gee, of Orangeville, after giving our lot of a fair trial, says it is the best tea they ever had in the house for the money. Try it.

Morris Widney is married. Morris is a splendid singer, and is acquainted with a great many different songs, but he will probably hear something new in the musical way, now.

Mueller, the brewer of Tiffin, Ohio, failed last week. He used to ship lots of beer into this part of the country, but we hope he is so badly smashed up that he will never do it again.

There are many cases of the results of the war. An illustration of this fact occurred at Hicksville only a few days ago. Five boys of that place, whose average age was about 11 years, boarded a freight train last Sunday and came to the place. From this point they made several stops, and at each stop a person will purchase tickets for Chicago, except one who became ill and had to return home. The other boys went to Chicago, where two of them were detained, and the other two, who were taken who were taken to the city and Chicago, they were taken to the city and Chicago. The other two, who were taken to the city and Chicago, they were taken to the city and Chicago.

The other two, who were taken to the city and Chicago, they were taken to the city and Chicago. The other two, who were taken to the city and Chicago, they were taken to the city and Chicago. The other two, who were taken to the city and Chicago, they were taken to the city and Chicago.

Ladies' Kid Skin Boots for Sale.

We are having a good time on Ladies' Glove. We are having a good time on Ladies' Glove.

We got in a lot of those handsome shoes in a week.

We sold twelve pairs of shoes last Saturday afternoon, and it wasn't a very good afternoon for shoes either. Call and see our stock before you buy your fourth of July shoes.

Call in and Examine our Fourth of July Shoes.

Evary town has sum partickular inducements to offer to thos who want to find a plesent place to lokate in, and while purhaps sum ov our naboring vilages ma boast ov the wonderful size an biting qualeties ov her bed bugs, St. Jo can walk rite awa from them in the way ov big muskeeteers. An ordinary muskeeteer is quite an invenshun but in order to fully appreshate a St. Jo bard ov the muskeeteer kind, one must here him sing an feal him bite. The lo, an wet land laying south-west ov St. Jo is pecurlerlarly adapted to the productshun ov large helthy blood thirsty muskeeteers, and on a summer eayning, as the sun is sinking to rest beneath the westearn horize, you will hear in the dim distance a band ov musick as it were, an as tha approach nearer an nearer you are so charmed that you forget evary thing else, until you feal a queer sensashun, as if sum one had stuck a pin into you clear up to the head; then purhaps if not before you wood realise that a muskeeteer had bit you. St. Jo muskeeteers grow to an enormous size: in fact we hurd a man say the other day that he saw two muskeeteers carrying off a young heifer, so you ma kno that the muskeeteers must bee purty large or the heifer must hav ben awful small. The abov photo is a life size painting ov a jenuwine full blooded St. Jo muskeeteer.

Yours Quite Tenderly,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Low rates to Chicago this week.

Mrs. Dr. Bowman spent last Sunday in Avilla.

Pay one of our Revolving Horse Hay Rakes. Prices the lowest.

Next week they will nominate the next president of the United States.

How are you off for soap? Just try the Nimble Nickle for dirt.

The farmers have got their corn nearly all planted.

Mell Bishop has had a big trade this week in Lumber and Shingles.

Buy a Kit of our (new catch) family White Fish.

J. M. Lounsberry and family spent last Sabbath in Fort Wayne.

Elder Stewart of Garrett delivered a very forcible temperance lecture at the church last Saturday evening.

The Sunday school at Concord will be held in the afternoon during the summer months.

C. A. Meek and his brother Frank will open up a grocery and restaurant at Avilla the first of next month. Charlie has many friends here who are sorry to see him leave, and we think they all join with us in wishing him success in his new enterprise.

JUNE

Full Line of Shirting, Denims, Ticks & Muslins.

ST. JOE NEWS.

Vol. 2.

SATURDAY, JUNE 14, 1884.

No. 8.

Programme for Temperance meeting to be held at the church on Wednesday evening June 18, 1884.

- 1 Song.
- 2 Prayer by Alex. Filley.
- 3 Song.
- 4 Declamation by Marshall Radsell.
- 5 Song by Effie Stamen.
- 6 Select Reading by Mrs. St. Jr.
- 7 Song by Mervin Widney and others.
- 8 Address by J. M. Lounsberry.
- 9 Song by Frank Hart.
- 10 Declamation by Andrew Reed.
- 11 Closing Song.

Music for the evening to be conducted by Misses Evans and Swineford.

We have plenty of corn for sale.

Come in and see us when you are in town. No trouble for us to show goods.

We have some medium sized feather dusters for 25 cents. Just the thing for family use.

Rev. E. K. Baker's next appointment will be one week from next Sunday at half past ten o'clock.

Quite a good deal of wheat is being brought to St. Joe. Prices ranging from 85 to 98 cents.

The inside of the depot has recently been surprised with a new coat of paint, which is quite an improvement.

Wanted, 500 families to use the wonderful T pot T.

S. & F. Barney shipped a car load of wool this week.

Dr. Bowman is expected home the latter part of this month.

A traveling photograph gallery is talking of locating in our town. Plenty of room.

St Joe is paying more for country produce than many of the neighboring towns.

It is currently reported that a wedding will take place in town in the near future.

We want your trade and will offer you such inducements as will make it profitable for you to deal with us.

The new iron bridge over Bear Creek at this place has arrived, and will be put into position in a few days.

The town was full of people Wednesday evening, to hear Mrs. Wilson lecture on the subject of temperance, but for some unknown cause the lady failed to put in an appearance.

There was a remarkable sudden change in the weather last Monday afternoon. One minute people were wiping the sweat off of their brows and the next minute they were hunting for a hot stove.

Standard Quart Fruit Jars Reduced to 75 cents.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY JUNE 14, 1884.

Rah for Blaine.

Try the National Yeast.

Shall we celebrate the Fourth.

Trade with us and thereby save money.

Wilson Lawhead is the daddy of a boy.

Above every thing else don't neglect to try our T pot T.

We received another lot of white fish this week. Catch a kit.

Don't forget us when you get ready to buy a pair of shoes or slippers.

When you see a person going by with a big bundle done up in a newspaper, you can look out to see that same person wearing a new hat about the next Sunday.

Two young men from Hicksville have rented the the bakery of Mart Testison and will supply the citizens of St. Joe with fresh bread, pies, cakes &c. Give them your patronage.

These hard times it is right and proper that you should buy the necessities of life at as low a figure as they can be had. We are selling a pound of choice tea put up in a good two quart tea pot for 50 cents. The tea we guarantee to be as good as can be bought any where for 50 or 60 cents, and the tea pot is just such as they retail at all tin stores for 25 cents, while we offer you both for 50 cents, thus saving you from fifty to seventy per cent on the dollar. If you want to economise and save money buy the T pot T.

Our prices on Hay Forks and Pulleys are worthy of your attention. Call and see about it.

When you need printing done remember the poor—thats us.

Only a few persons from this vicinity attended the old settler's meeting at Waterloo last week.

Our trade on shoes has been better this spring than ever before since we have been in business. Examine our stock before you purchase. It will pay.

Arch Ellison formerly barber at this place was in town last week shaking hands with his many friends.

Alex. Filley has made a prescription case for W. C. Patterson which is hard to beat in point of design and beauty of finish. Alex. is a first class workman and when he undertakes to do any thing he does it right.

Try a Tea Pot Full of our Wonderful T Pot T.

The trees that were set out along our streets only a few years ago are growing nicely and are already beginning to add to the beauty of our town. There ought to be some trees set out upon the school grounds.

John McHugh has moved his family into the Bohls house.

Wire Clothes Lines used to sell for 5 cents a foot and now we can sell you 100 feet for 50 cents.

Buy one of our Revolving Horse Hay Rakes. Prices the lowest.

Will a mule kick? We are not able to answer that question from personal experience, but we really think he would if he could find anything to kick at.

Mell Bishop was up in Michigan a few days last week buying lumber.

Our constant aim is to get such goods as will please our customers and to sell them at the lowest price possible. One price to everybody is our way of doing business. Try us once.

Prof. Holmes of Spencerville delivered an interesting address at the last temperance meeting. He presented some new ideas in a way that impressed his hearers with the importance of being wide awake, earnest, active and above all consistent workers in the temperance cause. Come again.

We are selling a splendid sugar for 6 cents.

How are you off for soap? Just try the Nimble Nickle for dirt.

Buy a Kit of our (new catch) family White Fish.

David Murray of Newville was in town last week.

Miss Libbie Erick of Middleberry Ind., was in town visiting friends last week.

Ves Wise has moved family up to St. Joe and occupies the Walker house.

Alex. Filley is giving his house a new coat of paint which adds much to its appearance.

William Seely, trustee of Newville township was on our streets one day last week.

Nimble Nickle stands for the best and biggest cake of soap in the market for 5 cents.

Alex. Donaldson is building a fine dwelling house for George Webster on his farm north of Newville.

O. H. Windey carried around a black eye last week. He got it in a legitimate way however, a calf having kicked him.

Full Line of Shirting, Denims, Ticks & Muslins.

Ba, did you evar take a girl tu an
 I scream an Strawberry Festival? Well
 I did, but I'll neaver do it agin. You sea this was the wa it cum tu happen:
 Ther's a tolerbel gud looking girl up on Porke Avenew that is mashed on me, and it bein leap year she tuk the liburty ov askin me tu go with her tu a Festaval. I did'nt hav any thing fit tu ware, but I cood'nt refuse, so I said I'd go.
 She came around fer me at seven o'clock an we went. I had a gud tyme awl along until it cum tyme fer refreshments an then I sea trubel ahead. The girl was a grate lover ov i scream, but she had forgot her pocket book, an it fell upon me tu fut the bill. I wood'nt hav minded it at awl if she had let up with nine or ten dishes, but she did'nt, she kept rite on mowing it awa, until I becum alarmed, not about the girl, but on account ov the low state ov mi finances.
 Finaly tha run out ov i scream an she had tu quit. I tuk her home an promised myself neaver tu be tuk in that wa agin az long az I had gud cts.

Your Humbel Servant,
 Barons Q. Hippenhammer.

Only three weeks until the fourth of July.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dills of Auburn were in town last Sunday.

Mrs. B. S. Sheffer spent last Sunday with friends in Waterloo.

The brick layers commenced work on Mr. Currie's house this week.

Rev. Frank Hussey has returned from the east and will preach at the church next Sunday evening. All are invited.

Rev. Jewel of Newville, preached at the church last Monday evening. He will also preach here again on Monday evening June 23, 1884.

Mrs. Mort Milliman presented us with some of the largest strawberries this week, that we have ever seen. They was'nt quite as big as a tea cup, but they were "whoppers," I tell you.

Two of our citizens while walking along the river bank the other day were somewhat frightened upon seeing just before them in the path a snake. They dodged back, and hastily picked up a large club apiece and advanced to meet their deadly foe. It was a fierce battle, but our two brave citizens came out victorious and the venomous reptile lay dead at their feet. It was found upon measuring it to be thirteen and half inches long.

Full Line of Shirting, Denims, Ticks & Muslins.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, JUNE 28, 1884.

No. 9.

There is a circus at Hicksville next Monday.

We have some handsome new ties suitable for the Fourth.

It will pay as well as please you to buy your shoes at the Nimble Nick.

Ask Bill Leighty if he has seen any thing of his hip pocket.

Mrs. J. D. Leighty and son John visited with friends in Cherubusco this week.

Shamo & Greer, proprietors of the Globe Bakery at this place are turning out an excellent quality of bread.

Any one desiring a programme of the Island Park Assembly at Rome City can get it by calling at our store.

Ask W. H. Simonten where he was when Squire Walborn called upon him last week.

Wm. Leighty lost his pocket book the other morning, and they searched the premises all over and finally found it in his overall's pocket.

The following notice is posted over the door of the freight room at this place: "An onest man dise in de poo hous." Trappe probably done the spelling.

At the last temperance meeting it was thought best not to hold any more meetings until after the warm weather, as people were all busy and the evenings were so short that the attendance was not as large as usual.

Programme for the Fourth of July at St. Joe.

Social in the Afternoon.

Refreshments served from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Musical Entertainment at 8 o'clock.

Fireworks at 9 o'clock.

A large fireworks balloon will be sent up.

The orchard will be beautifully illuminated with Japanese lanterns.

All are invited.

Say, have you seen any thing of Susie Brown?

We have a few Parasols which we will sell at a bargain.

Alex. Donaldson has a sister visiting him from Pennsylvania.

Come to St. Joe on the Fourth of July and get your picture taken.

Frank Barney has been at Indianapolis this week attending the state convention.

We received yesterday a few pieces of Dress Gingham and Prints. Call and get you a new Fourth of July dress.

People still continue to buy our T pot. We got in a fresh supply this week. Only 50 cents for a pound of choice tea, and a good home-made tea-pot.

In order to give us time and opportunity to get our harvesting done we shall discontinue the publication of this paper until the first of August.

Full Line of Shirting, Denims, Ticks & Muslins.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY JUNE 28, 1884.

Remember that we sell Men's overalls "orfully" cheap.

Bill Shilling talks of buying out Milt Chaney's Meat Market.

The thermometer was up, among the 'ninties most of the time last week.

There was 101 scholars at Sunday school last Sunday.

We received another lot of Cheese Cloth this week.

Wm. Shutt & Co. delivered a car load of Champion machines at this station last week.

W. H. Calkins of Laporte received the nomination for governor at the Republican convention held at Indianapolis last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren of Illinois were visiting with their sister Mrs. Reed last week. Mr. Byerly of Pennsylvania, a brother of Mrs. Reed's also made a her brief visit.

Get one of our palm fans and keep cool.

William Hollabaugh will put a slate roof on his barn.

We shall hereafter keep a supply of cheese on hand.

Go to the "Globe Bakery" for fresh bread, cakes, pies &c.

Chris Currie will have one of the best houses in this part of the country when completed.

John Robinson's Menagerie and Circus exhibits at Auburn on Thursday, July 3, 1884. Don't fail to miss it.

The prospect throughout this section of the country for wheat, oats and grass is very encouraging, and corn is looming up wonderfully.

J. S. Davis was hurriedly called home from Milford Junction one night last week, on the account of the arrival of a young telegraph operator at his house.

We have an abundance of ladies shoes notwithstanding the large number of pairs we have sold in the last few weeks. Come and see us.

Jacob Walborn of Auburn was in town one day last week, looking up his interests as a candidate for treasurer before the democratic county convention.

Hand Park Assembly at Rome City will open July 5th, and continue in session until the 29th. Those who can go, will find this a pleasant and profitable resort at which to spend a few days.

Full Line of Shirting, Denims, Ticks & Muslins.

We made a visit to the brick yard one day last week, and found the boys all hard at it. Mr. Hart has a kiln of one hundred and fifty thousand brick almost ready to burn. Those in need of brick will do well to consult Mr. Hart before buying.

J. D. Leighty attended the State Convention at Indianapolis last week.

Hugh Culbertson of Auburn was in the city last week.

The high bridge over the railroad at the west end of town has at last been removed.

We sold twelve kits of fish last week.
It will pay you to go to the Nimble
Nickle store for fish.

A lady was canvassing the town last week for a patent ironing board.

The photograph gallery has arrived, and pitched its tent on the vacant lot north of Brooks' shoe shop.

We want your trade and will offer you such inducements as will make it profitable for you to deal with us.

We have some medium sized feather dusters for 25 cents. Just the thing for family use.

The social held at Leighty's orchard was like pvery thing else the St. Joe people undertake to do, a decided success. There was a whole town full of people here, and although it was a cool evening they gobbled down the ice cream and strawberries as though they never had seen any before. The net receipts was about $17.00.

The Fourth of July will soon dawn upon us and of course, you along with the rest of the American people will want to celebrate. And you won't want to go tearing around in a strange place without something new to wear. The ladies will want new dresses, ties, ribbons, laces, gloves, parasols, shoes, fans &c. The gentlemen will want new shoes, hats, collars, bows, scarfs &c. And are you aware my kind friend, that the best and cheapest place to buy these articles is at the Nimble Nick store. If you aint why don't you.

Full Line of Shirting, Denims, Ticks & Muslins.

W. C. Patterson was at Butler last Wednesday.

Remember we are selling Revolving Hay Rakes for $3.75.

Dr. Bowman returned from New York last Monday evening.

Alex. Filley's brother from Michigan, has been visiting with him this week.

P. A. Shirts went to Garrett Wednesday to work for the B & O.

Don't go without pies when you can buy pie peaches for 10 cents per can. Fresh supply just received.

Don't forget the social in Leighty's orchard on the Fourth of July. It will be a grand good time.

Plenty of ice cream and lemonade in Leighty's orchard on the fourth of July. Fireworks in the evening.

If you want to keep your hands from chapping get a cake of our Pine Tar Soap.

Chambrays are being worn quite a good deal this season. We have a line of them in all the fashionable shades.

P. Bishop of Spencerville went to Springfield, Ohio last Tuesday morning, to attend the commencement exercises of Wittenberg College.

There will be a Quarterly Review Concert and Children's Meeting at the church next Sunday evening, (June 29th, 1884.) Rev. Frank Hussey will be present and make a practical application of each lesson in the quarter. All are invited. Special seats reserved for the children.

A girl is sweet,
But oh how bitter

The same girl is
Wen her clothes dobt fit hur.
In mi last letter, if you remember I told ov a girl wat was mashed on me, but lo an beehold' you things hav tak a change, an now I am mashed. I hed promised miself not tu hav eny thing moor tu du with the femail sect but I cood'nt help it; and as the poet says "luv concored me an I was a goner." I met her on the street an hur exquisit buty an luvliness at once captivated mi young an tender hart. I purposed, was accepted, an in the stilly autum, wen the muskeeters are all ded, we will bea maid one. The abov photograph shows how the girl looked the day I met hur. It was truly a case ov luv at first site. Mi happanes is compleat, mi cup ov joy is ful an running ovar. No moor sewing on pance buttons fur me.

Yours in Matrimony,
Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

AUGUST

We received a New Arrival of Shoes this week.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 16, 1884.

No. 10.

We will sell you a good Fanning Mill for $7.00

Russ Kopp was at Michigan City last Thursday.

Mrs. Dr. Mitchell of Logonier was in town this week visiting friends.

D. D. Moody will speak here Saturday evening, and organize a Cleveland and Hendricks Club.

Quite a number from this place attended the convention at Auburn yesterday.

We got in a supply of handsome new dress prints this week. Something new and nobby in small checks and plaids.

Daniel Cowhick a prominent citizen of Hicksville, shot himself in the head last Wednesday morning, causing almost instant death.

Robert Oulbertson, W. C. Patterson and Samuel Widney are delegates to the Senatorial Convention to be held at Pleasant Lake on Friday, Aug. 29th.

Do you thing of buying a grain drill this fall? If so call and see the Superior Drill. It is one of the best there is made and the price is low.

The St. Joe Blaine & Logan Club will meet Saturday evening in Leighty's Hall. Members as well as all those who expect to join are requested to be present, as business of importance is to be transacted.

Miss Lizzie Evans is quite sick.

Moody speaks at Spencerville Monday evening.

Several ladies from Spencerville were entertained by Mrs. Dr. Bowman yesterday.

It will soon be Fair time, and of course you will want a new dress. We received some new goods this week especially adapted for fair dresses. Ahem!

In order to supply the demand for our T pot T we now offer it at 35 cents per pound without the teapot, or 50 cents with the teapot. The demand for this T is on the increase. Try it.

Charlie Grubb attended a wedding on Thursday evening. Whether it was his own or not we are not able to say, but we have heard it whispered that he was talking quite seriously of entering the state of matrimony.

We received a supply of Ladies' Canvas Belts this week, both in black and white. They are worn a great deal, and are hard to find; we only have a few and they are selling quite rapidly. Call and see them and buy one.

O. S. Blood of Newville township received the nomination for Commissioner of this district by a majority of one vote. John L. Davis of Auburn was nominated for Treasurer. We were unable to learn the other nominations before going to press.

Try Our Genuine White Elephant Plug Tobacco.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Giss, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware, etc.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, AUGUST 16, 1884.

Nice weather.

Sugars cheaper.

Picnics are plenty.

Try J T Plug Tobacco.

Politics are getting hot.

Hurrah for Laine & Bogan.

The days are growing shorter.

Mad Meek has his house nearly completed.

Dr. Bowman is getting material on the ground for an up ground cellar.

Flying kites seems to be the favorite kind of amusement among the boys now-a-days.

Have you heard about our tea—that we mean our T pot of. Just please give it a trial.

Give the Burch Plow a trial before you buy any other. It has recently improved until it now ranks among the best plows in the market.

Several couples from this place attended the Birthday Surprise Party given in honor of Mrs. Henry Coburn of Newville, on Thursday afternoon of last week. It was a complete surprise to Mrs. Coburn, and a very pleasant and enjoyable occasion to those who were present.

The peach crop of Delapaire this year will reach 4,000,000 bushels.

George Bleeks has a hen that has a brood of 30 chickens.

Wheat is turning out from 20 to 35 bushels per acre.

Vester Widney sold 250 cigars at the Coburntown picnic. Vester is working up quite a trade in the cigar business.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowen of Attica, Ohio, spent part of last week in town visiting their daughter Mrs. H. K. Reynolds.

Work will be commenced on the new iron railroad bridge to be built over Bear Creek at Concord in a few days.

Don't you think it will pay you to see our stock of Boots & Shoes before you buy? Try us and we'll make it pay.

Lynnan Knight returned home from Valparaiso last week, where he has been during the past three months attending school.

J. S. Davis is no longer night operator at this place. A new man whose name we were unable to learn now occupies the position. Since the foregoing item was set up the night operator at this point, whose name we did not learn, has been removed and J. S. Davis again handles the keys. Future changes will be noted as they occur.

Full Line of Shirting, Denims, Ticks & Muslins.

How to get your fall plowing done easy? Buy a Burch Plow.

There will be a Sunday school picnic at Spencerville next Thursday.

For Pure Cider Vinegar go to the Nimble Nickle store.

H. K. Reynolds the present agent at this place is a "reputable" man. Rather strange is it.

If you want to keep your hands from chapping get a cake of our Pine-Tar soap. It is boss of the walk.

Through the failure of the lumber firm of Hallup & Hamilton of Kendallville, George Blocks has about $300 and William Stamen $200.

Frank Boyle went to Egerton last week to work in a barber shop. He got home-sick however, and came back the same day he went.

People still continue to buy our T pot T. We got in a fresh supply this week. Only 50 cents for a pound of choice tea, and a good home-made tea-pot.

Will Carrie is now proprietor of the upper meat market, having purchased it last week of Clide Woodcock. Billy is one of our own home boys, and is deserving of patronage.

A Blaine & Loren Club has been organized at this place with the following officers:

T. D. Meese, President.
J. B. Lounsberry, Vice President.
M. T. Bishop, Secretary.
W. C. Patterson, Treasurer.

The Club will number from 75 to 100 members, and will probably have uniforms composed of coats, caps and torches.

Bear in mind that we carry a stock of Bales.

We have plenty of good home made lard for sale.

John Widney has his house ready for the plasterers.

Try our dead end Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap.

P. A. Shirts moved his family to Garrett last week.

If you need printing of any kind on us. We will do it neat and cheap.

The Burch Plow is the plow that you can rely upon to do your work in a satisfactory manner.

The prospects are encouraging for fall crop of corn at least, and should the frosts stay off until late there will be quite a yield throughout this section.

We received a New Arrival of Shoes this week.

On last Sabbath evening Rev. Frank Hussey preached his last sermon here before going to conference, and as he does not expect to be returned to this charge, it will in all probability be the last time he will preach here, for years at least. Rev. Hussey has many warm friends here who are sorry to see him leave.

Mrs. Mad Meek is visiting friends at Avilla.

The Butler grist mill burned down one night last week.

We don't want you to forget that the Nimble Nickle soap is the best soap to buy.

Miss Cora White returned home from a visit among relatives in Ohio, last week.

We printed some circulars for August Kinsey last week, advertising his large stock of furniture.

J. M. Lounsberry had the misfortune to let a heavy piece of timber fall upon his foot last week, which laid him up for a couple of days.

A camel will work seven or eight days without drinking. In this he differs from some men, who will drink seven or eight days without working.

The social held at the residence of Mr. Evans on Thursday evening of last week, for the benefit of Rev. Frank Hussey was largely attended; in fact, there was't room for any more. The evening was spent in social and friendly conversation after which lunch was served. It was a pleasant occasion.

For President
BENJAMIN LEIGHTY
of St. Joe.

For Vice President.
BARCUS Q. HIPPENHAMMER
of Porke Avenew.

I feel rejoiced to hav the plasure of givin tu this grate mashun another presidential ticket, an one wich will no dout bea suckcessfool, if it gets enuf voats. I clame that this is the best ticket that has ben histed befour the american people. The man who heads this ticket has a politikal reccord that is as brite as the bottum side ov a tea kettel, as spotless as a turkey red hankercheaf and as lasting as a ripe watter mellon. He has alwus stuck tu his party wen evar he nu whare it wus, an now he wants his party tu stiek tu him. He is solud on the tarrif guestshun, a strong prohighbishanest, dont chew nor smoak, and ways about 201 pounds. No man can refuze tu support him on account ov his politicks, becaws he has'nt got eny. He is the only perfect condidate in the feald. Modesty forbids that we say much ov the tale end ov this ticket; it is a tolerable delicate matter to brag up one's own qualificashuns, but we feel safe in saying that the tale will carry New Yorke and Indiana, an if the head can carry the balance ov the stais, we wil bea victorins. Hurraw fur us!

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

MARRIED: at the Methodist parsonage in Spencerville, by Rev. Frank Hussey, on Thursday evening August 5th, 1884, Mr. Tell Elson to Miss Emma Jenkins.

Examine our stock of Ladies' & Children's Shoes.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 30, 1884.

No. 11.

Frank Sechler met with quite an accident last Tuesday afternoon. He was hauling logs in a clearing and had his team hitched to three small logs about 12 or 14 feet long and in drawing them to a log-heap near by, one of them caught on a root and flew around and struck him the back part of the head, knocking him down and causing the blood to flow from his nose and ears. It was thought at first that he was seriously injured, but he recovered from the effects of the shock and is now much better. It was a close call.

Good corn weather.

Mater Melons are plenty.

Wheat is bringing 75 cents.

Examine our stock of Men's Hats.

Wes Hart burned another kiln of brick this week.

Mad Meeks and wife have been at Chicago this week.

Mrs. H. K. Reynolds is visiting friends in Attica, Ohio.

We shall open up a stock of Clothing next week. Call and see it.

Frank Walker got badly kicked by a horse on Wednesday evening.

Fishing in the St. Joe river is good now; that is it is a good time to fish but a poor time to catch any thing.

Hursh's Best Family Flour reduced to $1.20 per sack.

Call on Vester Widney for Campaign Badges. New supply just received.

Wes Hart offers brick for sale at a gre at bargain. See him before you buy.

The Jackson Band will give a social in Boot's grove Saturday evening.

George Willmot has been quite sick this week, but is somewhat better now.

T. P. Keator, candidate for Congressman from this district, was in town last Thursday.

Mahlon Baker's little baby died on Thursday night. The funeral occurred on Friday afternoon.

The Republican Club will meet for drill Saturday evening. All members are requested to be present.

We had more items than we could get into the our little paper this week, so we had to print a supplement. Read it.

You have to get up in the morning when you find any one that can beat Billy Currie on an off hand shot. He went out to kill a beef the other day, and they got the animal cornered up and Billy got the muzzle of his gun up against the steer's head and fired, an sir, for an honest fact, he missed the whole business.

Six cans of Choice Table Peaches for One Dollar.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door!

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY AUGUST 30, 1884.

T pot T.

Eggs 14 cts.

Price our sugars.

Use the N. N. Soap.

See our new dress prints.

Try the Nation Dry Hop Yeast.

Martial bands are getting numerous.

Preaching in the church Sunday evening by Rev. Baker.

We always keep a supply of cheese on hand.

J. H. Conrad received a lot of new novelties in tinware last week. Call and see them.

Dave Howey and wife of Montpelier, Ohio, visited with friends in this vicinity last week.

John Davis attended the soldier's reunion at Fort Wayne last Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. John Davis left last Tuesday morning to visit friends in the eastern part of Ohio. She expects to be absent about three weeks.

Politics got heated up among the small boys of St. Joe last week. The little republican boys went to the woods and brought in a pole about 65 feet long, and after a good deal of whooping and hurrahing, and a couple of dog fights, they stood it on end, and swung to the breeze a flag upon which was inscribed the name of the man who they expected to honor with their votes. No sooner had the last shovelful of dirt been deposited around the roots of this republican sapling, until the young democracy began to flap their wings, and they flew to the woods, and of course they lit upon a hickory tree. They cut it down, hauled it into town, and with boyish enthusiasm they hoisted a pole which would have been a credit to older heads. No name was inscribed upon their streamer, but the pole, as well as the racket they made plainly indicated who the man was that should receive their support at the coming election. The republican youngsters claim to have the highest pole, while the democrat boys think they have the straightest.

Mr. and Mrs. Florence Buchanan attended the Methodist Conference at Kendallville last week.

Why is it that so many people buy their shoes of us?

1st. Because we have a large variety to select from.

2nd. We are always able to fit the foot perfectly.

3rd. We aim to carry a good quality of goods.

4th. Our prices are reasonable.

5th. Call and see our stock and learn our prices. No trouble at all for us to show our goods.

Good Housekeepers all use the National Yeast.

The following testimonial is from a well known citizen of this county in regard to the curative powers of Ferrell's Conqueror of Pain as a remedy for Rheumatism.

Spencerville, Ind., Aug. 15, 1884.

I desire to tender my grateful acknowledgments for the great benefit I derived from the use of your Rheumatism Medicine. Two applications gave me perfect relief. I can with pleasure recommend it to the public.

S. S. Shutt.

If you want good bread use the National Yeast.

On Monday and Tuesday of last week we sold twenty one dress patterns.

Jimmie Ryan talks of taking the stump for Ben Leighty.

We printed two thousand circulars and labels for Ferrell & Draggoo last week.

Get a bottle of Brown's Shoe Polish for ladies' shoes. It is the best in the market. We keep it.

Five years ago there was but one organ in St. Joe, while to-day there are twenty two. Quite an increase.

John Henderson will have a colt show at Spencerville on Saturday, September 13, 1884. Lovers of good stock are requested to be present.

In order to supply the demand for our T pot T we now offer it at 35 cents per pound without the teapot, or 50 cents with the teapot. The demand for this T is on the increase. Try it.

New arrival of Fine Jewelry at the drug store. Go and see it.

We are the house that sells you the best goods for the least money.

Don't you want a new calico dress; we have some handsome new prints.

We got in another supply of "Old Peaches" Plug Tobacco this week. It is a good one.

The democrats have fitted up Barney's old store room in which to hold the meetings of their club.

Joe Baker is a great fellow for improvements. The latest thing he has is a patent fly roost.

The Globe Bakery of St. Joe is no more, it having died last week of an empty pocket book.

Miss Swayne of Fort Wayne delivered a very interesting talk upon the subject of temperance, at the church on Thursday evening of last week.

The democrats organized a Cleveland & Hendrick's club at this place last Saturday evening and elected the following officers: C. C. Walters president, C. H. Brown recording secretary, Sol Barney treasurer, Mahlon Baker sergeant-at-arms.

John Knight, son of Wm. Knight living near Concord, wanted to have some fun last Saturday, so he took a bottle and put some powder in it and touched it off. The bottle went off and so did he. Although it did not result in any thing serious it might have been otherwise, and should be a warning to boys not to fool with loaded bottles.

SUPPLEMENT.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 30, 1884.

Next Monday is the first day of September.

We are selling a nice yellow sugar for 6 cents.

J. H. Conrad has put up nearly 4000 feet of spouting since the first of March.

We guarantee our $2.50 boot to be all whole stock.

Mell Bishop has already sold this season 700 barrels of lime.

We have the best boot in the market for $2.50. Examine it.

We have some comic advertising cards which we will print cheap. They are a splendid advertising medium.

The Democrat Club attended a pole raising in Stafford township last Wednesday evening.

There were 100 empty freight cars standing on the side tracks at this place last week.

Remember that we can give you good goods at prices that will make you feel rich.

Our assortment of 'Ladies' and Children's Hose is generally complete, and our prices are always reasonable.

The new minister to take the place of Rev. Hussey, will preach at the church in this place on one week from next Sunday evening.

Don't buy tickets for the east, west, north or south until you call and get our rates. The B. & O. is prepared to furnish them at the lowest possible rate. If you think of going on a trip, do not purchase your tickets until you see H. K. Reynolds, agent B. & O., St. Joe, Ind.

1
SEPTEMBER

---

Call and see our stock of Men's & Boys' Clothing.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1884.

No. 12.

The Hicksville Fair will be held week after next.

Dr. Bowman is building an addition to his house.

Mrs. Widney has moved into the rooms over Testison's grocery.

The republicans will raise a pole at Orangeville some night next week.

There was an ice cream social at Co-burn's Corners last Wednesday night.

Doll Kester is putting the finishing touches on to John Widney's house this week.

We hope everybody will examine our stock of clothing before they make their fall purchases.

Remember we have just opened up a stock of new clothing. No old shoddy goods. All fresh and new.

Jimmie Ryan will speak up on Porke Avenue some evening next week. Every body turn out.

They have another new night operator at the depot. J. S. Davis the former one is breaking on the local.

H. K. Reynolds has turned over a new leaf and now gets up every morning at eight o'clock.

The democrats will have a grand rally and pole raising at St. Joe on Wednesday evening, Sept. 17, 1884. Judge O'Rourke, and Wm. Shambaugh of Fort Wayne, and several prominent speakers from Ohio will address the people. Turn out everybody.

T. P. Keator, republican candidate for congressman, will speak to people of this vicinity on Monday evening, Sept. 22, 1884. There will also be a pole raising and a grand torchlight procession. The Hicksville Glee Club will sing. Don't forget the time.

The Nimble Nickle soap is just as nimble as ever. Try it.

We shall have some handsome new dress prints the first of next week.

Communion services in the church next Sunday at half past ten o'clock.

John Widney would like to have the man who stole his bridle come back and get the horse.

Burton Green of Auburn will address the democratic club at this place on next Saturday evening.

Don't forget the Nimble Nick store when you need Overalls. We have the the best quality at the lowest price.

Did you ever set down on a yellow jacket's nest? Mart Testison did the other day, but he got right straight up again.

Joe Knisely was made shouting happy the other morning on account of a baby boy that commenced to board at his house.

Rev. Lineberry, the new pastor of the Methodist church preached an interesting sermon in the church at this place on last Sunday evening, to a large and attentive audience. He will preach again in two weeks.

Call and see our stock of Men's & Boys' Clothing.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY SEPT. 13, 1884.

Dog days.

Butter is scarce.

See our "cloddings"

Elderberry pie is ripe.

Try a pair of our $2.50 boot.

Examine our clothing before you buy.

We have knocked the tariff off our prices.

Wonder who is to be principal of the St. Joe schools this winter?

Wes Hart will ship all of his brick to Chicago if he can secure a low shipping rate to that point.

A republican wagon load of young folks from this place attended a picnic near Butler last Saturday.

Wm. Stamen talks of trading his property in this place for Wm Cahill's farm. Should he trade however, he will not move out of town but will probably build another house at once.

We have the best boot in the market for $2.50. Examine it.

Remember that we can give you good goods at prices that will make you feel rich.

Gas Hall will move on to a farm near Waterloo next week, and Vince Dilley will move into the house where he now lives.

It is our duty to keep the public posted on matters of interest, consequently we hereby inform the readers of this paper that Alex Filley has built a pig pen.

We received a new supply of black ladies' belts, that is we mean the belts are black, not the ladies. They won't last long, that is we mean our supply will soon be gone.

The democratic club from this place attended a pole raising one mile north of Newville on last Thursday night. They had a band of music and three four horse wagon loads of people and made a fine appearance. Gen. Blair of Waterloo was the speaker and those who were present say he delivered a very able and interesting speech.

Burglars entered the store of Olds & Carnes at Spencerville one night last week and helped themselves to a lot of cutlery, cigars, tobacco and what change there was in the money drawer, amounting to perhaps about twenty five or thirty dollars. They got in by cutting out the glass and raising the window. Should you see any thing of the rascals, shoot them.

Examine our stock of Ladies' & Children's Shoes.

There was a large crowd of people in town on Wednesday evening of last week to witness the drill of the St. Joe Blaine & Logan club. The Spencerville club was also present and with their fine uniforms they made a splendid appearance. Baker Brother's band assisted by Mart Bodey and others filled the air with music, and the people with patriotism.

Try our t pot t.

Our assortment of Men's Shoes is complete and we are just as anxious to sell as we used to be.

Try our t pot t.

Don't buy tickets for the east, west, north or south until you call and get our rates. The B. & O. is prepared to furnish them at the lowest possible rate. If you think of going on a trip, do not purchase your tickets until you see H. K. Reynolds, agent B. & O., St. Joe, Ind.

Try our t pot t.

Our assortment of Ladies' and Children's Hose is generally complete, and our prices are always reasonable.

Try our t pot t.

There has been somewhat of a change in the mail route running through here from Fort Wayne to Butler. The hack now comes up from Fort Wayne on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, instead of going down on these days as it formerly did. The change was made in order that Mr. Phillips who lives at Fort Wayne could be at home over Sundays.

Try our t pot t.

Examine our stock of Men's Hats.

Sol Barney was at Kendallville last week.

John Widney's house will be ready to move into in a couple of weeks.

We are selling a nice yellow sugar for 6 cents.

We guarantee our $2.50 boots to be all whole stock.

Ben Zimmerman came home from Michigan last week.

T pot T without teapot 35 cents per pound. Try it.

Hursh's Best Family Flour reduced to $1.20 per sack.

If the frosts stay off a couple of weeks longer we will have a pretty fair crop of corn.

We have some comic advertising cards which we will print cheap. They are a splendid advertising medium.

If you want to buy some Towels dirt cheap call on the Nimble Nickle "teller." Prices range from 5 to 25 cents.

Although there are two good livery barns in this place, yet it is not enough at times to supply the demand. Last week two or three days there was no rigs to be had at all.

David Butler one of the old settlers of this county, died at the old farm residence near Spencerville on Wednesday afternoon of last week, and was buried on the following Friday.

Call and see our stock of Men's & Boys' Clothing.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Widney gave a party at their residence in St. Joe, on last Friday afternoon, in honor of the birthday anniversary of their little granddaughter, Cora Sechler. Quite a number of her little friends had been invited among whom were the following: Mattie Testison, Cora Widney, Bessie Patterson, Rettie and Katie Bishop, Lina Sheffer, May Leighty, Nena Leighty, Anna Sechler, Elnora Sechler, Francis Sechler and Jennie Baltz. The little folks played and talked and enjoyed themselves as children only can. Bye-and-bye Mrs. Widney called and said "Supper is ready" and then their little eyes began to sparkle, and as they marched in and took their seats around that table loaded down with good things, their bright, happy, smiling faces told but too plainly that their happiness was complete. May little Cora as well as all the other little girls who were present live to see many happy returns of the day.

Picnic at Concord next Saturday.

Wm. Shambaugh spoke at Spencerville Monday night.

Before you buy winter clothing for your boys see us.

The Blaine & Logan club will drill Saturday night.

The democrat club received 100 torches this week.

You can go to Chicago and return this week for $3.15.

The night operator got a bug in his ear the other evening. Dr. Bowman took it out.

It wus tu hot last weak fur ena use. I wantad tu take a trip up tu the north pole but the editer he wus anchus tu hav a fotograf ov our candidates for president an vise president in his papar this weak, so I stade at home. The abov likenesses I drawed frum life. One ov them is Mr. Benjamin Lickty, the great-reformer and litening bucher, an the other one is me, an fur the life ov me I cant tell wich is wich. The first one loks the most like me in the face but his body is two big around the waste fur me. I gues I must have intended the pickture on the rite fur miself, altho the nose is a trifel large an the mouth dos not du me justice: however it dont matter jist so we get enuf voats tu be elected this fall. Thats what we want an we want it bad two.

Your Obediant Servant,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

G. B. Fur feer that sum ov our opponents ma try tu mar our past reckord by saying that owing tu domestick troubles we wer bald headed, I wood jist say that in drawing these fotoes I forgot tu put eny hare on their heads.

Call and see our stock of Men's & Boys' Clothing.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1884.

No. 13.

Frost.

Eggs 15 cts.

Butter 15 cents.

Hip! Hip! Hurrah!

The pumpkin crop is big.

John Hull is now a father.

Only five weeks until the election.

Mrs. John Davis returned home yesterday.

When you want a new suit of clothes call at the Nimble Nick clothing store.

Somebody stole 6 cans of cherries out of Wm. Leighty's cellar the other night.

J. H. Conrad can make any thing from a tin whistle to a sheet iron monkey. For further particulars see the Plumed Knight.

Call at the Drugstore and get a trial bottle FREE of Dr. King's New Discovery for coughs, colds &c. Also a copy of the Druggist will be given to all who will call for it.

The AUBURN REPUBLICAN says there is two men living near Auburn who cut 232 shocks of corn last Monday. They must have been very small shocks or else that is a pretty big story.

We received this week some new hand lamps, also a lot of other nice things for table use such as Sauce Plates, Turkeys, Cup Plates, Bowls, Deep Dishes, Platters, Cups and Saucers, Plates &c. Remember us when you need such things.

Several of our citizens spent the day at Cedar Beach last Sunday.

The heavy winds of Wednesday morning blew down the hickory pole.

Examine our stock of clothing and you will live long and be happy.

Wash Woodcox and Curt Washler was up to hear Hendrick's speak at Pleasant Lake last Tuesday.

It was't two seconds hardly after the earthquake had occurred last week, before the street was lined with people and you could hear them asking one another: "Say, did it shake your house?"

Dennis Burley says that Athlophores has relieved him of Neuralgia from which he has suffered for months. It will also cure Rheumatism. For sale at the Drugstore, St. Joe, Ind.

Wm. Leighty was sitting upon a hitching post in front of the store the other day, and as he sat he thought, and as he thought he looked, and as he looked he beheld laying in front of him a squash seed, and remembering something about an acorn and an oak tree that he used to read about in a spelling book when he was a small boy, he said "Large water melons from little squash seed grow." Just imagine, if you please a large Georgia water melon growing on an Indiana squash vine. Whew!

Call and see our stock of Men's & Boys' Clothing.

St. Joe  News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY SEPT. 27, 1884.

T' pot T.

N. N. Soap.

National Yeast.

Nights are longer.

Rallies getting thicker.

Politics are getting hotter.

Our prices on goods are lower.

Good demand for apples this fall.

The Fort Wayne fair will be held next week.

Mrs. J. D. Leighty visited friends in Fort Wayne last week.

If you want to buy a trunk mighty cheap call on us.

Ruff McDonald has moved into the Kauffman property.

Our two dollar and fifty cent boot is taking the lead this fall. Money can be saved by buying it.

Large sized Looking Glasses just received which we are going to sell at the astonishing low price of 50 cents.

Poles are being raised at almost every cross-roads in the country.

Quite a number from this place attended the Hicksville fair last week.

It is said that Iowa will produce this year 300,000,000 bushels of corn.

Joe Metcalf hauled in a wagon load of new corn last week, the first of the season.

We are handling the Fort Wayne yarn this fall. It is of an excellent quality and very cheap.

Mrs. Reed and Mrs. Donaldson left last week for a visit among friends in Pennsylvania.

We got in a new invoice of Ladies' Hand Satchels this week, and we want to sell them.

Those who attended the Hicksville fair say it was better than any year since its organization.

Thad Meese got severely kicked by one of his horses at the Hicksville fair last week.

Wm. Vollmar thinks St. Joe is a nice place to live and so he has moved back here from Fort Wayne.

Don't forget the Nimble Nick store when you need Overalls. We have the the best quality at the lowest price.

Don't buy tickets for the east, west, north or south until you call and get our rates. The B. & O. is prepared to furnish them at the lowest possible rate. If you think of going on a trip, do not purchase your tickets until you see H. K. Reynolds, agent B. & O., St. Joe, Ind.

Call and see our stock of Men's & Boys' Clothing.

For years we have waited,
In hope and in glee,
Watching the billows,
Scanning the sea,
For our ship on the ocean,
Laden with gold,
To come and enrich us.
The tale is soon told;
No longer we're waiting,
For sorrow's our cup;
The ship has come in,
But it's bottom-side up.

O. L. Young of Butler was in St. Joe one day last week.

Before you buy winter clothing for your boys see us.

The Nimble Nickle soap is just as nimble as ever. Try it.

Remember we have just opened up a stock of new clothing. No old shoddy goods. All fresh and new.

People wonder why it is that the price of wheat is so low. They do not stop to consider the fact that the great west is now producing more grain than ever before in the history of our nation. The reports from some of the different states make the wheat crop of 1884 as follows:

Kansas	49,113,000	Bushels.
Minnesota	38,500,000	"
Illinois	38,000,000	"
Missouri	29,000,000	"
Iowa	28,500,000	"

These are only a few of the wheat growing states and when you look over the above figures and think of the enormous amount of wheat produced in this country, and no foreign demand to speak of, is it any wonder that wheat is selling at such a low figure?

One of the largest crowds that has been in St. Joe since old settler's day gathered here on Wednesday evening of last week, to see the democrats raise their pole and hear their speakers spread fourth the doctrines of old democracy. They were late in getting the pole up, but finally succeeded in raising it, after which they formed into a procession and marched to the speakers stand. The glee club then sang several fine selections of campaign music after which Frank Barney stepped forward and in a graceful manner introduced W. H. Shambaugh of Fort Wayne, who spoke for about one hour. Mr. Friend also of Fort Wayne followed Mr. Shambaugh in a lengthy speech. D. D. Moody was then called for but owing to the lateness of the hour he did not say much. The glee club then sang, the bands played, the men hollered, the babies cried, the dogs barked and everybody went home and went to bed.

There were six bands present.

It was a pity to waste that broom.

The pole is over 150 feet high.

The speakers stand was nicely decorated.

Frank Scholes of Fort Wayne assisted the glee club.

Wm. Shambaugh got mixed up on his "tater" story.

The ladies' Cleveland & Hendricks club of Newville made a fine appearance.

The martial bands made such a racket you couldn't hear the cornet bands.

Frank Furlow a prominent stump speaker of Hicksville was present, but did not get a chance to say any thing.

Call and see our stock of Men's & Boys' Clothing.

The republicans had a big blow out at Orangeville on Friday evening of last week. Clubs were present from St. Joe Spencerville, Newville and Presler's, and they raised a pole in front of Harter's residence in about three jerks of a dead lamb's tail. The clubs then formed into a line about as straight as an ordinary rail fence and headed by a band of music marched to the residence of Harlow Gee, where seats and a speakers stand had been arranged. The exercises were opened with a song by Presler's Glee Club and, as the last strains of the first verse were dying away, there came a crash as if another earthquake had occurred, and when the smoke had cleared away it was found that the platform upon which the singers were standing had been made out of democratic planks, and they were rotten, consequently they gave way and the glee club came down. With true republican grit, however they soon recovered from their fright, and stepping out upon solid ground, finished their song. After listening to short speeches by T. D. Meese John Provines and others, the meeting adjourned with three cheers for Blaine & Logan.

Jud Gee says he built that platform.

Spencerville turned out two four horse wagon loads.

The business houses of Orangeville were all closed.

The pole was a beauty and stood about 100 feet above ground.

O. S. Blood was called for but said he never made speeches.

Wm. Simanton was present and seemed to enjoyed the meeting.

We desire to inform the public that we are prepared to make sorghum, on the farm of R. G. Coburn, two miles east of St. Joe. We guarantee satisfaction. Prices reasonable. Please favor us with your patronage.

COBURN BROS.

What is a doodlebug?

Before you buy winter clothing for your boys see us.

Preaching next Sunday evening by Rev. E. K. Baker.

If you want to buy a nobby new dress pattern call at the Nimble Nickle T pot T store.

We hope everybody will examine our stock of Clothing before they make their fall purchases.

William Bleeks got tired of living in the country and so he moved back into town this week.

We received this week a new invoice of Queensware, Glassware &c. to be sold at reduced prices.

Filley & Lounsberry have a quantity of ash or maple flooring for sale. Give them a call if you in need any thing in that line.

Alex. Filley and J. H. Conrad went out hunting the other day and so far as we can learn they did not kill any more game than they could carry home.

Our prices on Trunks are way below what most stores get for them. Every young man should have a trunk and now is the time to get one cheap.

OCTOBER

Call and see our stock of Men's & Boys' Clothing.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1884.

No. 14.

New Goods.

Fine Wall Paper.

Fancy Window Curtains.

We are selling trunks very cheap.

Dr. Murphy was in town Thursday.

Buy your boy a Blaine or Cleveland cap.

Don't fail to examine our stock of Overcoats.

Try our T pot T at only 35 cents per pound.

Chas. Widney has been sick but is able to be out again.

Three pound pails of Family Lard for 35 cents.

Before you buy winter clothing for your boys see us.

Wm. Demarville delivered a speech at the hall the other night. His subject was "Tariff on Salt."

Don't fail to examine our window curtains and fixtures, wall paper, border &c before you buy.

We can show you the handsomest line of wall paper and border ever brought to St. Joe. No charge for trimming.

Our clothing trade has been much better than we expected so far and we hope it may continue. Come in and see our stock: it is all fresh and new; no old nobby shop-worn goods. Prices right.

Shilling shipped a car load of sheep this week.

We have a full line of Rubber Boots, Overshoes &c.

John Widney moved into his new house this week.

When you want a new suit of clothes call at the Nimble Nick clothing store.

We have some Men's Rubber Coats of a first class quality and cheap.

Frank Draggoo got his foot smashed at Case's barn raising Friday.

If you want to buy a nobby new dress pattern call at the Nimble Nickle T pot T store.

Dr. Stewart of Garrett will deliver a prohibition speech at this place on Friday evening, Oct. 17, 1884. There will also be a pole raised. All are invited to come out.

Dennis Burley says that Athlophoros has relieved him of Neuralgia from which he has suffered for months. It will also cure Rheumatism. For sale at the Drugstore, St. Joe, Ind.

A martial band is a nice thing but there ought to be a cut off valve attached to each one of them so that when they got through they would stop. The most of them don't know where the tune ends.

Call and see our stock of Men's & Boys' Clothing.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning, by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interests of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Queensware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address, where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY OCT. 11, 1884.

Tax paying time.

Overcoats are in demand.

Put up your winter stoves.

Try our T pot-T at only 35 cents per pound.

The Ohio election takes place next Tuesday.

Take in your plants or they will freeze.

We now carry a supply of Mansfield Flour.

We have some Men's Rubber Coats of a first class quality and cheap.

When you want a new suit of clothes call at the Nimble Nick clothing store.

A pole will be raised at Newville Center Saturday night.

All members of the Blaine & Logan club are requested to meet at the hall on Tuesday evening Oct. 14, 1884, as business of importance is to be transacted at that time.

We desire to inform the public that we are prepared to make sorghum, on the farm of R. G. Coburn, two miles east of St. Joe. We guarantee satisfaction. Prices reasonable. Please favor us with your patronage.

COBURN BROS.

Before you buy winter clothing for your boys see us.

If you want to buy a nobby new dress pattern call at the Nimble Nickle T pot T store.

We hope everybody will examine our stock of Clothing before they make their fall purchases.

We received this week a new invoice of Queensware, Glassware &c. to be sold at reduced prices.

Rev. E. K. Baker having gone to Synod, there will be no preaching in town next Sunday.

Last Wednesday was the birthday anniversary of Mrs. John Engle, and a large number of her friends celebrated the occasion by giving her a party. A very pleasant time was had and Mrs. Engle was the recipient of a number of nice presents.

We got in a large invoice of Boots & Shoes this week, and we offer them to the public at low prices. Our trade on shoes this summer has been much larger than we expected and we purpose to boot and shoe a good share of the people this fall. Our assortment is complete and we kindly solicit your patronage.

Call and see our stock of Men's & Boys' Clothing.

---

The school house is under-going repairs.

The west end of St. Joe might appropriately be called Poletown.

Examine our stock of clothing and you will live long and be happy.

Dr. Ferrell is building up quite a practice in his profession.

Mrs. W. C. Patterson visited friends at Hicksville this week.

Quite a number of democrats from this place attended the rally at Hicksville last Wednesday.

Capt. Cutter, the republican candidate for Sheriff was in town looking up his interest this week.

The Overcoat season has arrived and we are in the market with a new stock and competing prices. Try us on for an Overcoat.

Call at the Drugstore and get a trial bottle FREE of Dr. King's New Discovery for coughs, colds &c. Also a copy of the Druggist will be given to all who will call for it.

We received this week some new hand lamps, also a lot of other nice things for table use such as Sauce Plates, Turkeys, Cup Plates, Bowls, Deep Dishes, Platters, Cups and Saucers, Plates &c. Remember us when you need such things.

Some one suggested the idea of leaving that young midnight buckeye stand and fill the dirt in around it so that it would grow and then probably until the campaign of 1888 it would be grown to a good sized pole.

Overcoats.

Overcoats.

Overcoats.

Overcoats.

Overcoats.

Overcoats.

Overcoats.

Call and see our stock of Men's & Boys' Clothing.

This is a grate year fur pole raising. The crop is goin tu bea a large one an prices wil probabla bea lo. The demokrats rased a pole with a brom on it but the winds kame, and as it was not built upon a rock, it broke off an tumbled down. The repubilkans tha undertuke tu rase a pole that wood reach tu the moon, an after tryin too tymes thay hed tu giv it up without so much as a stubb tu show fur ther wark. Then ther was another party who's naim we could not lern, that kame intu town between midnite an morning an headed bi a bras band that is the whol band must hav ben pretty brassy, tha tuke a buckeye pole and proceeded tu raise it. Now ther was'nt ana thing mean about ther puttin up a pole at nite, but it was a little cheaky fur them tu use the hole tu set it up in that was maid fur another breed ov poles. However its none ov mi apple-sauce, I'm in the pole business miself.

Yours in favor ov Poles,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

G. B. Sa, in ordar tu git a korrekt vew ov this pickture you wil hav tu stand on youre hed.

Another cheap excursion to Chicago next Thursday.

Alex. Filley is pitting a brick wall under his house.

Money saved by buying round trip tickets over the B. & O.

Byron Woodcox is painting and grain- ing the school house.

Walter Palmer and wife visited friends in St. Joe this week.

Our stock of Men's Hats never was more complete than now. Come in and see them.

J. H. Davis has moved to Garrett and Mr. Wilson has moved into the house formerly occupied by him.

We received another lot of black ladies' Belts this week. We have sold a wheel borrow load of them and still they go. Call early.

Don't use any but the Silver Star Baking Powder and you will never have poor bread or pancakes or what ever they make out of baking powder.

T. P. Keator will speak at Newville on Saturday evening, Oct. 18, 1884, at which time a large pole will be raised. Everybody turn out.

Three Big Pounds of Fresh Crackers for 25 cents.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1884.

No. 15.

See our wall paper.

Buy one of our trunks.

New assortment of Hoods.

The campaign will soon be over.

Come in and see our assortment of winter hosiery.

We have just received a big line of Men's and Ladies' Underwear.

Moses Ashelman's lost his barn and grainery Monday night by fire.

Don't forget that we are selling the best boot in town for $2.50.

The cold snap this week made people hunt around for their winter wraps.

The pay car passed through last Thursday and made the railroad boys happy.

Examine our Children's Suits. They are nobby, nice and cheap.

We shall have in a full line of colors in Germantown and Saxony Wool Yarns next week.

Charlie Grubb and Mervin Widney attended a rally at Maysville last Wednesday evening.

Rev. E. K. Baker will preach in the church in St. Joe on Sunday evening, Oct. 26th, 1884.

George Hamm is building a barn for a man by the name of Gerrig, living near Leo.

Quite a good deal of wheat has been brought to market this week. Prices ranged from 72 to 75 cents.

Before you buy winter clothing for your boys see us.

Fred Jenkins will teach school in district number four this winter.

Mrs. Harlow Geo went to Iowa last Wednesday to visit friends.

Ruff McDonald has been working at Garrett for the past two week.

We can supply you with spring window curtain rollers. They are by far the most convenient and best.

Rev. Coomer of Maysville, will preach at the church in this place on Sunday evening, Nov. 2, 1884.

J. S. Jackman, condidate for representative on the republican ticket, was in town last Thursday.

The Blaine & Logan club will meet at Leighty's Hall on Saturday evening, Oct. 25th.

Our assortment of Ladies' and Children's Hoods are in, and we are satisfied that no better variety has ever been opened up in this town than can be seen by calling at our store.

George Bleeks had the misfortune to lose one of his horses this week. "Sam" as he was called, was a fine little buggy horse, and will no doubt be greatly missed by George and his family.

We sold six suits of clothes and four overcoats last week. Our goods seem to please people and so they buy. We ask you to examine our stock before you buy. We'll make it pay.

Three Big Pounds of Fresh Crackers for 25 cents.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, OCT. 25, 1884.

Before you buy winter clothing for your boys see us.

We have a full line of Rubber Boots, Overshoes &c.

Jake White is up in the big woods of Michigan hunting bear.

We guarantee every suit of our clothing to be a perfect fit.

When you want a new suit of clothes call at the Nimble Nick clothing store.

We have some Men's Rubber Coats of a first class quality and cheap.

Don't fail to examine our window curtains and fixtures, wall paper, border &c before you buy.

We can show you the handsomest line of wall paper and border ever brought to St. Joe. No charge for trimming.

There will be a large public sale at the residence of James R. Roller, (deceased,) two and a half mile north of Mayaville, on Saturday, Nov. 1st, 1884.

It is really amusing to read the reports given by the different correspondents and reporters for the papers. For instance if there is a republican rally the republican papers will say there was a very large crowd present and the speaking was splendid; there was several bands in attendance and over 300 torchlights in the procession &c. The democrat papers would say of the same meeting that it was a very dry affair, that there was about 50 persons present including the women and children, that the speaking was all a pack of lies, that the music was horrible, that there was only 85½ torches in line by actual count, and they were mostly carried by boys &c. On the other hand if the democrats have a rally the republican papers would probably say that it was a thin meeting, there was only 7 men, 33 women, 5 babies and 2 dogs present, and the speaker was so full of benzine that he couldn't say any thing, that the music sounded like a pack of boys pounding on a lot of tin pans, that there wasn't enough voters to make a decent torchlight procession &c. The democrat papers would claim in their account of it that it was one of the grandest meetings ever held in this part of the country. And so they have it. Now why wouldn't it do to tell some thing near the truth about these matters and not have so many lies to account for.

We sold twenty-four Blaine and Cleveland caps last week.

It is an established fact that we carry the best assortment of Ladies' Shoes in St. Joe, and sell them cheap, too.

This paper don't amount to much but you are welcome to a copy when ever you will call at our store and get it.

Three Big Pounds of Fresh Crackers for 25 cents.

Don't fail to examine our stock of Overcoats.

The Silver Star Baking Powder is the best and no mistake.

One week from next Tuesday will tell the story as to who will be the next president.

We are having a splendid trade in clothing. People appreciate a good quality of goods.

The ladies all say "Why what handsome wall paper you have; save me five rolls of that kind." All right.

In all the political speeches that have been and are yet to be made during the campaign, how many lies do you suppose have been told?

At a club meeting held at the hall last week J. D. Leighty resigned the position of committeeman for this precinct, and M. T. Bishop was unanimously chosen to fill the place.

While Will Currie was out killing a beef the other day he accidentally blew off one end of his moustache. Billy ought to be careful or he might lose the other end and then he wouldn't have any.

You will soon clean house and then you will want some wall paper, window curtains, rollers &c., which of course you will come to our store to get as we carry the best assortment and make the lowest prices.

We were surprised last week to hear of the death of Miss Ella Kelso, daughter of Rev. S. Kelso, formerly pastor of the Lutheran church of this place. She died at the home of her parents in Lancaster Illinois on Sept. 29th, 1884.

Some of our readers laughed because we said in our last issue that we had received another supply of black ladies' belts. They insinuated that we meant that the ladies were black and the belts were white, but it's all a mistake. We want it distinctly understood that the belts are black—not the ladies. However should there be any black ladies who want a white belt why then of course the white belts would be black ladies' belts, or in other words the black ladies' belts are for white ladies and the white black ladies—oh pshaw we're getting all mixed up; we have the belts to sell though, and don't care whether it's a white lady or a black lady that buys them.

Try our T pot T at only 35 cents per pound.

Three pound pails of Family Lard for 35 cents.

Buy a can of Silver Star Baking Powder and get a beautiful piece of silverware free.

Our stock of Men's Hats never was more complete than now. Come in and see them.

Don't use any but the Silver Star Baking Powder and you will never have poor bread or pancakes or what ever they make out of baking powder.

Mrs. Widney has organized a prohibition party among the boys and girls of St. Joe. They raised a pole last Saturday at which time Mrs. Widney made a speech, and in the evening they had a grand street parade. Hurrah for young america.

Three Big Pounds of Fresh Crackers for 25 cents.

We went out hunting with a prominent lumbar merchant of St. Joe last week. He is a grate sportsman an a crack shot and he sed he wood guarantee us a mes of foxx squerils if we wood go with him. So we went, he was tu du the shooting an we were tu carry the gain. We struk fur the woods an in a short tyme cum across a larg foxx squeril an the lumbar merchant he sliped up an blazed awa. The gun went off an so did the squeril; that is the squeril went off up the tree into a not hole. The lumbar merchant sed he was shure he hit him, butt the squeril did'nt cum down. Wel, we went on, bi and bi we saw anuther big foxx squeril and the lumbar merchant he crauled up, tuke ame and puled the trigger. It was an exciting moment an we hav endeavored tu illustrate it in the abov engravin. The man with the gun is the lumbar merchant; the distance from the man tu the squeril was 20 feet moor or less; after the gun went off the squeril sat ther just as if nothing hed happened; he acted as tho he had seen the lumbar merchant befour an now that he cu'd'nt hit ana thing. Finally he flopped off on tu anuther tree an went into his hole. We then went on a short distance further an treed anuther foxx squeril, but it was no gude, we did'nt git him, an so we started fur home, but I did'nt hav ana gain tu carry.

Yours Without Squeril,
Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Deputy Sheriff Jeff Boyle was in town last Saturday.

M. T. Bishop sold a bill of lumber to one man last week amounting to $118.

There were 56 bands of music in the processions at Fort Wayne last Monday night.

Come in and see the handsome silverware that is given away with the Silver Star Baking Powder.

Mr. Bowen and family of Attica, Ohio, have moved to St. Joe, and occupy rooms with his son-in-law, H. K. Reynolds.

Three things you can't buy at any other store in St. Joe but at the Nimble Nick: Star Baking Powder, T pot T and Nimble Nickle Soap. Try them.

Silver Plated Castor, Butter Dish, Cake Stand, Fruit Dish, Pickle Castor, Butter Knife &c given away with Silver Star Baking Powder. Try it.

The Rev. Dr. Stewart of Garrett, candidate for Elector on the prohibition ticket was in the city on Friday evening of last week and delivered a speech to a quite a large number of both democrats and republicans. The young ladies' Glee Club of St. Joe sang some nice selections of music and Mr. Hadsell and sons also favored the audience with several appropriate songs.

NOVEMBER

Examine our stock of Ladies' & Children's Shoes.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1884.

No. 16.

Bill Vanzile moved to Garrett last Wednesday.

A full supply of Stove Hollow-ware at Conrad's.

Chicago daily papers were in great demand last Wednesday.

We carry a splendid assortment of Ladies' Winter Hosiery.

We have a full line of Men's Rubber Boots and Overshoes.

Republicans were pretty scarce about last Wednesday morning.

Hereafter our address will be No. 273 Salt River. Call and see us.

Conrad has quite a stock of Lard Cans from 6 to 15 gallons. Call and see.

Our line of Canton Flannels is large and prices exceedingly low.

A Lutheran Conference will be held at Spencerville week after next.

Our rooster don't know just exactly who to crow for.

See our elegant assortment of Hoods before you purchase.

It seems pretty tough but I guess we'll have to go up the creek this time.

Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at the church, to which all are cordially invited.

We have sold already all of our first stock of Hoods, but we shall have in this week a new invoice of handsome new styles from Chicago. Come in at once, while there is a good assortment to select from.

Come in and see our new stock of winter shoes.

We have some choice hand-picked beans for sale.

Look out for good times now and lots of money. Whoopee!

Quarterly meeting at the Methodist church in Spencerville on next Sunday Nov. 9th.

Coffee Mills, Sad Irons, Carpet Tacks, Hash Knives, Lanterns, Wooden Bowls, Zinc Stove Boards &c. at Conrad's.

The new road running north from Wash Woodcox's and connecting with the main road on the railroad land is being opened up this week.

Some one telegraphed the central committeeman at Auburn last Wednesday evening that this township had gone democratic by a nice majority, but it didn't pan out that way.

If Cleveland gets to be President, W. H. Simanton is to be appointed post-master general, and St. Joe will then be moved to Washington and made a general distributing office.

David Shull, an old and respected citizen of this county living two miles east of Spencerville, died very suddenly last Monday evening while on his way home from a rally held at the above named place. His death resulted from the bursting of a blood vessel near the region of the heart. The funeral occurred Wednesday and was largely attended.

Three Big Pounds of Fresh Crackers for 25 cents.

St. Joe.  Notes.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, NOV. 8, 1884.

Rev. E. K. Baker was at Republic, O. last week.

Call on J. H. Conrad for Tinware of all kinds.

Come in and see our assortment of winter hosiery.

Come in and see the handsome silverware that is given away with the Silver Star Baking Powder.

We are glad at all times to have people come in and see our goods, even if they don't buy.

Now that the campaign is over why wouldn't it be a good idea to organize a singing class?

Our assortment of Ladies' and Children's Hoods are in, and we are satisfied that no better variety has ever been opened up in this town than can be seen by calling at our store.

D. M. Allen, surveyor of Allen county and formerly a prominent teacher of this county, died at his home in Fort Wayne on Tuesday of last week, and was buried at Spencerville on Thursday.

Last week was jam full of speeches and rallies.

We have a splendid quality of yarns this season. Examine it.

We have a full line of colors in Germantown and Saxony Wool Yarns.

Try the Spear Head Plug Tobacco and you will use no other.

There are 23 poles in this town, including the small ones.

Charlie Shepherd, the happy insurance man of Hicksville, was in town one day last week.

Certainly every one is glad that the campaign is over, and now let's all settle down to business.

Dave Knisely's house in the west end of town is for sale or rent. Enquire of M. T. Bishop.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Coder who have been visiting friends in this vicinity, returned to their home in Norvell, Michigan last week.

Three Big Pounds of Fresh Crackers for 25 cents.

---

Examine our gingham.
Examine our dress goods.
Examine our laces and ribbons.
Examine our handkerchiefs.
Examine our skirts for ladies.
Examine our bed ticking.
Examine our floor oil cloth.
Examine our window curtain.
Examine our embroideries.
Examine our underwear.
Examine our shawls.
Examine our hosiery for ladies.
Examine our cotton flannel.
Examine our stocking webbing.
Examine our hoods.

---

Examine our Children's Suits. They are nobby, nice and cheap.

Don't forget that we are selling the best boot in town for $2.50.

We have just received a big line of Men's and Ladies' Underwear.

H. K. Reynolds lacked just twelve days of being in this state long enough to vote.

The Rev. Dr. Stewart of Garrett, made a prohibition speech at Spencerville last week.

Silver Plated Castor, Butter Dish, Cake Stand, Fruit Dish, Pickle Castor, Butter Knife &c given away with Silver Star Baking Powder. Try it.

Three things you can't buy at any other store in St. Joe but at the Nimble Nick: Star Baking Powder, T pot T and Nimble Nick's Soap. Try them.

Burt Patterson of Hicksville was in town last week.

Several car loads of hogs were shipped from this place last week.

The county institute was held at Auburn last week.

Erastus and Jake White returned from Michigan last week. They killed two deer while they were gone.

Mervin Widney raised a piece of corn this year that averaged over 100 bushels to the acre.

M. T. Bishop will remove his lumber yard and sheds on to the railroad land, just south of the elevator.

John Leighty Sr. sowed a patch of turnips in July and now he is reaping his harvest. He will probably have between two and three hundred bushels.

Al Brooks has secured the agency of this county for a Patent Carpet Tack. They are simple, convenient and cheap, and are no doubt a good thing.

Why don't you go to Sunday school? You are certainly interested enough in this town to want to see the Sunday school kept up, and yet you stay away time after time and thus throw your influence against the welfare and prosperity of the best interests of the community. For who would want to live in a town where there are no churches or Sunday schools? Certainly no one; then why not come out and aid and encourage the work by your presence. If you can not take a part in the exercises come and look on.

Examine our stock of Ladies' & Children's Shoes.

This is the weak when the papars hav roostars in them. Ther will prababla be severl differant breeds ov them reprecent-ed. Ther wil be one kind ov roostars that wil be strutting around on ther hind leags an crowing awa for deer life, an then ther wil be anuther breed that wil feal sick an want tu vommot orful bad. You kin take which evar you like, but as fur me I perfur a gude sized spring chicken, (either mail or femail,) cut up an fried in buttar.

Yours in faver ov Roostars.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Everybody recommends the Silver Star Baking Powder.

The public schools of this place will open on Monday, Nov. 17th, 1884. We were anable to learn who is to teach in the higher room, but Miss Swineford will have charge of the primary department.

M. T. Bishop went to Waterloo last Saturday.

Dr. Bowman and Frank Draggoo went to Fort Wayne last Friday.

Preaching next Sunday evening by Rev. E. K. Baker.

S. S. Shutt made a political speech at Newville last Saturday night.

Rev. Lineberry will preach in this place on Sunday evening Nov. 16th.

We can supply you with spring window curtain rollers. They are by far the most convenient and best.

Election day was a wet, cold and disagreeable day, but every one kept good natured and happy.

Mrs. Donaldson and Mrs. Reed returned from their visit among friends in Pennsylvania last week.

There will be a hog on exhibition at the fat stock show in Chicago next week, that is said to weigh 1400 pounds.

Friday night of last week was the time when the boys usually turn things up-side down, but for some reason they did not do much mischief. The small boys were out pulling cabbage and Jake White thought he would have a little fun with them, so he went in and got his gun and fired it off into the air; the little fellows were badly scared and in their hurry to get away one of them stumbled and fell; he thought he was shot, sure, and he called to the boys and said: "Hold on, I'm shot! I'm shot!" He soon found out though, that he was alright, and got up and skipped out for the next cabbage patch.

PAGES

MISSING

Examine our stock of Ladies' & Children's Shoes.

Mr. Stamen received the insurance money on his barn last week.

Try our wafer butter crackers, put up in three pound boxes at 25 cents.

About what is the distance from here to the central part of Salt River?

Jerry Andrews' barn was destroyed by fire one night last week.

Next Thursday, November 27th is Thanksgiving day.

Our line of Canton Flannels is large and prices exceedingly low.

We have something new in a fleece lined Overshoe for ladies. Come in and see them.

It has been proven beyond a doubt that H. K. Reynolds was actually seen at church one week ago last Sunday evening.

The AUBURN COURIER of last week contained some amusing illustrations. Especially laughable was the one where the editor of the REPUBLICAN is riding on an untame firey steed.

Will some kind democrat who has been there and knows all about it, please inform Mell Bishop how the hunting is up in the Salt River country. Are there any fox squirrels up there, and are they hard to hit?

How to make your little boy happy? Take him down to the Nimble Nick store and buy him one of those handsome suits of clothes, a new hat and a pair of boots and if it don't make him shouting happy in less than five minutes we will give it up.

John Knight, who sometime ago injured one of his eyes by the explosion of some powder which he had put in a glass bottle, and who has not been able to see out of that eye since, went to Fort Wayne last week, and Dr. Dills took a piece of glass from the eye ball.

Mrs. Joe Baker spent a couple of days visiting friends in Garrett last week.

Frank Zern has been visiting his parents for the past few days.

Mr. Sheffer of Kendallville, visited in St. Joe last week the guest of Dr. Sheffer.

Farmers have no reason to complain this fall about the weather not holding off until they got their corn husked and their fall work done. The weather has just been splendid.

Everybody recommends the Silver Star Baking Powder.

It is really surprising to us that we sell as many hoods as we do. We sold twenty-four last week. The reason for it is however, that we have something that always pleases people.

We are glad to inform our readers that Barney Woodcox is better. It was feared by his friends that the excitement incident to the election of Cleveland had unsettled his mind, but his brain was tapped and some of the surplus drained off, and he is thought now to be on a fair way to recovery. Barney has waited twenty-four years and we don't blame him for throwing up his old hat and hurrahing.

The Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is the Best.

We received the following pass through the mail this week:

Pass Mort Olds from St. Joe to Salt River by Salt River Packet Co., Steamer Jas. G. Blaine, chartered by the G. O. P. from and after Nov. 4th. (No stop over checks allowed.) Connected by annex boat J. A. Logan with Star Route Little Rock and Ft. Scott R. R. Beware of forgeries as you are not expected to return. Checks will be issued for unlimited baggage. You can have my bunk; it is No. 219 on the top tier.

George Wade is building a barn for Moses Ashleman.

Buy a pair of our Ear Tabs and keep your ears warm.

School commenced last Monday with a large number of scholars in attendance.

Rev. E. K. Baker will preach at the church in this place next Sunday at half past two o'clock.

J. W. Dills and family are visiting in Argos this week the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. McClaran.

This paper is published regularly every other Saturday, and you are welcome to a copy if you will take the trouble to call and get it.

A new station has been made on this road at Concord. They have a switch and a telegraph office, but it will only last while they are putting in the fill at Bear Creek.

Have you noticed a man running around the streets this week with a piece of stove pipe under his arm? That was Ruff McDonald; he has been trying to put up a stove but he can't get the pipe together.

Wa up along the old Salt River,

Up neer the end;

Thers whare the republikans wil shiver,

Thers whare tha've got us pened.

Aftar weeks ov panefool anxiety the electshun is owar, an what is stil moor panefool tu us is that we got left. It is tru, we didn't get beet bad, but ther is'nt much consolashun in that when we cum tu realize the fact that we hav aul got through tickets up Salt River. The mane reson I think, whi we got beet was becaws we had'nt enuf voats tu elect our man. However, we hav fot a gude fite, we hav finished our wurk, hebsforth ther is a place prepared fur us cauled Salt River.

Yours (fur four years only.)

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

R. J. The fellar standing up in the rear end ov the beat is the republikan committeaman fur the north precink. He is spying out the land.

G. B. Wen we git ther we'll rite and let you no what the country looks lik.

DECEMBER

Call at our store and see Old Mr. Santa Claus.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1884.

No. 18.

Toy Cook Stoves, Skates &c at J. H. Conrad's.

I tell you we've got a nice lot of christmas goods.

We wish everybody a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

All little girls of ten years and under, can guess on the big doll.

Rev. Lineberry is holding a series of meetings at this place.

We want everybody to come in and see our goods whether you buy or not.

We haven't room to tell you all about our goods, but come in and see them.

Old Santa Claus is stopping with us and he wants all the children to come and see him.

Tell your neighbors about the handsome big doll we going to give away to the children.

Bring the children in to see our holiday goods, and have them guess on the big doll.

M. T. Bishop is up in the big woods of Michigan purchasing a supply of lumber shingles &c.

The heavy winds last Sunday blew down the smoke stack on Wineland's huddle factory.

J. H. Conrad was so excited over the baby that when his wife sent him down town after some sugar he thought she meant safety pins.

We have a beautiful doll, nearly three feet long, dressed in nice style, which we wish to give to some little girl for a christmas present, and this is how we are going to do it: we have in our store a bottle full beans and to the little girl under ten years of age who guesses the closest to the number or beans in that bottle, we shall give the doll. Alex. Filley and M. T. Bishop put the beans in the bottle and sealed it up, and on Christmas afternoon (Dec. 25th,) these gentlemen will open the bottle and count the beans, and to the little girl that guesses the closest the doll will be given. A ticket will be given to each one with their name, age and number of the guess. All girls under ten years of age are entitled to guess. You don't have to buy anything or pay anything in order to guess, as it is a free pitch in for all the little girls.

Dolls.

Tea Sets.

A B C Blocks.

Banks, Tool Boxes.

Toy Wash Boards, Tops.

Children's Knives and Forks.

Monstache Cups, Shaving Mugs.

Cake Stands, Doll Hats, Pop Pistols.

Toy Pails, Nigar Targets, Toy Books, Harmonicas &c.

Come in and see our christmas tree, Santa Claus and the big doll.

Bring the Children in to see our Holiday Goods.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, DEC. 13, 1884.

Call in.

It will pay.

Try our T pot T.

Smoke Tansill's Punch.

Try our Fine Cut Tobaccos.

Four gallons of Syrup for $1.35.

One week from next Thursday is Christmas.

Try some of our French Prunes; they are delicious.

We have had a tip-top clothing trade for the last two weeks.

The section men have recently had their wages cut down from $1.20 to $1.00.

Over ninety men were discharged from the B. & O. railroad shops at Garrett, last week.

The young people of St. Joe have organized a dramatic company. We understand they will give an entertainment sometime during the holidays.

Jud Gee has got a moustache, and as most of our readers have never seen it, we present it this week in a magnified form.

The latest important news: John Widney has built him a new pig pen.

We invite your careful attention to our stock of Boots and Shoes. Our variety is large and prices low.

Harper Leighty cut down the pole in front of his grandfather's residence last week. He done it with it with his little hatchet.

Carpet Slippers are a comfortable thing to slip on these long winter evenings after the days work is done. We have them and are selling them cheap.

Wes Hart now offers brick for sale cheaper than they were ever known to be before. If you think of using any brick now is the time to get them at a bargain.

If you have any watches, clocks or jewelry to be repaired, take it to Burt Patterson, at the St. Joe Drugstore. He has had several year's experience and warrants all of his work.

Mr. Baxter of Auburn was canvassing the town last week for a book entitled "What can a woman do?" We hav'nt given the subject much thought, but its our candid, honest opinion that a woman can do most any thing when she sets her head for it.

Bring the Children in to see our Holiday Goods.

---

The melancholy days have come,
'Tis colder than the tomb.
For politics no longer hurt,
And boomlets cease to hum.

At the Nimble Nick store is the place to get Holiday goods.

One of the best cigars in the market is Tansill's Punch.

Christmas comes but once a year, so why not buy the children a nice present.

In the mean time don't let it slip your memory that we can show you a splendine of Clothing. Also a desirable line of Overcoats.

Here's a special bargain for you. Four gallons of Pure Sugar Syrup put up in an iron bound wooden keg, all for the astonishing low price of $1.35. Don't talk about hard times when you can buy a whole barrel of syrup for a dollar and thirty five cents. Its a fact.

Thanksgiving day was observed in this place in various ways: some went hunting, some attended the supper in the evening, some attended church and others done just as they pleased.

Christmas is the happiest time of the year for children, and even the big folks look forward to that occasion with a great deal of pleasure. Christmas is the same this year, as last; it is old and yet is ever new. Who is there but what can look back upon many happy Christmas times. Let us all try to make the coming one, a season of pleasure to those around us as well as to ourselves.

Frank Draggoo's Mule.

---

Smoke Tansill's Punch:

Jud Gee is working for Landlord Wm.
Leighly.

Santa Claus will stop at our store again this year.

Buy a pair of our Ear Tabs and keep your ears warm.

We've got whole stacks of things suitable for presents for everybody.

War Coburn has a little fellow at home
now that calls him "papa."

Everybody was tickled over our sick rooster in our last issue.

Please don't forget that we want your holiday trade, and want it bad, too.

You will want to make your friends a handsome Christmas present and the place to buy it will be at the Nimble
Nickle holiday store.

Santa Claus is neither a democrat or a republican, but he is a jolly good old fellow, and he has got the nicest lot of "nicknacks" for the children this year that you ever seen. We are headquarters for his goods and we invite everybody to come and see them.

Smoke Tansill's Best Five Cent "Punch" Cigar.

---

We offer this week, Boys' Calfskin Mittens for 25 cts. A big bargain.

We carry twelve different colors in Saxony Yarn.

Come in and see our assortment of holiday goods.

Trustee Brown is supplying the school houses in this township with clocks. A good idea.

Remember that we can now supply you with a good suit of clothes, boots, hat, shirt, collar, neck tie, suspenders &c. at bed rock prices.

We are selling a splendid 36 inch wide Dress Cashmere for 30 cents. Brown is the most fashionable shade that is being worn this fall.

D. P. Hale of Sioux City, Iowa was in town last week. Mr. Hale has just passed through a severe attack of sickness, and is on his way to California for the benefit of his health.

We have secured the agency in this place for Tansill's Punch Cigar; one of the best five cent cigars in the world. Try them.

We got in this week five boxes of Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap, which makes three thousand three hundred and sixty bars of this soap that we have sold since we have been handling it. Its large and increasing sales certainly go to prove that it is of a superior quality, and very cheap. Ask those who have used it how they like it. It is without doubt the boss of all soaps.

We have recently received a new invoice of Overcoats, which we offer at reduced prices.

If you think of buying an Overcoat this winter don't fail to call and see us.

Bring the Children in to see our Holiday Goods.

Did you evar put up a stove? If you didn't, don't. Now mind wat I tel you, don't you evar du it. It usually taiks a good deal tu maik a man angray but jest let him tri tu put up a stove one an if he don't git fiting mad befour he gits thru, it wil bea funny; and even the ladies, thos deer tender harted creatures that hardly evar get out ov humor, you kuo, evar tha git on ther ear, an rip an tare an almost sware. It is easy enuf to get the stove in place, but when it cume tu fitting the pipe together, that's the rubb. Fur instance you git the pipe almost together on one side an go tu pres it down, an up she flies on the othar side; aftar several attemps tu get it together, an your face and hands are all bedaубed with black, it is then so pleasant tu hav your wife make the remark "that you don't kno how tu put up a stove anawa." Jist about that tyme you'll begin tu boil ovax. She wil probabla take hold ov the pipe then tu help you, an about the tyme you hav got it neerly together agin she (in her smartnes) wil giv it a jerk on the rong side an off it wil go agin. Then ther wil bea musick in the air, an it is perhaps better that we draw the carten here, as thos who ar married kno how it is themselves, an thos who are not wil find out soon enuf.

Yours from Experience.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

The days are getting shorter at both ends.

Yes, Hart's have named their new boy Grover Cleveland.

We think it will pay you to come in and see our holiday goods.

It will pay you to call and see us before you buy an Overcoat.

Just please come in and see our stock of christmas "fixens."

Our stock of holiday candies will be awful sweet.

If you want a good suit of clothes cheap, call at the Nimble Nickle Cloth-Store.

Alex Filley don't purpose to burn wet wood any longer and so he has built a woodshed.

Chris Currie went to Buffalo last week. He will probably call on Cleveland if he happens to be at home.

Burt Patterson is now located at the Drugstore in St. Joe for the repairing of Clocks, Watches &c. He solicits your patronage and guarantees satisfaction.

In the trial between Mr. Ashleman and Mr. Merica in regard to the punishment of the former's son while attending school at Newville, the jury brought in a verdict of acquittal.

We have Christmas Presents Suitable for all.

Mell Bishop has recently bought him a horse and little wagon and as he drove by the store the other day he stopped and asked us to take his picture. We did.

John Hull talks of opening up a bar-bes shop here.

We got in some new Ribbons, Laces &c this week.

Mrs. C. F. Mosier of Bristol, Ind., was in town last week, visiting friends.

John P. Widney of Bellville, Ohio, visited friends in this vicinity last week.

Howard Northup celebrated his tin wedding on Friday of last week.

Joe Baker feeds his cows saw-dust in the place of bran. He says the cow don't know the difference.

We carry a line of Gentlemen's Cuffs that you will find at no other store in St. Joe. Ask for A B C Cuff.

Chris Currie brought back with him from Buffalo last week, a small anvil which he says has been used by Mr. Cleveland as a paper weight.

Andrew Patterson of Hicksville, wrote to his brother Wid last week, and told him that if he would look in Isaiah, the ninth chapter and the first thirteen words of the sixth verse, he would find out what had occurred at their house. Now what was it?

P. A. Shirts requests us to publish the following two items:

Will the parties having books in their possession belonging to me please bring them home.

Will the gentleman who is in the habit of borrowing tools, please remember where he got a pair of pinchers and return the same to the owner.

John Baker spent a couple of days in Chicago last week.

We opened up this week a nobby line of Gent's Christmas Neckwear.

You'll miss it if you don't get a keg of Syrup at $1.35.

Our line of Silk Handkerchiefs are the most handsome that we have ever shown, and the prices are low, too.

We have some handsome new styles of dress prints. Just the thing for a sensible and servicable christmas present.

For Oil Paintings and Chromos suitable for christmas presents, call on A. Kinsey, at the St. Joe Furniture Store.

Remember that you can get your watch or clock repaired by leaving it with Burt Patterson, at the St. Joe Drugstore. Work done promptly and at reasonable prices.

We received another supply of Syrup this week. Just open your mouth and think of it; four gallons of Pure Sugar Syrup, put up in a good keg for $1.35. Don't fail to get a keg.

We have taken special pains in selecting our holiday goods, and we trust you will come in and see them. We have endeavored to get presents that will be useful as well as ornamental.

JANUARY

The Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is the Best.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 3, 1885.

No. 19.

1885

ANOTHER year with all of its joys and sorrows, its pleasures and disappointments has passed into eternity. And while it has been a year of excitement, it has also been one of peace, prosperity and good will to all mankind. As we to-day stand upon the threshold of the new year, and look into its unknown future, let us each make new resolves to be better, and let us not only make them but above all let us keep them after they are made. We wish all our customers, as well as everybody else a happy, happy New Year. We most cordially thank you for the patronage you have so kindly bestowed upon us during the past year, and we solicit a continuation of the same in the year to come.

Ben Hoyt will move to Kansas in the spring.

Don't forget to write it eighteen eighty five.

Lem Bair of Fort Wayne was in town Thursday.

Frank Scholes was in St. Joe one day this week.

Pure Sugar Syrup, four big gallons for $1.35. Try it.

O. J. Powell editor of the GARRETT HERALD was in town Tuesday.

Try Grasshopper Plug Tobacco. Its something new.

Ask Will Currie what was in that little box he got off of the christmas tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Davis of Fort Wayne are visiting friends in town.

We have a few Overcoats left that we will sell at a special low price.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis entertained a number of their friends on New Year's day.

A select party was held at Ben Leighty's on New Year's evening. Several persons from Garrett were present.

Alex. Filley has recently bought him a fine cow and in our next issue we shall present to our readers her "photo."

Last Thursday was the day when people swear off from swearing, chewing tobacco, smoking, washing their feet &c.

Mrs. Cole who has been visiting with friends in this vicinity for the past few weeks, returned to her home in Kansas last Friday.

Al Hall has built him a shop on the corner of his lot, and is now prepared to file saws of all kinds in a first class manner and at reasonable prices.

A representative of the AUBURN REPUBLICAN was around collecting money for that paper this week. What in the world does a newspaper man need money for any how? They hav'nt any more use for money than a preacher.

The Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is the Best.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, JANUARY 5, 1885.

Try a pound of thirty-five cent Japan Tea.

Jud Gee's moustache is growing backwards.

Choice Mixed Bird Seed only 10 cents per box.

It looks as though the ice crop would be short this year.

Services to-morrow morning at half past ten o'clock by Rev. Baker.

We opened up this week a nobby line of Gent's Neckwear.

You'll miss it if you don't get a keg of Syrup at $1.35.

The AUBURN REPUBLICAN was afraid it would founder its subscribers with too much reading matter so they did not publish a paper this week.

Remember that you can get your watch or clock repaired by leaving it with Burt Patterson, at the St. Joe Drugstore. Work done promptly and at reasonable prices.

Everything has its own peculiar usefulness, but we were at a loss to know, until christmas evening, what use could be made of these high crown hats that the ladies wear. Our mind was set at rest on that evening, by the discovery that the ladies used the second story of them for a sort of closet or cloak-room. They take their cloak or shawl, their mittens, a veil, a pair of over-shoes and such other articles as they may want to take off, put them in the top of their hats and put their hats back on their heads, and then when the services are over they know right where to find them. Oh, its real handy.

Al Bair of Syracuse was in town last Monday.

We printed over 400 copies of the last NEWS and still there was not enough to supply the demand.

The Boot Up-side Down of Auburn is up-side down for sure now, they having failed last week to the tune of about $35,000.00.

We received another supply of Syrup this week. Just open your mouth and think of it; four gallons of Pure Sugar Syrup, put up in a good keg for $1.35. Don't fail to get a keg.

Burt Donaldson went back to Freemont last Monday. He says he came home to see his mother, but we're rather inclined to think that some of our nice looking girls had something to do with it.

The Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is the Best.

Mervin Widney and John Simanton are canvassing this township for the books entitled "Lives of Cleveland & Hendricks" and "Lives of Blaine & Logan." The first two gentlemen are alive and alright, but in a political sense, the last two persons mentioned, have died and gone up Salt River. The boys don't care a snap however about that, just so they sell their books. They say that John Simanton called on an old republican over east of here last week and wanted to sell him a Blaine & Logan book. John gave the old gentleman a lengthy description of the work including the usual amount of taffy and wound up his speech by saying "I tell you Mr. H——, they've scooped us this time, but we'll lick them in 1888, and don't you forget it." The old man says "you bet," bought a book, and John went on to tell the next man what a good democrat he was.

We want everybody to come in and see our goods whether you buy or not.

We have some handsome new styles of dress prints. Call and see them.

P. A. Shirts and family are visiting friends in the northern part of Michigan.

Our line of Silk Handkerchiefs are the most handsome that we have ever shown, and the prices are low, too.

There were 52 guesses on the big doll. 1066 was the number of beans in the bottle and 1080 was the closest guess. Conny Burley was the lucky little girl.

The coat was a very bad fitting one in the back.

"That'll never do," said the customer, "it looks like a shirt on a bean pole."

"Dot coat, mein frient," replied the merchant, "is a very stylish garment. Mein gracious it is most luffly, beautiful puffing—der latest style and don't you forget it. It was made on Fifth Avenue. It is the Fadder Hubbard style and is worth so much as five tollar more on dot cut." Five minutes later the delighted customer left the store with his Fadder Hubbard coat.

Children's Woolen Mittens for only 10 cents.

Call and get a sack of Buckwheat Flour.

Pie Peaches 10 cts. Best Standard Tomatoes 10 cents.

Sifted Corn Meal only 20 cents a sack at the Nimble Nick store.

The boys had a jolly time snow-balling last Monday. Arron Thomas seemed to get the worst of it.

David Filley, living near Antwerp, O., spent several days in this place last week, visiting his big uncle Alex.

We have prepared Minco Meat put up in 5 pound buckets for only 50 cents. Cheaper than you can buy the materials and make it, and guaranteed to be of a good quality. Try it.

The Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is the Best.

The most of our readers no doubt remember the fire that occurred over east of here two or three weeks ago, early in the evening, at which time the barn of Mr. Countryman was burned. On that evening W. H. Stanton and Samuel Hineman, living at Orangeville, in their anxiety to get to the fire, did not want to take the time and trouble to go round by the bridge, so they both got a straddle of a horse and forded the river. The above picture but faintly represents the scene. Supposing the men would have fell off, what would have become of the poor horse?

Where and How some of our Citizens spent Christmas.

Will Carrie took his girl out sleigh riding.

J. H. Conard had to take care of the new baby.

Charlie Meese and Laura Currie got married.

S. J. Bowen went back to Attica to see somebody else's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Florence Buchanan took turkey at Auburn.

It took Jud Gee all afternoon to black his boots.

Bill Leighty smoked something less than two dozen cigars.

Miss Ollie Overholtzer spent the day at Spencerville.

Miss Lizzie Evans spent the day with friends at Garrett.

Charlie Grubb grubbed around and didn't go any where.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruff McDonald enjoyed the hospitality of Newville friends.

The small boys had a big time throwing down everybody they met.

Burt Patterson took dinner with one of his girls at Hicksville.

A good many children came in to see the beans counted.

MeH Bishop didn't do any hunting, except to hunt for his dinner.

Burt Donaldson gave a christmas dinner to a number of his young friends.

The attendance at church was small but the services were of an interesting character.

The young people had a very pleasant party in the evening at the residence of Mack Leighty.

Alex. Filley and Josh Lounsberry with their families ate turkey with friends at Newville.

Uncle John Engle had a big turkey roast, to which a number of his friends and relatives were invited.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Leighty entertained a large number of their friends, including several Fort Wayne people.

H. K. Reynolds the happy railroad agent at this place, attended to his business just the same as any other day.

Three Pound Standard Tomatoes only 10 cents.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 17, 1885.

No. 20.

Can you draw a figure like the above without taking your pencil from the paper or going over any of the lines a second time.

National Yeast will always bring good bread. Try it.

Corn Meal only 20 cts. Buckwheat Flour 50 cents per sack.

Only a few more kegs of Syrup left. Don't fail to get one.

The price of wheat took quite a boom this week, being one day as high as 80 cents.

Doc Sheffer was in and got a dozen safety pins Wednesday morning. Its the same old story—a big boy baby.

Prof. Gordon will close his singing school at Spencerville with a concert, on Saturday evening, Jan. 24, 1885.

French Bottled Mustard only 10 cts. Three for twenty-five.

Literary at Widney's school house next Thursday evening.

Muslins, Denims, Shirting, Ticking, Ginghams &c. at bottom prices.

Mr. Boon of Hicksville was in town Thursday, looking after the collection of some old accounts.

Dr. Bowman has a new treatment for catarrh which is proving quite a success, and in most cases affects a permanent cure.

P. A. Shirts presented us with a large bunch of wintergreen plants and berries, which he brought home with him from Michigan. Thanks.

While Henry Sechler and his wife were away from home on Thursday afternoon two tramps broke into their house and after helping themselves to a good square meal, they took a pair of bracelets, and what money they could find and went on their way rejoicing. Blessed is the way of the poor tramp.

The donation given to Rev. Lineberry on Friday evening of last week, at the residence of Sol Barney, was a decided success, both as to numbers and contributions. The ladies who had charge of it are to be congratulated on the excellent manner in which the affair was managed.

The Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is the Best.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds; retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, JANUARY 17, 1885.

Pure Sugar Syrup, four big gallons for $1.35. Try it.

The days are beginning to lengthen out at both ends.

Begin the new year aright by trading at the Nimble Nickle store.

We have a few Overcoats left that we will sell at a special low price.

Have you ever tried our French Prunes? They are much finer than the common ones.

Wilson Sanders has sold his house and lot in Spencerville and talks of locating in the place.

Try Grasshopper Plug Tobacco. Its something new, and those who have used it, pronounce it splendid.

We are selling "lasses" awful cheap. Try a keg of our Pure Sugar Drips. Its good for a bad cold. Sixteen quarts for one hundred and thirty-five cents.

What might have resulted in a serious smash-up at the saw mill one morning last week, was happily avoided by the presence of mind of Mr. Alex. Filley. In starting up the machinery Mr. Filley heard a peculiar rattle in the pipe which connects the boiler with the engine, and fearing something was wrong, he immediately shut off the steam and stopped the machinery. On opening the pipe it was found that two stones about the size of a walnut, had in some manner worked their way into the pipe, or else they were put there by some one. Had these stones had time to have worked themselves down into the cylinder the damage to the engine would have no doubt amounted to a couple or three hundred dollars.

Over 1500 pounds of butter was sold by the merchants of this place last week.

Mrs. David Sanders of Lansing, Mich., has been visiting among her old friends and neighbors during the past week.

We have just received an excellent quality of green Coffee which we offer at 13 cents. It is really a splendid good one; a clean large bean and of a good color and fine flavor.

We shall most truly appreciate any patronage you may give us; if you don't need any thing but a darn needle, we should be glad to sell you even that. By the way, we carry a full line of darn needles.

A western newspaper in telling of a funeral, said that while the procession was on their way to the cemetery that the pall bearers got into a quarrel, and that the only quiet person among them was the corpse.

The Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is the Best.

According to agreement we present to our readers this week a "photo." of Alex Filley's cow. This is said to be an extraordinary fine cow; a good milker and no doubt a good kicker. We expect one of these times to hear of Alex picking himself up out from under a bucket full of split milk.

James Reed was at Butler one day last week.

Keg Syrups are selling out at the rate of about two a day.

Herman Booser of Waterloo was in town on Wednesday of last week.

Remember us when you get ready to buy a pair of rubber boots.

Mrs. Anna McDonald spent several days in Hicksville last week.

Several of our citizens will attend the Exposition at New Orleans.

Willis Baker dished up the oysters to a number of his friends who assembled at his residence on Tuesday evening of last week.

Dr. James Ferrell reports that he has performed several wonderful cures with his celebrated medicine, on persons living in Elkhart and Goshen.

HARD TIMES.

WRITTEN ESPECIALLY FOR THE ST. JOHNS NEWS.
PATENT APPLIED FOR.

The times are hard as many know,
And thousands know the rest of it;
Let each a wise submission show,
And try to make the best of it.

Let patience do its perfect work,
And study to economize;
Nor honest labor let us shirk,
And we shall higher far it rise.

If you have boys who need new boots,
Or girls who need new shoes;
Buy them a pair of Case & Olds,
And you will thereby never lose.

In Dry Goods too, and Groceries,
You'll find our stock complete;
And in this line we're always pleased,
To competition meet.

In Notions and in Boots and Shoes;
Our prices are way down;
And when it comes to Clothing,
We're the cheapest place in town.

Frank Draggoo traded off his mule last week.

Every young man ought to have a trunk: we have a few that we will sell at a bargain.

George Lounsberry and daughter of Minnesota are visiting with his brother J. M., of this place.

If it is possible, something ought to be done to persuade the small boys of this place to quit using tobacco. Its just dreadful to think of little fellows hardly old enough to talk plain, chewing and smoking as though they were old hands at the business.

Three Pound Standard Tomatoes only 10 cents.

They call Doc Bowman's office "the cooler."

Dr. T. J. Dills of Fort Wayne was in town last Tuesday.

Mrs. Robert Davis spent last Sabbath with her daughter in Sedan.

Tansill's Punch Cigar is quite a favorite among those who know what a good cigar is.

A gentleman from Chicago has been in town this week, writing up a history of the county.

Frank Meek of Avilla, was around shaking hands with friends in this place last Wednesday.

Bert Patterson is kept quite busy cleaning and repairing clocks, watches, and jewelry.

Miss Maud Byerly of Sharpville, Pa., is visiting in this place the guest of Mrs. Reed.

Dr Emanuel and wife left last Tuesday for a visit to the World's Exposition at New Orleans.

The number of murders committed in the United States during the year 1884, was, as near as can be estimated about 1465.

The Blaine & Logan pole was cut up into fire wood last week. We venture the assertion that it made spanking good wood.

Charlie Grubb has been spending the week at home, visiting with his mother in the day time and going to see his girl at night.

No. 1

No. 2

No. 3

No. 4

The editor he wantend me to rite a peace on hoggs; that is to describe sum ov the diferant kinds an illustraite the sain with a pickture. The first hogg is pig; a pig is hogg that never gits ana bigger than about so big. The moor you feed him the smaller he gits. The nex engravin represents wat is comonly nown as the "sooner kind," that is tha wood sooner go into sunbody elses yard an eat husks an scraps than to hav gude swill and korn in ther own pen. Pickture number 3 is cauled the "subsoiler." This is a gude kind to hav in the spring wen you make garden; tha luv grass an tha luv it best with the roots up; tha ar an easy keepar, a shure getter and an everlasting rooter. Number fore is a wel nown breed cauled the "two limbed porker." Tha ar usually found at oister suppers, festivals &c.

Yours Untill Nex Tyme.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

We offer special low prices on winter goods to close them out. Bargains in Underwear, Hosiery, Hoods &c.

Four Gallons of Pure Sugar Syrup for $1.25.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 31, 1885.

No. 21.

A Letter from New Orleans, written by M. T. Bishop.

New Orleans, Jan. 26, 1885.

Editor News: The snow storm delayed us so that we missed our connection at Cincinnati; left there Saturday night at eight o'clock and arrived at Chattanooga Sunday morning, and at the time you were going to Sabbath school we were speeding around Lookout Mountain, among the finest scenery I ever saw; and it continued most of the way. We left St. Joe in a snow storm and landed here to-day where the sun is shining bright and where the grass and leaves are green. Oranges are ripening all over the city. We was in French Market this morning where they have every thing that is good; apples are selling here for 40 cents per dozen, oranges 10 cents per dozen. The Exposition is grand beyond description. Liberty bell from Philadelphia, came in to-day with great ceremony and firing of guns. Do not know when we will leave here. Will write more particulars next time.

Yours Truly,

M. T. Bishop.

Read the supplement.

Next Monday is ground hog day.

Prof. Gordon's singing class at Spencerville closes to-night, but his services have been secured for another term.

O. H. Whitney has been at Auburn this week.

The snow is reported to be about two feet deep in the woods.

Cad Walters will move to St. Joe and occupy the Hart house.

Heavy snows in the east have caused the trains to be late this week.

We have a full line of Men's, Ladies' and Children's Rubber Overshoes. Price low and tariff off.

Twelve sheets of good letter paper and twelve envelopes for 10 cents. For sale at the drug store.

For hand and toilet use we recommend the Ivory Soap. For sale at the drug store. Try it.

We have a quantity of choice hand picked beans which we are selling at 4 cents per pound.

John Leighty left last Thursday for Orchard Lake, Mich., where he will enter upon a four year's course of study and military drill.

Frank Draggoo will sell at public auction on Saturday, Feb. 7, 1885, three head horses, one hundred sheep, buggy, sleigh, light wagon, bob-sleds, single and double harness, household goods &c.

ur Gallons of Pure Sugar Syrup for $1.25.

lished every two weeks, on Saturday ng by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising st of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry
, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats
aps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, ware &c.

to all who will call at our store and get a r it will be sent free to any post office ad-where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail on the front door.

JOE, IND., SATURDAY, JAN. 31, 1885.

ll Currie put up 42 loads of ice
week.

erary at Widney's school house next day evening.

lling shipped a car load of cattle heep last Saturday.

forgot to mention the Nimble le Soap. Its the bestest.

ncert at Spencerville on Saturday
ng, Jan. 31st, 1885.

Baker now wears a striped jacket.
getting awful stylish lately.

re has more snow fell this winter any winter for a number of years.

T. Bishop left on Friday of last for the sunny south. He will stop w Orleans and take in all of the ition that he can hold, after which ll cross the Gulf of Mexico into a, where he expects to do some ooting. He will probably be ab-about three weeks.

VICK CONRAD,
DEALER IN

Ladies' Friz & Bang Tins
ST. JOE, IND.

Special prices to little girls.

Rev. Jewel is holding a series of meetings at Coburntown.

We are having quite a trade on our 13 cent coffee. Try it

Mrs. Gus Hull went to Illinois this week to visit her daughter, Mrs. Ed Tiffany.

Hon. C. F. Mosier, editor of the BRIS-TOL BANNER, was in town last Saturday, the guest of R. K. McDonald.

Parties from Hicksville are talking of opening up a hardware store in this place.

Charlie Shephard says there are only five houses in St. Joe that are not insured.

John Henderson Esq., was in last Saturday and paid the postage on the NEWS for another year. He says that he takes eight papers, but that he always reads the NEWS first. He also says that his wife can't keep house without it, and that even the children cry for it.

Frank Stamen of Petersburg, Ohio, spent last week in St. Joe, visiting his brother William. Frank is a genial, jolly good fellow, and we were glad to make his acquaintance. We tried to persuade him to marry one of our good looking young girls and settle down here, but he wouldn't consent.

Three Pound Stand

Our readers had such a big time to solve the puzzle in our last issue we feel like giving them another work at. This puzzle is to m-above diagram with three strokes pencil, without erasing any lines ing over any of the lines twice.
stroke of the pencil is meant a you can go without lifting the
from the paper.

National Yeast will always bring bread. Try it.

French Bottled Mustard only
Three for twenty-five.

The time has about arrived for
Currie to get married.

Muslins, Denims, Shirting,
Ginghams &c. at bottom prices.

Corn Meal only 20 cts. Bu-
Flour 50 cents per sack.

Now actually, to consider the in a sober, candid manner, which most fun; to see a women, attedrive a nail or a man try to t needle?

Four Gallons of Pure Sugar Syrup for $1.25.

Music hath charms to soothe
An aching tooth in a crooked jaw.

Among the many prominent men of Sanit Jo, there perhaps is none that ranks higher as a first class fiddler than H. K. Reynolds, the B. & O. agent at this place. As near as we can find out Mr. Reynolds was born in Ohio sometime between the year 1851 and 1860; consequently he is between 25 and 34 years of age; we don't know the exact number of months and days. From early childhood he loved music, and when but a mere boy, scarcely seventeen years of age he could whistle a tune clear through without stopping. His musical qualities continued to develop from time to time until now he is considered one of the most accomplished and graceful fiddlers in this part of the known country. He can perform some wonderful feats on the fiddle, such as playing a tune on the bow with the fiddle, fiddling backwards, playing a correct tune with the fiddle blindfolded &c. Truly, he is a straight fiddler.

Your Obedient Servant

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

*Sometymes called a violinist.

Dr. Bowman went to Fort Wayne last Tuesday.

Try Hood's Sarraparilla if your blood is impure.

Jake Seehler froze his foot last Monday morning.

When needing anything in the clothing line, remember us.

Duplex Corsets, New Laces, Ribbons, a good variety at the Nimble Nick.

Cosmoline Hair Oil is the finest thing out; for sale the drug store.

If you are in need of a pair of good Spectacles call on Patterson.

Patterson sold a clock the other day to parties living within one mile of Butler. Low prices did it.

If you want printing of any kind done don't forget us; we will do it in a satisfactory manner and dirt cheap.

We don't want to TEAS you, but we would just call your attention to the fact that we have some number one good TEAS.

We base our claim for continuous patronage upon the uniform scale of low prices and excellent quality of everything we keep. If we can not make it to your advantage to deal with us we cannot hope to enjoy your patronage. We want your trade and in order to secure and keep it we shall offer special inducements on all our goods during the coming spring and summer season. It will pay you to investigate our bargains. Please take the trouble at least, to call and see us and we will do you good.

FEBRUARY

The National Dry Hop Yeast is the Very Best.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1885.

No. 22.

Saturday is valentine day.

The open winter still continges.

Patronize the St. Joe grist mill.

Mell Bishop got home Thursday morning.

Frank White visited friends in Ohio last week.

Try Uncle Tom's five cent package of smoking tobacco.

"Pumpkin Pie" Fine Cut Tobacco is a splendid article.

Henry Hull's favorite remedy for hog diseases is Jimpson salve.

No trains got through from Chicago this week until Thursday.

Come in and see our assortment of Boots, Shoes and Rubber Goods.

They have had examination at the schools in this place this week.

Mell Bishop brought home with him from the south a live alligator.

The thermometer indicated 24 degrees below zero again Friday morning.

We got in a fresh supply of Canned Corn this week. Price 10 cents.

More safety pins; its at Many Dermott's this time, and its a boy.

Dexter Case of Kansas, is spending a few days at the old parental homestead.

We always carry a full line of Ladies' Hand Satchels, and sell them at bottom prices.

The Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is still ahead. Do try it.

Frank Draggoo will start for Missouri in a couple of weeks.

In the spring when you get ready to buy a plow don't forget to examine the "Burch."

Evans Dermott has brought in the largest ear of corn so far. It weighs 17 ounces.

Last Monday the snow had drifted over the B. & O. tracks at Chicago to the depth of 8 and 10 feet.

Jonathan Boyle celebrated the 70th anniversary of his birthday last Thursday, at which time his children presented him with a handsome easy chair.

Ben Leighty and George Blecks claim to have charge of Dr. Bowman's practice while he is gone. They guarantee to either kill or cure. Give them a call.

Within the past week we have had the following different kinds of weather: snow, sleet, rain, hail, thunder, lightning, stormy, windy, moderate, sunshine, cold, colder, awful cold, most awful cold.

Sol Barney, J. D. Leighty and Dr. Bowman with their wives left last Tuesday morning for a warmer climate than this. They were bound for New Orleans to visit the World's Exposition. They expect to make several stops on the way and visit prominent places.

Choice Mixed Bird Seed only 10 cts per Pound.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, FEB. 14, 1885.

Wilson Sanders will move to St. Joe and occupy Cal Saylor's house.

There was a large crowd in town last Saturday attending Draggoo's sale.

Mrs. Will Dilley of Iowa, is visiting friends in this vicinity.

There were 1,450,768,460 postage stamps sold in the United States last year.

We have some handsome new styles of dress prints. Come in and see them before you buy.

We are out of Keg Syrup and can't get any more. We sold over two hundred gallons.

The ground hog didn't see his shadow, so of course we won't have much more winter weather.

No one has as yet solved either one of the puzzles we have published; we can't do them, and in fact we don't believe they can be done.

Joe Hull's Little Piggy.

I.

Oh now my friends some news I've gleaned,
About a pig that was not weaned;
The property of Joseph A.
Who lives down south, one mile away.

II.

The pig took sick, was very bad,
No such disease his pigs had had;
He felt of it's pulse, then felt of it's snout,
And concluded to give it some rumaty root.

III.

He went to the house and got a sack,
And carried it over on his back;
He made it a nest as good as he could,
And propped it up with sticks of wood.

IV.

Oh now says Joseph that fever I'll break,
This rumaty root now tuk and take;
It will fetch you out snug, I goshens it will,
T'will do you more good than plaster or pill.

V.

Then in comes Franklin who lives o're the way
His favorite remedy is butter milk whey:
John Queen put on a mustard plaster,
And said that would help it get well faster.

Large Sized 10 x 17 Looking Glasses 50 cents.

VI.

Then in comes Silas, and made it's bed wider,
And pick'd up the spoon and gave it cider:
Then who comes next, Jay Tappin, be sure,
And he gave it a drink of Warner's Safe Cure.

VII.

But the pig got worse; the doctors all failed.
It stretched out its legs and curled up its tail:
Then Joseph he took it up in his lap,
And sent Sam Lawhead up after his pap.

VIII.

When Henry came the pig was dead.
He stood and mused, and then he said:
If Jimson salve you had applied,
Your little pig would not have died.

IX.

So now Mr. Joseph I pray you beware,
Of all quack doctors that gathered up there;
If more pigs get sick your remedy will suit,
So stand by the side of old runaty root.

Last Tuesday was the coldest day of the winter.

Debates are held at the Jenkins' school house every Friday evening.

We hear the young folks talk of going up to "hog-waller" to church. Wonder where that is?

Communion services in the church at this place next Sunday at half past ten o'clock. All are invited.

Charlie Grubb and wife are keeping house for Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Leighty while they are at New Orleans.

William Stamen has traded his residence in this place to Mrs. Matilda Wilney, and will move back on to his farm in the spring.

An Interesting and Spicy Letter from John Leighty Jr.

Orchard Lake, Mich., Feb. 1, 1885.

We arrived here last Thursday noon, and I thought at once that I would like the place but in about an hour I changed my mind, because I felt kind of sick, and there was something in my throat; I don't know what it was, though. When we first arrived here pa and an officer trotted me around the grounds, and about 100 heads came out of the windows, and I felt as if I would like to get into my overcoat pocket. Pa stayed about an hour and then we went to the dining hall and there he abandoned me and I was alone among 125 strange boys. Then I felt funny. In the dining hall there is 10 at a table, (or places for 10) and there is what they call the chief of the mess, who deals out the food, and he generally manages to deal out a little more to himself than any one else; but I am in a different mess now than I was and I fare better. The mess that I am now in has only six, and they have the same kind of food on each half of the table, or rather each half of the mess have a dish of food of each kind; for instance each five boys have a pie; well to-day there was only two of the five at our end of the table and we had a chance to eat all the grub that was intended for the whole five, that meant half a pie for me, and when the four boys at the other end of the table saw it they wanted to buy it, and I had an offer of 25 cents for my half, and it was just common apple pie, too. When I am walking around on the ground (which is very seldom,) if an officer sees me he will yell out "palms in front there, you new cadet." The boys that just came, they emptied a pail of water in their beds or a pail of snow, or steal the bed clothes or something of that kind; one fellow said that they made him sit on the point of a bayonet and polish his shoes, which would be a very pleasant occupation, would it not? Before I left home I heard some of the boys say that they would chew tobacco while here if they wanted to; well they might chew if they were not caught at it. In the next room to mine, there is a boy rooming that chewed to his sorrow; he is now under arrest and he does not get to go out of his room only at recitation hours, meal time and to drill. That was a pretty dear chew of tobacco. This morning we had inspection in the drill shed. We were formed into line in front of the barracks and marched to the drill shed where we were drawn up in a line around the rocin, and the Lieutenant came around and inspected everything even to our collars and cuffs. One of the cadets turned his head and the Lieutenant saw it and he turned to one of the minor officers and said: "report Mr. — for turning his head." Every one of these reports counts a demerit, and every 9 demerits entitles the holder to "pack-turf," (which means to shoulder a nine pound musket on walk,) for an hour or more. Just now there was a squad of 23 marched into the drill shed to pack-turf. Some of those boys have to walk 9½ hours. For my part I don't want any of it. That cadet that is under arrest expects to stay so for three or four weeks, and if he is caught out of his room he is liable to be expelled. I believe I will try that on if I get homesick. In a room next to mine there is a cadet

The National Dry Hop Yeast is the Very Best.

(concluded on last page-)

ST. JOE MILLS!

We are prepared to give in exchange for your wheat as much flour and bran as you will get at any of the mills. We have both burr and roller flour; bring in your wheat and take your choice. We have one of the best in the state, and can grind your corn, oats, rye &c., fully satisfactory. With this mill we can and grind it as fine as meal, and grind other grain with it at the same time, which thoroughly mixes your feed while grinding. This mill has proved to be a grand success in other places and we assure you that we will make it a success in St. Joe.

FEED MILLS

CRUSH THE COB

GIVE US A TRIAL

and be convinced that our plan of a mill is better than a real flour mill, because you get a choice of burr and roller flour, because you need not wait to get your grist ground. We

Guarantee Satisfaction

This enterprise is a credit to St. Joe, and if you patronize it, it will grow to a large and profitable business. We cordially ask you to give us a trial.

L. L. & J. Bair,

DEALERS IN

FINE ROLLER FLOUR, CORN MEAL
BUCKWHEAT FLOUR, MILL
FEED, CORN, OATS &c.

Men's All Wool Cotton Suspenders for 25 cents.

A VALENTINE.

Dearest man to you kind sir
I send all the love of one who'd die for yourself or any other feller; hear my plaintive sigh I'm a sad and tender flower; left alone to bloom on the parent tree. I'd brighten every hour of your life but marry me and I'll prove that love is just what the poets softly call the blushing roses, heart brewed, cupid's magic mystic thrall. I can cook and darn and sew. Am I not a lovely prize. Turn not from my pleading, I've waited years in vain; love me and let me love you and I promise sir, I'll be true to you. I pray, won't you be my Valen           tine?
Ere            Say
my roses   that you fade away will name
the           day.

Harry Meek spent several days at Avilla last week.

If you are in need of a pair of good
Spectacles call on Patterson.

Cosmolino Hair Oil is the finest thing out; for sale at the drug store.

George Hanim was in Fort Wayne one
day last week.

When needing anything in the clothing line, remember us.

Duplex Corsets, New Laces, Ribbons,
a good variety at the Nimble Nick.

There were 362,876,750 postal cards
sold in the United States last year.

We have a full line of Men's, Ladies' and Children's Rubber Overshoes. Price low and tariff off.

We have a quantity of choice hand picked beans which we are selling at 4 cents per pound.

For hand and foot use we recommend the Ivory Soap. For sale at the drug store. Try it.

Bert Patterson took up his bed and walked away from this place last week one day. He is now located at Hicksville.

We have been accused of offering half bushel measure for the largest ear of corn, in order to supply the want of a hungry pig. This is a cruel mistake.
We have no pig; we had one, but he died the other day. Bring on your corn though however, and we will try to get another one.

The habit of washing feet is oftentimes attended with great danger, especially during the winter season. W. H.
Simanton, a prominent citizen of Orangeville (this state,) washed his feet one day last week, from which cause he took a severe cold, and it nearly resulted in his having an attack of the eppozootic.

The National Dry Hop Yeast is the Very Best.

that the boys have a good deal, and the other evening he locked them out by putting a chair against his door and under the knob; the boys tried to force it in but could make only a small crack in it; then one of the boys slipped down stairs and came up rattling his bayonet against the steps and tried to play the officer of the day on inspection, but that would not work, so they forced a crack in the door and called him to it, and squirted his eyes full of water. The calls are all given by the drum. They have a drum corps and a band here. I can't think of any thing more that would be interesting, and probably this is not.

Yours Truly,

J. R. Leighty.

Use the Silver Star Baking Powder.
The best in the Market.

We got in a fresh lot of Choice Butter Crackers this week. Get a some.

Lyman Knight will go to New Orleans as soon as his spring term of school closes.

Celluloid Waterproof Linen Cuffs are the cheapest and most durable to buy. Try them; we keep them for sale.

The undersigned has a sugar camp of 150 trees to rent on the shares; inquire at the office of Dr. J. Emanuel, Spencerville, Ind.

Two of our St. Joe ladies went out sleigh riding last week, and while crossing a bridge they drove to close to the edge of it and up-set. Now please don't say any thing about it for we promised not to tell.

Sant Joe has lost of a grate many noted men professionally, an among them awl ther perhaps is nun that is moor ov an expert at his bispess than Will Currie the litening butcher. The trade ov a butcher is one that requirs a gude ffeel ov skill in order to maik a suckcess ov it; especshally must a person bea a gude shooter. In this Mr. Currie is hard to beet, as he has ben known to kill a shear the first shot, at frum a distance ov over three feet, an he killed it dead, too. It is quite a trick too bea abel to cut up a beef in gude stile; it used two bea, in early tymes, that tha wood only cut up certain parts ov a beef into stake, but now tha hav got the bisness down to such a find point, that tha kin maik stake out ov the whole beef, inclooding the horns. Altho Mr. Currie is but a young man he has maid a suckcessfool butcher, and has established a gude trade.

Most Trooly Yours

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

FLORIDA ALLIGATORS AND RATS
Addie Widney and Effie and Pearl Stamen came into see us last Saturday, and set up the first line of this item.

Ladies' Fancy Flowered Handkerchiefs 5 cents.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1886.

No. 23.

We received 500 cans of Canned Fruits and Vegetables this week, which we offer at the following low prices:

Best Yellow Peaches	25 cts.
Best White Peaches	29 cts.
Gold Peaches	35 cts.
Pie Peaches	10 cts.
Red Seal Sweet Corn	10 cts.
Pumpkin	10 cts.
Shepard Tomatoes	19 cts.
California Appricots	25 cts.
California Table Plums	15 cts.
Lima Beans	10 cts.
Marrowfat Peas	8 cts.

Every can warranted.

Use National Yeast.

Best Beans only 25 cts.

Buy your canned goods of us.

It will soon be tax paying time.

Wheat sold at 78 cents this week.

Try our Dried Sweet Corn; only 9 cts per pound.

Our Best Japan Tea is the best that grows. Try it.

Will money be any plentier after the 4th of March?

Canned Peas at 8 cents a can are awful low down cheap.

Traveling men have been more plenty this week than customers.

Don't buy your spring clothing until you examine our stock. We have some special bargains for you.

William Saunders will move back on to their farm next week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Shatt returned home from New Orleans Thursday.

Look out for some really new spring clothing at our store one of these fine days.

It is reported that the persons who let on the election just failed to request to appear before the grand jury.

O. H. Widney will raise up and put a new cellar wall under his house this spring, and otherwise improve it.

We received some of the new patterns of Table Oil Cloths this week. They are beautiful and cheap, too. Call and examine them.

We shall be on deck with a full line of wall paper, bordering, and window curtains, and we hope to have your patronage in this direction.

John Bates of Ohio, is learning the timber's trade under the direction of J. H. Conrad. If any body can make a good timber out of him George can.

The weather prophets claimed that last Wednesday was to have been the coldest day of the winter, but instead of that it proved to be almost the warmest; which goes to show that they don't know any thing more about it than common people.

Special Bargains in Canned Goods this week.

St. Joe

Notes.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail-dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store, and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, FEB. 28, 1885.

We got in a lot of Rick-Rack Braid last week.

Henry Milliman will have a sale on the 3rd of March.

We can make it pay you to buy canned fruit of us.

O. W. Rummel of Spencerville, talks of moving to St. Joe.

Our line of Men's Hats is complete and prices low. It's a fact.

Mell Bishop's alligator died last week. It couldn't stand the cold weather.

George Depew of Mason, Michigan, is making his annual visit with his brother Abe of this place.

Nearly everybody has been wanting Black and White Saxony Yarn. We got in a supply this week.

Rev. E. K. Baker's next regular appointment at this place will be on Sunday evening, March 1, 1885.

Miss Arvilla Patterson of Hicksville visited in town last week the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Patterson.

The Methodist social was entertained on Wednesday evening of last week, by Mrs. Florence Buchanan. There was nearly one hundred persons present, and they report having a splendid time. Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan don't allow people to come out to their house without enjoying themselves. We went out there once with a sled load of folks, and we had a whole barrel full of fun.

Use the Silver Star Baking Powder. The best in the Market.

Celluloid Waterproof Linen Cuffs are the cheapest and most durable to buy. Try them; we keep them for sale.

S. S. Widney spent a couple of days at Auburn last week, visiting friends.

If you don't find any papers in our mail box, ask for them; we always keep a few laid by for those who are not in town every day. You're welcome to them if you will only take the trouble to come and get them.

Pickles are cheap this year—only 8 cents per dozen.

Do you appreciate these little papers enough to give us a share of your trade? If so, we should be glad to receive it.

According to a Michigan paper, Billy Burch of Coldwater is, or ought to be the richest man in the world; and this is the reason why. Thirty years ago he let a farmer have eight chickens to double every year. The other day he thought it was about time to have a settlement, and when they come to figure the matter up, it was found that Billy had 17,179,867,264 chickens coming to him, which he claims are worth on an average 30 cents each. Figure this up and he owns the whole United States or $5,153,960,179,420.

The National Dry Hop Yeast is the Very Best.

The following piece of poetry is most respectfully dedicated from Mervin Widney to his girl:

I dearly luv the singin' bird,
And the little buzzing bee;
But dearer far than all the rest,
Is thy sweet voice to me.

Oh very deep is daddy's well,
And deeper is the sea;
But deeper in my buzzum is
The luv I bear for thee.

Then smile on me, dear Corian,
And make my heart feel lite;
Obtain the Big dog, and I will cum,
A courtin' Sunday mite.

"Pumpkin PP" Fine Cut Tobacco is a splendid article.

Try Uncle Tom's five cent package of smoking tobacco.

Come in and see our assortment of Boots, Shoes and Rubber Goods.

We got in a fresh supply of Canned Corn this week. Price 10 cents.

In the spring when you get ready to buy a plow don't forget to examine the "Burch."

Why will ye go hungry when you can buy Canned Goods as low as we are selling them.

The section men from this place were called to Chicago again last week to shovel snow.

Canned Goods are cheaper this year than they have ever been known to be before. Call in and see about it.

Don't go round wiping your nose on your coat sleeve when you can buy a good hem-stitched handkerchief for only 5 cents. We've got them.

It's funny, isn't it, how some people will set themselves down in the end of the seat at church and all creation can't move them or make them shove along. It's so very pleasant you know, for a person who wants to get into the seat to have to crawl over and squeeze through a space about six inches wide; and sometimes the person who occupies the end of the seat will get up and stand in the aisle while somebody else passes in, and then they plunk themselves down in the corner of the seat again, just as if that particular end of the seat was made for them, and wouldn't fit anybody else. Why wouldn't it be a good idea to arrange pins under the end of each seat, with strings attached to them running to the back end of the church, and then when any one wishes to enter a seat and the person who sits at the end of it won't shove along, have the sexton pull the string, and in most cases, that would no doubt produce the desired effect. It might make a good deal of extra work for the sexton, but it would be a great convenience for the people.

Charlie Grubb talks of buying property in this place.

The Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is still ahead. Do try it.

See our prices on canned fruits and vegetables on another page.

We always carry a full line of Ladies Hand Satchels, and sell them at bottom prices.

L. L. and J. Bair, proprietors of the St. Joe Mills, are working up quite a trade. Their manner of doing business answers, in most respects, the same purpose as a full fledged grist mill.

Men's Heavy Well Made Overalls only 50 cents.

The pay car showed up here last Tuesday.

H. K. Reynolds scrubbed out the depot Tuesday.

Wash Woodcox was in Fort Wayne last Tuesday.

Dan Shearer of Iowa visited friends in St. Joe this week.

Plenty of Rubber Boots and Overshoes at the Nimble Nick store.

William Simanton was seen at church last Sunday evening.

Try a can of our California Plums. They are delicious eating, and we are selling them dreadful cheap.

The Methodist social will be held at the residence of John Engle, on Wednesday evening, March 4th, 1885.

We shall open up something new in Men's Shoes next week. Come in see them. They are nobby, new and cheap.

Next Wednesday Cleveland will be inaugurated as president of the United States, and we will take the tariff off of our prices. Call and see us.

At a meeting held for that purpose on Tuesday evening, Feb. 24th, Sol Barney, George Bleeks and Frank Engle were elected trustees for the Methodist organization at this place. They were also constituted a building committee for the erection of a new church.

Here's a special bargain for the ladies: Fancy Flowered wide hem-stitched Handkerchiefs only 5 cents. They usually sell for 15 and 20 cents but we bought a large quantity of them at a very low figure, and we are thereby enabled to offer them at the above low price. Don't let this opportunity pass without taking advantage of it, and supply yourselves with handkerchiefs.

Did you ever go out on the water and get seasick? We didnt, but Mell Bishop did. While he was down at New Orleans he take a noshun one day to go across the Gulf of Mexico and visit Florida, so he got on board a steamer and started. After tha got out in mid-oshan, ther cum up a grate storm, the winds begin to howl, the rane fell, the waves dashed hi, the boat rocked and Mr. Bishop becom alarmed. The continual rocking ov the boat made him sick: he fealt as tho he had ate sunthin that didnt set well on his stomake; he tried to brace up so that the othar passenjars woodnt notice him, but it wus no use; he get sicker an sicker until finally he cudnt stand it any longer. He managed to get to the edge ov the boat an then, as the old saying is "he just throwed up Joner." It seemed as tho he wood turn himself rong side out; even his butes came up. After several severe attacks ov the same onpleasantness he got better, and during the remainder ov the voiage he enjoyed it. It was a trip long to bea remembered.

Yours Once Moor,
Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

MARCH

Ladies' Fancy Flowered Handkerchiefs 5 cents.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1885.

No. 24.

Miss Lizzie Evans is visiting at Garrett this week.

There were 1688 words in Cleveland's inaugural address.

There will be an eclipse of the sun on the 16th of this month.

Call and see the Sap Pans at J. H. Conrad's. Prices low.

We have plenty of Pie Peaches: only 10 cents per can.

Chris Long was adjudged insane this week and sent to the asylum.

George Depew returned to his home in Michigan this week.

John Simanton was married last Sunday evening, to Miss Wilderson.

The G. A. R. Post of this place held a meeting last Saturday evening.

We shall have in to-day some new men's Brown Stiff Hats. The newest spring style.

Only a few cans of California Plums left. Try them if you want something that's good and no mistake.

There don't seem to be many applicants for the post office at this place. If there is, they seem to be awful quiet about it.

Come in and see our new line of Dress Prints, just received. All brand new spring styles. Also a handsome assortment of Indigo Blue Prints, which are being worn so much.

E. L. Dilley will occupy part of Mrs. Widney's residence.

The higher department of the St. Joe school will close next Wednesday.

The Bohemian outs men have been delivering outs at this place during the past week.

Frank Draggoo will move to Spencer-ville next week and John Means will move into the house made vacant by him.

A Neck-tie and Apron social will be held at the residence of Mrs. Matilda Widney, on Wednesday evening, March 18th, 1885.

We got in another supply of French Prunes this week. They are just splendid eating; every so much better than the common prune. Try them.

Miss Swineford requests us to say that Mrs. Sol Barney, Mrs. Donaldson, Mrs. Reed and her niece Miss Byerly and Mrs. Filley visited her school this week.

Silas Reasoner can kick higher than any other man in this country; all on account of a new boy baby that's stopping at their house. We just got in a new supply of safety pins.

Miss Belle Bowen went to Ohio last Monday morning for a short visit among her old friends. She expects to be absent two or three weeks. Fred has the sympathy of the entire community in this sad affliction.

Ladies' Fancy Flowered Handkerchiefs 5 cents.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store, and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, MAR. 14, 1885.

From the shoe-maker, has moved to Newville.

The weekly prayer meetings are well attended.

Ruff McDonald went to Indianapolis last week.

We can sell you a bolt of Muslin at a special bargain.

Most everybody is complaining now days with a bad cold.

Culbertson & White will occupy Case's corner building with a stock of farm machinery.

The proceeds of the social held at Mr. Engle's on Wednesday evening of last week, amounted to $10.30.

As the COCHIER correspondent from this place says, we are now under good old democratic rule again.

Say, the Burch Plow is the only safe plow to buy. It won't kick, and hardly ever gets out of order.

For pity sake don't go around complaining and finding fault about hard times when you can buy eatables as cheap you can now. There's no use of starving. Look at the following extraordinary low prices on fresh canned goods.

Best Yellow Peaches	25 cts.
Best White Peaches	20 cts.
Good Peaches	15 cts.
Pie Peaches	10 cts.
Red Seal Sweet Corn	10 cts.
Pumpkin	10 cts.
Standard Tomatoes	10 cts.
California Appricots	25 cts.
California Trade Plums	15 cts.
Lima Beans	10 cts.
Sharrowhat Peas	8 cts.

Every can warranted.

If you are going to need any sale this spring we want to print them for you. Please remember us.

At the social the other night some body wanted us to play hurly-burly. We did; but we'll be hurly-burled if we'll ever do it again.

E. L. Dilley has sold his farm and will sell off his stock, farming utensils &c. on next Tuesday, March 17th. He thinks of moving to Iowa in the fall.

While the people of this place were in the south they attended a negro meeting one evening, and during the exercises the old colored preacher called on "Bradder" Bowman to make a few remarks, but as "Bradder" Bowman was not in the habit of speaking in meeting, he very politely declined saying anything.

Ladies' Fancy Flowered Handkerchiefs 5 cents

At a social held not long ago,
 At William Stamen's house;
 They played charades, as all well know,
 As quiet as a mouse.
 (They wasn't very quiet but we had to put that in, in order to make it rhyme.)

There were people there from all around,
 Both old and young and middle aged;
 A happier crowd could not be Found on top of the ground.
 (This verse don't just exactly rhyme, but it answers the purpose alright.)

Bye-and-bye they passed the plates,
 Upon which you could find,
 A piece, biscuit, butter and cake,
 Coffee, and meat of two kinds.

And then they passed another dish,
 About the size of a hat;
 And into that they said they wished,
 We'd put a dime right flat.
 (Of course they didn't care whether you put the dime in flat or not, but we had to say it that way in order to make the poetry flow.)

Then after that they music had,
 And conversation too;
 Until the old folks homeward went,
 And the rest went to playing charades.
 (The rear end of this verse don't rhyme with the second line as it ought to.)

The Nightingale poured forth her lays,
 The Bob-white sang his song;
 The Savage, Slob-law Trade-mark wags,
 And who pum-up Lacrosse wrong.
 (Or any other man.)

'Twas mid-night, and the stilly moon,
 Was shining overhead;
 When Brotner Stamen come to look,
 Behold we all had fled.

Our Best Japan Tea is the best that grows. Try it.

Canned Peas at 8 cents a can are awful low down cheap.

Try our Dried Sweet Corn: only 9 cents per pound.

Plenty of Rubber Boots and Overshoes
 at the Dimple Nick store.

Try a can of our California Peas.
 They are delicious eating, and we are selling them dreadful cheap.

Look out for some nobby new spring clothing at our store one of these few days.

We shall open up something new in Men's Shoes this week. Come in see them. They are nobby, new and cheap.

Don't try your spring clothing until you examine our stock. We have some special bargains for you.

We shall be on stock with a full lot of wall paper, bordering, and window curtains, and we hope to have your patronage in this direction.

We received some handsome new patterns of Table Oil Cloths this week.
 They are beauties and cheap too. Call and examine them.

Here's a special bargain for the ladies.
 Fancy Flowered wide hem-stitched Handkerchiefs only 5 cents. They usually sell for 15 and 20 cents but we bought a large quantity of them at a very low figure, and we are thereby enabled to offer them at the above low price. Don't let this opportunity pass without taking advantage of it, and supply yourselves with handkerchiefs.

Ladies' Fancy Flowered Handkerchiefs 5 cents.

Roller skating rinks are all the go now-a-days; especially in the larger towns and cities. They have one over in Auburn, and some time ago two of St. Joe's most stish young men went over to try their hand at it. The hall was nearly full when they got there; but they put on their skates and started all right. One of them in particular, wanted to show off before a crowd of handsome young ladies that had gathered there; and he did show off reel cutely. The above illustration but feebly represents the scene. The girls giggled and laughed, but that didn't seem to discourage the young man altogether, for he launched all right again, but with the same result—down he came. After several attempts he concluded he wasn't a success as a roller skater and started for home a sadder but a much wiser young man.

(Yours for the first time under the new administration.)

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Reynolds were called to Ohio last Monday to visit his mother who is dangerously sick.

Most of the country schools closed last week.

Vester Widney's big dog "Fam" weighs 110 pounds.

Bill Bohl now drives a white trotting horse.

Ben Hoyt left for his new home in Kansas this week.

We are selling lots of 15 cent handkerchiefs for 5 cents.

Sol Barney was at Fort Wayne the first of this week.

The Burch Plow is the best and cheapest plow to buy.

John Leighty will be home in a couple of weeks on a short vacation.

P. A. Shirts will move to Garrett this summer and engage in work in the railroad shops.

Miss Emma Nelson of Hicksville visited this week with her sister Mrs. W. C. Patterson.

Just stick a pin in here—good ready made towels for a nick, half a dime or 5 cents. Don't eat any thing until you see them.

There was quite a large attendance at church last Sunday evening and Rev. Linoberry preached a very interesting and appropriate sermon.

W. K. Bowen and son J. D. Bowen of Attica, Ohio, visited his brother at this place last week. J. D. Bowen has just graduated from the Toledo Medical College.

Examine our stock of Clothing before you buy.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, MARCH 28, 1885.

No. 25.

Try our new Pan Tea.

Pickles only 8 cts per dozen.

The National Yeast is the best.

One week from next Sunday is Easter.

James Reed is on the sick list this week.

We have sold nearly 100 cans of California Plums.

We have a few smoked hams and shoulders for sale.

George Wyatt is still very poorly and unable to leave his room.

The Methodists have decided to build a brick church here this summer.

Mrs. Hettinger and her daughter Mrs. Myers moved to Mansfield this week.

How to cure a bad cold—use stew pan tea three times a day for 10 years.

We shall have in a handsome new line of fancy window curtains next week.

Cadet John Leighty of the Michigan Military Academy, is at home on a short visit.

A Dusting Cap Social will be held at the residence of Dr. Bowman on Friday evening, April 10th. Of all the funny socials a dusting cap social is the funniest. Don't fail to go.

The next meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at Mrs. Alex. Filley's, on Saturday afternoon, April 11th, at three o'clock. All who are interested in temperance work are earnestly requested to be present.

Come in next week and see our new spring goods. Biggest line of hose ever shown in town; over 500 pairs.

School will commence next Monday with Miss Eva Hunt as principal and Miss Swinford in charge of the primary department.

Our 5 cent handkerchiefs won't fade, and we are selling lots of them; we ordered ten dozen more of them this week; we're bound to have people keep their noses clean.

Talk about your J. I. C. and Mand's trotting horses, but if you want to fly over the country at a lightning speed just get behind Mel Bishop's fast horse, and let the strings loose, and you'll get there before you know it.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer is off on a visit to New Orleans and other places in the south. He will begin a series of letters in our next issue giving a description of his trip down there, and some of the curious and funny things he has seen.

Charlie Shephard is a very liberal hearted creature. He came into the store the other day and very kindly presented us with two common second handed paste board plotters, and then went around and helped himself to a couple of sticks of candy. These insurance agents have got more cheek than a fellow has who has been stung in the face by a half a dozen yellor jackets.

Try our New Fangled Stew Pan Japan Tea.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, MAR. 28, 1885.

Y Lamy Gee went to Kansas last week.

For a change just try our Stew Pan Tea.

Look out there boys, you're smoking up your start.

Call and see the Sap Pans at J. H. Conrad's. Prices low.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis visited friends in Fort Wayne last week.

Miss Maud Byerly returned to her home in Pennsylvania last week.

The Burch Plow is the best and cheapest plow in the market. To buy one is to try it.

It's real funny to think that you can buy 2500 double pointed toothpicks for 10 one cent pieces. Aint it.

One 14 quart pail, one 12 quart pail, one 10 quart pail, one wash basin and one dipper for only one dollar, at J. H. Conrad's Brick Tin Store.

We guarantee every can of fruits and vegetables that we sell to be good. If not found so we will refund the money. You see, don't you.

People are beginning to find out that we mean just what we say in this paper in regard to our goods and prices. We aim to say just what we mean, and mean just what we say. Trade with us.

We would not forget to just merely mention the simple fact that the Nimble Nickle Soap is the best and biggest cake of soap in the world for the money. That's a pretty big story, but it's so.

A barrel of crackers that was laying to close to the track at the depot, was struck by the fast train one night last week and knocked into "smithereens." It looked in the morning as though a shower of crackers had fallen there during the night.

John Means and Cad Walters have formed a partnership for the sale of the Deering Harvesting machines at this place. They will build a shed in which to put their stock of machinery, on Ohas. Widney's vacant lot just west of Testison's grocery.

Last Friday Wineland's loaded a car of fork handle material, and the next morning the local unloaded it. It was a small sized wreck and this is the way it happened: the local crew in taking the car off of the side track neglected to set the brake and the car got into motion and in coming down grade it collided with the balance of the local's train, upsetting the car and spilling the whole load of handles over the main track. The car was badly broken up.

Ladies' Fancy Flowered Handkerchiefs 5 cents.

Notes taken while at the Mush and Milk Social.

The mush was all ate up sleek and clean.

Sally Sleek was so sleek that she sleek out.

Prof. Billy Barlow's elephants were immense.

Barbary Squeers made a bow in the wrong direction.

Frank Barney acted the hoosier school master to a dot.

The mush and milk was good and was ate with a relish.

The children were out in full force, and enjoyed themselves all over.

The song at the close of the school scene reminded us of a half a dozen cats out on a concert expedition.

The quilting scene was as natural as life. It was just like the women do now-a-days; talk, talk, talk.

Henry Durst is about as good an accordion player as you generally come across. He can just make an accordion howl.

Henry Durst entertained the audience with some excellent music on the accordion. He was seconded on the organ by Bert Milliman.

Grandpa Simanton is getting old and feeble. His voice is weak, his eyesight is dim and his hair grey; poor old man, he is just tottering on the verge of a democratic administration.

John Snoozer is a sure shot with a bow and arrow, as well as a gun; and although the arrow didn't come within ten feet of the boy in the Tell scene, it knocked the orange off of his head.

Lyman Knight is teaching school south of Auburn.

We are selling lots of 15 cent handkerchiefs for 5 cents.

Charlie Grubb sold his horse last week for $140 spot cash.

Henry Ables is getting material on the ground for a new brick house to be built in the spring.

Only a few cans of California Plums left. Try them if you want something that's good and no mistake.

We got in another supply of French Prunes this week. They are just splendid eating; every so much better than the common prune. Try them.

Come in and see our new line of Dress Prints, just received. All brand new spring styles. Also a handsome assortment of Indigo Blue Prints, which are being worn so much.

Isaac Moore a conductor on a freight train was arrested at this place last Tuesday morning and taken before Squire Woodcox and fined three dollars and costs for holding the crossing. The fine and costs amounted to a V.

J. H. Conrad has got more brass than any body we know of in this neighborhood; brass bird cages we mean. He just got in a new supply and they do say that he sells lots of them, and sells them cheap, too. .llac a mih eviG

Just stick a pin in here—good ready made towels for a nick, half a dime or 5 cents. Don't eat any thing until you see them. This is the same item we had in last week's paper. You needn't read it unless you want to.

Gallon Cans of Choice New York Apples for 25c.

Last spring we introduced into the market our T pot T and we are pleased to say that it proved to be a big success. We have had a steady sale for it. Only last Saturday a man living near Auburn bought two pounds of it, and he says that he buys a good deal of tea, but that without a doubt this is by far the best tea that he is able to get for the money. That's what they all say. Now therefore what we want to say is this: having supplied nearly all of our customers with a teapot, we have concluded to get a little better grade of tea and change the name of it to Stew Pan T. We have contracted with J. H. Conrad for a quantity of two quart stew pans with iron handles and a good cover, all to be well made out of heavy tin. We purpose to put a pound of this choice Japan tea into one of these stew pans and sell it to you for 50 cents. The tea alone is actually worth that, but as times are a little close, we make this offer in order to increase our trade; preferring to sell good at a less profit and thereby sell more of them. Call and see our Stew Pan T. It is a splendid good thing for the money, and the stew pan is just the handiest article that you could have around the kitchen. Remember the price: only 50 cents for a pound of choice T and a stew pan.

J. D. Leighty was at Indianapolis this week.

Cal Walters went to Cornua last Monday.

Next Wednesday is the appointed time for getting football.

Vick Conrad has got to be quite an expert on roller skates.

The assessors will soon be making their annual calls.

The St. Joe grist mill is now one of the things that used to be.

There will be a concert at Spencerville on Saturday evening, April 4th.

Preaching at half past two o'clock next Sunday by Rev. E. K. Baker.

Mell Bishop is building an office and lime house on his lumber yard.

John Hull is going to Auburn Junction to work at his trade.

Jake Dermott hobbles around on a crutch, all because he fooled with the boys too much.

The next Methodist social will be entertained by Mrs. Sol Barney, on Wednesday evening April 1st.

The other day we heard Jud Gee singing "Do they ever think of me at home." Well Jud, they would certainly be a heartless set if they didn't think of you.

C. H. Gee of Triumph, Ohio, who has been visiting his parents at Cohnrntown for a few weeks, returned home this week. Before leaving he came in and paid the postage on the NEWS. A very sensible thing to do.

As it was't convenient for Mr. Bishop to handle lime in small quantities, he has given that trade to us. We shall keep on hand at all times a supply of White Lime, suitable for white-washing. Please remember it.

APRIL

California Table Plums only 15 cents per Can.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 2.

SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1885.

No. 26.

Wheat sold in town this week for 80 cents.

Mike Long of Auburn was in town last Thursday.

John Leighty returned to Orchard Lake last Monday.

Russ Kopp will put up a new building for a blacksmith shop.

Try our Dried Corn: it is a number one article and cheap.

After you have read this paper please hand it to your neighbor to read.

Miss Bartlett received her spring stock of millinery goods this week.

We offer this week an Extra Quality of White Bed Spreads for $1.25.

Belts are being worn again this spring. We have some nobby new ones.

Those needing Kalsomine will find a full supply at the St. Joe drugstore.

When you clean house buy your Wall Paper and Window Blinds of us.

We got in this week a handsome piece of white cloaking suitable for baby's cloaks. Price low.

We are getting in some handsome new dress prints this week. Also new dress goods. Don't forget us.

For fear you may forget it we wish to call your attention to Stew Pan T. It is one of the biggest bargains out.

A Sociable Social will be held at the residence of Ben Leighty on Friday evening, April 24th, 1885. All are cordially invited to be present.

Charlie Grubb has bought Eck Fales' property and will make St. Joe his future home.

Mrs. E. S. Filley and children, of Fort Wayne spent last Sabbath with her sister Mrs. J. D. Leighty.

It is quite a tedious task to trim wall paper, consequently it is to your interest to buy it of us, as we trim all paper free of charge.

We have something beautiful in Ladies' Shawls. White Cashmere and Silk Embroidered; very handsome. Call and see them. New Chambrays, Gingham &c.

Remember that we carry a new clean stock of Men's, Youth's and Boys' Ready Made Clothing. No old shop worn goods but all new. Call and examine. Our prices are right.

A special bargain in canned goods for the next ten days: 2 cans of Peas, 1 can of Lima Beans and 1 can of Sweet Corn for 25 cents. An average of only 6 1/2 cts per can. Think of it.

We will promise not to say anything more about Stew Pan T if you'll come in and buy a pound of it. Besides that we will give you a good two quart stew pan for nothing. Aint that enuf?

Eck Fales has purchased the blacksmith shop and the residence attached to it. It is reported that he intends to convert the shop into a business room and put in a stock of groceries.

Don't fail to examine our stock of Wall Paper.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1885.

The National Yeast fetches good bread ever time.

H. K. Reynolds was called to Ohio again last week.

We trim all wall paper bought of us free of charge.

The most of the school commenced again last week.

Plenty of lime in small quantities at the Nimble Nick store.

Pickles already prepared in vinegar for sale at the Nimble Nick store.

Mrs. O. H. Widney entertained a number of St. Joe ladies on Thursday of last week.

Wineland talks of putting in a tile mill in connection with his fork handle and shingle factory.

The democratic administration seems to be running smoothly and that's just the way the Burch Plow runs. If you buy a plow this spring try the Burch.

Landlord Leighty got nicely fooled on the first day of April. It is the custom at the hotel that when the men folk's are all absent and some one comes, that they ring the bell in order to notify them that they are wanted. Well it happened on that morning that the men folk's were all up town some where, and some one began to ring the bell at a furious rate. The landlord heard it and struck out for home in a hurry, supposing from the vigorous manner in which the bell was being rung, that he had a customer, or that some of the family were sick, or the house was on fire or something unusual had happened. When he arrived home he hurried into the house and asked his wife what was the matter? She replied: "Oh nothing, this is the first day of April." Then William felt funny.

Why don't some good harness maker locate in St. Joe?

Means & Walters have a branch agricultural store at Coruna.

Use Stew Pan T and you'll be prosperous and happy. Dot ish a fact.

August Kinsey talks of putting up a furniture room on the lot where Brook's shoe shop stands.

Some of us folk's who have children to send to school turned out last week and built a saw-dust side walk from town to the school house.

We have said so much about our 5 cent handkerchiefs that we feel rather modest about mentioning them, and yet we do feel as though in this day and age of the world people ought to keep their noses clean when they can get a good handkerchief for a nickle.

Don't fail to examine our stock of Wall Paper.

A couple of Sundays ago in the afternoon, toward evening, when the sun was just about 5 feet high, we strolled out for a short walk. We went to the west end of Main street and then turned north. As we came to the railroad near the residence of Mr. Long, we saw on the opposite side of the crossing a man with only a few shavers, leading the man and leading a horse that wouldn't go only by stabs and spurs, harnessed to a springing wagon. A short distance behind was the man carrying the baby, and still further back was Vicki, they were all walking aloof. Now the question is why did this man hire a rig to take his family some where with, and then have them walk. Another question is what business has a man out in the mud with only one over shoe on? And still another question is, who spilt the milk? Call on J. H. Connel for all kinds of Tinware, Stuffed Owls &c.

Stew Pan T.

National Yeast.

Nimble Nick Soap.

Tansil's Peach Cigar.

Please try our Stew Pan T.

Big assortment of ladies' hosiery.

We are headquarters for canned goods.

Our line of window curtains is really handsome and prices are low too.

Bohemian outs men are more plenty than one dollar bills.

Ladies will find that our Stew Pan T improves the complexion.

We want 200 families to try our Stew Pan T. Its real healthy.

Joe Wilson this week is feeling very languid, and will engage in his old business, that of selling books.

St. Joe is jam full of new goods this price. We perhaps haven't got as large a stock as the other stores, but what we lack in quantity we make up in variety and style. Drop in and look us over.

We noticed a person the other day blow his nose between his thumb and finger and then wipe it on his coat sleeve. Poor fellow; he probably was not aware that he could get a good handkerchief for 5 cents at the Nimble Nick store.

Oh my! we've just got some of the sweetest ladies' collars you ever saw in your life. The collars are sweet and so are the ladies, but come in and see them for yourself. A law goes with each collar, so you see ladies, that when you buy a collar you get a treat.

A million dollars is a large amount of money. The most of us would feel very comfortable if we had that much cash in our pants pockets. Just think how much Stew Pan T that amount of money would buy; more than two big families could use up in a year. We don't expect to sell it in quite such large quantities as that, but we do hope to supply a good many people with this popular brand of Japan tea.

California Table Plums only 15 cents per Can.

LETTERS FROM THE SOUTH.

No. I.

On the 31th day of March 1885, we got on board a palace frate car at St. Joe bound for the sonny south. As we bid adieu to friends and loved ones we felt sad; the tears fel like barrels of rain water; we realized that we wer going awa on a long journey an that perhaps when we got back we wood bea dead broke. As the trane puled out of the stashun, our druping sperits begin tu revive, and by the tyme we got tu where the over head brige used tu bea, we wer awl over any desire tu bea homesick. We arrived at Conkord on tyme; found the male bag hung up and the postmaster at the depo waiting for the incuming male. Conkord is about the saim size that it used tu bea; it is comfortabla situated on the line of the B. & O. R. R., about 153 miles east of Chicago; it has one advantage over most of the stashuns along this route, and that is the tranes run thru it regularla every day without stopping. But we must hasten, or we will never get much futher south than we ar now.

After leaving Conkord ther was nothing interesting occured until we arrived at the thre kornered rale rode crossing cauled Awburn Juncktion. What happened ther we shal hav tu defer telling until our nex letter.

Yours Trooly,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

How to get your washing out early: use Stew Pan T.

There is one peculiar feature about the Burch Plow and that is you don't have to buy one unless you want to. Call and see it any how.

Milliard Dermott presented us last week with a small pan full of splendid democratic taffy—the pure juice of the tree boiled down. Whew, but it was good. Much obliged.

Byron Widney came into the store one morning last week and in a wild and excited manner said: "Give me a dozen safety pins right away off quick, its a girl, weighs nine pounds, folks all doing well, call me "pap" after this and don't forget to call my father grandpap," and away he went back home to see whether they really had a baby or not.

We wish to call the attention of the farmers of De Kalb County to the fact that R. G. Coburn of Coburntown is selling the celebrated Albion Spring Tooth Sulkey Harrow and Cultivator; admitted by all who have used them, to be the best harrow in the market. He is also handling the Albion Sulkey Hay Rake; the simplest in construction, the most durable and the easiest to manage of any rake ever invented. Any one wanting anything in that line will do well to consult him before buying.

California Table Plums only 15 cents per Can.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, APRIL 25, 1885.

No. 1.

SPRING POETRY.

TUNE: LONG METRE.

The melancholic days have come,
The saddest of the year:
When house cleaning begins to boom,
And men get on their ear.
The carpets up, the stove comes down,
The dirt begins to fly;
If you don't keep your mouth tight shut,
You'll get it in your eye.
Your dinner cold, you'll have to eat,
Upon a barrel head:
And if that don't suit perhaps you'll get,
A piece of old dry bread.

St. Joe is to have another grocery store.
Examine our stock of Hats before you buy.

Don't forget us when you get ready to buy a new suit of clothes.

We take money in exchange for goods
when ever we can get it.

Another arrival of 5 cent nose wipers just received. Some new patterns.

Stop in at the Nimble Nick store and lay in a supply of Pickles.

We are getting in a new line of Men's Neckwear this week. Come and see.

Magic Pocket Knives: something new under the sun. Call and see them.

Full line of Ladies' and Children's summer Gloves at the Nimble Nickle store. Got more Belts this week.

Quarterly meeting at Concord one week from next Saturday and Sunday.

Dr. Emanuel's office at Spencerville was partly destroyed by fire last Wednesday night.

Rev. E. K. Baker will preach in this place next Sunday at half past two o'clock.

Billy Ourrie's mules got naughty one day this week and tumbled him out on the ground.

Braided Jerseys are all the rage; we have a good quality and offer them as low as a man can sell them and live.

Rev. L. L. Carpenter of Wabash, Ind., will preach at the church in this place on next Saturday evening, Sunday morning and evening.

Our stock of shoes is the most complete this spring that we have ever had,
and we bought them at prices that will enable us to meet the lowest competition.
Please bear that in mind.

Farmers who think of buying a pair of Hay Ladders this spring, should call on David Grill, St. Joe. He makes the best ladder in the market and sells them at reasonable prices. Call and see him.

The following persons have found use for safety pins since our last issue: Wm.
Koch a girl, Wm. Bleeks a boy, Milliard
Dermott a boy, Jake Sechler a boy.
They are all doing as well as could be expected.

California Table Plums only 15 cents per Can.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, APRIL 25, 1885.

Stew Pan T is giving the very best of satisfaction.

If you want the best buy the Burch Plow every time.

Mell Bishop keeps a supply of land plaster on hand.

We have in our spring selection of hats. Call and see them.

If you hanker after something sour, try our prepared pickles.

Simon Wineland lost a valuable horse through sickness last week.

Means & Walters got in car load of farm implements last week.

Murray Bros. of Spencerville shipped a car load of broom handles to Chicago last week.

We had an illustrated yarn to publish on Jud Gee this week, but Jud said he would give us a first class thrashing if we did, so we don't. We wouldn't like to be thrashed, and especially by a little fellow like him. Ask Juddy, and perhaps he will tell you all about it.

Peter Shuler is running a restaurant at Anburn Junction. Patronize him when you happen to be in that locality, and feel hungry.

We will promise not to say anything more about Stew Pan T if you'll come in and buy a pound of it. Besides that we will give you a good two quart stew pan for nothing. Aint that enuf?

The social at Dr. Bowman's was largely attended; in fact the house was completely filled, and all seemed to enjoy the occasion splendidly. Charlie Shephard was present and favored the audience with some fine selections of music.

Have you seen those handsome new hanging lamps that we have just got in. They are beauties and they are cheap and you ought to buy one. Also we have some new glass dishes, cake stands and other nice things. Glass dishes for 5, 10 and 15 cents.

Mahlon Baker has resigned his position as weighmaster at this place, and Sell Bowen has been appointed in his stead. Mahlon is looking for an appointment from the government. He wants to be a minister to some foreign country. Mahlon would make a spanking good minister.

Frank Bogar, who lives a couple of miles south of Spencerville, had several chickens stolen from him one night last week, and when he come to look in the hen house the next morning he found a ten dollar gold piece. That was a pretty honest chicken thief, and he paid a good round price for poultry.

California Table Plums only 15 cents per Can.

When sickness hovers round your home,
And you feel lame and sore;
Just send the old man down to town,
To the Nimble Nickle store.

Tell him while there, to quickly get,
A pound of Stew Pan T,
And then to hurry, hurry home,
As quick as quick can be.

Then take and take this Stew Pan T,
About three times a day;
And you will better for it feel,
And longer on the earth will stay.

Those needing Kalsomine will find a full supply at the St. Joe drugstore.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. McClaran of Argus, Ind., visited friends in St. Joe
last week.

John Means says the Bradley Plow is the best. He probably has't heard about the Burch.

We have something beautiful in Ladies'
Shawls. White Cashmere and Silk Embroidered; very handsome. Call and see them. New Chambrays, Gingham &c.

Russ Kopp is putting up quite a large building one door east of Currie's Meat Market; the lower part will be used for a shop, and the upper story will be fitted up into a dwelling.

There is one peculiar feature about the Burch Plow and that is you don't have to buy one unless you want to.
However it will certainly be to your interest to buy the Burch, as it is warranted to work in all kinds of ground, runs light and won't kick. Had'nt you better buy one.

W. O. Patterson is going to build a woodshed this spring.

Ben Leighty has built a summer kitchen and woodshed.

Try our Dried Corn: it is a number one article and cheap.

Belts are being worn again this spring.
We have some nobby new ones.

We offer this week an Extra Quality of White Bed Spreads for $1.25.

When you clean house buy your Wall
Paper and Window Blinds of us.

We got in this week a handsome piece of white cloaking suitable for baby's cloaks. Price low.

We are getting in some handsome new dress prints this week. Also new dress goods. Don't forget us.

For fear you may forget it we wish to call your attention to Stew Pan T. It is one of the biggest bargains out.

Hall's Reversible Hay Carrier is the best in the market. We are agents for them in this vicinity. Call and take a squint at them.

It is quite a tedious task to trim wall paper, consequently it is to your interest to buy it of us, as we trim all paper free of charge.

Remember that we carry a new clean stock of Men's, Youth's and Boys' Ready Made Clothing. No old shop worn goods but all new. Call and examine. Our prices are right.

California Table Plums only 15 cents per Can.

LETTERS FROM THE SOUTH.

No. II.

As we had to wait a couple of hours at Auburn Junction for the south bound train, we improved the time by taking in the sights about town. Auburn Junction is built on stilts mostly: it is chiefly noted for its roller facilities. You can get on the cars there and go any place you want to, that is if you have the stamps. One thing we noticed in particular about this place was that they don't have to dig wells to get water, as they can dip it up right off of the top of the ground. We found out here that several of your citizens who had been south earlier in the season, had stopped over a couple of days at Auburn and taken in the sights of that Anchant city, but as our time was limited, we had to defer the pleasure of a visit to that place until we went over to pay our taxes. We left the Junction at 4 o'clock, and nothing of any interest happened between there and Fort Wane except now and then the train would stop to let on a passenger or to let a cow go across the track. We arrived at Fort Wane as soon as the train got there, and took the evening train out for Cincinnati. While there we visited the various points of interest, including the Zoological Garden; here we found collected all kinds of wild animals and birds in creeping things. The most amusing thing to me was the cage full of monkeys. I stood before that cage for nearly an hour, watching those monkeys act up; some learned professors tell us that man originated from the monkey, and as I stood there with my whole mouth open, gazing at the man-like actions of those animals, I thought perhaps man did accidentally originate from the monkey. They did act just like the world like some men I've seen. But I fear I am spending too much time at the monkey cage, so as the boys say, I pass. We staid all night in Cincinnati, and what we done the next day will have to be kept over until our next letter.

Kindly Yours,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Shoemaker Brooks and his family have moved to Hicksville.

We have shoes to fit all kinds of feet. Call and examine our stock.

Dennis Burley talks of building a house in St. Joe this summer.

Bring in your feet and let us fit them with a nobby pair of spring shoes.

If you want to buy a first class hay ladder call on David Grill, St. Joe.

If you want something that will make good pies, try a can of our Pie Peaches.

We have a splendid stock of Shoes this spring and we are going to sell them at bottom prices. Try us on.

MAY

Examine our New Spring Stock of Fine Shoes.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, MAY 9, 1885.

No. 2.

John Bates on his way over to see his girl.

Stew Pan T.
National Yeast.
Nimble Nickle Soap.
Five cent handkerchiefs.
Gent's Neck Scarfs 5 cents.
For sale only by Case & Olds.
We trim wall paper free of charge.
Dr. Bowman traded horses last week.
There is talk of having the old settler's meeting here again this year.

Try a box of our Fresh XXX Butter Crackers. They are really good.

Rev. Sanders of Bremen, Ind., preached in this place last Sunday evening.

If you want to buy a mower this season, we have two that must be sold, and will sell them at a big sacrifice.

We received another interesting and spicy letter from John Leighty this week which we shall publish in our next issue.

Stew around and try our Stew Pan T. Only 50 cents for a pound of good Japan Tea and a two quart stew pan free for nothing.

An old fashioned young folk's and old folk's social will be held at the residence of John Leighty, on Friday afternoon May 22, 1885. Supper will be served from 5 to 7 o'clock. Everybody is invited.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of this place now has a membership of twenty six; the organization is in a prosperous condition, and will no doubt be the means of accomplishing a good work. Their next meeting will be held at the residence of J. M. Lounsberry, on Saturday afternoon, May 16, 1885, at two o'clock. All are cordially invited.

Bert Patterson spent last Sunday in St. Joe; part of the time visiting his brother, and the rest of the time some where else. Bert started for home Monday morning afoot, and it happened that just as he was leaving, Miss Josie Smith came along on her way to her school, and of course they very agreeably accompanied each other. It was just a happen so. Bert might have gone home on the local but he preferred walking.

Great Big Bargains in Canned Goods this week.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, MAY 9, 1885.

Report of the higher department of the St. Joe school, for the month ending April 24, 1885. Number enrolled 32; names of those neither absent or tardy during the month, and whose deportment was 100: Elsworth Sanders, Nina Filley, Merritt Barney, Charles Herrick, Prudie Lounsberry, Addie Widney, Cora Dilley, Willie Leighty, Clarence Woodcox, Orlow Hall, Charlie Johnson, Effie Dilley, Aroline Currie, Mira Hart, Effie Hart, Emma Currie, Lulu Widney, Samuel Testison, Leona Testison; names of those neither absent or tardy: Harry White, Hattie Hollobaugh, Bertha Hollobaugh; names of those absent but one day: Belle Filley, Maud Godfrey, George Kinsey; names of those whose deportment was 100: Clara Means, Minnie Ulin, Belle Filley, George Kinsey; number of cases of tardiness 6; time lost by tardiness, 1 hour and 38 minutes.

Eva B. Shutt, Teacher.

Gent's Fancy Neck Scarfs only 5 cts. They are cheap.

Report of the primary department of the St. Joe school for the month ending April 24th, 1885.

Names of those neither tardy or absent: Artie Woodcox, Myrtle Hall, Delbert Meek, Jimmie White, Charlie Hart, Cora Widney, Frankie Bishop, Ray Sheffer, Lizzie Dilley, Mattie Testison, Lena Sheffer, Violet Barney, Earnest Hollobaugh, Minnie Testison, Andrew Reed, Frank Testison, Pearl Sharts, Frank Currie, Harper Leighty, Maude Currie, Roy Kinsey, Johnnie Hart, Johnnie Washler, Bertha Hart, Elma Wineland, Frank Kinsey, Nena Leighty, Rattie Bishop, Harry Ulin and Willie Hanna; those absent but one day: Wallie Depew, Musio Woodcox, Bessie Patterson, Tillie Hanna and Early Shuler. Time lost by tardiness 2 hours and 5 minutes.

Deloa Swineford, Teacher.

Examine our stock of Hats before you buy.

Don't forget us when you get ready to buy a new suit of clothes.

Harry Meek is making quite an improvement on his house.

Try our canned corn, beans, peas, tomatoes, pumpkin, peaches, plums, apples, apricots &c.

We printed one thousand circulars for Dr. Ferrell last week. Jim says he has got a good thing and he is going to let the world know it.

Farmers who think of buying a pair of Hay Ladders this spring, should call on David Grill, St. Joe. He makes the best ladder in the market and sells them at reasonable prices. Call and see him.

Great Big Bargains in Canned Goods this week

One big pound of choice Japan Tea for 35 cents.

Dr. Sheffer has quite a collection of stuffed birds in his office.

A car load of potatoes was shipped from this place last week.

We have something new in Lace Window Curtains. Cheaper and better.

We have shoes to fit all kinds of feet. Call and examine our stock.

Bring in your feet and let us fit them with a nobby pair of spring shoes.

If you want to buy a first class hay ladder call on David Grill, St. Joe.

If you want something that will make good pies, try a can of our Pie Peaches.

Stop in at the Nimble Nick store and lay in a supply of Pickles.

Another arrival of 5 cent nose wipers just received. Some new patterns.

Full line of Ladies' and Children's summer Gloves at the Nimble Nickle store. Got more Belts this week.

Billy Currie keeps on hands at all times Fresh and Smoked Meats. Give him a call.

Eck Fales found a five dollar gold piece in front of Barney's store a couple of weeks ago.

Braided Jerseys are all the rage; we have a good quality and offer them as low as a man can sell them and live.

This paper is free to all who will call and get it. How much cheaper than that would you want it?

Our stock of shoes is the most complete this spring that we have ever had, and we bought them at prices that will enable us to meet the lowest competition. Please bear that in mind.

LAND PLASTER

$1.60

per Barrel:

GOOD!

FRESH!

NEW!

TRY IT.

For sale only by

M. T. BISHOP, ST. JOE.

25,000

Blue Ash Shingles

for sale.

Another Car of Lime
Just Received.

Great Big Bargains in Canned Goods this week.

LETTERS FROM THE SOUTH.

No. III.

Cincinnati is a good deal bigger than St. Jo; the houses are finer and the streets are well paved over with blocks so as to make the buggies run lighter and make more noise. The first night we staid there we didn't sleep a wink; there was such a racket on the street that even the bed couldn't rest well. We staid in Cincinnati a littel over three days and a half, which gave us time to take in most of the interesting sites (we didn't take in any thing else.) As we left here we crossed the Ohio river, on a bridge that has the longest span of any bridge in the world; something near two miles in length, more or less, probably the latter. And wa it was quite long; as we slid off of the opposite end of the big bridge we found ourselves on old Kentucky soil. We found the climate here to be a very salubrious; the air was brimmy and it seemed to smell somewhat of whiskey, perhaps that may have been only a notion of ours or the smell may have originated from an uncorked bottle. However Kentucky does raise good spirits. As our train flew over the country, we could not help but admire the beautiful scenery; thru mountains and rocks, over high bridges, into dark tunnels and out again until at last we arrived at Chattanooga. Here we visited Lookout Mountain, the site of one of the great battles of the late war, which even of your readers no doubt remember from personal experience. As I stood on that memorable place and thought of the great conflict that once raged there, I imagined to myself what a fortunate thing for me it was that I was a small boy when that battle occurred. A great many prominent men have stood on that historic spot, I among the rest. From there we took the train direct for New Orleans. The editor is getting sort of cranky like, and he says my articles are too long, and that I must bite them down, so I must close for this time.

Your Humble Servant,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Rev. E. K. Baker will preach in this place next Sunday evening.

Mrs. Joe Metcalf visited friends in Garrett the fore part of this week.

Fremont Nelson and family of Hicksville, visited friends in St. Joe last Sunday.

The lawsuit last Saturday between Dr. Bowman and Ben Wasson was decided in favor of the former.

Now that it is a scarce time to get any thing to eat suppose you try our canned fruits and vegetables.

Billy Curio says that he didn't tremble very much while he was being married. His knees shook some, however.

Go to the Nimble Nickle store for Garden Rakes, Shovels, Spades, Hoes, Forks &c. Prices the lowest.

MARRIED: at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. Lineberry, on Sunday afternoon May 3, William Curio to Miss Deloa Swinford.

We extend to Mr. and Mrs. Curio our heartiest congratulations, with the wish that their married life may always be as bright and joyous as the sun on a mid-summer's day.

Men's Fine Saxony Wool Hats only 50 cents.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, MAY 23, 1885.

No. 3.

Notice!

I have made arrangements with parties in Hicksville whereby I am enabled to keep constantly on hand a supply of fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes &c. I solicit your patronage.

Mart Testison.

The Fourth of July comes on Saturday this year.

Geno Wilson has been on the sick list this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barney are visiting friends in Ohio.

Pickles at 5 cents per dozen are cheap eating. Call and get some.

We have a good assortment of Ladies and Children's Summer Gloves.

We have a few choice dried apples which we will sell if we get a chance.

Examine our stock of Shoes before you buy. We'll make it pay you big.

What shall we eat? Why go down to the Nimble Nickle Store and buy some canned goods.

On account of Rev. E. K. Baker being absent at Synod, there will be no preaching in town Sunday evening.

We received yesterday a new lot of Plain and Figured Lawns. They are being worn this season and those we have are the latest styles. Call and see them. Prices low.

The school reports for this month came in to late for publication in this issue.

Dr. Ferrell has rented the room formerly occupied by Brooks as a shoe shop, and will use it for an office.

Sam White says that a drove of musketoes wrecked a freight train down near Mark Center one evening this week.

The next meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held at the residence of Mr. A. Evans, on Friday afternoon, May 29th, at 2 o'clock. All are cordially invited.

W. C. Patterson has secured the agency in this place for the celebrated Gutta Percha Paint; the most durable of all paints. Call and see him and get his prices.

Devotion Day will be observed this year by the G. A. R. Post of this place. The order of exercises will be about the same as on former years. Rev. O. W. Church of Auburn is expected to deliver the addresses.

Dr. Sheffer was hurriedly called out to Jay Tappan's one day last week, and Jay was immediately rushed off after some safety pins. Before the doctor got home Mart Engle sent for him and low and behold you, Mart had to trot around and hunt up some safety pins; and it wasn't a very good day for safety pins either.

Pickles Prepared in Vinegar only 5c per Dozen.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, MAY 23, 1885.

Mankin's show went from here to Spencer-ville.

Don't neglect to examine our stock of shoes before you buy.

We have reduced the price of Pickles to 5 cents per dozen. Try them.

Try a box of our Fresh XXX Butter Crackers. They are really good.

Evans Dermott had no insurance on his house which was destroyed by fire a couple of weeks ago.

If you want to buy a mower this season, we have two that must be sold, and will sell them at a big sacrifice.

O. H. Widney and Hugh Maxwell were at Huntington last week attending the funeral of their brother-in-law.

Stew around and try our Stew Pan T. Only 50 cents for a pound of good Japan Tea and a two quart stew pan free for nothing.

P. Bishop went to Pennsylvania last week as a delegate to the Lutheran Synod. He will also visit a couple of weeks among old friends and acquaintances.

Go to the St. Joe
Go to the St. Joe
Go to the St. Joe

Drug Store
Drug Store
Drug Store

for Paints, Oils,
for Paints, Oils,
for Paints, Oils,

Varnishes, Brushes
Varnishes, Brushes
Varnishes, Brushes

Kalsomine &c.
Kalsomine &c.
Kalsomine &c.

Prices Low.
Prices Low.
Prices Low.

Examine our New Spring Stock of Fine Shoes.

Letter from John R. Leighty Jr.

Michigan Military Academy,

May 1st, 1885.

Editor News: Don't think me backward in coming forward because I never was. I know it is pretty cheeky to write to you without an invitation, but I know you won't throw this letter in the waste basket until you have at least, tried to read it. Well, I must tell you what I intended for you can fix it up in good shape and print it if the subject is good enough to fix up. Well, the Colonel opened up his kind spot and let considerable kindness run out in the shape of a skirmish drill. Instead of having us pound around the parade grounds and drilling in the manner of arms, marching &c. as usual, he gave us a skirmish drill, and it was the best fun I have had since I came out here. When we started out they gave us ten rounds of blank cartridges and we marched to the parade ground and deployed into a skirmish line; of course it was not a very long one, only 25 men in our company, and they were 5 yards apart. After a little drill and instruction, we raced around over a plowed field and through a swamp, and finally we heard firing on our right, and of course we were all waiting to know what it meant; and so we went through a piece of woods and across a swamp at double time: we soon saw company A and B fighting: both fighting from behind trees, and our captain put us behind the railroad embankment and then the commissioned officers consulted together and made a plan. We followed along behind the railroad for a quarter of a mile (all the time running,) and then cut off through the woods and came up in the rear of company B, and when they saw us they gave such a yell as would have done credit to a regular battle. Company B was holding its own against A, although B had all of the smaller boys in it. When we came up, company B fell back and gave us the front, and it didn't take long for us to find trees or something else to get behind; but it was the orders and of course we obeyed; but finally we rallied, or rather took our proper places, and charged against company A and they ran like—well faster than we could; all but a few who waited for the command, but the captain got rattled, I guess, and forgot to give it, consequently those who lingered behind were captured, and it was real fun to take a prisoner. There was about six or seven got after company A's Lieutenant, and he drew his sword and showed fight, but they all got hold of him and our captain had the honor to take his sword away from him, after which they took him to the rear and set a guard over him and the rest of them. All this time I was busy, very busy; at first I was running around and didn't know what I was busy about, but I soon found something to do. I saw one fellow of our company have an A company's man on his back (the A company man's back of course,) and he was kicking like everything to get loose, so I set my gun up against a tree and got astride of the fellow's feet, and pulled them so he could not use them; finally there was a couple more of our men came along and I was relieved. But while this was going on, company A had rallied behind a barn and were ready for us again, and we soon scattered them and formed in company again, and marched back home the victors. The following is the grand total.

Try Our Stew Pan T. The Biggest Bargain Out.

	C. A. Co.	D. Co.	E.
No. prisoners taken	5	0	0
No. wounded	0	0	0
No. clothes torn	10	14	6
No. cartridges wasted	200	200	200

Yours Truly,

John R. Leighty.

LETTERS FROM THE SOUTH.

No. IV.

Just before entering New Orleans we crossed a lake about 30 miles wide; the water was built on trussels, like the center of it. It seemed like riding over the top of the water. As it was late at night when we arrived at New Orleans, we immediately went to a hotel and went to bed. One thing we noticed that struck us as being quite peculiar and that was the way the beds were arranged; the bed posts projected nearly to the ceiling, and stretched across the top of them is a canopy of some kind. (see picture.) When the musketeers arrived the huge musketeer bar over it and it thus affords a protection from the ravages of this well known bird. Upon enquiry I found that most all well regulated beds in the south were arranged in that way. After performing our customary duties we took the lights and went to bed and enjoyed a good healthy night's rest. We were awakened in the morning by the clatter of the breakfast gong, and after hurriedly dressing we went down to the dining room and partook of a southern breakfast. Everything was cooked in what they called french style and I must confess it was most to frenchy for me; but I managed to make out a meal, and then went out to see some of the attractions of the Crescent City. About the first thing I struck after getting out on the street was a nigger, and the next thing was another nigger; they are very plenty; and of all kinds. Some of them seemed to be nearly 200 years old and still as getting older. There was also some very pretty nigger girls which I take quite a fancy to. New Orleans is a big town, but the streets are awfully dirty. We went down on French Market and there we found a little of everything for sale; fruits and vegetables were being sold right along beside of fancy goods, one old nigger woman would want to sell you some kind of a patent cucumber and probably right next to her another woman would have a new fangled spring stile or hat for sale. All kinds of business was mixed together. There are a number of big grave stones or what some folks call monuments here; they must have cost a pile of money. But I must close.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

JUNE

We offer this week Heavy Jeans Pants for $1.00.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, JUNE 6, 1885.

No. 4.

Old Grimes is dead, that good old man,
You'll never see him more;
He always done his trading
At the Nimble Nickle Store.
He lived to be a hundred,
The reason was, you see;
He used the purest groceries,
And the noted Stew Pan Tea.
He bought a suit of clothes of us,
And wore them, years a score;
The pants was brown, the coat was grey,
All buttoned down before.
But then at last the old man died,
As dead as dead can be;
The last thing that he ever said was
Use the Stew Pan Tea.

New Lawns.

Handsome Lawns.

Everybody buys Lawns.

Fine line of Ladies' Gloves.

Try a kit of our Family White Fish.

Wool is beginning to come into market.

Cecil Rhodes was in town one day this week.

John Means and Cad Walters have dissolved partnership.

Auburn will have a grand celebration on the Fourth of July.

We are getting in more new shoes this week. Call and see them.

J. H. Conrad had eleven teeth extracted last Wednesday morning.

Wanted!

All kinds of Poultry, for which we will pay cash. Give us a call if you have any you wish to dispose of.

P. A. Shirts, St. Joe.

Why don't it rain a little and wet the ground?

Well made, extra heavy, lined Jeans Pants for One Dollar.

Miss Hortie Wyatt went to Red Wing Minnesota last Tuesday.

The prospects for a good corn crop are not very flattering.

We will have a new supply of French Prunes the first of next week.

Of all the pretty posies that grow, Jud Gee likes the bleeding Hart the best.

The ladies all say that we have the finest assortment of Lawns in town.

Bert Patterson, formerly of Kansas but now of Hicksville, Ohio, was in town this week.

There hasn't been a single demand for safety pins in this neighborhood since our last issue.

We want to sell you your shoes, and will make it an object for you to buy of us. We will, for a fact.

The first Strawberry and Ice Cream Festival of the season will be held in Boots' grove on Saturday evening, June 13th, 1885.

Fast Colored Dress Lawns only 6 cents per Yard.

St. Joe

Arms.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, JUNE 6, 1885.

Frank Scholes of Fort Wayne was in town last week.

Wes Hart sold 35,000 brick to parties in Butler last week.

Billy Curie drives around in a brand new butcher wagon.

The first croquet balls of the season for this place commenced rolling last week.

H. K. Reynolds can laugh the heartiest of any man in town. When he laughs he laughs all over.

Remember us when you need Overalls, Cottonade and Jeans Pants. Prices are guaranteed to fit.

Why is it that when you put your hand on a mosquito he sometimes most always isn't there?

Mr. Johnson of Waterloo is canvassing this township for Mr. Blaine's new book, "Twenty Years of Congress."

St. Joe, May 30th, 1885.

Mine Fricuts: I spose I haf so much rite to say samedings as sum odder mon who bays der daxes un stiks by der consterstushun up, an I tels you what, of you vant nisor Putes un Shues an shtore guds, ven you go ofer py der shtore what is nex tu der Drug Shtore pilding, un yu vill find der blace vere yu gits your guds so quik vat yu git tem any vere els; un so sheap un so it vas the bessor blace yu never vas in. Lots mize dings tu luk at, un ven yu tont got any shtamps much, shust cum any vey, ven your cretit vas so gud as old weat. Case & Olds is der men vot keps dot shtore, an of yu tont luk a liddle out, yu git in mit der rong blace. What I nose I nose, I nose I nose, so gud py.

Yocob Grubeustiner.

Tont yu forgot what I tole yu.

Al Hall is putting a cellar under his house and otherwise improving it.

Now is the time to buy your Fourth of July dresses. We've got them.

If you want to keep your horses from jumping buy one of our improved patent horse pokes.

Dr. Bowman and J. D. Leighty have built fine iron fences in front of their residences.

It is reported that David Murray had one of his horses struck by lightening and killed during one of the heavy storms of last week.

There is no millinery shop at Spencer-ville this spring, consequently her lady citizens have to come to St. Joe after their new hats. Poor old Spencerville!

Men's Fine Saxony Wool Hats only 50 cents.

Report of the St. Joe primary school for the month ending May 22, 1885: Number of scholars enrolled 54: names of those not absent during the month: Artie Woodcox, Morris Curie, Delbert Meek, Jimmie White, Charlie Hart, Mattie Testison, Frankie Bishop, Violet Barney, Earnest Hollabough, Minnie Testison, Andrew Reed, Frank Testison, Georgia Simanton, Cora Shuler, Frankie Bowman, Harper Leighty, Johnnie Testison, Maud Woodcox, Tillie Hamm, Johnnie Washler, Maud Curie, Willie Hamm, Roy Kinsey, Johnnie Hart, Ray Shaffer, Bertha Hart, Harry Ulm, Frankie Kinsey, Bettie Bishop, Nena Leighty, Frankie Curie, Elma Wineland. Names of those missing but one day: Bessie Patterson, Myrtle Hall, Earl Shuler, Georgia Johnson and Charlie Donaldson. Time lost by tardiness 55 minutes.

Loa Curie, Teacher.

Pickles at 5 cents per dozen are cheap eating. Call and get some.

We have a good assortment of Ladies and Children's Summer Gloves.

Examine our stock of Shoes before you buy. We'll make it pay you big.

Mell Bishop is selling lots of Lime this spring. He got in another car load this week.

What shall we eat? Why go down to the Nimble Nickle Store and buy some canned goods.

The County Sunday School Convention will be held at Garrett this year on the 9th and 10th of June. A good programme has been arranged and all who possibly can should attend.

Stew Pan Tea.
Stew Pan Tea.
Stew Pan Tea.
Stew Pan Tea.
Stew Pan Tea.
Stew Pan Tea.
Stew Pan Tea.

Jud Gee has got a new girl. She lives at Orangeville when she is at home.

Remember that Mart Testison keeps on hand at all times fresh bread, Buns, Cakes &c.

We have had an unusually good trade in wall paper this spring. We still have some handsome patterns.

Our line of shoes is worthy of your examination, and our prices are certainly reasonable. Try us on.

We sold ten lawn dress patterns one day this week. Call and see our assortment of Lawns, Laces &c.

St. Joe is the neatest and cleanest little town along the St. Joe river. At least we think so, don't we?

Which would be the most desirable to die, or to be eaten up alive by the mosquitoes. Please let us know by return mail.

People are still wiping their noses with our 5 cent handkerchiefs. In fact we don't see why they aint good enough to wipe the nicest nose in this neighborhood. Get you one; they are only 5 cts. They won't fade.

Fast Colored Dress Lawns only 6 cents per Yard.

LETTERS FROM THE SOUTH.

No. V.

New Orleans has a grate many interesting and attractive fetures, but our limited space wil not admit ov a descriptshun ov them awl. We found that the Exposishun grounds wer quite a distance from the citty, and that ther wer several diferant ways ov getting ther; by streat cars, by the steembote, by private conveyance or you cood walk afoot. We chose the latter, partly becaws it wood bea cheaper, but moor particlar on account ov the opportunity thuss afforded tu sea the country. The first thing we encountered upon arriving at the entrance tu the Exposishun ground was a demand fur 50 cents, the price ov admishun tu the grate show. It seemed like a party big fea but we paid it and went in. We wer expecting tu sea sumthing immenc, but the magnitude ov that grate ara ov home an foren exhibits, as wel as the beanti and grandure ov the grounds with ther mammoth buildings, compelled us tu stand and gaze with awe upon the grate scene spred befour us. We stood and loked fur about 20 minets with our mouth, eers, eyes and nose wide open: it must hav loked green in us tu stand ther and luk so, but we cood'nt very wel help it. Such monstros big buildings; the biggest one wich is cauled the main building is said tu bea the largist in the world; it covars 33 akers. Awl most a smal farm undar roof. As you entar this building and pass thru it, you are then but poorly abel tu comprehend the length, bredth and thickness ov this vast enterprize. Everything imaginabel awlmost, can be scene. One among the first things tu wich our attenshun was particularis attractked was a large lump ov silvar. It was said tu bea worth nearly $114,000.00, so yu ma kuo it must hav ben ov a pritty big size; at least I don't beleve ther was ana danger ov ana one picking it up and putting it in ther cote pocket an walking off with it. The various state exhibits were fine: in fact every thing was fine, so mity fine that we are unabel tu give a discription ov them. But we hav awl reddy taken up our alloted space fur this tyme, so we must defer the continuashun ov this letter until our nex issu.

Yours Cordally,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

We have a new assortment of Ladies' Serge and Silk Parasols.

We got in some larger sized belts this week. Call at once if you want one.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Zimmerman of Auburn, visited friends in St. Joe over last Sabbath.

Miss Ollie Overholtzer and Miss Josie Smith visited friends in Garrett last Sabbath.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Patterson of Hickville, visited his brother at this place last Wednesday.

Our stock of Ladies' Shoes and Slippers is large and we are enabled to fit all sizes of feet from 2's to 15's.

Mrs. J. D. Leighty, Mrs. A. C. Donaldson, Miss Lizzie Evans, Alex. Filley and J. M. Lounsberry were appointed as delegates to represent the St. Joe school at the County Sunday School Convention, to be held at Garrett next week.

Honey Drips Syrup only 45 cents per Gallon.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, JUNE 20, 1885.

No. 5.

Mell Bishop made a flying trip to Auburn yesterday.

Don't forget to price our Lawns before you buy.

John Leighty Jr. is at home on his summer vacation.

Our line of Boys' Clothing is complete and prices way down.

Chew the "Golden Rule" Plug Tobacco. It is the best plug made.

Rev. E. W. Erick of White Pigeon, Mich., was in town Thursday.

Call in and try one of our new brand of cigars. They are funny.

We can show you the best line of 10c Hosiery ever opened up in St. Joe.

Don't you want a pair of silk gloves? We got in some new shades this week.

Something new in Ladies' Belts with hand bag to match. Call and see them.

Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Bowman attended the funeral of Dr. Cowan at Auburn yesterday.

A genuine meerschaum pipe given away with every pound of our new smoking tobacco. Surely a bargain.

We offer some new novelties in Gent's Neckware. Satin String Ties, Fancy Bows &c. Regular Fourth of July goods. Take no other.

Samuel Davis of Fort Wayne, son of Robert Davis of this place, died last Tuesday and was buried in the Spencerville cemetery on Thursday.

We have just received a new lot of Ladies' Hand Satchels, which we will sell cheap. Remember it.

Jake Dermott raised some strawberries this year that measured 5½ inches in circumference. Who can beat it?

We are getting in this week 25 dozen Ladies' and Misses' Hosiery. Some special bargains for our Fourth of July trade. Don't forget them.

W. K. Sheffer, editor ANGLIA HERALD, B. R. and S. S. Sheffer of Kendallville with their families, spent last Sunday in this place the guest of their brother, B. S. Sheffer M. D.

Our stock of white and figured lawns is worthy your attention. We got in something new in white goods this week. Its just splendid. Call and see it SURE before you buy. Also we have just received a new supply of Hoop Skirts, which we are selling cheap.

The closing exercises of the St. Joe schools occurred in the grove near the school building on Friday afternoon of this week. The programme consisted of singing, speaking, cake, ice cream and a good time generally. Miss Shutt and Mrs. Curie, the teachers, have labored hard to make the present term of school a success, and the way the scholars acquitted themselves in singing and speaking is evidence that their efforts have not been in vain.

If you want a good thing, try our Stew Pan T.

St. Joe News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, JUNE 20, 1885.

Dr. Bowman drives a new trotting horse.

Most all of the schools will close this week.

Eck Fales is having his grocery room fitted up.

Postmaster Weeks of Newville was in town last week.

Buy your Fourth of July shoes of us and you will enjoy yourself better.

Three car loads of wool and one of hogs were shipped from this place last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Culbertson of Auburn were the guests of P. A. Smith and wife over last Sabbath.

The social at Reed's last week was well attended and the ice cream and cake was smacking good.

Mrs. Metzger, Mrs. Bowser and Walter Filley of Fort Wayne spent last Sunday in St. Joe, the guests of Mrs. J. D. Leighty.

Evans Dermott, who's house was destroyed by fire some weeks ago, is getting material on the ground for a new brick house to be built this fall. Last Saturday his neighbors all turned out and donated him a day's work; some cutting logs, hauling logs, brick, sand &c. Such acts of kindness speak well for that neighborhood, and are no doubt gratefully appreciated by Mr. Dermott.

The old settler's meeting was held at Auburn last Thursday.

We sold 5 pounds of Stew Pan Tea last Saturday. Try it yourself.

Several of the young ladies of this place will attend the Normal to be held Newville, commencing sometime next month.

We still have a few pickles left at 5 cents per dozen.

We are selling lots of Fish and would like to supply you with what you need. Quality good and prices right.

James Reed and P. A. Shirts are building a barn for Wm. Simonton.

Over twenty-five persons got on board the west bound train at this place on Tuesday of last week, all going to Garrett to attend the County Sunday School Convention. It was a jolly crowd, and yet not a bit too jolly to make the trip a pleasant one. The convention was a very interesting one, and the people of Garrett certainly have the faculty of entertaining visitors in a first class manner. The next convention will be held at Butler.

Heavy Jeans Pants for $1.00.

Charles Coburn has got his corn all planted and he didn't do it all him self either. A tramp came along that way about corn planting time, who was anxious for a job of work, and as Mr. Coburn was somewhat behind with his work, he concluded to let him plant corn. He had a small field containing about five acres already marked out, and giving the tramp a planter and some corn he told him to go to work. While he himself went to another part of the farm to work. In the evening the tramp came in and said that he had finished planting the field, and Mr. Coburn paid him for his work and he went on his way rejoicing. Thus far every thing was lovely and the goose hung high. But behold you, when that corn came up, it was discovered that the tramp instead of planting the corn in the furrows that had been marked out for that purpose, he took a more convenient way, and dropped it where ever he happened to let the planter down. The above cut gives a sort of an idea of how the field looked.

Wanted!

All kinds of Poultry, for which we will pay cash. Give us a call if you have any you wish to dispose of.

P. A. Shirts, St. Joe.

New Lawns.

Handsome Lawns.

Everybody buys Lawns.

Fine line of Ladies' Gloves.

Try a kit of our Family White Fish.

We are getting in more new shoes this week. Call and see them.

Well made, extra heavy, lined Jeans Pants for One Dollar.

We have a new assortment of Ladies' Serge and Silk Parasols.

We got in some larger sized belts this week. Call at once if you want one.

The ladies all say that we have the finest assortment of Lawns in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Orange Fales of Napanee, visited friends in this place last week.

We want to sell you your shoes, and will make it an object for you to buy of us. We will, for a fact.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis left on Friday morning of last week for a visit among friends in Ohio.

Our stock of Ladies' Shoes and Slippers is large and we are enabled to fit all sizes of feet from 2's to 15's. We most urgently request that you examine our stock before buying.

Extra Family White Fish in Pails only 75 cents.

LETTERS FROM THE SOUTH.

No. VI.

A person in order to get the full benefit of the Expo an see the whole business enclooding aul the side shows, wood want to spend at the least calculashun, a month here. The first day I was out to the ground I but caught a fante glimpse of what was to be scene, and as I only staid 6½ days yu ma kno that I was not abel to fully take it aul in. In the main building was to be scene aulmost everything; the manufactur ov aul kinds ov guds was here represented. The display of fancy artikles was just simply magnificent: yu cood, as the poet says, feast your eyes on fat things. Fur the benefit ov the ladies I wood sa that I saw the most luvly display ov hats that it has ever ben my lot to behold. In this particular the ladies of the south ar alike those ov the north; they are exceptionally fond ov new hats. It don't matter how ugly or unbecuming tha ar, just so tha ar in stile. The display ov woolen goods, dress goods, carpets &c. went ahd ov ana thing I ever seen in St. Joe. A bras band was constantly on the ground discorsing sweet musick, and aul most daly grand koncerts were given in musick hall. We noticed a large kake ov sope about three feat squar; it was bigger than most peple care to handel. We didnt enquir what kind ov sope it was, but supposed ov corse it was the Nimble Nickle, as that is the best sope maid. Tu ana one fond ov machinery Agrecultural Hall presents a scene rarly eyar witnessed; it is a moving mass ov wheels, belts &c. Every imaginabel kind ov machinery can be seen in moshun.

Horticultural and Florral Halls with ther millions ov plants and flowers was to me the grandest site ov aul; one who has nevar had the pleasure ov seeinn such a display can not realize how magnificent this is. Other departments wer equally as grand, and if hundreds ov letters wer ritten discriptiv ov the Nue Orleans Exposishun ther wood still bea moor to tell. With this issa this serie ov letters will close, and we trust that, if they hav not interested yu or afforded yu ana amusement, that tha hav at least done yu kno harm.

Yours Fraternally

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Try our Family White Fish in pails. They are extyt. *

We got in some new Pie Peaches this week. Also some Canned Apples.

Rev. E. K. Baker will preach at the church in this place next Sunday evening.

We have sold twenty-five dozen (250) five cent handkerchiefs, and yet we get in a new supply this week. Get one and keep your nose clean.

The citizens of St. Joe were aroused from their slumbers last Monday night about 12 o'clock by the ringing of the church bell and the cry of fire. It was found upon getting out that Joe Knisely's house was ablaze, but through the prompt exertions of the men who first arrived upon the scene, the flames were extinguished before they had done any more harm than to burn through one of the side walls and the door. Five minutes more and it could not have been saved. It caught from a pan of coals that had been set out the night before for a musquito smudge.

JULY

Honey Drips Syrup only 45 cents per Gallon.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, JULY 4, 1885.

No. 6.

J. A. Campbell of Butler was in town Wednesday.

Try our canned Apples; they make splendid pies.

Postmaster Frank Barney was in Auburn Monday evening.

Mrs. Anna McDonald visited friends at Newville this week.

Who can't afford a new dress when you can buy lawns for 5 cents.

Don't forget us when you buy your groceries for harvest time.

Please to remember that we also keep an assortment of Children's Gloves.

Pumpkin Pi is good. We'll furnish the pumpkin if you'll furnish the pi.

We only have about one dozen cans of California Plums left. Try them.

Rev. J. P. Kester of La Harpe, Ill., visited friends in this neighborhood this week.

Rev. E. K. Baker has resigned as pastor of the Spencerville charge, and has accepted a call from a church near his old home in Ohio.

Vick Conrad was quite seriously hurt last Saturday evening, by being run onto by a horse. He is better now however, and able to be around again.

Buy Fish in Pails and then you have a good pail when the fish are used out. We are the only house in St. Joe that keeps fish put up in pails. Call and see us before you buy your harvest groceries and we will make it pay you.

Now is the time to eat canned tomatoes. We are selling three cans of standards for 25 cents.

The machine men of St. Joe had a few words with each other this week but nobody got hurt.

We got in a few new pieces of small figured lawns this week. Price reduced to 5 cents.

We sold over 450 Mackerel Fish last week. Reason why: we sold them very cheap. Give us your fish trade.

At last we have succeeded in getting a line of Ladies' Belts. Call at once if you want one, for they are selling out quite rapidly.

A tramp set fire to Chris Curie's barn last Tuesday while they were eating dinner, but they noticed it in time to save it from burning down.

Mrs. Vannatta and Miss Wineland of Delaware, Ohio, sisters of Ranson Wineland, the night telegraph operator at this place, visited here over last Sunday.

Misses Addie Widney, Prudie Lounsberry and Nina Filley will attend the Normal school to be held at Newville, commencing on the thirteenth of this month.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Mrs. A. O. Donaldson, on Saturday afternoon, July 11, 1885, at three o'clock. Members as well as others are requested to be present.

Honey Drips Syrup only 45 cents per Gallon.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, JULY 4, 1885.

Croquet balls don't get much rest now-a-days.

The strawberry season was short but sweet this year.

Island Park Assembly at Rome City commences next week.

Try our Honey Drips Syrup. It is a fine color and flavor.

David Grill is selling off his Hay Ladders as fast as he makes them.

W. O. Patterson got in some new Jewelry last week. Call and see it.

Over 1,803,600 quarts of strawberries have been shipped from Centralia, Ill., to Chicago this season.

George Hamm was laid up last week with too much cheek. He had a bealing on the inside of it.

If you are wise and want the best Baking Powder to do your baking with, be sure to get the Silver Star.

Wanted!

All kinds of Poultry, for which we will pay cash. Give us a call if you have any you wish to dispose of.

P. A. Shirts, St. Joe, Ind.

Charles Shephard wasn't in town one day last week.

Some folks think our Pie Peaches makes tip-top sauce, and in fact they don't go bad with plenty of sugar on them. The best way to find out is to try them.

Of course we don't want you to say any thing about it, but we heard that over in the neighborhood of Coburntown they say that the Stew Pan Tea is the best tea for the money in the market. Try it and see.

Jerry Andrews bought a pound of our Stew Pan Tea, and the next week he came back and bought another pound, so you may know it was good or he wouldn't have come back the second time. One pound of good Japan Tea put up in a 25 cent Stew Pan for only 50 cents. That's what we call Stew Pan Tea. Will you or won't you.

A phrenologist was in town last week, and John Widney, Wid Patterson and Alex. Filley got their heads examined. We did not learn just what the result of the examination was, but we are under the impression that he found some cavities under their craniums that wasn't fully developed. The gentlemen would have no doubt received more benefit by having their wife's examine their heads with the big end of a broomstick.

Honey Drips Syrup only 45 cents per Gallon.

The Fourth of July
is here again,
With pop-guns
And pistols,
And trinkets
And toys,
To make noise
For the boys.

Henry Maxwell has built him a fine new barn.

Don't forget to price our Lawns before you buy.

Our line of Boys' Clothing is complete and prices way down.

We can show you the best line of 10c
Hosiery ever opened up in St. Joe.

Chew the "Golden Rule" Plug Tobacco. It is the best plug made.

Call in and try one of our new brand of cigars. They are funny.

Plenty of Self Sealing Fruit Cans at the Nimble Nickle store.

Don't you want a pair of silk gloves?
We got in some new shades this week.

Rev. E. K. Baker will preach at the church in this place next Sunday at three o'clock.

A one horse show gave an exhibition in town last week. The rope walking was about as good as some of our small boys can do.

We offer some new novelties in Gent's
Neckware. Satin String Ties, Fancy Bows &c. Regular Fourth of July goods. Take no other.

Frank Zeru was home on a short visit
last week.

Try our Family White Fish balls.
They are extyt.

We got in some new Pie Patches this week. Also some Canned Apples.

Shutt, Culbertson & White delivered a car load of Champion machines to this place last week.

Mrs. W. C. Patterson and Mrs. D. M.
Lounsberry visited friends in Jackson
last week.

A genuine meerschaum pipe given away with every pound of our new tobacco. Surely a bargain.

If you want something to make your pies out of, try a can of our fresh sauce. Gallon cans only 25 cents.

We have just received a new lot of Ladies' Hand Satchels, which we will sell cheap. Remember it.

Billy Curie now eats grub off his own table, he having gone to house keeping last week in Wm. Bonds' vacant residence.

In order to persuade you if possible to keep cool this summer, we will sell you three good palm leaf fans for 5 cts.

Our stock of white and figured lawns is worthy your attention. We got in something new in white goods this week.
Its just splendid. Call and see it SURE before you buy. Also we have just received a new supply of Hoop Skirts, which we are selling cheap.

Honey Drips Syrup only 45 cents per Gallon.

Wel, we arived home safe and sound from our suthern trip an hav settled down tu bisness agin a wiser but a mity site pourer man. The glorious old Forth ov Julli has cum around agin, hasnt it? It seems tu git here once a year pretty reglar, and altho it is now on its 109th annual tower, the peopel ov the Unitead Staits make just as much fuss over it as tha did wen it was but an infant in its mother's arms. The Forth is the tyme when men git ful ov patriotism. In earlier days patriotism used tu consist ov a luv fur one's country, but in these mor modern tymes it is put up in pint, half pint and quart bottels. Tu the smal boy the Forth ov Julli has mana charms; tu him it is a day ov noise an racket, and the moor racket he can make the happier he is. But tu the young fellow who is just on the verge ov blushing manhood, who's uppar lip is just begining to down ovar with it's first fuzz; tu him it is the one grate brite spot in the year. As he goes forth with his gurl tu celebrate the Nashun's birthday he thinks he knos moor in a minnet than his "pap" does in a year. Behold them as the prominaid thru the principal streets, hand in hand, chawing gingarbred and eating peenuts. What a luvly site. I hav endeavored in the pickture tu illustrate about how a young man and his gurl wood juke upon such an occashun. Tha are not eatin gingarbred and peenuts now, becaws the young nian has spent awl ov his munny. But tha are happi. Then tu, the Forth ov Julli has its store ov pleasur fur the oldar pepel; tha luv amusement and can enjoy the fun that one littel fire cracker can santymes make just as wel as yot'g peple. But we must close, hoping that yu ma enjoy the cumming Forth in a profitable mannar, I am

Patriotically Yours,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Al Bair of Syracuse was in town last week.

Auburn has get a new steam fire engine.

Simon Wineland has built an addition to his house.

Stew Pan Tea is moving right out at a two forty rate.

Mrs. P. A. Shirts visited friends in Auburn last week.

Miss Josie Smith visited among friends in Auburn last week.

Jacob Walborn of Auburn was on our streets on day last week.

The best and cheapest place to buy Fish is at the Nimble Nickle store.

Only two tickets were sold at this place for Cedar Beach last Sunday.

Buy the Crystal Sealing Wax. It is the best and is therefore the cheapest.

Call at the drugstore and see the big fly. It is nearly 8 inches long and measures 6 inches across the wings. Its a whopper.

If you want good bread use the National Yeast.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, JULY 18, 1885.

No. 7.

Miss Mary Flint went to Minnesota last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Leighty and son John have been up among the Stenben county lakes this week taking in some of the finny tribe.

We offer this week Ladies' Fine Braided Jerseys for $1.50. Scolloped and Braided Jerseys for $1.75. These are real bargains.

Charlie Coburn's wife says our Stew Pan Tea is as good as she usually paid 65 cents for. We sell it for 35 cents without the stew pan. Try it.

A couple of Spencerville laddies came up here Thursday to knock the stuffing out our boys on a game of croquet. After our boys had beat them 5 games, they made up their minds that they couldnt play and went home.

The ladies of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, assisted by the young people of St. Joe, will give a concert in the church, on Sunday evening, July 19, 1885. The concert is free, and all are cordially invited to attend.

August Kinsey is building a large addition to Case's corner building and about the first of August he will occupy it with the largest stock of furniture ever shown in St. Joe. He proposes to make this town headquarters for everything in the furniture line. Call and see him.

Mrs. Conrad will entertain the next meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union on Saturday afternoon, July 25, 1885, at three o'clock. All are invited to be present.

P. A. Shurts is agent in this place for Hall's Patent Chain Pumps. If you think of buying a new pump, don't do so until you have seen this one; it is an improvement over all others.

Persons who think of buying a Wind Pump, should call on A. Zern and see the model of the "Governor," which is made at La Otto, Ind. It has certain valuable improvements that can be found on no other mill. Call and examine it.

Mrs. Dr. Bowman and her sons Frank and Ray, Mrs. Wm. Leighty and her son Willie and daughter May, of this place, and Miss Rebecca Johnson and Mrs. Overholtzer of Spencerville, have been rusticating at Rome City this week.

The Jackson Center Cornet Band will give a Concert and Festival in Boots' Grove, on Saturday evening July 25th, 1885. The concert will consist of band, instrumental and vocal music, comic songs &c. Prof. Hapen and wife, both of whom are accomplished musicians, will be present and will favor the audience with some fine selections of music. Mr. McCurdy will perform some daring acrobatic feats on a slack wire. Don't fail to go if you want to have a good time.

The Silver Star Baking Powder takes the cake.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, JULY 18, 1885.

Try our canned Apples; they make splendid pies.

Stew Pan Tea is moving right out at a two forty rate.

We got in a fresh supply of National Yeast this week. It's the best.

August Kinsey has rented Case's corner building and will move his stock of furniture into it.

Don't pay 15 and 20 cents for a Curry Comb, when you can buy one just as good of us for 10 cents.

Wm. Shambaugh will speak at the Hurshtown festival Saturday evening. Wonder if he will tell his potato story.

There will be a harvest festival at Hurshtown on Saturday evening, July 18th, 1885. Three brass bands will be present.

A man said to us last week: "Give us a rest on Stew Pan Tea." Well, my dear sir, we would like too, just to please you, but we can't possibly do it. We've got a good thing and it's our duty to let the world know it.

- 18 Fancy Decorated Plates.
- 12 Handsome Pickle Dishes.
- 3 Cups and Saucers.
- 3 Beautiful Bread Plates.
- 3 Large Water Pitchers.
- 3 Large Fruit Dishes.
- 3 Elegant Milk Pitchers.
- 2 Majolica Tea Pots.
- 1 Covered Molasses Pitcher.
- 1 Handsome Cake Stand.

The above are all new patterns of Majolica ware, handsomely decorated in colors, and are actually given away with the Silver Star Baking Powder, one of the best baking powders in the market. Try it.

The Silver Star Baking Powder bakes the cake.

Mell Bishop got in two more car loads of shingles last week.

Byron Woodcox painted the wood-work of John Engle's house last week.

Russ Kopp has had a coat of paint put on his blacksmith shop.

Mrs. J. D. Leighty spent part of last week in Fort Wayne.

A new iron bridge is being built over the river at Newville.

How much is five times ten? Just exactly enough to buy a pound of our Stew Pan Tea.

Above everything else keep your nose clean. If you can't use your coat sleeve buy one of our 5 cent handkerchiefs.

At last we have succeeded in getting a line of Ladies' Belts. Call at once if you want one, for they are selling out quite rapidly.

MARRIED: at the Lutheran parsonage in Spencerville, by Rev. E. K. Baker on Sunday, July 5, 1885, John Johnson to Miss Minnie Draggoo.

Honey Drips Syrup only 45 cents per Gallon.

Who can't afford a new dress?
can buy lace for 5 cents.

Don't forget to when you buy a grocery for a time.

Please to remember that we have an assortment of the best of goods.

Pumpkin Pie is good. If you like the pumpkin if you'll furnish the pie.

We only have out one dozen cases of California Raisins left. Try them.

For the best and cheapest place to buy fish is at the Norfolk North at 100.

For the best and is there for the cheap.

Now is the time to eat canned tomatoes.
We are selling three cans of standards for 10 cents.

Fifty pieces of the best of goods were given away with this Silver Star
Baking Powder. Call and see them.

Miss Ollie Crim of Gallipoli, Ohio, is visiting in St. Joe, the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Robert Davis.

Buy Fish in Pails and then you have a good pail when the fish are used out. We are the only house in St. Joe that keeps fish put up in pails. Call and see us before you buy your harvest groceries and we will make it pay you.

A young fellow who clerks in the store at Concord was seriously injured one day last week by the explosion of some powder.
He was weighing out some powder which was kept in a glass can and the person who was buying it, carelessly dropped some fire out of a pipe which he was smoking into the can and away it went. The smoker escaped without being hurt but the clerk got badly burnt and cut about the face.

Where and How some our Citizens spent the Fourth of July.

Mr. Baker shaved his head and washed his face.

Mr. Baker shaved his head and
washed his face.

Miss Jessie Smith took in the Fourth of July.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

Mr. J. H. Reynolds wore his coat that has
three buttons on.

If you want good bread use the National Yeast.

The Editor wanted me to say a word about the Silver Star Baking Powder but I don't know much about it. I know that for he is a very good man and he has a lot of knowledge about baking powder as a matter of fact he is a baker. I don't know much about it but I know that it is a good thing and it is used for the same purpose as the Snowflake and Lilly White is. I don't know much about it but I know that it is a good thing and it is used for the same purpose as the Snowflake and Lilly White is.

Humbly Yours,

Bureau of Baking Powder

Remember the Festival and Come it in Boots' Grove on Saturday evening, July 25th. It will be a grand affair.

If your pump needs new buckets buy the Hall's Patent Expansive and Reversible Buckets. They are the best. For sale only by P. A. Phurts, St. Joe.

Dentistry!

Dr. C. W. Popple of Butler will be at St. Joe at Dr. Smith's office on the first Monday after the first Monday in each month, to practice dentistry. Gold filling a specialty. All work warranted. Give him a call.

Several persons in this neighborhood have been the victim of an accident lately, and some of them were hurt. One of them was a man who was trying to turn a back spring of a load of hay. He was the turn of the hay, but instead of going down on his feet he came down on the soft part of his back. He was laid up for a couple of days. Next week John Davis thought it was his turn, and he tried tumbling off of a load of hay, but John made the same mistake that the rest of them did, and lit on the wrong end. The next day we heard of was that of William Johnston. He wasn't going to be on the tumbling business, so he tumbled off of a binder. It was reported to us that in falling his feet caught in the neckyoke and threw him under the hind of the tool box which caused the cutter bar to fly up, striking him in the face and breaking it. It was very lucky for him that the horse stopped when they did, for if they had gone ten feet further he might have broke and a rib and bled to death. If P. T. Barnum is in need of any first class tumblers for his circus, he certainly can not do better than engage the services of the above named gentlemen.

AUGUST

ISSUE

MISSING

New lot of Scolloped Jerseys Just Received.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 29, 1885.

No. 9.

With a merry, merry tune,
And a happy, happy heart,
We greet you all again,
And good news to you impart.
Did you ever, ever read,
With a twinkle in your eye,
Of the Stew Pan Tea,
Which is the best to buy.
Have you never, never heard,
In your earnest search for right,
Of the National Dry Hop Yeast,
Which makes the bread come light.
Then hear us, hear us sound,
Through the spacious earth around,
That the Nimble Nickle Soap,
Is the best that can be found.

The Normal school at Newville will close next week.

Jake Gilhouser and wife of Garrett, are visiting in town this week.

The corner stone of the new church will be laid one of these days.

Alvy Irwin is the father of a bouncing big boy. We keep safety pins.

Ourt Washler and family will move to California in a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Belle Moody of Oakwood, Ohio, visited friends in St. Joe this week.

Woolen Yarns, good quality and cheap. Full line of Saxony in all colors.

The next Methodist social will be held at the residence of Mrs. Simon Wineland, on Friday evening, Sept. 4th, 1885. All are cordially invited to attend.

The pay car showed up here Monday and made the railroad boys happy.

The excursion to Cedar Beach last Thursday was not very well patronized by this place.

Ladies' Bottled Shoe Dressing is the thing to use on fine shoes. Call and get a bottle and give it a trial.

New lot of braided and scolloped Jerseys just received to-day. Good Braided Jerseys for $1.25. Call at once.

Rev. D. M. Horner of Brookfield, Ohio, will preach in the church in this place on Sunday evening, Aug. 30th.

Mrs. J. D. Leighty entertained the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of Spencerville last Thursday afternoon.

If you want a nice gingham dress to wear to the fair, we can supply you with the material to make it out of. Better get one had'nt you.

Silver Star Baking Powder is selling right out. One handsome piece of majolica ware is given away free with each can. By all means try it.

Its getting cool now and you will need some new Underwear. We have a complete line of both Ladies' and Gent's Underwear at red bottom prices.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Mrs. W. O. Patterson, on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 5, 1885, at half past two o'clock. All are cordially invited.

We have some Handsome New Dress Gingham.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, AUG. 29, 1885.

It will soon be time for the fairs to commence.

Wash Woodcoxs is digging a cellar under his house.

Frank White has moved into part of Mrs. Widney's house.

Examine our new dress prints and gingham. Just received.

Bill Bleeks and Frank Engle went to Fort Wayne last week after a load of lime for the new church.

This weather is unhealthy and in order to keep from getting sick you should use Stew Pan Tea.

Men's Celluloid Collars and Cuffs are always kept in stock at the Nimble Nickle store.

Mrs. Robert Culbertson bought 12 cans of Yellow Peaches of us last week. She thinks they are delicious.

The Silver Star Baking Powder is the best, besides you get a fine majolica dish with each can free. Try it the next time you buy baking powder.

"The old must die, and the young may die." How well the latter clause of that sentence is illustrated in the sudden and awful death of that young man, James Henderson, whose remains passed through this place last week on their way to the silent resting place of the dead. Death at any time is sad, but especially so is it when it comes to the young, just in the morning of young manhood. When life seems full of bright prospects and fond anticipations; when the future holds up to the imagination the glittering pleasures that lay in store for them; in the midst of all these, when life promises most, to be cut down by the ruthless hand of death is sad indeed. So it was with this young man, he was energetic, industrious, and by close application to study had gained a position as a scholar that was the envy of all his schoolmates. He had his plans all made for the future, but alas, to-day his fond desires and cherished hopes lay buried with him in the grave. "Man proposes but God disposes."

Miss Luella Hartman of Auburn visited friends in town last week.

Frank White will build a residence on the same plan as P. A. Shirts', on one of the vacant lots laying west of David Grill's residence.

Miss Ollie Crim who has been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Robert Davis for the past few weeks, returned to her home in Ohio last week.

Master Andrew Reed claims to have a hen that believes in keeping the fourth commandment. He says that on Saturdays she always lays a double yelked egg and on Sunday she lays none at all.

Extra Quality of Canned Peaches for 15 cents.

---

Oliver Greenwalt was in town last week Wednesday.

We are selling a splendid Corset for 50 cents. Hoop Skirts 35 cents.

Just received at the Nimble Nickle store—a new lot of Ladies' Hand Bags at reduced prices.

We offer a special bargain in Turkey Red Handkerchiefs for the next thirty days. Enquire about it.

If you want a genuine waterproof Umbrella, we can supply you with one at a very reasonable price.

Men's Seamless Side Fine Shoes are the best. We are the only store in town that keeps them. Buy no other.

Try our Stew Pan Tea, Nimble Nickle Soap, and National Yeast. For sale only at the Nimble Nickle store.

Four new dwelling houses and one new church are to be built in this place this fall. Who says St. Joe is'nt growing?

Good Jeans Pants, well made and lined for One Dollar. Better ones for $1.25. Good woolen pants for $2 and $2.25.

Mrs. M. A. Webb and daughters of Fort Wayne, have been visiting for the past few days with the family of John W. Dills.

Attorneys Dills and Hartman of Auburn was in town last week attending to some legal business before Grandfather Woodcox.

Men's Unlaundried White Shirts, with the very best quality of linen cuffs and bosoms for $1.00. If you want something that will last, buy these.

In the case before Squire Woodcox last week between Likens and Atkinson, the latter named person won, but Likens filed a schedule, consequently Atkinson will get nothing.

Extra well made Jeans Pants, lined throughout for One Dollar. This is the biggest, broadest, longest and widest bargain ever offered to the pant wearing public.

Men's Fine Saxony Wool Hats for only 50 cents.

Dentistry!

Dr. C. W. Beechler of Butler will be at St. Joe at Dr. Shaffer's office on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in each month, to practice dentistry. Gold filling a specialty. All work warranted. Give him a call.

Barber from Edgerton talk of opening a barbershop here.

Large old oats and wheat for sale by Wm. McManville.

Thin nickel plated breast pins for a cent at the drugstore.

Internal Revenue Collector Seaton of Fort Wayne was in town this week.

The National Yacht is the best because it brings the best breed.

You can go from this place to Niagara Falls and return on September 8th for $5.15.

John Bates has quit working for J. H. Conrad. We hope John will remain in St. Joe.

If you want a new dress, call and see our new prints and ginghams. The latest styles.

The booming of the cannons during the sham battle held at Fort Wayne last Monday was plainly heard at this place.

Mrs. W. C. Patterson and Mrs. Walt Abel visited their sister at Fort Wayne the fore part of this week.

P. A. Shirts presented us with a fine bunch of Concord grapes last Tuesday; some of his own raising, and they were good. Thankee.

Rev. S. P. Fryberger of North Robinson, Ohio, preached a very interesting sermon at the church in this place last Sunday morning.

We invite your attention this week to a short sketch of that long tailed animal commonly known as the mule. The mule was discovered way back in the year 6, or it may have been a few weeks sooner than that, we have no means of knowing the exact month that he was born. He was a mule then and he has been ever since. One of the great peculiarities of a well bred mule is his wonderful kicking qualities; they can kick higher and harder than any other animal in existence. They make a business of kicking; in fact they love it. They would sooner kick than play croquet or any game. It is said that in early days in clearing up this country, when they wanted a tree down, they used to tie a mule to it and let him kick it down, but it takes to me as tho that story was a little stretched. It ain't hardly right to slander even a mule by lying about him. A mule hardly ever dies, but when he does the very last thing he does before breathing his last is to kick.

Milishly Yours,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

The Jackson Cornet Band will have one more festival in Boots' Grove on Saturday evening, September 5th, 1885. All are invited; in fact the band boys won't like it if you don't go.

SEPTEMBER

Pure Honey Drips Syrup only 45 cents per Gallon.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1885.

No. 10.

We are paying 13 cents for eggs. Chicago and return next week for $3.15.

W. C. Patterson was in Fort Wayne Thursday.

Boys, keep out of somebody else's melon patch.

The days and nights are now about the same length.

O. H. Widney and Fred Johnson were at Auburn Thursday.

We offer an extra good quality of Canton Flannel for 10 cents.

Don't forget that we are offering red hot bargains in Underwear.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis will visit friends in Missouri next week.

We have had a splendid trade on Jerseys this week. Everybody buys them.

We keep a full assortment of Stone Jars, Milk Crocks &c., at prices as low as anybody.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Coder and daughter Isa of Auburn, visited friends in town last Sunday.

Medicated Twilled Flannel is the best to buy; it keeps off the rheumatism. Try it and see.

Our fall and winter stock of clothing will arrive in a few days; wait and see them before you buy.

Rev. S. P. Fryberger, the new pastor of the Lutheran church of this place, will preach here Sunday evening, Sept. 13th, 1885. Come out and hear him.

Miss Ella Boyle was married last Wednesday to William Lucas of West Virginia.

These new Indigo Blue Prints we got in this week are the latest designs and they are really handsome.

Considerable wheat has been brought to market this week, and the average price was about 82 cents.

The contract for building the new church has been let to Picker & Baker. They are to receive $550.00 for doing the work.

Rev. S. J. Jones of Ligonier will preach in the church at this place on Saturday evening, and Rev. McFall of Kendallville on Sunday morning.

Henry Reynolds and wife went west yesterday. Mr. Stouffer, a former agent at this place will have charge of the office during his absence.

We got in several new pieces of handsome new patterns in Indigo Blue Prints this week. New figures entirely. Call and see if it isn't a fact.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Mrs. Wm. Hart, on Saturday afternoon Sept. 19, 1885, at half past two o'clock. All are welcome.

Northup & Ooburn having bought the Sorghum Mill formerly owned by B. F. Hoyt, they are now prepared to make a first class quality of molasses at reasonable prices. Give them a call.

The National Dry Hop Yeast is the Best to buy.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, SEPT. 12, 1885.

Bert Milliman has quit working on the brick yard.

The big fair at Fort Wayne will commence next Tuesday.

Underwear at reduced prices at the Nimble Nickle store.

Prosecutor Mort Dawson of Fort Wayne was in town last week.

Stew Pan Tea only 35 cents per pound with out the stew pan.

New lot of braided and scalloped Jerseys just received to-day. Good Braided Jerseys for $1.25. Call at once.

We have secured the exclusive agency in this place for the celebrated Parks & Hazzard Hand Made Boots, manufactured at Jamestown, New York. These boots are warranted to give satisfaction, consequently they are the best boot to buy. The prices on them are down to correspond with the hard times. Call and see them before buying.

We have a good line of Canton Flannels, in brown, bleached and colored. Very cheap this year.

Mrs. John Wright of Hicksville visited in this place last week with her sister Mrs. W. C. Patterson.

Pumpkin Pi Fine Cut Chewing Tobacco is the best in town for the money; we always keep it.

There was one or two heavy frosts last week which done considerable damage to the corn on low ground.

Ladies' Bottled Shoe Dressing is the thing to use on fine shoes. Call and get a bottle and give it a trial.

We sold five suits of clothes last week. Examine our clothing before you buy; it sometimes most always pays.

The correspondent from Waterloo to the AUBURN REPUBLICAN says that some St. Joe boys were up there a week ago last Saturday night acting quite naughty. Tut, tut, boys, you must not do that again.

It is reported away from St. Joe that there are several cases of diptheria in this place. This is a mistake as there has been no cases of that disease in town and none nearer than those west of Spencerville.

We are very forgetful sometimes, and we forgot in our last paper to say anything about our 5 cent handkerchiefs; we keep a supply on hand though, at all times, and trust that in case your nose should be inclined to run, you will know right where to go to get something to relieve it with.

Examine our stock of Fall Shirting and Denims.

We have a splendid assortment of yarns for winter wear.

Woolen Yarns, good quality and cheap. Full line of Saxony in all colors.

Dr. Bowman's barn at Newville burned down one night last week.

Yes, of course we keep a full line of Yarns: all wool and a yard wide.

Dr. T. J. Dills and family of Fort Wayne were in town last week.

Rich Culbertson is building a house on the lot laying opposite Joe Baker's residence.

If you want a new dress, call and see our new prints and gingham. The latest styles.

No five cent soap offered begins to have the value of the Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap. Try it.

Mrs. A. C. Donaldson and her son Charlie, spent several days last week at Freemont, where Mr. Donaldson is at work.

Mrs. Rudolph Bahr, who lives two miles below Spencerville, came up the other day after a package of National Yeast. Everybody uses it.

There was some talk of having a big picnic here this fall, but on account of the prevalence of diphtheria, as well as the lateness of the season it was thought best not to have it.

John Bates has bought the stock of of groceries formerly owned by Mr. Bowen. We understand that John has been in the grocery business before and know all about it, therefore he will probably make a success of it.

If you want a nice gingham dress to wear to the fair, we can supply you with the material to make it out of. Better get one had at you.

Its getting cool now and you will need some new Underwear. We have a complete line of both Ladies' and Gent's Underwear at real bottom prices.

Silver Star Baking Powder is selling right hot. One handsome piece of majolica ware is given away free with each can. By all means try it.

A great many people do not buy ground spices because they think they are not pure. We guarantee our ground Cinnamon, Cloves, Allspice and Pepper to be absolutely pure. Try them yourself and see.

We do not keep the poorest and cheapest goods, but we especially aim to carry a good quality of goods and sell them as low as such goods can be sold and afford a man enough to eat and a few clothes to wear. Couldnt you give us a share of your trade this fall; we will truly appreciate any favor you may see fit to bestow upon us. Be it ever so small, it will be thankfully received.

There ought to be a new clock made especially for the ladies, from the fact that according to their new way of reckoning, they have knocked the old fashioned time piece clear into the shade. Now days when a woman says I'll be there in a minute, she means fifteen minutes, when she says I'll be ready to go in five minutes, you can safely count on waiting a half hour, if she says ten minutes, she simply means one hour. Its all the same exactly, when you get the hang of it.

Men's All Wool, Well Made Pants only $2.25.

A woman's awfool brave,
And strong, and stoute;
Butt when she sees a mouse,
She gits rite out.

Its an old saying "that half the world dont no what the other half's doing," and its a mity gude thing tha dont, tu. Ther ar lots ov funny things that happen in this town every day that ar nevar known tu the genral publick; but, however, we accidently saw sum thing the other day that's tu gude tu keep. A lady was at home, basily engaged in soing, so intently was she onged in her work that she was unconshus ov the dangar that surrounded her. She happened tu cast her eye tu the further corner ov the room, and beahold, in the twiukling of an ey, a change take place. The lady was standin on the chare, with one hand holding the skirt ov her dres and with the other pointing tu the futher korner ov the room, wher stood, on his hind feet, a small sized mous. Oh! horrors, what a pickture; it was hard tu tel wich was scart the worst, the lady or the mous. She finally rased currage enuf tu hollar for help, and her husband rushed to her rescue, and fritened the awfool, nasty, ugly mous awa. The lady wood hav no dout fanted if help had not arrived just when it did. Giv a woman a bromstiek an she can scare a man cleer out ov site but sick a mous onto her and you can scare her out ov her wits in 5 minets.

Yours Fur Fun,

Barens Q. Rippenhammer.

Mrs. M. T. Bishop is visiting friends in Ohio.

We are selling a good Braided Jersey for $1.25.

We can sell you a bolt of Muslin at a very low figure.

Ten persons from this place took in the Niagara excursion.

Don't fail to examine our Parks & Hazzard Hand Made Boots.

For the best 50 cent Corset in St. Joe go to the Nimble Nickle store.

George P. Robinson of Lagrange and Hanford Jenison of Ossage, Iowa, visited friends in town this week.

John Leighty will return to Orchard Lake next week, to enter upon the fall term of school.

The indications are that some-body in the neighborhood of St. Joe is going to get married one of these fine days.

The De Kalb County Teachers Institute was in session at Garrett this week. Most of the teachers from this vicinity were present.

Miss Josie Smith and Miss Georgia Van Fleet of Newville spent last Sunday in Rome City. Miss Van Fleet's big brother Don was along, too.

Try our Men's Fort Wayne Kip Boots at $2.50

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1885.

No. 11.

Miss Josie Smith is teaching school in Garrett.

Try our $2.50 Daisy Boot. A rattler for the money.

Mrs. M. E. Olds is visiting friends in Norvell, Mich.

Call and see our assortment of 5 cent prints. New patterns.

When you come into town to buy goods drop in and see us.

Our fall stock of Notions will arrive next week. Wait for them.

We sold eight suits of clothes last Tuesday and Wednesday.

The best thing that a person can enjoy in this world is good health.

It will pay you to examine our stock of boys' boots before you buy.

We are getting in some handsome new patterns in 5 cent handkerchiefs.

Handsome Flowered Cake Stands only 25 cents. Fruit Dishes 10 cts.

We have just opened up another fine assortment of Glassware, Lamps &c.

Candee Rubber Boots with an extra ball on the sole are the best to buy; we are agents for them.

Henry Reynolds was at the Hicksville fair Thursday, and took first premium for being the funniest man on the ground.

Rev. Lineberry will preach at the church in this place next Sunday morning at 10½ o'clock, and Rev. Fryberger in the evening.

J. H. Conrad and family are visiting friends in Goshen.

Mrs. J. D. Leighty is visiting among friends and relatives in Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Reasoner celebrated their golding wedding last Thursday.

Mrs. Libbie Meek of Avilla visited in town this week the guest of Mrs. W. C. Patterson.

To those who may need them we would say that we keep a supply of safety pins on hand at all times.

Several members of the G. A. R. post of this place attended the funeral of Mr. Stoffer, at Maysville last Tuesday.

One of our fine haired young men who lives in the neighborhood of the tamarack swamp will be married on or about next Sunday.

We have a good variety of shoes especially adapted to old ladies. Wide bottoms, low heels, flannel lined; just the thing for old people.

P. A. Shirts has gone west to grow up with the country. That is, he went as far west as his father-in-law's farm, and will try his hand at farming. Will Curie has moved into his house here in town.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Mrs. J. D. Leighty, on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 3, 1885, at half past two o'clock. All are cordially invited.

Good Prints reduced to only 5 cents per Yard.

St. Joe

Notes.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Ohls, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, SEPT. 26, 1885.

Good Batting only 10 cents.

Stew Pan Tea only 35 cents.

Men's Lined Jeans Pants only $1.00.

Get ready for the Waterloo fair next week.

St. Joe will now have preaching twice every Sabbath.

Lots of freight is being shipped over the railroad now.

Complete line of Men's Shoes always on hand at our store.

Jake White was married last week to Miss Nettie Murray.

From now on we shall keep lime for sale in small quantities.

Mrs. W. B. McClaren of Argos, visited friends in this place last week.

Knickerbockers only 5 cents per yard. Just the thing for making comforts.

Jerry Andrews has already shipped over 1000 bushels of apples this fall.

William Simanton and wife have been visiting friends in Ohio for the past week. They drove through, the distance being about 200 miles.

"I'm going down to the Ninth Street Clothing Store to get me a suit of clothes. I want a good suit and I know that's the place to get it. I'm afraid they will have trouble to fit me around the waist."

Some one asked us the other day in what year the practice of stealing melons originated. After looking clear back into the misty cob-webs of the past we find that stealing melons is a custom that was established in the same year that the melon originated in; that is, that ever since melons have grown, they have been stolen.

It pays to buy good clothing every time. We keep it.

We ask, as a special favor, that if you are expecting to buy clothing this fall, you will call and see our stock before you buy. We have taken great care in making our selections and have bought our stock low, and we are thereby enabled to sell them low. The quality of our clothing is what we particularly want to call your attention to. It is A number one. We'll set up the best cigar in the store if you don't say so.

Pure Honey Drips Syrup only 45 cents per Gallon.

59

Suits of Men's, Boys' and Children's Fine Clothing just received this week at the Nimble Nickle Clothing Store. We are safe in making the assertion that this is the best made, best fitting and best quality of clothing ever offered to the citizens of St. Joe. Not an ounce of shoddy in the whole lot.

32

Men's, Youth's and Boys' Overcoats that we propose to sell, if quality and price will accomplish it. These Overcoats are straight goods, well made and good fits. We have no rents or clerk hire to pay and we can and will sell clothing cheap. It will certainly be to your interest to see us before buying.

• Lawyer Rose of Auburn was in town last week.

Rev. O. Q. Oviatt of Kendallville visited friend in town last week.

Give us a share of your fall trade; we need it, and by so doing you will benefit yourself and us too.

Don't buy this Cheap John clothing, come in and let us show you something good; something that will wear and keep its color.

We got in several new pieces of handsome new patterns in Indigo Blue Prints this week. New figures entirely. Call and see if it isn't a fact.

We are selling a good Braided Jersey for $1.25.

We can sell you a bolt of Muslin at a very low figure.

Don't fail to examine our Parks & Hazzard Hand Made Boots

We offer an extra good quality of Canton Flannel for 10 cents.

Don't forget that we are offering red hot bargains in Underwear.

Bring your jug in and get it filled with our Honey Drips Syrup.

For the last 50 cent Corset in St. Joe go to the Nimble Nickle store.

We keep a full assortment of Stone Jars, Milk Crock &c., at prices as low as any body.

Medicated Twilled Flannel is the best to buy; it keeps off the rheumatism. Try it and see.

These new Indigo Blue Prints we got in this week are the latest designs and they are really handsome.

Northrup & Osburn having bought the Sorghum Mill formerly owned by B. F. Hoyt, they are now prepared to make a first class quality of molasses at reasonable prices. Give them a call.

We have secured the exclusive agency in this place for the celebrated Parks & Hazzard Hand Made Boots, manufactured at Jamestown, New York. These boots are warranted to give satisfaction, consequently they are the best boot to buy. The prices on them are down to correspond with the hard times. Call and see them before buying.

Good Prints reduced to only 5 cents per Yard.

We received a letter from an old friend of ours last week, asking us wat was the best kind ov kats tu raise. We ar alwas glad tu anser conundrums wen we can, and we wood jist sa in repli tu this frend that in our experance amongst kats we hav found that ther is grate differance ov opinyon as tu wich breed ov kats is the most profitabel. The cat at the hed ov this articul repersents a genuwine maly kat; the best that grows for mice. Tha ar gude singers but ar moor especshally adaptud tu katching rats an mice.

Our nex picktur represents what is known as the sore eyed yeller kat; one ov the best breed ov kats in the world fur genral purposes. Tha are tiptop on katching mice, and tha cant bea beet fur fine musick; in fact tha can make moor noise in the middel ov the nite than a half a dozen bras bands. Tha awlso sa that the sore eyed yeller kats make by far the best bolona. So mi old frend I wood advise you by awl meens tu get a yeller kat everytyme.

Your Frend and Well-wisher,
Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Notes taken at the Social last Friday Evening.

The proceeds of the social amounted to $10.10.

Two brides and grooms ate supper at one of the tables.

There were quite a number present who did not take supper.

Uncle Sam Lawhead had his boots all shined up in the finest kind of style with stove polish.

The ladies served a twenty-five cent supper for ten cents; at least we heard quite a number present express that opinion.

There were nineteen chickens present, but when the social was over, nothing but a pile of bones remained to tell the story of what was once a flock of barnyard fowls.

Bert Patterson came over from Hicksville to attend the social, and he made it his special business to take all the girls home that had'nt any other company. Bert is a great friend to the girls.

For some unknown cause Rev. Trover of Auburn, who was to have made the welcome address, failed to put in an appearance, but Rev. Limeberry kindly consented to take his place, and did so very acceptably to all.

Don Van Fleet of Newville was present and gallantly escorted one of our fair young ladies to the table and planked down enough filthy lucre to pay for her supper. Don is a good fellow but he had better keep away from our girls, or some of the St. Joe boys will put an extra nose on him.

OCTOBER

Buy the Candee Rubber Boot with an Extra Sole.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1885.

No. 12.

Miss Ettie Widney has been at Auburn this week.

Alex. Culbertson was married on last Thursday.

Dr. Bowman was thirty-six years old last Thursday.

Rev. Lineberry will preach here Sunday evening.

Wes Hart is burning a kiln of 125,000 brick this week.

Dr. Sheffer and family attended the Kendallville fair this week.

Harry Meek is making on an average of about 25 barrels a day.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowen are attending the county fair at Attica this week.

Mrs. Henry Sharp of Fort Wayne visited friends in St. Joe this week.

Did you see the fast train go through Friday? Whew but she flew.

Evans Dermott found use for some safety pins this week. A girl.

Josh Lounsberry and Oliver Widney were at Kendallville last Tuesday.

From present indications this town will soon have a genuine brass brass.

Please call in and see our stock of winter goods, clothing and underwear.

John Bates and Ida Boyle were married at Auburn on Thursday of last week.

Ask for the Candee Rubber Boots with an extra ball on the sole. They don't cost any more and are a great deal better. Take no other.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenison of Durand, Ill., are visiting friends in this place and at Spencerville.

Work on the new church was suspended this week on account of not having enough brick.

We sold one man three pounds of Stew Pan Tea last Wednesday. He has tried it before and knows it is good.

Mrs. Charlie Grubb is spending a few days at the home of her parents near Maysville. Charlie looks as though he didn't care how soon she came home.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Mrs. Alex. Filley, on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 17, 1885, at half past two o'clock. All are invited to attend.

Communion services will be held at the church in this place next Sunday morning at half past ten o'clock, Rev. S. P. Fryberger, the pastor, officiating. All are cordially invited to be present.

Coburntown is a good neighborhood to live in; they believe in helping one another. The friends of Walt Ables turned out this week and donated him a day's work toward a new barn.

Now is the time to make apple-butter, pumpkin-butter and cow-butter, and of course you will need some jars to put it in. We have 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 gallon jars, and will be glad to supply you with what you need.

Flowered Cake Stands 25 cts. Fruit Dishes 10c.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glasware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, OCT. 10, 1885.

Men's Saxony Wool Hats only 50 cts.
A decided bargain.

Worn on the new church is being pushed rapidly forward.

Rodger Brothers Silver Plated Knives and Forks at a bargain.

Iron stone china Wash Bowls and Pitchers only One Dollar.

Quite a good many from this neighborhood attended the Waterloo fair.

We have a new wrinkle in boys' boots. Examine them before you buy.

Melons are plenty this year and cheap. Mart Testison bought 26 the other day for 60 cents.

We have a nice line of Babies' Knit Shoes; assorted colors. Very pretty and cheap. Only 25 cents.

There is some talk of organizing a brass band in this place. There is certainly enough brass here if we only had the band.

Good Batts only 10 cents for a full pound roll. Prints and Knickbockers reduced to 5 cents per yard. Make comforts and get ready for winter.

We are selling an elegant hanging lamp for $2.50. Two years ago we got $4 for the same lamp.

Gent's Kid and Jersey back Kid Gloves. The nobbiest thing out for wedding gloves. Call and see them.

We have some of the nobbiest new styled stiff hats ever placed on sale in St. Joe. You should call and see them before you buy.

Our store room is jam full of new goods. Come in and look them over; you are always welcome whether you want to buy or not.

Stocking Webb only 15 cents a yard this fall; brown, scarlet, black and cardinal. Its much cheaper than to buy the yarn and knit stockings. Try it.

Walt Ables' barn was destroyed by fire on Tuesday of last week, about noon. It originated from a fire which his little boy had made while playing that he was running a steam thrasher. The barn was insured.

The hands at the brick yard got on a strike one day last week, and refused to go work until certain conditions had been complied with. After a day's parley they finally come to a settlement in the matter and went to work again.

Charlie Jackson and Miss Lee Timmerman were married one week ago last Sunday by Esquire Berry of Spencerville. The boys had too much regard for the Sabbath to bell them on that evening, but on Monday evening, while the bride and groom were stopping with father mother Jackson, they give them a good old fashioned ten horse power racket. They just made the old tamarack swamp get up and howl.

Try our Men's Fort Wayne Kip Boots at $2.50

Fits in Men's Suits.
 Fits in Boys' Suits.
 Fits in Men's Overcoats.
 Fits in Boys' Overcoats.
 Fits in Men's Boots and Shoes.
 Fits in Boys' Boots.
 Fits in Ladies' Fine Shoes.
 Fits in Children's Shoes.
 Fits in Baby Shoes.
 Fits in Old Ladies Shoes.
 Fits in Rubber Boots and Shoes.
 Fits in Hats and Caps.
 Fits in Gloves and Mittens.
 Fits in Underwear.
 Fits in all kinds of goods.

Try our $2.50 Naisy Boot. A rattler for the money.

Call and see our assortment of 5 cent prints. New patterns.

It will pay you to examine our stock of boys' boots before you buy.

When you come into town to buy goods drop in and see us.

Handsome Flowered Cake Stands only 25 cents. Fruit Dishes 10 cts.

We have just opened up another fine assortment of Glassware, Lamps &c.

Mrs. J. A. Milliman, of Freemont, Mich., visited friends in this vicinity last week.

We have a good variety of shoes especially adapted to old ladies. Wide bottoms, low heels, flannel lined; just the thing for old people.

Thirteen passengers got on board the morning train at this place on Thursday of last week bound for different parts of Ohio. The fair paid by the entire party amounted to about $75.00

Some people wonder why it is that a railroad agent ever gets out of humor, but they do not stop to think of the thousand and one tom fool questions that he has to answer about ten times a day, and on seven days in the week. For instance a person will be looking straight at the time card and yet they will ask the agent what time the train goes west, or perhaps they will ask what time of day it is when the clock is ticking away right under their nose; or they will inquire if the train is on time, or whether the train has left Hicksville, and if so when will it get here, and when it gets here how long will it stop, and when it stops how long before it will start again, and a whole dictionary full of other ridiculous questions. When that person gets through making inquiries, somebody else steps up and probably asks the same questions, or some equally as absurd. And thus they keep it up. Is it any wonder that an agent once in while gets out of humor and says a naughty word? The agent at this place is an exception to the general rule however, as he hardly ever gets on his ear; the only thing that will make Henry mad is to tell him that he has big feet; but then his feet are not so overly large. It only takes two feet and a half like his to make a yard, while two feet the size of Charlie Grubb's will make a full yard.

If you want some bunkum good syrup try our Honey Drops at 45 cents.

We are getting in some handsome new patterns in 5 cent handkerchiefs.

Candee Rubber Boots with an extra ball on the sole are the best to buy; we are agents for them.

Buy the Candee Rubber Boot with an Extra Sole.

Hicksville is to have another newspaper.

O. J. Powell of Garrett was in town Monday.

The Grand Jury will begin to grind next week.

The Candee Rubber Goods are the best to buy.

E. J. Boyles and A. Evans are working in Garrett.

Mr. Scholes is visiting his daughter in Michigan this week.

Jud Geo is working at the Swilley House in Hicksville.

Miss Mary Martin spent last Sunday at her home in Leo.

John Provines and John Boots went to Petoskey last Tuesday.

Examine our stock of winter Caps, Gloves and Mittens.

Don't forget that we sell an elegant handkerchief for 5 cents.

Lots of people are using the Stew Pan Tea. You should try it.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kimes of Denver, Mich., are visiting friends in this neighborhood.

Mrs. William Leighty spent last Sunday with friends and relatives in Williams County, Ohio.

George Wilmot has sold his farm for $3500.00. We understand that he talks of going west.

Bring your boys in and let us boot them; we'll boot you too, if you need it, at a very low price.

There will be another excursion to Chicago next Tuesday. Fare for the round trip only $3.15.

Rev. Fryberger preached a very interesting and instructive sermon last Sunday evening, taking for his text the 30th verse of the 16th chapter of Acts.

One ov our bily respektud and onored feller citezens went out intu the country one nite not long ago. We dont no jist eggactly wat he went fur, but we have ben informed frum a reliabel sorce that it was one ov threa things to-wit: tu go koon huntin, or tu viset a wattermelyon pach or attend a wedding. While he was in attendanc at one ov these three places he went out intu a field, probabla for the purpos ov pluggen a green punken tu sea wether it was ripe or not; anawa while he was out ther sum kind ov a wild beast got aftar him, and such running yu nevar did see; when he got intu the hous he was panting like a wind mill. He thot sum kin ov a wild anamal was aftar him sure pop, but it turned out tu bea a common ordinary sized dorg. He is at home now and probabla went go out in the country again fur a while, at least not aftar nite.

Your Own Deer

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

P. G. I did knot git a vary gude cut on that dorg, so I thot I wood tell yu wat it was or yu mite think it was sum-thing elce.

Iron Stone China Wash Bowls & Pitchers $1.00.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1885.

No. 13.

We give below a partial list of the goods we offer for sale on our 10 cent counter. Read them over; every one of them are bargains.

Buggy Whips,
Curry Combs, Horse Brushes,
Hammers, Hatchets, Fire Shovels,
Large Sized Shears,
Screw Drivers, Sharpening Straps,
Butcher Knives, Clothes Brushes,
Six Table Spoons, Money Purses,
Dust Pans, Padlocks,

and a great many other articles that we haven't space to mention. Also a line of 10c articles on our 5c counter. Come in and see them. It will pay you.

Hat Racks 10 cents.

Chromo Pictures 10 cents.

Good Halters reduced to 25 cts.

Men's Suspenders for 10 cents; the very best for 25 cts.

Remember that we sell the best 50 cent corset in St. Joe.

The schools of this place will commence on the 9th of November.

On Sunday afternoon, Nov. 1st, at half past two o'clock, Rev. S. P. Fryberger will preach a sermon on "The Reformation." All are invited to be present.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the residence of Mrs. Matilda Widney, on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 31, 1885, at half past two o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

MARRIED: at Auburn on Thursday October 15th, 1885, by Rev. Ward, Mr. Sell Bowen to Miss Etta Widney. Although Mr. and Mrs. Bowen were very shy about getting married, and didn't tell us any thing about it, yet we heartily wish them a joyous, happy, and prosperous life. Having had some experience, perhaps it would not be amiss for us to offer to this newly married couple a few words of fatherly advice. To Sell: Obey your wife; don't stay out late at night; always come home at meal time; if your wife scolds you, grin and bear it, but don't talk back: it will make it all the worse if you do. To Etta: Don't let your husband make fires and carry in the wood; such work is very injurious to a man, and it is to this cause that there are so many poor, sickly puny husbands. Use the broomstick lightly; too many fond and loving husbands have been ruined by too much broomstick.

Wheat has been selling for 90 and 91 cents this week.

Men's Rubber Coats just received; a good quality at a low price.

Somebody asked us yesterday if we stole the goods we offer on our 10 cent counter. Come in and see them.

Mrs. H. K. Reynolds and Miss Belle Bowen went to Attica, Ohio, last Wednesday, to attend the wedding of their cousin.

Try our Parks & Hazzard Hand Made Boots.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, OCT. 24, 1885.

Dr. Murphy of Leo was in town last week.

John Wright of Hicksville was in town last week.

We are selling a good straw ticking for 12 cents.

Splint Corn Baskets reduced to 20 and 25 cents.

The hickory nut crop is unusually large this year.

Immense bargains on our 5 and 10 cent counters.

The iron bridge over the river at Newville is completed.

The farmers are hard at it husking the golden ears of corn.

You can save money by buying goods from our 5c counter.

Articles usually sold at 20 and 25 cts. we now offer at 5 and 10 cents.

Mrs. B. F. Blair and daughter Belle of Newville were in town one day last week.

You must be sure to come in and see our 5 and 10 cent bargains.

Joe Harrod and family of Mansfield Ohio, are visiting friends in this neighborhood.

Miss Ollie Stevenson of Ohio, is visiting in this place, the guest of her sister Mrs. Frank Barney.

"Have you heard from Ohio?" is a question that was frequently asked last week. Yes, we heard.

Try our Parks and Hazzard All Hand Made Boots. They are fully warranted. Call and examine them.

We are having a good trade in glassware and the reason why is, we have nice goods and sell it cheap. Elegant Cake Stands for 25 cents.

If you want to make some friend a nice substantial and useful present buy one of our handsome hanging lamps. They make an elegant present and don't cost much. Call and see them.

Try Wright's Family Yeast; it is manufactured at Hicksville and is therefore always new and fresh. It is warranted to give entire satisfaction or the money will be refunded. Price only 5 cents. Give it a trial.

There were several amusing mistakes in spelling in our last paper and probably will be in this issue. We endeavor to correct them all, and think we have until the papers are out, and the first thing we know some six year old boy comes in and yells out "Say you made a mistake." We hope our readers will look over our errors hereafter, and lay it to our ignorance, and not because we know any better. As long as we print a paper there will be more or less mistakes in it.

Buy the Candee Rubber Boot with an Extra Sole.

Try Our
Parks & Hazzard
Hand Made

Boots

Every Pair
Warranted to Give Satisfaction.

The Candee Rubber Goods are the best to buy.

The Candee Rubber Goods are selling ahead of all others.

Examine our stock of winter Caps, Gloves and Mittens.

Good Worsted Coats only $2.50. Single Vests only $1.00.

Don't forget to examine the bargains on our 10 cent counter.

Ask for the Candee Rubber Boots with an extra ball on the sole. They don't cost any more and are a great deal better. Take no other.

Don't forget that we sell an elegant handkerchief for 5 cents.

Lots of people are using the Stew Pan Tea. You should try it.

Examine our $3.50 Overcoats. They are a good thing for the money.

Mell Bishop is supplying the pine lumber for the new church.

Gene Wilson and Clide Woodcox are buying and shipping poultry.

Please call in and see our stock of winter goods, clothing and underwear.

They have more land in Ohio now than they had before the election. Foraker.

People ought not to complain of hard times when they can buy a good Overcoat for $3.50.

Bring your boys in, and let us boot them; we'll boot you, too, if you need it at a very low price.

Wash Woodcox had charge of the elevator while Sell Bowen was absent on his wedding tour.

Men have but one soul but the Candee Rubber Boots and Overshoes have a double sole with an extra ball. Ask for the Candee and take no other.

A man writing to the editor of a certain newspaper and telling him to stop his paper, wrote as follows: "I think fokes ottent to spend munay fur paper, my daddy diddent and every body sed he wos the intelligentest man in the country and had the smartest familey of bois that dugged taters." A very smart family, indeed.

Try our Parks & Hazzard Hand Made Boots.

We are pleased to present to our readers this week a portrait of one of Saint Joe's prominent citizens, Dr. George Ham, the celebrated cow doctor. Doctor Ham was born some time before the war and he has been living ever since. He graduated from the Ham family when he was only 21 years old, and ever since that time he has devoted his attention to the treatment of diseases of the cow; that is when he wasn't doing something else. Doctor Ham makes a specialty of certain diseases, and guarantees to kill or cure in from three to six years, providing the cow don't die before that time. Ring bones and spavens removed without the use of an ax or a cross-cut saw. Teeth extracted without pain, (after the cow dies.) Doctor Ham is a sure cure for heaves, epizootic, glanders, curb, influenza, holly-horn, laminitis, worms, fox-in-the-tail, jimjams, kamrigonphrats, pink eye, mezzles, pole evil, staggers, swanee, baldness and every other disease that cows are known to have. No cure no pay. Give him a call, when you need him.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Good Pocket Knives for 10 cents.

The Bohemian outmen are on the war path.

The time for paying taxes expires next week.

Boys' Red Knit and Furred Mittens only 25 cents.

Rev. Lineberry will preach in this place next Sunday evening.

Three Dollars and Fifty cents buys you a good winter Overcoat.

John Widney and Josh Lonsberry were at Auburn last Wednesday paying their rent.

Mrs. Florence Buchanan and Miss Lizzie Evans are visiting friends in the northern part of Michigan.

Examine our stock of Men's Youth's and Boys' Suits and Overcoats. New clean stock, and prices low.

If you want to see the biggest bargain in town call and see our Overcoats at $3.50. Worth twice that amount.

We are not running a harness shop, but we can sell you a good halter for 25 cents, or a mighty good buggy whip for the same price. Call and see them.

Our Parks and Hazzard Hand Made Boots are quick sellers. We sold nine pair one day this week. Everybody that needs a pair of boots should examine them before buying.

Mell Bishop and Dr. Bowman went up to Freemont one day last week to fish; that is, they would have fished if they had got there but they didn't get there. They drove to Auburn to take the train and when they got to Auburn the train would have taken them but the train had gone. They got there just in time to see the train pull out.

---

NOVEMBER

---

Good Heavy Plaid Horse Blankets only $1.00.

ST. JOE NEWS.

Vol. 3.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1885.

No. 14.

"CANDEE"

Rubber
BOOTS
WITH DOUBLE THICK
BALL.

Ordinary Rubber Boots
always wear out first on the ball. The CANDEE
Boots are double thick
on the ball, and give

DOUBLE WEAR.

Most economical Rubber
Boot in the market.
Lasts longer than any other boot and the

PRICE NO HIGHER.

Call and examine the goods.

FOR SALE BY
CASE & OLDS, ST. JOE, IND.

We don't want to hear from New York.

Irwin Hadsell will teach the Chees-town school this winter.

Gather up your school books and get ready for school next Monday.

Mrs. Mart Engle visited friends in Montpelier, Ohio, this week.

Large Woolen Horse Blankets $2.00 and $3.50. Well worth the money.

If you want to hear some queer sounds go up by the band room some evening when the boys are practicing.

Call at the Fruit House and ask John
Bates for a calendar for 1886.

J. R. Gilson, now of Toledo visited friends in town this week.

We shall have in a supply of Self Raising Buckwheat Flour next week.

Everybody should call and see the bargains on our 5 and 10 cent counters.

We got in another supply of Parks &
Hazzard's Hand Made Boots this week.

We will treat to the candy if you don't say that we've got the finest assortment of Hoods you ever saw.

The Candee Rubber Boot with two soles is the best boot to buy; we are agents for them.

If you want some good ink for school,
buy Thomas' Black School Ink in paper
bottles. We keep it.

Please pronounce the following three words: Winitawtgeginialaskawlungtanaw-nelitisesti, honorificabiltudinity, amatlacuilolitquitealtlaxlahuili.

Rev. S. P. Fryberger will preach a sermon in the church at this place next Sunday morning at half past ten o'clock on "Systematic Benevolence." Rev. Lineberry will preach in the evening.

We have over twenty eight different styles of Ladies' and Children's Hoods, comprising some of the handsomest ones ever shown in this place. Come in and see them. Bring the children in, too.

Iron Stone China Wash Bowls & Pitchers $1.00.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, NOV. 7, 1885.

Good Webb Halters only 25 cts. It is a bargain.

The brick work on the new church was completed last week.

Call in and see our stock of Ladies' and Children's Hoods. They are beauties and cheap enough.

Pat Campbell was quite seriously hurt one day last week by being knocked off of the railroad track by a freight train.

If you want the nicest calico dress that you ever wore, come in and get some of our handsome new dress prints. New patterns.

Rev. Jabez Shaffer of Avilla, has accepted a call to the lower half of what was formerly known as the Spencerville charge. He will reside at Maysville.

The Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is the biggest cake of the best soap that is made for 5 cents. Six cakes for 25 cents. Do just try it.

The following is the names of the members of the St. Joe Brass Band, and the instruments they play:

G. H. Brown, 1st E Flat Cornet,
G. H. Shutt, 2nd E Flat Cornet,
Jerome Benjamin, 1st B Flat Cornet,
Irvin Hadsell, 2nd B Flat Cornet,
Mervin Widney, Baritone,
Marshall Hadsell, Solo Alto,
W. F. Wise, 1st Tenor,
Wm. Bohls, 2nd Tenor,
Bert Hull, 1st Alto,
Ail Simanton, 2nd Alto,
Dennie Gee, 1st Bass,
Clare Hull, 2nd Bass,
Harpster Walters, Snare Drum.

The instruments arrived last week and the boys are blowing away for dear life. They meet to practice twice a week in Bohls' hall.

St. Joe is bound to keep up with the times. She now has a brass band and if she only had a grist mill, a court house and a dozen or two manufacturing institutions, she might be a city yet some of these times. If.

It is rumored that the editor of the GARRETT HERALD will move his office to St. Joe. That would knock the stuffing out of the St. Joe News, for who would want to take this paper for nothing when they could get a patent backside newspaper at $1.50 a year.

Last week's AUBURN REPUBLICAN said that people way east of Spencerville, clear north of Pleasant Lake, way over on the other side of Garrett and from over about Kendallville were in Auburn trading last Saturday. Oh Lard, what a big lie that is.

Iron Stone China Wash Bowls & Pitchers $1.00.

We give below a partial list of the goods we offer for sale on our 10 cent counter. Read them over; every one of them are bargains.

Buggy Whips,
Curry Combs, Horse Brushes,
Hammers, Hatchets, Fire Shovels,
Large Sized Shears,
Screw Drivers, Shawl Straps,
Butcher Knives, Clothes Brushes,
Six Table Spoons, Money Purses,
Dust Pans, Padlocks,
Frying Pans, Harmonicas,
Two Foot Boxwood Rules,

and a great many other articles that we hav'nt space to mention. Also a line of 10c articles on our 5c counter. Come in and see them. It will pay you.

Hat Racks 10 cents.

Chromo Pictures 10 cents.

Good Halters reduced to 25 cts.

Men's Suspenders for 10 cents; the very best for 25 cts.

We sell a great big ten cent doll for five cents.

Miss Arvilla Patterson visited friends in town last week.

Remember that we sell the best 50 cent corset in St. Joe.

J. D. Leighty has bought over 1000 bushels of apples this fall.

Wise & Leighty pay the highest market price for poultry.

Rev. Jewel of Newville was in town one day last week.

Boys' Red Knit and Fulled Mittens only 25 cents.

Three Dollars and Fifty cents buys of us a good winter Overcoat.

Examine our stock of Men's Youth's and Boys' Suits and Overcoats. New clean stock, and prices low.

Men's Rubber Coats just received; a good quality at a low price.

Several of our crack hunters were down to the big woods last week.

What can you buy that's cheaper than our Honey Drips Syrup at 45 cents? Its lots of sweet for little money.

Our 5 and 10 cent counters are attracting lots of attention. People don't get such bargains every day.

If you want to see the biggest bargain in town call and see our Overcoats at $3.50. Worth twice that amount.

We are not running a harness shop, but we can sell you a good halter for 25 cents, or a mighty good buggy whip for the same price. Call and see them.

The Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is the biggest cake of the best soap that is made for 5 cents. Six cakes for 25 cents. Do just try it.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Meek of Avilla, drove down to St. Joe Sunday before last, and spent the afternoon and evening visiting friends and drove back home by moonlight.

In a town in Pennsylvania they fine women two dollars for kissing each other. That's the most sensible law we have heard of; it always did look awful silly to us to see women, when they meet, run up to each other and put their arms around each other's neck and smack. That's dry kissing. Now if it only was the custom for men and women to greet each other with a kiss, how much more agreeable it would be. There would be some sound sense to that.

Good Heavy Plaid Horse Blankets only $1.00.

A. Zerns was at Kendallville last Saturday on business.

We got in another supply of 5 and 10 cent counter goods this week.

Mrs. John P. Widney of Tellville, O., is visiting friends in this place.

The paper at Hicksville calls for a temperance meeting.

Be very sure to buy the rubber boots at extra bad on the sale.

Those new styled satine prints are all the rage now; come to the first colors.

Our 25 cent halters are a bargain for the money. Get them while you can.

You should be sure to see those new colored dress goods that we are selling at a low price. They are cheap.

Mr. Anderson has a fine collection of sheep on his farm. He is wishing to sell them. Their stock should call and see them.

We have a handsome piece of heavy wrapping suitable for ladies' and children's wraps. Also a line of Ladies' Dress Flocks which are being worn so much this fall. Call and see them.

Oto Coburn now of Indiana, Neb., is around shaking hands with his many friends here. Oto likes the west and will return there in a couple of weeks. He says they have as nice girls there as here, and that there is one extra nice one.

At the last meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, Mrs. Wilson Sanders was elected a delegate to attend the district convention to be held at South Whitley, Ind. The next meeting of the Union will be held at the home of Mrs. J. M. Lounsberry, on Saturday evening, Nov. 14, 1885, at half past six o'clock. All are invited.

Should you hear about them? I left till I busted 6.00 in a basket. When I heard that this was how it was the boys was going out to sea to go to the middle of the afternoon. The boys was across the water. Now it was in one of the fields. The boys was kep a sheap, or the mail pur-swashun. When the boys was about in the middle of the field the sheap came site or them and then the fun began. The boys run and so did the sheap. The sheap was to much for the boys. As the loked round to sea wheather he was after them or not, he struck them fare and squar rite wher tira set down onli in front, and sent them head over heels. The boys picked themselves up az sune az tha cum too, and clum over the fence an struck out fur home, and concludod not to go to sea ther girls until sum other tyme.

Bareus Q. Hippenhammer.

Good Heavy Plaid Horse Blankets only $1.00.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1885.

No. 15.

The undersigned business houses of St. Joe will be closed on Thanksgiving Day, Thursday Nov. 26, 1885.

J. D. Leighty,
S. & F. Barney,
Case & Olds,
W. C. Patterson,
Mart Testison,
John Bates,
J. H. Conrad,
M. T. Bishop,
R. A. Kopp,
Joe Baker,
W. M. Currie,
Leighty & Wise,
August Kinsey,
Filley & Lounsberry,
Simon Wineland.

If your cow gets sick call on Doctor Hamm.

The floor in the new church was laid this week.

Levi Sechler is teaching singing school at Coburntown.

Boys' Red Wool Knit Pontiac Mittens only 25 cents.

J. J. Van Auken of Auburn was in town Wednesday.

Jud Gee now located at Hicksville, was in town Thursday.

The best Tea that can be found is Stew Pan at 35 cents per pound.

For Laundry Soap that stands the test, the Nimble Nickle is the best.

Only a few of these $3.50 Overcoats left. They are bound to sell.

Try our Self-Raising Buckwheat Flour. Only 25 cents per sack.

Large Woollen Horse Blankets $2.00 and $3.50. Well worth the money.

Ear Tabs only 10 cents a pair this year. Everybody ought to have them.

Rev. Lineberry has moved to St. Joe and occupies the house formerly owned by Mad Meek.

Chas. Emanuel was in town Thursday as counsel in the law-suit between Wilmott and Maxwell.

Three new members have been added to the St. Joe band, making in all now a membership of eighteen.

Several car loads of hogs have been shipped from this place lately. The average price paid was about 3 cents.

Rev. S. P. Fryberger will preach here next Sunday morning at half past ten o'clock. Rev. Lineberry will preach in the evening.

Rev. S. P. Fryberger will deliver a Thanksgiving sermon in the Lutheran church at this place on Thursday evening, Nov. 26, 1885. All are earnestly invited to be present.

We shall not issue our next paper until the 12th of December, at which time it will be larger than usual and contain a full description of our holiday stock, besides lots of fun. Don't fail to get a copy of it. It's free as water.

Good Heavy Plaid Horse Blankets only $1.00.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, NOV. 21, 1885.

If you want to buy a clock call on W. C. Patterson.

Roast turkey is about ripe and will soon have to be picked.

We got in 5 boxes of Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap this week.

Overcoats at $3.50 are cheaper than dirt at the Nimble Nimble store.

Large Woolen Horse Blankets $2.00 and $2.50. Well worth the money.

Mr. and Mrs. Sell Bowen will occupy part of Charlie Widney's house.

We got in another supply of 5 and 10 cent counter goods this week.

Those new styled satine prints are all the rage now; warranted fast colors.

Our 25 cent halters are a bargain for the money. Get them while you can.

MARRIED: At the Lutheran parsonage in Spencerville, by Rev. S. P. Fryberger, on Thursday, Nov. 12, Mr. John Allen to Miss Groff, of Orangeville.

A woman ran out of a house on Main street the other day crying "fire" as loud as she could. A man who happened to be passing by at that time ran into the house and being unable to see any fire or smell any smoke he turned to the gasping and excited woman and asked:

"Where is the fire? I can't see any signs of one."

"I—I didn't mean fire! I—I meant murder!" she replied.

"Is there a man in the house?"

"No sir."

"Who tried to murder you?"

"Oh, I didn't mean murder, I guess; but the awfulest, biggest rat you ever set your eyes on chased our cat across the kitchen and then stood and glared at me like a tiger thirsting for blood! Oh sir, you'd better turn in a fire alarm and let them kick in all the doors and break in all the windows and flood the house. The rat must be killed before he commits some terrible deed!"

Dust Pans only 10 cents. Big boxes of boot blacking only 5 cents per box.

Jake Sechler says he has tried our 10 cent butcher knives and that they are number one.

Forsha, the night operator got the G B last week for stopping the west bound fast train.

The Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is the biggest cake of the best soap that is made for 5 cents. Six cakes for 25 cents. Do just try it.

We have a handsome piece of heavy oleaking suitable for ladies' and children's wraps. Also a line of Ladies' Dress Flannels which are being worn so mch thisu fall. Call and see them.

Good Heavy Plaid Horse Blankets only $1.00.

"CANDEE" ARCTICS

—WITH—
DOUBLE THICK BALL.

Two Years
TEST.

The "CANDEE" Rubber Co. have a better Rubber boot than you can find anywhere for the same price. With their great improvement of the "CANDEE" Rubber boot, it is now the best boot ever made. It is the "CANDEE" Rubber boot, and it is the best boot ever made. It is the "CANDEE" Rubber boot, and it is the best boot ever made. It is the "CANDEE" Rubber boot, and it is the best boot ever made.

A Common Sense
Idea.

"CANDEE"

Rubber
BOOTS
WITH DOUBLE THICK
BALL.

Ordinary Rubber Boots
always wear out first on
the ball. The CANDEE
Boots are double thick
on the ball, and give

DOUBLE WEAR.

Most economical Rubber
Boot in the market.
Lasts longer than any
other boot and the

PRICE NO HIGHER.

Call and examine the goods.

FOR SALE BY
CASE & OLDS, ST. JOE, IND.

Everybody should call and see the bargains on our 5 and 10 cent counters.

We received last week a supply of Self Raising Fackelbush Floor. Try it.

We got in another supply of Parks &
Hazzler's Hand Made Boots this week.

We will treat to the candy if you don't say that we've got the finest assortment
of Hoods you ever saw.

The Candee Rubber Boot with two soles is the best boot to buy; we are agents for them.

If you want some good ink for school,
buy Thomas' Black School Ink in paper
bottles. We keep it.

If you ever saw a bargain in your those overcoats that we are offering $3.50 is one.

H. E. Noble, a typist on the Hicks ville News made us a pleasant call one day last week.

MARRIED: At Auburn by Rev. M. J. Lee on Tuesday Nov. 10, Mr. John C. Baker to Miss Samantha Knight.

You should be sure to see those low figured dress goods that we are selling for 10 cents. They are cheap.

J. H. Conrad is fattening up a big turkey. He probably intends to ask us all in on Thanksgiving day to help him eat it. I guess we can go, can't we?

We have over twenty eight different styles of Ladies' and Children's Hoods,
comprising some of the handsomest ones ever shown in this place. Come in and see them. Bring the children in, too.

Good Heavy Plaid Horse Blankets only $1.00.

As nex weak is thanksgiven we thot it wood bea rite and proper fur us tu prech a short surmon tu our readers an giv them a fue words ov advic. Fur our convenyanc we shal devide the subjack ov our remarks into three (3) genral divishuns or planks: 1st Turkkay, 2nd Crambery Sass, 3rd Mince Pi. In the furst place we wish tu call your atten-shun tu the furst plank in our platform, that ov turkkay. Turkkay's awl was pre-pare tu di about this time ov the year; tha expect it; tha fatten up on purpose fur this oocashun. It is just tu the con-trary with men and weman, tha get leen on purpos tu maik hogs (excuse the ex-presshun, but it's so,) ov themselvs on thanksgiven day. No one purson ot tu eat moor than one turkkay himself at one tyme; if tha du tha ar liabel tu foundar. Secondly: crambery sass is far better than sum othar kinds ov sass, and we advise our readers tu eat awl tha can get ov it. Thirdly and lastly, mince pi iz tu bea considered, but we shud think that after yu had got awa with a gude sized turkkay and a bucket ful ov cram-bery sass yu wood'nt hav much room fur mince pi? It is'nt helthy anawa; it maiks a purson dreem about ther unkles an ther ants and ther great-great-great-four-fathers; it maiks them sea gosts an gostices. Ov corse if yu only eat 2 or 3 pies it wont hurt yu, but yu jist eat 6 or 8 or 10 and sea if yu don't dreem aw-fool dreems. If the suggesthuns and advic I hav given in this letter ar worth ana thing tu yu pleas forward it tu me by postale not and oblige

Your Friend

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

All the business houses of St. Joe will be closed next Thursday.

Ed Gilhouser of Garrett was in town last Sunday on business.

The schools of this place seem to be giving excellent satisfaction.

Have you seen those little lamps that we sell for 10 cts. Tha ar cheep.

Honey Drips Syrup is the boss thing for pancakes. Only 45 cts per gallon.

Miss Josie Smith was at home last Sunday. Don Van Fleet of Newville was there, too.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Mrs. Robert Davis, on Saturday evening, Nov. 28, at half past six o'clock. All are invited.

Mrs. Wingard, who lives near Coleman's Corners, says that when the St. Joe boys come up in that neighborhood they have thermometers hanging to their horses so as to tell them when they are driving too fast.

DECEMBER

Examine our stock of Stand & Hanging Lamps.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1885.

No. 16.

Children's Rubber Circle Combs only 5 cents.

We have a supply of those fifty cent Halters for 25 cents.

Rubber Dolls, a good thing for small babies. Only 10 cents.

Beautiful baskets full of artificial flowers for only 10 cents.

Children's A B C Plates 5 cents: toy tin cups only 5 cents.

Flowered Cups and Saucers 10 cents. Plates to match 10 cents.

Come in and see our five and ten cent counters. It will pay big.

Six Quart Tin Pails only 10 cents; only a little over a cent a quart.

Rustic money banks 5 cents, Dominoes 5 cents, big toy books 5 cents.

Buy your krismas kandy at the Nimble Nickle sweet candy store.

We have the finest assortment of hanging lamps ever shown in town.

Just to please the children we are selling a nice little toy book for 1 cent.

Genuine Turkish Towels 5 cts. Ten cent box of boot blacking for 5 cents.

Bird cage springs 5 cents. One Foot Boxwood Folding Rules only 5 cents.

Those little books we are selling for one cent have 12 pages in them full of pictures and stories. Only a penny.

Those big dolls will make the girls hung their eyes out; they are 27 inches high and are old enough to stand alone. Bring the children in to see them.

Spencerville is bound to keep up with St. Joe. She now has a full fledged retail saloon.

Men's Suspenders, put up in fancy glass box; just the thing for a nice and sensible present.

Buy your husband a pair of those handsome embroidered slippers for a christmas present.

Children's Nickle Plated Knife, Fork and Spoon, all put up in a fancy box for only 25 cents.

Ten keyed genuine brass Cornets; can play a tune on them, and they are substantially made. Bound to please the boys every time.

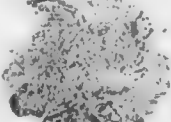

Rev. S. P. Fryberger will preach in this place Sunday morning at half past ten o'clock. Rev. Lineberry will preach in the evening.

Handkerchiefs make nice christmas presents. We sell the same for 5 cents that other stores charge 10 and 15 cents for. Come in and see them.

An elegant oil painting with a heavy walnut and gilt frame, size 28x34 inches, only $1.00 each. A christmas bargain sure, and one that will make a fine present. Call and see them.

Santa Claus will arrive at our store on Friday morning, Dec. 18th, with a sled load full of holiday attractions. He will remain until after christmas. The old gentlemen is anxious to see every body, and especially the children.

Christmas Bargains on our 5 & 10 cent Counters.

St. Joe  Delos.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, DEC. 12, 1885.

Child's Knife Fork and Spoon only 10 cents. Cheap as dish.

Everybody should visit our store between now and Christmas.

J. D. Leighty went east last week with a car load of apples.

Mark Bowen of Attica, Ohio, visited friends in town last week.

Ladies who want a Hood should see our stock before buying.

We will sell you four big pounds of Christmas prunes for 25 cents.

You won't find a handsomer line of Dolls any where than we have. Their ages range from six months to ten years old. Prices from 5 cents to $1.50.

Fancy Chromo Pictures, assorted designs, with a papier mache embossed frame, size 13x15 only 5 cents. They will make an elegant present and just think of it, only a nickel a piece for a large picture with a frame on it.

Ther ar lots ov funny things in this world, but one thing that aint so funny iz the jumping jonny tuth ake. Did yu ever hav it? If yu aint for pitty sake, don't never get it. It iz one ov the most unkonfortibel ailments that a person kan hav. It most awlmost cums at nite just wen a feller wants to sleep the work. Ther ar several kinds ov tuth ake: the grumbing kind, the jumping kind and the dancing kind; that iz the tuth don't dance but wen it gits tuthakeing rite hard it will maik yu dance rite spryly. Ther iz over 100 different remedies fur the sure kure ov the tuth ake but yu cant reli on ana ov them. The most surest releaf iz tu go to the dentest, set down in the chare, and let him get his forceps on the tuth, and if your hed don't cum off the tuth will probabla com out. Fur mi part I druther hav awlmost ana thing elee than the tuth ake.

Kindly Yours,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

We have an elegant line of Silk Handkerchiefs for the holiday trade.

J. P. Widney of Bellville, Ohio, visited friends in this neighborhood this week.

We have Christmas Presents for Everybody.

This old man is going down to the Nimble Nickle store to buy his children some christmas presents. Times are so close that he thought he couldn't buy them presents this year, but when he found out that he could get handsome and useful presents for 5 and 10 cents, he struck right out for the Nimble Nick. Aint he getting there though?

Pad Locks for 10 cents.

Shoe Brushes for 10 cents.

Two Foot Rules for 10 cents.

Fancy Card Baskets for 10 cents.

Long Handled Frying Pans for 10 cts.

Cuspadors 10 cents, Best of Dust Pans for the small sum of one dime.

Our store is jam full full of great big holiday bargains.

We have an elegant line of Holiday Goods. Call in.

Boys' Red Wool Knit Pontiac Mittens only 25 cents.

China Doll Babies over ten inches long only 10 cents.

Only a few of those $3.50 Overcoats left. They are bound to sell.

Ear Tabs only 10 cents a pair this year. Everybody ought to have them.

Simon Wineland will put in a Feed Mill in connection with his handle factory.

Try our Self Raising Buckwheat Flour. Only 25 cts per sack.

Have you seen those little lamps that we sell for 10 cts. They are cheap.

Honey Drips Syrup is the boss thing for pancakes. Only 45 cts per gallon.

If you want to get printing of any kind done give us a call; we will do it for you neat, quick and cheap.

You can afford to make the children all a present even if the times are hard, when you can get nice christmas presents for 5 and 10 cents.

You can buy christmas presents this year for 5 and 10 cents at our store, that last year you had to pay 20 and 25 cents for. Its a fact.

If you want to make somebody a real extra nice present buy them a set of Rodger Bros. Silver Knives and Forks or a set of Tea or Table Spoons. We have them and will make you some very low prices on them.

Henry Jenkins had about twenty-five chickens stolen one night last week. Henry would be glad to have the parties come back some night and get the chicken coop.

Say, how is it about clothing? Are you going to need something in that line soon: if so don't forget to call and see our stock; we don't pretend to have the biggest assortment in this country, but what we do have is new clean goods and the prices we guarantee to be as low as the very lowest.

We expect a Big Holiday Trade this Season.

Boys' Red Wool Knit Pontiac Mittens only 25 cents.

Dr. James Ferrell is practicing medicine again.

Our store is jam full full of great big holiday bargains.

We have an elegant line of Holiday Goods. Call in.

Only a few of those $3.50 Overcoats left. They are bound to sell.

The best Tea that can be found is Stew Pan at 35 cents per pound.

For Laundry Soap that stands the test, the Nimble Nickle is the best.

Try our Self Raising Buckwheat Flour. Only 25 cents per sack.

Have you seen those little lamps that we sell for 10 cts. They are cheap.

Honey Drips Syrup is the boss thing for pancakes. Only 45 cts per gallon.

Large Woolen Horse Blankets $2.00 and $2.50. Well worth the money.

It won't be much trouble for you to come in and see our holiday fixings, and we know it will pay you. Bring all the children, it don't make any difference if you have 18 or 20, bring them all in.

Christmas comes but once a year, and it is then that the children expect some kind of a present. Let it be ever so small it will be appreciated. We have an endless variety of useful and handsome presents at 5 and 10 cents. Just such goods as other stores charge 20 and 25 cents. Come in and see them.

"CANDEE" ARCTICS

—WITH—
DOUBLE THICK BALL.

Two Years
TEST.

The "CANDEE" RUBBER CO. give a better Rubber than can be obtained elsewhere for the same money, with their great improvement of the DOUBLE THICK BALL. The extra thickness of rubber right under the tread, gives DOUBLE WEAR. Ask to see the "CANDEE" Double Thick Ball Rubbers in Boots, Arctics, Overshoes, Alaskan, &c.

A Common Sense
Idea.

"CANDEE"

Rubber
BOOTS
WITH DOUBLE THICK
BALL.

Ordinary Rubber Boots always wear out first on the ball. The CANDEE Boots are double thick on the ball, and give

DOUBLE WEAR.

Most economical Rubber Boot in the market. Lasts longer than any other boot and the

PRICE NO HIGHER.

Call and examine the goods.

FOR SALE BY

CASE & OLDS, ST. JOE, IND.

Good Heavy Plaid Horse Blankets only $1.00.

---

Greenland, Dec. 1, 1885.

To the Boys & Girls of St. Joe.

Dear Little Friends.

I will be at St. Joe this year with a line of Holiday Goods that will fairly make your eyes sparkle with delight. Will stop with Mort Olds. Be sure to come there and see me. I have lots of nice things for you.

Your Old Friend,
SANTA CLAUS.

We have Christmas Presents for Everybody.

Frank White moved into his new house last week.

Our 5 and 10 cent counters are just jam cram full of christmas present.

Abe Depew returned from Michigan last week, where he has been for a few months.

Remember, we still sell stacks upon stacks of Ladies' Hemmed Fancy Flowered Handkerchiefs at only 5 cents.

Jeans Pants well made and lined only $1.00. Good Overalls 50 cents. Boys' Knit Jackets 75 cents; Men's $1.00.

The reason why we expect a big holiday trade this year is because we are offering such bargains that people can't help but buy.

St. Joe has had on an average of about two lawsuits a week lately. Better move the court house over here and be done with it.

After you have read this paper, hand it to your neighbor and let him read it. We want everybody to read about our christmas doings.

Gentlemen are requested not to read this item, as it is intended only for the ladies: Say, girls, have you got a beaux, that is we don't mean a bow to wear on your hair, but a live beaux, one that you like? Of course its none of our business if you have, only we thought perhaps you would want to make him a christmas present, and we was going to suggest that you buy him a pair of those handsome embroidered slippers that we are selling. They will make an elegant and useful christmas present. Come in and see them.

Suspenders.

Dolls.

A B C Blocks.

Hammers.

Tool Boxes.

Shears & Scissors,

Bread Knives.

Buggy Whips.

Horse Brushes.

Cake Stands.

Tea Sets.

Shawl Straps.

Gent's Black Satin Bows reduced to 10 cents.

On account of the cold and disagreeable weather that prevailed last Saturday evening the supper given by the band boys was not as well attended as it no doubt would have been had it been a pleasant evening. However a goodly number of the citizens of St. Joe and vicinity turned out and sat down to as good a supper as was ever spread before the people of this place. The Juvenile Band of Hicksville was present and discoursed some fine music. The St. Joe Band played several pieces in an excellent manner, considering the short time they have been practicing. St. Joe has reason to be proud of her band, and ought to do every thing possible to encourage it.

Last Sunday was a stormy day for a starter.

Toy Book for children made out of linen cloth; they can't tear them; only 5 and 10 cents.

We are agents for the celebrated Park & Hazzard Hand Made Boots. Every pair fully warranted. Try them.

The Sunday school at this place has decided to have a christmas bell on christmas eve. Something new for a change.

Howard McClaren of North Baltimore Ohio, brother of W. B. McClaren, formerly agent at this place, is night operator at this station.

We understand that several of our citizens contemplate going west in the spring to grow up with the country. They won't find many better places than St. Joe.

The Fruit House is now a thing of the past.

Eck Fales opened his grocery to the public last week.

John Bates is selling cigars for an Auburn cigar factory.

Buy the Ball Stocking Yarn. It is better, besides it saves winding. We have a full line of colors.

Fancy Hand Painted Cream Pitchers only 10 cents. Sold the same thing last year 25 cents.

Our christmas presents are all articles of usefulness. Something that will do the children good.

Boys' Violin and Bow; a genuine good sized article only 50 cents. It will tickle the boys all over.

We have in another big supply of those fancy wire card baskets. A beautiful thing for 10 cents only. They are fast sellers. You want one sure.

We have had a big trade on goods this winter and the secret of it all is we have had a good variety to select from. We still have some handsome styles.

We print enough papers this week to put one copy into ever family in Concord township, and if they all buy their christmas presents of us we'll be satisfied. Aint we modest?

Joe Baker has sold his dwelling and barber shop in this place to Win Darling. Joe will stay here until spring, at which time he expects to go west. Joe has many friends here who will be sorry to see him leave.

We have an elegant line of Ladies' White Hoods.

Children's China Tea Sets of 13 pieces only 10 cents.

Al Brooks was married last week to Miss Dot Reasoner.

We are headquarters for cheap holiday goods this year.

Boys' Tool Boxes containing 9 different tools only 10 cents.

Colored A B C Blocks reduced this year to ten one cent pieces.

John Leighty Jr. is expected home in a few days to spend the holiday vacation.

You can buy 100 different kinds of useful presents at our store for 5 and 10 cents each.

As a special christmas bargain we offer Ladies' Quilted Skirts at the very low price of 75 cents.

We have already sold this year over 80 white hoods. Come in and see our stock before you buy.

We bought 15 dozen handkerchiefs for the holiday trade, all to be sold at 5 cents apiece. New patterns.

For pity sake don't freeze yourselves these cold nights when you can buy a pair of all wool blankets as cheap as we are offering them.

We hope that you will enjoy reading this paper so much that you will feel like buying your holiday goods of us. We will truly appreciate such kindness, and can promise to sell you christmas presents cheaper than you ever bought them before.

Our assortment of hanging lamps is larger than usual this year and prices are remarkably low. Nothing makes a more serviceable and lasting present than a hanging lamp and at the present low prices they are within the reach of everybody. Call and see our line.

John Widney and Alex. Filley traded horses last week. We give our readers an illustration of each horse, so that they can see which got cheated.

We have over twenty styles of 5 cent handkerchiefs.

We sold a set of dishes last week that amounted to $15.00.

We can sell you a real nice hanging lamp for $2.00. Think of it.

Mart Testison keeps constantly on hand a full supply of Standard Tub and Can Oysters. Give him a call.

Mahlon Baker has bought the lot upon which John Davis' house formerly stood, fitted up the summer kitchen and moved into it. Mahlon expects to build in the spring.

We have printed a lot of cards with the words "Merry Christmas" on them and a blank space for writing the name, for labeling presents. They are very convenient. Furnished free to all our customers.

JANUARY

5 Best of Georgia Dried Peaches only 5c. per Pound.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 30, 1886.

No. 17.

Here's a few special winter bargains, just to wake people up. Read them over will you please.

Best Dried Peaches 5 cents per pound.

Clean Broken Rice 5 cents.

Turkish Prunes 6 cents.

Genuine Grand Bank Codfish 5 cts.

California Apricots 15 cts.

Three Cans Best Corn 25 cts.

Good Japan Tea 35 cts.

Best Pie Peaches 10 cts.

Three Cans Best Pumpkin 25 cts.

Standard Tomatoes 10 cts.

Three Cans Lima Beans 25 cts.

Good Padlocks 10 cts.

Take these in while you can as they wont last long, and when they are all gone we can't duplicate these prices.

Large wood handled spoons 5 cents;
Hash Knives 5 cts.

One dozen good Slate Pencils put up in a box for 5 cents.

Wils Sanders will move to Garrett and work on the B. & O.

New lot of Pontiac Red Mittens just received this week.

J. J. Van Auken, County Surveyor, was in town last Monday.

We have plenty of Saxony Yarn, all colors. Bargains in Linen Crashes.

Alex. Donaldson will move to Edgerton and engage in the lumber business.

Don't talk about hard times when you can buy 6 pounds of Rice for 25 cts.

The teachers of this township have organized a reading circle.

Nearly 400 logs have been hauled into the mill yard at this place in the past two weeks.

Henry Hamm was twenty-one years old last Wednesday. Another republican vote.

Dr. Mitchell of Mansfield, Ohio, spent last Sabbath in this place the guest of Dr. Sheffer.

Smoking Tobacco 20 cts per pound. Ten cent chunk of good plug tobacco for 5 cents. Come and see them.

Mrs. Thayer, who has been visiting friends in this place for the past few weeks returned to her home in Minnesota last Thursday.

Spencerville now has a paper about the same size of the News. It is published by P. Bishop, and is a bright newsy little sheet.

Quite a large crowd attended the social at the residence of Dr. Bowman last Wednesday evening, and they all enjoyed themselves highly. The net proceeds were $6.00.

MARRIED: at the residence of the bride's mother in Spencerville, by Rev. S. P. Fryberger, on Sunday evening, Jan. 24, 1886, Mr Ed. M. Gilhansen of Garrett to Miss Olive Oberholtzer of this place. Ollie fooled us all this time, however we wish them a happy, joyous and prosperous married life.

Three Pound Can Choice Pie Peaches 10 cents.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, JAN. 30, 1886.

Trade with us during 1886.

We can sell you a good padlock for 10 cents.

Best Georgia Dried Peaches only 5 cts. per pound.

The B. & O railroad boys got their pay last week.

Spelling school at Cheesetown last Thursday night.

Ed Leighty talks of going on the road as news agent.

The Best Japan Tea in town at the Nimble Nickle store.

Over 100 loads of ice was put up in this place last week.

One advantage we have over other papers is that we don't have to keep dunning our subscribers to pay up.

The net profits of this paper last year was something less than $2,265,132.00. In a few years at that rate, we'll be worth more than Vanderbilt was.

Call at our store and we will show you how to live cheap.

We're on deck as usual, with a big stock of canned goods.

Buy your husband a pair of these handsome embroidered slippers for a birthday present.

Mrs. E. Zimmerman and daughter Bessie of Auburn, visited friends in town last week.

We got in a supply of garden seeds this week. Its an excellent good time to set them out.

We print this paper for business and fun, we want the business and you may have the fun.

Insure your property with S. S. Widney. He represents several of the best companies.

Men's Suspenders, put up in fancy glass box; just the thing for a nice and sensible present.

James Ables has bought the house and lot laying just south of Nels Thomas's. He will enlarge and improve it and make it his future home.

The merchants of Hicksville are on the war path, and they seem to be hitting each other some pretty hard blows. Tut, tut, gentlemen, that's naughty.

Mell Bishop has received several car loads of lumber and shingles lately. Mell bought his building material early in the season, which enabled him to buy it at a low figure, consequently he is prepared to offer low prices to any one needing any thing in his line.

Three Pound Can Standard Tomatoes 10 cents.

James Draggoo of Auburn was in town one day last week.

Mell Bishop is building a large addition to his lumber sheds.

We will sell you three thousand parlor matches for 25 cents.

Six Quart Tin Pails only 10 cents; only a little over a cent a quart.

Come in and see our five and ten cent counters. It will pay big.

We have the finest assortment of hanging lamps ever shown in town.

Genuine Turkish Towels 5 cts. Ten cent box of boot blacking for 5 cents.

Bird cage springs 5 cents. One Foot Boxwood Folding Rules only 5 cents.

The Nimble Nickle Soap is by far the biggest and best cake of soap in the market. Only 5 cents.

We will sell you any thing in the clothing line at cost for the next thirty days. Improve the chance.

The next pair of boots you buy try our Parks & Hazzard Celebrated Hand Made Boots. They are clinchers.

We have been loading up our 5 and 10 counters this week with another arrival of bouncing big bargains.

Stew Pan Tea only 50 cents per pound including a good stew pan that usually retails for half that amount.

Frank Walker is fitting up a room next to Testison's grocery for a harness shop. Just what St. Joe has long been in need of.

During the year 1885 the following amount of grain was taken in at the B. & O. elevator at this place:

Wheat	37,053 Bushels.
Oats	10,945

Wonder how that will compare with the amount taken in at the village three miles south of here?

Children's A B C Plates 5 cents; toy tin cups only 5 cents.

Flowered Cups and Saucers 10 cents. Plates to match 10 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Grubb celebrated the first anniversary of their wedding day last week. Their mothers came over and brought them something to eat. I tell you, it's a good thing to have a mother; if it wasn't for our relations we would have probably have gone hungry a good many times.

Whooping good Horse Brushes for 10 cents. Best Curry Combs same.

Bear in mind that we will sell you clothing at actual cost.

Byron Widney went down into Egypt last week after a load of corn.

As the clown in the circus says, "here we are again." Through the holidays we were too busy to print our paper and since that time we have been invoicing stock, and endeavoring to find out how much we have made out of pocket in the past year. Now that we are all straightened up again, we shall issue the News as often as the weather will permit. The subscription price will remain the same. In clubs of ten or more a liberal reduction will be made.

Best of Georgia Dried Peaches only 5c. per Pound.

Fire Insurance.

Having obtained the agency of several of the leading Fire Insurance Companies, I am now prepared to insure your property against loss by fire or damage in any of the leading companies, at the lowest possible rates. Your future patronage is earnestly solicited, to which strict attention and good satisfaction will be given.

Yours Truly,
S. S. Widney, St. Joe, Ind.

Try our California Sun Dried Apricots; they make a delicious sauce.

Mr. McBurney went to Pennsylvania last Wednesday to look after a fortune that he has lately fallen heir to.

Use the National Dry Hop Yeast and you will never fail to have the best of bread. Try it the next time you bake.

Peter Shuler went to Ohio last Wednesday morning. He expects to move his family there shortly and make it his future home.

Last Monday evening about 8 o'clock a large number of the citizens of St. Joe and vicinity, headed by the St. Joe Brass Band, marched to the residence of Alex. Donaldson, and presented that gentleman and his family with an old fashioned surprise party. They didn't knock at the door but they went right in and helped themselves, took full possession of the house and had a good time generally. The large number present was evidence of the high esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson and family are held by the people of this community.

Jo Bakar, the barber has lately become the proprietor and owner of one of the finest imported fore legged dogs ever owned in this part of the country. He is a genuine thurbread, slitley crossed between a rat terrier and a polan china. He is said to be a cracken gude burd dog and an excelent gude pointer, but he alwus wants to point his nose at a plate of gude vittels. He cant bea best as a setter; he druther set than any thing elce. Far futher particulars enquire at the barbar shop.

Once Moor Yours,
Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

O. H. Widney will move to town next week.

Frank Meek of Avilla was in town last Tuesday.

Best of Grand Bank Cod Fish only 5 cents a pound.

New lot of Ear Muffs received this week at only 10 cents per pair.

Rice only 5 cents a pound or 6 pound for 25 cents. Cheap enuf, aint it?

If you expect to have any sale bills printed this spring give us a call.

---

FEBRUARY

If you want good bread use the National Yeast.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1886.

No. 18.

B. A. WOODCOX,

PRACTICAL

HOUSE PAINTING,

PAPER HANGING,
KALSOMINING &C.

All work guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction. Your patronage is solicited. Leave orders at the Drugstore, St. Joe.

Good Muslin for 5 cts.

Turkish Towels only 5 cts.

Lots of wheat marketed this week.

California Plums two cans for 25 cts.

The fourteenth of this month is Valentine's day.

Geo. Hamm is building a smoke house for John Widney.

Vester Widney now bobs around in a pair of bob-sleds,

W. O. Patterson rusticated at Hicksville one day this week.

John Baker will leave for Washington Territory next Monday.

Lawyer Rose of Auburn was in town Thursday on legal business.

Is your property insured? If not insure it at once with S. B. Widney.

If you want a new Indigo Blue Print Dress we have some new styles to select from. Call and see them.

Those who have never used National Yeast should try it.

Preaching at this place next Sunday morning and evening.

We sold quite a number of boxes of National Yeast this week.

J. W. Dills and family visited friends at Fort Wayne this week.

Best of Canned Sweet Corn only 10 cents or three for a quarter.

Mell Bishop sold over $200 worth of lumber and shingles last Wednesday.

The trial of the murderer Kessler will commence at Auburn next Tuesday.

Ben Leighty wears a big brass pin on vest that must have cost over 2 cents.

We heard a man talking the other day about laughing in dutch. That would be funny, sure.

Another conductor was arrested and fined for holding the crossing at this place last week. Costs $5.

Dr. George Hamm the celebrated cow doctor of this place, attended a course of lectures in Buffalo last month.

We are selling lots of Rice these days, and the reason why is very plain; we're only asking 5 cents a pound for it, or 6 pounds for 25 cents.

Those who are fond of Codfish should not fail to call and get a supply. We never were able to sell it as cheap as at the present time. Only 5 cents per pound. Cheap eating.

If you want good bread use the National Yeast.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Chase & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, FEB. 13, 1886.

Best of Grand Bank Cod Fish only 5 cents a pound.

Candidates for township offices are beginning to loom up.

B. S. Pettit of Hicksville, was in town last week selling coal oil.

The Nimble Nickle Soap makes washing an easy task. Try it.

Everybody uses the National Yeast; even the children cry for it.

If you expect to have any sale bills printed this spring give us a call.

The many friends of Effie Hart gave her a surprise party one evening last week.

Samuel Keyes' youngest child died last week Thursday and was buried on Friday.

The Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle of this place now has a membership of thirteen.

Last week was a pretty snug week, considering the fact that the mercury in the thermometer kept bobbing around down below zero all the time.

Fire Insurance.

Having obtained the agency of several of the leading Fire Insurance Companies, I am now prepared to insure your property against loss by fire or damage in any of the leading companies, at the lowest possible rates. Your future patronage is earnestly solicited, to which strict attention and good satisfaction will be given.

Yours Truly,

S. S. Widney, St. Joe, Ind.

Rice only 5 cents a pound or 6 pound or 25 cents. Cheap enuf, ain't it?

The ground hog saw his shadow last week, so you may as well prepare for six weeks more of winter.

Several prominent B. & O. officials were along the road last week looking into the whys and wherefores of so many wrecks.

Barney Woodcox staid over to the saw mill two hours one day last week to avoid the constable who was looking after a jury to serve in the lawsuit between Erick and Keifer of Spencerville, and then got over here just in time to be taken in.

A certain notary public in this place lost his overcoat last week. He searched the house over, but it was all in vain, it couldnt be found. The next day the coat was returned, and now the notary public wonders whether some fellow had been visiting at his house and wore the coat off; and his wife wonders whether he hadnt been visiting at some body else's house and forgot to wear his coat home.

Best of Georgia Dried Peaches only 5c. per Pound.

Nuts to Crack.

Here's a few special winter bargains, just to wake people up. Read them over will you please.

Best Dried Peaches 5 cents per pound.

Clean Broken Rice 5 cents.

Turkish Prunes 6 cents.

Genuine Grand Bank Codfish 5 cts.

California Apricots 15 cts.

Three Cans Best Corn 25 cts.

Good Japan Tea 35 cts.

Best Pie Peaches 10 cts.

Three Cans Best Pumpkin 25 cts.

Standard Tomatoes 10 cts.

Three Cans Lima Beans 25 cts.

Good Padlocks 10 cts.

Take these in while you can as they wont last long, and when they are all gone we can't duplicate these prices.

Large wood handled spoons 5 cents;
Hash Knives 5 cts.

One dozen good Slate Pencils put up in a box for 5 cents.

Try our California Sun Dried Apricots; they make a delicious sauce.

New lot of Ear Muffs received this week at only 10 cents per pair.

We have plenty of Saxony Yarn, all colors. Bargains in Linen Crashes.

Don't talk about hard times when you can buy 6 pounds of Rice for 25 cts.

Dave Howey and a friend of his from Montpelier, Ohio, were in town last week one day. Dave looks hearty.

Smoking Tobacco 20 cts per pound. Ten cent chunk of good plug tobacco for 8 cents. Come and see them.

Use the National Dry Hop Yeast and you will never fail to have the best of bread. Try it the next time you bake.

"CANDEE" ARCTICS

—WITH—
DOUBLE THICK BALL.

Two Years
TEST.

The "CANDEE" RUBBER CO. give a better Rubber than can be obtained elsewhere for the same money, with their great improvement of the DOUBLE THICK BALL. The extra thickness of rubber right under the tread, gives DOUBLE WEAR. Ask to see the "CANDEE" Double Thick Ball Rubbers in Boots, Arctics, Overshoes, Alaskan, &c.

A Common Sense
Idea.

Art Woodcox handed us the following poetry the other day. He says its about his girl, but he wouldnt tell us what her name is.

I know a little girl,

But I won't tell you who;

Her hair is of the gold,

And her eyes is of the blue,

Her smile is of the sweet,

And her heart is of the true.

Such a pretty little girl,

But I won't tell you who.

I'll marry her some day,

But I won't tell when;

The very smallest boys,

Often make the biggest men.

When I'm as tall as father,

You may ask about it then;

Such a pretty little girl!

But I won't tell you when.

If you want good bread use the National Yeast.

Alex. Donaldson was in town last Tuesday.

Simon Wineland's feed chopper is kept busy all the time.

If you need any thing in the harness line, either new work or repairing, call on Frank Walker.

Harry Meek will take care of the church during this series of meetings. Harry knows how to do it.

If you want to assist a worthy person insure your property with S. S. Widney. He guarantees satisfaction.

Gene Wilson is getting ready to go west; he having bought a cow, pigs &c. Gene will soon be a full fledged western farmer.

O. H. Widney, our good natured commissioner, is particularly noted at Auburn for his peculiar laughing qualities. Haw! Haw! Haw! It is said that when he gets to laughing real hearty, they can hear him for miles.

Dr. Beechler, the dentist, of Butler, will be at Dr. Sheffer's office in this place, on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in each month. Any one having work to do in his line should bear that in mind. He guarantees all work to give satisfaction.

Perhaps you had'nt thought of it, but there are quite a number of officials living in St. Joe at the present time, as follows: one county commissioner, one deputy sheriff, one justice of the peace, one notary public and two constables. Beat that if you can, Mr. Spencerville?

Our friend Willum H. Simonton of Orangevill is a very stylish man, and when he gets awl togged up in his Sunday-getu-meeting-clothes he is snintymes taken fur President Cleavland. Willum is fond o v fine clothes, but moor capeshally des he luv tu ware hi priced jewelry. He has lately purchaised him a very costly set ring, and thinking our readers wood hav a curiosity tu see it we present the abov life sized photograph ov it. The ring wus maid tu ordar out ov an old harness buckle; it is plated over with jenuwino numbar four brass, inlaid with the best cv cast iron. The set is the most expencive part ov it; it is real stone, actually cut from an old worn out grind-stone. Willum is dreadful proud ov it, and wood'nt part with it fur love or munny.

Yours Real Trooly,
Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Use Stew Pan T.

Rice 5 cts per pound.

Good Halters only 25 cts.

Best Syrup 45 cts per gallon.

Five hundred parlor matches 5 cts.

There are only 28 days in this month.

There has been a large attendance at church this week.

Several new building will be erected in St. Joe this summer.

Don't fail to take in some of the following Special Bargains that we are offering: Good Gingham 5 cts. New assortment of Prints only 5 cts. All sizes of Pearl Buttons 5 cts. Pound rolls of Good Batts only 10 cts. Good Blue Denim Overalls 50 cents. Dried Peaches 5 cts. Rice 5 cts. Prunes 5 cts. Canned Pumpkin 8 cts. All other articles way down. Call and see us.

Fresh Butter Crackers Three pounds for 25 cents.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1886.

No. 19.

James. Adams is now a resident of St. Joe.

Dr. Beechler will be in St. Joe next Wednesday.

Chew Horn Shoe Plug. Call and get a sample plug free.

They talk of building a new church at Spencerville this year.

Mrs. H. K. Reynolds has been quite sick but is improving.

Another lot of new prints received this week at 5 cents a yard.

Remember that our 5 cent Gingham is all new goods; no old stock.

The scholars of the St. Joe schools observed Longfellow's day yesterday.

Men's Denim Overalls, well made and warranted not to rip, only 50 cents.

Jake Dermott says he had some soft soap stole from his smoke house last week. It must have been a dirty fellow that would steal soap.

They had a wood chopping for George Wyatt last Wednesday. They got him up over 30 cords of wood besides other articles that was presented to him.

H. K. Reynolds says he would like to be a farmer, and get up at 3 o'clock in the morning and milk 17 cows before breakfast. Henry wouldnt know where to take hold of a cow to milk her.

Several new pieces of Dress Prints received this week; entirely new patterns and very handsome.

Tomatoes are going up; we still sell them at 10 cents a can, but can't do it after this lot is gone.

We offer as a special drive this week all sizes of Pearl Buttons at 5 cents a dozen. A genuine bargain.

Men's Indigo Blue Muslin Shirts, made in good fitting, with collar cheaper than you can get them made.

Mr. Bowen drove back to his farm near Attica, Ohio, this week, the distance being about 120 miles.

We have the best line of Men's Overalls and Cottonade Pants ever shown in in this place. Call and see them.

Don't fail to call and get some of our 5 cent Gingham; they are the biggest bargain you'll run against this year.

We gas a good deal but weain't gaing when we say that the Gingham that we offer at 5 cents are remarkably cheap.

The name of the street running down past John Widney's has been changed from Pumpkin Street to Widney's Avenue.

We are getting in a line of New Gingham in desirable patterns which we offer at 5 cents a yard. These are good goods and very cheap indeed.

Fresh Butter Crackers Three pounds for 25 cents.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, FEB. 27, 1886.

Good Muslin for 5 cts.

Turkish Towels only 5 cts.

We want your trade this spring.

California Plums two cans for 25 cts.

Try our Dried Peaches; they are good and dreadful cheap.

Good Butcher Knives only 10 cents. Bread Knives same price.

Last week Friday was the stormiest day of the season.

Come in and see our new bargains in sugars. Splendid sugar for 6 cts.

James Ables returned from Baltimore last week, where he has been visiting for some time past.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Grube of Auburn visited in town last week the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reed.

William Saylor will erect a fine residence this summer on his lot at the west end of Main street.

Mart Jenkins of Iowa, is visiting among his old time friends and acquaintances in this neighborhood.

If you prefer dried peaches with worms in them, we're just out. Ours are clean, bright new fruit, but narry worm.

Three cans of the best Pumpkin only 25 cents. Who don't love a piece of good pumpkin pie? All that don't hold up your hands.

The engine on the passenger train going east gave out at this place last Saturday, and they had to send to Garrett and get another engine.

Dr. Beechler, the dentist, of Butler, will be at Dr. Shaffer's office in this place, on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in each month. Any one having work to do in his line should bear that in mind. He guarantees all work to give satisfaction.

"Laugh and grow fat." That will do to talk about, but when it comes to depending entirely on laughing for a living it gets thin. The best way we know of to grow fat and be happy too, is to trade with us. We always give such big bargains and treat folks so well that they they can't help but be happy.

There is some talk of moving the station away from this place, but just exactly where they will move it to they hav'nt as yet decided. Concord wants it, and we understand that Spencerville would take it if they only had a railroad to put it on. However for the present it will no doubt remain at St. Joe, and when they move it, we'll let you know.

Fresh Butter Crackers Three pounds for 25 cents.

B. A. WOODCOX,

PRACTICAL

HOUSE PAINTING,

PAPER HANGING.

KALSOMINING &C.

—All work guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction. Your patronage is solicited. Leave orders at the Drugstore, St. Joe.

Use Stew Pan T.

Rice 5 cts per pound.

Good Halters only 25 cts.

Best Syrup 45 cts per gallon.

Five hundred parlor matches 5 cts.

Those who have never used National Yeast should try it.

The GARRETT CLIPPER sometimes calls it's self the RIPPER.

Fred Johnson is preparing to build a new house this summer.

Best of Canned Sweet Corn only 10 cents or three for a quarter.

Is your property insured? If not insure it at once with S. S. Widney.

Several of our citizens attended the murder trial at Auburn last week.

We are selling lots of Rice these days, and the reason why is very plain; we're only asking 5 cents a pound for it, or 6 pounds for 25 cents.

Those who are fond of Codfish should not fail to call and get a supply. We never were able to sell it as cheap as at the present time. Only 5 cents per pound. Cheap eating.

Mrs. Mad Meek is now prepared to weave carpet on short notice. Satisfaction guaranteed.

If you want a new Indigo Blue Print Dress we have some new styles to select from. Call and see them.

We done a lot of painting for William H. Tressell of Hicksville one day last week. They all come to St. Joe to get their work done.

We humbly desire to make an apology to our friend Ben Leighty for having said in our last issue that the breech pin that he wears cost 2 cents. We made a mistake; it only cost a cent.

Sometime ago we got in a big supply of Best Halves Dried Peaches; we offered them at the astonishingly low price of 1 cent per pound and sold them right out, and had calls for more. We have been out of them for a few days but have just received another lot this week. Quality better than ever and only 5 cents for a whole pound.

The last issue of the SPENCERVILLE NEWS says: "If it costs $17.50 to try to kiss a girl in Cedarville, how much will it cost to kiss an old maid in some other town?" If the editor of the NEWS or any other insurance agent should undertake to kiss one of our old maids, they would find out that it would cost them a good deal more than that, besides they would most likely go home with a bald head.

Fresh Butter Crackers Three pounds for 25 cents.

Men's Fancy Plaid Cottonade Pants only $1.25.

Look out for a wedding in town of these boys.

We got in some new Raisins this week; great big fat fellows.

The pay car deposited its usual monthly installment here last Tuesday.

We got in some Brown and Drab Vailing this week. You want some.

James Heatley, another old settler of this county, died at home near Newville last Tuesday.

Dried Peaches are cheap and you ought to have some by all means. Only 5 cents per pound.

They say that you can get splendid Dried Peaches at the Nimble Nickle store. Strange aint it.

We have a good line of Embroideries which we offer at a low price. If you need any get them now.

Last year we got 10 cents a pound for Dried Peaches; this year we are selling them for 5 cents. We've cut the price right into in the middle.

The funeral procession of old Father
Blue of Newville, passed through here last week Friday, on their way to Leo where the remains were buried.

N.N.S.

This woman she was late,

In getting washing on the rope;
Awl becaws she diddent use

The Nimbel Nickel Sape.

How dos that verse ov poetry strike yu; is'nt it butiful; the sentiment is so fine. Just think ov that poor woman scrubbing awl ther awl not getting her washing out until after everybody else awl becaws she diddent use the rite kind ov sape. Women, as a gernal thing ar awfool particuler and fussy; each one tries tu beat the other. If one woman has a fether on her hat two feet li;
some other woman will tri tu git one a foot hier. So it is about washing tha awl want tu git ther washing out first.
The onli sucesfule wa tu ackomlish that is tu use the Nimbel Nickel Sape;
It gits pepet up early in the mornning and marks washing an easy task. It gits ther furst everytyme.

Yours fur Nimble Nick,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

There is some talk of having the old settler's meeting at St. Joe this year.
We're in for it.

MARCH

Don't Fail to get some of our 5 cent Gummies.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, MARCH 13, 1886.

No. 20.

Another lot of Fresh
Prunes received this week
at 5 cts per pound.

Frank Walker sold two sets of harness
this week.

Thursday was Joe Shutt's birthday.
Sixty-four.

Will Bishop of Convey, Ohio, was in town Thursday.

John Means moved back on to his farm this week.

From now on we shall keep lime for sale in small quantities.

We have all sizes of Ladies' Overshoes
on hand. Best Candee Rubber.

If you want to sleep well use the Stew
Paw Tea. Only 35 cts per pound.

We want to sell you a Burch Plow this spring. The question is can we?

Ed White's team ran away last Monday and riddled the wagon up pretty badly.

John Davis took a load of young folks to Spencerville to church last Tuesday evening.

We are the only place in St. Joe where they keep the Nimble Nickle Laundry
Soap. Its the boss soap.

Dr. Hamlin is a candidate for supervisor. George will make a bang up good one.

We always have on hand a supply of good strong bearhound candy; nothing better for colds.

All kinds of harness repaired neatly
and quickly by calling on Frank Walker.
New work a speciality.

You'll be wanting a pair of rubber boots one of these wet muddy days, and don't forget to buy the Candee boot.

Call in and we'll give you enough J.
T. Plug Tobacco to last you a whole day (providing you don't make a dog of yourself.) We do this in order to have you give it a trial; and after you've tried it, we are almost sure you will use it.

The correspondent from Coburntown to the AUBURN DESPATCH this week says:
"There are seven large brick houses in our place now; most of them nearly new." Wonder how large Coburntown is any how? Does it take in St. Joe?

Don't Fail to get some of our 5 cent Ginghamms.

St. Joe

Chas.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front floor.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, MAR. 13, 1886.

Chas. Emanuel of Auburn was in town last week.

Men's Fancy Plaid Cottonade Pants only $1.25.

Dr. Taunahill of Hicksville was in town last week.

J. T. Plug is a splendid Plug Tobacco, and very cheap.

When it rains it poors; St. Joe has two good harness shops now.

Mrs. Dan Herrick had thirty-two teeth extracted one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Josh Lounsberry visited friends in Hicksville last week.

Be sure to buy the Candee Rubber Boot with an extra ball on the sole.

We got in some Brown and Drab Vailing last week. You want some.

If you want the best carpet warp in the market, call at the Nimble Nick.

The best carpet warp to buy is that that is fine and even and of a good quality. Some warps are coarse and will not weave near as much to the pound as others. Even if they are cheaper, in the long run they are the most expensive, as it takes more of them. The warp that we are selling this spring is fine, even and of the very best quality. We want you to come and see it, and be convinced that what we say is true.

We got in some new Raisins this week; great big fat fellows.

Why is it that so many people use the National Yeast? Because it always brings good bread.

Dried Peaches are cheap and you ought to have some by all means. Only 5 cents per pound.

They say that you can get splendid Dried Peaches at the Nimble Nickle store. Strange aint it.

We have a good line of Embroideries which we offer at a low price. If you need any get them now.

Joe Shutt says that whenever he feels sleepy and stretchy its always a sure sign of a storm of some kind.

Examine our brand of Carpet Warp before you buy; we think it will pay you, in fact we know it will.

Don't waste these papers; when you have read them, do us the favor to pass them along to your neighbors.

Last year we got 10 cents a pound for Dried Peaches; this year we are selling them for 5 cents. We've cut the price right into in the middle.

NO MORE GRAY HAIRS OR BALD HEADS.

Prevent the appearance of faded and gray hair by using

Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer.

This preparation will restore the original color to gray hair and promote a vigorous growth, thus preserving the bloom and beauty of youth.

We do not ask you to rely upon our statements, but refer you to the testimony of thousands of worthy people in various quarters of the globe, including many eminent physicians, who have used the Renewer with entire satisfaction. Hall's Hair Renewer will not only restore the youthful color, freshness, and beauty of the hair, but will stop its falling or turning gray, cure baldness, eradicate dandruff, remove all impurities from the scalp, and thereby prevent disease. We append extracts from a few of the many certificates which have been received recently:

Dr. EMIL SEIP, Detroit, Mich., certifies that "HALL'S HAIR RENEWER is excellent for hair growing, and restores the natural color to faded and gray hair."

The late GEO. GRAY, M. D., Nashua, N. H.; WALTER BURNHAM, M. D., and R. H. ADAMS, M. D., Lowell, Mass.; A. A. HAYES, M. D., Boston; and S. DANA

HAYES, Chemist and State Assayer of Massachusetts, all testify to the merits of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER, and add: "It cleanses the head of dandruff, leaves the hair soft and beautiful, and is not injurious to the scalp."

Mrs. HUNSBERRY, 344 Franklin Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., after a severe attack of erysipelas in the head, lost her hair—already gray—so rapidly that she soon became quite bald. One bottle of HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER produced a new growth of hair, as soft, brown, and thick as when she was a girl.

Mrs. SUSAN H. SCOTT, Stoddard, N. H., writes: "The RENEWER will certainly restore gray hair to its original color. I have used this preparation ten years, and with perfect satisfaction."

RANDOLPH W. FARLEY, Nashua, N. H., quite a young man, whose hair had become prematurely gray, applied our RENEWER with perfect success. His hair is now a beautiful brown, and he reports the effects from the use of this preparation as truly marvellous.

F. X. LAVELLE, another young man of Nashua, also used the RENEWER with equally satisfactory results.

Mrs. A. T. WALL, of Concord, N. H., writes: "I have derived the greatest benefit from the use of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. It stimulated my scalp when the hair was falling and produced a new and vigorous growth."

Mr. J. KESLING, an aged farmer, near Warren, N. H., had scarcely any hair what little remained being nearly white. One bottle of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER produced a thick and luxuriant growth of hair, as brown and fresh as he had in youth. This case is well known and has attracted much attention.

Mrs. S. E. ELLIOTT, Glenville, West Virginia, says: "One bottle of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER restored my hair to its natural color."

Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers

Is, in four respects, superior to any similar preparation.

1st. It will uniformly color the whiskers and mustache a rich and natural brown or black, as may be desired.

2d. The color so produced cannot be rubbed or washed off,—it is permanent,—and when the whiskers are dry they will not soil anything with which they come in contact.

3d. It is a single preparation, more convenient to apply, and much cleaner, than any other whisker dye.

4th. It contains no deleterious ingredients, and is absolutely safe and harmless.

Prepared by R. P. HALL & CO., Nashua, N. H., U. S. A.

SOLD BY

W. C. PATTERSON, St. Joe, Blair P. O., Ind.

to get some of our 5 cent Gingham.

CANDEE

FOR SALE BY

St. Joe, Ind.

looks, Watches &

undled to her home

lsonine received at sixty dozen "Diaries a good variety in cheap.

trip to Washing-over three thouekage Condition

g of the kind out.
in the last two

Call on Patterson for Clocks,
Watches, and Jewelry.

Sheriff Boyle was in town last Thursday.

Politics are beginning to wax warm and get hot.

We want your trade and will sell you goods as cheap as they can be sold.

Mrs. Ollie Gilhaugen of Garrett visited friends in town a couple of days this week.

Preaching in this place Sunday morning at half past ten o'clock by Rev. S.
P. Fryberger.

The republicans of Concord township will hold a caucus at Leighty's Hall, St.
Joe, on Saturday afternoon, March 20th,
1886, at two o'clock.

We are the only house in St. Joe that sells the Candee Boot with an extra ball on the sole and fusion lined. They are the best boot in every way.

Last Wednesday was Oma Filley's birthday and in the evening quite a number of her young friends gathered at her home and enjoyed a party. They had a jolly time.

Thursday morning as the section men were going out over the west end of this section, just after they had turned the curve they were run into by the fast line going west. The section men had barely time to jump before the engine struck the hand-car, and smashed it into small pieces. It was a narrow escape.

Fresh Butter Crackers Three po

Chris Curie has got a new span of mules, which doubt that we keep the best and cheapest town. Mules can't rip them! Men can't buy a pair warranted to last till they wear out.
Buy no other, and you'll always get a good pair.

Chew Horse Shoe Plug: Call and get a sample plug free.

Men's Denim Overalls, well made and warranted not to rip, only 50 cents.

Tomatoes are going up; we still sell them at 10 cents a can, but can't do it after this lot is gone.

We offer as a special drive this week all sizes of Pearl Buttons at 5 cents a dozen. A genuine bargain.

Several new pieces of Dress Prints received this week; entirely new patterns and very handsome.

County Superintendent Merica visited the schools in this place last week. He reports them as being in an excellent condition.

John Baker returned from Washington Territory last week. John don't like the west; there probably wasn't any girls out there.

Men's Initi
in good fitting you can get t

We have th
alls and Cott
in this place.

Don't fail t
5 cent Gingham bargain you'l

We gas a g
when we say offer at 5 cent

Montgomer candidate for day last week.

Dr. Beechle will be at Dr place, on the first Monday having work to
that in mind.
to give satisfac

Don't Fail to get some of our 5 cent Gingham

B. A. WOODCOX,

PRINCIPAL

HOUSE PAINTING.

PAPER HANGING.

KALSO MINING & CO.

All work guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction. Your patronage is solicited. Leave orders at the Drugstore, St. Joe.

Thirty years ago salt sold for ten dollars a barrel.

Thad Meese went to Nebraska this week to visit his brother.

Mrs. Bowen and Belle returned to their old Ohio home this week.

The Township Teacher's Reading Circle meet for review of studies once a week.

Quite a number of Spencerville people attended church at this place last Sunday.

The price of eggs is on the decline. The hens will have to club together and get on a strike.

There is no other boot that will give you the satisfaction that the Candee Rubber Boot will. Try it on.

If you want good carpet, get good warp; if you want good warp buy it of us. We keep none but the best.

We bought a lot of onion sets of Henry Ables last week; they are of a choice variety, and you had better call and get some right away off quick, as it will soon be time to set them out.

One day the four part of this week a prominent citizen of this township, who lives in the first house north of the Co-burntown church (we don't like to mention his name right out,) but he has just built a new brick house; well as we was going to say, this man started to Saint Joe one day the four part of this week on horse back with a bucket full of eggs. While he was trotting along, thinking perhaps of what he would do when he got to his trustee, his horse and of a sudden became terribly frightened and began to run. The sudden and unexpected jumping of the horse threw the pale of eggs high in the air, and for a minute it rained down eggs faster than a dozen hens could lay them. It was impossible to pick them up, so he left the pale in a fence corner and went on to town without them. He was sad because he was eggless.

Yours Most Eggactly

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Farmers are getting ready to make sugar.

Everybody says we have got the finest Marrowfat Beans in the market.

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents per Pound.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, MARCH 27, 1886.

No. 31.

The Spring Politician.

BY HIPPENHAMMER.

To run, or not to run,
That's the question;
Whether it would be better
To run, and be beat,
Than not to run at all.
To rant, and rave and tare,
And sometimes almost swear;
To take each other by the ear,
And electioneer; and coax
And hug, and urge and pay
Men by the day; to treat them all,
Both great and small;
To trot the children on your knee,
And try to make their mammy see
How much you love them.
And in the end, get skunked.

Joe Metcalf has a bran new barn painted red.

Dr. Murphy was in town the fore part of this week.

The band boys talk of giving a concert in the near future. Alright boys we will all come.

The republicans didn't nominate any one for supervisor at the caucus last Saturday. No sand.

Jake Sechler says our 5 cent Rice is the boss. Try it and then you will know all about it yourself.

Buy your Garden Seeds of us, because our seeds are not any more likely to grow than any body else's.

They had a jimmy-race over near Auburn last Saturday evening, which destroyed considerable property.

If you appreciate these papers and enjoy reading them, why not occasionally drop in and spend a few dimes with us. Why not?

There was a big crowd of people in town last Saturday and we noticed that about four thirds of them were republicans.

If you want a new plow this spring buy the Burch; they are warranted to give perfect satisfaction and we will give you a low price on them.

We got in some new spring styles of Men's Stiff Hats this week. If you want the latest and nobbiest call on the Nimble Nickle Hatters.

Its going to be fashionable this season to use pocket handkerchiefs. We keep them in all sizes and styles at the small sum of 5 cents.

Vester Widney has been up to his uncle Henry Hull's this week stuffing himself with maple sugar, taffy on a stick &c. Ves no doubt came home a very sweet boy.

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents per Pound.

B. A. WOODCOX,

PRACTICAL

HOUSE PAINTING.

PAPER HANGING.

KALSOMINING &C.

All work guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction. Your patronage is solicited. Leave orders at the Drugstore, St. Joe.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, MAR. 27, 1886.

Spring.

Rice 5 cts.

Pay your taxes.

Succors will bite.

New Prunes 5 cents.

Election day draweth nigh.

Horse shoe pitching has begun.

The days and nights are now about the same length.

Geo. B. Zimmerman of Auburn was in town last week.

Alex. Donaldson was in town on Saturday of last week.

Call and get a sample plug of J. T. Tobacco. No charge.

Jake and Frank Sechler were appointed administrators for their father's estate.

Elegant Fancy Bordered Handkerchiefs only 5 cents. New and desirable patterns.

Our stock of window shades is larger than ever before, handsomer gilt bands, and lower prices.

Al Bishop passed through this place one day last week on his way to the Kankakee duck swamps.

We got in a line of Ladies' and Misses Jerseys this week. They will be worn by everybody this season.

Wid Patterson bought a buck-saw the other day. We'll bet an old hat that it will never get hot as long as he has it.

They talk of a gravel road between here and Spencerville. Talk is cheap, but it will never build a gravel road.

Henry Reynolds is the only man in this part of the country that can laugh out loud and whistle both at the same time.

They say that it is going to be fashionable for men to wear bangs this year. In that case what will our friend Charley Grubb do?

Some people think that our 5 cent Rice is better than that that other stores charge 8 and 10 cents for. We got in a new supply this week.

Best of Turkey Prunes, only 5 cents per Pound.

Card of Thanks.

Notwithstanding the many acts of kindness and aid that we have received at the hands of our neighbors, they have recently presented us with a beautiful carpet, and not knowing the names of all the donors, we can not give them, but thank them heartily for their present. They all have our best wishes.

J. E. Dermott,
Mary Dermott.

J. D. Leighty was at Indianapolis this week.

All sizes of Pearl Dress Buttons only 5 cents per dozen.

Plenty of Rack Rack Braid and Red Floss on hand.

The W. O. F. U. will meet at Mrs. Leighty's Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Charlie Grabb is quite sick and unable to be out.

Nobody carries a better line of 5 cent calicoes than we do.

Window Curtain Rollers 10 cents.
Spring Rollers 25 cents.

Lots of bargains on our 5 and 10 cent counters. Horse Brushes 10 cts.

The Teacher's Reading Circle met at Wes Hart's last Thursday night.

Next Wednesday is the day you'll get fooled, if you don't before that time.

We will sell you clothing for the next 30 days at cost. Good Pants for $1.

Our stock of wall paper will please you, and the prices will make you smile. All paper trimmed free.

Kal Somine; do you know him? Its an article that will make your walls look bright, clean and new. All popular shades for sale at the Drugstore.

Big stock of White Wash Brushes at the Drugstore.

Save White Wash for your next cleaning. There be no fooling with him.

Ladies' white silk Handkerchiefs are very fashionable; we have them.

For White Wash and Paint Brushes call at the Drugstore. Prices low.

We have some extra good Onion Sets; they are selling off though, pretty fast.

Of course you will use some Kalsomine this spring. New stock of it just received at the Drugstore.

Before you buy your wall paper and window curtains this spring call and see us. We'll be right here.

The father of the GARRETT RINGER was in town last Saturday, attending the republican caucus, we suppose.

Alex. Kelley has been suffering very severely the past week with a catarrh in his hand. He is better now.

Miss Prudie Lonsberry came home from Bristol last Thursday. Her many friends were glad to see her.

Don't neglect to lay in a supply of Handkerchiefs while you have twenty styles to select from. Price only 5 cts.

If you want to see a great big bargain call and see our 10 cent assortment of Colored Glasware. Dishes that you formerly paid 20 and 25 cents for, we now offer at 10 cents.

Will Curle went around last Sunday with a smile on his face as big as a wash tub, all on account of a handsome boy baby that came there to stay. Well, its enough to make any body step high.

IN EVERY CITY AND HAMLET,

Through just such influences as we have represented in this picture, thousands of people are being made to realize the fact that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the most popular and efficacious blood purifier in use. Persons who have suffered from Languor, Debility, Eruptions, and the numberless other ills which are caused by the existence of Scrofula in the blood, and who have experienced the health-giving properties of this wonderful medicine, invariably recommend it to their friends.

"For years my blood was in an unhealthy condition. After having tried other medicines without success, I have lately taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and with the best results. I think this medicine is the only blood purifier that can be absolutely relied upon for permanent relief in cases of Debility, and as such I always cheerfully recommend it."—Mrs. Oliver Valentine, 144 Quincy st., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"For expelling Scrofulous humors from the blood, Ayer's Sarsaparilla cannot be equaled. I have used it myself and recommend it to others with entire confidence. Considering its great strength, and the smallness of the doses required, it is a most economical medicine to use. It is pleasant to take, and its good effects are permanent."—E. Haines, North Lindale, Ohio.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

PROMPT AND EFFECTUAL RELIEF for persons suffering from Constipation, Headache, Sideache, Backache, Neuralgia, and Rheumatism, can be found in Ayer's Pills.

"I was troubled with Constipation and Headache for years. A few boxes of Ayer's Cathartic Pills restored me to perfect health. I have always found Ayer's Pills prompt and effective in their action."—William H. Strout, Meadville, Pa.

"I suffered, for months, with Headache, Neuralgia, and Rheumatism, and never found any medicine to benefit me until I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, two boxes of which completely cured me."—Gideon Raynor, 159 Austin st., Charlestown, Mass.

Ayer's Pills,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass.

FOR SALE BY

W. C. PATTERSON, St. Joe, Ind.

Don't Fail to get some of our 5 cent Gingham.

Spring Poetry.

People will talk, and people will say,
But of all the truths they utter;
The National Yeast brings the best bread,
And we all like good bread and butter.

This Yeast is better, and light as a fritter,
And runs over the pan every time;
You get 12 big cakes, and it all only costs,
The very small sum of a dime.

Remember then, in your search after yeast
That the National stands at the head;
And if you'll but use it, you will always find
That you never will lack for good bread.

Frank Walker has a new sign in front of his shop.

Spring stock of Kalsomine received at the Drugstore.

J. W. Dills was at Lima, Ohio, one
day last week.

New supply of Clocks, Watches &c. at the Drugstore.

From now on we shall keep line for sale in small quantities.

W. C. Patterson carries a good variety of Clocks and sells them cheap.

We got in 20 dozen Handkerchiefs this week. Only a nick apiece.

We want your trade and will sell you
goods as cheap as they can be sold.

Henry Ables had the misfortune to fall down his cellar stairs one day last week, and bruised himself up quite severely. Henry is old enough to know better than to try to fall down a pair of stairs, and not expect to hurt himself.

If you want to sleep well use the Stew
Pau Tea. Only 35 cts per pound.

We have all sizes of Ladies' Overshoes
on hand. Best Candee Rubber.

We always have on hand a supply of good strong hoarhound candy; nothing better for colds.

All kinds of harness repaired neatly
and quickly by calling on Frank Walker.
New work a speciality.

We have another supply of Fresh Cod
Fish; that is it would be fresh if it wasn't so salty.

There is no other boot that will give you the satisfaction that the Candee Rubber Boot will. Try it on.

You'll be wanting a pair of rubber boots one of these wet muddy days, and
don't forget to buy the Candee boot.

If you want good carpet, get good warp; if you want good warp buy it of us. We keep none but the best.

Patterson's big package Condition
Powder is the best thing of the kind out.
Over twenty dozen sold in the last two years. Try it.

We noticed an advertisement in a paper last week offering for sale an Honest Lie. Wonder what kind of a lie that is? It must be where a man gets something and promises to pay for it next week, and don't do it; he probably didn't mean to pay for the goods when he got them, and although it was a lie, it is what some folks consider to be an honest truthful lie.

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents per Pound.

I want tu bea Trustee,
And rake in awl the fees;
I want tu bea Trustee,
The citizens tu squeeze.

I want tu bea a constabel,
And jirk the boys around;
I want tu bea a constabel,
For mi mussel weighs 10 pounds.

I want tu bea a Justice,
On pi each day tu dine;
I want tu bea a Justice,
And hav a jolley tyme.

I want tu bea a Supervizor,
And I'll fix the rodes up rite;
I want tu bea a Supervizor,
I du, with awl mi mite.

Yours Trooly,
Bareus Q. Hippenhammer.

I want tu bea Asesor,
And find out wat you've got;
I want tu bea Asesor,
Wether yu want me tu, or not.

W. H. Dills of Auburn, was in town last Saturday.

Mervin Widney cut his foot one day last week. Too much ax.

Come in and see our new spring patterns of fancy window shades.

If you want to dye this spring use the Diamond Dyes, for sale at the Drugstore. Its the cheapest way to dye, and besides it saves a doctor bill.

APRIL

---

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents per Pound.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, APRIL 10, 1886.

No. 22.

"Didn't I tell you so?"

Frank Wise has moved back to Spencerville.

The time for paying taxes will be up next week.

Mrs. James Able is visiting her daughter at Hicksville.

Cheese Cloth Bunting 5 cents. Lonsdale Cambric 15 cts.

Ladies' Congress Gaiters only $1.00 per pair. A good quality.

Several of our customers have been enquiring for orange calico. We got in a piece this.

See our nobly line of Men's Shoes before you buy. The Gondola Shoe is the latest thing out.

We got in several pieces of new spring Dress Goods this week, in the new and latest shades, with buttons to match.

Red Money Purses 10 cts. Scales weighing 24 pounds 10 cents.

Two-Foot Boxwood Folding Rules only 10 cents. Frying Pans 10 cents.

Will Curio moved into his new property this week. Billy is now fixed as being as a bug.

F. A. Zeigler will move his harness shop into the grocery room owned by Mrs. Fales.

See our wall paper; we trim all paper free of charge. Our line of wall paper borders are extra fine.

We are getting in lots of new goods this week. Don't fail to see them before you buy.

We got in a new line of Men's and Ladies' Candee Rubber Overshoes this week. Now's the time to use them.

We are headquarters again this year for Ladies' Belts and we've got a new thing entirely. Price only 25 cents.

We have been a little behind in getting in our spring stock of Wall Paper and Border, but at last it is here.

Charlie Coburn is the father of another republican youngster. When Charley's boys are grown up this will be a republican township sure pop.

If you want to see some of the handsomest Dress Prints that you ever laid your eyes on just call in and see our arrival. They are nobby for a fact.

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents per Pound.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, APRIL 10, 1886.

Frank Zera was home on a visit last week.

Covered Glass Butter Dishes 10 cts.

Last week was a good time to sell Rubber Boots.

Colored Glass Fruit Dishes 10 cts.

Ladies' Hosiery, a splendid good quality for 10 cents.

Fancy Fish Pickle Dishes 10 cents.

Six good Table Spoons 10 cents. Six Tea Spoons 5 cents.

Colored Glass Sugar Bowls 10 cts.

Examine our new window curtains; new styles and low prices.

Glass Bread Plates only 10 cents.

Mrs. Henry Reynolds visited her parents at Attica, Ohio, last week.

Wash. Woodcox has made quite an improvement in front of his residence.

Hugh Maxwell is keeping bachelor's hall.

We sold a Burch Plow last week. It pays to buy the Burch.

Nobody got fooled very badly last week that we heard of except Jim White. Ask Jim how it was.

This month came in like a lion which according to the old saying will cause it to go out like a lamb.

There was a sly wedding at the Methodist parsonage in this place a week ago Sunday evening, at which time Moses Ashleman and Mrs. Mary Simpkins were made man and wife.

If you want to see a great big bargain call and see our 10 cent assortment of Colored Glassware. Dishes that you formerly paid 20 and 25 cents for, we now offer at 10 cents.

Pileher Micker Brinson Franklin Lee Jackson Beauregard Swain Addonius Van Fleet of Newville, was in town one day last week. He didn't come down to see his girl; he other business.

The last issue of this paper went off like hot cookies. We always keep back a few copies though, for those who are not in when the paper is printed. If you don't find them in our mail box, ask for them. They are free as water.

Everybody has a right to their own opinion, and every one who has seen our 10 cent assortment of colored glassware, is of the decided opinion that it is the biggest bargain in glass ever offered in this part of the country.

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents per Pound.

CHEW
JT
PLUG.

Plenty of Rick Rack Braids and Red Floss on hand.

All sizes of Pearl Dress Buttons only 5 cents per dozen.

Nobody carries a better line of 5 cent calico than we do.

Window Curtain Rollers 10 cents.
Spring Rollers 25 cents.

Lots of bargains on our 5 and 10 cent counters. Horse Brushes 10 cts.

We will sell you clothing for the next 30 days at cost. Good Pants for $1.

Good Sized Bread Plates only 10 cents.
Glass Sugar Bowls 10 cents.

Charlie Meek of Avilla was in town last week. Charlie is jam full of business.

Don't neglect to lay in a supply of Handkerchiefs while you have twenty styles to select from. Price only 5 cts.

Kal Somme; do you know him? It's an article that will make your walls look bright, clean, and new. All popular shades for sale at the Drugstore.

Big stock of White Wash Brushes at the Drugstore.

Ladies' white silk Handkerchiefs are very fashionable; we have them.

For White Wash and Paint Brushes call at the Drugstore. Prices low.

We have some extra good Onion Sets; they are selling off though, pretty fast.

Of course you will use some Kalsomine this spring. New stock of it just received at the Drugstore.

Our stock of wall paper will please you, and the prices will make you smile. All paper trimmed free.

John Sechler says our 5 cent Rice is the boss. Try it and then you will know all about it yourself.

Buy your Garden Seeds of us, because our seeds are not any more likely to grow than any body else's.

If you appreciate these papers and enjoy reading them, why not occasionally drop in and spend a few dimes with us. Why not?

We got in some new spring styles of Men's Stiff Hats this week. If you want the latest and nobbiest call on the Nimble Nickle Hatters.

It's going to be fashionable this season to use pocket handkerchiefs. We keep them in all sizes and styles at the small sum of 5 cents.

If you want a new plow this spring buy the Burch; they are warranted to give perfect satisfaction and we will give you a low price on them.

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents per Pound.

W. B. Cheeseman was elected trustee of Newville township.

Bird Cages for 50 cents. Larger ones for 65, 75 and 85 cents.

There are several mistakes in this paper. Please don't notice them.

Election day passed off very quietly here; some little excitement, but no blood shed.

Boys' Heavy Striped Overalls only 50 cents. Men's Blue Denims Overalls only a half a dollar.

Bill Hannon will move on to Jake Shutt's farm. We are sorry to have him leave town.

The candidates who was'nt beat on Monday night have got snowed in on Tuesday if they had been out in that storm.

Rev. Lowman, of Newville, the revivalist, who has had such wonderful success in his meetings this winter, was in town last Monday.

Don't say any thing about it, but we understand from good authority that Jud Gee is going to be—oh pshaw, we aint going to tell. Jud's old enough to get married if he wants to.

It was amusing last Monday to watch the maneuvering of some of the politicians trying to get votes for their respective candidates. They pretty near froze one man to death running him around over the country. Sometimes they would almost have a man persuaded to vote their way, and then he would be like the Dutchman's flea, when they put their finger on him he was'nt there.

There is a tyme 'n half and a tyme tu weep, a tyme tu so and a tyme tu reep; and he is awlso a tyme tu clean hous, and it is reali ome by the most unpleasant tymes in the year fur a man. The stoves hav tu be take down and cleaned out, the carpets hav tu bea take up an dusted and put down agin, the windows hav tu bea washed and a dozen othar things hav tu bea attended tu; an ov coorse the men hav tu du most ov the hard work. It goes awfool hard fur men tu du such work as ther constistushins ar week. Ther ought tu bea a law passed by the Legislatur ov the state prohibiting a man over 21 years ov age from cleaning or helping tu clean hous. If we had such a law ther woud bea less pore broken down men in the world.

Yours Fur Reform,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Geo. Headley of Newville died last Monday.

Dr. George Hamm M. O. D. got there. George set them up to the boys in a first class cow doctor style.

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents per Pound.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, APRIL 24, 1886.

No. 23.

We sold over five dozen straw hats last Monday.

Mahlon Baker is acting as assistant assessor.

Handsome Figured White Dress Goods only 10 cents.

Come in and see something new in white dress goods.

Don't forget that we sell Men's White Shirts for 50 cents.

Ladies before you buy a summer shawl or Jersey call and see us.

The pay car unloaded a small share of its burden here this week.

Uncle Sam Lawhead went fishing last Thursday. Fish caught 000.

We keep the best 50 cent Corset in the market. It gives splendid satisfaction.

Ferguson & Kepp will go to Garrett next week and build a dwelling house for George Metcalf.

Mrs. Dr. Bowman and children and her mother, Mrs. John Leighty, visited friends in Garrett last week.

Examine our new line of Ladies' Misses and Children's Hosiery; we have the cutest little baby stockings out.

White Cashmere Shawls will be worn this summer, and we really have a nice line of them and at low prices.

This paper is printed back-side-aforemost; that is the back side is printed where the front one ought to be.

Children's Jerseys only $1.00; Ladies' Braided Jerseys $1.25.

We have an endless variety of Gloves at all prices and styles.

Miss Bartlett has on hand a splendid assortment of spring and summer millinery goods.

When you get ready for your Wall Paper and Window Curtains call at the Nimble Nickle wall paper store.

St. Joe is jam full of new goods and if you can't suit yourself at one place, you certainly can at another.

You'll have to get up pretty early in the morning to see a better line of white dress goods, lawns and laces than we now can show you.

John Hull has moved his barber shop back to St. Joe. That gives us two barber shops, which perhaps may cause the price of shaving to come down.

John Leighty instead of coming home on his easter vacation, went to Washington along with a number of his school-mates, under the escort of some of the officers of the Michigan Military Academy. They were to visit all the prominent places in Washington and to be reviewed by the President of the United States. John will probably not be home now until June, at which time the summer vacation occurs.

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents per Pound.

Straw Hats for 5 cents.

Straw Hats for 10 cents.

Straw Hats for 15 cents.

Straw Hats for 20 cents.

Straw Hats for 25 cents.

Straw Hats for 35 cents.

St. Joe

Delos.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, APRIL 24, 1886.

Frank Johnson will work for Will Ouerie this summer.

Wash Woodcox is building a barn for O. H. Widney.

Buy some of our 5 cent handkerchiefs and keep you nose clean.

Straw Hats for everybody in Concord Township. From 5 cents to $2.00.

We got in several pieces of new spring Dress Goods this week, in the new and latest shades, with buttons to match.

"Say my frent, where did you git dot fine suit of clothes what you got on; day fit so nice and look so elegant; I like to haf a suit like dot-my schiff?"

"I bought dot whole suit, cote, bants un vest at the Nimble Nickle store and I gif six dollar and a halluf for the whole business mit susbenders throwed in."

"So helup me gracious I'm going right away off down dera and git me a suit off der same kind."

Examine our $5 suits of Clothing for good looking men.

If you want any painting or kalsomining done this summer call on Barney Woodcox.

Our stock of summer hats has arrived and we trust that you will examine them before you lay in.

We got in a new line of Men's and Ladies' Candee Rubber Overshoes this week. Nows the time to use them.

We are headquarters again this year for Ladies' Belts and we've got a new thing entirely. Price only 25 cents.

Justice Abels talks of putting up a building on the corner of his lot to be used as an office. It will be a sort of a court house.

The Burch Plow is the easiest running plow. It runs itself when there is a team of horses hitched to the other end of it. Call and see it.

Frank Sechler found use for some safety pins again last week. Another big boy. Grandpa John Widney was so tickled that he run a peddling wagon all over country.

Best of Turkey Prints only 5 cents per Pound.

H. A. WOODCOX,

PAINTER

HOUSE PAINTING

PAINTING

PAINTING

All work guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction. Your patronage is solicited. Leave orders at the Drugstore, St. Joe.

We keep a full line of repairs for the Burch plow.

The new church at Spencerville is to be completed this fall.

Cheese Cloth Bunting 5 cents. Longdale Cambric 15 cts.

Ladies' Congress Gaiters only $1.00 per pair. A good quality.

Kid Money Purses 10 cts. Scales weighing 24 pounds 10 cents.

Two Foot Boxwood Folding Rules only 10 cents. Frying Pans 10 cents.

Robert Davis was at Fort Wayne one day last week paying his taxes.

Several of our customers have been enquiring for orange calico. We got in a piece this.

See our nobby line of Men's Shoes before you buy. The Gondola Shoe is the latest thing out.

If you want to see some of the handsomest Dress Prints that you ever laid your eyes on just call in and see our new arrival. They are nobby for a fact.

Al Hall went to Kendallville last week on business.

Men's Suits for five, six, seven and eight dollars.

Bird Cages for 50 cents. Larger ones for 65, 75 and 85 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ackley of Hicksville, visited friends in this place last week.

Boys' Heavy Striped Overalls only 50 cents. Men's Blue Denims Overalls only a half a dollar.

For the best assortment of Wall Paper and Window Curtains call at the Nimble Nickle store.

Lawyer Emanuel of Spencerville spent several days in town last week looking up a case in law.

See our wall paper; we trim all paper free of charge. Our line of wall paper borders are extra fine.

We are getting in lots of new goods this week. Don't fail to see them before you buy.

Mrs. Hartman of Corunna, visited in this place last week the guest of her mother Mrs. Robert Davis.

We have been a little behind in getting in our spring stock of Wall Paper and Border, but at last it is here.

Everybody has a right to their own opinion, and every one who has seen our 10 cent assortment of colored glassware, is of the decided opinion that it is the biggest bargain in glass ever offered in this part of the country.

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents per Pound.

Now is the time to plant jimson-weed and mullun stalks.

Rev. S. P. Fryberger will preach, here Sunday morning.

Examine our stock of Clothing before you buy. Good suits for $7.00.

Sell Bowen and Fred Jenkins went to Attica, Ohio, last week.

Notice the big pieces of glassware in our front show window for 10 cts.

Rich Culbertson keeps his display of Deering Harvesting machinery in the Vollmar building.

The scholars of the St. Joe schools observed Arbor day by setting out a nice lot of trees in the school yard.

If four cats kill four rats in four minutes, how many cats will it take to kill one hundred rats in one hundred minutes? Send in your answer.

Dr. Hamon is now the regular ordained supervisor of district No. 4, Concord township. Office on Hamon Avenue No. 232775, up stairs. Highest market price paid for old iron.

Men's Unlaundried White Shirts with Linen Bosoms only 50 cents. You can't buy the material that they are made out of for that money. Well, let's figure a little on it: it takes three yards of muslin at 10 cents a yard which would be 30 cents; one linen shirt bosom at 20 cents; buttons and thread 10 cents, which amounts to 60 cents not allowing any thing for getting it made. Now we offer the shirt already made in a good substantial manner, with genuine linen bosom or 50 cents. Call and see them.

The champion dog-slinger in this part of the country lives at Nuville. He cums down hear every twice in a while to sea one of our gude looken gurls. Last week one nite he went to church at Nuville; and az is his usual custom, he sat on the front seat. Bi and bi, in about the middle of the sermon, a grate big yellow moon-eyed dog cum in the dore and went to take a back seat, but our friend, the dog-slinger, tried to shu him out but he woodn't shu; then he take hold of him by the back of the neck, and tried to drag him out, but he stuck his feet in the matting and woodn't drag; then he lifted him up and carried him to the dore and slung him out. Tha sa that Vann Fleet Donned a coler on his face about like the paint on John Widney's smoak house, the congregashun smiled out loud, and then the services went on.

Very Tendarly Yours,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

We have a joke as big as a box car on Bill Simanton but he paid us a big price not to tell it. Hush money.

MAY

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents per Pound.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, MAY 8, 1886.

No. 24.

All Wool White Cashmere Shawls only $1.50.

We have reduced the most of our prints to 5 cents.

Examine our line of Men's and Boys' Fancy Straw Hats.

We got in some more of those white dress suits this week.

Frank Walker sold John Province a set of harness this week.

Wouldn't it be funny to clean house every day in the year?

They say that 200 people will be baptized at Newville to-morrow.

Don't forget about those white shirts that we sell at 50 cents.

Do you know what Scrim Cloth is? Call in and we will show you.

Ladies' Congress Shoes only $1. Call and see our shoe stock.

Cheese Cloth Bunting on 5 cents per yard. For summer dresses.

August Kinsey wants you to call and see his stock of Furniture.

Notice the big pieces of glassware in our front show window for 10 cts.

Some new patterns in wall paper arrived at the Nimble Nickle store to-day.

They organized a Sunday school at Orangeville last Sunday.

Charlie Shephard was in town Thursday. Charles wears a plug hat.

Coop Ralston of Auburn was in town last Wednesday. Coop wants to be sheriff.

Just received at Kinsey's Furniture Store, a lot of Bed Mattresses, to be sold at low prices.

You will soon be shearing your sheep and we want to sell you your wool twine. If you please.

Seersucker Coats and Vests are the thing for comfort in hot weather. We are selling them cheap.

The strickers at Chicago have been killing and wounding quite a number of people this week.

They are trimming dresses this spring with an ordinary sized button and then a large one to match. We have them.

August Kinsey has his room jam full of Furniture which he offers at very low prices. He invites the public to call and inspect his stock.

Miss Belle Bowen has been visiting here for the past week, but her father came for her on Tuesday and on Thursday they returned to their Ohio home. Belle's health is quite poor.

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents per Pound.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, MAY 8, 1886.

Frank Sechler planted the first corn of the season on April 29th.

Best Steel Hoes only 35 cents. Best Hay Forks 50 cents.

New lot of bright new Dried Peaches received this week at 5 cents.

Mell Bishop shipped a car load of lumber to Garrett last week.

James Campbell, the Butler insurance man, was in St. Joe last week.

Notice the big pieces of glassware in our front show window for 10 cts.

Mrs. W. B. McClaren of Argos visited in this place last week the guest of Mrs. M. E. Olds.

The Auburn folks sat right square down on the idea of having the old settler's meetins at St. Joe this year.

Frank Sembower of Garrett, one of the two dozen democratic candidates for sheriff, was in town one day last week shaking hands with the boys.

Examine our stock of Clothing before you buy. Good suits for $7.00.

If you want to dye easy call at the Dye-store and get some of the Diamond Dyes.

We have had a splendid wall paper trade this spring and still there's more to follow.

Cal Brown moved to Auburn last week. We do not know what business he intends to engage in.

When you get ready for your Wall Paper and Window Curtains call at the Nimble Nickle wall paper store.

Don't you like pumpkin pie? If you don't, why don't you? Only 5 cents for a three pound can of Choice Canned Pumpkin.

You'll have to get up pretty early in the morning to see a better line of white dress goods, lawns and laces than we now can show you.

The style of ladies hats this year beats the Jews; they put a person in mind of a smoke stack on top of a saw mill. What next.

Men's Unlaundered White Shirts with Linen Bosoms only 50 cents. You can't buy the material that they are made out of for that money. Well, let's figure a little on it: it takes three yards of muslin at 10 cents a yard which would be 30 cents; one linen shirt bosom at 20 cents; buttons and thread 10 cents, which amounts to 60 cents not allowing any thing for getting it made. Now we offer the shirt already made in a good substantial manner, with genuine linen bosom or 50 cents. Call and see it.

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents per Pound.

B. A. WOODCOX,

PRACTICAL

HOUSE PAINTING,

PAPER HANGING,

KALSOMINING &C.

All work guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction. Your patronage is solicited. Leave orders at the Drugstore, St. Joe.

Dr. Bowman was at Toledo one day last week.

Handsome Figured White Dress Goods only 10 cents.

Come in and see something new in white dress goods.

Don't forget that we sell Men's White Shirts for 50 cents.

Children's Jerseys only $1.00; Ladies' Braided Jerseys $1.25.

We have an endless variety of Gloves at all prices and styles.

Ladies before you buy a summer shawl or Jersey call and see us.

We keep the best 50 cent Corset in the market. It gives splendid satisfaction.

Examine our new line of Ladies' Misses and Children's Hosiery; we have the cutest little baby stockings out.

White Cashmere Shawls will be worn this summer, and we really have a nice line of them and at low prices.

Ladies' Button Walking Shoes only $1.00 A rattling good shoe for the money. Drop in and examine them.

A Pumpkin Story.

About this time of the year it is a difficult matter to find anything to make pies out of, and in order to help do away with this trouble we have just got in a supply of Choice Three Pound Canned Pumpkin which we are going to sell at the remarkable low price of 5 cents a can. You couldn't buy the empty cans for that. One can will make a dozen pies; every can warranted good, and only 5 cents a can. This is the biggest pie bargain of the season.

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents per Pound.

We will sell you a splendid good bird cage for 50 cents.

Children's Lisle Thread (Lace); the best in the market to wear.

If you want any screen doors made call on August Kinsey.

Please don't forget the bargains on our 5 and 10 cent counter.

Examine our stock of Ladies' Shoes & Slippers before you buy.

We want 100 ladies to buy white dresses of us this summer.

California Dried Cherries only 10 cts a pound. Boss thing for pies.

New lot of canned goods received this week. Apricots, Peaches, Plums &c.

Have you noticed our Figured Lawns, fine goods and fast colors.

Try some of our California Dried Cherries. They are almost as big as a prune, and they make an excellent sauce.

We sold five white dresses last week, and it was really most to cold for white dresses, too.

Charlie Meek was in town about two minutes last week. Come again some time Charlie, when you can't stay quite so long.

For the first time in the history of the St. Joe schools, there will be two graduates this spring, Miss Nina Filley and Miss Addie Widney. It is expected that the graduating exercises will be held in the Lutheran church, on Friday evening, May 28th, at which time an interesting programme is promised.

At last Saint Joe has got a kourt here. It was erected last week and it is located on the corner of Widney's Avenue and Kourt street. It is built out of the best of pine lumber with the cornice to match. The belfry is not completed yet, but no doubt will be before the next reglar term of kourt opens. This picture represents Justis Abels setting in front of the temple of justis under a spreading cherry tree, smooking his pipe. He is redy fur business. If you want any kourting don, caul on "Jeema."

And oblige your frend
Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Lawns.

More Lawns.

Big lot of Lawns.

Lawns for 8 cts per yard.

Fine figured Lawns for everybody.

One Dollar buys of us 10 yards of White Dress Goods.

The St. Joe Band went to Newville last Saturday evening. The boys make a good appearance, and play well.

Try our Thirty-five cent Extra Choice Japan Tea.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, MAY 29, 1886.

No. 25.

Decoration Day.

When summer, in all her bright verdure,
Gives to us her emblems of love;
The beautiful, fragrant flowers,
Sent to us by the Maker above:

We gather from them the choicest,
And wreath them in garlands so fair;
And deck the graves of the brave ones,
Who are free, now, from toil and care.

They fought and died for their country,
And severed, forever in twain,
The head of sin cursed slavery,
Which never can rise again.

To them we owe our freedom,
To them we owe many a prayer,
Let us give, then with hearts full of love,
Our offering of garlands so fair.

When the curtain of the misty future,
Shall be lifted from before our sight,
And we stand on the beautiful Zion,
In the glorious noonday light.

May our comrades and fallen heroes,
All be gathered to-gether there;
And be crowned with a crown of glory,
Which the brave deserve to wear.

We are having a splendid trade on White Dress Goods and Lawns. We are getting in some new styles again next week. Call and see them.

Try our 15 cent Table Peaches; they are splendid.

Only One Dollar for a quarter of a barrel of White Fish.

White Cashmere Shawls, all wool, for $1.50. Full line of Jerseys.

Shall we have a Fourth of July celebration at St. Joe this year?

C. O. Merica was in town yesterday shaking hands with his many friends.

Charles Widney has been quite sick this week, and unable to be out of the house.

There are several applicants for the position of principal of the St. Joe schools.

Christian Smith was in town Thursday. He wants office bad, and he seems to think that he will get there.

There was a large number present at the commencement exercises last evening, and the entertainment was a success in every particular. The church was very tastefully decorated and the music, recitations and essays were rendered in an excellent manner. Mr. Merica, County Superintendent was present, and made a few appropriate remarks, after which he presented the graduates with their diplomas.

Try our Thirty-five cent Extra Choice Japan Tea.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, MAY 29, 1886.

Ten pound pails of Family White Fish only 50 cents.

Big fat dried Peaches we are still selling at 5 cents a pound.

Good Silk Handkerchiefs 50 cents; white silk 85 cts.

Our stock of bird cages is worth looking over and prices are low.

Have you heard the story about the Lowry pups? Ask Ed White for full particulars.

There has been lots of wool sold this week. The price has ranged from 12 to 25 cents a pound.

There is no use boring for gas in this town; there's plenty of it walking around on top of the ground.

Don Van Fleet was in town last Sunday and Miss Josie Smith was in Newville. How do you suppose it all happened that way.

Florence Buchanan lost a sleeve button last week; if you find it please return it to him.

The pleasant hum of the festive mosquito is again heard in the land. Buy your mosquito bar of us.

Rev. J. S. Hughes of Richmond, Ind., will deliver a temperance lecture in this place on Friday evening, June 4th.

They say that the fishing at Hamilton Lake is splendid now. Several persons from this place have been up there this week.

Ladies' White Dress Suits, including 10 yards of material,  $4\frac{1}{2}$  yards wide embroidery and  $4\frac{1}{2}$  yards of narrow, for only \$2.50. A Bargain.

We found one hundred dollars in greenbacks laying on our show-case last Monday. We found the owner for it too, a short time afterward.

Some persons broke into the butcher shop and saloon one night last week, and helped themselves. They only got forty cents in money and the balance they took in trade.

The De Kalb County Sunday School Convention will be held at Butler, on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 8th and 9th. All who can should go, as they will no doubt have an interesting time.

Our schools closed this week after a seven month's term of unusual interest and profit. Miss Eva Shutt as principal, and Miss May Topping as teacher of the primary department, are to be congratulated on the successful manner in which the schools have been managed.

Try our Thirty-five cent Extra Choice Japan Tea.

We done six jobs of printing last week.

Frank Barny was at Angola last Sunday.

Ben Leighty is giving his house a coat of paint.

We have reduced the most of our prints to 5 cents.

Examine our line of Men's and Boy's Fancy Straw Hats.

Don't forget about those white shirts that we sell at 50 cents.

Ladies' Congress Shoes only $1. Call and see our shoe stock.

Cheese Cloth Bunting only 5 cents per yard. For summer dresses.

Quarter Barrels (25 pounds) of New Catch Family White Fish only $1.00.

Fred Jenkins was at Attica, Ohio last week. Fred seems to have a liking for that neighborhood.

Examine our Men's Six Dollar Suits of clothes; They are warranted not to be all wool. Men's Pants only $1.00.

If the price of butter and eggs keeps on going down how many eggs will it take to make a gallon of ice cream?

We suggest the name of Henry K. Reynolds as a candidate for congressman for this district. Hank can knock the stuffing out of Lowry.

August Kinsey has his room jam full of Furniture which he offers at very low prices. He invites the public to call and inspect his stock.

We will sell you a splendid good bird cage for 50 cents.

Children's Lisle Thread Hose; the best in the market to wear.

One Dollar buys of us 10 yards of White Dicks Goods.

Examine our stock of Ladies' Shoes & Slippers before you buy.

If you want any screen doors, make call on August Kinsey.

Have you noticed our Figured Lawns, fine goods and fast colors.

We want 100 ladies to buy white dresses of us this summer.

Please don't forget the bargains on our 5 and 10 cent counter.

Supervisor Hamm is fixing the roads up in a prime condition.

August Kinsey wants you to call and see his stock of Furniture.

Notice the big pieces of glassware in our front show window for 10 cts.

Do you know what Serim Cloth is? Call in and we will show you.

Seersucker Coats and Vests are the thing for comfort in hot weather. We are selling them cheap.

They are trimming dresses this spring with an ordinary sized button and then a large one to match. We have them.

We offer this week a chest of Extra Choice Japan Tea at 35 cents a pound. This is a splendid quality, and we guarantee it to be as good as other stores ask 50 cents for. Try it.

Try our Thirty-five cent Extra Choice Japan Tea.

We have a few good cooking potatoes for sale.

Mrs. Jones of Garrett was in town Wednesday.

Buy Fish of us; we will warrant them to be of a good quality.

Preaching at the church Sunday evening by Rev. Fryberger.

Ask to see our two dollar Men's Fine Shoes. They are the boss.

Pucker up your mouth for strawberries. They are coming.

Bottled Shoe Dressing is the best for ladies' and children's shoes. Price only 10 cents.

Robert Davis was called to Cherebusco this week Tuesday to attend the funeral of his brother.

Candidates for county offices are a great deal more plenty than greenbacks in this neighborhood.

The little folks acquitted themselves very nicely on the last day of school. The speaking was excellent.

Mrs. Lineberry returned Tuesday from a two week's visit at the home of her parents near Plymouth, Ind.

J. H. Conrad went to Garrett and done a job of spouting last Thursday. Coney will go any where in the state, just so he can drive there.

Several persons from this place attended the game of ball at Garrett last Tuesday, between the Chicago and Garrett clubs. The score stood 28 to 0 in favor of Chicago. That was't bad.

Sum fokes have a peculer wa ov duing a thing and tha seam tu kno just how to du it in ordar tu git it dun. Sum fokes ar moor giftud than others; it seams tu bea born in them. Now fur instance, there's Henri Rennols, the B. & O. agent at this place; in most particlers he is a man ov extraordinary jenvyes. He knos awl about rale rodes; he can tell wether a trane is on the side track or the mane track; he knos wher the water tank is and what it is used fur; in fact he's a well postud man on rale rode affares, but he got out ov his line ov busnes this spring and undartake tu rase a garden, and if you want tu laff reel harty you'd jist ot tu go and sea it; it's really moor fun than that panarammy show that was around here a cappel ov weeks ago. Henri was bragging especshally about his big tomato vines, and cum to find out they ar wot other fokes caul rag weed. The abov pickture reprecent's Henri out in his garden boing; he is wurking very moderate; he will not hurt himself; the lumps on his arms is his museel. He will git ther.

Yours Trooly,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

JUNE

Best of Canned Pumpkin only 5 cents a Can.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 3.

SATURDAY, JUNE 13, 1886.

No. 26.

Parasols for 20 cents.
Parasols for 25 cents.
Parasols for 35 cents.
Parasols for 50 cents.
Parasols for 75 cents.
Parasols for 85 cents.
Parasols for $1.00.
Parasols for $1.25.
Parasols for $2.00.
Parasols for $2.50.
Parasols for $2.75.
Parasols for $3.00.
Parasols for $3.25.

Shoot the candidates.

The show had a good little band.

Try our prepared pickles; only 7 cents a dozen.

Examine our stock of Jerseys before you make a selection.

John Leighty will be home next week on his summer vacation.

Folding Japanese Fans 5 cts. Palm Leaf Fans 3 for 5 cents.

Don't forget the band boys' festival on Saturday evening, June 26th.

Those Black Figured Lawns that we offer are beautiful patterns and the colors are warranted fast.

We got in a piece of Yokeing this week for sleeves and yokes in white dresses. Exactly what you want.

Rev. Thomas is holding a series of meetings at Coharstown.

Dr. Sheffer and family visited friends at Kendallville this week.

Men's White Unlaundried Shirts for 50 cents. Linen cuffs and bosom.

Everybody ought to patronize the band boys' festival on Saturday evening June 26, 1886. Lots of music.

We can supply you with almost any kind of a summer dress and all the trimmings necessary for a complete outfit. It don't cost much either.

The District Conference of the Protestant Methodist church will meet in the Lutheran church at this place on Tuesday, June 14, and continue in session three days. Quite a number of able speakers will be present.

The St. Joe Band will give a grand band concert and ice cream festival at this place on Saturday evening, June 26, 1886. Four bands will be present and there will be lots of music and a good time. Turn out and give the boys a boost.

A lady the other day thought our black and brown lawns would fade, so we gave her a sample to take home and try; she washed it thoroughly with soft soap, and then came back and bought a dress. The proof of the pudding is in chewing the strings. Aint that so?

Examine our stock Ladies' Jerseys before you buy.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, JUNE 12, 1886.

Twenty pounds of Fresh Turkey Prunes for $1.00.

The old settler's will meet at Auburn next Thursday.

Silk and Lisle Thread Gloves in all the fashionable shades.

All Wool Black Cashmere Shawls at a very low price.

Parasols for everybody at the Nimble Nickle store.

There are good prospects for a big crop of fruit this fall.

President Cleveland was married last week. He was old enough.

Ball Pearl Buttons are the nicest and newest button for white dresses.

Andrew Jackson is getting material on the ground to build a new house.

Don't think because we don't say any thing about it that we hav'nt got any 5 cent handkerchiefs. We have lots of them in new patterns.

A CARD.

To the people of St. Joe, who so kindly assisted us during our bereavement in the death of our darling babe, we would tender our most sincere and heartfelt thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Gilhausen.

Ladies' Handkerchiefs, with fancy flower embroidered on the corner. A new thing.

Wm. Saylor's new house in the west end of town is being rapidly completed. Doll Kester is doing the work.

We have a good assortment of Fine Silk Parasols, at prices within the reach of all. Don't you need one.

County Superintendent Merica said that the decorations at the church on the evening of the commencement exercises was the finest of any he had seen in the county. Quite a compliment to St. Joe, and especially to those who done the decorating.

Of course you will want a new dress for the Fourth of July, and you wont find a better stock any where to select it from than ours. We have more than a dozen different styles of white dress goods and lawns. All we ask is that you come in and see our stock before you buy. Will you do that?

Don't buy goods of pack pedlars; their prices are high and their goods are generally of an inferior quality. Besides they don't help to build up the town, but take what money they get out of the neighborhood. Patronize your own town and thus help to sustain it, and let the pedlars go to grass.

Try our Thirty-five cent Extra Choice Japan Tea.

We have a few good cooking potatoes for sale.

Gallon Cans of New York Apples for 25 cents.

Marshall Hadsell is attending school at Angola.

There are now six Sunday schools in this township.

Try our 15 cent Table Peaches; they are splendid.

Men's Extra well made Cottonade Pants for $1.00.

Try our Young America Cream Cheese; Just newly made.

Only One Dollar for a quarter of a barrel of White Fish.

Pickles, already prepared in vinegar, only 7 cents a dozen.

Best of Turkey Prunes only 5 cents a pound. Fresh Goods.

Buy Fish of us; we will warrant them to be of a good quality.

Ask to see our two dollar Men's Fine Shoes. They are the boss.

White Cashmere Shawls, all wool, for $1.50. Full line of Jerseys.

Three cans Standard Sweet Corn for 25 cts. Pumpkin 5 cts a can.

Some folk's like fun when its on some one else, but when it happens to hit them, oh! how they squeal.

Nothing cheaper than Prunes at 5 cts a pound; we just got in a barrel of new crop, and they are very nice.

Come in and pick you out a Parasol, and keep the sun off of you.

Another big lot of Pearl Buttons received this week at 5 cents a dozen.

Bottled Shoe Dressing is the best for ladies' and children's shoes. Price only 10 cents.

Have you seen those elegant cream Lace Suits for ladies? The latest thing out, and they are beauties.

May be you think it aint so but we got in 12 dozen Canned Fruits again this week. Corn, Plums, Tomatoes &c.

The morning train going east changed time last week; it now leaves here at 3:10. Nearly two hours earlier than before.

We got in over twenty pieces of new white goods and lawns this week. Call and see them. Also some wide embroideries, oriental cream laces &c.

We are bound that folks will have to keep cool this summer and so we bought a great stack of Palm Leaf Fans, which we will sell at 2 cents each, or 3 for 5 cents. Cheap coolers.

You may think there is a good deal of blow in this paper, but if you'll come in and examine our stock and then say that we have not got everything we advertise, we'll make you a present of a new lawn dress.

Those who want Plain and Figured Black Lawns, Black Plaid Gingham and Prints should call and see our stock; we have a good assortment and they are all new styles. Old ladies will find just what they want in our stock.

Best of Canned Pumpkin only 5 cents a Can.

Rice 5 cts.

Prunes 5 cts.

Pumpkin 5 cts.

Dried Peaches 5 cts.

Pickles 7 cents a dozen.

White Fish 50 cents a pail.

Choice Japan Tea 35 cts a pound.

Three Pound Can of Choice Pumpkin for 5 cents.

The St. Joe Band attended a concert at Marsh's last Saturday evening.

Dennie Geo. was married last Sunday. The band boys gave him and his bride a serenade on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. E. S. Filley and children of Fort Wayne visited in town last week, the guest of Mrs. J. D. Leighty.

Those who attended the prohibition speech at the hall last Friday evening heard something drop. My! but didn't he give it to the democrats?

Vester Widney was up to Rome City last week, fishing and taking in the sights. Yes and his dog were both out on the lake in a steamboat.

Everybody wears Jerseys; we have just got in a new line of them; Military Jerseys, Vest Front and Scolloped Jerseys; newest styles and lowest prices.

We now have a fine assortment of Black and Brown-Figured Lawns. They have been very scarce, but we have at last succeeded in getting a supply. The price is low.

We got in a lot of Canned Pumpkin a couple of weeks ago and sold it right out; we got in another lot this week and it is walking right out. Price only 5 cents a can. Don't put off getting a can until its all gone. Come now.

Go tord the east, go tord the wes, go tord the north, go tord the south, in any direction that you met and you will run against a candidate for such county offis. There's on every cross roads, in every fire corner, in fact tha ar thicker than flies at the bug house, ev a slender barrel. We thot the other day that there was a funeral procession going thru town, but cum to find that it was a lot of rascals. And then its realy amusing to see how pleasant and agreeable this candidate is; at another time tha wouldnt have noticed most people, but now tha cant be too close; tha want to shake hands with everybody tha meet; tha enquire about your wif and children, tha want to know how the crops ar going to be; this seson, tha brag about your stock, and your farms, and tha put ya on the back and make ya think that tha ar a mighty fine set of fellows. Oul how tha du luv the dear good people of this county. Verily, verily I say to ya, that out of the 37 candidates for offis in this county, 32 wil git left.

Most Sincerely Yours,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Best of Canned Pumpkin only 5 cents a Can.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 4.

SATURDAY, JUNE 26, 1886.

No. 1.

Poor hay weather.

Patronize the land boys.

Lots of 5 cent straw hats for boys.

Ed Leighty is working in a store at Defiance.

Don't you want a Jersey for the Fourth of July?

Patterson has a big trade on machine oil this season.

Any thing we have in the clothing line we will sell at cost.

We want to sell you what fruit cans you need. Price 5 cents.

Cherries are plenty this year and are selling for 5 and 6 cents a quart.

Houlton's Family Show will exhibit in this place next Monday evening.

A letter received from Belle Bowen this week says that she is some better.

When you come into town to trade visit our store before you make your purchases. It often pays.

Call in and lay in a supply of goods for harvest; we've got the stuff and you can have it at a low price.

Don't you want a pair of shoes or slippers for the Fourth of July? We've got some good styles and cheap.

Examine our white goods for children's dresses; children's parasols only 20 cents. Folding Fans 5 cents.

Harry Mack is now prepared to saw all kinds of brackets.

Quite a number of men have been at work in the gravel pit this week loading gravel.

The pay car left over twenty-four hundred dollars at this place last Wednesday.

If you want the best machine oil for the least money go to the St. Joe Drugstore everytime.

Poor Indian got egged out of town again last Tuesday night. He will be likely to give this town the go-by after this.

Try our Canned Apples; only 25 cts for a gallon can. They make the boss pies. Table Peaches 15 cents.

Mrs. Z. T. Kagey and children of Ashland, Ohio, visited in this place this week the guest of her brother M. T. Bishop.

July and August are the two hottest months in the year, therefore you must get ready for them by calling on us and getting a good cool lawn dress.

When Hank Reynolds wants to flag a train he goes out and stands on the track and flops his ears. Henry ought to take out a patent for a new railroad signal.

Best of Canned Pumpkin only 5 cents a Can.

St. Joe  Ind.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, JUNE 26, 1886.

Three Pound Can of Choice Pumpkin for 5 cents.

Those Japanese Folding Fans are a bargain for 5 cents.

We have some beautiful new patterns in Oriental Cream Laces.

We have plenty of 5 and 10 cent straw hats; got in a new lot of them.

Simon Wineland shipped a car load of fork handle material last week.

We have some white and cream ribbon; also some fancy white ribbon.

Very few persons from this way attended the old settler's meeting at Auburn last week.

Last week was a bad week for the chickens of this neighborhood. Too many preachers in town.

Everybody wears Jerseys; we have just got in a new line of them; Military Jerseys, Vest Front and Scolloped Jerseys; newest styles and lowest prices.

Miss Lizzie Evans was at home during the convention last week.

And now the defeated candidate can crawl into his hole and pull his hole in after him.

Your machine will run a mighty sight slicker if you buy your machine oil at the Drugstore.

Fennie Gee has gone to housekeeping; at least we saw him taking home a stove and a lot of traps to cook with.

We have some extra can lids for both self sealing and wax fruit jars. Those needing any should bear it in mind.

Standard Quart Fruit Jars 60 cents a dozen. Two sticks best scaling wax for 5 cents. Mason's Self Sealing Jars 10 cents each.

Buy your machine oil at the St. Joe Drugstore. It won't effect your pocket book near so bad, besides its the best grade of oil.

Why is it that everybody buys their machine oil at the Drugstore? Because they get the best oil for the least money. That's correct.

We now have a fine assortment of Black and Brown Figured Lawns. They have been very scarce, but we have at last succeeded in getting a supply. The price is low.

We got in a lot of Canned Pumpkin a couple of weeks ago and sold it right out; we got in another lot this week and it is walking right out. Price only 5 cents a can. Don't put off getting a can until its all gone. Come now.

Best of Canned Pumpkin only 5 cents a Can.

Parasols for 20 cents.
Parasols for 25 cents.
Parasols for 35 cents.
Parasols for 50 cents.
Parasols for 75 cents.
Parasols for 85 cents.
Parasols for $1.00.
Parasols for $1.25.
Parasols for $2.00.
Parasols for $2.50.
Parasols for $2.75.
Parasols for $3.00.
Parasols for $3.25.

Dr. Bowman is building a veranda on the north end of his residence.

Mrs. Donaldson and Charlie visited friends in this place last week.

The G. A. R. Post of this place talk of running an excursion to Rome City some time next month.

We got in a piece of Yokeing this week for sleeves and yokes in white dresses. Exactly what you want.

Mr. Irwin's house caught fire one day last week, but the fire was discovered and put out before much harm was done.

We can supply you with almost any kind of a summer dress and all the trimmings necessary for a complet outfit. It don't cost much either.

We received the following letter last week from a former resident of this place, and thinking it might be of interest to some of our readers, we publish it:

Bridgeton, Mich.,

June 6th, 1886.

You will undoubtedly be surprised to hear from a wolverine, but no difference. We live up here in Michigan and would like to take the little paper you print; we take a Grand Rapids paper and get all the home news, but we want to take your paper so as to hear from our native land. The weather here is very nice, although the nights are rather cold; crops are splendid; plenty of strawberries and all kinds of vegetables. Michigan is a splendid state, and I would not move back to Indiana for any thing.

I remain Respectfully,

Siddie Leighty.

Pickles 7 cents a dozen.

White Fish 50 cents a pail.

Choice Japan Tea 35 cts. a pound.

We sold fourteen lawn dresses one day last week.

Try our prepared pickles; only 7 cents a dozen.

Examine our stock of Jerseys before you make a selection.

Folding Japanese Fans 5 cts. Palm Leaf Fans 3 for 5 cents.

Men's White Unlaundered Shirts for 50 cents. Linen cuffs and bosom.

Those Black Figured Lawns that we offer are beautiful patterns and the colors are warranted fast.

JULY

Try the Jersey Roasted Coffee! It is the best.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 4.

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1886.

No. 2.

New wheat is selling for 74 cts.

Watermelons are in the market.

We offer a good Cottonade Pant for One Dollar.

Cucumbers are ripe which makes the doctors smile.

Frank Walker and wife went to Finley, Ohio, Friday.

Will Curie offers a good round price for spring chickens.

Examine our 50 cent Fancy Shirts; full sizes and well made.

John Hull has bought Win Darling's barber shop and fixtures.

We will mark and number grain sacks bought of us free of charge.

Homer Henning was in town Friday. He is selling sewing machines.

Get a supply of our 5 cent handkerchiefs before you go to Rome City.

We will sell you grain sacks at a very low price. See us before you buy.

We have a good assortment of Men's Fine Shoes. Four different styles.

Alex. Donaldson was in town last Saturday. Alex. now drives a trotter of his own.

We have a few Plain Vest Front Jerseys that we formerly sold at $1.50, but in order to close them out we now offer them at $1.00. Certainly a bargain.

Just about now a good fat spring chicken fried in butter slips down pretty easy.

Miss Sue Kinsey entertained all of the children in town last Thursday afternoon.

We have all sizes in Celluloid Collars, both in standing and lay-downs. Also a line of Cuffs.

We have the best working shirt in town for 50 cents. Also a good Plaid Blouse for the same money.

Mrs. Mary Bowman, of Freemont, Michigan, visited in town this week the guest of Dr. Bowman and family.

The St. Joe Normal school will commence next Monday. We hope that there will be a good attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. John Derek, of Butler, visited in town last Sunday, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Patterson.

Everybody is going to Rome City on the 27th of July. Fare for the round trip only $1.00 including admission to the ground.

Of course if you are going to Rome City you will want some new Laces, Ribbons, Gloves Collars, Corsets, Fans, Handkerchiefs &c. We've got them.

Don't fail to go on the excursion to Rome City on the 27th. It will be a grand time, and if you go you will never regret it. Round trip only $1.

Try the Jersey Roasted Coffee! It is the best.

St. Joe  News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND, SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1886.

The green grass don't grow all around so much as it did.

Those who have tried it brag the Jersey Coffee way up.

The new church at Spencerville don't seem to go up very fast.

Try the Jersey Coffee! Handsome picture in each package.

Nels Thomas has quit playing 'croquet for this season; so he says.

We have a good assortment of Ladies' Fancy Handkerchiefs at 5 cents.

Mrs. Dr. Mitchell and children of Ligonier, visited friends in this place last week.

A son of Dave Millers was very badly kicked in the face by a horse last Monday.

Wheat is turning out well this year, some averaging as high as 30 bushels to the acre.

Patterson has a big trade on machine oil this season.

Any thing we have in the clothing line we will sell at cost.

If you want the best machine oil for the least money go to the St. Joe Drugstore everytime.

Lon Lockwood left an estate valued at a half million dollars. We hav'nt got quite that much yet.

Quite a number from this neighborhood will attend Robinson's show at Auburn next Tuesday.

When you come into town to trade visit our store before you make your purchases. It often pays.

Examine our white goods for children's dresses; children's parasols only 20 cents. Folding Fans 5 cents.

Try our Canned Apples; only 25 cts for a gallon can. They make the boss pies. Table Peaches 15 cents.

July and August are the two hottest months in the year, therefore you must get ready for them by calling on us and getting a good cool lawn dress.

Florence Buchanan shot a horse valued at $175.00 last week. It had been sick for three weeks with no prospects of its ever getting any better, and it was thought best to kill it.

A prominent prohibitionist of this neighborhood came to town on the evening of the temperance lecture last week, with his vest buttoned up crooked. P. A. said he was in a hurry and hadnt noticed it.

Best of Canned Pumpkin only 5 cents a Can.

---

WE'RE IN A PICKLE

---

We are in a pickle and we need your assistance; will you help us out?
This is the trouble: last spring we bought a barrel of pickles and we hav'nt sold them all out yet and its getting so near the time for new pickles that we want to dispose of them, and in order to do so, we offer them at the low price of 5 cents per dozen. Already prepared in vinegar and warranted good. This is much cheaper than you you can put them up, and as you have to eat something, why not eat pickles? Ain't that sour?

Try the Jersey Roasted Coffee! It is the best.

Mell Bishop got in a car load of 12th this week.

Men's Stitch-down Flaw Shoes at reduced prices.

Men's White Unlaundered Shirts for 50 cents. Lined cuffs and bosom.

Charlie Grubb was in town Thursday. He wants to sell his property in this place.

Lots of socials this year. It would keep a man dirt poor to attend all of them.

ash Woodcox has been suffering this week with one of those painful catarrhs on his hand.

Buy your grain sacks of us and we will print your name on them free of charge.

Examine our stock of working shirts and Cottonade Pants. Good working shirt for 50 cents.

What has become of the correspondent to the DISPATCH from this place? Come Ves, hitch up Fan, and give us some more of your newsy items.

Grain sacks ought to be marked with the owners name. Buy your sacks of us and we'll print your name on them in good shape, free for nothing.

Joe Shutt says that in his life time he has known of a great many quarrels between men and their wives, but he always noticed that they were commenced by the women. Good for Joe! We always thought that the men were too good natured to quarrel.

Ther iz a feller not moor than a thousand miles from hear that went tu sea his gurl last Saturday nite, and tha had a reel nice time sitting on the sofa. I nappened tu bea going bi the house and I saw them miself. Ov coarce a feller has a rite tu go tu sea his gurl, and tha hav a perfect rite tu set on the sofa, but then that ot awlways tu remembar tu pule down the blinds, and oblige

Your Friend,
Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Folding Japanese Fans 5 cts. Palm Leaf Fans 3 for 5 cents.

Don Van Fleet will commence working for J. D. Loughty next week.

Those Black Figured Lawns that we offer are beautiful patterns and the colors are warranted fast.

Don't you want a new dress to wear to Rome City? We can sell you something nice and cheap.

Men's Fancy Precale Shirts with two collars for 50 cents. Best shirt in the diggings for that money.

Try the Jersey Roasted Coffee! It is the best.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 4.

SATURDAY, JULY 31, 1886.

No. 3.

Dog days.

Jersey Coffee.

Rome City or bust.

Try our 40 cent Tea.

Wheat has dropped a few cts.

It never gets too hot to play croquet.

Miss Lizzie Evans came home Friday morning.

Examine our stock of 50 cent shirts; they are bargains.

The young folks had a party at John Davis' Friday evening.

We have a good stock of Shirts and Denims &c. at low prices.

If you think of buying a Jersey call and see us before you do so.

Miss Etta Reynolds is visiting with her brother H. K. this week.

One of the editors of the AUBURN DISPATCH was in town Tuesday.

Quite a number are expecting to go to Rome City again next Wednesday.

Mrs. Sheffer is teaching a select primary school at this place. There are about 25 scholars in attendance.

If you don't want to read the advertisements in this paper, why skip them, but we're afraid if you don't read them there won't be much else to read. However, we ain't careing just so we get your patronage, or a part of it.

Buy a Willow Clothes Basket of us. They are by far the best and cheapest in the long run.

From the appearance of the streets last Tuesday morning a person might have supposed that Barnum's show had come to town.

Remember the excursion to Rome City next Wednesday to hear Sam Jones. Fare for the round trip including admission to the ground, only $1.00.

Mrs. Nichols, State President of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, will address the people of this place on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 1st, at three o'clock. Don't forget it.

There must be a wonderful crop of blackberries up near Rome City, as we heard a gentleman who was up there Tuesday say that on a twig of a hush not much longer than his finger there was 25 blackberries each as big as his thumb. Next!

Henry Shaffer, who lives three miles below Spencerville had fifty dollars stolen from his house one day last week. Mrs. Shaffer was away from home and he was out in the field at work, when the fellow stepped in, helped himself, and went on his way rejoicing. The safest way now days is not to have any money.

Try the Jersey Roasted Coffee! It is the best.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, JULY 31, 1886.

Three wrecks on the B & O last week.

Dr. George Hamm is traveling with Wineland's traction engine.

Have you seen those handsome dolls that we are giving away.

We have a few self sealing cans left yet. If you want them, say so.

There are about 25 scholars attending the Normal school at this place.

While Frank Draggoo was breaking a bolt last week it fell over dead.

Get a supply of our 5 cent handkerchiefs and keep your nose clean.

Those Black Figured Lawns that we offer are beautiful patterns and the colors are warranted fast.

We noticed Charley Coburn taking home a bottle of quinine the other day. He probably don't intend to have the "shakes" this summer.

The above cut represents the latest style of Men's shoes. We hav'nt got any of them, but howsomever we can show you a good line of shoes. Have you ever seen our two dollar Men's Fine Shoes? They would be cheap at three dollars.

The pay car dished up the cash here again last week. A railroad man is always sure of his money.

Men's Fancy Precoale Shirts with two collars for 50 cents. Best shirt in the diggings for that money.

We hav'nt got the blues, but we had to print this paper with blue ink because we are out of black.

Buy a can of Silver King Baking Powder and get a handsome doll nearly two feet high free. The baking powder is warranted good.

The Nimble Nickle Laundry Soap is still one of the best brands of soap in the market. It does the washing itself, when a good stout woman gets a hold of it and rubs it on. Try hit.

We want 25 little girls to come in and see those big dolls that we give away, and then go home and tease their mothers to let them come back and buy a can of the Silver King Baking Powder, and get a doll for nothing.

REALS

Come down a very tall tree
 King. Come over and buy
 King. King. King. King.
 A girl with every part
 They are all the same
 The same as the other
 The same as the other

Try the Jersey Roasted Coffee! It is the best.

We are sending out all summer goods at cost.

Prof. Bowersox instructs a class in German in the evening.

Mrs. Wm. Vanable and children of Garretts are visiting friends in town.

The excursionists to Rome City all report having a jolly time.

William Leighty and Don Van Fleet spent last Sunday at Rome City.

The berry crop was cut short this year on account of the dry weather.

There were 315 tickets sold on the excursion to Rome City last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Leighty are visiting their son Alex. and family near Fremont, Mich.

A traveling photographer was in town Tuesday taking tin-types of some of our prominent buildings.

You won't find a better line of Cottonade Pants and working shirts in town than we can show you.

Miss Ida Scholes will leave next Monday for Valparaiso, to attend the Normal school at that place.

The demand for fans last Tuesday morning was exceedingly large; everybody wanted to keep cool.

Vos Widney had expected to go to Rome last Tuesday but when the train came he found there was no baggage car attached to it, so he had to give up going.

They have a lot of new rules and regulations down in the depo at that place now. They used to allow a person to smoke and chew tobacco and spit tobacco juice over the seats and the stove; but this don't do it any more. The first fellow who gets into broad clothes and goes down and says he had got a rap for spitting. The law says it is a fore-conviction for how to use people. They knock them head over heels, then go up, just which ever way the fellow goes. So after this be a sure and throw your end of tobacco out before you enter the depo unless you want to come home with a bloody nose.

Yours Very Kindly,

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

We have three new South Bend Plows that we will sell for $3.00 apiece. Call and see them.

Mell Bishop went to Rome City, to catch a whale, but all the fish there he got, wouldn't fill the smallest kind of a small tin pail.

SEPTEMBER

Five Hundred Parlor Matches for Five Cents.

ST. JOE NEWS.

Vol. 4.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1886.

No. 4.

Come let us have a little fun
About the ladies' shoes;
The girl who thinks her size is 1
Is cramped in number 2s.

She who believes her size is 2,
As sure as sure can be,
When rightly fitted with a shoe,
Will wear a number 3.

The girl who seems to think a 3,
Will fit, and vainly strives
To get it on, at last will see
That what she wants are 5s.

Sweet ladies, why equivocate,
For fun thus furnish food,
A girl who wears a number 8
Has understanding good.

Tom Sprout, of Auburn was in town
Tuesday.

We have some nobby new neckwear for gentlemen.

John Bates is working in a hardware store at Butler.

Bear in mind that we have a new line of Men's Stiff Hats.

Our bargains in 5 and 10 cent Goods
ware are immense.

Now, really we have got a nice assortment of Dress Prints.

Large Retinned wood handled spoons only 5 cts. Waiters 5 cts. Two Quart
Pails 5 cents.

There was a slight frost on Tuesday morning.

Stanly Van Fleet is trying to grow a monstache.

We have a good line of Saxony Yarns
at low prices.

Fine kid money purses with nickel trimming only 10 cents.

Those Fancy Striped Velvets are beautiful goods. Look at them.

New and desirable patterns in Silk
Handkerchiefs just received.

Ask Mervin Widney how it is about that mowing machine.

Mrs. J. M. Lounsbury expects to go to Minnesota next week to visit her son.

There will be a grove meeting in Calbertson's grove near this place on Sunday, Sept. 12th.

Extra Good Curry Combs 10 cts. A rattling good horse brush for the same price. Cheap as dirt.

Miss Georgia Van Fleet and Miss Jessie
Thomas will teach in Garrett this winter commencing next Monday.

Baking Powder is something you have to use, and you might as well get the Silver King and get a handsome big toll free. Is dot not so.

If you think of getting a new dress
call and examine our new Prints, Ginghams, Dress Goods and Velvets. We can please you in style and price.

Fresh supply of Lion Coffee just received to-day.

The mother has a lap.
The boy is in the lap.
He is looking at the carpet.
What has the mother in her hand?
She has a shingle in her hand.
What will she do with the shingle?
She will put it where it will do the most good.

We are closing out all summer goods at cost.

Fred Johnson has commenced his new house.

Get your new dresses made; the Fairs will soon begin.

Examine our stock of 50 cent shirts; they are bargains.

We have a good stock of Shirts and Denims &c. at low prices.

Look on our 5 cent counter and see that pile of Ivory Soap.

If you think of buying a Jersey call and see us before you do so.

Our 50 cent white shirts have genuine linen bosoms and are extra well made.

Remember that we sell 500 parlor matches for 5 cents. Keep your eye peeled.

Buy a Willow Clothes Basket of us. They are by far the best and cheapest in the long run.

Friends! Romans! Countrymen! Lend me your ears. Not for any great length of time, but long enough to impress upon your mind the fact that we have a good clean assortment of goods this fall, at prices that are right. Examine these goods before you buy.

We have sold over 500 pounds of prunes in the last few weeks.

Reliable goods and popular prices are our two great inducements.

Miss Georgia Van Fleet has been spending a couple of weeks with friends at Rome City.

Why is it that so many buy their corsets of us? Because we sell the best 50 cent corset in town.

We will sell you a tip-top good pair of suspenders for $1.25 and throw you in a pair of heavy Jeans Pants.

We want your trade and if you want our goods there is nothing in the world to prevent our doing business together. Aint that so?

We want all our trade to know that this fall we are especially prepared to give all our friends a good variety of goods to select from at low prices.

The AUBURN DISPATCH thinks that Concord township can beat them all when it comes to raising excitement. You bet! Concord township is wide awake on all matters of interest.

When a man comes home at night and tries to bolt the door with a sweet potato, pokes the fire with the spout of a coffee-pot, attempts to wind up the clock with a boot-jack, tries to cut kindling wood with a stove hook, takes a cold potato in his hand to light him to bed, and prefers sleeping in his hat and boots you can mark it right down in your mind that he is jam full of poor whiskey.

Five Hundred Fifty Dollars for the same.

I have been thinking of you a great deal lately and wondering how you are getting on. I hope you are well and happy. I have been doing quite well myself, but I am a bit tired from work. I will be home soon and I will let you know how everything goes. I love you very much and I hope to see you soon.

Flats, Cattle

Five Hundred Parlor Matches for Five Cents.

We have plenty of Pearl Buttons now for 5 cents a dozen.

Our stock of Suspenders is worthy of your attention.

Cake stands only 10 cents. Big Fruit Dishes only 10 cents.

Fillet & Lounsberry have got the best piece of corn in this neighborhood.

It is said that the reunion at Fort Wayne last week was a grand fizzle.

You will really be surprised when you see the new bargains on our 5 and 10 cent counters.

Ruff McDonald is peddling silverware. Ruff would make a pretty good hand at the business if he was not so afraid of dogs.

Buy a pound of Silver King Baking Powder and make your little girl a present of a handsome doll baby nearly two feet high.

The children all want the Silver King Baking Powder. Why? Because when every pound can they get a handsome doll free.

We will sell you the biggest plug of tobacco in the market for 10 cents. You needn't believe it unless you want to, but it's a fact never-the-less.

A young man went into the drugstore one day last week and wanted to know of Mr Patterson whether he had any mucillaninous. He wanted mucilage.

We have just got in a fine line of striped and brocaded velvets in several different shades. They are handsome patterns and will be worn a great deal this fall for trimming and basques.

Examine our new Dress Goods, Velvets, Gingham, Prints, Muslin, Shirts &c. We shall be glad to have you call and see them whether you buy or not. No trouble to show goods.

Five Hundred Parlor Matches for Five Cents.

St. Joe  Ads.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, SEPT. 1, 1886.

Our fifty cent white shirts have risen bottoms.

The Ivory Soap is the best soap and no mistake.

Geo. Depow of Mason, Mich., was in town last week.

Freemont Nelson of Hicksville was in town one day last week.

Some folk's think there is no corset equal to the Duplex; we keep them in all sizes.

Don't you want some new window curtains? Come in and see the new styles we got in this week.

Simon Wineland has already done over one thousand dollars worth of thrashing this season.

Ona Woodcox has been working for Commissioner Probet near Garrett this summer. Ona has stuck to it like a little man.

IVORY SOAP.

Some people think 'tis only new
For cleansing goods of heavy grain,
For washing down the walls or stairs,
The bureau, tables, and the chairs,
Or keeping hands and faces free
From chaps and pimples sad to see.
But folks do well to change their mind:
'Tis not to things like these confined,
And not alone to kitchen maid
And laundress prize its friendly aid:
I find it just the nicest thing
For toilet use and barbering.
The slightest touches will suffice
To make a foamy lather rise,
That holds the beard till smoothly laid,
However dull may be the blade.
In short, the tale is ever new
That tells what IVORY SOAP will do.

Don't go without a shirt when you can buy a good one for 50 cents.

We got in a new lot of Men's Stiff Hats this week, in the new fall styles. Call and see them.

See those Jeans Pants of ours at One Dollar. Extra heavy goods and made in good shape.

We got in another big lot of those Men's White Unlaundried Shirts at 50 cents this week. They are a spanking good shirt for the money, and this lot are better than usual.

Mell Bishop got in a car load of Tennessee poplar lumber a short time ago. The difference between Tennessee poplar and Indiana poplar is that the one is Tennessee poplar and the other is Indiana poplar.

Five Hundred Parlor Matches for Five Cents.

1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be answered. This involves understanding the context and the specific requirements of the task.

1. The first group of people who are likely to be affected by the proposed project are the local residents who live in the vicinity of the project site. These residents may be affected by the project in a number of ways, including increased traffic, noise, and air pollution. It is important to identify these potential impacts and develop measures to mitigate them.

I have just come from the store and I have the new the new dress for you and I to get a new dress and here it is that time, the time you
 We have just come from the Gingham, Vaseline, and a little able for all your needs.

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40	41	42	43	44	45	46	47	48	49	50	51	52	53	54	55	56	57	58	59	60	61	62	63	64	65	66	67	68	69	70	71	72	73	74	75	76	77	78	79	80	81	82	83	84	85	86	87	88	89	90	91	92	93	94	95	96	97	98	99	100
---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	-----

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40	41	42	43	44	45	46	47	48	49	50	51	52	53	54	55	56	57	58	59	60	61	62	63	64	65	66	67	68	69	70	71	72	73	74	75	76	77	78	79	80	81	82	83	84	85	86	87	88	89	90	91	92	93	94	95	96	97	98	99	100
---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	-----

1990

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40	41	42	43	44	45	46	47	48	49	50	51	52	53	54	55	56	57	58	59	60	61	62	63	64	65	66	67	68	69	70	71	72	73	74	75	76	77	78	79	80	81	82	83	84	85	86	87	88	89	90	91	92	93	94	95	96	97	98	99	100	101	102	103	104	105	106	107	108	109	110	111	112	113	114	115	116	117	118	119	120	121	122	123	124	125	126	127	128	129	130	131	132	133	134	135	136	137	138	139	140	141	142	143	144	145	146	147	148	149	150	151	152	153	154	155	156	157	158	159	160	161	162	163	164	165	166	167	168	169	170	171	172	173	174	175	176	177	178	179	180	181	182	183	184	185	186	187	188	189	190	191	192	193	194	195	196	197	198	199	200	201	202	203	204	205	206	207	208	209	210	211	212	213	214	215	216	217	218	219	220	221	222	223	224	225	226	227	228	229	230	231	232	233	234	235	236	237	238	239	240	241	242	243	244	245	246	247	248	249	250	251	252	253	254	255	256	257	258	259	260	261	262	263	264	265	266	267	268	269	270	271	272	273	274	275	276	277	278	279	280	281	282	283	284	285	286	287	288	289	290	291	292	293	294	295	296	297	298	299	300	301	302	303	304	305	306	307	308	309	310	311	312	313	314	315	316	317	318	319	320	321	322	323	324	325	326	327	328	329	330	331	332	333	334	335	336	337	338	339	340	341	342	343	344	345	346	347	348	349	350	351	352	353	354	355	356	357	358	359	360	361	362	363	364	365	366	367	368	369	370	371	372	373	374	375	376	377	378	379	380	381	382	383	384	385	386	387	388	389	390	391	392	393	394	395	396	397	398	399	400	401	402	403	404	405	406	407	408	409	410	411	412	413	414	415	416	417	418	419	420	421	422	423	424	425	426	427	428	429	430	431	432	433	434	435	436	437	438	439	440	441	442	443	444	445	446	447	448	449	450	451	452	453	454	455	456	457	458	459	460	461	462	463	464	465	466
---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40	41	42	43	44	45	46	47	48	49	50	51	52	53	54	55	56	57	58	59	60	61	62	63	64	65	66	67	68	69	70	71	72	73	74	75	76	77	78	79	80	81	82	83	84	85	86	87	88	89	90	91	92	93	94	95	96	97	98	99	100
---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	-----

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40	41	42	43	44	45	46	47	48	49	50	51	52	53	54	55	56	57	58	59	60	61	62	63	64	65	66	67	68	69	70	71	72	73	74	75	76	77	78	79	80	81	82	83	84	85	86	87	88	89	90	91	92	93	94	95	96	97	98	99	100
---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	----	-----

1940	1941	1942	1943	1944	1945	1946	1947	1948	1949	1950	1951	1952	1953	1954	1955	1956	1957	1958	1959	1960	1961	1962	1963	1964	1965	1966	1967	1968	1969	1970	1971	1972	1973	1974	1975	1976	1977	1978	1979	1980	1981	1982	1983	1984	1985	1986	1987	1988	1989	1990	1991	1992	1993	1994	1995	1996	1997	1998	1999	2000	2001	2002	2003	2004	2005	2006	2007	2008	2009	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2027	2028	2029	2030	2031	2032	2033	2034	2035	2036	2037	2038	2039	2040	2041	2042	2043	2044	2045	2046	2047	2048	2049	2050	2051	2052	2053	2054	2055	2056	2057	2058	2059	2060	2061	2062	2063	2064	2065	2066	2067	2068	2069	2070	2071	2072	2073	2074	2075	2076	2077	2078	2079	2080	2081	2082	2083	2084	2085	2086	2087	2088	2089	2090	2091	2092	2093	2094	2095	2096	2097	2098	2099	2100	2101	2102	2103	2104	2105	2106	2107	2108	2109	2110	2111	2112	2113	2114	2115	2116	2117	2118	2119	2120	2121	2122	2123	2124	2125	2126	2127	2128	2129	2130	2131	2132	2133	2134	2135	2136	2137	2138	2139	2140	2141	2142	2143	2144	2145	2146	2147	2148	2149	2150	2151	2152	2153	2154	2155	2156	2157	2158	2159	2160	2161	2162	2163	2164	2165	2166	2167	2168	2169	2170	2171	2172	2173	2174	2175	2176	2177	2178	2179	2180	2181	2182	2183	2184	2185	2186	2187	2188	2189	2190	2191	2192	2193	2194	2195	2196	2197	2198	2199	2200	2201	2202	2203	2204	2205	2206	2207	2208	2209	2210	2211	2212	2213	2214	2215	2216	2217	2218	2219	2220	2221	2222	2223	2224	2225	2226	2227	2228	2229	2230	2231	2232	2233	2234	2235	2236	2237	2238	2239	2240	2241	2242	2243	2244	2245	2246	2247	2248	2249	2250	2251	2252	2253	2254	2255	2256	2257	2258	2259	2260	2261	2262	2263	2264	2265	2266	2267	2268	2269	2270	2271	2272	2273	2274	2275	2276	2277	2278	2279	2280	2281	2282	2283	2284	2285	2286	2287	2288	2289	2290	2291	2292	2293	2294	2295	2296	2297	2298	2299	2300	2301	2302	2303	2304	2305	2306	2307	2308	2309	2310	2311	2312	2313	2314	2315	2316	2317	2318	2319	2320	2321	2322	2323	2324	2325	2326	2327	2328	2329	2330	2331	2332	2333	2334	2335	2336	2337	2338	2339	2340	2341	2342	2343	2344	2345	2346	2347	2348</
------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	--------

1. The first part of the document is a list of names and titles, including "The Hon. Mr. Justice" and "The Hon. Mr. Justice".

[illegible][illegible]

Yoga Tm. 1901,

Yong Tan Kheng,
Baron Q. Jupp P.I. 1906

OCTOBER

---

See the new bargains on our 5 & 10 cent counter.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 4.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1886.

No. 5.

Mell Bishop was out fishing yesterday, but as usual he didn't catch any.

Flannel Skirting for ladies. The best thing in the market.

We have a good assortment of Men's and Boys' winter caps.

Men's Saxony Wool Hats only 50 cts. Full line of winter caps.

Light Yellow Sugar 5 cts, White Extra C 6 cts, Coffee A 7 cts.

The Jersey Coffee is taking the lead of all other brands. Try it.

Try our Parks & Hazzard Hand Made Boots. None better in the market.

This is the time of year for Rubber Coats. We have some good ones at a low price. Warranted waterproof.

We have been getting in new goods all week, and now we want to get in a lot of new customers. Don't all come at once.

We hav'nt room to tell you about all our new goods, but wont you please call in and see them. You need'nt buy any unless you want to.

Call in on election day and get a copy of this paper. Free to all.

Examine our new patterns of floor oil cloths. All new goods.

Call on W. C. Patterson for school books, slates, writing paper &c.

Our next paper will be issued on election day. Don't fail to get a copy as it will have lots of fun in it.

Don't forget the fact that the Candee Rubber Boot is the best in the market, and the only boot that has an extra ball on the sole. We are agents for them. Be sure to get the Candee.

Will Curio has got some fresh home made bologna; at least we saw Frank Boyle hauling a big dog up from the depot the other morning, which we supposed was for that purpose.

W. C. Patterson having bought J. D. Leighty's entire stock of school books and added a complete new line thereto, is now prepared to supply all the school children in this and adjoining townships with school books. Give him a call.

Since last Monday we have got in a large winter stock of Dry Goods, Notions Hat, Caps, Gloves, Mittens, Boots, Shoes Rubbers &c. We've got the goods and are ready to make you some low prices. Any way, just come in and look us over.

Five Hundred Parlor Matches for Five Cents.

St. Joe

Notes.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND, SATURDAY, OCT. 23, 1886.

August Kinsey is building a new house.

Bill Curle is buying and shipping lots of poultry.

Apples are only bringing about 75 cents a barrel.

Jud Geo has at last taken our advice and got married.

See those handsome Silk Plushes and Velvets on our counters.

Examine our new novelties in Dress Goods, Trimmings &c.

We have a special big bargain in Black Cashmere to offer this week.

Have you seen our splendid two dollar Kid Shoe? They are as good as some stores ask more money for.

St. Joe now has two good millinery shops. Certainly the ladies ought to be able to suit themselves.

We are agents for the Fort-Wayne factory yarn. The best in the market, and all pure wool.

We have a big stock of wool flannels, shaker flannels, and cotton flannels, and we think we can make you some prices on them that are remarkable cheap.

We're right on hand again this winter with an elegant line of Ladies' Misses and Children's Hoods. Our variety is not only large but our prices are low.

Now that the thrashing season is about over, Geo. Hamlin will probably go back to his old business again, that of a doctor. George ought to attend another course of lectures.

W. C. Patterson has enlarged his drug-store, and remodeled the interior part of it, and when completed it will be one of the finest drugstores in the county. St. Joe citizens as a general thing, believe in spending the money they make in improving the town.

We noticed a man with a package from a millinery shop going by the store on a run the other day. We stopped him and asked him what was his hurry. He said he had just bought his wife a new hat and he wanted to hurry home with it before it went out of style.

Garrison of Butler, the republican candidate for sheriff gave us a call one day last week. If size has anything to do with a man's success, he surely ought to get there. And they say that Sullivan the candidate for auditor, is nearly a hundred pounds heavier than Garrison. In case either one of them gets there, there will have to be some new chairs at the court house.

Five Hundred Parlor Matches for Five Cents.

---

Examine our tap-soled boots for two dollars and fifty cents.

The hotel at this place now rings a new dinner bell.

Good yard wide Bleached Muslin only 6 cents per yard.

Nearly all the school children in the county attended the Waterloo fair.

Three weeks more of politics and then somebody will be elected to stay at home.

Nobody ought to do without glassware when they can buy it as cheap as we are selling it.

A handsome doll baby in a tin can of the Silver King Baking Powder. Warranted the best.

Henry Baker has purchased the corner store. If managed right a store there will no doubt pay, and we wish Henry abundant success.

Hereafter we shall print this paper regularly and we hope you will call and get a copy every time. We shall endeavor to make it the funniest paper in the county.

We're a little late in getting in our fall stock, but it is now here, and while perhaps it is not as large as some other stocks, we feel confident that in variety and style it will compare with the most of them. One thing sure, our stock being bought later, we have the newest and latest novelties in the market. We kindly ask you to call and examine it before you buy.

We invite your attention to our new stock of Fall & Winter Goods. Don't fail to see them before you make your fall purchases. We can show you some entirely new novelties.

See the new bargains on our 5 & 10 cent counter.

Cash Coats of Butler was in town Monday.

We now keep lime for sale in small quantities.

Get your school books at the St. Joe Drugstore.

We always have everything we advertise in this paper.

Metallic Table Spoons only 10 cents a set. Tea spoons 5 cts.

Horse, Clothes, Shoe, and Hair Brushes only 10 cents each.

Hank Reynolds and Shorty Coburn scrubbed out the depot one day this week. Bully boys.

See our elegant Black Cashmere with Black Silk Plush to trim it with. Also handsome line of buttons.

Many Dermott has built an addition to his house, which is quite an improvement over what it formerly was.

Frank Boyle has got a moustache about an eighth of an inch long. You have to use a spy glass to get a full view of it.

Jim Hamilton is fixing up his house in fine style. It looks a little as though James was going to take unto himself a partner.

Our five and ten cent counters are loaded down with new bargains. Some of the biggest ones we have ever offered. Drop in and see them.

If you want something that will make a nobby every day suit, buy some plain blue indigo prints and trim it with a stripe. We have the goods and they will make up fine.

Sum thing funny hapened the othar day and it becums our paneful duty tu inform the publick in regard tu it. A man an his wife went awa from ther home on a visit tu sum frends; while tha wer gon a grato big dog found its wa intu the house and crawled undar the bed and went tu sleep. In the evening the fokes came home, and at ther usual tyme fur retiring, went tu bed. Just as tha had both got intu a gude sound snouring sleep, the dog had got thru with his nap, and began tu make a racket which waked the fokes up. The woman jumped out ov bed tu see wat the trubel was and the man he was the bravest so he stood on the bed; then the dog came out. Ther tha was; the dog loked at the woman, and the woman loked at the man, an it was hard tu tel which was the worst scart. Finaly the man mustard up currage enuf tu open the dore and the dog was mity glad tu git out without askin ana questshuns, an the fokes went tu bed agin.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

NOVEMBER

See the new bargains on our 5 & 10 cent counter.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 4.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1886.

No. 6.

"CANDEE"

Rubber
BOOTS
WITH DOUBLE THICK
BALL.

Ordinary Rubber Boots always wear out the ball. The CANDEE
Boots are double thick
on the ball, and give

DOUBLE WEAR.

Most economical Rubber
Boot in the market.
Lasts longer than any
other boot and the

PRICE NO HIGHER.

Call and examine the goods.

Tin Pails only 5 cents.
Good Shoe Brushes 10 cents.
Color glass tumblers only 5 cents.
Our rooster begins to feel sick already.
Beautiful colored pepper boxes with silver plated tops only 10 cents.

Try our Parks & Hazzard Hand Made
Boots. None better in the market.

The attendance at school is so large that they talk of hiring another teacher.

Of course somebody will be elected but we shall continue to sell goods just as cheap as ever.

If you think of buying a flannel dress give us a call.

Ladies' Knit Underwear, both in cotton and wool, at low prices.

Children's High Top School Shoes are just the thing for cold weather.

W. C. Patterson will go to Chicago next week to buy new goods.

Defiance Ball Yarns in all the leading colors. Pure wool, not poor wool.

Don't forget us when you get ready to buy an Overcoat. We've got the stuff.

The boys who visited Jimmie Ryan's turnip patch wont be apt to do so right away again.

Mart Testison got in a barrel of cren-berries last week. They are nice and only 10 cents a quart.

Dr. Bowman has traded his Newville property for a farm near Cherebusco.
Wouldnt Doc make a hearty farmer.

We are getting in a new and desirable line of Men's and Boys' clothing this week. See us before buying if you want to save money and get good serviceable
goods.

John Hull says that after Tuesday he wont shave a democrat for less than 15 cents. Somebody asked him why? He said because their faces would be so long. We're afraid its the other fellows that will have long faces.

See the new bargains on our 5 & 10 cent counter.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND. TUESDAY, NOV. 2, 1886.

Metallic Table Spoons only 10 cents per set.

Ladies' Silver Grey Gossimers reduced to one dollar.

Window Curtains, with cord fixtures, only 50 cents.

Flannel Lined Shoes; just the thing for old ladies.

Good Wool Cassimere Pants reduced to $2.00.

Stockenette in all colors; call and get your winter's supply.

When you buy the Candee Rubber Boot you get the best.

Horse, Clothes, Shoe, and Hair Brushes only 10 cents each.

St. Joe is growing bigger every day. It is bound to be the next best town in the county. Perhaps.

Don't forget the fact that the Candee Rubber Boot is the best in the market, and the only boot that has an extra ball on the sole. We are agents for them. Be sure to get the Candee.

The Candee Rubber Boot is the only boot that has a double sole.

A man never knows just how mean he is until he runs for office.

Excursion to Chicago Nov. 8. Fare for the round trip only $3.15.

Examine our new patterns of floor oil cloths. All new goods.

Call on W. C. Patterson for school books, slates, writing paper &c.

New line of Gent's Neckwear and Neck Mufflers received this week.

We have a better line of shoes this year than ever before. Full line of Children's high top shoes.

Vote which ever ticket you have a mind to, but buy your winter boots, shoes and rubbers of us.

The children all like to buy Baking Powder of us because we give them a handsome doll baby free.

This is the time of year for Rubber Coats. We have some good ones at a low price. Warranted waterproof.

Our five and ten cent counters are loaded down with new bargains. Some of the biggest ones we have ever offered. Drop in and see them.

If you want something that will make a nobby every day suit, buy some plain blue indigo prints and trim it with a stripe. We have the goods and they will make up fine.

A good many people wonder where we get the goods on our 5 and 10 cent counters; we don't steal them, that's sure, but there are some bargains that make people open their eyes.

See the new bargains on our 5 & 10 cent counter.

---

We have a good assortment of Men's and Boys' winter caps.

Flannel Skirting for ladies. The best thing in the market.

Men's Saxony Wool Hats only 50 cts. Full line of winter caps.

Light Yellow Sugar 5 cts, White Extra C 6 cts, Coffee A 7 cts.

The Jersey Coffee is taking the lead of all other brands. Try it.

Try our Parks & Hazzard Hand Made Boots. None better in the market.

Two car loads of apples were shipped from this place to Iowa last week.

Hank Reynolds had lost his pig, but he found it again. It had crawled into a rat hole.

Have you seen our splendid two dollar Kid Shoe? They are as good as some stores ask more money for.

---

This boy took a notion that he would have a smoke. So he got hold of an old pipe and went at it.

He smoked away and had a splendid time, unconscious of the fact that any one saw him.

When all at once his father appeared upon the scene, and at once proceeded to wear out the butt end of a shingle on the back side of the boy's pants. It is likely that he won't be able to sit down for several weeks.

See the new bargains on our 5 & 10 cent counter.

A good fair quality of Men's Overcoats for $3.00.

Ladies' wool hose 25 cents; children's wool hose 15 cents.

Mad Meek is putting a coat of paint on the new church.

New line of Ladies' Collars and Cuffs. The newest styles.

Rolled Oats is good eating and it is healthy food. Try it.

Chew Merry War Plug Tobacco. The biggest plug of the best tobacco for the least money.

Perhaps we forgot to mention it, but the Candee Rubber Boot is the best in the market.

When you don't buy the Candee Rubber Boot you don't get the best; that's the long and short of it.

We want your trade, and will appreciate any favors you will bestow upon us, let them be great or small.

Just while your talking about it, we may as well mention the fact that we are getting in a new line of clothing.

We always have something new to show our customers. This week we have some entirely new things in glassware. Real new beauties.

We are the only firm in St. Joe that keeps a full line of the Candee Rubber Goods. Ask for the Candee every time and take no other.

Oleveland is a great lover of hunting and fishing, and he probably always wears the Candee rubber boot because he knows they are the best.

To fellers can't go tu sea one gurl at the saim tyme. It wont work; it has ben tried a gudo many tymes; but has alwas resulted in a gaural smashup. Not long ago to young fellers both got struck on the saim gurl and tha both made an appointment tu go tu sea her on the saim nite, but tha didn't kno it. Jim got the start of Charla a few hours, and bi the tyme Charla got on his Sunday cloze and got to the house, he loked thru the crack ov the dore which hapened tu bee standing partly open, an ther he saw Jim an the gurl setting on the sofa. Finding he was left he went home, and resolved that the next tyme he wood git ahead ov Jim if he had to go the nite be'our.

Barnes Q. Hippenhammer.

Large sized Towels, warranted all linen only 10 cents.

That Shirting Flannel is selling right out. Most people know a good thing when they see it.

See the new bargains on our 5 & 10 cent counter.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 4.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1886.

No. 7.

This iz Vio Conrad. He iz writing a lettur tu his gurl.

Last Thursday was a cold stormy day for a change.

We have a rattling good heavy Jeans Pauts for $1.25.

We have a full line of Overshoes for Men, Women and Children.

Mrs. Robert Davis returned from an extended visit among friends in the west this week.

Joe Shutt walked to Auburn one day last week. Uncle Joe has more snap now than lots of young fellows.

People who waked up last Thursday morning found quite a change in the weather; those who didn't wake up of course didn't know any thing about it.

We don't want you to say any thing about it, because its a secret, but Bill Simanton bought some safety pins of us last Thursday.

There are 119 scholars attending school at this place.

Men's all wool Blue Flannel Shirts at low prices. Examine them.

Six Handsome Colored Glass Sauce Dishes with handles for 25 cents.

Men's Genuine Whole Stock Fine Calf Boots for $5.50. A bang up good boot for the money.

Buy a can of Silver King Baking Bowder and giye the doll baby to your little girl for a christmas present.

The ladies of the Methodist church will have an Oyster Supper in the room two doors east of the hotel, on Thanksgiving evening, Nov. 25, 1886.

Union thanksgiving services will be held in the Lutheran church in this place on Thursday evening, Nov. 25th. Rev. Langley will deliver the sermon, and the members of the different congregations are expected to join together in the services. All are invited.

Our next paper will be issued on Saturday, December 11th, at which time it will be twice as large as its usual size, and contain lots of comic pictures and holiday fun, besides a partial list of our christmas goods. Don't fail to get a copy. Free to all, if you'll just take the trouble to call and get it.

See the new bargains on our 5 & 10 cent counter.

St. Joe

Notes.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store, and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, NOV. 20, 1886.

Another lot of Hoods arrived at our store this week.

Beautiful colored pepper boxes with silver plated tops only 10 cents.

Defiance Ball Yarns in all the leading colors. Pure wool, not poor wool.

Don't freeze your ears when you can buy a pair of ear muffs for 10 cts.

Try our Parks & Hazzard Hand Made Boots. None better in the market.

Have you ever noticed what a splendid clothes brush we offer for 10 cts.

Christmas will soon be here, and we are preparing to have a high old time. Old Santa Claus will stop at our store again this year.

Fancy Knit Caps for children and babies are all the rage this winter. We have an unusual handsome line of them. Elegant line of Hoods, too. Bring the children in to see them.

The oyster is again in our midst. The oyster is a good thing to have in our midst. It creates a feeling of comfort and content in us that nothing else can. There may be better things than an oyster but their names are not known. The oyster is mankind's dearest friend. It is as modest as it is useful. It don't have to have a new hat six or eight time a year. It don't go visiting or gad about or go on excursions. It sticks closer to a friend than a politician to a slippery voter. People get tired of most every thing else but they never think of going back on the oyster.

If you think of buying a flannel dress give us a call.

Ladies' Knit Underwear, both in cotton and wool, at low prices.

Children's High Top School Shoes are just the thing for cold weather.

Don't forgot us when you get ready to buy an Overcoat. We've got the stuff.

Make it your business to call and see the bargains on our 5 and 10 cent counters. It will pay you.

Mr. Babcox, the fruit tree man says that he wont buy any thing but the Candee rubber goods. They always give satisfaction.

We have had a good clothing trade lately. Our stock is not as large as some but our goods and prices are all right. Examine us.

Mart Testison bought a new oil stove last week and now he is prepared to serve up a dish of oysters in about three jerks of a dead lamb's tail. Give him a call.

See the new bargains on our 5 & 10 cent counter.

Peddlars bark up the wrong tree some times. There was one the other day that called at a house not a thousand miles from here and the lady drove him off without even giving him a chance to show his samples, while her husband stood by and enjoyed the fun.

Large sized Towels, warranted all linen only 10 cents.

When you buy the Candee Rubber Boot you get the best.

Horse, Clothes, Shoe, and Hair Brushes only 10 cents each.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowen have been visiting in this place for the last two or three weeks.

That Skirting Flannel is selling right out. Most people know a good thing when they see it.

Men's Felt Boots with leather protection on the back to prevent wearing out are the best to buy.

A good fair quality of Men's Overcoats for $3.50.

Ladies' wool hose 25 cents; children's wool hose 15 cents.

New line of Ladies' Collars and Cuffs. The newest styles.

Roller Oats is good eating and it is healthy food. Try it.

Chew Merry War Plug Tobacco. The biggest plug of the best tobacco for the least money.

Perhaps we forgot to mention it, but the Candee Rubber Boot is the best in the market.

When you don't buy the Candee Rubber Boot you don't get the best; that's the long and short of it.

We want your trade, and will appreciate any favors you will bestow upon us, let them be great or small.

We are the only firm in St. Joe that keeps a full line of the Candee Rubber Goods. Ask for the Candee every time and take no other.

Miss Bartlett is finishing the upper room in Dr. Bowman's new building and will occupy it for a milliner shop. When completed it will make a splendid room for that purpose.

Don't forget the fact that the Candee Rubber Boot is the best in the market, and the only boot that has an extra ball on the sole. We are agents for them. Be sure to get the Candee, and then you will have the best.

See the new bargains on our 5 & 10 cent counter.

Nex Thursday is the da set apart bi the president tu giv thanks. It is then that everybody wants tu ben invitad out tu eat ded chicken and turkey. Most fokes care a mity site moor about wat kind ov grub tha hav than the kind of thanks tha give. In ther anxiety tu supply the wants ov the inner man, tha lose site of the reel object fur which the da is intended. It is about this tyme ov the year that the chickens an turkeys hold a big meeting and prepare tu dy. So far as we ar concerned we like chicken an we don't care who knos it, an if yu want us tu eat with yu, don't bea tu modest tu sa so.

Veri Thaukfooly Yours, Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Don't fail to get a copy of our funny Christmas paper.

Handsome glass soap dishes with large cake of toilet soap only 10 cents.

We've got plenty of stocking webbing now. Nothing better made for children's winter wear.

There was quite a number turned out last Tuesday evening to hear the immortal J N lift the vale, but the old fellow thought the pressure was too heavy and wouldn't speak.

Dr. Bowman offers the half of his farm down near Cherubusco to any one who will move the other half up here. Here's a chance for somebody to get rich right away off.

Somebody has been stealing "taters" over in the Coburntown neighborhood. They wore a number 8 boot.

Have you got one of our ten cent Frying Pans? If you hav'nt for pitty sake get one right away. They often prevent a spell of sickness.

In case White or Lowry do not take their seat in congress it is suggested that Lige Saylor be appointed to fill the position.

Last Monday evening we heard the noise of drums and the tramp of many feet and upon looking out found that the scholars of the St. Joe schools were out on a dress parade. They all kept step to the music except about ninety-nine of them.

DECEMBER

---

We wish you all a Merry, Merry Christmas.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. 4.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1886.

No. 8.

These are the children's happiest days,
Of all the long, long year,
For while the others bring them joys,
They hold these doubly dear.

Their smiling faces greet this time,
And joyous voices say;
I wonder what Old Santa Claus,
Will bring me Christmas Day?

And well they may, for Santa Claus
No'er brought at prices lower,
Nor carried in his mammoth pack.
So many things before.

Games and dolls and books and balls,
A hundred kinds of toys,
He has this year to gratify
His little girls and boys.

Bert Donaldson was in town last Monday.

We have the boss assortment of skates,
at the lowest prices.

Big line of Children's Toy Handkerchiefs at 5 cents.

Beautiful Oil Paintings with heavy gilt frame only 99 cents.

Ladies' Linen Collars and Cuffs both in white and figured.

Ladies' Large Shopping Bags with nickel fasteners only 50 cents.

Don't buy a single thing for Christmas until you see our stock.

You just ought to see our big beauty dolls. Bring the children in.

Colored Glass Wall Boats; something nobby for a Christmas present.

Our stock of 5 cent Glassware is worth looking over. Genuine bargains.

We have all shades of Vailing at 25 cents per yard. Drab, Mistle Green, Brown, Black &c.

We want your holiday trade and we want it bad. We are working hard for it by giving you a good stock to select from, at remarkable low prices.

There will be a Concert and Oyster Supper at Leighty's Hall, on Friday evening, Dec. 24th, 1886, immediately after the exercises at the church. They expect to have glorious good time. Don't forget it.

A Genuine Steel Hand-saw for only 25 cents.

St. Joe

News.

Published every two weeks, on Saturday morning by Mort E. Olds, in the advertising interest of Case & Olds, retail dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Ready Made Clothing, Queensware, Glassware &c.

Free to all who will call at our store and get a copy, or it will be sent free to any post office address where the postage is pre-paid. Our mail box is on the front door.

ST. JOE, IND., SATURDAY, DEC. 11, 1886.

Frank Scholes was in town last Monday.

Henry and Walter Abel went to Buffalo last week.

Watches that will run all over town for 5 cents.

Clarinets that you can really play a tune on for 10 cents.

Large Musical Tops 10 cents. Big Toy Books 5 cents.

Call in and see our christmas goods and hear our music box play.

Large sized Noah's Arks, containing 18 assorted animals only 10 cents.

Surprise Boxes, when you open them something jumps out only 10 cents.

Our doll family this year is a big one, comprising dolls from 4 inches to nearly 3 feet high. You ought to see them.

Magic Lanterns, with a series of nicely bound pictures will make a lasting and instructive present for a boy. We have not the space to tell you all about them but come and see them.

Whoa! there January! Steady now, me and the old lady is going down to that store where they sell everything for 5 and 10 cents.

Dominoes 5 cents per set. Colored Glass pepper boxes 5 cents.

Rubber Dolls only 10 cents. Can't break them. Just the thing for babies.

We will sell you a good hand saw for 25 cents. A good regular sized square only 25 cents.

Dr. Hamm believes in having a good understanding. He had us order him a pair of overshoes the other day number thirteens. They had to ship them on an open car, because they couldn't get them both into a box car.

Dan Baker came into the store the other day to buy a pair of pants. We asked him what size he wore around the waist, and he said ordinarily he wore 34, but his full capacity at a church oyster supper was 38.

If you want to make your daughter, or somebody else's daughter a present of a nice large doll baby on christmas, buy a can of Silver King Baking Powder and get the doll baby for nothing. The Baking Powder is warranted good, and so is the baby.

Handsome Large Glass Dishes only 5 cents.

Children's Woolen Mittens only 10 cents a pair.

Drop in and see our handsome Stand Lamp for 99 cents.

Don't set around in the dark when you can buy a two dollar lamp for 99 cents.

Always Cool Bronze Stove Hooks only 5 cents. Ten cent double match safes for 5 cents.

We can sell you some things in the hardware line at about half what you pay for them at a hardware store.

Bill Simanton says that those safety pins he got a couple of weeks ago wasn't for him; they were for John.

If you don't know just what to buy for christmas presents, ask us; we can help you to make a selection.

A ten cent cake of good toilet soap and a ten cent glass soap dish both for ten cents. Just half price.

Wire Card or Fruit Baskets only 10 cents. Nothing more appropriate for a handsome christmas present at such a low price. They are lively sellers.

We always aim not to say anything about any one that will in any way give offence, but, if we don't say something about some body why we wont say any thing about any body. That's all.

Thanksgiving day passed off very quietly in this place. A goodly number attended church in the evening. The oyster supper too, was also well patronized. The fact of the matter was, it was most to cold a day for much flying around.

This young man has just asked the old gentleman for his daughter's hand in marriage. The old gentleman has consented but proceeded to give him the following sensible advice: he told him that when he got ready to go to house keeping he should call at our store, where he could buy lots of useful articles at about one half less than he would have to pay at a hardware store.

One Large Handled Fruit Dish with six Sauce Dishes to match only 40 cts.

If you want to make a gentleman a nice and appropriate present buy him a Neck Muffler.

We have over 20 styles of, 5 cent Handkerchiefs. All new and desirable christmas patterns.

A good shoe brush and an extra large box of good shoe blacking both for 15 cents. A solid fact.

Look over our Overcoats before you buy. Just like enough you can save money and be better suited.

Handsome Brass Stand Lamps only 99 cents.

Best hand picked Beans 4 cents per pound.

Prunes are higher; we still sell them at 5 cents.

Fancy Colored Glass Goblets only 30 cents for a set of six.

Hoods for 25, 35 and 50 cents. Better ones for a better price.

Never before have we had as good a selection of 5 cent Handkerchiefs.

Have you ever noticed what a splendid clothes brush we offer for 10 cts.

We have Boys' Suits, sizes from 5 to 8 years of age, for $2.00. A bargain and no mistake.

We are now agents for Dr. Schilling's Health Preserving Corset. The best Corset now in use.

Rustic Baskets fill with artificial flowers only 10 cents. They will make the prettiest little christmas present out.

Any one living in the neighborhood of Concord who wants to get their butchering done in short metre style should call on Florence Buchanan and John Fetters. They were a whole day not long ago killing one little hog. They done a good job though.

One of our special christmas bargains this year is a stand lamp; it is a large lamp, with polished brass base and white dome shade all complete with wick for only 99 cents. If you don't say its the finest lamp you ever saw for that money we'll give you one for nothing.

This little fellow is feeling real badly because his folks wouldnt buy him a christmas present. They said times was to hard, but they didnt know that they could buy nice useful presents at our store for 5 and 10 cents.

We are able to sell you a hanging lamp at a very low figure.

Buy Dr. Schilling's Health Preserving Corset if you want the best.

Defiance Ball Yarns in all the leading colors. Pure wool, not poor wool.

Handsome glass soap dishes with large cake of toilet soap only 10 cents.

Linen Towels make a good and useful christmas present. We have some new patterns and they are just as good as they are pretty.

Supposing you have got six, eight or ten children in your family, you can buy them all nice christmas presents of us for a nickle apiece. It will please the children wonderfully and make you feel better yourself.

See the new bargains on our 5 & 10 cent counter.

---

Men's all wool Blue Flannel Shirts at low prices. Examine them.

We have a full line of Overshoes for Men, Women and Children.

Six Handsome Colored Glass Sauce Dishes with handles for 25 cents.

You can buy a whole arm full of nice christmas presents of us for 25 cents.

Men's Genuine Whole Stock Fine Calf Boots for $1.50. A bang up good boot for the money.

Buy a can of Silver King Baking Powder and give the doll baby to your little girl for a christmas present.

You can see stacks of nice christmas goods by calling at our store. We're just loaded down with nice things.

Have you got one of our ten cent Frying Pans? If you hav'nt for pitty sake get one right away. They often prevent a spell of sickness.

Christmas will soon be here, and we are preparing to have a high old time. Old Santa Claus will stop at our store again this year.

Fancy Knit Caps for children and babies are all the rage this winter. We have an unusual handsome line of them. Elegant line of Hoods, too. Bring the children in to see them.

It is always better when you are making holiday presents to give something useful. We have taken care in our selections this year to not only get ornamental but useful articles.

We are actually offering some of the biggest longest widest bargains in Glassware that has ever been heard of. Regular Large Sized Bread Plates only 10 cents; former price 25 cts. Large covered Fruit Dish only 10 cents; former price 20 cts. Other Glassware reduced accordingly.

Don't fail to call.

---

Another lot of Hoods arrived at our store this week.

We have a rattling good heavy Jeans Pants for $1.25.

Beautiful colored pepper boxes with silver plated tops only 10 cents.

Don't freeze your ears when you can buy a pair of ear muffs for 10 cts.

Try our Parks & Hazzard Hand Made Boots. None better in the market.

We've got plenty of stocking webbing now. Nothing better made for children's winter wear.

We have got the biggest line of 5 cent Handkerchiefs that we have ever had. All new patterns, and they are much the prettiest of any we have had. Only 5 cents for your choice. They will make nice christmas presents.

Examine our stock of Stand & Hanging Lamps.

Dan Herrick had a sale Thursday and will move to St. Joe in the spring.

Frank Meek was in town one day last week. Frank is as fat as a match.

We have a good assortment of christmas handkerchiefs; both in silk, linen and cotton.

Twenty-five dozen fine hemmed fancy flowered fast colored handkerchiefs for only 5 cents each.

After you have read this paper please pass it along to your neighbor and oblige we, us and company.

Do you want to buy the most goods for the least money? Then patronize our 5 and 10 cent counters.

Go to the supper at Leighty's Hall on christmas evening, and have the best time you ever had in your life.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Bishop, formerly residents of this county, but now of Sterling, Kansas, visited friends in this place last week.

If you want to make somebody a present of a good Black Cashmere Dress on christmas, we will sell it to you at a very low price. Get our figures.

We can sell you a set of Wm. Rodger's Genuine Silver Plated Knives and Forks very cheap this year. They will make an elegant christmas present.

Young folks ought not to spark in the dark when they can buy the finest kind of a stand lamp for 99 cents. Just like enough though, if they had one it would be turned down very low or else not lit at all.

"I Golly! Dars am no use talking, dey hab got de biggest lot ob holiday goods ober at dat Nimble Nickle store dat Ieber did see, and it jist does beat all de dickens how low dey are selling dem."

The very best of Fire Shovels only 10 cents.

Children's Knife Fork and Spoon only 10 cents.

The biggest bargain in town is our 99 cent Stand Lamp.

We've got something new to show you in the way of an oil can.

If we can't give you a bargain in lamps this year, nobody else can.

We have Christmas Presents for Everybody.

New line of Men's Fine Shoes received this week.

Always buy the Candee rubber goods if you want the best.

We have a big line of Suspenders at all prices from 10 to 25 cents.

We can sell you a nice Flannel Dress that will make your mother, your sister or your wife a warm present.

Dr. Ferrell, now known as the great Indian doctor, was in town last week. The doctor says he has a large practice.

Old Mr. Santa Claus will be at the church Friday evening Dec. 24th, at the Christmas exercises. The children will have a high old time.

Why don't you buy your husband a pair of our handsome embroidered slippers? He will appreciate such a present very much no doubt.

We want everybody to have one of these papers, so if you ain't got one already why call at the back side of our front door and get one.

It pays to buy the best, don't it? So we say when you buy rubber goods of any kind get the Candee, and you get the best, every time. We have a cheaper grade if you want it.

As is our usual custom, we have again printed this year a supply of cards with the words "Merry Christmas" on them and blank space for writing the name for labeling presents. They are very convenient and save time and trouble. Furnished free to our customers or any one else who will call and get them.

Before these children went to bed on Christmas evening they borrowed their mother's big long stockings and hung them up one on each side of the bed. After they had gone to sleep their father came down to our store and bought them enough toys and presents to fill them big stockings jam full and running over.

The next morning the children awoke bright and early and scrambled out of bed to see whether there was any thing in their stockings or not. They stood at the foot of bed and held their hands up in astonishment, and their little eyes fairly sparkled with delight to see how full Old Santa Claus had filled their stockings.

Boys' Skates, with heel plates, only 25 cents.

We can sell you a fine Hanging Lamp for $2.00.

Car Money Banks on wheels 10 cts.
Big Trumpets 5 cents.

Tin Trays, decorated with red and gilt flowers only 5 cents.

Bags containing 25 different kinds of Marbles only 5 cents. They will tickle a boy all over.

Good two bladed Pocket Knives only 10 cents. Good Butcher Knives down to 10 cents.

The best of Padlocks, with two keys for 10 cents. Six inch Strap Hinges only 10 cents.

Milo Stafford and wife have gone to housekeeping in the house formerly occupied by Nels Thomas.

The friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Keller presented them with a handsome hanging lamp last week.

We have a good article of Boys' Skates with heel plates, screws and straps for 25 cents. Bound to please the boys.

Mell Bishop has been up in the northern part of Michigan this week laying in a supply of lumber and shingles for spring trade.

Guns for 10 cents. Donkeys that will shake their heads for 10 cents. Most any donkey will shake his head for that price. Metalophones only 10 cents.

Eph Boyles had the misfortune last Monday, while helping Chris Currie butcher, to catch a hog hook in one side of his face, tearing quite an ugly gash clear into his mouth. Eph can still talk though, however.

Sa, did you ever tri, tu take cair ov three or fore young ones while your wife went out calling. Of corse we did'nt but we kno a feller in this town whos better half went out calling one evening last weak and left him to take cair ov the children. Aftar she had gone awhile the children got to howling and yelling and bawling fur deer life. The poor man did'nt kno wat tu du; he thot the children was sick, so he got the camfor bottel and the paragoric and some ipsecack and begin tu dops them with medicene. The moor he doped them the wors tha hollered. Fortunately his wife arrived jist in tyme tu save the poor littel sufferin things frum dyeing.

Yours Fur Krismas,
Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

We now have a supply of Children's Buckle Artic Overshoes.

Money Purses that other stores charge 25 cents for, we sell for a dime.

Buy your hubby a pair of those handsome slippers for christmas.

Ladies' Fancy Embroidered Slippers; nothing nicer for a christmas present.

ISSUES

MISSING

MARCH

THE ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. I.

ST. JOE, IND., FRIDAY, MARCH 4, 1887.

NO. 6.

THE NEWS.

Intelligence by Wire from All the World

FOREIGN.

—The death sentence passed upon Duval, the Paris anarchist, has been commuted to eight years' imprisonment.

—The German elections have resulted in Bismarck's overwhelming triumph. The Conservatives, Ministerialists, Imperialists, and National Liberals, who constitute together the Government party, to have a clear majority in the Reichstag without even calling on the Catholic Centerists for help. Full seventy per cent. of the popular vote was polled, indicating the great strength of Bismarck with the German people. The only setback to the complete triumph of the Chancellor is the defeat of all his candidates in Alsace-Lorraine, showing that the people of those provinces are still unreconciled to their dismemberment from France. All the European bourses are very strong, as Bismarck's victory is considered an assurance of peace. Socialist gains in Berlin were offset by losses in the provinces. The party is especially chagrined at the Imperialist successes in Saxony, which has always been considered a Socialist stronghold, but where seven seats are lost to the Imperialists.

—The Panama Canal Company has purchased thirty locomotives in Belgium.

—The lava from Mauna Loa, on the island of Hawaii, recently traveled twenty miles down the mountain in two days. Subsequently a vein of fire burst forth and followed the line of the flow to the seaside.

—The loss of life in the Genoese Riviera alone by the recent earthquakes is estimated at fifteen hundred.

—The Spanish Government is endeavoring to induce expatriated Republicans to return and accept amnesty, but the military party is firm in opposition to the plan.

—Henry M. Stanley sends word from Zanzibar that the expedition for the relief of Emin Bey has started across the country for the interior.

—An alternative scheme for gradually abolishing the importation of iron into Russia, which has been submitted to the Imperial Council, proposes either to gradually prohibit imports of iron, or to gradually increase the duties until they become prohibitory.

—The jury in the case of Dillon, O'Brien, and Redmond, on trial in connection with the plan of campaign, came into court at Dublin and reported that they were unable to agree.

PERSONAL.

—The death of Mrs. General Hunter, in Washington, is announced by telegraph. She was the second daughter of John Kinzie, a pioneer Indian trader, and was born on the site of Chicago in 1807. She was married to Lieutenant Hunter, at Fort Dearborn, in 1828.

—The wife of General Joseph E. Johnston died at Washington last week.

—A Cleveland dispatch announces the death of Benj. F. Taylor, the poet, journalist, and lecturer. He was 65 years old.

—James C. Branch, a wealthy young citizen of St. Louis, has married a German girl formerly employed by his family. Both he and his bride are barred out of the paternal household.

—A woman at Rochester wrote to the postmaster at Chicago to select a husband for her and send his address.

—Jesse W. Fell died last week at Bloomington, Ill. He was an old resident of Illinois and the personal friend of President Lincoln and David Davis. The death of Commodore William H. Truxtun is also recorded.

—General Thomas W. Egan died in New York, last week, of epilepsy. His horse was once shot under him on the field at Gettysburg.

—After the war President Johnson made Egan Revenue Collector, and he in the Custom House under Col. Schur. He was lavish in his expenditure while in the Custom House kept a room at the St. Nicholas that was sumptuously furnished. He spent a fortune of $100,000. Lately he lived on his pension. General Egan's mother lives in La Crosse, Wis., with his sister and brother. She is past 90.

—Dr. Edmund Rogers, a wealthy bachelor of Chicago, who died recently, left a large fortune to be given to any six women whose husbands are drunkards.

—Mrs. Logan has made known to the Chicago Monument Committee her desire that the remains of the Senator be placed in the center of the circular plat in Jackson Park, comprising forty acres, and that her body be ultimately laid to rest there.

POLITICAL.

—In the Lieutenant Governorship case the Supreme Court of Indiana rendered a decision, on the 23d of February, refusing an injunction against Robertson for want of jurisdiction, and declaring that the General Assembly has control of the matter. The opinion of the court, in which all the judges concur, was written by Chief Justice Elliott, and it holds that the Circuit Court had no jurisdiction of the person of Robertson, and no jurisdiction to issue the order of injunction. Separate opinions were filed by each of the Judges. Judge Niblack holds that exclusive authority over the contest is vested in the General Assembly, and that the courts have no jurisdiction. Chief Justice Elliott fully concurs in this opinion, but pursues a somewhat different line of argument. Judge Mitchell, in a very long opinion, holds that the courts have jurisdiction over the subject-matter of the controversy, and that there was no vacancy in the office of Lieutenant Governor. Judge Hawk agrees with Judge Mitchell. Judge Zollars, in a very elaborate opinion, holds that the courts have no jurisdiction of the action, but does not entirely concur in the reasoning of Judges Niblack and Elliott. The news of the decision, says an Indianapolis dispatch, spread rapidly, and caused no little excitement in the city.

Speaker Sayre announced to the House of Representatives the court's ruling. Senator Demotte, in the Senate, quietly informed President Smith that the decision had been rendered, exhibiting to him a certificate from the Clerk of the Supreme Court stating the facts. He notified Smith that a demand would forthwith be made by the Republicans for possession of the office. A motion to adjourn the Senate was made and declared carried. Soon after adjournment had been declared Senator Houston arose excitedly, exclaiming that President Smith was a usurper, a scoundrel, and a pretender. Demotte, whose seat is in the rear, rushed forward denouncing Smith as "a liar and a coward." Senator Kennedy followed the example of the others. Smith laughed at them, and held his temper. The House passed a resolution practically stopping all legislation. In effect it says that the House will not recognize the Senate any longer unless it acknowledges the validity of Robertson's election and allows him quietly to reside over the Senate. The Democratic Senators met in caucus. Gov. Gray, United States Senator-elect Turpie, and other prominent Democrats were in consultation with them. The decision was to hold the fort on the following grounds: That the decision of the Supreme Court to-day left the question just where it was at the beginning of the session; that Justice Niblack, in his decision, gives the opinion that the Constitution does not positively make the Lieutenant Governor the presiding officer of the Senate, and that that body may select any Senator for that office. The Democrats, therefore, propose to stand by Senator Smith. They also claim that two of the judges have declared that no vacancy existed in the office of Lieutenant Governor, and that the others made no deliverance on that point. Also that the joint convention which declared Robertson Lieutenant Governor was illegal because the Senate at the time having adjourned, was not officially present, although the Republican Senators participated. The Republicans at a secret conference resolved to stand by Robertson and seat him at all hazards.

—R. S. Robertson, recently elected Lieutenant Governor of Indiana, made an attempt to take the chair in the senate on Thursday, but was kept back by a doorkeeper. Senator Green Smith sustained the point of order that none but members could take up the time of the body, and caused the doorkeepers to remove Robertson from the chamber. The crowd saw Robertson come out and there was great excitement. He mounted the steps and made a speech, reciting what had transpired in the chamber and cautioned the people to do nothing that would infringe the peace or dignity of the State, or that they would regret in cooler moments. During the excitement about the Senate doors three of the Senators attempted to enter and had difficulty. Senator Johnson, of Wayne, denounced the doorkeepers, and during the melee a number of persons from the inside approached the door, among them Senator McDonald, who put up his hands. Johnson interpreted it as an attempt to thrust him back, and struck the Senator in the face. Senator Demotte was ordered into his seat, and when the Sergeant-at-arms put him down threw him to the floor. The Republican Senators started to follow Robertson out of the chamber, but were not permitted to leave. The House refused to receive a message from the Senate, and the doorkeepers were instructed not to admit the Secretary of the Senate until Robertson was installed as presiding officer of that body. The Michigan Prohibition State Convention met at Lansing, with 450 delegates, and made these nominations: For Supreme Court Justices, Lemuel Chute of Ionia and Noah W. Cheever of Washtenaw; for University Regents, David Preston of Detroit and Amherst B. Cheney of Kent. The platform calls upon all to rally to support the amendment to the Constitution prohibiting the liquor traffic.

—The bill changing the name of St. John County to Logan County passed the Kansas Legislature and received the Governor's signature. The county was first named for the Prohibitionist leader.

—The Illinois Senate passed a resolution declaring it to be the duty of the General Assembly to see that the terms of the convict-labor amendment be carried out by proper legislation.

—The Wisconsin Senate adopted a resolution to submit a constitutional amendment prohibiting contracts for convict labor.

—The Judiciary Committee of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives has favorably reported a bill proposing an important change in the jury laws of that State by legalizing a two-thirds verdict. In other words, a verdict can be found whenever eight of the twelve men in the box agree upon conviction or acquittal. Under such a law as this hung juries would soon become unknown, and the schemes of shysters to run in a crooked man on a jury would be thwarted.

—Col. Robertson was refused admittance to the Indiana Senate Chamber, when he presented himself at the door on the 25th ult. Counsel for Green Smith filed a petition for the rehearing of the injunction case. A resolution was adopted to investigate the conduct of Senator Johnson, charged with striking Senator McDonald during the melee of the previous day. Senator McDonald made a speech, in which, referring to the trouble between him and Senator Johnson, he said that nobody would have made such an assault except "a coward and a crazy fool." He declared that he was personally responsible for what he said, either inside or outside the Senate. The Republican members of the Senate were present during the session, but refused to vote on any question presented by Smith as presiding officer. A resolution was introduced by a Democratic member proposing to submit the lieutenant governorship contest to the Supreme Court judges as a board of arbitrators, and to abide by their opinion as citizens, instead of as judges, as to who should preside over the Senate. The resolution was adopted by the Democrats, the Republicans refusing to vote on the proposition.

—Ex-President Andrew D. White, of Cornell University, telegraphed President Cleveland declining to allow the use of his name in connection with the formation of the commission under the interstate commerce act.

—A favorable report on a bill establishing a railway commission has been made to the Nebraska House.

FINANCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

—The acting Secretary of the Treasury has issued a call for $10,000,000 3 per cent. bonds issued under the act of Congress approved July 13, 1882, and numbered as follows: $30—Original No. 24 to 50, both inclusive; $100—Original No. 352 to 374, both inclusive; $500—Original No. 149 to 152, both inclusive, and Original No. 4,235 to 4,239, both inclusive; $10,000—Original No. 1,222 to 1,320 both inclusive; $10,000—Original No. 2,886 to 3,96 both inclusive. Total, $10,007,750. Part of the bonds called by the circular can have immediate payment, with interest to of presentation, by requesting the same in letter forwarding bonds for redemption, call matures April 1.

—A company has been organized by George M. Irwin and other Chicagoans to bore for gas, oil, and coal in Illinois.

—The Director of the Mint reports the production of gold in the United States for 1886 at $35,000,000, and the yield of silver at $4,845,430.

—Wages of St. Louis molders will be increased 15 per cent.

—Coal has been found at Jacksonville, Ill., at a depth of 161 feet, causing much rejoicing in that city.

—Montreal dispatches announce the failure of J. E. Woodley & Co., shoe manufacturers of Quebec, who owe $80,000, and J. A. Gagnon & Co., wholesale grocers at Three Rivers.

—The first bushel of coal from the mine just developed at Jacksonville, Illinois, sold for $60.

—R. Croft, a Toronto (Ont.) builder, has made an assignment, owing $120,000.

—Companies have been organized at Adrian, Michigan, and Elkhart, Indiana, to bore for oil and gas.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

—The Northwestern Road has declared a dividend of 1 1/2 per cent. on preferred stock.

—A meeting held in Chicago by the general managers of the Western railways resulted in the passage of a resolution that the tariffs be corrected and the methods of doing business be revised to conform to the requirements of the interstate commerce law.

GENERAL.

—Judge Conrad decided at Des Moines that the manufacture of intoxicating liquors, to be sold in other States, is a violation of the Iowa prohibitory law. The case will be carried to the highest court.

—Steve Brodie, who jumped from the Brooklyn bridge, was arrested last week at Pittsburg. It was his intention to jump from the cupola of the Fifth Avenue Museum into a net seventy-five feet below.

—The lands ceded by the Chippewa Indians in Minnesota, by agreement with the northwest commission, are expected to realize nearly $15,000,000.

—There is heavy betting at New York on the ocean race between the yachts Dauntless and Coronet. It is stated that $500,000 is already wagered.

—General B. F. Butler has exchanged 27,000 acres of land in Polk County, Minnesota, for real estate in Chicago worth $121,300.

—Jacob Schaefer, the champion billiardist, has challenged any man in the world to play a game of cushion-carrons, 500 points, for $2,500 a side, the person accepting to have the privilege of naming the place of meeting.

CASUALTIES.

—The American House at Sun Prairie, Wis. was burned, the guests escaping in their night-clothes. Postmaster General Vilas has a mortgage for $2,000 on the property. The Ring Block at Haverhill, Mass., was also destroyed, entailing a loss of $100,000, mostly covered by insurance.

—The explosion of natural gas in the Black Diamond Steel Works at Pittsburg fatally burned one man and seriously injured five others.

—While a gang of brick-layers employed by the firm of Wintering & Dixon, of Pittsburg, were engaged in lining the stacks at Valentine's furnaces at Bellefonte, Pa., the scaffolding on which they stood gave way, precipitating twelve men to the bottom of the stack, a distance of sixty-five feet. Five men were killed and two others fatally injured. The scaffolding had been weighted down with some 8,000 bricks.

—A fire at Nebraska City, Neb., destroyed property valued at $100,000 or more.

—Darby & Co.'s extensive candy manufactory at Baltimore was destroyed by fire, creating a loss of $200,000, nearly covered by insurance.

—The penitentiary at Sioux Falls, D. T., was partly destroyed by fire. The convicts were all saved.

—EUROPE is always governed by the behind the throne.

The St. Joe News.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

WHAT SHE SAID.

He sat beside her near the stove,
A prey to bashfulness;
To her he spoke no words of love,
Nor sought her hand to press.

No maiden ever had been wooed
By him; the fact was plain,
For silently he sat and chewed
The knob upon his cane.

Sometimes he at the ceiling gazed,
Sometimes his glance would stray
To her, but when her eyes she raised
He looked another way.

And thus they silent sat till she Said: "John, I ought to state
That you and I are out to tea,
And won't return till late.

"Now, while they're absent, do not tease,
But pray remember this:
My hand you must not try to squeeze,
Nor steal from me a kiss."

At once the knob that graced his cane
John from his mouth withdrew,
And said: "I won't, don't think, Miss Jane,
That I'd do that to you!"

A deeper silence then ensued
Than had prevailed before;
John vigorously his cane's knob chewed,
A frown Jane's visage wore.

And thus they sat till half past ten,
And when John rose to go,
And asked if he might call again,
Jane curtly answered: "No!"
Boston Courier.

A MEXICAN LEGEND.

With well-filled bags after a five day's sport, we turned our faces toward the rough-and-ready little hostelry where we were staying for a few days, up in Dakota. They could cook a prairie chicken there, and there was good cider to be had, not to mention the good beer. We decided to go back by a new route, and to follow, as far as possible, the winding of the stream. After a very short time, however, the stream took a turn and disappeared into the wood. It would have taken us too far out of our way to follow it, so we struck out upon a path which we afterward found was the chord of an arc formed by the stream. All of a sudden, and in no great time, we came upon the water again. The sun was still powerful, and a very pretty spectacle was now before us, as the stream wound, widening amid rushes and flags, out of forest and round the side of a peninsula. The dragon flies swarmed, and the sunshine came beautifully through the shade of the over-bending trees. On a punt that had just shot the corner of the peninsula a smart, buxom girl, probably the hotel-keeper's daughter, I thought, lay loitering at full length, half on her side, but with her head supported by her arms, and her face turned toward my companion and myself. She had heard the rustle we had made in the brake, and was looking curiously in our direction. Hal was the first to catch sight of this sudden apparition, and he paid so much attention to it that he took a false step, and actually put at least one leg down into the water among the rushes. The girl called out, laughingly; he caught hold of my hand, and no harm was done.

When we got to our little hotel the first thing we did, after a toilet, was to make a meal bag, sending some of the contents of our bag into the kitchen for supper. As we sat smoking in the twilight Hal said, laughingly:

"Thought is quick."

"I dare say," said I.

"What do you think of Ximienia?"

"Who the dickens is Ximienia?"

"The girl on the punt."

"I thought she was a brisk, plump Norwegian girl; a little lazy; untidy in some respects perhaps, but inclined to be dressy, and—"

"Not a Norwegian, old fellow; a Mexican. Her name is Ximienia."

"That last drink out of the flask must have gone to your head, Hal."

"Not a bit. Listen to the story of Ximienia, the Mexican maiden. I think I can repeat it all. There was, you must know, three hundred years ago a young Mexican chief named—well I can't remember those outlandish Mexican-Atzec names, so I will call him Popo. Well, this Popo built an elevated balcony on the slope of a hill, well, we'll call it Kiki. He had contracted a great friendship for a young man whom we will call Zozo; they were both fond of music. Popo played on a horn, and Zozo on the pipe; and they used to go up into the balcony and play on their instruments in the night; and in calm evenings the sound of their music was wafted by the gentle breeze across the lake to the village of Ohho, where dwelt the beautiful young Ximienia, the sister of Wahu.

Ximienia could hear the sweet-sounding music of the instrument of Popo and his dear friend, Zozo, which gladdened her heart within her. Every night her friends played on their instruments in that manner, and Ximienia then herself, "Ah! that is the sound I hear."

For although Ximienia was so prized by her family that they would not betroth her to any chief, nevertheless, she and Popo had met each other on those occasions when all the people came together.

In those great assemblies of the people, Ximienia had seen Popo, and as they often glanced at each other, to the heart of each of them the other appeared pleasing, and worthy of love, so that in the breast of each there grew up a secret passion for the other. Nevertheless, Popo could not tell whether he might venture to approach Ximienia to take her hand, to see would she press his in return, because, said he, "Perhaps I may be by no means agreeable to her;" on the other hand, Ximienia's heart said to her, "If you send one of your female friends to tell him of your love, perchance he will not be pleased with you."

However, after they had thus met for many, many days, and had long fondly glanced each at the other, Popo sent a messenger to Ximienia, to tell her of his love, and when Ximienia had seen the messenger, she said, "Ah! then have we each loved alike?"

Sometime after this, and when they had often met, Popo and his family returned to their own village; and being together one evening, in the large warm house of general assembly, the elder brothers of Popo said: "Which of us has by signs or by pressure of the hand received proofs of the love of Ximienia?" And one said, "It is I who have;" and another said, "No, but it is I." Then they all questioned Popo, and he said, "I have pressed the hand of Ximienia, and she pressed mine in return;" but his elder brothers said, "No such thing; do you think she would take any notice of such a low-born fellow as you are?" He then told his reputed father to remember what he would then say to him, because he really had received proofs of Ximienia's love; they had even actually arranged a good while before, the time at which Ximienia should run away to him; and when the maiden asked, "What shall be the sign by which I shall know that I should then run to you?" he said to her: "A trumpet will be heard sounding every night; it will be I who sound it, beloved—paddle then your canoe to this place." So the father kept in his mind this confession which Popo had made to him.

Now always about the middle of the night Popo and his friend Zozo, went up into the balcony and played, the one upon his trumpet, the other upon his pipe, and Ximienia heard them, and desired vastly to paddle her canoe to Popo; but her friends, suspecting something, had been careful with the canoes to leave none afloat, but had hauled them all up upon the shore of the lake; and thus her friends had always done for many days and for many nights.

At last, she reflected in her heart, saying, "How can I then contrive to cross the lake to the island to Popo; it can be plainly seen that my friends suspect what I am going to do." So she sat down upon the ground to rest; and then soft measures reached her from the home of Popo, and the young and beautiful chieftainess felt as if an earthquake shook her to make her go to the beloved of her heart. But then arose the recollection that there was no canoe. At last she thought, "perhaps I might be able to swim across." So she took six large empty dry gourds as floats, lest she should sink in the water—three of them for each side; and she went out upon the rock, and from thence to the edge of the water, and she reached the stump of a sunken tree which used to stand in the lake, and she clung to it with her hands, and rested to take breath; and when she had a little eased the weariness of her shoulders, she swam on again, and whenever she was exhausted, she floated with the current of the lake, supported by the gourds; and after recovering strength, she swam on again; but she could not distinguish in which direction she should proceed, from the darkness of the night; her only guide was, however, the soft measure from the instruments of Popo and Zozo; that was the mark by which she swam, for just above the hot spring was the home of Popo, and swimming at last she reached the home of Popo. At the place where she landed on the island, there is a hot spring separated from the lake only by a narrow ledge of rocks. Ximienia got into this to warm herself, for she was trembling all over, partly from the cold after swimming in the night across the wide lake, and partly also, perhaps, from modesty, at the thoughts of meeting Popo.

Whilst the maiden was thus warming herself in the hot spring, Popo happened to feel thirsty, and said to his servant: "Bring me a little water;" so his servant went to fetch water for him, and drew it from the lake in a gourd, close to the spot where Ximienia was sitting; the maiden, who was frightened, called out to him in a gruff voice like that of a man: "Whom is that water for?"

He replied: "It's for Popo."

"Give it here, then," said Ximienia.

And he gave her the water, and she drank, and having finished drinking, purposely threw down the gourd and broke it. Then the servant asked her:

"What business had you to break the gourd of Popo?"

But Ximienia did not say a word in answer. The servant then went back to Popo, and he said to him: "Where is the water I told you to bring me?"

He answered: "Your gourd was broken," and his master asked him: "Who broke it?" and he answered: "The man who is in the bath." And Popo said to him: "Go back again, then, and fetch me some water."

He therefore took another gourd and went back and drew water in the gourd from the lake, and Ximienia again said to him: "Whom is the water for?" So the slave answered as before: "For Popo." And the maiden again said: "Give it to me, for I am thirsty," and the slave gave it to her, and she drank, and purposely threw down the gourd and broke it; and these occurrences took place repeatedly between these two persons.

At last the slave went again to Popo, who said to him: "Where is the water for me?" and his servant answered: "It's all gone, your gourds have been broken." "By whom?" said Popo. "Didn't I tell you that there is a man in the bath?" "Who is the fellow?" said Popo. "How can I tell?" replied the slave; "why, he's a stranger!" "Didn't he know the water was for me?" said Popo; "how did the rascal dare to break my gourds? Why, I shall die of rage!"

Then Popo threw on some clothes and caught hold of his club, and away he went, and came to the bath and called out: "Where is the fellow who broke my gourds?" Ximienia knew the voice—that the sound of it was that of the beloved of her heart; and she hid herself under the overhanging rocks of the hot spring; but her hiding was hardly a real hiding, but rather a bashful concealing of herself from Popo, that he might not find her at once, but only after trouble and careful searching after her. So he went feeling about along the banks of the hot spring, searching everywhere, while she lay coily hid under the ledges of the rock, peeping out, wondering when she would be found. At last he caught hold of a hand and cried out: "Hollo, who's this?" And Ximienia answered: "It's I, Popo!" And he said: "But who are you?—who's I?" Then she spoke louder and said: "It's I—'tis Ximienia!" And he said: "Ho! ho! ho! can such, in very truth, be the case! Let us two go, then, to my house." And she answered: "Yes;" and she rose up in the water as beautifully as the wild white swan, and stepped upon the edge of the bath as gracefully as the shy white crane; and he threw a garment over her and took her, and they proceeded to his house, and reposed there; and thenceforth, according to the ancient Atzec laws, they were man and wife.

When the morning dawned all the people of the village went forth from their houses to cook their morning meal, and they all ate; but Popo tarried in his house. So his father said: "This is the first morning that Popo has tarried in-doors. Perhaps the boy is ill; bring him here, rouse him up." Then the man who was to fetch him went, and listening at the wooden window of the house, heard two voices. Oh! he was greatly amazed, and said to himself: "Who can this companion of his be?" However, he had heard enough, and turning about, hurried back as fast as he could to Popo's father, and said to him: "Why, there are two speaking; I heard them myself in the house." The father answered: "Who's his companion, then? Hasten back and see." So back he went to the house and peeped in at them, and then, for the first time, he saw that it was Ximienia. Then he shouted out in his amazement: "Oh! here's Ximienia! here's Ximienia, in the house of Popo," and all the village heard him, and there arose cries on every side: "Oh, here's Ximienia! here's Ximienia with Popo!" And his elder brothers heard the shouting, and they said: "It is not true!" for they were very jealous indeed. Popo then appeared coming from his house, and Ximienia following him, and his elder brothers saw that it was indeed Ximienia, and they said: "It is true; it is a fact!"

After these things Zozo thought within himself: "Popo has married Ximienia, she whom he loved; but as for me, alas! I have no wife," and he became sorrowful, and returned to his own village. And Popo grieved for Zozo; and he said to his father: "I am quite ill from grief for my friend Zozo;" and his father said, "what do you mean?" And Popo replied, "I refer to my young sister, Xizi, let her be given as a wife to my beloved friend, Zozo." And his father consented to this; so his young sister Xizi was given to Zozo, and she became his wife.

The descendants of Ximienia and Popo are at this very moment dwelling away off in New Mexico, they are now called Zunis, and never yet have the lips of their young been neglected in learning the story of their renowned ancestress, Ximienia.

"There," said Hal, "that is the very pretty story of the loves of Ximienia and Popo."

"Now I see what you meant by saying, 'thought is quick.' That girl on the punt put you in mind at once of Ximienia hiding by the hot springs, and so you stepped into the water, looking at her and not minding your way, but then this was only a fair looking Norwegian girl," said I. Hal answered, "No, 'twas Ximienia!"

It was a well-meant but novel compliment from a lady, who declared to her parson she did not know which most to admire—his sermon or his wife's new dress.

PITH AND POINT.

LANDLADY—Can you tell me what the most important thing is in a boarding-house? Boarder—Yes, the chopping-knife.

WHEN a Scandinavian falls in love no doubt the soft words he murmurs in his native tongue are Swedes to the Sweet. —Lynn Union.

MANY a young man who has been too bashful to propose to a girl has had her father come into the parlor at 11 o'clock and help him out.

"WELL, Algernon, she greeted you with a smile, did she?" "Yes," said Algernon. "A benign one?" "O, a seven-by-nine one."

PATIENT—What do you, think of a warmer climate for me, doctor? Doctor—Great Scott! man, isn't that what I am trying to save you from?

"WHAT is afoot now?" asked at acquaintance of a reporter who was rushing for the office. "Twelve inches still," said the scribe as he shot out of sight.

PHYSICIAN—You are to take this mixture after meals. Poor patient! But, it's very seldom, doctor, that I get a meal. Physician—In that case, take it before meals.

If women consent to give up their altitudinous headgear at the theater at night, men, in turn, should endeavor to give up wearing big heads in the morning. —Philadelphia North American.

A NEEDLE was recently found in an egg laid by a Philadelphia hen. Hens should never try to attend to their sewing and cackling at the same time. The weakness is confined to women alone.

POLICE COURT Justice to tramp arrested for vagrancy. "What is your income, sir?" "I have no income, sir; it's all outcome." "What do you mean by outcome?" "The outcome of my fellow-beings' generosity." —Man and Express.

THE Bushnell III. Record, we are pained to observe, discourages the outpourings of native genius by inserting in its table of advertising rates the following: "Obituary poetry, selected, 20 cents per line; original, $2.75 per line, cash in advance." —Chicago Tribune.

"Oh, yes," wrote a Bostonian, who believes that his own home is the coolest spot on earth in midsummer, "it is all very well for you to ask me to come down to your famous hotel for rest and change. I tried it once; the porter got the most of the change, and the landlord took the rest."

AFTER the opera: Twelve-year-old miss—The opera was very long, wasn't it mamma? Mamma—Yes, daughter, and very stylish. Miss The ballet girls don't sing, do they mamma? Mamma—No, daughter. Miss—Why do they have the ballet, then, mamma? Papa—To make the opera as broad as it is long, daughter. Don't ask any more questions. —Washington Critic.

HE—The movement against the high-hat nuisance is getting quite a boom, isn't it? She—They are making a lot of talk about it in the newspapers, but they will never make me take off my hat in a public hall—never. He—I think I might bring it about, my dear, if I were to cut off your allowance. If you didn't have a new hat every six weeks you might not object so much to its removal. —Lowell Citizen.

A 5-YEAR-OLD friend of ours, starting out for a children's party the other afternoon, remarks to the maid who is taking him to the place of entertainment: "Well, I've made up my mind to be a perfect gentleman to-day; I don't mean to kick a single girl." Upon his return home he was questioned as to his behavior by his mamma. "Well," he said, "the only thing I did was to yell 'Cheer up!' when they played the 'Mikado' on the piano." —Harper's Bazar.

A LADY called recently at the house of a friend, and there met a gentleman who was introduced to her as a "new lodger." After he had left the room she said to her friend, "Why do you keep that odious creature in your house? He doesn't correspond with the rest of your furniture." Imagine his surprise when informed that he was her friend's new husband.

THE first step in debt is like the step in falsehood, almost involving the necessity of proceeding in the course, debt following debt as lies lie. Hayden, the painter, his decline from the day on which he first borrowed money. —Samuel.

The Greatest Gift He Ever Made.

It has been stated in some of our exchanges that Mr. H. H. Warner, of Rochester, N. Y., in the last eight years, has, through his devotion to science, built an astronomical observatory at an estimated value of $100,000, and given between $4,000 and $5,000 in prizes for astronomical discovery.

This is all very well, if Mr. Warner seeks to divert his energies in this channel. But from all we can hear among the people, if he never gave anything to the world except his great remedy, Warner's safe cure, formerly known as Warner's safe kidney and liver cure, he would be conferring the most practical and far-reaching benefit that it is in the power of any one man to give the public.

It is now conceded that he has the only specific for kidney disease and uric acid in the blood, and medical authorities of candor agree that if the blood is freed from uric acid by that great remedy, and the kidneys are kept in health, over ninety per cent of human diseases disappear.

The manufacturers evidently know, and if they do not, we would like to tell them, of the unanimity of public sentiment in favor of their great remedy; indeed, they seem to realize this, when they say: "If you do not believe the statements we make, ask your friends and neighbors, what they think of Warner's safe cure." Such evidence of confidence in the established character and worth of their preparation is unprecedented. Unless they know it has merit, and will do precisely what they state, they would not dare give such advice to the public.

Such confidence ought to be infectious.

Believed Everything He Said.

I strolled into the emporium of Hans Von Orinifacabellitudenitanabaski, my Teutonic corner grocer, to purchase a cent's worth of smoked herring and a soda cracker, when the worthy tradesman hailed me with:

"Hello! Meester Shones, vere you peen coin' some days vot I missed you; eh?"

"I've been out of town, to Trenton," I said.

"Vell, vat you hev saw mit Trenton?" said Hans, ready for gossip.

"Oh, not much," I said; "I saw a man tried for murder."

"Vell, vat moech murder?" said Hans, eagerly.

I determined to gratify my German friend, and so gave it to him:

"Well, they tried the man, found him guilty and the Judge said: 'That will do; take him out and hang him to the lamp-post in front of the door!' They were just doing it when a man came up to the Judge and said: 'Judge, did you know that it was only a Dutchman killed?' The Judge said, 'No! No-body told me that; fetch the gent back.' They brought the man back, and the Judge addressed him: 'My friend, I didn't know it was only a Dutchman you killed; I beg your pardon. You're free.' And then he turned to the lawyers and the people in the court-room and said: 'Gentlemen, did you know it was a Dutchman our friend here killed? I think you ought to raise a subscription for him.' So they handed the hat round and got $181.50, and the man went away with three cheers from the crowd.

"Meester Shones," said Hans, gravely, "I believes every tings you say, put I tinks dot ees von lie, Meester Shones!"

There was no further argument.—The Imp.

Where Girls Have Their Freedom.

Prof. Kate Sanborn, of Smith College, near Boston, has written an interesting article on the social life of Smith College, from which it appears that in many respects it is a phenomenal institution. The women, for instance, are treated rationally as men. It is neither a nursery nor a nunnery, and the majority of the students live in pretty little cottages, where they keep house as though at home. The girls are not hampered with rules, which are conspicuous by their absence, but are placed on their honor. They are expected to appear at recitation with reasonable regularity; but beyond that they walk, row, ride, drive, attend musical or dramatic entertainments, or accept invitations from friends in town as they please. All this gives a vision of untrammelled freedom rarely accorded to young women even in unconventional America; but Prof. Sanborn assures us that it has led to no unpleasant results; she adds: "People who are well aware of the existence, success and grand achievements of Vassar and Wellesley do seem wonderfully ignorant about the only and original Woman's College, that, in its high standard of scholarship and its requirements for entering, stands fully and clearly on a par with Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth and our other first-class male colleges."

A MAN who had his attention drawn said it wasn't half as painful as drawing a tooth.—Texas Siftings.

Men of 240,000 Years Ago.

If the claims of old descent were a justifiable source of pride the human race would feel elated this morning on being assured by the wise men of the British Association that authentic proof has been discovered in some Welsh caves that men, sufficiently developed from the ape to manufacture flint implements, existed on this planet 240,000 years ago. To us it is a melancholy reflection that we should have taken so prodigious a time to attain so small a result. Even when the duration of the race is limited to the 6,000 years of history, the outcome can hardly be considered as satisfactory, and there something profoundly depressing in the sudden addition of a series of ancestors who spent 234,000 years in marking time, indeed, but in making no other mark in the world. The London Times gives the following report of the proceedings of the association: Dr. H. Hicks, F. R. S., read a paper on "Evidence of Pre-glacial Man in North Wales." He described the conditions under which some flint implements had been discovered during researches carried on by Mr. E. B. Luxmore and himself in the Liffynnon Benko and Cae Gwyn Caves in the Vale of Clwyd, in the years 1884-6. The caverns were explored by himself and friends for the first time in 1884, and some of the results were given by him in a paper at the last meeting of the British Association. The facts then obtained had led him to the conclusion that pleistocene animals and man must have occupied the caverns before the glacial beds which occur in the arena had been deposited; as it had been found that, although the caverns are now 400 feet above the level of the sea, the materials within them had been disturbed by marine action since the pleistocene animals and man had occupied them. Moreover, deposits with foreign pebbles similar to those in the glacial beds were found in caverns overlying the bones. Last year a grant was made by the British Association for the purpose of carrying on the exploration, chiefly with the object of getting further evidence as to the age of the deposits in the caverns. The results obtained this year were highly confirmatory of his views, and had an important bearing on the antiquity of man in Britain. Stet Cave had been blocked up by a considerable thickness of glacial beds which must have been deposited subsequently to the occupation of the cave by the pleistocene mammals. A shaft was dug through these beds in front of the entrance to a depth of over twenty feet, and in the bone-earth, which extended outward under the glacial beds, on the south side of the entrance, a small well-worked flint flake was discovered, its position being about eighteen inches beneath the lowest bed of sand. It seemed clear that the contents of the cavern must have been washed out by marine action during the great submergence in mid-glacial times, and then covered by marine sand and an upper boulder clay. He believes that the flint implements, lance heads, and scrapers found in the caverns were also of the same age as the flint flake, hence that they must all have been the work of pre-glacial man.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The English Pug.

Just see the dog which that Ladie is leading With a silver-plaited chain. He is an English pug. What a Cynical expression his countenance wears, does it not? But I don't suppose he can Help that. If I saw as Much of fashion-able life as he does I suppose I should become cyn-ic-al too. But I hope I should Not look like him. Is he leading The lady, or is the lady Leading him? I give it up. Does the lady Love him? No, she does Not love him. She keeps him Because it is the Proper caper. When he ceases To be fashion-able she will hit him on the head with a Club. Do you re-mem-ber when it was the Correct Thing to keep a Poodle? I do, distinctly. Ev-e-ry Swell fam-i-ly kept its pet Poodle. Sud-den-ly Poodles went out of style, and they All dis-ap-pear-ed. Whence did they go? I cannot say, but I re-mem-ber that their Dis-ap-pear-ance was Co-in-ci-dent with a fall in The price of Sau-sa-ges. When pet dogs are fashion-able sau-sa-ges are not, and vice versa. This is cu-ri-ous, Is it not?—Tid-Bits.

WHAT nation is the most warlike at present? Vaccination, because it's always rising up in arms.

March April May

Are the months in which to purify your blood, and for this purpose there is no medicine equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies, vitalizes, and enriches the blood, removing all trace of scrofula or other disease. It creates an appetite, and imparts new strength and vigor to the whole body. It is the ideal spring medicine. Try it.

"I have been troubled with poor appetite, and also had rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now my appetite is the best, and rheumatism has left me." C. ABBOTT, 374 Emerald Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I have been in poor health several years, suffering from indigestion, restlessness at night, and in the morning I would get up with a very tired feeling. After taking only a part of the first bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, I could rest well all night and feel refreshed when I woke up. I must say that Hood's Sarsaparilla is all it is recommended to be." Mrs. H. D. WILKINS, 210 East Mason Street, Jackson, Mich.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has been our leading blood medicine. It gives good satisfaction, and we feel safe to recommend it to our customers." BAUM & CURTIS, 25 S. Division Street, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared from Sarsaparilla, Mandarilla, Mandrake, Dock, Pipsissewa, and other well-known and valuable vegetable remedies. The combination, proportion, and preparation are peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla, giving it curative power not possessed by other medicines. It effects remarkable cures where others fail.

"Last spring I was troubled with it, caused by my blood being out of order. Two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me, and I recommend it to others." J. SCHROCK, Peoria, Ill.

Best Spring Medicine

"During the spring and summer I was troubled with biliousness and loss of appetite. I was advised to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and did so with the best results. I have recommended it to a great many of my customers, to whom it has given entire satisfaction." E. R. NEWLAND, Druggist, Indianapolis, Ind.

"My daughter had been ailing some time with general debility, and Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended to us. After she had taken three bottles she was completely cured and built up. It is with great pleasure that I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla." BEN M. MURKIN, Supt. Cincinnati & Louisville Mail Line Co., Cincinnati.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

100 Doses One Dollar

Don't Buy

SEEDS, ROSES, PLANTS

FRUIT OR ORNAMENTAL TREES, GRAPE VINES

OR ANYTHING IN THE NURSERY LINE, without first writing for our valuable FREE Catalogue, the 21 LARGE GREENHOUSES BEST we ever issued, containing the Rarest New and 33d YEAR. 700 ACRES. Cheapest Old. THE STORRS & HARRISON CO., FAIRBURY, ILL.

PISO'S CURE FOR TUBERCULOSIS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

ADVERTISERS or others who wish to examine this paper, or obtain estimates on advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St., the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

ROBBINS' ANTISEPTIC COMPOUND. Unparalleled success in Diphtheria, Scarlet Fever, Croup, Inflamed Throat, Ulcerated Sore Mouths, Quinsy, Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Etc. Manufactured only by G. W. ROBBINS, Richmond, Ind. By druggists.

WE WANT YOU! A freezerette man or woman needing profitable employment to represent us in every county. Salary $50 per month and expenses, or a large commission on sales if preferred. Goods shipped. Every one buys. Send and particulars free. STANDARD SILVERWARE CO., BOSTON, MASS.

Why did the Women

of this country use over thirteen million cakes of Procter & Gamble's Lenox Soap in 1886?

Buy a cake of Lenox and you will soon understand why.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
One Year, in advance ..... $0.75
Six Months ..... 50
Three Months ..... 25

Entered at the Post Office at St. Joe as second-class matter.

FRIDAY MARCH 4, 1887.

ST. JOE MARKETS.
CORRECTED EVERY FRIDAY.

Wheat	76 cts.
Oats	29 cts.
Corn	40 cts.
Butter	15 cts.
Eggs	10 cts.
Tallow	34 cts.
Lard	8 cts.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

WEST BOUND.

No. 9 Mail and Express 11:10 A. M.
3 Chicago Express 10:43 P. M.
35 Local Freight 3:53 P. M.

EAST BOUND.

No. 10 Express and Mail 2:08 P. M.
4 Morning Express 2:57 A. M.
34 Local Freight 8:00 A. M.

H. K. REYNOLDS, AGENT.

Harry Meek is agent for a patent farm gate.

A good horse died for Ella Wilcott last week.

William Vanzile, of Garrett, was in town Saturday.

Raven's Poultry Food cures and prevents chicken cholera.

Uncle John Baker had a barrel of fresh fish on sale this week.

Use Raven's Poultry Food and your chickens will lay more eggs.

It is said that there are 34,000 newspapers published in the world.

The St. Joe Band talks of giving an entertainment in the near future.

It is reported that Charlie Meek is traveling with a theatrical company.

Wanted—Some one to come to St. Joe and put up a good steam grist mill at once.

Auburn is suffering from an attack of gas (tricy) fever. It seems to be catching.

Raven's Food prevents hogs from having the cholera. For sale at the Drugstore, St. Joe.

A millwright from Hicksville, was here Monday, making some needed repairs on the saw-mill.

Get your sale bills printed at this office, and we will give you a notice in the paper free of charge.

August Kinsey has put a street lamp on the corner, in front of his residence. That's business; now let others do likewise.

Its really provoking to go to the trouble of raising your own meat, and then just about the time you get the hams smoked up in good eatable shape, have some other fellow come along between the hours of sundown and morning and gobble it up. J. H. Conrad had just got his mouth all puckered up for ham last week, but when he went out to the smoke house to get it, he found the place where the ham ought to have been, but it wasn't there. There was a vacant pin in that smoke house. One of its members had gone to that bourne from whence no ham ever comes back. Conrad's loss was the other fellow's gain.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

AUBURN.

Commissioners court next week. This is the last week of court for this term.

Auburn has caught the gas and oil fever. $2500.00 has been subscribed, but they want to double that amount to commence with.

The divorce suit of Kelly vs Kelly ended last Thursday. Mrs. Kelly was granted a divorce and $6000.00 alimony; he paying all cost and her attorney fees of $1000.00.

Misses Mabel Hartman, Nellie Barns, Isa Coder, and Chas. Casebeer went to Butler Saturday, to assist Mrs. Oliver in a literary entertainment, given at the above place, that evening.

We knew that the month of February had 29 days every fourth year but never before did we hear of it having 30, until announced in the Dispatch last week, that there would be a social at Mrs. Eldridge's on Feb. 30th. Perhaps the Dispatch man has got a new kind of an almanac.

ORANGEVILLE.

This is bad weather on wheat. The roads are very rough in this section.

The winter term of school at this place will close this week.

John Bair, of Spencerville, visited with Ad Chubb one day this week.

Frank and Charley said they came down to visit the school, but we think there were other attractions.

Ad Chubb can play checkers with a boy, but let a man get hold of him and he gets "skunked" every time.

Rev. Lowman is holding a protracted meeting at Newville, in the U. B. church, but owing to the bad roads the attendance has not been very large.

We would advise those wishing to call on any one in this vicinity, to do so in the early part of the week, as nearly all of the northeast part of the township has been summoned to attend court the latter part of the week.

COBURNSTOWN.

Henry Milliman and family arrived home from Tenn. this week.

Dave Andrews says, the next time he trades horses he wants one that don't need to wear a night-cap.

Bert Milliman was at home last Tuesday. He has been promoted at the shop in Garrett, to a better position at an increased salary.

Trom's "explanation" in last week's News is a little lame, but "in the interest of peace and good will," I except it and drop the subject.

The Messrs Wood and Babeox's delivered their semi-monthly lecture on how to grow squashes on grapevines; at the north schoolhouse last Saturday evening.

Uncle Mose feels a little hurt at the exhibition made of him in the News a few weeks ago. He says that he was misrepresented, and also that you took him at a disadvantage. He claims that he was not posing for his picture at all, but was merely testing the strength of the ice, before venturing on with his skates, and just as he got nicely balanced, you turned the focus on him. He says if he had known there was an artist near by, he would have assumed a more graceful position.

Of course he feels,
As if his heels,
Had played him a scaly trick;
But considering the ice,
He did it nice.
At least he did it quick.

SPENCERVILLE.

J. A. Provines is at Indianapolis. Miss Louie Rummel was at Auburn last Saturday.

Mrs. Tindall is slowly recovering from her late illness.

Ed Bishop and wife, of Convooy, are visiting in town this week.

The protracted meeting at the Lutheran church still continues.

Cassius Silberg has moved into the house vacated by Henry Carnes.

Miss Liddie Spidler expects to go to Michigan soon, to spend the summer.

Geo. Smith who is teaching school west of town, is having a week's vacation.

"In the midst of life we are in death." How truly this saying was verified in the death of Peter Springer of this place, last Tuesday morning. He went to bed as well as usual on Monday night, and arose early Tuesday morning, and made a fire and then went back to bed again. As he did not get up at his usual time, his son went to call him, and found him dead in bed. It is supposed that heart disease was the cause of his death. Mr. Springer has been a resident of this place for a number of years, and has many friends who will be sorry to hear of his sudden and unexpected death. His funeral occurred Wednesday afternoon in the Lutheran church.

CONCORD.

After a long absence, Sadie Hilderbrant returned home and remained over Sunday, visiting her parents.

Last Friday Harry Buchanan went to Garrett, and remained over Sunday. He went to visit his cousin John Dawson, who is in the machine shops at that place.

Who indited us? This is the question that agitates the mind of the boys at present. Sometimes they think they have about solved the mystery.

Last Tuesday we noticed F. Buchanan driving some very fine cattle over to Auburn. They were for Rainier & Headley, the popular butchers of that city.

We are glad to learn that Richard Ervin is slowly improving, we hope his recovery is permanent and that he may again enjoy that greatest of blessings, good health.

Last Tuesday James Smith and family moved in their new home, and Mr. Darling the owner of the farm they have vacated, moved on the same, last Thursday.

We think a young man of this neighborhood must be very absent minded or something else. One day this week, his father sent him to the Spencerville mill with a grist of wheat to be made into flour and told him to get a little graham flour made, and would you believe it, he got the whole grist made into graham flour, and now, we suppose the family will have to eat graham bread all summer.

The people of the Concord church always seem wide awake to the interests of that church, and let come what will, they are always on hand, ready for duty. Last Sunday one would have thought the inclemency of the weather would have kept every body indoors; but in the face of a raging storm, a goodly number attended Sunday school, and discussed the various topics of a very interesting lesson, and we presume went home feeling better for having discharged their duty.

Read A. M. Richard's insurance advertisement in this issue.

Ladies who are looking for a Magazine to meet all their requirements should see DEMOREST'S MONTHLY for March. It has just arrived, and, as usual, is full of information and amusement. Nothing seems to be left undone to make DEMOREST'S the most popular Family Magazine in the world. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, 17, East 14th St., New York, at $2.00 per year.

M. TUSTISON,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES,

ROLLER FLOUR,

PROVISIONS, OYSTERS, LEMONS,

ORANGES, CANDIES, CIGARS &c.

MAIN ST. — — — ST. JOE, IND.

WILLIAM CURIE,

PROPRIETOR OF

MEAT MARKET

ST. JOE, IND.

Highest market price paid for Hides, Tallow &c. Give me a call.

J. F. WALKER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

Harness, Collars,

WHIPS, HARNESS OIL &c.

ST. JOE, IND.

Repairing done promptly. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see.

A. KINSEY,

DEALER IN

FURNITURE

BUREAUS, TABLES,

LOUNGES, BEDS, CHAIRS, &c.

MAIN STREET, ST. JOE, IND.

All styles of Parlor Goods furnished at low prices. Thanking you for past favors I solicit your future patronage.

F. A. ZEIGLER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

HARNESS, —

— COLLARS,

WHIPS, &c.

FLY NETS,

DUSTERS,

OILS &c.

St. Joe, Ind.

Prices the Lowest. All work guaranteed. Call and see me.

—A. KINSEY—

Undertaker and Embalmer. Keeps on hand constantly, a stock of Undertaking Supplies, Coffins, Caskets, Burial Robes &c. I can supply as fine goods as can be furnished. Will attend to making all arrangements for funerals. Calls responded to at all hours of the night. Office on corner of Main and Second Streets; residence on corner of Main and Fourth Streets, St. Joe, Ind.

BILL NYE

Gives Edwin Booth Points on Acting A Play Better to See Than to Read.

I went to hear Mr. Edwin Booth in "Hamlet." I had read the play before, but it was better as he gave it, I think.

The play of "Hamlet" is not catchy and there is a noticeable lack of local gags in it. A gentleman who stood up behind me and leaned against his breath all the evening said he thought Ophelia's singing was too disconnected. He is a keen observer and has seen a great many plays. He went out frequently between the acts, and always came back in better spirits. He noticed that I wept a little in one or two places, and said that if I thought that was affecting I ought to see "Only a Farmer's Daughter." He drives a bus for the Hollenden Hotel here, and has seen a great deal of life. Still, he talked freely with me through the evening, and told me what was coming next. He is a great admirer of the drama, and night after night he may be seen in the foyer, accompanied only by his breath.

There is considerable discussion among critics as to whether Hamlet was really insane or not, but I think he assumed it in order to throw the prosecution off the track, for he was a very smart man, and when his uncle tried to work off some of his Danish prevarications on him I fully expected him to pull a card out of his pocket and present it to his royal tallness on which might be seen the legend:

I AM SOMETHING OF A LIAR MYSELF! But I am glad he did not, for it would have seemed out of character in a play like that.

Mr. Booth wore a dark waterproof cloak all the evening, and a sword with which he frequently killed people. He was dressed in black throughout, with hair of the same shade. He is using the same hair "Hamlet" that he did twenty years ago, though he uses less. He wears black knickerbockers and long, black crackless stockings.

Mr. Booth is doing well in the acting business, frequently getting as high as $2 a piece for tickets to his performances. He was encored by the audience several times last night, but refrained from repeating the play, fearing that it would make it too late for those who had to go back to Belladonna, O., after the close of the entertainment.

Toward the end of the play a little rough on rats gets into the elderberry wine and the royal family drink it, after which there is considerable excitement, and a man with a good, reliable stomach-pump would have all he could do. Several of the royal family curl up and perish.

They do not die in the house.

During an interview between Hamlet and his mother, an old gentleman, who has the honor to be Ophelia's father, hides behind a picket fence, so as to overhear the conversation. He gets excited, and says something in a low, guttural tone of voice, whereupon Hamlet runs his sword through the picket fence in such a way as to bore a large hole into the old man, who then dies. I have heard a great many people break the piece, beginning:

To be or not to be.

Mr. Booth does it better than any I have ever heard. I once heard a politician—kind of a smart Allickist, as my friend the Hoosier Post says—recite "To be or not to be" in a manner which, he thought, brought tears to his eyes.

bosom up to the second joint. He seems to have the idea that Hamlet spoke these lines mostly because he felt like saying something, instead of doing it to introduce a set of health-lift gestures and a hoarse, barytone snort.

A head of dark hair, a low, mellow, union depot tone of voice, and a dark blue, three-sheet poster will not make a successful Hamlet, and blessed be the man who knows this without experimenting on the people till he has bunions on his immortal soul.

I have sent a note to Mr. Booth this morning asking him to call at my room, No. 68, and saying that I would give him my idea about the drama from a purely unpartisan standpoint, but it is raining so fast now that I fear he will not be able to come. BILL NYE.

Some Superstitions.

At Smithill's Hall, near Bolton-le-Moors, there is still to be seen—an object of interest and curiosity to a large number of visitors—the print of a man's foot in the flagstone. It is said to have been produced by George Marsh, who suffered martyrdom during the persecutions of Queen Mary in 1555. When on one occasion the truth of his words was called in question by his enemies he stamped his foot upon the stone on which he stood, which ever after bore the ineffaceable impression as a miraculous testimony to his veracity. This story must have been an afterthought to account for what we may suppose to have been a prehistoric Tanist stone. In connection with this modern legend another of a somewhat different character may be related. A good many years ago, at the lack of the British Museum, there was a piece of waste ground called Southampton Fields, noted as a resort for low characters. There was a tradition connected with it that two brothers in the Monmouth rebellion took opposite sides and engaged each other in fight. Both were killed, and forty impressions of their feet were traceable in the field for years afterward. The field has long been built over, and the precise locality cannot now be pointed out. But Southey went to see the curious sight, and has given a graphic description of it in the second series of his "Commonplace Book." The impressions were about three inches deep in the hard soil; no grass ever grew in the terrible hollows, and no cultivation of the soil could obliterate them, for when the ground was plowed they persisted in reappearing. Southey mentions that he saw no reason to doubt the truth of the story, since it has been confirmed by these tokens for more than a hundred years successively. It is probably a fact with a circumstance—the circumstance, to say the least, extremely doubtful. Upon the legend, which was known far and wide, Jane and Anna Maria Porter based one of their popular romances, called "The Field of the Forty Foot Steps," and the Messrs. Mayhew took the same subject for a melodrama.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Lack of Confidence.

Col. Yerger was dancing his little son on his knee, when the boy, looking up into his father's face, said: "Pa, do you know what I want next Christmas?" "No, my son, I don't know what you want next Christmas?" "Well, I'll tell you, pa, but you mustn't let it go any further; I want another mamma." "Why, Tommy, why do you want another mamma?" "Why, you see, this one never leaves the key in the pantry door, and if I have a new one perhaps she would have confidence in me."—Texas Sift.

Neighborly Advice.

le—What do you suppose ter with Mrs. Winkler's

How should I know?

er said it had a ach come from the ave who ted

mes- fe into

ly. I k

J. D. LEIGHTY,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions

GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBER GOODS, HATS, CAPS, ETC.

A FULL LINE OF

Plug, Smoking and Fine Cut Tobaccos Canned Fruits, Prunes, Raisins Currants, Etc., Etc.

St. Joe, - - Indiana

M. T. BISHOP.

—DEALER IN—

LUMBER.

LATH. SHINGLES, PINE AND POPULAR LUMBER, LIME, PLASTER, MOULDINGS, ETC., ETC.

I HAVE AN IMMENSE STOCK AND SOLICIT YOUR PATRONAGE

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

YARD NEAR DEPOT, - ST. JOE, IND.

S. & F. BARNEY,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

CLOTHING, GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, GROCERIES. GENERAL STOCK OF HARDWARE, STOVES AND TRIMMINGS,

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

Produce, Grain, Seeds, and Wool.

CASE & OLDS,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions

GROCERIES, CLOTHING, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, QUEL WARE, CLASSWARE, ET

ST. JOE, INDIANA

EXAMINE THE BARGAINS ON C

5 and 10c Cou

Important.
When you visit or leave New York City, save baggage, expressage, and $3 carriage hire, and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot.

613 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best horse cars, stages, and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

Evidence Enough.

A New York broker, who left the street three or four years ago, one day received a call from a man up the river, who announced that old Blank was dead.

"Old Blank. Yes, I remember; so he is dead?"

"Yes, and his heirs are trying to break the will."

"They are?"

"Yes, and they are going to prove he was crazy. They want you as a witness."

"Want me? Why, I know nothing of the old man, except that I once invested $10,000 for him."

"Well, that's all they expect to prove by you."

"What, eh?"

"Why, if you'll come into court and swear that the old man let you have $10,000 to invest for him the case is made out. When can you come?"

He never went.—Wall Street News.

The Toronto Globe estimates that the Province of Ontario has lost 100,000 of its population by emigration during the last four years, and that 70,000 of the number went to the United States.

Wretched.

Are those whom a confirmed tendency to biliousness, subject to the various and changeable symptoms indicative of liver complaint: nausea, sick headache, constipation, furred tongue, an unpleasant breath, a dull or sharp pain in the neighborhood of the affected organ, impurity of the blood and loss of appetite, signalize it as one of the most distressing, as it is one of the most common, of maladies. There is, however, a benign specific for the disease and all its unpleasant manifestations. It is the concurrent testimony of the public and the medical profession that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which achieves results speedily felt, thorough, and benign. Besides rectifying liver disorder, it invigorates the feeble, conquers kidney and bladder complaints, and hastens the convalescence of those recovering from enfeebling diseases. Moreover, it is the grand specific for fever and ague.

The National Carpet House.

I went to the carpet room where all the carpets for the offices connected with the Treasury all over the country are made. When a customs office in Cleveland, for instance, wants a carpet its official sends on to the treasury of the United States a diagram of the room. The United States in this room makes the carpet, cuts it, sews it and sends it to them. It used to be that the various officials bought their own stationery, carpets—everything—and charged the Government ad libitum. This is all changed now. The Government buys all these things by contract and furnishes them itself. The carpet room is like a large city council room, walled with rolls of Brussels carpet piled upon each other.—Washington Cor. Cleveland Leader.

Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" perfectly and permanently cures those diseases peculiar to female. It is tonic and nerve, effectually allaying and curing those sickening sensations that affect the stomach and heart through reflex action. The backache and "dragging-down" sensations all disappear under the strengthening effects of this great restorative. By druggists.

The proper time for the flour of the family to rise is seven o'clock.

MEN'S Peptonized Beef Tonic, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. It contains blood-making, force-generating, and life-sustaining properties; invaluable for indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous prostration, and all forms of general debility; also, in all enfeebled conditions, the work of exhaustion, nervous prostration or over-work, or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaint. Hazard & Co., proprietors, by druggists.

is found in newspapers and boarding-houses.

by Her Sex, every lady with a bright, glowing complexion follows the Iron Tonic.

aster, Porosed, 10c. Best. Quick cure, 20c. Cures all, worst cases, 50c. Quick cure, 50c. Druggists.

for the toilet, bath or unless. Nice for wash-baths. For Miners, whose employment has made them as a disinfect-

BOARDS of Health endorse Red Star Cough Cure as a speedy and sure remedy for coughs and colds. Scientists pronounce it entirely vegetable and free from opiates. Price, twenty-five cents a bottle.

It is said that a green turtle can live six weeks without food. The turtle seems to be the editor of the brute creation.

BODILY pains are instantly relieved by the use of St. Jacobs Oil. Dr. R. Butler, Master of Arts, Cambridge University, England, says, "It acts like magic."

Fortunately.

I was chatting with a bright young girl the other evening at a small German, when our attention was directed to a tall and handsome woman who had just entered the room. "Who is she?" asked my companion, and I, wishing to be poetical, answered: "A daughter of the gods." "I don't know her," my partner replied, critically examining the new-comer through her lorgnette, "the gods are not in our set."—New York World.

The leprous distillment, whose effect holds such an enmity with blood of man. That, swift as quicksilver, it courses through the natural gates and alleys of the body, and causes the skin to become "barked about, most lazar-like, with vile and loathsome crust." Such are the effects of diseased and morbid bile, the only antidote for which is to cleanse and regulate the liver—an office admirably performed by Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery."

APPLY the slipper to your child and you will have a game of base ball.

The Combination of Ingredients used in making Brown's Bronchial Troches is such as to give the best possible effect with safety. They are the best remedy in use for Coughs, Colds, and Throat Diseases.

"THOSE who use our goods are very much attached to them," is what a porous-plaster company advertises.

"Rough on Rats" clears out Rats. Mice. 15c.
"Rough on Corns" hard or soft corns. 15c.
"Rough on Toothache." Instant relief. 15c.
"Rough on Coughs," Troches, 10c. Liquid, 25c.

"Rough on Dirt" is unequalled for Dish-washing, House and Paint Cleaning, Cleaning Windows, Pails, Pans, Knives, Forks, Jewelry, Wash Basins, Bath Tubs, Sinks, Water Closets, &c. Cuts the dirt without injury or discoloration. Keep it on the wash and toilet stands.

Important to All

Who are willing to work for the reward of success. Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, will mail you, free, full particulars about work that either sex, young or old, can do, at a profit of from $5 to $25 per day and upwards, and live at home, wherever they are located. All can do the work. Capital not required. Hallett & Co. will start you. Grand success absolutely sure. Write at once and see.

TIRED OUT!

At this season nearly every one needs to use some sort of tonic. IRON enters into almost every physician's prescription for those who need building up.

BROWN'S
IRON
BITTERS
—THE BEST TONIC—
For Weakness, Lassitude, Lack of Energy, etc., it HAS NO EQUAL, and is the only iron medicine that is not injurious. It enriches the blood, invigorates the system, restores appetite, aids digestion. It does not blacken or injure the teeth, cause headache or produce constipation—other iron medicines do. Mrs. S. O. JACKSON, Jeffersonville, Ind., says: "It seemed if my whole system was out of order, and I was feeling badly. Two bottles of Brown's Iron Bitters toned up my system, and gave me renewed strength and vigor. I cheerfully recommend it."

JAY VAN VECHTEN, M. D., New London, Ohio, says: "I have prescribed Brown's Iron Bitters with most satisfactory results in cases of Debility where a tonic is needed, and I know of no preparation of iron that does better."

Genuine has above Trade Mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. Take no other. Made only by BROWN CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

BENSON'S
CAPCINE
POROUS PLASTER

Highest Awards of Medals in Europe and America.

The nearest, quickest, safest and most powerful remedy known for Rheumatism, Pleurisy, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Backache, W. aches, colds in the chest, and all aches and pains. Indorsed by 5,000 Physicians and Druggists of the highest repute. Benson's Plasters promptly relieve and cure where other plasters and gray aches, liniments and lotions, are absolutely useless. Beware of imitations under similar sounding names, such as "Capicum," "Capucin," "Capicine," as they are utterly worthless and intended to deceive. Ask for BENSON'S and TAKE NO OTHERS. All druggists. SEABURY & JOHNSON, Proprietors, New York.

PAINT YOUR P
By using COIT'S ONE-COAT BUGGY PAINT. Paint Friday. No varnishing necessary. Dries hard with enough to paint your Buggy upon receipt of One Dollar.

Young men or middle-aged ones suffering from nervous debility and kindred weaknesses should send 10 cents in stamps for illustrated book suggesting sure means of cure. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main street, Buffalo, N. Y.

A BROTH of a boy ought to be a superior individual.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

SAFE, permanent, and complete are the cures of bilious and intermittent diseases, made by Prickly Ash Bitters. Dyspepsia, general debility, habitual constipation, liver and kidney complaints are speedily eradicated from the system. It disinfects, cleanses, and eliminates all malarial. Health and vigor are obtained more rapidly and permanently by the use of this great natural antidote than by any other remedy heretofore known. As a blood purifier and tonic it brings health, renewed energy, and vitality to a worn and diseased body.

About the only chin awaiting the initiatory labor of the barber is the urchin.—Hartford Journal.

"Rough on Bile Pills." Little, but good, 10 & 25c.
"Rough on Itch" cures humors, eruptions, Tetter.
"Rough on Worms." Bare Cure. 25c.
"Rough on Pain" Plaster. Porosed 10c. Best.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is agreeable to use. It is not a liquid or a snuff. 50c.

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health. It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young. As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

FREE
Prettiest BOOK ever Printed. Thousands of Engravings. Best SEED & cheapest ever grown. Pkts 3c Cheap as dirt by oz. & lb. 100,000 pkts. new sorts divided FREE to Customers. I give away more than some firms sell. Send for my Catalogue. R. H. SHUMWAY, Rockford, Ill.

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for

TANSILL'S PUNCH

The "Tansill's Punch" 3c cigars are booming. Never sold so many in so short a time. Will try and give you another order this month.

P. & A. L. MILLARD, Elmhurst, N. Y.
Your "Tansill's Punch" 3c cigars in a good seller.
W. D. CRAIG, Druggist, Algonia, Ill.

Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

SOUTH DAKOTA FARMS Send 6 cents for Dakota, new illustrated pamphlet and descriptive price lists of farms near the city of Mitchell, in the corn belt of Dakota and famous James River Valley. Land $3 to $10 per acre. L. C. LEE & CO., Mitchell, Dak.

THREE HUNDRED Men and Women wanted to sell a common sense, practical article that every one wants and will pay well. Send for particulars to CARPET STRETCHER AND TACKER CO., 10 Third Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

GOGEBIC IRON MINING STOCKS bought & sold. Reliable information furnished. The Milwaukee Mining Exchange, Milwaukee, Wis. Telephone 1334.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES Sure relief for ASTHMA. Price 25c. by mail. Stowell & Co., Charlestown, Mass.

MEN WEAK from Nervous Debility, Wasting, &c., send stamp for Remedies, and cure at home. Dr. J. KENNEDY

PATENTS R. S. & A. P. Attorneys. W. Instructions to patentability FREE. 177 177

OPIUM HABIT or self-denial. Pay when cure free. DR. C. J. WEATHER

OPIUM Morphine

M PEI Ind.

MO anted

$5

J. I. Case
SAW MILL T.M. CO.
Stationary & Portable
Engines and Threshers
RACINE WISCONSIN
SEND FOR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

HAIRVILLE, N. J.,
October 13, 1880.
R. T. HAZELBINE,
Warren, Pa.

Dear Sir:
I was taken v. a very severe cold last Spring, and tried every cure we had in the store, and could get no help.

I had our village doctor prescribe for me, but kept getting worse. I saw another physician from Port Jervis, N. Y., and he told me he used Piso's Cure for Consumption in his practice.

I bought a bottle, and before I had taken all of it there was a change for the better. Then I got my employer to order a quantity of the medicine and keep it in stock. I took one more bottle, and my Cough was cured.

Respectfully,
FRANK MCKELVY.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

TER'S

LYING AS A HABIT.

The Career of Ananias, and How It Is Regarded.
(London Saturday Review.)

In Europe lying is considered on the whole objectionable, and not to be practiced by any except politicians, travelers, and the newspaper people. Skilled witnesses, of course, do not belong to any continent or climate. In the United States, on the contrary, lying is considered a great set-off to conversation; without it no one can aspire to be considered better than a mere fossil; it is the hunting-ground of the humorist, and the journalist occasionally makes a great hit by telling a plain, unvarnished tale. In Asia none but a rude, uneducated boor would ever think of telling the truth. Lying is a sign of culture and polite breeding. In Africa the natives are not yet sufficiently civilized to have any definite notions on the subject. They are on the lowest possible level. They lie or not, accordingly as they think it is to their advantage or the reverse. Rum and religion, Bibles and bayonets, have yet to do a great work before the poor African can rise to the dignity of forming a definite policy on the matter. The Australians lean to the American side. In Europe Ananias is branded as a bad man; in America he is a funny man; in Asia, where he is known, he would be canonized as the polished man; while in Africa he is no better nor worse than any man—he is the mere average mortal; he drifts with the tide of events, and is not worth making an occasional fetish of. On the whole, the career of Ananias must be considered a failure. Where he is known he is not respected, and where he might be respected he is not known. In Sunday-schools and in the pages of tracts he points a moral, but the position is inadequate to the desires of a true ambition, or the requirements of a discriminating philosophy. To sporting journals and to the entire American press he is invaluable, but this is unfeeling, thankless ground. He merely represents a record which no one is desirous to break. Not a man of those who cite him regards him with gratitude, not to speak of honest esteem. If Ananias had his rights he would occupy an important place among the Hindoo's 1,000,000 gods. In China he would figure prominently among Confucian worthies. He ought, certainly, to be considered the particular deceased ancestor of the Chinese and Indo-Chinese races. In cold countries lying is charitably supposed to be the result of superabundance of imagination, of a misdirected energy of exaggeration, or of a careful and judicious spirit of economy, as in the case of the gentleman who had far too much regard for the truth to be using it on every paltry occasion.

In the East, however, whatever other exuberance there may be it is not that of imagination, and economy is far from being a leading characteristic. The profusion is, nevertheless, certainly not the truth. That commodity is economized down to the vanishing point. The Eastern statesman or diplomatist considers it beneath him, whether from a professional or an æsthetic point of view. Any man can tell the truth. As an assertion of his superiority to the supposed average man it is therefore imperative that he should tell lies. It is only when an oriental leader has reached the level of absolute genius that ventures to state things as they really are. It is then extremely good policy, one believes him, and he attains it much more easily and rapidly possibly could by an elaborate misstatement. This measure opening for loud demonstrations of woe which are likely to be effectual, and at any rate would not be justified by any other plea for leave of absence. But it is far more often the desire to please that leads to lying among the lower classes in the East, more especially in India. The anxiety of the native to avoid in any way annoying any one often leads him to the most reckless statements. You are fagged after a long day's shooting. You ask him how far it is to the nearest railway station or to the village where your tents are. He will answer with the utmost alacrity and sympathy that it is bahul nazdik, quite close, and indicates the shortest way. When you have walked four or five miles, and have not arrived, you begin to realize the beauty of exactitude. You rail at the mild Hindoo, and think that missionary labor is not so successful as it ought to be. The fictions of the dak bungalow butler are too familiar to need more than an illusion. The "everything have got" which fills your appetite after a long stage fades away through visions of beef and mutton to the inevitable murghee. Still, the butler rejoices in the fact that he has pleased you with anticipations and kept up your hopes to the last moment. He is as invariable with his "everything have got" as the household servant is with the death of his mother.

Accidental Playthings.

The very word toy implies something that is intended to amuse. Very many of the most elaborate and costly toys only do this for a short time, as long as they are new, while some article that by accident the child has become possessed of is a daily source of pleasure.

As I write my little girl of 2 sits on the floor with a button-hook in her hand trying to button and unbutton her little boots. She is not playing, rather she is working; but she is interested in what she is doing, her attention is concentrated upon it and she is happy. We do not give her the hammer and looking-glass, but some equally queer articles. We let her have a Dover egg-beater.

"Suppose she should break it?" What if she does? It costs much less than ordinary toys, and serves her vastly better. When she had learned to put the end of it in a little dish and turn the wheel—"just as mamma does" she was happy, and her pleasure in her new plaything lasted for weeks. She would not hurt herself seriously with it, and finding that there was one way in which it acted and made a noise she did not throw it about and use it as a hammer, but used it properly, came to have a high regard, and I have no doubt a deep respect, for it. Another plaything is a clean lamp burner with a long piece of wick knotted at the end so that it cannot fall out, or with the ends sewed together; the child can turn the thumbscrew and make the wick move, and thus find much pleasure.

Babyhood.

Benedict Arnold.

Benedict Arnold was a native of Connecticut, where he was born in Norwich, January 3, 1840. He joined the patriots soon after the Revolution broke out and was commissioned a Colonel in the service of Massachusetts. In 1775 he led a force of about 1,000 men through the northern forest with the intention of capturing Quebec. Gen. Montgomery's forces were joined by Arnold at the St. Lawrence, and the attack made but it failed. Montgomery met his death there and Arnold was seriously wounded. Arnold became a Brigadier-General. He commanded in Philadelphia in 1878, and, living extravagantly there, contracted debts. In 1779 he married the daughter of Shippen, afterward Chief Justice of the charges were made against him was sentenced by court martial. Washington was very mild.

In August, 1780, he received this important fortress and this important fortress was ordered to Sir Henry. Andre discovered and presented to a war once on and com- Virginia. he went with no died in pressed.

and return

Washington's Birthplace.

There is scarce a sign now of the house in which Washington was born, on the lower Rappahannock; nor any more of the other house where he passed his boyhood, over against Fredericksburg, and in landscape which must have been known to our soldiers who fought at Chancellorsville. Both these houses were of the old Virginia stamp—big, roomy piles of lumber, with long, sloping pent roof in the rear, and two huge chimneys slapped against the exterior walls at either end. It was at the home in Stafford County must have occurred—if it ever occurred—that episode of the cherry tree; and it was there, too, happened (after his father's death) that other better authenticated incident of the boy's subjugation of a young thoroughbred colt which nobody could master; and yet this intrepid lad, known as George Washington, and known for many athletic feats even as a boy, did master the brute, and so enraged him by the mastery that the poor animal in a frenzy of protesting plunges, died under the very seat of the boy master. This martyr to young Washington's iron resolve was a great pet of his mother's, under whose special guidance the fatherless lad had now come; and there may have been a bone to pick between them regarding the colt; but never, then or thereafter, any real breach in their mutual regard or love.

From his mother, who was a model country-woman and house-wife for that day—and for all days—Washington derived, doubtless in a large degree, his strong rural tastes, his system, his aptitude for order, and that inexorable method, which, if he had been a lesser man, would have made a terrible martinet of him. The mother was full of it; and I cannot but think that Sharples, in his charming picture (the only authentic painting we have of her), has refined away somewhat of her august severities and serenities of character. She was always queen there, in that Staffordshire home—with son, with bailiff, with dependents all. If things went wrong, she came to quick knowledge of the why. Throughout her long widowhood she clung to all the simplicities, severities, homeliness, and out-of-door avocations of country life as if they had been royal inheritances. And are they not? When, in her later days, Lafayette came to see her and pay obedience to the mother of his great friend, he found her in sun-bonnet working in her garden; and she was not caught at disadvantage by this chance, but wore, with an unshrinking and royal modesty, these tokens of her out-of-door reign.

When Washington, in a spirit of adventure, would have gone seafaring in the British navy—wiled thereto by the preference of an elder half brother—the mother put her quick veto upon it; but she never vetoed his huntings, his dare-devil rides, his wrestling, his fencing, his leaping bouts; so he grew up sinewy, firm, and daring, and with elements of manly leadership marked all over him.—Donald G. Mitchell, in American Agriculturist.

Animals Love Lavender.

A short cut to the heart of any of the large felidae is to be found in lavender water, a fact which I discovered by accident. The late Mrs. Lee, whose leopard "Sal" was an interesting inmate of her household, trained the animal almost wholly by taking advantage of its love for this perfume. So, wanting to be on good terms with the leopard "Old Man," I took some lavender water with me. Before giving it to the leopard, I thought that I would try the effect on "Bessy," a fine tigress, who has for some time been very gracious in her conduct toward me. I poured a few drops of the perfume on a small piece of brown paper, and held it to her. She first gave a prolonged sniff, and then scraped the paper out of my hand, and laid it on the floor of the cage. First, she sniffed at it repeatedly, raising her nose high in the air after every sniff. Then she tore it into little pieces, which she strewed over the floor. Then she rolled over and over on the perfumed fragments, giving a series of muffled yelps of delight, and then began leaping all over the cage, springing up until her head struck against the roof, turning over in the air, and coming down on the boarded floor with a mighty thump, as might be expected from an animal weighing more than three hundred pounds.

Next, I tried the effect on the leopard "Old Man" who occupied the next cage, and found that he was even more powerfully affected than the tigress, sloshing over the perfume until the floor of the cage was quite wet, and rolling over and over, exactly as his neighbor had done. Meantime "Empress," who occupied a cage on the opposite of the building, had scented the lavender water from a distance, and was loudly expressing her opinion that she had been shamefully neglected. So I gave her a liberal dose of the perfume, and she, being only a young thing, and unaccustomed to self-control, straightway proceeded to go mad over it.—The Rev. J. G. Wood, in "Little Snow Flakes."

Some Uses of Gloves.

The reign of Elizabeth may fairly be considered the turning point in the history of gloves. Through long years, and keeping line with the growth of refinement and courtesy, the glove had been invested first with one association and then another, given part and lot in this custom and that, until it had come to hold a very prominent place in the economy of life. Both at weddings and funerals gloves were offered as gifts so commonly as to be made a recognized feature of the social ceremonial proper to those occasions. Either for peace and in favor, or defiant and in deadly anger, it has come to be as binding upon ordinary transactions as a written deed, and as evident of purpose as if the presence of its owner had enforced its evident intent. Particularly as a token of love, as though it gave in pledge the hand and regard of a fair lady, or as a cartel of war, threatening so much of the vengeful punishment as the hand it had covered could inflict, did the glove play its part in times when both these sentiments were especially cherished and avowed. It was made the regis of trade, insuring to chapmen and chaffering purchasers of the wares they offered peace and protection; and in agreements of greater moment the glove was made witness of a promise given and the pledge of its fulfillment. The donation of land to a church, and sometimes even the offer of bodily service, was made good by the placing of a glove upon the altar; and in the transfer of land—or, in occasional instances, of kingdoms—a glove was made a veritable lease by virtue of which possession was taken and held. As securing safe passage, like a passport; as an offer of amity, like as though a friendly shake of the hand was proffered, even as a bribe when it was often "lined" with good gold pieces, to tempt men from their allegiance, or induce them to view a suit favorably, the glove had many a momentous messages to convey, many an important negotiation to open or to bind.—Magazine of Art.

Lincoln as Postmaster.

In the spring of this year, 1833, he was appointed Postmaster of New Salem, and held the office for three years. Its emoluments were slender and its duties light, but there was in all probability no citizen of the village who could have made so much of it as he. The mails were so scanty that he was said to carry them in his hat, and he is also reported to have read every newspaper that arrived; it is altogether likely that this formed the leading inducement to his taking the office. His incumbency lasted until New Salem ceased to be populous enough for a post-station and the mail went by to Petersburg. Dr. Holland relates a sequel to this official experience which illustrates the quaint honesty of the man. Several years later, when he was a practicing lawyer, an agent of the Postoffice Department called upon him, and asked for a balance due from the New Salem office, some $17. Lincoln arose, and opening a little trunk which lay in a corner of the room, took from it a cotton rag in which was tied up the exact sum that was required. "I never use any man's money but my own," he quietly remarked. When we consider the pinching poverty in which these years had been passed, we may appreciate the self-denial which kept him from making even a temporary use of this little sum of Government money.—Nicolay and Hay, Century.

There is much talk of the jealousy of the dramatic profession, but ever a real trouble overtakes at there are always plenty ready to his part.

DURING the eleventh century notes were invented, windmills first used, and clocks with wheels introduced.

Business Notices.

H. W. BOWMAN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Office opposite the Drugstore.

ST. JOE HOTEL, Wm. Leighty, proprietor. Special attention given to furnishing teams for commercial men.

B. S. SHEFFER, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to his care.

ST. JOE BARBER SHOP, one door west of hotel, Will Gee, proprietor. Satisfaction guaranteed. Your patronage is solicited.

FILLEY, LOUNSBERRY AND SHULER, proprietors of the St. Joe Saw and Planing Mill. All work promptly done. Cash paid for Oak Logs.

CITY BARBER SHOP, St. Joe, Ind., John Hull, proprietor. Shaving, Hair Cutting &c. done in the best of style. Come and see me. Two doors west of Kinsey's Furniture Store.

SIMON WINELAND, proprietor St. Joe Handle, Shingle and Feed Mills. Feed grinding a speciality. Highest prices paid for second growth White Ash. Enquire at the mill for full particulars.

STAR WIND PUMP, E. A. Wanemaker, agent, Newville, Ind. Farmers who think of buying a mill should give me a call before doing so. The Star Mill is the best and prices the lowest.

LOCALS.

Neils Thomas is working on the B. & O.

O. H. Widney is going into the "chennery" business.

Miss Callie Ettinger of Waterloo, is visiting friends in town.

Miss Prudie Lounsberry returned home from Bristol, last Tuesday.

Get your horse bills printed at this office. Best of work at the lowest price.

Mrs. W. C. Patterson and daughter Bessie, visited friends at Butler, this week.

Ed Bishop of Conroy, Ohio, called to see us Tuesday. Of course he takes the News.

Sell Bowen was around shaking hands with his many friends in this place this week. Sell is as fat as ever.

Henry Coburn, one of the substantial men of Newville, made us a friendly call Wednesday.

The meetings at the Methodist church this week have been well attended, and several have united with the church.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Mrs. M. E. Olds, on Thursday afternoon, March 10, 1887, at three o'clock. All are welcome.

The passenger train due here at 1:10 met with an accident near Idin, Ohio, last Wednesday. The fire rod on the engine broke and jerked off the top of the cab. Engineer Bramble was killed, and the man was badly scalded, but none of the passengers were hurt.

A. E. Wanemaker, agent for the Star Wind Pump, was in town Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Gelhausen of Garrett, were in town over last Sunday.

A blind man and a deaf and dumb man were canvassing the town for aid this week.

We understand that Henry Baker is doing a good business at Concord. We're glad to hear it.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson of Hicksville, visited in town the fore part of this week, the guests of their son, W. C.

Sherwood, a town on the B. & O. a few miles east of here, is to have another railroad, running north and south.

The latest popular song is entitled "The Tom-cat Must not Yowl Tonight." They do yowl, all the same, though.

"How can I get rid of fleas on my cat?" asks a subscriber. Soak the cat in four feet of water until the fleas rise to the surface. Then bury the cat.

There is a bill before the present legislature to prohibit the sale of tobacco to persons over 21 years of age. Let her pass.

Misses Mattie White, Addie Widney, Emma Curie and Nina Filley of this place, attended the examination at Auburn last Saturday.

It will be a pretty good idea for you to sleep with your smoked meat under your pillow these nights, if you don't want to have it stolen.

Frank Herrick has engaged with the Fleming Co. of Fort Wayne, to sell their road scrapers the coming season. Frank makes a good agent.

The subject of gravel roads is being agitated again. When the roads are bad, it is impossible to gravel them, and when they are good, they don't need it. And thus the matter stands.

Dan Culler, a prosperous farmer of Newville township, called to see us Saturday, and subscribed for the News. He said he was taking all the papers he could afford to, but he couldn't get along without the St. Joe News.

Some one asked us the other day when a chicken became of age. The surest way to find out is to go to a butcher shop and inquire for a spring chicken, and you generally will get one that is old enough to vote.

While at Auburn, one day last week we met J. C. Henry, and he invited us to go over and take a look through the Ureka Opera House. J. C. is one of Auburn's most enterprising men, and the opera house is one among the leading advantages of the city called the hub.

The fourth annual convention of the 24th district Indiana Sunday School Union, will be held in the Baptist church, Auburn, Ind., Wednesday and Thursday, March 9th and 10th, 1887. An interesting programme has been prepared, and a cordial invitation is extended for all to attend.

The Garrett Clipper says that a saloon is a benefit to the trade of every community, and that shrew business men never petition against it. It may be that business men, who's only aim in life is the accumulation of wealth, think that the success of a town as a trading point, depends upon the number and quality of it's saloons; but, the great majority of people, who are interested in the good of society, believe that they could be dispensed with entirely. Of course we cannot all see alike, and yet, when you come to pin people right to the point, they almost all admit that a saloon is detrimental to the best interests of any town or community.

For All work and goods guaranteed to give satisfaction. Give me a call.

MAIN STREET, ST. JOE, IND.

Cutlery, Nails, Paints, Woodenware &c.

GUTTERING, HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS.

ROOFING AND SPOUTING

DEALER IN

J. H. CONRAD,

RAVEN'S Horse, Cattle, Hog AND POULTRY FOOD

The object of this Food is to put Live Stock and Poultry of all kinds in a thriving, healthy condition, and to prevent and cure all Diseases of the Blood, and the Digestive Organs.

For breeding sows and raising young pigs it has no rival, hogs will fatten in half the usual time. It surely prevents Hog Cholera and cures it when taken in good time.

It will keep Poultry free from disease, and in a healthy thriving condition, also increases the production of eggs from 15 to 20 per cent. It also cures Chicken Cholera, Raup &c.

For Sale at Drugstore ST. JOE, IND.

INSURE WITH THE AGENT OF THE Agricultural Fire Insurance Co.

Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Brushes,

OILS, SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY &c.

ST. JOE, IND.

DEALER IN

W. C. PATTERSON,

The editor wanted me to rite a short artikel th coraspondents, an giv them a littel informashun in re gard tu the propr wa tu rite tu nnes papars. Furstley: Ben shure tu rite on both sides ov the papar, and it yu kant git it awl on, rite cros-ways ov the papar; if the editor kant recit it the devil kan; the devil kan du ana thing. Sekondley: Awl ways beg your coraspondence with an ite regard tu the stait ov the wh an the condidshun ov the rool the tyme yu rite. Dont furgit It iz a mattar ov nnes that iz ov va impotence tu evera reader ov a coun tri nnespapar. An, in order tu hav it appear nice in a papar, and if pos abel tu maik it moor emphatick, send it sumthing like this:

Mud.

Moore mud.

Still moor mud.

In kase ther iz koo mud, an it iz raneing, why use the wurd rane in the saim wa; or if it bea snoing or windy, use it in the saim manna; we afour menshuned. Now dont jist du this one or too weeks an then stop, but keap it up the year round. Its jist wat most pueple like tu feed besides it keaps them posted on the wheather ov the differant lokalities, even if it iz a weak or ten days old. Thirdley: Dont pa much attenshun tu sending in your coraspondence ti the papar has gone tu pres; or publishars ar jist tu glad ov the cl tu unlock ther forms an maik fur countri coraspondence, az them the veri latest nnes. Fo rules clesly on yu wil bea a su Bareus Q. Hippen

THE ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. I.

ST. JOE, IND., FRIDAY, MARCH 11, 1887.

NO. 7.

THE NEWS.

Intelligence by Wire from All the World

FOREIGN.

—Bookmaking will hereafter be prohibited on the Paris race-courses.

—France is entering upon an extensive colonization scheme in the New Hebrides.

—The British Parliament has been asked to grant another quarter of a million pounds for naval expenses.

—A small-sized rebellion against the Bulgarian Regency is reported. The Pope is said to favor the Regency.

—Afghanistan's Ameer is raising a forced loan to the amount of 10 per cent. of the value of his subjects' property.

—By the aid of electric lights, a steamer passed through the Suez Canal in fifteen hours.

—All the Afghan boys between 10 and 18 years are receiving a military training. The Ameer has told his subjects to prepare for a holy war.

—The revolt of the Bulgarian troops at Silistria has been suppressed and a mutinous Colonel killed. There have been other outbreaks, however. Rustchuk is said to be the center of the revolutionary movement.

—The new German Reichstag was opened on the 3d inst. The Emperor, in his speech from the throne, declared that the foreign policy of the empire is continually directed to the maintenance of peace with all the powers, and especially with Germany's neighbors.

—Rev. P. M. Donohue, of Arcola, Ill., has been appointed by General Boulanger a Lieutenant in the French army, for services rendered.

—A London court imposed a sentence of five years' penal servitude upon an alleged American Judge named George F. Anderson, who swindled a Pennsylvanian in prosecuting a suit for the recovery of a large estate in England.

—The Austrian war office has been making contracts for hay at twice the price paid by private purchasers.

—Prof. Faib, an Austrian meteorologist, thinks there is no further danger from earthquakes in the Riviera.

PERSONAL.

—Edward Kuehn, who died recently in Omaha, left a will directing that his body be cremated and the ashes be placed in an urn over the bar of a popular saloon.

—Michael Purcell, aged 60, a street laborer at Louisville, has fallen heir to real estate in New York worth $115,000.

—J. H. Lester, 117 years of age, called upon the Governor of Georgia the other day, to regain possession of property in Henry County, of which he became dispossessed during Gen. Sherman's march to the sea.

—Married at Buffalo, N. Y., Margaret Mather, the well-known actress, to Emil Haberkorn, an orchestra leader.

—Mrs. Annie B. Faunce, said to have been a distant relation to Queen Victoria, died at Wabash, Ind., aged over 80.

—In the divorce case brought at New York against the son of Commodore Kittson, the jury finds that he was incapable of making a marriage contract, through intoxication, and that the woman was of bad character.

—George M. Pullman, of palace car fame, has been knighted by King Humbert of Italy.

—Mother Angela (Miss Elvia Gillespie), Mother Superior of the Order of the Sisters of the Holy Cross, died suddenly at St. Mary's Academy, South Bend, Ind., which she founded in 1850. She was a cousin of James G. Blaine and of Mrs. General Sherman.

—James A. Seddon has been appointed Judge of the Circuit Court at St. Louis, in place of Judge Thayer, who was made Judge Trent's successor in the United States District Court. Seddon is a son of the late Judge Seddon, of Virginia, and the law partner of James L. Blair, son of Gen. Frank P. Blair.

—Ex-Congressman Breitung, of Michigan, died at Eastman, Ga., of pneumonia.

POLITICAL.

—An ordinary election in New York City requires an expenditure of $291,000, and a Presidential campaign takes $100,000 more.

—The Legislature of New Jersey elected Rufus Blodgett, Democrat, United States Senator. On the final ballot Leon Abbott had 38 votes.

—Senator Sherman will take an extended Southern tour in the interests of his Presidential candidacy.

—A petition from business men and merchants, representing $40,000,000 capital, was presented to the Rhode Island Legislature, asking for a repeal of the prohibitory law.

—The Minnesota House has passed an iron-clad bill to provide for the enforcement of the $1,000 high license law. The St. Paul Council had previously adopted an ordinance fixing saloon licenses at $500 for two and one-half years.

—Gen. J. J. Finley has been appointed by the Governor of Florida United States Senator to succeed the Hon. Charles W. Jones, whose term expired March 4. Gen. Finley is a lawyer, who served with distinction in the Confederate army. He has been a member of the Supreme Court of Florida, and three times a candidate for Congress. He was elected once and defeated twice by Col. Bisbee (Rep.).

—The lower house of the Indiana Legislature adopted a memorial to the United States Senate against the seating of David Turpie as a Senator from Indiana. The memorial reviews the proceedings by which Turpie was elected, charging particularly that three persons voted for him who had no right to do so. The Democrats vigorously protested against the adoption of the memorial, and one member in a bitter speech alluded to the Republicans as "the fifty-six cowards on the other side," to which a Republican Representative responded "You are a liar."

—Judge Fontaine J. Fox, a prominent lawyer of Louisville, was nominated for Governor by the Kentucky Prohibition Convention. A ticket embracing all of the State officers was placed in nomination. Fifty counties were represented at the convention.

FINANCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

—The following is a recapitulation of the debt statement issued on the 1st inst:

INTEREST-BEARING DEBT.
Bonds at 4 per cent.	250,000,000
Bonds at 4 per cent.	737,780,100
Bonds at 3 per cent.	53,634,200
Refunding certificates at 4 per cent.	184,350
Navy pension fund at 3 per cent.	11,000,000
Pacific railroad bonds at 6 per cent.	64,693,512
Principal	$1,119,251,162
Interest	10,893,946
Total	$1,129,943,743
DEBT ON WHICH INTEREST HAS CEASED SINCE MATURITY.
Principal	$ 6,340,445
Interest	200,365
Total	$ 6,540,810
DEBT BEARING NO INTEREST.
Old demand and legal-tender notes	$ 346,738,341
Certificates of deposit	8,180,000
Gold certificates	99,958,365
Silver certificates	191,130,755
Fractional currency (less $9,375,931 estimated as lost or destroyed)	6,950,561
Principal	$ 582,958,024
Interest	$1,708,740,011
Total	$1,129,943,743
Less cash items available for reduction of the debt	$39,452,976
Less reserve held for redemption of United States notes	100,000,000
Total	$69,452,976
Total debt, less available cash items	$1,350,161,011
Net cash in the Treasury	19,148,975
Debt, less cash in Treasury, March 1, 1887	$1,331,032,036
Debt, less cash in Treasury, Feb. 1, 1887	1,392,468,808
Decrease of debt during the month	$ 1,436,782
Decrease of debt since June 30, 1886	58,104,357
CASH IN THE TREASURY AVAILABLE FOR REDUCTION OF PUBLIC DEBT.
Gold held for gold certificates actually outstanding	99,958,365
Silver held for silver certificates actually outstanding	121,130,755
United States notes held for certificates of deposit actually outstanding	8,180,000
Cash held for matured debt and interest unpaid	17,424,792
Cash held for bonds called not matured and balance of interest	22,753,540
Fractional currency	3,515
Total available	$369,452,976
Reserve fund held for redemption of United States notes, acts Jan. 14, 1875, and July 12, 1882	$ 100,000,000

Unavailable for reduction of the debt.
Fractional silver coin	26,423,177
Minor coin	11,034
Total	$ 26,434,211
Certificates held as cash	29,972,557
Net cash balance on hand	19,148,975

Total cash in the Treasury as shown by Treasurer's general account $ 445,470,292

—At a very large meeting of the Western Iron Association at Pittsburgh the card rate was reaffirmed.

—The plasterers of Pittsburgh and Allegheny have severed their connection with the Knights of Labor and joined the Protective Plasterers' National Union. This affair has caused excitement in labor circles.

—Bradstreet's, in a review of the strikes of the first two months of the year, says: In January, 1887, there have been reported ninety-two strikes and lockouts, involving over 75,000 employes, as compared with nineteen strikes and 47,300 employes during January, 1886. Of the former, eighty-eight strikes, involving 63,900 employes, were concluded by Feb. 28; while four strikes, including 10,000 men, were still open. Of the 10,000 about 5,000 are New England boot and shoe factory hands, locked out as a protest against Knights of Labor dictation as to shop management. The number of shoe operatives locked out or on strike Feb. 1, 1887, was, approximately, 8,400; on March 1, 1887, 5,300. The number out in various small strikes is about 900, as against 400 Feb. 1. The total number of successful strikes of the January list, including compromises as successes, was 31 (out of 88 ended by March 1), involving 18,175 employes. As January strikes of 63,900 employes are ended, this shows that about 30 per cent. of the employes have thus far been successful. The prospect, however, is for a smaller percentage of successes after the termination of the boot and shoe lockout. The totals of failures are 57 strikes and 45,127 employes—about 70 per cent. In January, 1886, 9 strikes, with 24,900 strikers, were successful—nearly one-half—while 10 strikes, with 23,900 strikers, were failures. In February, 1887, there were 74 strikes and 26,000 strikers, as compared with but 5 strikes and 10,700 strikers in February, 1886. By the close of the month 57 strikes, involving 20,000 strikers, had ended, and 23 strikes, with 4,000 strikers, remained unsettled. Of the 51 strikes with 20,000 strikers ended, 12 strikes and 5,350 strikers had been successful—a little over 20 per cent.; while 39 strikes, with 14,650 strikers—nearly 80 per cent.—had been failures. In February, 1886, all the strikes were failures.

GENERAL.

—A land company organized at Kansas City has purchased the Arkansas' and Maxwell grants, comprising 79,000,000 acres.

—The brief in the Chicago anarchist case filed in the Illinois Supreme Court at Ottawa, by counsel for the condemned, is a printed volume of 426 pages. Leonard Swett had previously filed a document of ninety-six pages.

—The American Trotting Association was organized at Detroit by representatives from fourteen States. William R. Merriam, of St. Paul, was chosen President.

—The British Government refuses to permit the taking effect of the act recently passed by the Legislature of Newfoundland in relation to the fisheries, owing to the protest by France. A Halifax special represents that the people would vote for annexation to the United States by a three-fourths majority. The dispatch further says:

The publication of the address of the Newfoundland Legislature to the Imperial Government has produced a sensation. If it is not a declaration of independence, it is the next thing to it. The Newfoundlanders tell the Imperial Government that they own their fisheries, and they do not propose to pay the slightest heed to French or American interests, or to brook any interference from the Imperial Government. The situation is so serious that both Premier Thorburn and Sir Alabrose Shea, leader of the opposition, have left the Legislature to take care of itself and gone to London to represent the dangerous character of the prevailing feeling in Newfoundland. Meanwhile the press and the people are universally discussing the benefits of annexation to the United States. Anything would be better than the present state of affairs, and if annexation were submitted to a popular vote it would be carried by a three-fourths majority.

—The river and harbor bill passed by Congress appropriates $50,000 for surveys and estimates for a waterway from Lake Michigan to Joliet and thence to La Salle, which, with the improvement of the Illinois River, would permit the passage of large vessels from the lakes to the Mississippi.

—A Mexican Lieutenant and four soldiers crossed the boundary at Nogales, A. T., and at the point of revolvers demanded the release of an alleged Mexican prisoner. The American officers captured the Lieutenant, but reinforcements from the other side effected his release after several shots had been fired. A Mexican is reported to have been fatally wounded. Requests for territorial and national troops have been sent out, and diplomats have taken the affair in hand.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

—Out of twenty-five cities reported by telegraph to Bradstreet's, Chicago and Kansas City alone announce special gains in the volume of staples distributed during the week.

—The Directors of the Bee Line road elected James D. Laying President.

—Articles of incorporation are about to be filed in Michigan for a company to build a railway from Alpena to Petoskey, connecting Grand Traverse and Thunder Bays.

—John M. Palmer and others have incorporated at Springfield the Peoria and St. Louis Air-Line Railway Company, with a capital of $1,000,000.

—The railroad lines west of Pittsburgh leased by the Pennsylvania Company showed a net profit for the past year of $205,787, as against a loss of $1,092,973 in 1885.

CASUALTIES.

—Fire destroyed the wholesale hardware store of William Stom at Alton, Ill., valued at $40,000; the Keystone Rink at Wilkesbarre, Pa., and fifteen buildings at South Boston, Va., the loss at that place being $150,000.

—Mobile dispatches give some details of the burning of the steamer Gardner, on the Tombigbee River, by which twenty human lives were sacrificed:

The fire was discovered in a bale of cotton by Capt. Stone. A negro deck hand, in throwing water on the burning bale, set his clothes afire. Panic stricken he ran from place to place setting fire to cotton bales, and in a few moments the boat was in flames. She was in midstream and in motion. The pilots were driven from the wheel and the crew and passengers jumped overboard. It is not thought that more than one or two were burned. Capt. Stone saved himself by swimming ashore. The steamer Tally was behind the Gardner waiting to pass. As soon as the flames broke out the Tally lowered her boats and threw over bales, seed sacks, and planks to help the people who were jumping from the Gardner. The heat was so intense that the Tally did not dare to go near, but her boats picked up a number of people. When the fire broke out the Gardner was ordered to be run ashore. She backed, and bells were rung for going ahead, but the engines were driven from their post by the flames, and the boat drifted into the woods on the opposite side from the place where there was a practicable landing. Pilot W. H. Wilson remained in the pilot house until he found that his signals were not obeyed and that the flames were licking the side of the pilot house, when he fled for his life. He is much praised for his heroism. The cabin-boy of the Tally, named Barber, colored, performed heroic deeds, saving five lives by swimming ashore with those in the water. The screams of those on the boat were heartrending. Mrs. W. T. Rembert threw one child into the water, her husband taking the other two. Then she jumped in. All but her husband were lost.

—Four or five buildings at Cherokee, Iowa, were burned, causing a loss of $50,000.

—The spacious warehouse of C. A. Pillsbury & Co., at Minneapolis, containing 125,000 barrels of flour, collapsed. The damage is estimated at $50,000.

—Near Lima, Ohio, two children of B. Dietz, aged 7 and 8, respectively, were burned to death while playing with coal oil.

—An avalanche buried a snow-plow at Selkirk, Quebec, and six men were smothered before they could be recovered.

—Two colored women were burned to death in a frame building on Eighth avenue, New York.

—Four men were fatally scalded by the explosion of a distillery boiler at Owensboro, Ky.

—The steamer Fleetwood burst her steam-pipe near Lawrenceburg, Ind. Three roustabouts were fatally scalded, and the engineer, Frank Good, was seriously injured.

—The fire losses during February aggregated $7,520,000—an increase over the average for February during the past thirteen years.

The St. Joe News.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MORT & WILL OLDS,

PUBLISHERS.

THE MOTHER-IN-LAW.

BY ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

She was my dream's fulfillment and my joy.
This lovely woman whom you call your wife.
You sported at your play, an idle boy.
When I first felt the strangeness of her life.
Within my startled being, I was thrilled
With such intensity of love, it filled
The very universe! But words are vain.
No man can comprehend that wild sweet pain.

You smiled in childhood's slumber while I felt
The agonies of labor; and the nights
I weeping, o'er the little sufferer knelt.
You, wandering on through dreamland's fair delights,
Flung out your lengthening limbs and slept and grew.

While I, awake, saved this dear wife for you.

She was my heart's loved idol, and my pride.
I taught her all those graces which you praise.
I dreamed of coming years, when at my side
She should lead luster to my fading days.
Should cling to me as she to you clings now.
The young fruit hanging to the withered bough.
But lo! the blossom was so fair a sight.
You plucked it from me—for your own delight.

Well, you are worthy of her—oh, thank God!
And yet I think you do not realize
How burning were the sands o'er which I trod
To bear and rear this woman you so prize.
It was no easy thing to see her go
Even into the arms of one she worshipped so.

How strong, how vast, how awful seems the power
Of this new love which fills a maiden's heart.
For one who never bore a single hour
Of pain for her; which tears her life apart
Of all its moorings, and controls her more
Than all the ties the years have held before.
Which crowns a stranger with a kingly grace.
And gives the one who bore her—second place.

She loves me still! and yet were death to say:
"Choose now between them!" you would be her choice.

God meant it to be so—it is His way.
But can you wonder, if while I rejoice
In her content, this thought hurts—like a knife—
"No longer necessary to her life?"

My pleasure in her joy is bitter sweet.
Your very goodness sometimes hurts my heart.
Because for her life's drama seems complete
Without the mother's oft repeated part.
Be patient with me! She was mine so long.
Who now is yours. One must indeed be strong
To meet such loss without the least regret.
And so forgive me if my eyes are wet
Brooklyn Magazine.

LUCY'S LOVE AND TRIALS.

BY CHARLES WETHERILL.

"What is the matter, Lucy?"

"Nothing, dear aunt," replied Lucy Freeling, who, from long habit, thus addressed
Mrs. Lawson, although they were but dis-tantly related. "Why do you ask?"

"I thought you had been crying," returned the other; "your eyes look very red."

"My eyes ache rather, as they often do now. That is why I have put away my work so early."

The scene I would paint was a neatly-furnished, comfortable-looking room in one of those thousand streets of London, which, without having any pretensions to consequence or consideration, are, nevertheless, thought very eligible by a large class of people either for some individual or general advantages. In one corner, as if to be out of the way of the other occupants of the room, sat a young man of about four-and-twenty working diligently at his ordinary employment, that of a watch-maker. Various implements and particles of minute mechanism, whose uses are incomprehensible to the ignorant, were before him, and the strong light of a partially-shaded lamp fell precisely on his work.

Jasper Lawson was not a common character; and perhaps his employment, which, while it required patience and a certain degree of attention, like women's needlework, afforded much opportunity for the self-instruction of thought and reflection, might have something to do in molding his disposition. He was "the only son of a widow," to whose comfort, even in the matter-of-fact respect of pounds, shillings, and pence, he largely contributed, his mother having no other dependence except a small annuity, secured to her from some benefit society, to which her husband had belonged.

Lucy Freeeling was the daughter of a distant relation, and had been left an orphan in early childhood; but the widow had so tenderly fulfilled the offices of a parent that Lucy had scarcely known her loss.

The interest of a few hundred pounds, which should have been hers when she became of age, might have sufficed to bring her up in the station to which she belonged; but for a few years Mrs. Lawson had exceeded these limits for the purpose of giving her increased advantages for education, and when she arrived at the age of 17 had paid a sum of money to place her for two years with a milliner and dressmaker.

Although she was not old enough to make a legal contract, it was perfectly understood and relied on that this advance, so judiciously made, would be refunded
when Lucy attained her majority.

Alas! before that time arrived, the trustee, in whose hands her little fortune was placed, became a bankrupt, and that from such unexpected cause, that the circumstances of Lucy's money being engulfed in the general ruin arose less from fraud than from imprudence.

But the eighty pounds debt which had been incurred was now a dreadful burden to those who had such slender means of repaying it. Nevertheless, the right-minded girl set bravely to work, determining, by the exercise of an art in which she had been so prudently instructed, to make up the sum by small degrees. The widow had also put by from her little income, and Jasper had worked hard to help out the repayment; and now the struggle was nearly over—a few more pounds were all they required.

Lucy not unfrequently worked at home, instead of at the large establishment where she was employed; for her home was cen-trically situated, and she lost very little time in going backward and forward. This had she done on the evening on which we have introduced her.

But there was another person in that neat and comfortable room, and one who was now a frequent guest. Ralph Ashton was a lawyer's clerk, and on the strength of a situation which he considered rather above that of a journeyman watch-maker, he thought in his own heart that he somewhat condescended in joining their tea and supper-table three or four nights a week. Not that such a feeling was by any means evident from his manner; on the contrary, the most casual observer might have felt pretty sure that Ralph Ashton was doing his utmost to make himself agreeable to Lucy Freeeling; and to have betrayed his own self-conceit, or certain other attributes of his nature, would have been a mistake unworthy of his cunning.
He was good-looking, so far as a coarse kind of regularity of features and a bright dark eye might constitute good looks; and he had a smattering of superficial knowledge, and a certain speciousness of manner, which were likely enough to deceive a simple-minded inexperienced girl like Lucy.

Even Jasper, his superior in every respect, but diffident to himself, endowed by nature with an almost womanly delicacy of sentiment and tenderness of feeling, had been caught by the outward seeming, and though the knowledge racked him to the heart's core, did not wonder that Lucy regarded him with interest.

Not so the widow. From the first moment of Ashton's acquaintance with her son, he had been disliked by her; although when pressed hard for her antipathy, she could seldom find any but the most trivial ones.

There had been a whispered conference between those who were all but acknowledged lovers, accompanied by downcast looks and flushed cheeks on the part of Lucy; but Ralph Ashton had left somewhat earlier than usual, having several letters to write for his employer before morning; and Lucy, pleading more than ordinary fatigue, retired to rest, leaving Jasper and his mother alone.

He had extinguished the lamp by which he worked, and only the light of a single candle remained besides that of the sinking fire, which it was too late to replenish. He was leaning upon the mantelpiece, looking down, apparently watching the flickering embers; but the expression of his countenance was sad and almost to solemnity.

"Mother," he exclaimed, after a pause, and in a voice that trembled perceptibly,
"I suppose it is all settled? The attempt is vain," he added; "I cannot hide my feelings from you." And as he spoke, he leaned his head within his hands, perhaps to conceal the tears, if they actually flowed.

"I am afraid it is," replied the widow;
"though Lucy has made no acknowledgment to me of her affection. Poor girl, she must suspect that the choice she has made is the overthrow of all my hopes for my old age."

"Don't blame her, mother; perhaps she does not know all this. Long ago I should have given myself a fair chance, and let her know that I love her better than with a brother's love, instead of weighing words and looks, and smothering every expression of my feelings, from the romantic notion that I would not ask her to marry me until I was in business for myself, and could place her in the position of a prosperous tradesman's wife. Idiot that I was, not to be sure that I should be forestalled."

"And now that you are so near the summit of your wishes!" apostrophized his mother.

"To my astonishment! The offer of Monson to take me into partnership is a most extraordinary piece of good fortune."

"He knows there are not half a dozen such workmen in London, and that a fortune is to be made by the improvements you have suggested," replied Mrs. Lawson, with pride.

"Well," sighed Jasper, "from whatever cause it is, it comes like a mockery now. I doubt if there will be an more improvements of mine. I have little heart for anything."

"I can hardly forgive her for this, Jasper;
and so much as I have always said against him—"

"There it is, mother," interrupted the young man, almost fiercely; "if she loves him in the manner that I love her, the more he is blamed the more she will cling to him. Why, I feel if she were plunged into want and misery, her beauty gone, or with evil tongues like harpies darting at her, such an hour of woe would be the one in which I would show my adoration most passionately, most madly, if you like, to call it so—she would still be herself, and it is herself that I love."

Poor Mrs. Lawson was awed and pained by her son's enthusiasm. Like many other excellent-hearted and shrewd persons, she was quite incapable of following those subtle emotions which are the most real in the world, and more than any others, influence human destinies; and yet are scoffed at by a large number of persons as "mere imagination," "romance," "nonsense," and a long list of et ceteras.

We must take the reader a little behind the curtain. Ralph Ashton was quite as much in love with Lucy Freeeling as his nature permitted him to be; but his was that common passion, a purely selfish one.
He admired beauty, and would be proud of a wife thus endowed, and with mental requirements something beyond those common to her station. But his cunning brain worked upon two ulterior objects which had nothing to do with these personal qualities. It so happened that a great deal of the business connected with the affairs of the bankrupt trustee had passed through the office in which Ashton was employed, and he knew enough of it to form an almost positive opinion that Lucy would ultimately recover her little fortune. However, he took care to keep this knowledge to himself, and wooed her apparently with the most disinterested affection, not even at present hinting of the plan which in his own mind was well-nigh matured—that of establishing his wife at the West-end of the town as a fashionable milliner, well knowing that her taste and skill, and superior manners, would be sure to raise her to an eminence that must contribute greatly to his ease and comfort. In short, he planned to himself becoming something like that very contemptible creature of deathless memory, Martalini.

A few weeks passed over, and Ralph Ashton and Lucy Freeeling were engaged to be married. In justice to the latter, we must say that she had only very lately suspected the deep feelings which her lifelong companion, Jasper Lawson, entertained for her, and the discovery made to her by his vexed and disappointed mother pained her deeply. It is true, Mrs. Lawson had sometimes hinted at her hopes for the future, in phrases sufficiently intelligible to Lucy; but, alas, Jasper concealed his affection but too well. The time had been, she knew, that he might have won her; but it was gone by, she said, and she could but regard him as a dear brother.

They were engaged, and all seemed fair before them; and Ralph even ventured to hint one day, from intelligence which he declared he had received but a few hours before, that perhaps, after all, Lucy would have her money. He did this advisedly, for he knew it was very likely that the news would reach her in a day or two from another quarter. Sorrow was coming, however, as it generally does, from a quite unexpected source. The "aching" of her eyes, of which Lucy had complained as the result of excessive application to her needle, became more distressing, and on medical advice being obtained, the most alarming symptoms were discovered. With all the horrors of threatened blindness before her, Lucy was confined for several weeks to a darkened room; and months must elapse before there was any hope that under the most favorable circumstances she could apply herself to her ordinary occupation. During this time Jasper became a junior partner in the establishment to which he had belonged, and, through his mother, his increased income contributed to the comforts and medical attendance of the poor sufferer.
How could the poor destitute orphan refuse help from him who asked to be called "her brother?" She did not refuse it—nay, she felt that she would rather be assisted by him than by her betrothed. How strange are the intricacies of human feeling!

During these months of suffering, the affairs of the bankrupt trustee had been thrown into chancery, and there was little hope now for a settlement of them for years. Poor Lucy! little could she have thought that the day would come, and that soon, in which the loss of her money, months of suffering, partial blindness, and personal disfigurement, would appear to her like so many "blessings in disguise," that had combined together to save her from a gulf of misery and ruin.

When the cure, so far as it could be effected, was complete, a white film still remained to mar the beauty and obscure the vision of one of those deep blue eyes which had seemed like stars of light and love to poor Jasper Lawson. Moreover, the oculist declared that the preservation of the other eye depended on the most careful abstain-ing from anything like straining the visual organs.

Only a few days had lapsed since this flat went forth, and but once had Ralph Ashton seen Lucy since the bandages were removed, when she received a letter from him dictated by that one virtue, which those who possess no other are ever ready to put prominently forward—prudence.
It pointed out some facts which she really must have known before, and among them the great change in their future prospects her affliction had made; hinted very intelli-gibly at the wisdom of a separation, and concluded by mentioning that unless she desired to see him, he should refrain from calling again, and signing himself "ever her sincere friend."

Lucy Freeeling was for a while stunned by the blow; but though her young and susceptible heart had been caught and led astray, it was of a nature too fine to be broken by mockery—a falsehood.

"Do not tell me not to weep," she exclaimed a few days afterwards, as she sat between Mrs. Lawson and her son, with a hand in one of each; "I know you would comfort me as a dearest mother and brother might. But do not tell me not to weep. It cannot be that man whom I have loved; and with these foolish tears there seems to pass away some dream—some folly. Better this bitter than a thousand times than to have been his wife! I feel it so; believe it,
I do indeed!"

A sharp, irrepressible cry escaped Jasper Lawson, and both his mother and Lucy turned towards him. One look was exchanged, and throwing himself passionately beside her, he turned his arm around her waist, and pressed her to his breast with an impulse that would not be staid.

"Lucy," he exclaimed, "there is one whose heart has been filled with thought of you for years; to whom you are the same in sickness and in health, rich or in poverty, with beauty perfect, or with beauty diminished; his heart does not feel the difference; it is yourself he loves—not a compressed image of youthful fancy. Mother, mother, did I not tell you this when hope was dead within me?"

Is there much wonder that Lucy's heart released from the sway of a phantom love, clung now and forever to the tried and the true?

Take Care of the Feet.

Ladies whose feet have become misshapen from excessively narrow boot-can do much to remedy the difficulty by care and pains. Select easy, roomy shoes, and stockings of soft fabric.
Bathe the feet thoroughly in water comfortably warm, never allowing it to grow cold enough to feel chilly, and wipe them thoroughly dry with a soft towel—coarse crash is almost poison to sensitive skins, and often causes irritation and a small eruption like rash.
Then rub into them thoroughly about the joints or injured parts, either cold cream, or what is better, glycerine, perfectly pure, and mixed with double the quantity of water. Especially should it be diligently applied to the joints of the great toes if they are enlarged or painful. Wipe off with a damp cloth and dry carefully, after which powder the feet thoroughly with rice flour powder. Brush off all that comes away easily and put on the stockings, being careful that no semblance of a seam comes over the sensitive joints. Adjust the shoe carefully never "jump into" any article of wearing apparel—smooth the boot over the foot and ankle, if it is a high top, and be certain that it is comfortable.

These cautions may seem trifles, but the feet are ill, and all conditions of recovery must be absurd. Take care that they do not get very cold or in the least damp. The ankle should also be protected by gaiters or leggings, if there is any necessity for going out in wet weather. The difficulty is an inflammation of the joint membranes, and has had many serious results. At night, the feet may be wiped off with a damp cloth, and the glycerine and powder repeated. Ladies who adopt this plan will never find soft corns coming between the toes. For hard corns there is nothing better than a little judiciously applied caustic, which should just touch the hardened part of the corn, never the surrounding flesh. Repeat every other day, first soaking the feet in warm water and gently scraping the surface of the corn until it will finally come out altogether. Great care must be taken to keep the caustic from the whole flesh, and the foot should never be damp, as the application will spread rapidly. Such a course of treatment, patiently followed, has in several cases restored to quite passable shape and comfort feet that were considered as hopelessly deformed. — Demorest's Monthly.

The following naïve promise was offered as an irresistible temptation to a fair innamorata: "I thank you," said the girl to her suitor, "but I can't leave home. I am a widow's only darling; no husband can ever equal my parent in kindness." "She is kind," replied the wooer; "but be my wife, and we will all live together, and see if I don't excel your mother!"

The ultra-violet or heat rays of the spectrum, invisible to human eyes, appear to be plainly perceptible to the eyes of ants, according to the investigations of Dr. Forel, the distinguished Swiss entomologist.

Important.
When you visit or leave New York City, save baggage, expressage, and $3 carriage hire, and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot.

613 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages, and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

A Brazilian Milk Cart.

The way of supplying Para, Brazil, with milk is novel and primitive, though it has, indeed, some advantages that would commend it to those who appreciate the privilege of diluting the lacteal fluid according to their own taste. Adulteration by the dealer there is well-nigh out of the question, for the milkman comes to your door bringing his tin can and several measures in one hand, while with the other he leads the cow herself through the city to the various dwellings to be supplied. Should there happen to be a calf belonging to this particular cow, it is muzzled and is then either allowed to follow its own sweet will or it is tied to its mother's tail! The approach of this triple milk cart is announced by the musical chiming of three open sleigh-bells, which are fastened to the leather strap worn on the cow's neck.—Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

What Caught Him.

"Hold on a minute!" called a man at postoffice to another who was hurrying off yesterday.
"Can't do it—great hurry—see you later," was the reply.
"I say, hold on!"
"Can't possibly do it—got to be at the bank in three minutes."
"Say!"
"Can't do it—so long!"
"See here," persisted the man, "I want you to step into the alley here and see a horse I'm going to buy. I want your opinion of him."
"Oh, that's it! Well, I don't mind if I do," and he cheerfully wasted three-quarters of an hour in sizing up a $30 horse. It is the only thing which never fails to hit.—Detroit Free Press.

The Western Settler's Chosen Specific.

With every advance of emigration into the far West, a new demand is created for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Newly peopled regions are frequently less salubrious than older settled localities, on account of the miasma which rises from recently cleared land, particularly along the banks of rivers that are subject to freshets. The agricultural or mining emigrant soon learns, when he does not already know, that the bitters afford the only sure protection against malaria, and those disorders of the stomach, liver, and bowels, to which climate changes, exposure, and unaccustomed or unhealthy water or diet subject him. Consequently, he places an estimate upon this great household specific and preventive commensurate with its intrinsic merits, and is careful to keep on hand a restorative and promoter of health so implicitly to be relied upon in time of need.

Of 704 gunshot wounds of the head 605 died and 199 recovered in the American army from the commencement of the war to October 1st, 1864. Of 32 cases of liver wounds, in the same army, 28 died. The Medical Times and Gazette, London, July 28, 1886, pp. 99-100.—Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

GENT to waiter—"Bring me some grammatical and typographical errors." Waiter (looking puzzled at first, but recovering in a moment his usual serenity): "We are just out of them, sir." "Then what do you mean by keeping them on your bill of fare?"

FARMERS in the United States have $12,210,253,362 of capital invested in their business. This sum includes farms, implements, live stock, fertilizers and fences.

It Astonished the Public

To hear of the resignation of Dr. Pierce as a Congress man to devote himself solely to his labors as a physician. It was because his true constituents were the sick and afflicted everywhere. They will find Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" a beneficent use of his scientific knowledge in their behalf. Consumption, bronchitis, cough, heart disease, fever and ague, intermittent fever, dropsy, neuritis, goitre, or thick neck, and all diseases of the blood, are cured by this world-renowned medicine. Its properties are wonderful, its action magical. By druggists.

A MEDICAL writer says that children need no wraps than adults. They generally get more.

EVERY person is interested in their own affairs, and if this meets the eye of any one who is suffering from the effects of a torpid liver, we will admit that he is interested in getting well. Get a bottle of Prickly Ash Bitters, use it as directed, and you will always be glad you read this item.

COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS for all the States, Mr. G. E. Reardon, Baltimore, Md., writes that he suffered for a long time with rheumatism which yielded to no treatment until he applied St. Jacobs Oil.

It may seem strange at the first thought, but the wave of a handkerchief has wrecked many a man of war.

EX-CONGRESSMAN WEAVER, Postoffice Department, Washington, D. C., considers Red Star Cough Cure a remarkable remedial agent. It contains no dangerous narcotics and costs but 25 cents.

Every-day Dangers.

Mrs. Minks—Mercy me! Did you ever? A young girl got delirium tremens from chewing tea leaves.

Mr. Minks—Well, I hope that will be a warning to you; you drink entirely too much tea.

"Yes, I know I do, but you don't drink any tea, and I really feared you were getting that way the other night."

"Well, I'll have to stop chewing so much coffee."—Omaha World.

PIERCE'S "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are perfect preventives of constipation. Inclosed in glass bottles, always fresh. By all druggists.

Church collections are a sort of a catch penny affair.

Brown's Bronchial Troches for Coughs and Colds: "There is nothing to be compared with them."—Rev. O. D. Watkins, Walton, Ind.

THE hen finds out the man who robs her nest. She is always laying for him.

INDIGESTION, dyspepsia, nervous prostration, and all forms of general debility relieved by taking MEN'S MAN'S FORTIFIED BEEF TONIC, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. It contains blood-making, force-generating and life-sustaining properties; is invaluable in all enfeebled conditions, whether the result of exhaustion, nervous prostration, overwork, or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. Caswell, Hazard & Co., proprietors, New York.

A HAIR-BREADTH escape does not seem narrow to a bald-headed man.

To Southern Home-Seekers.

The advance in price of Western lands, the increased severity of Northern winters, and the consequent high price of fuel, has turned the attention of farmer, home-seeker, and others of delicate constitution to the mild climate, cheap fuel, and low-priced lands of the South. Northern farmers, unacquainted with sugar-cane and cotton growing, have asked the question, "Why cannot fruit-growing and stock-raising be made to pay in the South?" To discuss these questions, so important to those seeking homes in the South, agricultural conventions have been held of late in Tennessee, Mississippi, and Louisiana, and it has been proven beyond a doubt that diversified farming can be carried on in the South even more profitably than in the North. Lands are being seeded down, creameries built, and Northern methods of farming quite generally introduced. The result of all this has turned the tide of emigration Southward, and the Illinois Central Railroad, the direct line between Chicago and New Orleans, and the direct route to the principal markets of the South, West, and North, have shown their confidence in the agricultural possibilities of the South by naming the following convenient land points, viz: Jackson, Tenn.; Aberdeen and Jackson, Miss.; and Hammond, La. These points have been selected as a convenience to connecting lines in the sale of round-trip tickets. Stop-over privileges will be granted at all other points south of Martin, Tenn., and we are free to state that just a good and just as cheap lands can be bought at other than the points above mentioned.

For circles are concerning points South on the line of the Illinois Central Railroad, where so many Northern people are now settling, apply to J. F. MERRY, General Western Pass. Agent L. C. R. R., Manchester, Iowa.

IF YOU ARE LOSING YOUR GRIP On life try "Wells' Health Renewer." Good direct to weak spots. For weak men, delicate women.

"BUCHU-PAIBA." Quick, complete cure, all annoying kidney diseases, Catarrh of Bladder, etc.—$1.

If mustins, calicos, etc., appear to not wear or wash as well as formerly the reason is in the use of inferior alkaline-soap washing compounds that destroy the texture and neutralize the colors. Shun them! Use "Rough on Dirt."

One Cent Invested

In a postal card on which to send your address to Hallet & Co., Portland, Maine, will, by return mail, bring you, free, particulars about work that both sexes, of all ages, can do, and live at home, wherever they are located, earning thereby from $5 to $25 per day and upwards. Some have earned over $50 in a single day. Capital not required; you are started free.

A City of Beautiful Women.

Detroit, Mich., is noted for its healthy, handsome ladies, which the leading physicians and druggists there attribute to the general use and popularity of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

WELLS' HAIR BALSAM.

If gray, restores to original color. An elegant dressing, softens and beautifies. No oil nor grease. A Tonic Restorative. Stops hair coming out; strengthens, cleanses, heals scalp. 50c.

The best thing on earth to add to starch to give a good body and beautiful gloss, is "Rough on Dirt," only washing compound that can be so used. Makes ironing easy and saves the starch. Has dirt removing power double that of any other.

If a cough disturbs your sleep, take Piso's Cure for Consumption, and rest well.

"SAY, why is everything either at sixes or at sevens?"
Probably, my dear nervous sister, because you are suffering from some of the diseases peculiar to your sex. You have a "draggy, raggy" feeling, the back-ache, you are debilitated, you have pains of various kinds. Take Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" and be cured. Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists.

THE bootblack and the college professor work for the same object—that of polishing the understanding.

"Rough on Dirt" whitens clothing yellowed by careless washing or use of cheap washing compounds. Washes everything from finest laces to heaviest blankets. There need be no fear in using this article. Does not rot nor yellow. 5 & 10c.

Spring Medicine.

Everybody needs and should take a good spring medicine, for two reasons:

1st. The body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season.
2d. The impurities which have accumulated in the blood should be expelled, and the system given tone and strength, before the prostrating effects of warm weather are felt.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best spring medicine for everybody. It purifies the blood. It sharpens the appetite. It tones the digestion. It overcomes debility. It builds up the whole system. Try it this spring.

"When I bought Hood's Sarsaparilla I made a good investment of one dollar in medicine for the first time. It has driven off rheumatism and improved my appetite so much that my boarding mistress says I must keep it locked up or she will be obliged to raise my board with every other boarder that takes Hood's Sarsaparilla." THOMAS BURKE, 100 Tillary St. Brooklyn, N. Y.

Tones and Strengthens

"I suffered, considerably, being for nearly a year troubled with indigestion. I am now on my fourth bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and never felt better in my life. It has made a new man of me." H. M. HILLMAN, Des Moines Street Police Station, Chicago, Ill.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by druggists. 50c. six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES. SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES. It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CURES ALL DISEASES OF THE LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH AND BOWELS. FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS. PRICE 1 DOLLAR.

It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbids its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO. Sole Proprietors, ST. LOUIS AND KANSAS CITY.

BENSON'S CAPSICINE POROUS PLASTER

Highest Awards of Medals in Europe and America.

The nearest, quickest, safest and most powerful remedy known for Rheumatism, Neuritis, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Backache, W. a. new oil, salicylate, and all aches and pains, endorsed by 5000 Physicians and Druggists of the highest repute. Benson's Plaster promptly relieves all pains, whether other plasters and greasy ointments, liniments and lotions, are a scientific failure. Beware of cheap imitations. The porous ingrain, with its "capsicine" "capsicum," "capsicene," is a very useful, warm, and intense heat, and is a perfect cure for all rheumatic and neuralgic pains. Ask for BENSON'S and TAKE NO OTHERS. All druggists, and J. C. BENSON, Proprietor, New York.

GUGUBICIN MINING STOCKS bought & sold. Reliable information furnished. The Milwaukee Mining Exchange, Milwaukee, Wis. T. L. phone 1334.

SPECULATE Fortunes have been made in a day. "HOW TO SPECULATE," a book of 100 pages, sent free to any address. R. Oliver & Co., Broken Bull Bldg., Chicago.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 25 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Leavenworth, Ohio.

FARMS on James River, Va. in Claremont of 1500 acres. I illustrated (free) for J. F. MANAHAN, Claremont, Va.

OPIUM and Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. Refer to 1000 patients cured in all parts. Dr. Marsh, Quincy, Mich.

A new mode of treating Piles. Send 5c. for Formula and Pamphlet to PAYNE BROS., 1314 RIDGEMAN, IND.

MEXICAN War. Soldiers and Widows can now give a good body and beautiful gloss, is "Rough on Dirt," only washing compound that can be so used. Makes ironing easy and saves the starch. Has dirt removing power double that of any other.

$5 MONEY MADE in Gogebic Stocks. Reliable information furnished. C. G. COX & CO., 104 New Insurance Building, Milwaukee, Wis.

HARTER'S IRON TONIC

THE ONLY TRUE

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS, and restore the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only add to its popularity. Do not experiment with ORIGINAL AND BEST.

DR. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS (Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

HAINESVILLE, N. J., October 15, 1886.

E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

Dear Sir:

I was taken with a very severe cold last Spring, and tried every cure we had in the store, and could get no help.

I had our village doctor prescribe for me, but kept getting worse. I saw another physician from Port Jervis, N. Y., and he told me he used Piso's Cure for Consumption in his practice.

I bought a bottle, and before I had taken all of it there was a change for the better. Then I got my employer to order a quantity of the medicine and keep it in stock. I took one more bottle, and my Cough was cured.

Respectfully,
FRANK McKEEVE.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

CATARRH TREATMENT FREE

So great is our faith we can cure you, we will mail enough to cure you, free. B. S. LATHROP, 715 Broad St., Newark, N. J.

SEED POTATOES!

And how to double the yield, both SENT FREE. The LARGEST and best YIELDING A TOWN. Buy Not a d DRY WEATHER PROOF. Send stamp for particulars. G. HETTEL, Minter, Ill.

WE WANT YOU!

A few more men or women needed for profitable employment to represent us in every county. Salary $75 per month and expenses, or a large commission on sales if preferred. Good stamps. Every one buys. Outfit and particulars Free. STANDARD SILVERWARE CO., BOSTON, MASS.

AGENTS WANTED

for the Permanent M. Smith's of GEN. R. E. LEE. A remarkable book. Everybody is curious to see it. Is best of the War. Agents never had such an opportunity before. Write quick for special terms. HISTORICAL PUBLISHER CO., St. Louis, Mo.

PILES

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is a sure cure for internal bleeding, itching piles. Cure guaranteed. Price 50c and $1. At druggists or mailed by Wm. R. Martin & Harvill, Who. 634 E. Agis, Toledo, Ohio.

THREE HUNDRED

of a common sense, practical, and a few more men or women needed for profitable employment to represent us in every county. Salary $75 per month and expenses, or a large commission on sales if preferred. Good stamps. Every one buys. Outfit and particulars Free. STANDARD SILVERWARE CO., BOSTON, MASS.

PATENTS

R. S. & A. P. JACEY, Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C. Inventors and opinions as to patentability FREE. 15-17 years' experience.

MEN

W. A. K. from Nervous Debility, Vital W. strong, and a stamp for Book of Remedies. Find cure yourself at home. Dr. J. RENNERT, Peru, Ind.

PENSIONS

COLLECTED and increased by Fitzgerald & Powell, Indianapolis, Ind. With copy sent for money of office, free.

MONEY MADE FAST

In Gogebic stocks, and new town lots. Security guaranteed. Maps, etc., H. F. KILG & CO., Milwaukee, Wis.

N. U. F. W. 11-87.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
One Year, in advance ..... $0.75
Six Months ..... 50
Three Months ..... 25

Entered at the Post Office at St. Joe as second-class matter.

FRIDAY MARCH 11, 1887.

ST. JOE MARKETS.
CORRECTED EVERY FRIDAY.

Wheat	77 cts.
Oats	29 cts.
Corn	40 cts.
Butter	15 cts.
Eggs	10 cts.
Tallow	3 1/2 cts.
Lard	8 cts.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

WEST BOUND.

No. 9 Mail and Express 11:10 A. M.
3 Chicago Express 10:43 P. M.
35 Local Freight 3:53 P. M.

EAST BOUND.

No. 10 Express and Mail 2:08 P. M.
4 Morning Express 2:57 A. M.
34 Local Freight 8:00 A. M.

H. K. REYNOLDS, AGENT.

Trustee Dermott went to Auburn Monday on business.

S. S. Shutt made us quite a friendly visit last Friday.

Raven's Poultry Food cures and prevents chicken cholera.

Wes Hart sold a car load of brick this week to be shipped to Garrett.

Z. T. Kagey of Ashland, Ohio, was in town Monday. He talks of moving to Auburn.

A run-away team caused some excitement on our streets one day this week. Nobody hurt.

Alva Irwin will have charge of the water tank at Auburn, and the one here, during the summer.

Al Hall is getting material on the ground, preparatory to the erection of a building to be used as a machine and repair shop.

A saw-log fell across John Davis' nose a few days ago, and peeled some of the bark off of the log as well as off of John's nose.

Peter Springer, the old citizen of Spencerville, who died so suddenly last week, had written out his own obituary in German, before he died.

Hicksville has nearly all the stock subscribe for a creamery. Hicksville is a wide awake town, and her citizens are always on the alert for new enterprises that are calculated to benefit and boom the town.

Dr. Bowman has a good sized orange tree growing in his office. It has budded once or twice, but the buds were blasted before the fruit materialized. Doc will be eating oranges of his own raising some of these times.

It is reported that the B. & O. railroad will put on two local passenger trains between Tiffin, Ohio, and Walkerton. A train running west in the morning, which would enable people to go to Auburn in time to do business and get back on the afternoon train, would be of great benefit to the citizens of this community, and it would put a good many dollars into the company's pocket in the course of the year.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

CONCORDTOWN.

Mud.
More mud.
Still more mud.

Mrs. Flora Tustison is able to sit up a part of the time, after being confined to her bed for two months.

G. W. Wilmot slapped one of his horses on the foot the other day, and in consequence is nursing a sore hand.

Charly Coburn is now prepared to masticate any thing from a roasted peanut to an old rubber boot, all because he has a new set of teeth.

Eld. Cyrus Alton, assisted by Eld. Thomas are holding a series of meetings at the Corners this week; preaching every evening at seven o'clock. Every body invited.

I promised Barney Woodcox that I would say nothing about his being at church last Sunday evening, which will account for it's not being mentioned in the items this week.

One of Joseph Shull's little boys was severely bitten by a vicious hog a few days ago, and but for the assistance of his little brother, would undoubtedly have been devoured on the spot. Don't trust little boys with such animals.

B. A. Hadsell is doing a smashing business making sugar this spring. While gathering sap the other day, his horses concluded to leave the woods in a hurry, and in trying to go both sides of a tree at the same time they smashed up things at a lively rate, but luckily no one was hurt.

CONCORD.

Charles Layman, will have a sale on the old Morr farm north of Concord on Wednesday, March 16th.

Mrs. D. Baker invited her many friends to a carpet rag sewing one day last week. There was about twenty-five women and children present, and sewed seventeen balls of carpet rags.

Isreal Wyatt has erected a small building near his mother's house, for the purpose of packing butter and eggs in. He will go on the roads in a short time and exchange groceries for produce.

John Fetter's grins all the time and, well, we can't tell just how he does act, but it is because of the arrival of a new baby boy at their house. Weight 8 1/2 lbs. (We keep safety pins.)

The school closed last Saturday at the Carr school house, with interesting exercises. Although it was very stormy, a good many visitors were present, and the little folks spoke and sang very nicely. J. R. Shilling gave them quite an interesting talk upon the advantages of a good education; also their teacher S. M. High gave them good advice. About noon the parents went in with well filled baskets, from which a bountiful repast was served to one and all.

PIGEON'S RETREAT.

Alvin Howey and Will Balentine, started for Iowa last Monday.

Birt Timmerman put in a tubular well for Sam Oberhaltzer last week.

School reopened at this place on last Monday, under the management of George Smith.

Mrs. Sarah Lake contemplates visiting with friends and relatives in Adams Co. next week. Miss Lizzie Tindall will accompany her.

"Buckeye" Shilling, Solomon Shilling, and Ben Wasson have each owned a large sugar camp. We hope they will feel disposed to feed their neighbors "tally."

E. R. Batdorf, living on the first farm east of the school house has advertised a sale for March 19th, and will move to Cedar creek station.

Miss Alice Kline, who has been suffering all winter with rheumatism, is getting better. She is still under the care of Matheny and Casebeer, of Auburn.

Married, at the home of Mr. High, on Sunday, March 6, 1887, Mr. Amin Seberts, to Miss Lulu Borne. The boys gave them a rousing bell on Monday night, which was heard four miles distant; the bride and groom were presented, and a good time experienced all around.

ORANGEVILLE.

We will not say any thing about mud this time.

Wert bet four dollars that he was not married. Wert ought to know if any body does.

The protracted meeting at the U. B. church still continues and some have united with the church.

Sugar making has come in earnest. We only judge from the amount that Grandma and Mandy made, which was a half pint. They must have tapped three trees with a post auger.

Ad Chubb says that the fellow that spoke of the game of checkers last week didn't understand the particulars of the game. Jont stole a march on him; he was smoking, and went to the door to spit, and while he was gone, Jont moved his men.

Paper's scarce as you can see. But these items they are free; If you have any thing to say. Open your mouth and fire away.

SPENCERVILLE.

Z. T. Kagey spent Sunday at this place.

J. A. Provines has returned home from Indianapolis.

O. E. Fales and wife, of Nappanee, are visiting friends in town.

John Wise of Auburn Junction, has been in town for the past few days.

Two persons united with the Lutheran church last Sunday morning.

Tom Fales and family left for Michigan last Tuesday, where they will make their future home.

Mrs. L. Barney and son who have been spending the winter at this place, started last Saturday for their home in Kansas.

Rev. Curry commenced a series of meetings at the Methodist church last Sunday evening and will continue them during the coming week.

AUBURN.

Auburn is rather dull since court adjourned.

The Auburn Milling Co. are putting another boiler in their mill this week. They did not have power enough.

The grocery stock of G. C. Ralston was sold Tuesday at private sale to Secor Berdan & Co., of Toledo, O. The business will be continued here.

F. E. Davenport has the material on the ground preparatory to building a new brick room on the ground now occupied by his store.

Court continued a couple of days this week to try a few special cases, with E. D. Hapman as Judge; as Judge McBride is holding court in Albion.

Zimmerman & Co. have another building almost completed in connection to their mill, to be used for ware room and office. The roof and siding are of iron.

It is all clear now as to how the editor of the Dispatch got thirty days in Feb. He and Miss Bell Lanning was married Tuesday evening Mar. 1st. May their journey through life be a happy one.

M. TUSTISON,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES,

ROLLER FLOUR,

PROVISIONS, OYSTERS, LEMONS,

ORANGES, CANDIES, CIGARS &c.

MAIN ST. - ST. JOE, IND.

WILLIAM CURIE,

PROPRIETOR OF

MEAT MARKET

ST. JOE, IND.

Highest market price paid for Hides, Tallow &c. Give me a call.

J. F. WALKER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

Harness, Collars,

WHIPS, HARNESS OIL &c.

ST. JOE, IND.

Repairing done promptly. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see.

A. KINSEY,

DEALER IN

FURNITURE

BUREAUS, TABLES,

LOUNGES, BEDS, CHAIRS, &c.

MAIN STREET, ST. JOE, IND.

All styles of Parlor Goods furnished to order at low prices. Thanking you for past favors I solicit your future patronage.

F. A. ZEIGLER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

HARNESS,

COLLARS,

WHIPS,

FLY NETS,

DUSTERS,

OILS &c.

St. Joe, Ind.

Prices the Lowest. All work guaranteed. Call and see me.

A. KINSEY.

Undertaker and Embalmer. Keeps on hand constantly, a stock of Undertaking Supplies, Coffins, Caskets, Burial Robes &c. I can supply as fine goods as can be furnished. Will attend to making all arrangements for funerals. Calls responded to at all hours of the night. Office on corner of Main and Second Streets: residence on corner of Main and Fourth Streets, St. Joe, Ind.

Business Notices.

H. W. BOWMAN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Office opposite the Drugstore.

ST. JOE HOTEL, Wm. Leighty, Proprietor. Special attention given to furnishing teams for commercial men.

B. S. SHEFFER, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to his care.

ST. JOE BARBER SHOP, one door west of hotel, Will Gee, proprietor. Satisfaction guaranteed. Your patronage is solicited.

FILLEY, LOUNSBERRY AND SHULER, proprietors of the St. Joe Saw and Planing Mill. All work promptly done. Cash paid for Oak Logs.

CITY BARBER SHOP, St. Joe, Ind., John Hull, proprietor. Shaving, Hair Cutting &c. done in the best of style. Come and see me. Two doors west of Kinsey's Furniture Store.

SIMON WINELAND, proprietor St. Joe Handle, Shingle and Feed Mills. Feed grinding a specialty. Highest prices paid for second growth White Ash. Enquire at the mill for full particulars.

STAR WIND PUMP, E. A. Wankmeyer, agent, Newville, Ind. Farmers who think of buying a mill should give me a call before doing so. The Star Mill is the best and prices the lowest.

LOCALS.

Shoot the English sparrows.

Get out your fishing tackle.

August Kinsey was at Garrett last Wednesday.

Persons complain of taxes being high this year.

Representative J. D. Leighty arrived home Tuesday.

Two cars were badly wrecked at this place Monday night.

Lime for sale in small quantities at the Nimble Nickle store.

We failed to hear the hoot of the Spencerville Owl last week.

Mrs. Calvin Brown, of Auburn is visiting friends in town.

James Platter was one among our new subscribers this week.

Mrs. Sol Barney visited with friends at Ligonier over last Sabbath.

Several persons from this place attended the Sunday school convention at Auburn this week.

M. T. Bishop received a car load of Marble Head Lime this week, to be sold at bottom prices.

There has been a better attendance at school this term than ever before; the total number enrolled is 117.

Preaching Sunday morning and evening in the Methodist church and in the afternoon in the Lutheran church.

The exercises given by the little folks, at the school house, last Friday afternoon was splendid; a declamation by Maud Curie was the most comical; the other exercises were all well rendered.

Burt Patterson was in town Friday. He walked in from Auburn.

Sell Bowen was hurriedly called to Ohio last Saturday, to attend the funeral of his cousin.

There is a paper published in Texas called "The Bedbug." It ought to be a lively sheet.

There was a birthday party at Simon Wineland's last Thursday evening, in honor of Eph Wineland.

The G. A. R. post of this place enjoyed a season of pork and beans at their hall, last Saturday evening.

Miss Leona Testison who has been absent from school, for the past week on account of sickness, has returned again.

Bill DeMaranville was in town Monday. We didn't see him but we heard him laugh and that settled it. There's no other laugh like Bill's.

Mrs. May Barney and son Lou, who have been visiting with friends here and at Spencerville, during the winter, returned to their home in Kansas this week.

Farmers should beware of swindlers. There are lots of them abroad, seeking whom they may devour. Don't have any thing to do with them; don't even touch them with a forty-foot pole.

Twenty-seven young ladies of Quincy, Mich., have signed a document to the effect that they will receive the attentions of no young man who uses tobacco, whisky or profane language. That would leave most of the boys out in the cold.

Lost, between Henry Walters and Wise's school house, in Allen county, a short brass back saw, Flint's make, Rochester, N. Y. Leave at Spencerville post office, or at the St. Joe News office and received a reward. H. R. Babcox.

The Auburn Dispatch of last week, says that a saw-log was hauled through that town Saturday by five teams of horses. What's troubling us is to know whether the log was so large that it took five teams to draw it, or whether the teams were hitched on just for show.

There was pretty strong talk here last week of organizing a company to bore for gas. Several of our citizens offered to subscribe liberally and it may be at no distant day, St. Joe will be illuminated by natural gas. In case we should strike a good flow, (which of course we expect to,) it can be piped to Auburn, and retailed out to the citizens of that place, at a pretty high figure, (because they want gas bad,) and it would net the company here a big profit, and make millionaires out of the stockholders in a few months. Let us bore.

While we were standing on the platform at the depot the other day, waiting for the east bound passenger, Hank Reynolds, the popular agent at this place, came running out of the depot, and with a wild and suicidal look in his off-eye, he proceeded, as we supposed, to throw himself under a freight train, that was passing at that time. From the look of determination upon Hank's countenance we formed the hasty and awful conclusion that he was tired of the cold charities of this wicked world, and was going to deliberately walk out and lay himself down on the track, and let the cruel car wheels grind the beeswax out of him; but no, instead of that, he jumped up on to a car loaded with coal, and threw off several large chunks, and then jumped off again and went into the office, just as cool as a frozen cucumber. Hank was out of coal for the office, and this was a plan he took to get a supply.

Let All work and goods guaranteed to give satisfaction. Give me a call.

ROOFING AND SPOUTING
GUTTERING, HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS.
Cutlery, Nails, Paints, Woodware &c.
MAIN STREET, ST. JOE IND.

J. H. CONRAD,

Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Brushes,
OILS, SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY &c.
ST. JOE, : : IND.

W. C. PATTERSON,

DEALER IN

RAVEN'S
Horse, Cattle, Hog
AND
POULTRY FOOD

The object of this Food is to put Live Stock and Poultry of all kinds in a thriving, healthy condition, and to prevent and cure all Diseases of the Blood and the Digestive Organs.

For breeding sows and raising young pigs it has no rival. Hogs will fatten in half the usual time. It surely prevents Hog Cholera and cures it when taken in good time.

It will keep Poultry free from disease, and in a healthy thriving condition, also increases the production of eggs from 15 to 20 per cent. It also cures Chicken Cholera, Raup &c.

For Sale at Drugstore
ST. JOE, IND.

We heard of a fellow over east of here who thought he would rent a sugar camp and make his shugar and surrup. He never had had much experience in that directshun, but he thought he knew enuf to tap trees and bile sap. So he rented a haboring shugar camp, that was awl reddy supplied with a furnace and pan, buckets and spiles, and awl the paraphranalia ov a first class wwl regulated shugar camp. One ov thoes brite sun shiny days the four part ov this weak he thot it was about tyme to open up, so he got his toolcs together and went to work. He commenced in the morning and bi noon he had evera tree taped an in runhing ordar. It was a gude day fur sap, but this man noticed that wile sum trees wer giving sap freely, othas wer not running at awl. Cum to find out he had ben tapping p-alm and beech trees, and ov course ther no gude fur maple shugar. Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

INSURE WITH THE AGENT OF THE Agricultural Fire Insurance Company.

The attention of owners of village dwellings is invited to the annexed pyramid, showing the uniform and steady growth during the

Last 25 Years

— OF —
It's 31 Years.

of existence. The strongest and largest Dwelling House Company in the United States.

CASH CAPITAL $500,000.

A. M. RICHARDS,

HICKSVILLE, O.

AGENT FOR THE ABOVE COMPANY.

LOSSES IN LITERATURE.

The Destruction of Valuable Manuscripts by Medieval Fanatics.

The greatest calamity to books in the ancient world was the destruction of the Alexandrian library. This library, says the New York Mail and Express, was in two buildings, one said to contain 400,000 volumes, and the other 300,000. The former was destroyed accidentally by soldiers. The other library was subsequently increased and surpassed the part of the library that was burned, but was finally totally destroyed by the Caliph Ornan, whose narrowness of mind could see nothing worthy of preservation outside the koran. "If these writings agree with the koran," Ornan is reported to have said, "they are useless and need not be preserved; if they disagree they are pernicious and ought to be destroyed;" and the scrolls of the vast repository were distributed to the 4,000 baths in the city, and were six months being burned. Many books of royal antiquity were destroyed by royal edict, others by decrees of councils, and still others fell under the anathema of the Pope. The Roman Church has been especially inimical to literature, and again and again has she attempted to silence all who opposed her doctrines and polity. Pope Alexander VI. ordered all books prejudicial to the church to be burned. Pope Gregory VII. ordered the Palestine Apollo to be destroyed by fire, a library that had been enriched by several emperors. The distinction between profane and sacred literature dates doubtless from this time, all works not sanctioned by the church being declared profane. The Jesuits quite effectually stamped out the literature and destroyed the national independence of the Bohemians by their proscriptions. How much has history and literature lost through the famous Indexes? The Index was a catalogue of books forbidden to be read. Another list called the Expurgatory Index contained the titles of books that were to be amended by the church. Catholics, however, were not the only destructionists. The reformers had their bonfires, selecting for their prey illuminated manuscripts, the Puritans waged war on popish books; Jews burned pagan books, and Romans Jewish books; and in these conflagrations, while the world has been rid of much that would be an incumbrance and offense to the shelves of our modern libraries, yet there can be no doubt that religious zeal and partisan spirit has deprived us of much valuable treasure. A valuable manuscript of the book of Genesis, belonging to the Cottonian library, was partially destroyed by fire in 1731. This manuscript was illustrated with 250 paintings. Of this number only twenty-one were saved. Classic students lament over the lost books of Livy. We have only thirty-five books of this author out of 140. Of Tacitus we have a little more than four books out of thirty, "yet Tacitus in fragments is still the colossal torso of history." It is impossible to estimate what we have suffered in the loss of Varro's lives of 700 distinguished Romans and Atticus' "Acts of Eminent Citizens of Rome."

Beating the Market Man.

The sample dodge is an old and mean trick by which some sharpers in a small way beat the market man out of a dinner now and then. If you stay here long enough you'll see one of them. I usually get from two to a dozen visits from them every day. Many of them are men, old men, usually of respectable appearance, though occasionally you find a well dressed woman in the business and now and then a child. It is worked like this: The sample fiend comes up when you are not busy and tell you that he has not laid in his winter stock of vegetables yet. And then he talks about different kinds of potatoes and want to see what we have got. He takes a potato out of each barrel, says he will try them all and see which he likes best, and moves coolly off. Of course we never see him again.

Now that seems like a very small kind of a confidence game for grown people to be at, doesn't it? But there are scores of families who depend on just such little tricks for the chief part of their sustenance. Anyway, we have lots of them down here. I have known them to come and "work the racket" and go away and then be at some other stand on the same errand an hour later. I actually believe some of them gather enough vegetables in this way out of this market in a day to last them all winter. Of course beggars we would fire out of here in a holy minute, and persons who didn't look respectable we shouldn't allow to take a sample. But what can you do when nicely dressed persons, who, for all you know, may own a brown stone block and be able to buy you out a thousand times, come along and work you this way?—Stall-keeper in New York Commercial Advertiser.

A Terrible Sea Monster.

The first time I struck the bottom I couldn't believe I was there. It was as clear as air and the fishes swimming around might have been taken for birds. I landed on a kind of sand-hill when they lowered me and had to walk about fifty feet down into a valley like before I struck the shells. They were all in a bunch, stretched along in a ridge, looking like a black mark against the white bottom. I was dragging the hamper and when I got alongside I began to toss them in. I reckon I had filled half a dozen or so, when all at once I saw a kind of shadow moving over me. At first I thought it was the schooner, and then, perhaps some of the other divers coming down, and then it left; but all at once it came again and grew so dark in a second that I turned quick and looked up, and I'm telling you the truth, mister, if my hair hadn't been held down by a copper cap it would have riz right on end. There, a-movin' over me was what I took to be a bird about thirty feet across. It was wheeling round and round, flapping its big wings, just as you've seen buzzards or eagles do, overhead. Down it came, lower and lower, and I a-crouching as flat as I could get. The nearer it got the bigger it looked, and as I see it was a settling on me I took the pike I always carried, and as it wheeled around over me I let drive. Hit it? Well, I reckon I did. The next thing I knew I was standing on my head, rolling over and over, then yanked sideways, half drowned, and then I reckon I lost my senses, and when I came to I was lying on deck and all hands looking at me.

You see, the critter had given the water such a swirl that I was knocked end for end, and my pipe and line twisted around and around so that I couldn't breath, and, of course, that pulled the line and the men, I thought I had jerked it to come up so they hauled away for all they were worth, and that's what saved my life. What was it? Why, nothin' but one of those sea bats—blanket fish the other men called it—and they all said I had a narrow run for it. That was the way, according to their say, that the fish goes to work to get away with a man. They first settle down on you like a blanket, and there you are. There wasn't a man that would go down after that for several days.—Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette.

Evidence Indisputable.

Winks—Do you believe the spirits of the departed can communicate with the living?

Jinks—Yes, I have had absolute proof of it.

"You don't say so?"

"I suppose you know when I married the present Mrs. Jinks she was a widow."

"Yes."

"Well, some time afterward I went with a friend to see a medium, just for the fun of the thing, you know, and as sure as I'm alive she gave me a message from my wife's first husband."

"In his writing?"

"Oh, no!"

"Did you see him or hear him talk?"

"No, the medium just told me what he said."

"Nonsense; then what proof have you that the communication was genuine?"

"He said he was sorry for me."—Omaha World.

A Good Reason.

Son-in-law—There are fifty people in that house and not one is on speaking terms with the others.

Son-in-law—That's very singular. What is the cause?

Son-in-law—The principal cause is they were all born dumb.—The Judge.

We are not to suppose that all who take holy orders are saints; but we should be still further from believing that all are hypocrites.

The first sure symptom of a mind in health is rest of heart and a pleasure felt at home.—Young.

Independent Journalism.

"If you want to see independent journalism, you go into the country, the mining districts especially," said the young man between the courses. "I was once a great friend of an editor of a paper in a rather wild mining camp. I had an idea I'd like to be a reporter, so he kindly gave me a chance. 'This journal,' said he, 'is above all, fearless and independent. We don't care a darn for anybody, and so go ahead.' I went ahead. One day, being down-town, I got in full head on the biggest sensation the town had known for years. A cold-blooded murder with extraordinary peculiarities of atrocity—altogether a very big thing. I was so early in the fray that I took care of the murdered man, shot by a notorious character, until he died. I wrote the affair up. I spread myself on it. I gave a pen-picture of the murderer and a close and elaborate account of the place—a public house—where the shooting had taken place. I gave all the names of everybody who was within a mile of the occurrence. It was a splendid story, and, flushed with importance, I marched in to the editor with my copy. He took it and read it, and he began marking whole sheets out of it. 'You see, my boy,' Jim Bullivar did the shooting, and if they nab him he has several big revolver fellows who will walk in, and the trouble with these fellows is that they don't give you time to argue. You get it, and there you are; so we'll cut his name out and simply say a well-known citizen. Then you say that he did it deliberately. That'll never do. I'll just put in that it may have been accidental, because, of course, it may have been, you know. I see you give the name of the other men who were there. Do you want to bring the whole gang down on us in a body? Here, I've made some little changes. You take the copy to the business manager and let him look at it."

"I took it to the business manager. 'Great Scott!' said he, 'what are you doing? You give the name of the saloon and the address! Don't you see that they'll take their cut and mebbe come up here with shotguns? And you haven't given the name of the doctor. He'll be mad. All those people you've connected with this thing will be sure to kick. Young man, you'll ruin this paper.'"

"Well, what am I to do?"

"Just say there was a shooting scrape in town yesterday, and somebody, supposed to be a notorious bummer, got killed. He's dead. We can't help him. Let us save the living."

"There were two sticks' about the murder in the next day's paper, and I retired."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Going to Bed.

Speaking of how a man goes to bed, an exchange says: "There's where a man has the advantage. He can undress and have his bed warm before a woman has her hairpins out or her shoes untied." This is how it looks in print, and this is how it looks in reality: "I am going to bed, my dear, it is 10:30." No reply. "Now, John, you are always late in the morning. Do go to bed." "Yes, in a minute," he replies, as he turns the paper wrong side out and begins a lengthy article headed "The Louisiana Muddle." Fifteen minutes later she calls out from the bedroom: "John, come to bed and don't keep the gas burning here all night," and, murmuring something about "the bill being big enough now," she creeps beneath the cold sheets, while John sits placidly on, his feet across the piano stool and a cigar in his mouth. By and by he rises, yawns, stretches himself, throws the paper on the floor and proceeds to that vigorous exercise, shaking the coal stove. Just at this stage a not altogether pleasant voice inquires: "For pity's sake, ain't you ready for bed yet?" "Yes, yes, I'm coming; why don't you go to sleep and let a fellow alone?" Then he discovers there is coal needed. When that is supplied and rattled into the stove he sits down to warm his feet. Next he slowly begins to undress, and as he stands scratching himself and absently gazing on the last garment dangling over the back of the chair, he remembers that the clock is not wound yet. When this is attended to he wants a drink of water, and away he promenades to the kitchen. Of course, when he returns, his skin resembles that of a picked chicken, and once more he seats himself before the fire for the last warm-up. As the clock strikes 12 he turns out the gas and with a flop of the bed-clothes and a few spasmodic shivers he subsides—no, not yet; he forgot to see if the front door was locked, and another flop from the bed-clothes brings forth the remark: "Good gracious, if that man ain't enough to try the patience of Job! Setting her teeth hard, she awaits the final flop, with the accompanying blast of cold air, and then quietly inquires if he is settled for the night, to which he replies by muttering: "If you ain't the provokingest woman!"—Eastern Argus.

The Age of Hamlet.

The exact age of Hamlet—of the Hamlet of Shakespeare—must rest solely upon the authority of the Grave-digger, and he makes two statements with regard to it, the one being the corollary of the other. Let me give an extract: The First Clown of the play, popularly known as the First Grave-digger, says:

"Here's a skull now; this skull hath lain you i' the earth three and twenty years."

Hamlet—"Whose was it?"

First Clown—"A mad fellow's, it was whose do you think it was?"

Hamlet—"Nay, I know not."

First Clown—"A pestilence on him for a mad rogue! I poured a flagon of Rhenish on my head once. This same skull, sir, this same skull, sir, was Yorick's skull, the King's jester."

Hamlet—"This?"

First Clown—"E'en that."

Hamlet—"Let me see. Alas, poor Yorick!—I knew him, Horatio, a fellow of infinite jest, of most excellent fancy, he hath borne me on his back a thousand times."

Now, Yorick has been dead three and twenty years. Yet Hamlet not only knew him, but had been borne on his back a thousand times. If we assume this back-bearing business to have taken place once a day for a period of three years, it would have made Hamlet even then 26; and we may be sure that Yorick did not commence the horse-play with the young prince until he was of sufficient age to stand such exercise.

Medicine for the Mind.

It is easier to believe an ill report than to inquire into the truth thereof. Sorrow seems sent for our instructions, as we darken the cages of birds when we would teach them to sing.

It is sometimes difficult to say which works more mischief, enemies with the worst or friends with the best intentions.

As the medical properties of some plants can be adduced only by distillation, so our good qualities can only be proved by trials.

Life at the greatest and best is but a forward child that must be humored and coaxed a little till it falls asleep and then all is over.

Apathy is one of the worst moral diseases; it incapacitates us from combatting the encroachments of vice, and closes every avenue of our souls to the approach of virtue.

When we are laboring under a physical malady we see everything through a distorted medium; we are no longer masters of ourselves, but the victims of a distempered imagination. Good Housekeeping.

Instinct.

Prof. J. S. Newberry gives a most marked illustration of what appears to be development of instinct approaching reason in one of the low forms of life. The grub of the seventeen-pear locust buries itself deep in the ground, and only emerges after its period of seventeen years is ended. At Ranney, N. J., a house had been erected above a spot where some of these grubs had buried themselves. At the expiration of their period the grubs started on their way to the surface, but emerged into the cellar, where they were yet in the dark. In order to reach the light they commenced building small structures, and when first noticed the floor of the cellar was found covered with small cones, some of them more than six inches high, which these cicadas had built in their exertions to traverse the dark cavity to the light above ground.

They were walking in the fields, and Mary hesitated to pass through a lot that contained a pugnacious-looking goat. "Why, Mary," said Charles, "come along; this is the first time you ever refused me when I asked you to pass the butter." Upon this appeal, of course she hesitated no longer, especially as she now noticed that William was tethered.

THE WITCH'S FATE.

A Cruel Prejudice of Old Times More Than Equalled Now.

Not many decades ago in this country the people were excited over witchcraft. Persons suspected were thrown into the water; if not witches, they would drown; if they were witches, they would swim ashore and would be put to death! In any event they were doomed.

Not many years ago if a person were taken sick with advanced disorder of the kidneys the physician would pronounce the disease Bright's disease, and when so declared he regarded his responsibility at an end, for medical authority admitted that the disease was incurable.

When the physician found a patient thus afflicted, he would say, "Oh, a slight attack of the kidneys; will be all right in a little while." He knew to the contrary. But if he could keep his patient on his hands for a few months he knew he would derive a great revenue from his case, and then, when the disease had progressed to a certain stage, he would state the facts and retire, exonerated from all blame.

But the error of supposing the disease incurable has awayed the public mind long after the fact has ceased to be. But public opinion has been educated to the true status of the case by those who have discounted the incurability theory, and the public recognizes and testifies to the fact that Warner's safe cure is a specific for this disease. This has been shown with thousands of testimonials.

Upon referring to them in our files we find that $5,000 reward will be given to any one who can prove that so far as the manufacturers know they are not genuine, and that hundreds of thousands similar in character could be published if it were necessary.

This condition of things is very amusing to the journalist, who looks upon all sides of every question. Proof should be accepted by all, but prejudice fights proof for many years. It seems strange, that when a proprietary medicine is doing the good that Warner's safe cure is that the physicians do not publicly indorse it. Many of them, we are told, privately prescribe it.

A few years ago, as stated, when a man had Bright's disease, the doctor boldly announced it, because he thought it relieved him of responsibility.

To-day when prominent people are dying (and hundreds of thousands of common people die of the same disease), we are told that doctors disguise the fact that it is Bright's disease of the kidneys, and say that they die of paralysis, of apoplexy, of pneumonia, of consumption, of general debility, of rheumatism, of heart disease, of blood poisoning, or some other of the names of the direct effects of kidney disease. They are not the real disease itself.

We sometimes wonder if they avoid stating the real cause of disease for fear they will drive the public into patronage of the only scientific proprietary specific for kidney diseases and the thousand and one diseases that originate in inactive kidneys.

We do not believe every advertisement we read. Some people perhaps may regard this article as an advertisement and will not believe it, but we are candid enough to say that we believe the parties above mentioned have stated their case and proved it, and under such circumstances the public is unwise if it is longer influenced by adverse prejudice.

SUGGESTIONS OF VALUE.

TAINTED salt meat is the result of salting carcasses while in a frozen condition.

WHEN acid has been dropped on any article of clothing, apply liquid ammonia to kill the acid, then apply chloroform to restore the color.

A WRITER in the New York World says: In traveling I always take some salt with me. A heaping table-spoonful of salt scattered between infested sheets will drive the fleas away.

Dr. Foote's Health Monthly says that nails greased with lard may be driven into hard wood without breaking, and screws are more easily driven and withdrawn if their points are greased.

BLACK crape can be beautifully renovated by folding the veil once and steaming over a kettle of boiling water until stiff, then place between a black shawl, and cover with heavy books or other weight for a day or twenty-four hours.

KEROSENE will make the tea-kettle as bright as new. Saturate a woolen rag and rub with it. It will also remove stains from the clean-varnished furniture. Boots and shoes that have been hardened by water may be softened by kerosene.

A GOOD way to clean hairbrushes is to dampen the brushes and sprinkle them with powdered borax; let them lie half an hour and then wash and rub thoroughly, rinse in clean water and stand them on end to dry. It is a good plan to clean two at one time, as they clean better by rubbing two together. If you have no borax, common baking-soda may be used.

A VERY pleasant perfume, and also a preventive against moths, may be made by taking one ounce each of cloves, caraway seeds, nutmeg, cinnamon, mace and Tonquin beans. Add as much Florentine orris root as will equal the other ingredients put together. Grind the whole together and put them in little fancy bags and distribute among the clothing.

CURIOUS FACTS.

THE present cost of operating the railroads of the country with steam power is in round numbers $502,000,000 per annum; but to carry on the same amount of work with men and horses would cost the country $11,306,500,000.

SOME one with a mathematical mind has figured it out that all the gold on earth to-day, in whatever shape—that is, mined gold, or, to put it plainer, the gold in use in all nations and the product of all ages—if welded in one mass, would be contained in a cube of less than thirty feet.

THE soil of the Nile delta has proven to be thicker than was supposed, borings by Royal engineers having failed to reach a solid bottom at a depth of 200 feet. Specimens of the soil have been sent to London, and an appropriation has been made for continuing the geologically important borings.

A FAVORITE prescription of Chinese physicians for chronic indigestions is to cut up and digest chicken gizzards in hot water until they are reduced to a pulp, and then add some spices. A tablespoonful or two of the resulting paste is taken at each meal until the patient has entirely recovered.

THE carrier-pigeon service in Paris is now most carefully organized, and the latest census shows that there are 2,500 trained birds, which can take dispatches in and out of the capital in the roughest weather. Some are taught to go to the neighboring forts and towns, others to distant parts of the provinces.

At Middletown, Conn., the other evening, a company of friends called at a house where they were asked to put their wraps on a bed where a babe was sleeping. The little one was unusually quiet that evening, and it was found dead when the guests had gone, having been smothered by the garments piled upon it.

A PROMINENT life insurance man in Hartford, Conn., is reported as saying that his experience and the records of life insurance have shown him that young men of 20 years of age who abstain entirely from all kinds of intoxicating drinks have a good prospect of living to be 64 years of age; while the moderate drinker of 20 years of age can only expect to live to be 351 years.

METAL is now being substituted for cardboard in bookbinding. This novelty is known as the "British Pollisfort" binding, and it consists in the use of thin sheet metal for covers. The metal is specially prepared, and the cover may be bent and straightened again without perceptible damage. It may, in fact, be safely subjected to such treatment as would destroy ordinary covers. The metal is, of course, covered with the leather usually employed in bookbinding, and the finished book presents no difference in appearance except in the greater thinness of the cover.

A NEW industry has lately sprung up in Sweden, and promises shortly to become a most important one. Oil for illuminating purposes is now manufactured in that country from the stumps and roots that remain in the forests after the timber has been cut. These are subjected to a process of dry distillation, and besides wood-oil many other products are obtained, amongst which are turpentine, creosote, acetic acid, wood charcoal, tar, oils, etc. This oil cannot be used in ordinary lamps, as containing a large proportion of carbon it gives off a great deal of smoke during combustion. When mixed with benzine, however, it may be used in ordinary benzine lamps; but when burnt alone a special lamp must be adopted. The trees that furnish the greatest amount of oil are the pine and fir. There are now about forty establishments engaged in this manufacture in Sweden.

A Good Woman.

"I can't imagine," said Mr. Johnson to his wife, "what you can see in that Mrs. Gadabout."

"Oh, she is such a sweet woman."

"Perhaps she is, but sweets are not wholesome."

"And she is such a good woman."

"Oh, is she? How does she show it? I never could see any of it."

"Why, how you talk! There isn't a church fair or entertainment of any kind that she isn't into with all her might. Can't see her goodness, indeed! Maybe if you had a little more yourself you could."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

ELY'S CATARRH CREAM BALM

I was so troubled with catarrh it seriously affected my voice. One bottle of Cream Balm did the work. My voice is fully restored. B. F. Liepman, A. M., Pastor of Olivet Baptist Church, Philadelphia, Pa.

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 5 cents at drug stores; by mail, registered, 10 cents. Circulars free. ELY BROS., Drugists, Owego, N. Y.

Marvellous Memory DISCOVERY.

Wholly unlike Artificial Systems—Cure of Mind Wandering—Any book learned in one reading. Heavy reductions for postal classes. Prospectus, with opinion of Mr. Proctor, the Astronomer, House W. W. Astor, JUDAH P. BENJAMIN, Mrs. MINOR, Wood and others, sent post free by PROF. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Wholly unlike Artificial Systems—Cure of Mind Wandering—Any book learned in one reading. Heavy reductions for postal classes. Prospectus, with opinion of Mr. Proctor, the Astronomer, House W. W. Astor, JUDAH P. BENJAMIN, Mrs. MINOR, Wood and others, sent post free by

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RY

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest—is the only true middle-link in that transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianapolis, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical. Its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodations is unequalled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

ALL EXPRESS TRAINS between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of comfortable DAY COACHES, magnificent PULLMAN PALACE PARLOR and SLEEPING CARS, elegant DINING CARS providing excellent meals, and—between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—restful RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains run daily to the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The rich wheat fields and grazing lands of interior Dakota are reached via Watertown. A short desirable route, via Seneca and Kanabek, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points.

All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employees of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly attention.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders—obtainable at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada—or any desired information, address,

R. R. CABLE, Pres't & Gen'l Mgr., Chicago. E. ST. JOHN, Asst Gen'l Mgr., Chicago. E. A. HOLBROOK, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt., Chicago.

Is The Best Waterproof Coat Ever Made.

Don't waste your money on a gum or rubber coat. The FISH BRAND SLICKER is absolutely water and wind proof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. Ask for the "FISH BRAND" SLICKER and take no other. If your storekeeper does not have the "FISH BRAND," send for descriptive catalogue to A. J. TOWER, 20 Simmons St., Boston, Mass.

Don't Buy SEEDS, ROSES, FRUIT OR ORNAMENTAL TREES, GRAPE VINES OR ANYTHING IN THE NURSERY LINE, without first writing for our valuable FREE Catalogue, the 21 LARGE GREENHOUSES BEST we ever issued, containing the Rarest New and 33d YEAR. 700 ACRES. Choice Old.

THE STORRS & HARRISON CO. PAINESVILLE, OHIO.

Why did the Women

of this country use over thirteen million cakes of Procter & Gamble's Lenox Soap in 1886?

Buy a cake of Lenox and you will soon understand why.

SOME SECRETS OF BEAUTY.

How to Avoid Wrinkles.

"How young she looks!" "How does she manage to conceal the marks of age?" Who has not heard these phrases flitting about the auditorium of a theater when some long-popular actress is on the boards? The questioners are not always ladies, but as a rule the ladies are most vitally interested in the problem suggested. How can one prevent age from showing itself in the face, and what is the secret of the actress' long-enduring youth? As to the latter, it is hardly worth while to pay much attention to it, I think, for the art of making-up for the stage is quite a different matter from that of making-up for the drawing-room. In the one case the artist can make use of broad, suggestive touches; in the other everything must bear an elaborate finish. So there are two styles of painting in vogue in facial embellishment as well as in pictorial art. But I know something much better than painting for preserving a youthful appearance in the face. It is very simple, and was suggested by the massage treatment for removing superfluous flesh. In this case the object is in a measure to restore wasted flesh, or rather to prevent waste. Wrinkles, the surest mark of advancing age, and the hardest to eradicate or conceal, are due to the gradual wearing away of flesh underneath the cuticle. Why does it wear away? Because the facial muscles have either too little or the wrong kind of exercise. It will be observed that wrinkles usually take a downward course. This is due to the wrong kind of exercise. What exercise? Why, the washing and wiping of the face, to be sure. Not that I am going to advocate the discontinuance of this salutary and wholesome exercise; I simply suggest a change in the method. Instead of rubbing the face down in washing and wiping always rub upward. This will have the effect of counteracting the influence of the flesh to depart from under the cuticle and will keep the face from wrinkles. It is rather an awkward habit to acquire at first, but perseverance will make it second nature, and the result is worth many pains. This exercise is designed particularly for the benefit of the eyes and upper portion of the cheeks.

PLUMP CHEEKS.

For the lower and middle portion, where hollowness is often noted rather than wrinkles but sometimes both, there is another plan. The facial muscles are subjected to very slight activity in the ordinary exertions of eating and talking. To fill the cheeks out plump and round it is necessary to develop the muscles there. These muscles are very slight at the best, and any special effort well directed will increase them in capacity and size. An excellent exercise for this purpose is this: Take a piece of soft leather, kid or chamois skin will do, put the end of it between the teeth; then chew gently upon it for several minutes, taking care not to raise the teeth from the leather. If the teeth are raised it will bring into play only the ordinary muscles of mastication, whereas the purpose is to develop those that are seldom used. One who tries this method will find the cheek going through a queer action that is anything but graceful and pretty; nevertheless it is immensely effective, and will restore to its youthful plumpness even the most hollow cheeks of the decrepid sexagenarian. Those in middle life or those who are just beginning to feel the approach of age will find this plan especially valuable. Its beauty does not recommend it, but its simplicity does.—E.E.

Jackson's "Ornymint."

"The trouble with the women these days is that they all want to be orny-mints. They get more worthless and non-account every day of their lives." "That's just 'bout so, Mr. Hayseed. The women are developin' a speerit of injeependence that ought to be curbed—cut off short, as it were." They were a pair of grangers of the old-fashioned type, horny-handed, hard-visaged and narrowly conservative. "Now, there's Lem Jackson's wife," one of them said; "I do no how Lem ever does put up with her shifleness and uppish ways." "She's one o' them ornymintal kind of wimmin, hey?" "I should say so. All she's got to do is to cook for only eight in fam'ly, milk nine cows, tend to the garden and Lem's orion patch, and help in the field a little in plantin' and hayin' time. Wimmen ain't no 'count nowadays no-how. They all want to set 'round and be ornymints like Lem's wife."—Tid Bits.

The Toad and the Worm.

I was one day digging up a tree with Prof. Bardwell in order to transplant it, says Thomas Hill, D. D., in a paper read in an Eastern city. Two or three professors stood looking on. I called their attention to an old toad near by and advised them to watch him. They laughed, but on my questioning them confessed that they had never seen a toad eat. I threw him some small earth worms as we threw them up with the spade. The professors were as delighted as children to see the dexterity with which he snapped them up. Presently I turned up with one spadeful of earth an enormous earth worm. I threw it to the toad and observed in him the most decided evidence of reasoning power and executive ability that I ever saw in an animal. At first he watched, as a toad always will in the case of a large worm, the two ends alternately, in order to see which was the head. The worm is tough one way and smooth the other, therefore his head can be put down the toad's throat easier than the tail end, and cannot be pulled out again half so easily.

When the toad had decided which was the head he transferred it by one flap of his tongue to his stomach and instantly nipped his jaws tight together. The major part of the worm, being in the air, writhed about and twisted itself around the toad's head. The toad waited until the coil was loosed, and then gulped down half an inch more of the worm, and took a fresh nip with his jaws. But there were many half inches in this enormously long worm; and when the toad had succeeded by successive gulps in getting down more than half its whole length into his stomach his jaws began to grow tired, and he could not prevent the worm from working his way partly out again between the gulps. Presently the worm was working out much faster than the toad could swallow.

My sympathies were with the toad, partly because he was higher in the scale of being, but chiefly because I had petted toads, and felt as though my own honor was at stake. I was beginning to fear lest I should have the mortification of seeing the worm escape. But I did injustice to the toad; his genius rose to the occasion. He brought his right hind foot up against his abdomen, grasped through the wall of his abdomen his stomach, and at each successive gulp took a fresh grasp with his foot, thus holding the worm from going out, and soon succeeded in swallowing the whole.

Female Curiosity.

The servant girl of a boarding-house went to the door to get the mail.

Letter-carrier—Here is a letter for Judge Pennybunker. Does he live here?

Servant—Yes, he has the front room. He is a rich old bachelor. Is the letter addressed in a female hand?

"Yes, here it is." "Good gracious! So it is, and as sure as I am born there is a photograph in it."

"Here is another letter for Judge Pennybunker."

"Addressed in a female hand, too?"

"No, this one is from Partem & Squeal, the great divorce lawyers. Their name is printed on the envelope."

"Well, that settles it."

"Settles what?"

"Nothing, except I was going to quit this boarding-house on the 1st, but now I'm going to stay right here and see this thing out."—Texas Siftings.

Still Hopeful.

A traveler for a New York grocery house entered the store of a retail grocer in Pennsylvania to find the Sheriff in charge. "Well, this is a bad muss," he said to the grocer who sat whistling beside the stove. "Yes, but I'm still hopeful," was the reply. "Why, your notes have gone to protest, your creditors have attached, and what have you to hope for?" "Why," said the man, as he lowered his voice so that the Sheriff couldn't hear, "I've got three barrels of New Orleans molasses they haven't found yet, and they are enough to start business on again after this is over."—Wall Street News.

THERE are no greater prudes than those women who have some secret to hide.—George Sand.

J. D. LEIGHTY,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBER GOODS, HATS, CAPS, ETC.

A FULL LINE OF

Plug, Smoking and Fine Cut Tobaccos, Canned Fruits, Prunes, Raisins Currants, Etc., Etc.

St. Joe, - - Indiana.

M. T. BISHOP.

—DEALER IN—

LUMBER,

LATH. SHINGLES, PINE AND POP-LAR LUMBER, LIME, PLASTER, MOULDINGS, ETC., ETC.

I HAVE AN IMMENSE STOCK AND SOLICIT YOUR PATRONAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

YARD NEAR DEPOT, - - ST. JOE, IND.

S. & F. BARNEY,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

CLOTHING, GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, GROCERIES. GENERAL STOCK OF HARDWARE, STOVES AND TRIMMINGS,

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

Produce, Grain, Seeds, and Wool.

CASE & OLDS,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

GROCERIES, CLOTHING, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, QUEENS-WARE, CLASSWARE, ETC.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

EXAMINE THE BARGAINS ON OUR

5 and 10c Counters.

THE ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. I.

ST. JOE, IND., FRIDAY, MARCH 18, 1887.

NO. 8.

THE NEWS.

Intelligence by Wire from All the World

FOREIGN.

—Rome advices are to the effect that the triple alliance between Austria, Germany, and Italy was signed March 4.

—In Galway, Ireland, during an outbreak in which the troops were confined to their barracks, a mob of 1,000 citizens beat and kicked a few soldiers found in the streets and then stoned their barracks.

—A foreman employed in the British Government works at Chatham has been suspended, it is alleged, for revealing important secret naval designs to the United States and Russian Governments.

—Dr. Junker, the African explorer, has arrived at Munich in good health.

—Twenty-four hundred miners have struck in the Borinage district, Belgium.

—The French Chamber of Deputies has approved a bill imposing a duty of 5 francs per kilo on wheat imports.

—The new explosive, melinite, has just furnished an evidence of its terribly destructive nature. An explosion occurred in the arsenal at Belfort, France, by which many men were killed or injured.

—A Cairo (Egypt) dispatch says: Abdelkader Pasha, Minister of the Interior, has resigned on account of scandals fastened on him in connection with real-estate speculations. Mustapha Fehmi Pasha, Minister of Finance, will succeed Abdelkader Pasha, and Mohammed Zaky Pasha will become Minister of Finance.

—The septennate bill passed the Reichstag at Berlin, by a vote of 227 to 31, 84 members not voting.

—A London dispatch announces the death of Lytton Edward Sothern, the actor, son of the late E. A. Sothern.

—Advices from Rostchuk say that fourteen commissioned officers who participated in the recent revolt were shot near Rasgrad, and that all the privates concerned in the revolt have been pardoned. A young Russian has been condemned to death for being concerned in the recent revolt. Lieut. Kissimoff has been sentenced to one year's imprisonment for his connection with the outbreak. The German and Russian Consulates are said to be secreting refugee insurgents.

PERSONAL.

—E. H. Abbott, Secretary of the Supreme Council of the Royal Templars of Temperance, is a defaulter to the extent of $5,000, and is reported to be in Canada.

—James B. Eads, the constructor of the St. Louis bridge and the Mississippi jetties, died at Naesau, in the Bahama Islands, in his sixty-seventh year. From a biographical sketch before us we learn that—

Mr. Eads was born in Lawrenceburg, Ind., May 23, 1820, and his early education was acquired in the schools of Louisville and Cincinnati. Before he had succeeded in mastering the rudiments, however, his father experienced reverses which necessitated the boy's withdrawal from school, to which he never returned. At a very early age he developed a taste for mechanics and a fondness for experimenting with machinery, which afterwards became the ruling passion of his life. In September, 1833, when only 13 years old, he arrived in St. Louis. The steambot on which his father with his family had embarked to seek a home farther West had burned, and the family was destitute. Young Eads sold apples on the streets to contribute something to the support of himself. In 1832 he entered into partnership with Case & Nelson, boat-builders, for the purpose of recovering steamboats and cargoes which had been wrecked, and the firm prospered amazingly. In 1835-36 he submitted to Congress a proposition to keep the Western rivers open for a term of years by removing all obstructions and keeping the channels free. The bill embodying his proposal passed the House, but was defeated in the Senate. He retired from active business in 1837 on account of ill-health. During the war Mr. Eads received the contract for building the first seven vessels of the Mississippi gunboat flotilla. From the close of the war to the time of construction of the great St. Louis bridge Mr. Eads was engaged in no great public works. Upon that bridge his fame as an engineer was firmly established. The bridge project was first conceived in 1839. Various sites were selected for the bridge, and the project met with varying fortunes until Mr. Eads began to take an active interest in it in 1867. In that year he was elected Engineer-in-chief of the company then formed. He at once secured the services of Colonel Henry Flad and proceeded to develop plans which were subsequently followed when bridge was constructed. It was completed and opened in 1874. In 1875 Mr. Eads began the construction of a system of jetties for increasing the depth of the water at the mouth of the Mississippi under contract with the Government. His plans when proposed were scouted at first by prominent engineers, but proved eminently successful. His last great project was the Tehuantepec Ship Canal.

—The aged, step-mother of Captain James B. Eads resides at La Porte, Ind., where she is compelled to maintain herself by sewing.

—Mary Baker, of Menon, Ind., has not taken a mouthful of food for 158 days. Nothing keeps her alive but her strong determination to recover her health. She is merely a skeleton, and her death has been hourly expected for three months. Her parents have promised that her remains shall be spared from the dissecting-knife.

POLITICAL.

—The Wisconsin Assembly has passed a bill making an appropriation for the erection of a monument on the field of Gettysburg.

—It is rumored that the Fiftieth Congress will be called together in October, and that the fall session will run along into the regular one.

—The President has appointed R. W. Loughery, of Texas, to be United States Consul at Acapulco, Mexico.

—The President has taken advantage of the repeal of the tenure-of-office act and removed James D. Bowie, Collector of Customs at Petersburg, Va., and John Monshaw, Supervising Inspector of Steam Vessels for the Third District. The latter has twice been suspended and then restored to duty because of the failure of the Senate to act on the nomination of his successor.

—The President has appointed Charlton H. Way, of Georgia, Consul General of the United States at St. Petersburg. He has also appointed the following named Postmasters:

M. Byrne, Jr., at Grass Valley, Cal., vice S. D. Bosworth, commission expired; Isaac N. Thompson, at Santa Clara, Cal., vice J. M. Billings, commission expired; Edward Weisbaum, at Hanford, Cal., vice E. J. Plummer, commission expired; Elisha DeWitt, at Yreka, Cal., vice A. E. Raynes, commission expired; Edwin O. Hollins, at Oroville, Cal., vice John J. Smith, resigned; Daniel K. Weiss, at Ashland, Ky., vice R. W. Lampton, commission expired; Hiram H. Thomas, at Calusa, Cal., vice B. A. Pryor, removed; Mary C. Hughes, at Fresno City, Cal., vice W. E. Hughes, deceased; A. P. McKerny, at San Bernardino, Cal., vice W. B. Porter, resigned; Napoleon B. Byrne, at Berkeley, Cal., vice S. E. Merrill, commission expired; Russell P. Emmons, at Escoda, Mich., vice H. C. King, removed; Lord W. Hinman, at Lapeer, Mich., vice John Abbott, commission expired; Lowrey W. Hawkins, at Canton, Mo., vice L. W. England, commission expired; James E. Sargentine, at Cleveland, Tenn., vice Mary H. Edwards, deceased; Joseph J. McBride, at Livingston, Montana, vice F. W. Wright, resigned; John M. Landis, at Oswego, Kan., vice L. S. Crum, removed.

—The Illinois House has passed a bill permanently locating the State Fair at Springfield.

—The Massachusetts House of Representatives, by a vote of 97 to 61, defeated the woman suffrage resolution.

—The Indiana Supreme Court has denied Senator Green Smith's petition for a rehearing in the Lieutenant Governorship case, holding that the Legislature only can settle that question.

—Philadelphia telegram: "The action of the committee of the Republican members of the Legislature in changing the Congressional district so as to oust Samuel J. Randall is the talk of the hour. At the Democratic headquarters it is asserted that Gen. Cameron will not allow the change to become a law. The districts are organized give the city another Representative, making six in all. If the change made by the committee are voted by the Legislature, Mr. Randall will be superseded by John C. Grady, whom, it is asserted, James McManes is to put in the fight against Randall at the next Congressional election. It is also on the slate to send new and younger men to the next Congress in place of A. C. Harmer and James O'Neil."

FINANCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

—Natural gas has been struck at Alexandria, Ind.

—The failure of Randall, Gile & Shallies, boot and shoe dealers at Boston, is announced. They owe $80,000.

—The new cotton-seed oil company so long promised has been incorporated at Camden, New Jersey, under the presidency of Henry C. Butcher, with a capital of $5,000,000. It has authority to build twenty-two mills and six refineries.

—B. A. Smith, wholesale and retail dry goods at Halifax, Nova Scotia, has failed for $60,000.

—The Maritime Bank of St. John, N. B., has closed its doors. The collapse was entirely unexpected. Wall, Smith & Co., a Louisville tobacco firm, have made an assignment. The cotton commission house of Humphrey, Blake & Co., of St. Louis, with liabilities of $40,000, is insolvent.

—The 150 grave-diggers employed in Calvary Cemetery, Long Island, who are Knights of Labor, have decided to strike for an advance of wages.

—McLellan & Co., bankers, at St. John, N. B., have suspended, owing to the failure of the Maritime Bank.

—Out of a total coinage of 256,471,647 standard silver dollars there are in circulation 57,214,510. There are silver certificates in circulation amounting to $13,300,392, which leaves 73,906,745 not standard dollars in the Treasury.

—Italian laborers to the number of 1,191 were landed at Castle Garden, New York, in one day.

—The coal operators about Peoria, Ill., have been advised that 100 colored miners and thirty families will be shipped at once from Danville to fill the places of strikers.

—The railway strikers at Sault Junction, Mich., took possession of the camps, and would not allow work to be carried on. The contractors appealed to the Sheriff for help, and bloodshed was feared.

—A Boston dispatch says: "The Executive Committee has declared the Cambridge Railroad strike off. As most of the vacancies have been filled with new men, very few of the strikers will be taken back."

—The Western Union telegraph messengers, at the main office in Philadelphia struck for 65 cents a day and car fare for over twelve squares.

—Milwaukee dispatch: "The strike of the printers in this city is at an end, the Typographical Union having allowed its members to procure work wherever they can get it. The blow is a heavy one to the union, and it is doubtful if it can hold together under the strain."

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

—A decree of foreclosure entered at Cleveland provides for the sale of the Nickel-Plate Road at not less than $18,000,000.

—The Federal Court at Nashville, Tenn., sustained the Ohio and Mississippi Road in refusing express matter of the Baltimore and Ohio Company, the contract being terminable on the notice given.

—Nearly one hundred railway officials, at a meeting held in Chicago, resolved to withdraw all passes except those issued to officials and employees, and to give out no more. In regard to other provisions of the interstate commerce law, it may be said that the independent action of the Pennsylvania Company greatly simplified the work of making uniform rules.

—The Ohio Legislature has authorized the city of Cincinnati to sell the Southern Road.

—The Illinois Central Road has put on a tropical-fruit train which runs from New Orleans to Chicago in thirty-six hours.

—A New York dispatch states that the negotiations between President Garrett and the Richmond Terminal Company have fallen through and the deal is off; that a new proposition is now being considered by Mr. Garrett, and negotiations are now on foot for the transfer of the control of the Baltimore and Ohio to a syndicate of private bankers.

GENERAL.

—Out of twenty-five cities reported by telegraph to Bradstreet's, Chicago and Kansas City alone announce special gains in the volume of staples distributed during the week.

—Under the law, Henry Dodson, a vagrant, was sold at Augusta, Ky., to the highest bidder for seventy-five days. The jailer bought him for $1, and turned him loose.

—The United States Supreme Court has rendered a decision denying the right of States and municipalities to tax commercial travelers from other States.

—The Indianapolis Club has been admitted to the National Base-Ball League on the franchise purchased from St. Louis.

—Washington telegram: "The Public Printer suspended about forty employees Saturday, and to-night he discharged 106 more. The large amount of work ordered by Congress during January and February caused an unusually heavy outlay of money and necessitated the reduction in force in order that the annual appropriations might not be exceeded. Additional discharges are expected."

—An alleged infernal machine, addressed to the Prince of Wales, has found its way to the dead-letter office in Washington.

—Commodore Kittson has sold the pacer, John-son (2:06 1/4), to Frank Siddals, of Philadelphia for $15,000.

—Secretary Whitney declares that "there is no truth in any statement which connects the Navy Department with anything clandestine in the way of obtaining plans abroad or the secrets of foreign governments."

CASUALTIES.

—Two men were killed and another was fatally injured by the explosion of the boiler in W. F. Thompson's tub factory at Ithaca, Michigan.

—The Eclipse flour mill, owned by Peets, Proctor & Co., was burned at Danville, Ky. Loss, $30,000.

—Gibbs' shingle mill near Edmore, Mich., was shattered by the explosion of the boiler. Two persons were killed, one fatally injured, and six dangerously wounded.

—While building a fence along the railway track at Independence, Missouri, John Harrison and William Majors were killed by a train.

—A serious accident occurred on the Jacksonville and Southwestern Railroad, between Virden and Girard, Ill., by which two passenger coaches were derailed and tumbled down an embankment about eight feet high, and several persons were badly hurt. The list of the injured is as follows: Senator Elizur Southworth, of Litchfield, severely injured internally, perhaps fatally. Senator L. B. Stephenson, of Shelbyville, bruised; Senator J. J. Higgins, of Duquoin, bruised; Senator T. L. McGrath, of Mattoon, bruised; Senator R. L. Organ, of Carmi, bruised; Representative G. V. E. Fletcher, of St. Elmo, bruised; Representative J. R. Campbell, of McLeansboro, head cut and badly bruised; Miss E. B. Russell, of Carlinville, hip severely hurt; George Koch, of Girard, face badly hurt; L. M. Smith, of Litchfield, severely hurt. Senator Southworth, who was in the smoker, was thrown across the car. He fainted away and had to be handed from the car. After stimulants had been administered he was taken in the baggage-car to his home at Litchfield. It is said that the wreck was caused by running at a too high rate of speed. The train on the Jacksonville Road and one on the Chicago and Alton Road, which runs parallel with the Jacksonville Road for a distance of four miles, were racing, it is charged.

CRIMES AND CRIMINALS.

—The safe of B. T. Marple's store at State Line, near Danville, Ill., was robbed of $1,210 worth of jewelry and two valuable gold watches by unknown cracksmen.

—A dispatch from Garden City, Kansas, says: "The Coronado-Loot trouble was practically terminated by the arrest of fourteen of the ringleaders by Sheriff Edwards, of Wichita County, assisted by a posse of fifteen men and accompanied by Adjutant General Campbell and Colonel Ricksecker, of Sterling. The names of the prisoners are: J. W. Knapp, Jack Leahy, Joe Offenger, M. Walton, W. A. Frush, Charles Plack, William Moore, C. A. Harb, Charles and Julius Leersich, William Matson, C. H. Wheat, Lilley, and Howard."

—At Columbus, Ohio, Lucy Parsons, the wife of the Chicago Anarchist, was arraigned before the Mayor on a charge of disorderly conduct. The Mayor decided to place her under $300 bonds to keep the peace. Mrs. Parsons could not give bond and was sent to the County Jail. She made a speech to the large crowd which had gathered, saying that this was the end of liberty.

—A deadly affray occurred at Fayette, Miss., between a man named Orr and his three sons, all armed with revolvers, and Lud Churchill and his two sons, the former armed with a shotgun and the latter with axes. In the

The St. Joe News.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

HIS WIFE.

BY JUSTIN MCCARTHY.

I cannot touch his cheek.
Nor ruffle with a loving breath his hair;
I look into his eyes, and hear him speak—
He never knows that I am there!
Oh, if my darling would but only know
That day and night, through all his weary life,
I, whom he loved in the years long ago,
Am with him still—his wife!

I watch him at his task,
When the broad sunbeams first light up his room;
I watch him till the evening lays her mask
Upon the face of day; and in the gloom
He lays his pencil down and silent sits,
And leans his chin upon his hand and sighs:
How well I know what memory round him fits!
I read it in his eyes.

And when his pencil's skill
Has sometimes wrought a touch of happy art,
I see his face with sudden gladness fill;
I see him turn with eager lips apart,
To bid me come and welcome his success;
And then he droops, and throws his brush aside:
Oh, if my darling then could only guess
That she is near who died!

Sometimes I fancy, too,
That he does dimly know it—that he feels
Some influence of love pass thrilling through Death's prison bars, the spirit's bonds and seals,
Some dear companionship around him still;
Some whispered blessing, faintly-breathed
The presence of a love no death can kill
Brightening his loneliness.

Ah, but it cannot be!
The dead are with the living—I am here;
But he, my living love, he cannot see
His dead wife, though she cling to him so near.
I seek his eyes; I press against his cheek;
I hear him breathe my name in waiting tone—
He calls me, calls his wife, I cannot speak—
He thinks he is alone.

This is the bitterness of death;
To know he loves me, pines and yearns for me;
To see him, still to hear him, feel his breath
Fan my sad cheek, and yet I am not free
To bid him feel, by any faintest touch,
That she who never left his side in life—
She who so loved him, whom he loved so much—
Is with him still, his wife.

AFTER MANY DAYS.

BY EDNA R. RUSSELL.

Lillian Whitney looked out into the gathering twilight, her fair face, with the nut-brown curls clinging about it, brought out in startling relief by a background of vivid blush roses.

She was expecting her lover—noble, handsome Frank Carleton!—only a week ago he had poured into her ears the story of his love, and had asked her to be his wife.

And she smiled softly and blushed as she looked at the diamond ring which gleamed in the tender light of the glorious June noon, just grandly rising behind the far-off purple hills.

"Oh!" murmured Lillian, "what have I ever done that such a grand, noble man should love me?"

The love-light in her eyes became brighter, the blushes on her cheek deepened, for she heard a footstep which she could never mistake. With a fluttering heart Lillian shrank back among the rose-bushes, thinking fondly that Frank would soon find her.

But Frank Carleton was not alone, for a woman, tall and graceful in form, dressed in somber black, was walking beside him.

Hark! Frank was speaking, and Lillian strained her ears to hear. What a look of love and devotion there was on his face as he bent over her! Lillian clenched her hands, and her lips grew white and rigid.

"Dear Maud," he said, softly and tenderly, "you can never guess how very, very thankful I am that that man is dead. Now you are free, and nothing shall part us again."

"Nothing, Frank?" she said, looking up at him; and Lillian could see the passionate love shining in his eyes. "Not even your marriage with this beautiful Miss Whitney?"

"Surely not," he answered, almost reproachfully. "Why should it?"

And then they passed on.

With a low moan, Lillian fell prone among the rose-bushes.

Lillian did not stop to reason—did not stop to consider that there might be a mistake, that deceit and falsehood had ever been foreign to Frank Carleton's nature.

And so the next day Frank received a small package—a few books, some old love-letters, and a diamond ring. There was no note of explanation, but he well knew who had sent them.

Enraged and astounded, he immediately sought Lillian for an explanation; but the servant who answered his impatient ring said that she was "not at home."

A week later Frank Carleton started for the Continent, and so these two lives, that might have been all in all to each other, drifted further and further apart.

Five years later. It was the evening of Mrs. Roderick Forrester's ball, and the best society of Melville was there. Lillian Whitney leaned back in the embrasure of one of the windows, and hidden by the flowing draperies of the curtains, watched with dreamy, half-closed eyes the bright, merry throng in the ball-room.

Her beauty was more spirituelle than it had been five years ago, and the proud look on her face had softened into more tender, more womanly curves. She was decidedly the belle of the evening, and it was only by much skillful maneuvering that she had been able to gain this quiet retreat for a few moments.

All at once she caught her breath with a sudden gasp of pain, and placing her hand on her heart to stop its wild beating, leaned forward and peered out.

Yes, it was surely Frank Carleton she saw, though he was much changed. Tall and straight, and browned, with heavy mustache and beard, he looked at least ten years older, and certainly a great deal more handsome and manly, than he had looked five years ago.

"How noble he looks!" Lillian thought, with a sudden thrill. "Oh, how could I misjudge him so by my dark suspicions? And now I have lost him for ever!" And the hot tears of bitter anguish and remorse trickled between her daintily-gloved fingers.

The curtains parted, and Mrs. Roderick Forrester and Frank Carleton stood before her.

"Lillie, love, you thought you would outwit us this time, but you see you have failed, for I knew where you were all the time. Allow me to present—Why, child, are you ill?"

For, white and trembling, our heroine had sunk down, looking like a broken lily. She had thought she could bear the meeting firmly and calmly, but her strength failed her at the last moment.

When, a few minutes later, she opened her eyes, she found Frank Carleton's arms were about her, and that he was showering kisses on her face.

For a moment she felt as if she could die for very happiness.

"Frank," she whispered,—"oh, Frank, can you forgive me after I have wronged you so deeply?"

"Hush!" he said—"hush, my darling! I have nothing to forgive!"

"She has told me all," she went on—"your sister Maud—how you have loved her, and how much you have helped her while her miserable, drunken husband was alive! And, oh, Frank, I misjudged you so cruelly! I did not know she was your sister!"

"Of course you did not," he said, tenderly. "Has not your mistake made us miserable for five long years? Do not mention it again, my darling!"

And he stopped her lips with a kiss.

"AS YOU SOW."

"Nothing but a shop girl married for a home."

So I heard the sentence pass through rosy lips.

I turned aside, and bending over my cheerful fire, wondered if she too must be doomed to find her bread thus heedlessly cast upon the water, and some good angel whispers tremblingly in my ears, "As ye sow, so shall ye reap."

What's the use in running on in this style?

No one receives injury, while hundreds of girls do the same thing, and marry widowers at that, too.

Yes, hundreds—nay, thousands—marry for this as well as for every conceivable object under the sun; while here and there scattered through the multitude may be found those who place love upon the great altar.

But this has grown so extremely old-fashioned of late that our ladies of style dare only glance at "what might have been," and eagerly grasp the moneyed purse.

The working populace, seeing the example of their more favored sisters, quickly follow in the wake, thus placing crime upon crime until it ends in family quarrels, separation, divorce, prison, and death.

Very strong language to use, for a girl tired of working for herself, without a home, and a scanty purse.

Well, do you obtain a home, a full purse, and folded arms?

The home may turn to be the one miserable spot within you.

You eat, drink, and sleep, while the full purse and folded arms may prove an everlasting curse.

No happy blessings can, surely, follow such injustice to him who shares your lot.

The unforeseen misery inflicted upon yourself is a just reward for your unfaithfulness to him.

If he be a widower, your position is extremely delicate, for by securing yourself a home others may have been driven out to battle with the world, and their tale of woe will be a heavy burden for you to bear ere you reach your long home.

Women of fashion, and the vast multitude who work for your living, if you marry upon any pretext whatever, except for love, death hovers over your bridal feast.

As years glide on, a quarrel ensues, separation is talked of, a divorce threatened, and only too often, in the frenzy of the moment, a weapon is seized, and death may claim one offender, while the prison may receive the other.

Else you will live on in a perpetual war. Each day will have heavier trials than the preceding.

Your little buds of promise are heedlessly neglected, because of your one great misery; while he, the provider of your home, loiters in "private bars," and drowns his troubles in the poisoning cup.

But who—oh, who is to blame? Women, use carefully your mysterious power over the hearts of men.

You possess, in a measure, the means of increasing their happiness or woe.

Therefore, look well to the trust within your keeping, and have the casket which contains it brightly garnished.

Then the clerks in the divorce courts would go begging for bread, and who would not give them a loaf, with a "God bless you?"

Many a prison cell would remain vacant, while the pot of soup containing the nutriment of clean bones would be more strengthening, as the quantity of water is considerably less.

The churchyard mounds being fewer, the wild flowers playing free amid the long grasses would flourish quite as well with less water from the great fount of human tears.

"But is not separation preferable to a life of continual unhappiness?" I still hear some silently questioning.

My fire has gone out; the last coals have faded into ashes.

I would have all such queries pass from the lips of humanity.

But this cannot be while marriage is a thing of bargaining for gain.

When we are ready to place only the one great power upon the altar, then, indeed, will dawn the millennium in this respect, and until then some few will strongly battle for the right, hoping the end may lie somewhere in the dimly-lighted future.

Girls' Friendships.

Among the joys of girlhood is friendship, which, though often laughed at as absurd and "missish," is, nevertheless, very sweet. Most girls, even if they have sisters, have also some special friend to whom they vow eternal devotion, write voluminous letters when they are apart, and for whom they contrive all sorts of little presents, more or less useful or ornamental. If the friend is an ordinarily good girl, this affection is beneficial to both parties, takes each a little out of her own small circle as well as of herself, and widens her horizon. It is often very pure and unselfish, and, especially between girls who never marry, endures as long as they live.

But there comes a time when, to use the ordinary phrase, a girl's education is finished, when books are somewhat laid aside, and she becomes a young lady at large, free to follow her own bent if she has one, and generally disposed to see as much as she can of the world. A wholesome-natured girl is ready for anything, and "takes the goods the gods provide" with all simplicity. She enjoys a country ramble thoroughly, trips along with feet as light as her heart, plays vigorously at lawn-tennis when she has the opportunity, reads the book and sees the pictures of the day, and adds wonderfully to the brightness of the home circle. She is her father's pride, her mother's vicegerent, and her brother's "chum." This is the halcyon time of life, when innocent pleasures have not begun to pall, and when the future is rosy with the sunshine of love and happiness. Our Mary grows critical about her appearance, detects the smallest approach to a misfit in her frocks, and is somewhat difficult to please in the matter of hats and bonnets. It is quite natural that she should wish to look her best, and if a lover comes along who sees in her

"His heaven-born Eve, on whose unsullied brow
The shadow of the sinner never came,"

and she reciprocates his feeling, a new world opens before her, and her parents live their own youth over again as they feel that the new love only deepens old ones, and draws all natural ties closer. This is as it ought to be; and a wise lover, knowing that a dutiful daughter makes a good wife, will rejoice to see it, and congratulate himself on having won the heart of a girl who so winsomely answers to the sweet name of Mary.—Cassell's Family Magazine.

A CLERGYMAN was questioning his Sunday school concerning the story of Eutychus—the young man who, listening to the preaching of the Apostle Paul, fell asleep, and, falling down, was taken up dead. "What," he said, "do we learn from this solemn event?" when the reply from a little girl came pat and prompt, "Please, sir, ministers should not preach too long sermons."

PITH AND POINT.

A CAT-BOAT is always dangerous when it squalls.

CROWS never kick up a disturbance without caws.

LAVINA wonders if the lot of a pawn-broker isn't a loan-ly one.

A MAN isn't liable to arrest for assault and battery if he "beats" his creditors.

DEBTOR—Good morning, sir. I just wanted to pay my respects. Creditor.—Anything else?

BRUSQUE EDITOR—I must decline your poem. It lacks merit. Indignant poet—No, sir. You simply lack appreciation.

WHEN a woman endeavors to screen her beauty from the public gaze her efforts are not without a veil.—Detroit Free Press.

THE reason some men never meet with any failures in life is because they never make any efforts to succeed. Philadelphia Call.

A PRIVATE watchman in New York City is charged with five different robberies. He was on duty but five nights, and this accounts for the few charges.

LANDLADY—Have you noticed, Mr. Brown, that there is nothing but leaves on the streets now? Boarder (who has come late to breakfast)—Yes, madam, and that fact is very suggestive of your table.

"IN that drawer," said the poet on his death-bed, "you will find a lot of my posthumous works. I bequeath them all to you." "Ah! you are too kind," protested the friend. "No, I am not. No one else wants them."

"I HOPE, my dear, that you don't intend to go to the theater alone?" "No, indeed; I never go unless I am chaperoned." "Unless what?" "Chaperoned." "That's just the way with me; I always like to have a chap around."

COUNSEL for the defense—Gentlemen of the jury, if there ever was a case which, more than any other case, challenged careful comparison with similar cases, this case is that case.—Fliegende Blaetter.

"ISN'T it pretty lonesome out in the country?" he said to the boy whose parents moved out on a farm last fall. "I guess not," was the reply. "Pa and ma have just as many discussions as they did in the city, and us children get licked about the same."—Detroit Free Press.

"YOUR friend, Lawyer H., dresses pretty well, it seems to me, for a man who has only been practicing a few years," said Smith to Thompson; "he is mighty lucky." "I hope he don't gamble?" "I'm afraid he does, for he told me yesterday that he won nearly every suit he was in."—Chicago Ledger.

A CHRISTIAN clergyman once went to an orthodox synagogue with a Jewish friend. He listened to a congregation chanting "Mismar L David" with the usual congregational discord, and was told by his Jewish friend that it was sung to the same tune in the days of David. "Ah!" said the clergyman, with a sigh of relief, "that accounts for it. I have often wondered why Saul threw his javelin at David."

A SLIGHT CATASTROPHE.
They stood in beauty side by side,
They felt the ice with glee.
Now Johnny was his mother's pride,
And Tommy eke was he.
"I guess der ice is strong enough;
Let's have a slide," said John.
"Well, you go first," said little Tom,
"And soon I shall come on."
But ice which may be safe for one
May not be safe for two.
When John and Thomas reached their homes
Some tears two woodsheds knew.
—New York Morning Journal.
With stealthy hand he strove to clip
One golden ringlet from her head.
"Ah, don't!" Then, with a smiling lip,
"They are my sister Jane's," she said.
—Harper's Magazine.

Reward of Industry.
Faithful housewife—Mrs. Candour, is it? Dear me, I can't stop my sewing now. Tell her I'm not at home.
Bridget—Please, mum, I've been tellin' so many you're not at home I wish you'd see some of 'em.

"Why, Bridget?"

"I don't like the way they act, they look at each other and snicker so."

"Mercy! Do they suspect I am at home?"

"No, mum, I wish they did. I heard one of 'em say they wouldn't like your husband to know of the goings on."

"Heaven preserve us! What do they mean?"

"They think, mum, you're the worst gad-about in town."—Tid-Bits.

GUILTINESS will speak though tongues were out of use.—Shakespeare.

Old People.

A gentleman who was showing me a literary paper which he had written in a very clear, bold hand, remarked:

"I always write very distinctly, that I may have no difficulty in reading my manuscript when old age comes upon me."

He was then bordering on 70. Another very vigorous old gentleman, aged 77, who was at the head of a large publishing establishment, was explaining to a friend the enormous amount of work he went through from day to day. The friend remarked that it must tell upon him seriously at his age. "Oh, no," he replied; "I don't feel it now, but I expect I shall do so in after life!"

I cannot vouch for the truth of the following anecdotes, but they may serve to "point a moral and adorn a tale."

In the old coaching days, when a coach stopped on one occasion to change horses, one of the passengers strolled along a green lane and was surprised to see an old man sitting under the hedge crying. In answer to a question as to the cause of his grief, he replied that his father had been beating him. The passenger, who thought the father of an old man like that must be a curiosity worth seeing, asked him to take him to his father. The old man led him to a cottage, where a very old man was standing at the gate, looking very angry.

"Is this your son?" he asked.

"Yes," replied the old man, gruffly.

"He tells me you have been beating him," said the passenger.

"Yes, and he deserves beating, the young rascal, for he has been throwing stones at his grandfather!"

I have heard of another old man, and his wife, both of whom had reached the venerable age of 100. They had three daughters, the youngest of whom died unmarried, at the age of 72. The old woman was quite inconsolable on account of their irreparable loss. The youngest daughter had evidently been her pet, for after their return from the funeral she said to her husband, amid her sobs and tears:

"I always tell thee, John, that we should never rear that child."

Disorders Which Affect the Kidneys
Are among the most formidable known. Diabetes, Bright's disease, gravel, and other complaints of the urinary organs, are not ordinarily cured in severe cases, but they may be averted by timely medication. A useful stimulant of the urinary glands has ever been found in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which not only affords the requisite stimulus when they become inactive, but increases their vigor and secretory power. By increasing the activity of the kidneys and bladder, this medicine has the additional effect of expelling from the blood impurities which it is the peculiar office of those organs to eliminate and pass off. The Bitters is also a purifier and strengthener of the bowels, an invigorant of the stomach, and a matchless remedy for biliousness and fever and ague. It counteracts a tendency to premature decay, and sustains and comforts the aged and infirm.

Dolls.

Dolls are of greater antiquity than many may imagine. They are traced back to their "probable" first appearance in puppet shows. The practice of sending them from France to foreign countries was of very early date. In the royal expenses for 1391 figure so many "livres" for a doll sent to the Queen of England; in 1496, another sent to the Queen of Spain, and in 1577 a third sent to the Duchess of Bavaria. Henry IV writes in 1600, before his marriage to Marie de Medicis: "Frontenac tells me that you desire patterns of our fashion in dress. I send you, therefore, some model dolls."

A Look Ahead.

Petted Prima Donna—I wish, doctor, you would go to church more frequently.

Favorite Doctor—Impossible; my duties are too pressing.

"Then you should have help. Promise me you will go at least once every Sunday."

"But why?"

"Why? Just think of the way we prima donnas will be kept singing in heaven if we don't have any one to give us sore-throat certificates."—Tid-Bits.

Tennyson's "May Queen."

Who knows but if the beautiful girl who died so young had been blessed with Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" she might have reigned on many another bright May-day. The "Favorite Prescription" is a certain cure for all those disorders to which females are liable.

A PRAYER to be effectual needs amending.
—Pretzel's Weekly.

If you have a cough or cold, do not dose yourself with poisonous narcotics, but take Red Star Cough Cure, which contains no opiates, and is safe, prompt, and sure. Price, twenty-five cents a bottle.

A SACRED white elephant, fellow citizens, is not the only thing about a circus that "won't wash."—Norristown Herald.

You will never succeed in finding permanent relief from rheumatism until you have used St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain-cure. Price fifty cents.

What His Uncle Said.

Summerbee's boy didn't learn his alphabet very readily and always stuck at G. The "schoolmarm" tried to make him remember it, but to no purpose. Finally an idea struck her. She said: "Johnny, you were in the country during last vacation, I believe?"

"Yesum."

"Your uncle had some cattle, too, did he not?"

"Yesum."

"Well, did he not say to his cattle when he wanted them to go, gee?"

"Yesum."

"Now do you think you can remember the letter?"

"Yesum."

The next day Johnny again stumbled on G, and the teacher, to refresh his memory, said:

"Well, Johnny, what did your uncle say to his cattle?"

Johnny hesitated a moment, and then yelled out:

"Haw, — you!"

The teacher thought that Johnny had suddenly learned the whole alphabet.

Common Sense.

The proprietors of the Moxie Nerve Food, that is creating such an excitement all over the country as a remedy for the liquor habit and nervous exhaustion, or results of overwork, talk the best sense yet. They say the nervous system is the seat of life, and controls the functions of the body. The functions of the body are to take nutrition and get rid of a corresponding amount of old and impure material. If the nerves are strong enough to do this, we are well, and the blood purifies itself every day; if not, we are ill. That is the whole system of health in a nutshell.

An instance is related of a woman whose brain was as soft as soap in both anterior lobes, and a tumor, measuring 6½ inches in its largest circumference and 5½ inches in its smallest circumference, was in the right lobe, yet this woman of thirty years retained her "mental faculties intact." "British and Foreign Medical Review," London, July, 1838, Vol. VI, p. 226.—Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

Don't hawk, and blow, and spit, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

IS THERE a soul living who has heard a sentiment emanating from the breast of veal?

Coughs and Hoarseness.—The irritation which induces coughing immediately relieved by use of "Brown's Bronchial Troches." Sold only in boxes.

The only way to get a murderer convicted in the West is to put a rope manufacturer on the jury.
For dyspepsia, indigestion, depression of spirits and general debility, in their various forms, also as a preventive against fever and ague and other intermittent fevers, the "Ferro-Phosphated Elixir of Calisaya," made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all druggists, is the best tonic; and for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal.

EVERYTHING is beautiful in cherry time, but not to the man who eats milk and cherries.

"Rough on Pain" Plaster, Porosed, 10c. Best.
"Rough on Pain," Liquid, Quick cure, 20c.
"Rough on Catarrh." Cures all, worst cases, 50c.
"Rough on Piles." Sure cure, 50c. Druggists.

"Rough on Dirt" for the toilet bath or shampoo. Perfectly harmless. Nice for washing infants, children or adults. For Miners, Machinists and others whose employment begrimes the clothing and hands. Invaluable in Hospitals, Asylums and Prisons as a disinfectant and purifier.

A Profitable Investment
Can be made in a postal card, if it is used to send your address on to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, who can furnish you work that you can do and live at home, wherever you are located; few there are who cannot earn over $5 per day, and some have made over $50. Capital not required; you are started free. Either sex; all ages. All particulars free.

If afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell at 25c.

BRONCHITIS is cured by frequent small doses of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

"Rough on Bile Pills." Little, but good, 10 & 25c.
"Rough on Itch" cures humors, eruptions, Tetter.
"Rough on Worms." Sure Cure, 25c.
"Rough on Pain" Plaster, Porosed 10c. Best.

It Should Be Generally Known

That the multitude of diseases of a scrofulous nature generally proceed from a torpid condition of the liver. The blood becomes impure because the liver does not act properly and work off the poison from the system, and the certain results are blotches, pimples, eruptions, swellings, tumors, ulcers, and kindred affections, or settling upon the lungs and poisoning their delicate tissues, until ulceration, breaking down, and consumption is established. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will, by acting upon the liver and purifying the blood, cure all these diseases.

A CONNECTICUT man has invented a paper carpet. Of course it will be read.

EVERY person is interested in their own affairs, and if this meets the eye of any one who is suffering from the effects of a torpid liver, we will admit that he is interested in getting well. Get a bottle of Prickly Ash Bitters, use it as directed, and you will always be glad you read this item.

If consistency is a jewel, why isn't it more fashionable to wear it?

The Public Interested.

When manufacturers of an article are asking the public to consume their wares, it is indeed refreshing to know that they are reliably endorsed, as illustrated by the united endorsement of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic and Liver Pills by the druggists of St. Paul.

"Rough on Rats" clears out Rats, Mice, 15c.
"Rough on Corns" hard or soft corns, 15c.
"Rough on Toothache." Instant relief, 15c.
"Rough on Coughs," "Tropches, 10c. Liquid, 25c.

"Rough on Dirt" is unequalled for Dish-washing, House and Paint Cleaning, Cleaning Windows, Pails, Pans, Knives, Forks, Jewelry, Wash Basins, Bath Tubs, Sinks, Water Closets, &c. Cuts the dirt, without injury or discoloration. Keep it on the wash and toilet stands.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES. SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES. It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS
CURES ALL DISEASES OF THE LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH AND BOWELS.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
PRICE 1 DOLLAR.
Sole Proprietors, 86 LOUISIANA AND KANSAS CITY.

BENSON'S CAPSICINE POROUS PLASTER

Highest Awards of Medals in Europe and America.

The nearest, quickest, safest and most powerful remedy known for Rheumatism, Pleurisy, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Backache, W. aches, colic in the chest, and all aches and pains. Indorsed by 5000 Physicians and Druggists of the highest repute. Benson's Plaster promptly relieve and cure where other plasters and greasy salves, liniments and lotions, are absolutely useless. Beware of imitations under similar sounding names, such as "Capsicum," "Capsicine," &c. as they are utterly worthless and intended to deceive. Ask for BENSON'S and TAKE NO OTHERS. All druggists, NEARBY W. JOHNSON, Proprietors, New York.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.
CATARRH
Also good for Cold in the Head, Headache, Hay Fever, &c. 50 cents.

RUPTURE
If you want relief and cure at your home, send for Dr. J. A. Sherman's circular of instructions, 24 Broadway, New York.

GOGEBIC IRON MINING STOCKS bought & sold. Reliable information furnished. The Milwaukee Mining Exchange, Milwaukee, Wis. Telephone 1334.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

$5 to $5 a day. Samples worth $1.50. FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address Brewster's Safety Rein Holder, Holly, Mich.

MONEY MADE FAST in Gogebic stocks, and new town lots. Seedling guaranteed. Maps, etc., H. F. Kirk & Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

PENSIONS COLLECTED and increased by Fitzgerald & Powell, Indianapolis, Ind. Old cases renewed. Send for copy of law free.

MONEY MADE IN Gogebic Stocks. Reliable information furnished. C. G. COX & CO., 104 New Insurance Building, Milwaukee, Wis.

PAINT YOUR BUGGY for ONE DOLLAR

By using COIT'S ONE-COAT BUGGY PAINT. Paint Friday, run it to Church-Sunday. Six fashionable shades: Black, Maroon, Vermilion, Olive Lake, Brewster and Wagon Green. No Varnishing necessary. Dries hard with a high Gloss. Try for Chairs, Furniture, Baby Carriages, Front Doors, Sash, Frames, etc. Will send enough to paint your Buggy upon receipt of One Dollar, and warrant it to wear. Discount to the Trade. COIT & CO., 208 & 206 Kinzie St., Chicago, Ill.

CATARRH

HAY-FEVER

ELY'S CREAM BALM
Is not a liquid, snuff or powder. Applied into nostrils is quickly absorbed. It cleanses the head. Allays Inflammation. Heals the sores. Restores the senses of taste and smell. 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, register red 100 cents. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

HARTER'S IRON TONIC

THE ONLY TRUE
Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and Restore the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTE'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only add to its popularity. Do not experiment—get ORIGINAL AND BEST.
Dr. HARTE'S LIVER PILLS
(Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)
THE DR. HARTE MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

HAINESVILLE, N. J., October 15, 1880.
H. T. HAZRITING, Warren, Pa.
Dear Sir:
I was taken with a very severe cold last Spring, and tried every cure we had in the store, and could get no help.
I had our village doctor prescribe for me, but kept getting worse. I saw another physician from Port Jervis, N. Y., and he told me he used Piso's Cure for Consumption in his practice.
I bought a bottle, and before I had taken all of it there was a change for the better. Then I got my employer to order a quantity of the medicine and keep it in stock. I took one more bottle, and my Cough was cured.
Respectfully,
FRANK McKEELY.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

REGULATE your Watch with Teske's Regulator.

N. U. F. W. No. 12-87.
When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
One Year, in advance ..... $0.75
Six Months ..... 50
Three Months ..... 25

Entered at the Post Office at St. Joe as second-class matter.

FRIDAY MARCH 18, 1887.

SPENCERVILLE.

Rev. Fryberger and wife are visiting relatives in Ohio.

G. A. Bishop returned from Kan-keo last Friday.

Frank Wise has moved into the house vacated by Tom Fales.

Miss Hattie Langley, of St. Joe, was calling on her friends at this place last Friday.

There will be no service at the Lutheran church next Sunday, the minister being absent.

Raymond Rhoads who was seriously injured some time ago is again able to attend school.

Rev. Curry has closed the meeting at the M. E. church. The next regular service will be next Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller and Miss Laura Wilson, of Garrett, who have been spending a few days with her mother, returned home Monday.

The Missionary Society of the Lutheran church, will be entertained by Mrs. John Beams, Thursday, March 21st 1887. A cordial invitation is given to all.

Mrs. McGilvery and children started last Tuesday for Kansas where her husband went a few weeks ago, and where they will make their future home. Our best wishes for their future success go with them.

Henry Ables went to Waterloo last Friday on business.

Howard Northup has a good collection of fine poultry.

Bryan, Ohio, has got to be mighty big feeling since it struck "ile."

We have been kept pretty busy the past week doing job work.

Geo. DeLong, of Newville, has just returned from a visit to friends in Pa.

The first robbin appeared several days ago, but we forgot to say any thing about it.

Persons handing in articles for publication in this paper, should do so as early as Wednesday.

The Waterloo Press is always newsy, but last week's issue was brim full and overflowing with local news.

There seems to be quite an emigration of people from Hicksville to Independence, Missouri. Going west to grow up with the country we suppose.

We printed some sale bills for V. C. Bronson, of Newville, this week. He will sell his personal property, on the old Allen farm near Newville, on March 21st 1887.

It is impossible to avoid once in a while making a mistake, and if it should ever happen that you don't get your paper, report it to us and we will supply you with another copy.

The editor of the Hicksville News must be a bad, bad man, at least he acknowledges himself that when the cashier of the bank, at that place sees him lift the latch of the front door he always closes the door of the vault and locks it.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

COBURNTOWN.

Henry Milliman has put a new roof on his house.

Frank Scholes showed his smiling face at church, Monday night.

We shall be under the necessity of leaving out the mud in our items this week.

We understand the B. & O. are carrying passengers free from Coburntown to St. Joe now, and if they don't want to get off at St. Joe they can go on to Auburn.

There has been 15 accessions to the church at the Corners up to date, and the meeting is still in progress, with prospects of many more. It gives us great pleasure to note the fact that Coburntown is now wide awake, and we begin to feel as though our humble efforts are being crowned with success.

We expect to be able to chronicle a wedding in the near future. W. P. was seen to come into church the other night with a fair damsel on his arm; but one of the good sisters tried to prevent him taking his seat, and but for the assistance of an other good sister, would have accomplished it; he succeeded in maintaining his rights, however. Georgie sat and looked on with a sort of a "don't care" look upon his face.

ACBURN.

R. S. McClellan is assisting in the Clerk's office in absence of Clerk Huseleman.

The alarm of fire in the north end of town Saturday afternoon, brought the Fire Department out in time that done them credit.

The Auburn Gas and Oil Mining Co., have organized with $5000,00 capital stock subscribed, and expect to commence operations soon.

Clerk Huseleman, J. J. VanAuken, Frank Zimmerman and T. H. Spratt, started for Kansas, Tuesday morning and expect to be gone two weeks.

There was a gentleman here from Pittsburg, Pa., Monday to contract with the Gas and Oil Co. to drill; we understand they did not let the contract yet.

A. P. Fought, of Fremont, O., has purchased the stock of groceries formerly belonging to G. C. Ralston, and will continue the business at the old stand.

PIGEON'S RETREAT.

Laten Lake is keeping "bach" this week.

Some of the farmers have commenced plowing.

The frogs croaked here last Friday for the first time this spring.

W. Rudy and B. Hill have chopped over fifty cords of wood for S. S. Shutt, this spring.

Several ladies from Concord and vicinity, visited at Mrs. Libbie Wason's on Thursday of last week.

Why don't we hear from Pleasant Hill or Colman's corners? The circle of correspondents would then be complete.

Mrs. Minnie Shilling sold several bronze turkeys last week. A good many will be raised in this section the coming summer.

What is the reason that the Coburntown correspondent can't take a hint without a kick? (Don't know, but suppose he can tell.)

Will Rudy will work at his trade, viz: carpenter, as soon as the weather settles. He is a good workman and guarantees satisfaction.

John Shilling returned home last week, from Mich., where he has been nearly all winter buying stock. We bid him "Welcome home."

CONCORD.

John Guysinger's youngest child is sick with scarlet rash.

Wonder if Barcus will permit us to say the mud is drying up very fast.

Miss Hattie Langley, of St. Joe, was the guest of Mrs. F. Buchanan last Tuesday.

David Miller, son of Jacob Miller, of Michigan, is here and will probably remain all summer.

Miss Lily Melton has gone to Ill. to spend the summer with an aunt residing in that state.

Mrs. E. Baker, Mrs. M. Hennessey and Miss Lydie Wyatt visited friends in St. Joe last Thursday.

F. Buchanan attended the Sunday school convention at Auburn, last Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Dessie Milliman has been very sick for about two weeks, and now is but very little better.

Last Tuesday Mrs. Flora Simanton celebrated her birthday by inviting in a few friends, and then gave them carpet rags to sew.

What is the reason there is a light in Mr. Hilderbrand's parlor so late every Saturday night? Yes, the music of a Belle, that calls Tuck to see the girl he loves so well.

Last Friday night there was a full house of both sexes at the debate, to listen to a very deep and intricate question, that was discussed by the wise-acres of this community.

Last week James Rickett was called to Michigan to see a sick brother, but when he got there he found him very much better, and he came back with James and will remain for a short time.

One of our young men went to see his girl last Sunday night. In the morning she said, "Don't you think that great dunce stayed until half past nine." That wasn't late, we never go home so early.

Charlie Koch says he is going over to Auburn this week, to have an old tooth extracted, and a new one to replace the old one; and he shudders as though he expected to have the top of his head taken off.

It is a mystery to us, how some people can make so much maple syrup with so few trees. Will says that Will told him that she made twenty-one gallons of syrup from three trees, and intended to make more, but the sap quit running.

Did any body see S. W. go into St. Joe last Sunday evening on horse back? He went over to Auburn the day before to see his best girl, and as he came back Sabbath afternoon, he stopped on the way to see his other best girl a little while, and when he started home as he went to get in the buggy, the horse started and upset the buggy, breaking the shafts and doing some other damages. S. was hurt but not very seriously.

The Concord correspondent of the Courier says it is rumored that if light haired Johnnie comes back in the spring there will be a wedding in our neighborhood. Well, if he does, and there should be no wedding we feel quite sure that his girl will not feel as blue and despondent as a certain brunette of our neighborhood did when she heard Jim was married; but never mind, she will get there yet, if a certain Doctor of Valparaiso don't die of old age too soon.

Henry Ward Beecher was 74 years old.

Oliver Greenwalt was in town last Friday.

The Butler Record was ten years old last week.

Two car loads of dutchmen arrived at Auburn last week. So says the Dispatch.

M. TUSTISON,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES,

ROLLER FLOUR,

PROVISIONS, OYSTERS, LEMONS,

ORANGES, CANDIES, CIGARS &c.

MAIN ST. - ST. JOE, IND.

WILLIAM CURIE,

PROPRIETOR OF

MEAT MARKET

ST. JOE, IND.

Highest market price paid for Hides, Tallow &c. Give me a call.

J. F. WALKER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

Harness, Collars,

WHIPS, HARNESS OIL, &c.

ST. JOE, IND.

Repairing done promptly. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see.

A. KINSEY,

DEALER IN

FURNITURE

BUREAUS, TABLES,

Lounges, Beds, Chairs &c.

MAIN STREET, ST. JOE, IND.

All styles of Parlor Goods furnished to order at low prices. Thanking you for past favors I solicit your future patronage.

F. A. ZEIGLER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

HARNESS,

COLLARS,

WHIPS &c.

FLY NETS,

DUSTERS,

OILS &c.

St. Joe, Ind.

Prices the Lowest. All work guaranteed. Call and see me.

A. KINSEY.

Undertaker and Embalmer. Keeps on hand constantly, a stock of Undertaking Supplies, Coffins, Caskets, Burial Robes &c. I can supply as fine goods as can be furnished. Will attend to making all arrangements for funerals. Calls responded to at all hours of the night. Office on corner of Main and Second Streets; residence on corner of Main and Fourth Streets, St. Joe, Ind.

Business Notices.

H. W. BOWMAN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Office opposite the Drugstore.

ST. JOE HOTEL, Wm. Leighty, proprietor. Special attention given to furnishing teams for commercial men.

B. S. SHEFFER, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to his care.

ST. JOE BARBER SHOP, one door west of hotel, Will Gee, proprietor. Satisfaction guaranteed. Your patronage is solicited.

FULLEY, LOUNSBERRY AND SHULER, proprietors of the St. Joe Saw and Planing Mill. All work promptly done. Cash paid for Oak Logs.

CITY BARBER SHOP, St. Joe, Ind., John Hull, proprietor. Shaving, Hair Cutting &c. done in the best of style. Come and see me. Two doors west of Kinsey's Furniture Store.

SIMON WINELAND, proprietor St. Joe Handle, Shingle and Feed Mills. Feed grinding a specialty. Highest prices paid for second growth White Ash. Enquire at the mill for full particulars.

STAR WIND PUMP, E. A. Wannemaker, agent, Newville, Ind. Farmers who think of buying a mill should give me a call before doing so. The Star Mill is the best and prices the lowest.

LOCALS.

We haven't seen any thing of that grist mill yet.

Miss Viola Widney is visiting with friends in Michigan.

M. T. Bishop has had a big trade in lumber and shingles this week.

Miss Violet Barney has been quite sick this week, but is some better.

Rev. Thomas will preach in the Lutheran church Sunday evening.

George Ables left Monday, for Angola, where he will attend school this year.

Cash Lounsberry now receives a salary of $1300.00 per year for his services as mail agent. Cash will be home on a visit in June.

We are behind one day with the News this week. It isn't our fault though, however, as our "patent insides" fail to arrive on time.

Rev. Cyrus Alton will preach in the Lutheran church Sunday morning. Rev. Alton was formerly a resident of this neighborhood, and his old friends here will no doubt be glad to hear him.

There was a party at Ad Chubb's Monday evening, given in honor of the nineteenth birthday of his daughter Lizzie. A large number of her young friends were present, and enjoyed themselves highly. She received several fine presents.

Rebecca Carnes will sell her personal property, consisting of 1 horse, 1 two year old colt, 1 milch cow, 7 head of young cattle, 3 head of hogs, 1 lot of tile and other articles; at her residence south-west of Spencerville, on Thursday, March 24th, 1887.

August Kinsey has quit smoking. It won't last long.

Uncle John Baker was severely bitten by a hog the other day.

Spring Stock of shoes received this week, at the Nimble Nickle store.

Preaching in town three times last Sunday, and the services were all well attended.

Over three billion and half cigars all went up in smoke from the United States, last year.

Isn't it about time that the newspapers should let up on gas, and write about something else.

The weather signal flags at Auburn have been done away with. Guess at it; you'll hit it just as often.

Dr. Talmage received 313 new members into his church a couple of Sundays ago. He now has over 4000 members.

Now that spring has come, clean up your door yards and haul off the rubbish. Clean yards and clean streets make a clean town.

Mart Testison has kalsomined the interior part of his grocery, and given it a thorough cleaning up; until it looks like a new place entirely.

An examination of those who wish to graduate from the district schools will be held at the school building in St. Joe, on Saturday, March 19th, 1887.

So many noted men are dying off, that Mel Bishop is getting alarmed for fear he may drop off suddenly some of these times. We don't feel very well ourselves.

C. H. Brown made us a pleasant call Monday. Cal is now a partner in the Auburn Church Furniture Co., one of the most thriving manufacturing institutions of Auburn.

The B. & O. railroad sold out last week, for 16 million dollars. Hank Reynolds was going to take it in, but he hadn't quite change enough; just lacked a few cents.

Cal Brown told us last Monday that the Auburn Church Furniture Co., with which he is connected, is having a large and increasing trade. They are finishing a job of seats for a church in Chicago, that will amount to $1500.00. Cal said they had recently supplied a church up Salt River with seats. The last time we were up Salt River they didn't have any churches.

Talk up your own town; speak well of it; help to improve it. Advertise in, and read your home paper. Patronize your home merchants every time. Help all public enterprises. Speak well of everybody. Respect a good citizen, and be one yourself. Remember that every dollar invested in improvements is that much toward building up the town. Always encourage the men who are willing to spend the money they make in improving and beautifying the town. Do this and you will help to build up the town.

St. Joe is out-growing its clothes. When the present school house was built, it was thought to be amply large enough, but the experience of the past winter has proven that it is now too small to accommodate the increased number of scholars who wish to attend. The teachers this winter have labored under some disadvantages in the way of crowded rooms, and yet they are to be congratulated on the successful manner in which they have managed the schools. We have heard no complaint, but on the rather we have heard words of praise. We think however, that the citizens of St. Joe should, if possible, see to it that an additional room be built, before the fall term of school begins. The necessity of the case demands that this should be done.

J. H. CONRAD,

DEALER IN

ROOFING AND SPOUTING

GUTTERING, HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS,

Cutlery, Nails, Paints, Woodenware &c.

MAIN STREET,

ST. JOE, IND.

All work and goods guaranteed to give satisfaction. Give me a call

AT THE

St. Joe

DRUG

STORE.

White-wash Brushes.
Kalsomine Brushes.
Paint and Wall Brushes.
Artist's Brushes.
Marking Brushes.
Shoe and Hair Brushes.
Tooth and Clothes Brushes.

AT THE

St. Joe

DRUG

STORE.

ST. JOE MARKETS.

CORRECTED EVERY FRIDAY.

Wheat	78 cts.
Oats	49 cts.
Corn	40 cts.
Butter	15 cts.
Eggs	10 cts.
Tallow	31 cts.
Lard	10 cts.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

WEST BOUND.

No. 9 Mail and Express 11:10 A.M.
3 Chicago Express 10:13 P.M.
35 Local Freight 3:53 P.M.

EAST BOUND.

No. 10 Express and Mail 2:08 P.M.
4 Morning Express 2:57 A.M.
34 Local Freight 3:00 A.M.

H. K. REYNOLDS, AGENT.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that an election will be held in the Lutheran church in St. Joe, Ind., on Saturday afternoon, April 9th, 1887, at 3 o'clock, by the St. Mark's Congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran church of the Synod of Northern Ind., to elect three (3) trustees for said congregation, to hold their office for five (5) years, or until their successors are elected.

John Leighty,
Trustees: Robert Davis,
W. C. Patterson.

FOR SALE OR TRADE.

One Good Truck Wagon; will sell or trade for a cow. Enquire at Simon Wineland's.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Are we to have a Normal school here this summer?

Trustee Dermott visited the schools Wednesday forenoon.

Sickness has prevented several scholars from attending school this week.

Examination for graduation next Saturday; a large class is expected this year.

Several of the young ladies who are attending school expect to teach the coming summer.

Both schools spelled down last Friday. Miss Nena Leighty spelled the primary school down.

The school building will certainly have to be enlarged before another winter, if they expect to accommodate all who wish to attend.

Mrs. Sheffer has been absent from school a part of the week, on account of sickness. Miss Nina Filley had charge of her department during her absence.

It is an old story, but it is a true story. The man never gets in old or gets hedges to learn something. He has learned to ride horses for a newspaper. He may even be a gifted poet. He writes a verse or poetry, and yet will not let his grates, there is a chance for him to learn something fresh. If he only wants to, last Monday Russ Koburn started to come to Saint Joe, and when he got onto the railroad track he found a fine frame poking along in the same direction that he was going, and he thought it would be a good idea to get aboard; he supposed of course the wood stop at Saint Joe. When the got near town he found that instead of slaking up the began to go and the faster. He then began to realize that something must be did, so that ride off, or he would go thru to infernet an have to walk back. Russ didn't know just what to do; he wanted to jump but he didn't know just how to do it. He thought of home and friends, and of all the meanness he had ever done; he thought if he could get out of that trouble he would try to be a better man. Finally the conductor came out on the back end of the kaboose and told him how to jump off so that it would not hurt him; he told him to jump kinder stiff-legged, and to try and lift a few feet ahead of where he came down. Russ bid the conductor a tender gude by, and then made the one grate leap of his life time. The rules and ties flew up and struck him and over; nothing was visible to him for a few moments but the twinkling of about two billion stars. When he came to, he gathered up as much of himself as he could find lying around loose, and came into town and got his wounds dressed, and as we said in the beginning of this article, so we say to clothes, a man is never too old to learn.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

This has been a splendid season for making maple syrup. Everybody ought to be sweet.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Mrs. J. D. Leighty, on Thursday afternoon, March 24, 1887, at 3 o'clock. This being the time of the annual election of officers, a full attendance of the membership is desired.

REMINISCENCES OF PUBLIC MEN.

BY BENJ. PERLEY POORE.

Baron Boileau came to the United States as Secretary of the French Legation, and was for nearly a year chargé d'affaires. Subsequently he was Consul of France at New York City, and while there he married Susan, the youngest daughter of Senator Benton. Subsequently he was appointed Minister to Ecuador. While in New York he was induced to recommend, as an official agent of Government, the negotiation of the Memphis and El Paso Railroad bonds, issued under the auspices of his brother-in-law, Gen. Fremont. Boileau was discharged from the diplomatic corps, and sentenced to imprisonment. While in prison his wife died, leaving six children. Senator Sumner and others endeavored to have Baron Boileau's term of imprisonment shortened, and I believe with some success. He was a very accomplished gentleman, and his visit to New England friends always gave them great pleasure.

August Belmont, who has for some years been the agent of the Rothschilds at New York, has exercised a powerful influence in the Democratic party. He married a daughter of the Commodore Perry who discovered Japan, not the one who fought on Lake Erie, and he was for years the leader of fashionable society in New York. Personally he resembles Leopold Morse, except that he limps a little, owing to a wound received in a duel when he first came to this country. He has never held office except when for a time he was Consul General of Austria at New York, and afterwards United States Minister to Holland. His son, Perry Belmont, now in Congress, is a smart young fellow, lavish in his expenditures, and anxious for distinction.

Boss Tweed had his eye on the United States Treasury, and had he not been arrested in his speculations at New York, he would have elected Gov. Seymour, or some one else whom he could have controlled. As a first step in this direction, he invested $25,000 in the establishment of a newspaper at Washington, aided by Mr. Corcoran and other hard-shell Bourbons. When about $30,000 had been sunk in the publication of the paper, Tweed came to grief, and the Patriot was no longer published.

During the winter of 1866 a New York artist who had executed a fine painting representing the death of President Lincoln brought it to Washington and placed it in one of the committee-rooms of the Capitol, his object being to obtain life-sittings from some of the parties whose portraits were included in the group surrounding the death-bed of the dying President, the portraits having been painted from photographs. One of the most conspicuous portraits in the group was that of Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War, who was represented as standing a few feet from the head of the bed, towards which his head was turned, a full profile view of his head being visible. His left arm was thrown behind him, and in his hand he held a paper supposed to be a telegram. Strange as it may seem, the artist had represented him in a lilac coat and drab pantaloons, of a fashionable cut, and as unlike the loosely-fitting garments of dark cloth which he usually wore as it would seem possible to make them. So confident were those who saw the picture that Mr. Stanton would be angry when he saw himself portrayed in such a ridiculous costume, that the artist was urged to repaint it before he should visit the room; but this advice was unheeded. Mr. Stanton finally called at the room to give the artist the desired sitting. Taking a seat in a large armchair, he looked earnestly at the picture, which was then rapidly approaching completion. For a moment the deep silence which pervaded the room was painfully significant. It was finally broken by Mr. Stanton, who uttered a most emphatic and indignant protest against being presented in a fashionable and fancy costume, so totally different from that in which he was usually attired. "And who ever heard," said he, "of a cabinet minister wearing a lilac coat and drab pantaloons?" These were his precise words. As he proceeded he grew fearfully angry, and finally rose to his feet. His face was almost purple, and his burly frame quivered with rage. His wrath was truly volcanic. For several moments he held undisputed monopoly of the situation, for no one present had the temerity to interrupt him. The artist seemed paralyzed with astonishment, not unmixed with fear, and leaned against the marble mantel for support. His left hand grasped his palette and brushes, and his arm hung powerless by his side, while his face was of an ashy paleness. After Mr. Stanton had given full expression to his feelings, and his anger had, consequently, become somewhat modified, a friend of the artist, who fortunately happened to be present, took a seat by his side and entered into conversation with him, but found it impossible to convince him that he had not been grossly insulted. "What would you think," said he, "if old Mr. Welles, who sits by the bedside, was represented in knee breeches and with buckles on his shoes?" "I should think," was the reply, "that the artist had committed an unpardonable anachronism, which he has not done in your case; for though he has taken a license in the draping of your portrait, he has strictly adhered to the costume of the day, while knee-breeches and shoe-buckles belong to a bygone period." He made no reply, but remained silent for several minutes. Finally, turning to the artist, he said: "That, sir, is your painting, and you can do whatever you please with it; but I will never endorse its accuracy or give you a sitting until you repaint the drapery of my portrait." After making this emphatic declaration he was again silent for some minutes, when the artist, who had recovered his self-possession, ventured to speak to him and state why he had thought it advisable to drape his portrait in colors so offensive to him, assuring him that his sole object in doing so was to avoid the unpleasant monotony inseparable from a group of male portraits clad in the unpicturesque costume of our time. He also assured him that if he would give him another sitting he would repaint the drapery of his figure in any style or color he might suggest. With this assurance Mr. Stanton seemed perfectly satisfied, and immediately took a chair, where he sat patiently and quietly for an hour while the last touches were added to the face of his portrait. During this sitting he conversed very pleasantly, and was as gentle and as amiable as a little child. At times his rugged features would be lighted up by a happy smile, which seemed like a gleam of sunshine after a terrific storm. On the day following the events above narrated Mr. Stanton visited Brady's gallery by appointment, where he was met by the artist who had so unintentionally offended him, and stood for a photograph, from which his figure was entirely repainted, to the great satisfaction of himself and his family.

Would Talk Irish.

During the legislative vacation Senator Cullom took a trip to Europe. While in Paris he saw Chauncey M. Depew, who was the first man that the Senator had met who understood English. Going up to him he warmly grasped him by the hand and said, in a way peculiar to the Senator:

"Mr. Depew, how are you? I am pleased to meet you, if it is only to have somebody to talk English to and who will talk English to me."

Mr. Depew eyed him for a while and then pured forth a speech in the most excellent French. That the Senator was astounded goes without saying. He tried all the arts known to him to induce the President of the Central road to reply to him in English, but failed. Finally, becoming desperate, he shook his fist in his face and said:

"Mr. Depew, I'll get even with you! I hear you are traveling for pleasure, and that you will go to Ireland before you are through. I'll make it my business to meet you there, and if you speak to me you will have to speak in Irish for I shall use no other tongue."—New York Star.

SEVERAL young men were sitting together, and a young lady happened to approach the vicinity. One "real sweet" young fellow seeing, as he supposed, the young lady looking at him, remarked, playfully and with a becoming simper, "Well, miss, you needn't look at me as though you wanted to eat me." "Oh, no," replied the young lady, "I never eat greens."

"It may be," saith a philosopher, that he who yerns for perfection in this world makes a great mistake, for as soon as anything arrives at perfect ripeness it begins to decay."

PREJUDICE is the reason of fools.—Voltaire.

Davy Crockett.

No quieter or more gentlemanly person did I ever meet than David Crockett.

He came slowly lounging into the venerable office of The National Intelligencer one severe winter afternoon, when and where I was industriously warming my little boy, body all round the small, square stove.

There was a vacant chair near me. He took it with solemn deliberation. Then over the flat stove-top he extended his big, rough hands.

"Cold," he said. "Nothing more for a long while."

I looked up at him, looked intently; for this was an uncommon comer. A large form—to my boyish idea gigantic—a great, strange head, down each side of which, from a middle parting, fell long, black hair. Something savage about him, yet a most gentle savage, as if he could fondle a baby, pet a puss, and even cry very heartily, being moved by proper circumstance.

My father, present, of course, for he "belonged to the office," observing my amazement, found opportunity to whisper in my ear: "David Crockett."

I knew a few things about the famous man—knew that his life had been a romance surpassing the imaginings of any poet or novelist—knew, and what so surprising as this—that he was now a member of Congress. Indeed, I had heard read at the breakfast-table some of the "bar stories," with which he frequently amused, convulsed, and convinced the House.

I saw David Crockett.

Presently I felt David Crockett. His big right hand, gliding away from the hot stove-plate, chose to rest itself lovingly among the curls of my hair.

"You never met a 'bar'?" remarked Davy; "in course you never?"

I acknowledged my total unacquaintance.

"Would like to?"

"Certainly."

"Don't know. Better hear about 'em first."

"I'd be glad to hear, them."

"So you shall, my boy. I'll tell you a story of one I seed once."

I was charmed with the anticipation. He would have begun it immediately, but several members, Senators, and others that moment entered the office.

Their business soon over, they still lingered, for a whisper had stolep among them, and more chairs were brought up to the fire, and an expectant circle unexpectedly resulted.

"I was going to tell this 'bar' story," resumed Davy, when every voice interrupted him with:

"Tell it! tell it! We all wish to hear it!"

He complied. Listening that afternoon proved my chief enjoyment of life to date. Listening seemed to prove a similar sensation to every person of the group. It was grand excitement just to listen. Whatever was related we saw. We lived along the remarkable incidents from word to word. Who of mortals, save David Crockett, could display such vivid power—could so wield thunder and lightning? Yet it was not altogether terror. Comical situations were introduced. We were eager, we were alarmed, we were suddenly in most violent paroxysms of laughter.—Brooklyn Magazine.

The Baby's Bank Account.

It is not to a baby millionaire that I wish to call your attention, nor even to any baby; but to the finances of your baby.

You, of course, know all about what the little fellow has cost, and know what he is likely to cost, not only in dollars and cents, but in wakeful, watchful hours and anxieties innumerable. But, after awhile, the now costly baby will require not only schooling, but business education, and a foundation upon which to stand in the great money-getting world.

There are so many ups and downs with prosperous people, that the child of wealth to-day may twenty years hence be eking out a scanty living as clerk; and, on the other hand, the little fellow whose baby wardrobe is plain and limited, by the same time may be on the broad road to fortune.

When you sit by the darling's cradle is the time to thoughtfully mature your plans for the future. There are so many little trifles bought for baby that might be dispensed with and the money allowed to accumulate for future use. It is wonderful how nice a sum may repose in one of the many saving-fund institutions by just a little forethought and economy. A Mayor in a Southern city gave on Saturday evening to his four little daughters all the dimes he happened to have in his pocket. A lady of my acquaintance saved all her gold pieces for her son, depositing them in bank to his credit she acting as trustee. Another lady having a small house renting for $8 a month, put the sum to her children's account in the savings fund, and carefully refrained from using any of it.

I know of many instances of well-to-do parents who are faithfully laying up for the children, and that in a small matter-of-fact way which would astonish many with whom they mingle in society. A pencil and paper and a half hour or less spent in calculating the possible accumulation of even $20 a year for twenty years will show what can be done.—Babyhood.

Mary Stuart.

We could wish, if it were possible, that no one should be allowed to write about Mary Stuart who has not previously testified his acceptance of and who shall not in his writing adhere to the following propositions: That Scotch and English, Catholic and Protestant, nullo discrimine habeat in the matter. That he will constantly bear in mind the ideas prevailing at the time about statecraft and public morality, and will never assume that Mary or that Elizabeth, that Cecil or that Murray "could not" have done this or that thing which a modern Queen and a modern statesman would think it wrong to do. That instead of arguing down from a preconceived character of this or that person to the probable conduct of that person in such a case, he will examine the recorded conduct in the cases, compare it with the general morality, public and private, of the time, and then, and then only, construct his general character. That he will carefully exclude not only the national and religious prejudices referred to, but all minor irrelevant provocations to ira and studium. These are hard conditions, no doubt, but if they be not observed study of such a problem as the character of Queen Mary becomes impossible. And, above all things, it is necessary that the inquirer into this question should from the beginning understand that he is not called upon to decide between the theories of a glorified saint, such as Father Stevenson seems to picture, and a white devil like the creature of Kingsley's and Mr. Froude's imagination, or even a kind of Renaissance Venus, such as Mr. Swinburne would like to fancy. Glorified saints are not met with at Kirk and market every day; white devils also are scarce, and even Renaissance Venuses dans ces parages. Our own conviction, founded upon a very long study of the facts, is that an investigation conducted on these principles will find "not proven" in regard to the two great charges against Mary, with a decided leaning to acquittal in the case of Darnley and a dubious leaning to condemnation in the case of Elizabeth, this latter qualified by a strong recommendation to mercy considering the great provocation received and the ideas of the time on the modes of vengeance open to sovereigns. Further, we have no doubt that the execution of Mary was a crime in the eyes not only of international law, but of true statesmanship and general morality, differentiated duly for time and place.—Saturday Review.

A Good String.

A well-known druggist in this city was filling an order for a lady when a hawk-eyed young man whose raiment bespoke hard times stood by without making any errand. As the lady went out he was asked what he desired:

"Twenty-five cents to pay for a night's lodging, please."

"Well, you won't get it."

"Very well, sir. You put up quinine for that lady?"

"I did."

"Suppose I follow her home and raise the query of whether you didn't make a mistake and put up morphine?"

"But it was quinine."

"No doubt, but just to show you how a word will upset some people I will run after her and—"

"Here! How much did you say you wanted?"

"A quarter, please."

"Well, here it is, and as you probably haven't had any supper here's fifteen cents extra."

"Thanks, sir, and may you never make another fatal mistake. Good-night!"—Detroit Free Press.

DEATH IN THE WATER.

Is the Element We Drink Decimating the People?

How a Universal Menace to Health May be Disarmed.

A few years ago the people in a certain section in one of the leading cities of the State were prostrated with a malignant disease, and upon investigation it was found that only those who used water from a famous old well were the victims.

Professor E. A. Lattimore, analyst of the New York State Board of Health, upon analyzing water from this well, found it more deadly than the city sewage!

The filling up of the old well stopped the ravages of the disease.

Not long since the writer noticed while some men were making an excavation for a large building, a stratum of dark-colored earth running from near the surface to hard pan. There it took another course toward a well near at hand. The water from this well had for years been tainted with the drainage from a receiving vault, the percolations of which had discolored the earth!

Terrible! A similar condition of things exists in every village and city where well water is used, and though the filtering which the fluids receive in passing through the earth may give them a clear appearance, yet the poison and disease remains, though the water may look never so clear.

It is still worse with the farmer, for the drainage from the barn yard and the slope from the kitchen eventually find their way into the family well.

The same condition of things exists in our large cities, where water supplies are rivers fed by little streams that carry off the filth and drainage from houses. This "water" is eventually drunk by rich and poor alike with great evil.

Some cautious people resort to the filter for purifying this water, but even the filter does not remove this poison, for water of the most deadly character may pass through this filter and become clear, yet the poison disguised is there.

They who use filters know that they must be renewed at regular periods, for even though they do not take out all the impurity, they soon become foul.

Now in like manner the human kidneys act as a filter for the blood, and if they are filled up with impurities and become foul, like the filter, all the blood in the system coursing through them becomes bad, for it is now a conceded fact that the kidneys are the chief means whereby the blood is purified. These organs are filled with thousands of hair-like tubes which drain the impurities from the blood, as the sewer pipes drain impurities from our houses.

If a sewer pipe breaks under the house, the sewage escapes into the earth and fills the house with poisonous gas; so if any of the thousand and one little hair-like sewer tubes of the kidneys break down, the entire body is affected by this awful poison.

It is a scientific fact that the kidneys have few nerves of sensation; and, consequently, disease may exist in these organs for a long time and not be suspected by the individual. It is impossible to filter or take the death out of the blood when the least derangement exists in these organs, and if the blood is not filtered then the uric acid, or kidney poison, removable only by Warner's safe cure, accumulates in the system and attacks any organ, producing nine out of ten ailments, just as sewer gas and bad drainage produce so many fatal disorders.

Kidney disease may be known to exist if there is any marked departure from ordinary health without apparent known cause, and it should be understood by all that the greatest peril exists, and is intensified, if there is the least neglect to treat it promptly with that great specific, Warner's safe cure, a remedy that has received the highest recognition by scientific men who have thoroughly investigated the character of kidney derangements.

They may not tell us that the cause of so many diseases in this organ is the impure water or any other one thing, but this poisonous water with its impurities coursing constantly through these delicate organs undoubtedly does produce much of the decay and disease which eventually terminate in the fatal Bright's disease, for this disease, like among the drinking men, prohibitionists, the tobacco slave, the laborer, the merchant, and the tramp, works terrible devastation every year.

It is well known that the liver, which is so easily thrown "out of gear," as they say, very readily disturbs the action of the kidneys. That organ when deranged immediately announces the fact by yellow skin, constipated bowels, coated tongue, and headaches, but the kidney when diseased struggles on for a long time, and the fact of its disease can only be discovered by the aid of the microscope or by the physician who is skillful enough to trace the most indirect effects in the system to the derangement of these organs, as the prime cause.

The public is learning much on this subject, and when it comes to understand that the kidneys are the real health regulators, as they are the real blood purifiers of the system, they will escape an infinite amount of unnecessary suffering and add length of days and happiness to their lot.

Medical Intelligence.

At a dinner party given at the mansion of Colonel Percy Yerger, on Austin avenue, Colonel Cortis sat into a row with Dr. Emmet, and told the latter what he thought of him, the remarks being far from flattering.

"That insult, sir," replied the Doctor, who is something of a blow-hard; "that insult will cost you your life."

"Why, Doctor, you talk as though you were my family physician."—Texas Siftings.

The Lost Bracelet.

One evening, when Napoleon I. was in all his glory, there was a grand gala production at the Grand Opera. How many reigning kings and princes occupied the boxes and balconies it is impossible for me to estimate; the very seats usually occupied by the claqueurs were filled with noblemen.

The Princess Borghese, the beautiful and accomplished Pauline, sparkled and shone in her box, eclipsing all around her by the splendor of her loveliness, as the sun does its satellites by the brilliancy of its rays. On her neck she wore a necklace, the diamonds and massive pearls of which, intertwined and blended with transcendent art, still further enhanced her incomparable brilliancy. When she entered her box there was a murmur of general admiration.

The imperial box opened in its turn and the master of the world appeared, saluted by these kings and princes with a formidable cry of "Vive l'Empereur!" It was generally remarked that the Empress seemed unable to take her eyes off her sister-in-law, and appeared to be fascinated, dazzled, like the other occupants of the vast auditorium, with the marvelous brilliancy of the necklace. Suddenly the box of the Princess Borghese opened and a young Major presented himself, wearing the brilliant blue and silver uniform of the aides-de-camp of the Emperor's staff. "Her Majesty, the Empress," said he, bowing low, "admires the wonderful necklace worn by your Imperial Highness, and has expressed the liveliest desire to examine it closer." The beautiful Pauline made a sign to one of her ladies of honor, who unlashed and detached the necklace from the Princess' neck and placed it in the hands of the staff officer. The latter bowed gravely and disappeared. This episode occurred toward the middle of the second act. The entr'acte came and passed away. The third act concluded in its turn. The fourth act came and passed, and the entertainment concluded, yet still the necklace was not returned.

The Princess Borghese took this for a characteristic freak of Marie Louise's. Next day, however, she asked if the necklace had pleased the Empress and whether she had found the setting and arrangement of the jewels to her taste. The Empress was thunderstruck, for she had not seen it and had sent no officer for it as described. Napoleon deigned to mix himself up in the affair. He had the names of all the staff officers on duty the preceding evening, ascertained. And then one by one under some pretext or other, he had them called before his sister. She did not recognize one of them. They summoned the Prince of Otrante, Minister of Police. A long council was held. Everything possible was done, but in vain. The unfortunate Fouche was ready to tear his hair in despair. He set his keenest bloodhounds at work. His best detectives were literally worn off their legs, without result. As to their imperial master, he was literally bubbling over with rage, and was almost on the point of thrashing his Chief of Police. But neither the necklace (which was worth nearly a million) nor the audacious thief was ever seen again.—Home Journal.

Would Cut the Rope.

Speaking of the fact that out in Dakota the people have clothes lines strung about their premises by which they pull their way back to the house in case of a blizzard, is a reminder of a story concerning Col. Cleary, of this city. The story is quite prevalent in the far West, but seems to be new here, on the principle, perhaps, that one must go from home to hear the news: It seems that once when there was a captive balloon in Chicago, which people could take a short aerial voyage in for the sum of 10 cents, Col. Cleary concluded to go up a piece. He was about as high as the eaves of a ten-story house, and felt as if that was far enough, so, speaking to the man at the windlass, he said: "Lave her down." The man at the windlass was enjoying the matter, however, and, instead of "laving her down," let her go a little higher. Col. Cleary deliberately went to his pocket, and, pulling out a huge clasp-knife, he yelled at the man: "Lave her down, yer son of a goon, or I'll cut the rope."—Chicago Mail.

To what gulfs a single deviation from the track of human duties leads!—Byron.

"This is all right, Hood's Sarsaparilla! Can't Feel Me Tetter."

Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine. In very many respects it is so different from any and all other medicines ever offered to the public that it is with peculiar force and propriety that it may be said to be PECULIAR TO ITSELF. It is peculiar, in a strictly medicinal sense, in three important particulars, viz.: First, in the combination of remedial agents used; second, in the proportion in which they are mixed; third, in the process by which the active curative

Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to the phenomenal record of the sales it has attained, never equalled by any other preparation on so short a time. Older medicines have been forced to stand aside when real medicinal merit was considered, and today Hood's Sarsaparilla stands the leading medicine of its kind in the country. It is peculiar in its strength and economy—100 doses one dollar. It is a concentrated extract from Sarsaparilla, Dock, Juniper Berries, Mandrake, Dandelion, and other valuable vegetable remedies, and is much stronger than any similar properties of the preparation are secured.

Peculiar to Itself

These three important points make Hood's Sarsaparilla peculiar in its medicinal merit, as it accomplishes cures wholly unprecedented in the history of medicine, and giving to Hood's Sarsaparilla a clear right to the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered."

Hood's Sarsaparilla is also peculiar in its general appearance. Note the neatness in every detail in the way it is put up, the well-printed wrapper, the explicit directions, the care taken to prevent breakage or injury. Remember that every wrapper bears the fac-simile of the signature of the proprietors.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

TOWER'S
FISH BRAND

SLICKER

The FISH BRAND SLICKER is warranted waterproof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. The new FOMEL SLICKER is a perfect riding coat, and covers the entire saddle. Beware of imitations. None genuine without the "Fish Brand" trade-mark. Illustrated Catalogue free. A. J. Tower, Boston, Mass.

The Best Waterproof Coat.

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for

TANSILL'S PUNCH 5¢

I like your "Tansill's Punch" cigars very much, and wish to have the exclusive sale in this place, and will do all I can to push them. I believe in advertising, and am taking pains to distribute the circulars where they will do the most good.

C. V. ELLIOTT, Mansfield, Pa.
Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES Price 5¢ per box. Sold by mail, Kinwell & Co., Charlestown, Mass.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS

The Original and Only Genuine.

Safe and always Reliable. Beware of worthless imitations. Ladies, ask your Druggist for "Chichester's English" and take no other, or inclose 10 stamps for us for particulars in letter by return mail. CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., 2515 Madison Square, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Ask for "Chichester's English" Pennyroyal Pills. Take no other.

PATENTS R. B. & A. F. LACEY, Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C. Inst. actions and opinions as to patentability FREE. 15-17 years' experience.

Why did the Women

of this country use over thirteen million cakes of Procter & Gamble's Lenox Soap in 1886?

Buy a cake of Lenox and you will soon understand why.

THE STANDARD OIL COMPANY.

The History of This Famous Corporation from Beginning to End.

The Dayton Journal gives the following history of the Standard Oil Company, which will be of interest to very many who have but a general idea of it:

The history of petroleum oil dates from the striking of the Drake well, in the Watson flats, below Titusville, in which oil was found at a depth of 96 feet 6 inches, August 28, 1859. Then the only mode of land carriage was the hauling of the oil from the wells to the shipping points. Soon the oil was conveyed down Oil Creek to the Allegheny River in flat-boats. At one time 7,000 men were employed in this business.

At the expiration of five years Van Syckle suggested the running of the oil through wrought-iron pipes from the wells to the shipping points. In 1865 such a line extended four miles, from Pithole to the railway at Miller's farm. Thence arose the whole network of pipe lines, covering the entire oil region.

In 1865, under the general corporation laws of Ohio, a small organization with a capital of $100,000 was effected, with headquarters at Cleveland, its business to refine oil, and with the title of the Standard Oil Company. From the outset the managers have maintained the strictest secrecy. An audience with the king of the monopoly became as difficult as an interview with the Czar of Russia.

Early in its history it commenced the obliteration of competition. It controlled and captured the West, a city at a time. For example, Chicago was captured by excluding rivals, through temporarily driving all profits from the city's oil trade. Lake carriage was pitted against the rail, and by this means and personal manipulations, the railways, shielded by secrecy from public reprobation, gave private and exclusive concessions or rebates to the Standard Oil Company.

Each treatment brought their victims into an impassible condition, and the railways could get oil trade only from the sole possessors of it. Thus railway capital became a victim and a servant, the former in the reduction of its tariff and the latter in forcing competition into the gulf of ruin. Leading competitors were skillfully beguiled into alliances which neutralized their opposition.

Flattery, promises of profit and peace, evils of competition and Standard success did their work. The choice to moderate refiners and traders was, coalition with the Standard or bankruptcy. The final end was a dismissal from the circle into which they had been deluded.

A simple expansion of the old means sufficed for the East, but the Eastern conditors were too impetuous. The "South Improvement Company" was formed, to whom was promised a secret commission of $1 per barrel, which might be shipped by any one. Freight charges were advanced 100 per cent. Upon the terms of this infamous contract being known in 1872, its charter was abrogated. Mass meetings were held and the wildest excitement prevailed. Tanks were tapped, oil went to waste, producers shut down their wells, and the ringleaders, fearful of hemp, departed the country. The Standard folks withdrew, leaving the producers to think that they had effectually killed the hydra.

But the Standard laid out a new plan of operations, slower, but surer. The agreements of the railways in 1872 for equal and public rates were violated in favor of the Standard Oil Company.

With the premiums from rebates and drawbacks pouring into their pockets they made it plain that all apparent profits in manufacturing oil must disappear. They "hid the profits." Their own gains were the private and exclusive tribute from the carriers. Overtures were made in 1874 between the Standard Oil Company of the one part and various Pittsburg and Philadelphia refining interests on the other part. A coalition was formed. Besides Pratt & Co., and Warden & Co., the Devoe, the Bootwick, the Acme, the Atlantic, and many others, became part of the Standard. The Conduit Pipe Line, the Karns Pipe Line, the Grant, the Union, the Atlantic, the Pennsylvania, and American Transfer Pipe Lines connecting with all the wells of the oil country were gradually absorbed by the United Pipe Line, another name for a branch of the Standard.

The Cleveland corporation thus came into possession of the refineries, the management of the pipe-line system of transportation and the control generally of the railroads. In certain regions the press became subsidized and in others dare not expose the doings of the company. The Payne fight, it will be seen, is more than one of ordinary bribery. It is more than a State fight or even a party fight. It is a National affair, and every good citizen, without references to his party affiliations, should take an earnest and active part to stop the depredations upon morals and honest franchise of this Standard Oil juggernaut.

A Mental Grave.

The Observer recently chatted with a bright young man who holds a second-class clerkship ($1,400) in the War Department at Washington. He took the place ten years ago, after having been graduated with high honors from one of the leading New England colleges, intending to thus support himself while studying a profession. His salary at that time seemed large, and he was able to save quite a nugget each year. He studied less and less, and after a few months gave it up altogether. Then he married, and instead of saving anything, it is all he can do to support his family in a very modest way. These are his own words: "A government clerkship is no place for a young man of education and ambition. Alas! I did not know that when I started in, but I know it now to my sorrow. Such work is well enough for maimed soldiers or for soldiers' widows and daughters who have to earn their daily bread; in fact, it is a godsend to many such. But let strong, hearty, energetic young men choose almost any other line of work. The work is easy and the hours are from nine to four only, with a half hour for lunch; but it is a treacherous routine and insidiously works upon a man's mental powers until it saps them all up and he becomes no better than a machine. The government clerkship accomplishes the destruction of one's mind just as the galleys used to of the body. I would gladly resign this very day, but what would become of my family? I know absolutely nothing about any profession or business occupation; and were I to start in now, I would have to begin at the bottom and work up, and it would be several years before I could earn what Uncle Sam now pays me so regularly. There are hundreds of men in Washington similarly situated. Their ambition is gone, their talents are gone, and all they desire is to hold on to their clerical positions as a drowning man clings to a rope. I want to make a desperate effort, even at this late day, to get into business and be an active worker; but I see no opportunity, and the chances are that I shall continue to be fed with government pay to the end of my days, unless I receive the grand bounce when some change occurs in the administration."—New York Graphic.

Didn't Injure Him.

A temperance lecturer in Little Rock during a discourse said: "The leading physicians of the country have agreed that alcohol possesses no real medicinal qualities, and that no man can take it even in the smallest quantities without injury. Show me a man—show me a man whom whisky does not injure."

A man arose and said: "I do not think, sir, that whisky is an injury to me. In fact I think that I am benefitted by it."

"You may think so," the lecturer replied, "but you are mistaken."

"No, I am pretty certain."

"Then, not to have discovered any evil affect, you must drink it the most moderate way?"

"No, I can't say that I do."

Are you different from every one else?" the lecturer exclaimed. "Why should liquor not injure you?"

"Because I don't drink it."

"Ah, you are indeed sharp, but you say that you are benefitted by it. How so, if you do not drink it?"

"I sell it."—Arkansas Traveler.

Degrees of Silence.

"It was so still in the hall," said Dobbins, speaking of the concert, "that you could have heard a pin drop."

"Was there a large audience?" asked Peterby.

"The house was half full."

"Is that all? Hem! You ought to hear the silence there when there is a full house. Oh, it's something grand!"

—Tid-Bits.

THE brighter the light that casts them, the darker will be the shadows.

J. D. LEIGHTY,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

CROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBER GOODS, HATS, CAPS, ETC.

A FULL LINE OF

Plug, Smoking and Fine Cut Tobaccos, Canned Fruits, Prunes, Raisins Currants, Etc., Etc.

St. Joe, - - Indiana.

M. T. BISHOP.

—DEALER IN—

LUMBER,

LATH. SHINGLES, PINE AND POPULAR LUMBER, LIME, PLASTER, MOULDINGS, ETC., ETC.

I HAVE AN IMMENSE STOCK AND SOLICIT YOUR PATRONAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

YARD NEAR DEPOT, - ST. JOE, IND.

S. & F. BARNEY,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

CLOTHING, GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, GROCERIES, GENERAL STOCK OF HARDWARE, STOVES AND TRIMMINGS,

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

Produce, Grain, Seeds, and Wool.

CASE & OLDS,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

CROCERIES, CLOTHING, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, QUEENSWARE, CLASSWARE, ETC.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

EXAMINE THE BARGAINS ON OUR

5 and 10c Counters.

THE ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. I.

ST. JOE, IND., FRIDAY, MARCH 25, 1887.

NO. 9.

THE NEWS.

Intelligence by Wire from All the World

FOREIGN.

—The Russian embassy in London is in receipt of dispatches announcing the arrest of several persons at St. Petersburg for conspiring to kill the Czar. A bomb was thrown under the Czar's carriage. It was shaped like a book so that it could be carried in the hand without exciting suspicion.

—In London, at noon of Tuesday last, a darkness equal to midnight spread over the region of Charing Cross, Whitehall and the Strand, snow meantime falling heavily.

—De Lesseps, who has just returned to Paris from Berlin, is confident there will be no European war, and says he was assured by Emperor William that Germany would never attack France.

—Foo-Chow-Foo advises announce the failure of the Hong Kong Chinese bank. When the fact was made known a crowd of native creditors stormed the bank and completely ransacked and destroyed everything in the building.

—Mr. Parnell will oppose any Irish land-purchase bill based upon the existing judicial rents, which, it is generally admitted, are at least 25 per cent. too high.

—The insolvency is announced of Stewart Brothers, slate and timber merchants of London, whose liabilities are $500,000.

—The regents of Bulgaria, fearing an outbreak of hostilities, have divided the kingdom into two military zones, and given the commanders absolute power.

—The Radical press of Paris makes a bitter attack on De Lesseps for calling France the natural friend of Germany.

—The Pope has telegraphed to the Czar congratulating him on his escape from assassination.

—A London cablegram reports the wearing of shamrocks by many Englishmen, on St. Patrick's day. The street celebration in Dublin was interrupted by a sleet-storm.

—Father Keller, of County Cork, Ireland, has been arrested in connection with the anti-rent agitation.

—The committee of the French Chamber of Deputies having the matter in charge has fixed the import duty on corn at 3 francs.

PERSONAL.

—Mrs. C. A. Tullie, a great-niece of Daniel Boone, died at Litchfield, Ill. Her maiden name was Cynthia A. Boone; she was born in Kentucky, and was 92 years old.

—Yung Wing, a Chinese convert, has been elected President of the Connecticut Congregational Church Club. He is a naturalized citizen, and married a Hartford lady.

—Jose Sevilla, who died lately in Peru, left $500,000 to establish in New York a school for poor girls.

—William Paxton, a Mexican war veteran, of Lancaster County, South Carolina, despairing of receiving a pension, hanged himself the other day.

—In the new Court House at New York, Judge Patterson married Nate Salisbury, the comedian, and Miss Ray Samuels.

—Pierre Solidor Milon, one of Napoleon's veterans, who was born at Nice, Nov. 19, 1787, died at his home, in Philadelphia, last week.

—The funeral of Captain James B. Eads took place at Christ Church, St. Louis, and was attended by a large number of the oldest and most prominent citizens of the city. Rev. Dr. Schuyler officiated, and was assisted by Rev. Mr. Reed. The remains were interred in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

—The aged father of General Daniel E. Sickles died at his home near New York.

—President Cleveland was 50 years old on the 18th of March.

—Captain Carlin, formerly Chief of Artillery on the staff of General Sigel, died at Wheeling.

—The Governor of Nebraska has commissioned Buffalo Bill as aid-de-camp, with the rank of Colonel.

—General Bragg, of Wisconsin, denies the report that he is a rarefied and states that he has declined a District of Columbia judgeship.

—Mother Euphemia (Miss Caroline, Blenkinson), Superioress of St. Joseph's Academy at Emmitsburg, Ind., and head of the Sisters of Charity in America, died last week, aged 77.

—Mrs. E. B. Washburne died in Chicago, in her sixty-first year.

POLITICAL.

—The repeal of the capital-punishment law has been effected by the Maine Legislature, and imprisonment for life is substituted for death in all cases of murder in the first degree. Such convicts, however, are to be kept in close confinement away from all associations, and no pardoning power is left to the Governor and Council unless the convict is proven innocent.

—The resolution for the submission to the people of a prohibitory amendment, weighted down by an amendment that persons or property injured by prohibition, should it become a law, be compensated by the State, failed in the Illinois House of Representatives, the vote standing: For, 63; against 78; absent or not voting, 10.

—The Michigan Legislature has passed a bill forbidding the official employment or recognition of bands of Pinkerton police in the State.

—Governor Wetmore and the other State officers of Rhode Island were renominated by acclamation by the Republican State Convention, held at Providence.

—A bill has passed the Arkansas Senate which is considered of much importance, that of providing for the building of railroads in the State by persons not citizens—that is, railroads can be organized, but the object of the bill is that all railroads operated in the State should have a central office in the State.

—A bill empowering women to vote at school elections was rejected by the Illinois Senate.

—The Senate of Pennsylvania has passed a bill to prevent discrimination in the transportation of freight, with a railway commission of five members.

—A Washington special to the Chicago Daily News says:

The President is disappointed at the failure of prominent men in the country to assist him in the enforcement of the interstate commerce act. At least a dozen of those who have been asked have declined, and he will be compelled to take the best timber he can get. He has written and urged and even implored those whom he believed were best fitted for the duty to accept positions on the commission, and their refusal to do so has caused the delay in making the appointments. The President considers this commission the most powerful political engine that has ever been created in this country. At least in the control of bad men he believes it could be made so. To keep the commission out of politics and to prevent any interference with political movements he thinks is necessary, and to accomplish that purpose he must select men who are above partisan influence. When a candidate is recommended to him on strong political grounds he at once checks him off the list as one not wanted.

FINANCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

—George S. Crawford and G. W. & W. G. Boyd, lumber dealers at Cincinnati, have failed, Crawford's liabilities reaching $100,000.

—Peele, Hubbell & Co., an extensive sugar firm of Manila, Philippine Islands, have failed, the disaster causing great excitement in the trade at New York.

—G. A. Smith & Co.'s Morocco factory at Philadelphia was closed by the Sheriff, rendering 400 persons idle. The liabilities are $375,000 and the assets about $250,000.

—The Sheriff at Springfield, Ohio, has taken possession of the carriage factory of James D. Driscoll & Sons, who owe $65,000.

—The demand of the Chicago Typographical Union for 40 cents per 1,000 ems for book and weekly newspaper work has been acceded to by the employers. An expected strike or lockout was thus averted.

—Over seven hundred architectural iron workers in Cincinnati and Covington struck for nine hours' work and ten hours' pay.

—The Southern Cotton-Seed Oil Company, recently organized in New Jersey, has concluded contracts for a quarter of a million dollars' worth of machinery, for use in eight cotton-seed oil mills of a capacity of 150 tons per day each.

—The Sheriff of New York seized the store of Lawton Brothers, dealers in phosphates at No. 31 Broadway, on claims for $245,000. Walter E. Lawton fled with all the funds he could raise, telling his cashier he was ruined and intended to kill himself.

—A gas well, from which the gas escapes with such force as to make a thunderous sound, was struck at Marion, Ind.

—Griffin Bros., pressed-brick manufacturers at St. Cloud, Minn., have assigned. Liabilities, $123,000; assets, $76,000.

—An assignment has been filed in Cleveland by Gabel & Frisby, proprietors of a coffee and spice mill, who owe $45,000.

—On application of all the national banks of St. Louis, that port has been designated as a central reserve city.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

—It is reported that President Newell, of the Lake Shore, will resign.

—Articles of incorporation of the Omaha and Council Bluffs Railroad and Bridge Company have been filed at the former city.

—A gentleman known to be in the confidence of Alfred Sully makes the statement that the Baltimore and Ohio matter is in abeyance.

—The General Passenger and Ticket Agents' Association, in session at Washington, adopted a resolution expressing the desire of the association to act in harmony with the interstate commerce law, and pledging a strict adherence to its provisions.

—Drexel, Morgan & Co. have issued a circular to the Chicago and Atlantic security-holders giving the details of their agreement with the Erie Company. They propose to foreclose the first mortgage and organize a new company, with a capital stock of $10,000,000, which is to be transferred to the Erie; $12,000,000 in first-mortgage bonds and $10,000,000 in incomes of the new company will be issued, the interest of which will be guaranteed by the Erie Company. Nearly all the security-holders have already signed the agreement.

—President Harris states that the Northern Pacific Company had not even thought of extending from Tacoma to Portland, but the Directors have ordered the construction of sixty miles of the Spokane and Palouse Road.

—Annual passes issued by the St. Paul and Michigan Central Roads are being called in. Last year the Wabash line gave out 27,776 trip passes.

GENERAL.

—A Chicago paper states that after consulting his lawyers County Clerk Wulff decided to summarily divorce, by proxy, Nina Van Zandt's marriage, by proxy, to August Spies. He accordingly addressed the following note to Justice Englehardt, who performed the alleged marriage ceremony:

I herewith return to you for correction marriage license No. 10821 with your certificate attached. Upon investigation we find that at the time stated in your certificate that August Vincent Theodore Spies and Miss Nina Stuart Clarke Van Zandt were united in marriage by you at Jefferson, said August Theodore Vincent Spies was a prisoner in Cook County Jail and in the custody of the Sheriff, and therefore could not be present at the ceremony in Jefferson, as certified by you. Please correct. Respectfully yours, HENRY WULFF, County Clerk.

That the marriage was not legal was the opinion of all the lawyers with whom Clerk Wulff discussed the point, and the marriage license returned by Justice Englehardt with an indorsement that the twain had been made one flesh will not be put upon the official records.

—An Atlanta dispatch reports that within twelve miles of that city an experienced miner has discovered a lead of rose quartz assaying $1,100 in gold to the ton.

—Important reductions in Mexico's tariff are announced.

—The Canadian Government will liberally subsidize the proposed canal between Lakes Huron and Ontario.

—For the last three months of 1886 there were 10,029,961 pounds of artificial butter manufactured and removed for consumption or sale.

—At San Rafael, Mexico, five thousand persons paid $8 each to witness a bull-fight. As the animals refused to cater to the crowd, a bloody riot took place, in which the troops charged with sabers.

—Last week the Commissioner of Pensions at Washington received 6,355 applications for pensions, 2,154 cases were disposed of, leaving 200,280 cases pending.

—The "Black Crook," which has drawn big audiences at McVicker's Theater, Chicago, during the week, will be retained for another week, after which the incomparable Annie Pixley will hold the boards for a short season.

CASUALTIES.

—Fire at Buffalo, N. Y., destroyed the building occupied by Miller, Grenier & Co., wholesale grocers, causing a loss of nearly $300,000.

—One-half of the business section of Oxford, N. C., was destroyed by fire. Twenty-three firms were burned out, and the loss is $100,000.

—It is believed that the deaths from the Forest Hill (Mass.) railway accident will reach thirty. The condition of a number of the wounded is critical, and the recovery of many of the victims is doubtful.

—A tug rescued two of the men who were seen clinging to the foretopmast and bowsprit of the schooner J. H. Eels, ashore at Nausett, Mass. The rest of the crew were drowned.

—An engine and tender on the Marietta and Northern Road broke through a trestle near Vincent Station, Ohio, killing the engineer and fireman and scalding the conductor and brakeman. Fifteen persons were injured by an accident at Park Station, New York, on the Elmira, Cortland and Northern Road.

—A fire at Albany consumed the produce store of H. R. Wright, on Broadway, valued at $40,000. The Reed Company's Factory, at Canajoharie, was also burned. Half of the business part of Blackville, S. C., and some dwellings were burned. Loss nearly $100,000.

—The home of Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett in Washington was damaged to the extent of $2,000 by fire.

—The Dunham distillery, at Covington, Ky., was damaged to the amount of $60,000 by fire, and a workman received fatal injuries.

—In Buffalo, early Friday morning, flames broke out in the Richmond Hotel, containing 175 persons. Not less than twelve lives were lost, and about thirty persons were injured by flames or by leaping from windows. St. James' Hall, adjoining the hotel, was also burned. The total loss is estimated at $500,000. The business section of Rock Hill, S. C., was almost wiped out by fire. The loss is $140,000, with about $100,000 insurance. The Durham distillery at Covington, Ky., with 2,000 barrels of bonded whisky, was also destroyed, and one employe fatally injured. Two stores at Flint, Mich., were gutted by fire. Peter Burrell (colored) was suffocated, and his daughter dangerously injured by leaping from a window.

—Near Skilleville, Ontario, a Canadian Pacific express train dashed into the rear of a freight train. Fire broke out, and ten freight cars, with their contents, were destroyed. The express engine and tender were wrecked, and the first car of the express train was partly burned. No lives were lost.

CRIMES AND CRIMINALS.

—The Governor and Council of Massachusetts have ordered the release of Charles F. Freeman, the Pocasset fanatic, who butchered his child as a sacrifice to God.

—In the Illinois Supreme Court at Ottawa, on the 17th of March, arguments were begun in the case of the Chicago anarchists before a large assemblage. Leonard Swett, George C. Ingham, and Mr. Zeisler made arguments, each one occupying the full two hours allowed him. An Ottawa telegram says:

The Supreme Court Judges were all present except Chief Justice Scott, who is in California for his health, and all appeared to listen to the arguments with very close attention. Two or three times members of the court interrupted with questions. Each Judge had on the circular desk before him copies of the briefs of counsel for both sides, and referred to them frequently during the progress of the arguments. On the two tables for counsel in front of the clerk's desk were not only copies of the briefs but the twenty odd large volumes constituting the record and a number of law books besides. Behind these legal fortifications sat Attorney General Hunt, State's Attorney Grinnell, and George C. Ingham, counsel for the State, and Leonard Swett, Capt. Black, and Sigmund Zeisler, counsel for the anarchists. Frank Walker and Mr. Salomon, also connected with the case, were present, but only as interested listeners. Mrs. Zeisler occupied a seat near her husband and took notes. Mrs. Capt. Black is in the city, but did not appear in the court-room to-day.

The St. Joe News.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MORT & WILL OLDS. PUBLISHERS.

"TOO MANY OF WIL"

"Mamma, is there too many of us?"
The little girl asked with a sigh.
"Perhaps you wouldn't be tired, you see,
If a few of your child's could die."

She was only three years old—the one
Who spoke in that strange, sad way,
As she saw her mother's impatient frown
At the children's boisterous play.

There were a half dozen who round her stood,
And the mother was sick and poor,
Worn out with the care of the noisy brood
And fight with the wolf at the door.

For a smile or a kiss no time, no place;
For the little one, least of all;
And the shadow that darkened the mother's face
O'er the young life seemed to fall.

More thoughtful than any, she felt more care,
And pondered in childish way
How to lighten the burden she could not share,
Growing heavier day by day.

Only a week, and the little Claire
In her tiny white trundle-bed
Lay with the blue eyes closed, and the sunny hair Cut close from the golden head.

"Don't cry," she said—and the words were low,
Feeling tears that she could not see—
"You won't have to work and be tired so,
When there ain't so many of us."

But the dear little daughter who went away
From the home that for once was still,
Showed the mother's heart, from that dreary day,
What a place she had always filled,
—Woman's World.

PAYING DEBTS.

BY PAUL H. MOORE.

John Ramsay was working on his farm, his careless, loose dress displaying to advantage his tall, muscular figure, and a broad straw hat shaded a handsome face, with large dark eyes set beneath a forehead whose breadth and height indicated a powerful brain. The hands that guided the plough were strong hands, but whiter and more delicate than such pursuits usually allow.
Daisy Hale sat watching him. Her dress was print, but made with flounces on the skirt, and ruffles on the waist. Her short golden hair was curled in a fringe carefully over her forehead, and gathered in longer curls into a comb behind, above which was a very jaunty hat, covered with puffs of white muslin and bows of blue ribbon to match the spots upon her dress.
The face under Daisy's hat was gloomy; not to say cross. A very pretty face, but not pleasant, having a petted, spoiled-child frown, and a brooding discontent in the large blue eyes.
Presently the farmer drew near her, and taking off his hat, fanned himself with it, stopping his horses while he leaned indolently against the plow.
"You look deliciously cool under this great tree," he said. "And—hem!—very much dressed for 9 o'clock in the morning!"
"In a 5-penny calico!" she said, contemptuously. "When are you coming in?"
"At noon, to dinner."
"It is too absurd," she broke out, angry tears in her eyes, "for you to be plowing, and hoeing, and milking cows, and doing the work of a laboring man! I thought when you came home from college you would do something besides work on a farm."
"And let the farm go to ruin. That would be a poor way to pay my debts."
"Your debts!" she said, looking astonished. "Do you owe debts?"
"Certainly! You and I are both very heavily in debt, Daisy. I think when Aunt Mary took us in, poor little orphans, I her nephew, you her second cousin—"
"Third cousin," she interrupted, "since you are so particular! I know what you mean, but I am very sure that Aunt Mary never intended us to drudge on her horrid old farm!"
"Do you know that all the money she saved in a life of hard work was spent upon our education? Do you know that she has nothing now but the farm, and that to take her away from it would probably shorten her life?"
"She always has taken care of it herself."
"Are you blind that you cannot see how the four years she has been alone here have aged her, how feeble she is? While we were living at ease at college and school she has toiled for us until she is wearied out."
"But you could send her money, if you were in the city in some gentlemanly occupation."
"Perhaps so; ten or twelve years from now. To-day I propose to work this farm, and see how many bushels of corn I can raise on it."
He took hold of the plow handles as he spoke, started the horses, and left her, her eyes full of angry tears.
"He might as well have said what he meant," she thought, springing down and starting for the house. "He thinks I ought to cook, and wash, and make butter, and work like a servant-girl, when I have studied so hard and tried to make myself a lady, that he might not be ashamed of me."

And yet, in her heart, she knew that he was ashamed of her, and that she deserved it. Ashamed that she could sit in her room, selfishly engrossed in making pretty articles of dress, or reading, while her cousin, or, as she, too, called her, Aunt Mary, worked in the kitchen, the dairy, the poultry yard, from day's dawn till night.

She was not all selfishness and heartlessness, though there had grown a thick crust of both over her better nature. Her ideas of ladies and gentlemen depended largely upon clothing and pursuit, and she had not yet quite realized how much more nearly John's standard reached the desired point than her own.

As she drew near the house the sting of John's words penetrated more and more through the crust she had drawn over her heart, until a fresh stab had met her at the door. Looking in at the open door, she saw a white head bowed in weeping, a slight figure shaken by sobs.

Quickly through all the selfishness, self-reproach struck at the girl's heart, and in a moment she was on her knees beside the low chair, her arms around the weeping woman.

"Oh, Aunt Mary, what is it? Oh, please don't cry so! Oh, what has happened?"
"Why, Daisy, dear"—through sobs that would not be checked at a moment's notice—"don't mind me. I'm only tired, dearie—only tired."

Could she have struck deeper? Tired! At 70, housework does not become a weariness! At 70, it may seem as if one ought to rest, while young hands and active feet take up the burdens. She was very tired, this patient, old woman, who had given her life's work for others; first for her parents; then for an invalid brother, lastly, for the orphan children; with such innumerable acts of neighborly kindness as only the recording angel of good deeds knew.

Well might she be tired! It was new to her to be caressed, to have tender hands lead her to her room and loosen her dress, a tender voice coax her to lie down.

"Now I will darken the window," Daisy said, "and you are to rest! Sleep, if you can, until dinner-time."

"But, Daisy, you cannot make the dinner."

"I will try," was the quick reply; and Aunt Mary submitted.

Washing the potatoes, shelling peas, frying ham, making coffee, all allowed thought to be busy, and Daisy sighingly put away some of her day-dreams over her homely tasks.

"I cannot be a lady," she thought, "and John won't be a gentleman, but I will try to pay my share of the debts."

She had taken off her flounces and hat, and put on a plain dress and large check apron before she began to work; and she was rather astonished, as her kitchen duties progressed, to find herself happier than she had been since she returned home.

When John came to dinner he was astonished to find Aunt Mary "quite dressed up," as she blushing said, in a clean print dress and white apron, her dear old face showing no sign of heat or weariness, while Daisy, with added bloom and bare white arms, was carrying in the dinner.

"The new girl, at your service," she said, saucily, as she pulled down her sleeves. "Dinner is ready, sir."

But her lips quivered as he bent over her and whispered, "God bless you, dear! Forgive me if I was too hasty this morning."

It was a merry meal. They made a play that was more than half earnest of Aunt Mary's being a great lady who was to be waited upon, and not allowed to rise from the table upon any consideration. Dinner over, John returned to his plowing, and Aunt Mary, firmly refusing to sit in idleness, was allowed to wash cups and saucers, while Daisy made short work of pots and pans.

John said but little as the days wore on and still found Daisy at her post. It was not in the nature of things for Aunt Mary to sit with folded hands, but it became Daisy's task to inaugurate daily naps, to see that only the light work came to the older hands, to make daily work less of a toil and more of a pleasure.

And the young girl herself was surprised to find how much she enjoyed the life that had seemed to her a mere drudgery.

With younger hands to carry on the domestic affairs, they ceased to engross every hour of the day, and John encouraged Daisy in making use of the stiff, shut-up parlor as a daily sitting-room. A pair of muslin curtains at each window were skillfully draped to keep out the flies, the center table resigned its gay vase of stiff artificial flowers and stand of wax fruit, to make room for two dainty work-baskets for "afternoon work," and the periodicals John took in. Over the shiny horse-hair sofa and chairs pretty bits of embroidery were draped, and fresh flowers were supplied each day. Aunt Mary's caps, her collars, and aprons were adjusted to suit the new order of things, and the easiest of chairs stood ever ready for her resting-time.

And John, bringing to his task the same will and brains that had carried him through college, was inaugurating a new order of affairs on the farm, and made the work pay well.

Once more came a June day, when Daisy sat in the fields, and John stood leaning against the fence beside her.

Four years of earnest, loving work had left traces upon both young faces, ennobling them, and yet leaving to them all the glad content that rewards well-doing.

Many hours of self-denial both had met bravely; many deprivations both had borne well. Daisy wore a black dress, and upon the hat in John's hand was a band of crape, but through a sadness in their voices there yet rang a tone of happiness.

"You love me, Daisy?" John had said to her.

"When have I not loved you?" she answered.

"And you will be my wife? Darling, I have long loved you, but after Aunt Mary was stricken down with paralysis I would not ask you to take up new duties. Now she needs you no longer, and you shall leave the farm whenever you wish."

"Leave the farm! Oh, John, must we leave it? I thought it was yours now."

"So it is."

"And you have made it so beautiful, as well as profitable! Oh, John, why must we leave it?"

"Only because I thought it was your wish."

"It would break my heart to go away. I love my home."

And John, taking the little figure into a close embrace, wondered if any city could produce a sweeter, daintier little lady than the one he held in his arms.

Costly Condolences.

It is reported that it cost Mrs. Logan over $30 to pay the expenses of the telegrams of condolence sent to her. Her house is outside the city boundary, and the telegraph companies charge 10 cents each, whether they were pre-paid or not, for delivering them. She received several hundred, and strange to say, many were sent "collect." It seems odd that messages of condolence or congratulation should be sent "collect," but it often happens.

Out of the thousands of telegrams of congratulation received by Mr. Garfield upon his nomination at Chicago in 1880, many were marked "collect." It is my recollection, however, that the telegraph company in that case canceled the charges. Most of these were sent by people who either did not know the amenities or did not care for them, but many were sent unthinkingly or through some inadvertence. It would make some people uneasy even yet to know that their fervent and effusive communications reached Mr. Garfield marked "collect."

One noted gentleman in particular sent a very long and enthusiastic message that bore the word "collect," causing Mr. Garfield to smile as he glanced at it. Soon after the sender was a candidate for a high position under the President, and, as I knew him well and liked him, I took occasion to tell him about the telegram, feeling sure there was a mistake somewhere. He was as demoralized and disgusted a man as one could imagine.

He explained at once to Mr. Garfield that he had sent the dispatch from a hotel in New York, and supposed it had been charged to him in his bill, as he directed. He was not appointed, though whether the "collect" dispatch had anything to do with his failure he never knew. Another "collect" dispatch to Mr. Garfield was from one of the most noted American actors, who was an intimate friend and great admirer of Garfield, and he would have been mortified beyond expression had he known about the matter. Another of the "collect" telegrams was from a millionaire Senator, and another was from a great railroad and telegraph magnate and millionaire from New York. That was the most singular one of all, and it was suspected that some of the high officials of the telegraph company did it as a joke upon the sender.—Washington letter.

Hand Grenades.

The hand-grenade fire-extinguisher, after making a half a dozen fortunes, seems about to turn out a hoax. Not but what the hand-grenades are serviceable; for a good many incipient fires have been extinguished by their use; but because the public has been paying an extravagant price for what seems to be only salt and water put up in glass bottles. One eminent authority declares that the only virtue in these hand-grenades is in the salty water, whatever other ingredients they may contain. Salt water has long been known as an efficient extinguisher of fire.

FITH AND POINT.

The Czar of Russia is not so eccentric as he might be, considering that his very mouth is a Czar-chassis.

The dog is not much of a pedestrian but he can make an unlimited number of laps in a very short time.

A foot and shoe slap hangs out the sign, "Cast-iron lasts." We all know it does, but we don't want the boots made of it.

DAUGHTER—Ma, why does Uncle John say "er-er" so much when he talks? Mother—To err is human, my child.

The difference between a buzz-saw and a bull-dog is that when the former is most dangerous it never shows its teeth.

The difference between a church organ and an infuriated bull is that one has stops and bellows, and the other bellows and stops.

"I HAVE a theory about the dead languages," remarked the last boy in the class. "I think they were killed by being studied too hard."

An esteemed contemporary speaks of a person being "buffeted by a thorn in the flesh." We shall next hear of some one being pricked by the blow of a club.

A PITTSBURGH girl who has been visiting here has returned to her native city; she says the atmosphere of Boston does not suit her.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

BOOK AGENT—Now, then, here is "Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress." Aunt Susan—No, sir, I've got two bunnions already and dey's never been no help to disyer pilgrim's progress.—Life.

A MAGAZINE asks: "What is true joy?" True joy is what a woman feels when a committee at a country fair declares that her crazy-quilt is prettier than all the assembled crazy-quilts of her neighbors.

LORD Mamma (to young miss)—Did I not forbid you to go to the park without a protector? Young Miss—But I had a protector. Lord Mamma—You mean to tell me—Young Miss—Yes, I went to the druggist and bought a chest-protector.

"WHAT a frivolous girl Miss De Puyter is," exclaimed a New Yorker. "Have you found her so?" "I should say I had. She can't talk base-ball a little bit. She is all the time wanting to waste her time discussing 'The Whiteness of the Is.'"

"TIMES have changed greatly since Shakespeare's day," remarked Spriggins. "Yes, just so," replied Fitzgibbon. "Now, Shakespeare said, 'The apparel oft proclaims the man.'"

"Well, what does it proclaim now?" "The dude, generally."

"Was your husband on the stand yesterday?" asked a lawyer of a woman, in a case in which husband and wife were witnesses. "No," she answered, with a snap, "he wasn't on the stand. He was on the set. That's the kind of a man he is, whenever there is anything to get on, from a satin sofa to the top rail of a worn fence."

A BARRISTER, noticing that the Court had gone to sleep, stopped short in the middle of his speech. The sudden silence awoke the judges, and the lawyer gravely resumed: "As I remarked yesterday, my lords"—The puzzled judges stared at each other, as though they half believed that they had been asleep since the previous day.

LAYS OF LONELY HARD.

He's old and bent and feeble, and imperfect in his sight.
A pair of gold-rimmed spectacles are perched upon his nose;
He leans upon a trusty staff; his step's no longer light.
His face is sadly wrinkled, and his cheek's a withered rose.
He smiles upon the children as they flock about his knee
Like merry birds in summer-time about an olden tree;
But you must just look out for him if he wants to borrow a V.

—Puck.

Nipped in the Bud.

A citizen of Detroit who is very imaginative, recently attended a banquet. When he went home at an early hour in the morning, he attempted to describe the scene to his wife.

"In the center of the table," he said, "there were two superb lyres."

"What became of the other one?" asked his wife, as she opened one eye to its full width.—Detroit Free Press.

INTELLIGENCE is a luxury, sometimes useless, sometimes fatal. It is a torch or a firebrand according to the use one makes of it.—Fernan Caballero.

“ONLY AFTER DEATH.”

What Wonders the Microscope Has Done for Us.

No Longer Obligated to Die to Find Out "What's Killing Us."

One of the leading scientific publications states that many people are now using the microscope to discover the real cause of disease in the system, and to detect adulterations of food and medicines.

This wonderful instrument has saved many a life. A microscopical test shows, for instance, the presence of albumen, or the life of the blood, in certain derangements of the kidneys, but medicine does not tell us how far advanced the derangement is, or whether it shall prove fatal.

The microscope, however, gives us this knowledge:

Bright's disease, which so many people dread, was not fully known until the microscope revealed its characteristics. It greatly aids the physician skilled in its use, in determining how far disease has advanced, and gives a fuller idea of the true structure of the kidney.

A noted German scholar recently discovered that by the aid of the microscope, the physician can tell if there is a tumor forming in the system, and if certain appearances are seen in the fluids passed, it is proof positive that the tumor is to be a malignant one.

If any derangement of the kidneys is detected by the microscope, the physician looks for the development of almost any disease of the system, and any indication of Bright's disease, which has no symptoms of its own and cannot be fully recognized except by the microscope, he looks upon with alarm.

This disease has existed for more than 2,000 years. It is only until recently that the microscope has revealed to us its universal prevalence and fatal character. Persons who formerly died of what was called general debility, nervous break-down, dropsy, paralysis, heart disease, rheumatism, apoplexy, etc., are now known to have really died of kidney disease, because, had there been no disorder of the kidneys, the chances are that the effects from which they died would never have existed.

As the world becomes better acquainted with the importance of the kidneys in the human economy by the aid of the microscope, there is greater alarm spread through the communities concerning it, and this accounts for the erroneous belief that it is on the increase.

As yet neither homoeopathist nor allopathist is prepared with a cure for derange d kidneys, but the world has long since recognized, and many medical gentlemen also recognize and prescribe Warner's safe cure for these derangements, and admit that it is the only specific for the common and advanced forms of kidney disorders.

Formerly the true cause of death was discovered only after death. To-day the microscope shows us, in the water we pass, the dangerous condition of any organ in the body, thus enabling us to treat it promptly and escape premature death.

As the microscope in the hands of laymen has revealed many diseases that the medical men were not aware of, so that preparation, like many other discoveries in medicine and science, was found out by laymen outside the medical code; consequently it comes very hard for medical men to endorse and prescribe it. Nevertheless, Warner's safe cure continues to grow in popularity, and the evidences of its effectiveness are seen on every hand.

Some persons claim that the proprietors should give the medical profession the formula of this remedy, if it is such a "godsend to humanity," and let the physicians and public judge whether or not it be so recognized.

We, however, do not blame them for not publishing the formula, even to get the recognition of the medical profession. The standing of the men who manufacture this great remedy is equal to that of the majority of physicians, and the reason that some doctors give for not adopting and prescribing it—viz.: that they do not know what its ingredients are—is absurd.

Mr. Warner's statement—that many of the ingredients are expensive, and that the desire of the unscrupulous dealer or prescriber to realize a large profit from its manufacture by using cheap, or injurious substances for those ingredients would jeopardize its quality and reputation; and that Warner's safe cure cannot be made in small quantities on account of the expensive apparatus necessary in compounding these ingredients—seems to us to be a reasonable and sufficient one.

The universal testimony of our friends and neighbors, and the indisputable evidence that it, and it alone, has complete mastery over all diseases of the kidneys, is sufficient explanation of its extraordinary reputation, and conclusive proof that it is, perhaps, the most beneficent discovery known to scientific medicine since the microscope revealed to us the all-important nature of the organs it is designed to reach and benefit.

Having Fun with a Bull.

A Vermont man took a mean revenge on a bull that had hurried him somewhat across a field. He borrowed a wooden Indian from a tobaccoist's doorway and set it up in the field frequented by the bovine. The bull charged the Indian on slight provocation and tossed it, and when it came down on his back it made him aquat and bellow with pain, while the man who borrowed the Indian stood on the other side of the fence and enjoyed it.

MERE bashfulness without merit is awkward; and merit has a double claim to acceptance and generally meets with as many patrons as beholders.—Hughes.

QUEEN CHRISTINA is a thorough Austrian, and she is intellectual. She de tests the Spanish bull fight.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

SCIENTISTS state that water once contaminated with sewage never becomes purified by natural means.

The eyes of poisonous snakes have been found by Dr. Benjamin Sharp to have elliptical pupils, while in the harmless species they are circular.

PROF. ORDWAY recommends that water pipes exposed to freezing be covered with glazed cotton batting. It is easily applied, and should be put on to the thickness of one to three inches, according to exposure, being wound around loosely with twine.

PROF. BAIRD says that as a fish has no maturity, there is nothing to prevent it from living indefinitely and growing continually. He cites in proof a pike living in Russia whose age dated back to the fifteenth century. I the royal aquarium at St. Petersburg, there are fish that have been there 140 years.

THE tensile strength of ice is given by Frehling, of Konigsberg, as, between 142 and 233 pounds per square inch, at 23 degrees F. Its compressive strength, found by cubes of over two inches at the same temperature; is ascertained to vary between sixty-one and 205 pounds, a mean being 118 pound per square inch.

RECENT observations are said to indicate the existence of a submarine volcanic crater between the Canary Islands and the coast of Portugal. From a cable-laying steamer in latitude 30 deg. 25 min. north, longitude 9 deg. 54 min. west, the water was found to measure 1300 fathoms under the bow, and 800 fathoms under the stern, showing the ship to be over the edge of a deep depression in the ocean bottom. It is well known that great inequalities are found in the bed of the sea of Lisbon, and these are thought to be due to a submarine chain of mountains.

A MEMBER of the Royal Society of Tasmania finds that, as compared with Mars, Jupiter's surface brightness is twenty-two times as great as it ought to be if all its light is reflected sunshine; and as compared with the moon about thirteen times. That the brilliancy was remarkable has long since been known, and the theory of this observer, that the giant planet of our system has not yet so cooled as to, cease to be self-luminous, is by no means new. A more generally accepted explanation, however, is that Jupiter is covered with a highly reflective material, which absorbs much less solar light than Mars and the moon.

OVER 160 stars are known to vary in brightness, a very few strikingly, in periods ranging from a few hours to several centuries. In one class, the changes seem to follow a regular law, and in another they are irregular and spasmodic. To the latter class probably belong the so-called "new" stars from time to time recorded, which, instead of being new creations, are doubtless faint stars suddenly flashing into prominence. A most remarkable new star was seen in 1572, by Tycho Brahe, who reported that it became suddenly so brilliant as to be seen at noon, then gradually faded away and became lost to view in about sixteen months after it was first observed.

THE system of communication by sun flashes from mirrors has been lately used with marked success by Lieut. A. M. Fuller, the United States signal officer on special service in Arizona. Signals were flashed by mirrors for distances ranging from five to forty miles. A trial message of twenty-five words was sent over a line 200 miles in length, and an answer of the same length received at the starting point in twenty minutes. Another test which resulted very satisfactorily, was signalling 300 words twenty-five miles, in a short space of time. A message of twenty-five words was recently signalled from Gen. Miles, at Tubac, A. T., to Lake Valley, 400 miles distant, and an answer of twenty-seven words returned in four hours and ten minutes.

Facts.

Gain a little knowledge every day; one fact in a day. How small a thing is one fact—only one! Ten years pass by. Three thousand six hundred and fifty facts are not a small thing.

LOUIS BRENNAN, of Castlebar, Ireland, has been awarded $500,000 by the English admiralty for the invention of a torpedo.

BACK-YARDS—the trains of ladies' dresses.

BENSON'S CAPSICINE POKROUS PLASTER

Highest Awards of Medals in Europe and America.

The nearest, quickest, safest and most powerful remedy known for Rheumatism, Pleurisy, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Backache, W. Aches, colic in the chest, and all aches and pains. Indorsed by 5,000 Physicians and Druggists of the highest repute. Benson's Plasters promptly relieve on a cure where other plasters and greasy salves, liniments and lotions, are absolutely useless. Beware of imitations under similar sounding names, such as "Capsicum," "Capicum," "Capsicine," as they are utterly worthless and intended to deceive. Ask for BENSON'S and TAKE NO OTHERS. All druggists, NEARBY, & JOHNSON, Proprietors, New York.

293 COLUMBUS Combined MANURE SPREADERS & FARM WAGONS

The cheapest spreader out, and the only kind that can be attached to old wagons. All are warranted. Prices mailed free. NEWARK MACHINE CO., COLUMBUS, OHIO.

SOUTH DAKOTA FARMS Send for free official map of Dakota, new illustrated pamphlet and descriptive price lists of farms near the city of Mitchell, in the corn belt of Dakota and famous James River Valley. Land $10 to $100 per acre. L. C. LEE & CO., Mitchell, Dak.

HARTER'S IRON TONIC

THE ONLY TRUE

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and restore the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling, absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTE'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only adds to its popularity. Do not experiment—get ORIGINAL AND BEST.

Dr. HARTE'S LIVER PILLS (Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)

THE DR. HARTE MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTE'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only adds to its popularity. Do not experiment—get ORIGINAL AND BEST.

PILES Dr. Williams' Indian File Ointment is a sure cure for blind, bleeding or itching piles. Cure guaranteed. Price 50c and $1. At druggists or mailed by Wadding, Kimball & Sturtevant, Wholesale Agents, Toledo, Ohio.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RY

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest—is the only true middle-link in that transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

Guaranteed Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and economical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodations is unequalled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

ALL EXPRESS TRAINS between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of comfortable DAY COACHES, magnificent FULLMAN PALACE PARLOR and SLEEPING CARS, elegant DINING CARS providing excellent meals, and between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—restful RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains run daily to the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The rich wheat fields and grazing lands of interior Dakota are reached via Watertown.

A short desirable route, via Seneca and Kanabos, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points.

All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employees of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly attention.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders—obtainable at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada—or any desired information, address,

R. R. CABLE, Pres't & Gen'l Mgr, Chicago. E. ST. JOHN, Ass't Gen'l Mgr, Chicago. E. A. HOLBROOK, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt, Chicago.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND

SLICKER

Is The Best Waterproof Coat Ever Made.

None genuine unless stamped with the above TRADE MARK. Don't waste your money on a gum or rubber coat. The FISH BRAND SLICKER is absolutely water and wind proof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. Ask for the "FISH BRAND" SLICKER and take no other. If your storekeeper does not have the "FISH BRAND," send for descriptive catalogue to A. J. TOWER, 20 Simmons St., Boston, Mass.

Why did the Women

of this country use over thirteen million cakes of Procter & Gamble's Lenox Soap in 1886?

Buy a cake of Lenox and you will soon understand why.

St. Joe

News.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

One Year, in advance ..... $0.75
Six Months ..... 50
Three Months ..... 25

Entered at the Post Office at St. Joe as second-class matter.

FRIDAY MARCH 25, 1887.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.
CONCORD.

Mrs. Flora Simanton is sick.

Mrs. Keller has been on the sick list for a few days.

The measles are in our midst, Miss Emma Morr is quite sick with them.

Miss Mary Kline, of Pigeon's Retreat, was in attendance at the birthday party last Tuesday.

After a few weeks visit with her daughter in Garrett, Mrs. Geo. Morr returned home last Monday.

Miss Arvilla Draggoo came home last Tuesday from Auburn, where she has been visiting friends.

Who took El's lace? Mr. J. White will please explain and receive the magnificent reward of fifteen cents.

Rev. and Mrs. Langley, of St. Joe, were at the birthday party last Tuesday; also Mr. Geo. Johnson and wife of near St. Joe.

Henry Baker is selling good baking powder for fifteen cents per box, and with every box you draw a beautiful piece of glassware.

Our postmaster has been putting in new letter boxes, and making other improvements and thereby adding to the appearance, as well as the convenience of things in general.

Died, in spasms, last Tuesday evening, at the residence of G. W. Draggoo, little "snowdrop," age one year. Supposed to have been poisoned. The family have our sympathy.

John Hull has purchased three acres of land of Mr. Hildebrand, just across the road from Wayne Scott's old house, and will erect a house thereon, this spring or in the early part of the summer.

We think George Howey has a good joke on the sheriff and a prominent lawyer of Auburn. The next time they had better ask for other people's horse and buggy, and save trouble and unnecessary expense.

We don't know whether we have a counterfeit in our midst or not; but upon presenting a five dollar gold piece to one of the clerks in a store, after making some purchases, he said he had made it as good as he knew how. How is it John?

An agreeable surprise was given Mr. George Draggoo, on last Tuesday in honor of his sixty-first birthday. To simply say he was surprised is a very feeble way of expressing it. He was dumbfounded to see many coming in and taking possession of his usually quiet home. About fifty were present and felt that it was good to be there. The tables fairly groaned with the good things prepared by his estimable wife and daughter and the friends that were present. He received an easy chair and other things that we do not just now remember. Of course we were not there, but mother was, and she said so, and if mother said so it is so, if it ain't so. In the evening the young folks gathered in to surprise Alice and have a good time, and they had it. The plays were interspersed with some fine music and singing.

SPENCERVILLE.

Henry Myers is on the sick list.

Joe Sommers was at Fort Wayne last Monday.

Mrs. Allen and children are visiting at Maysville.

Mrs. Cahill, of Leo, is in town visiting among her friends.

P. Bishop and wife spent a couple of days at Auburn this week.

Willis Carey is slowly recovering from another attack of rheumatism.

Mrs. Henry Carnes is the guest of her sister, Mrs. John Beams this week.

Mr. Beery has moved his old house back and will soon erect a new one in it's place.

Mr. Joe Fredrick, of Hudson, was in town last week, the guest of Ivan Fryberger.

Miss Edith Oberholtzer is spending a few days at Garrett, with her sister, Mrs. Ed Gelhausen.

Mrs. Keefer has moved back from Hicksville and now occupies part of Ben Hursh's house.

Mrs. W. Rhoades and daughter Emma, have been visiting at LaOtto the past few days.

Several of our young people attended the graduation examination, held at St. Joe, last Saturday.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, will be entertained by Mrs. Luther Jones, Saturday, April, 2nd, 1887. All members are requested to be present, as at that time takes place the annual election of officers.

J. J. Arnold of Leo, was in town one day this week.

Mrs. Samuel Lawhead visited with friends at Garrett this week.

John Widney is taking lessons on the guitar. John plays left handed.

Mart Bodey is now a resident of St. Joe, having moved into the Cal Saylor house.

Rev. Lineberry says what he thinks in the last issue of the Auburn Dispatch.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Patterson spent last Sabbath with their parents at Hicksville.

We understand that Mrs. Yarnell will build a residence on her lot in the west end of town.

There is no better location in this part of the state for a grist mill, than right here in St. Joe.

Russ Coburn thinks of having his picture in last week's News enlarged. Our artist can do it in the latest style out.

Rev. Cyrus Alton preached a very interesting discourse at the church last Sunday morning, to a large and attentive congregation. He returned to his home in Nebraska this week.

We begin to think our paper is appreciated. Last week we failed to get it out on time, and we were besieged with persons all day enquiring: "where's my paper." That was evidence at least, that it was missed.

This township has purchased one of the Fleming road scrapers of Frank Herrick, and they were trying it's merits on our streets one day this week. It does the work, right up to perfection. Wouldn't it be a good idea for the township to put up some kind of a building in which to store such machinery when not in use?

OBITUARY.

Mary Caroline Davis, was born in London, England, July 27th, 1814; married David Furnish in the year 1833, and departed this life, after a short illness, March 18th, 1887, aged 72 years, 7 months and 21 days. In this blessed union of 54 years, they were presented with a family of eleven children, six sons and five daughters. A husband, five sons and five daughters survive her to mourn their loss. Many friends too, are left, who feel the loss, and sympathize with the bereaved family; our loss is her great gain. Forty years of their blessed union, was consistent in the service of Christ, making their home with the Evangelical Lutheran church. The funeral services were held at the family residence, on Sunday March 20th, at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. Shaller, internment in the Spencerville cemetery. The following lines were written expressive of the grief of the bereaved husband:

Cold and white, upon it's bier,
And with death clothes covered o'er
Love lies dead and frozen here,
Dead, yes dead, for evermore.
Oh! I am too weak and faint,
To remove it from it's place
And yet here I must not stay.
With that change upon it's face.
What can I do, left alone!
With love gone, yes gone for aye;
God in Heaven, be kind to me,
Lest I also freeze and die;

IN MEMORY OF MOTHER FURNISH.

Another dear mother has gone to rest,
To live with Jesus, in the home of the blest;
Her chair is vacant, her voice is still,
Her form will be missed, look where you will.
The church has lost a good old
mother,
Whose place can be filled by none
other;
Her gentle words, her kind embrace,
Has left impressions, that time cannot efface.
Her days of suffering and affliction are o'er;
Her sighs of pain, will be heard no more;
God sent an angel down, to bear her
Spirit away,
Where there is no night, but one eternal day.
She is now living in that mansion bright,
Where all is peace, and joy and light;
But three short weeks ago, (in church)
we heard her say,
"I'm striving to live nearer Jesus
every day."
"Dear ones!" to you, who are sorely bereft,
She has to you, a good example left;
Follow carefully the footsteps, in the path she trod,
Leading upward to Glory, and to God.
Wish her not back to this world of sin and woe,
But see to it, that where she is, you will all strive to go;
Then, what a meeting, in Heaven
there will be,
When "dear mother's" face, you shall again see.

Samuel Widney is quite seriously sick.

Mell Bishop has got onions in bloom.

P. P. Shuler was at Kendallville yesterday.

There are no new cases of scarlet fever in town, and the one or two cases that have been, are on the road to health.

M. TUSTISON,
DEALER IN

GROCERIES,

ROLLER FLOUR,
PROVISIONS, OYSTERS, LEMONS,
ORANGES, CANDIES, CIGARS &c.
MAIN ST. ST. JOE, IND.

WILLIAM CURIE,

PROPRIETOR OF

MEAT MARKET

ST. JOE, IND.

Highest market price paid for Hides,
Tallow &c. Give me a call.

J. F. WALKER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

Harness, Collars,

WHIPS, HARNESS OIL &c

ST. JOE, IND.

Repairing done promptly. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see.

A. KINSEY,

DEALER IN

FURNITURE

BUREAUS, TABLES,

Lounges, Beds, Chairs &c.

MAIN STREET, ST. JOE, IND.

All styles of Parlor Goods furnished to order at low prices. Thanking you for past patrons I solicit your future patronage.

F. A. ZEIGLER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

HARNESS,

COLLARS,

WHIPS,

FLY NETS,

DUSTERS,

OILS &c.

St. Joe, Ind.

Prices the Lowest. All work guaranteed. Call and see me.

A. KINSEY,

Undertaker and Embalmer. Keeps on hand constantly, a stock of Undertaking Supplies, Coffins, Caskets, Burial Robes &c. I can supply as fine goods as can be furnished. Will attend to making all arrangements for funerals. Calls responded to at all hours of the night.
Office on corner of Main and Second Streets: residence on corner of Main and Fourth Streets, St. Joe, Ind.

Business Notices.

H. W. BOWMAN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Office opposite the Drugstore.

ST. JOE HOTEL, Wm. Leighty, Proprietor. Special attention given to furnishing teams for commercial men.

B. S. SHEFFER, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to his care.

ST. JOE BARBER SHOP, one door west of hotel, Will Gee, proprietor. Satisfaction guaranteed. Your patronage is solicited.

FILLEY, LOUNSBERRY AND SHULER, proprietors of the St. Joe Saw and Planing Mill. All work promptly done. Cash paid for Oak Logs.

CITY BARBER SHOP, St. Joe, Ind., John Hull, proprietor. Shaving, Hair Cutting &c. done in the best of style. Come and see me. Two doors west of Kinsey's Furniture Store.

SIMON WINELAND, proprietor St. Joe Handle, Shingle and Feed Mills. Feed grinding a specialty. Highest prices paid for second growth White Ash. Enquire at the mill for full particulars.

LOCALS.

St. Joe expects a booming trade this spring.

Charlie Star of Mayeville was in town Saturday.

Gust Flint, of Newville, called to see us Thursday.

Will Curie was at Maysville Tuesday on business.

The pay car paid out bran new greenbacks Wednesday.

J. D. Leighty has been at Toledo this week, buying goods.

Charlie Grubb and wife visited friends in town this week.

Rev. Langley will preach at the Methodist church Sunday morning.

Some interesting correspondence will be found in the supplement this week.

Hank Reynolds hit a fellow on the nose Tuesday. Hank is a ready knocker.

Clide Woodcox is rejoicing over the advent of a new boy baby at their house.

H. K. Reynolds had a severe attack of hemorrhage of the lungs Wednesday morning.

Rev. Fryberger will occupy the pulpit of the Lutheran church Sunday evening. All are invited.

A number of the friends of Matilda Widney gathered at her home Wednesday, and enjoyed a social time together.

A team belonging to Henry Ables became frightened Thursday in town, and ran off. No damage done; only a big scare.

August Kinsey showed us a rattlesnake in his furniture store the other day that was four feet long and had six rattles. It was whittled out of wood.

Use Raven's Poultry Food if you want to get lots of eggs.

Garrett's base ball club is on deck for the season of 1887.

The snow the fore part of the week made another good run of sugar water.

Will Moody of Newville shipped several car loads of lumber from this place recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Wartenbee of Newville, attended church at this place last Sunday.

Nobby Spring Line of Gent's Neckware received this week at the Nimble Nickle store.

S. & F. Barney have been cleaning up there store room this week, getting ready for spring stock.

If you want to locate in one of the pleasantest towns in this part of the country, come to St. Joe.

Frank Scholes of Fort Wayne called to see us Monday, and left his measure for the News. Frank can laugh just as hearty as ever.

We see there is to be an old folk's hop at Auburn. It is usually the young folks that hop, especially when the old gentleman gets after them with a broad side of a shingle.

Byron Hadsell's house took fire last Friday, and but for the timely assistance of H. R. Babcox, who happened to be passing just at that time it would undoubtedly have been destroyed.

Farm for sale: what is known as the Henry Robinson farm, consisting of 70 acres of land, fair buildings, and well watered. For further particulars call on, or address Jerry Andrews, Newville, Ind.

By the Edgerton Observer, we see that Alex. Donaldson is one among those who are interested in boring for gas at that place. Alex. is one of those wide awake fellows that is of benefit to any town.

H. R. Babcox has gone to his home in Ohio, for a couple of weeks. Barney Woodcox will have charge of the fruit tree business during his absence, and fill all engagements for lectures.

Chris Curie, Robert Culbertson and Henry Jenkins, went to Newville township Monday, to act as viewers on the Moody ditch. This ditch is about ten miles long and drains nearly the whole of the township.

We accidentally overheard some ladies talking the other day, and from what we could learn of the conversation, we think the time for house cleaning is not far distant. When one woman gets the fever, they all get it. Next to getting a tooth pulled, we like house cleaning time the best.

In the correspondence from this place to the Auburn Courier last week, we noticed that one of our prominent citizens was made to dream a dream. That dream has been dreamt so many times that it is getting to be an old, old story. We heard of the same thing years ago, and somebody has been dreaming it over ever since, with a few variations to suit the occasion. By the way some people have a good deal of fault to find with church members. They hear, or imagine a good many things, and proceed to write them up, without stopping to inquire whether there is any truth in them or not. People don't all see things alike; and because they talk over those differences, either at church, in the home or on the streets, does not necessarily indicate that they are quarreling. Uncle Sam Lawhead says that he isn't always asleep when his eyes are shut, and so we say about church members, they are not always quarreling when they are talking together.

J. H. CONRAD,

DEALER IN

ROOFING AND SPOUTING

GUTTERING, HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS,

Cutlery, Nails, Paints, Woodenware &c.

MAIN STREET,

ST. JOE IND.

Allwork and goods guaranteed to give satisfaction. Give me a call.

AT THE

St. Joe

DRUG

STORE.

White-wash Brushes.
Kalsomine Brushes.
Paint and Wall Brushes.
Artist's Brushes.
Marking Brushes.
Shoe and Hair Brushes.
Tooth and Clothes Brushes.

AT THE

St. Joe

DRUG

STORE.

ST. JOE MARKETS.

CORRECTED EVERY FRIDAY.

Wheat	77 cts.
Oats	29 cts.
Corn	40 cts.
Butter	15 cts.
Eggs	10 cts.
Tallow	34 cts.
Lard	10 cts.
Potatoes	40 cts.
Smoked Hams	10 cts.
Shoulders and Side Meat	8 cts.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

WEST BOUND.

No. 9 Mail and Express	11:10 A. M.
3 Chicago Express	10:43 P. M.
35 Local Freight	3:53 P. M.

EAST BOUND.

No. 10 Express and Mail	2:08 P. M.
4 Morning Express	2:57 A. M.
34 Local Freight	8:00 A. M.

H. K. REYNOLDS, AGENT.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that an election will be held in the Lutheran church in St. Joe, Ind., on Saturday afternoon, April 9th, 1887, at 3 o'clock, by the St. Mark's Congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran church of the Synod of Northern Ind., to elect three (3) trustees for said congregation, to hold their office for five (5) years, or until their successors are elected.

Trustees: John Leighty, Robert Davis, W. C. Patterson.

FOR SALE OR TRADE.

One Good Truck Wagon; will sell or trade for a cow. Enquire at Simon Wineland's.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Arguments are all the rage.

Superintendent Merica visited the schools Tuesday.

Another examination for graduation in April.

Miss Violet Barney who has been absent from school so long is convalescing.

Miss Addie Widney has been selected to teach the Carr school this spring.

The were about fifteen present at the examination, last Saturday. The questions were very difficult.

According to a recent enumeration of this school district it was found that it contains 134 school children. That looks as though the school house would have to be enlarged, surely.

HOUSE PAINTING. Graining, Glazing, Paper Hanging and Ceiling Decorating a specialty. All work guaranteed. B. A. Woodcox. Call and see me, or leave orders at the St. Joe Drugstore.

STAR WIND PUMP, E. A. Wankemeyer, agent, Newville, Ind. Farmers who think of buying a mill should give me a call before doing so. The Star Mill is the best and prices the lowest.

Sa, did yu here about that Sant Jo furniture man that got badley skart the othar night, bi a cappel ov burglars. It happened sumthing like this: the furniture man went to bed at his usual our far retiring, an being sleapy he sune fel into a sound snoring sleep. He was awakened long about to or three o'clock bi a loud racket at the back dore. He was skart; his hare stood on end, the cold chills run thru him until it made his teeth clatter. Finally he gathered up ourrage enuf tu jump out ov bed, grapped his old shot gun, an cawshusly went tu the windo, with a firm determinashun tu blo the branes out ov sumthing. He rased the windo and loked out; awl was still, save the distant chimes ov a kat koncert in the back yard. The furniture man loked a littel closer, an diskovered to men, one up a goozebery tree, and the othar one was kronched down behind an old oyster kan. Befour the furniture man cood get a range on them with his shot gun, the wood be burglars had skiped out. He watched fur them awhile, but cum tu the conclu-shun that tha had really gon, so he put awa his littel gun, and crawled intu bed.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Dr. Murphy, of Leo, was in town last Saturday.

Elmer Wyatt, of Newville, came in and gave the News a boost this week.

Mrs. Moses Hilberbrand visited with friends at Coburntown over last Sabbath.

LINCOLN AS A LAWYER.

Straightforward Intelligence of a Great Man His Largest Fee.

His weak as well as his strong qualities have been indicated. He never learned the technicalities—what some would call the tricks—of the profession. The sleight of plea and demurrer, the legerdemain by which justice is balked and a weak case is made to gain an unfair advantage, was too subtle and shifty for his strong and straightforward intelligence. He met these maneuvers sufficiently well when practiced by others, but he never could get in the way of handling them for himself. On the wrong side he was always weak. He knew this himself, and avoided such cases when he could consistently with the rules of his profession. He would often persuade a fair-minded litigant of the injustice of his case and induce him to give it up. His partner, Mr. Herndon, relates a speech in point which Lincoln once made to a man who offered him an objectionable case: "Yes, there is no reasonable doubt but that I can gain your case for you; I can set a whole neighborhood at loggerheads; I can distress a widowed mother and her six fatherless children, and thereby get for you $600, which rightfully belongs, it appears to me, as much to them as it does to you. I shall not take your case, but I will give you a little advice for nothing. You seem a sprightly, energetic man. I would advise you to try your hand at making $600 in some other way." Sometimes, after he had entered upon a criminal case the conviction that his client was guilty would affect him with a sort of panic. On one occasion he turned suddenly to his associate and said: "Sweet, the man is guilty; you defend him, I can't," and so gave up his share of a large fee. The same thing happened at another time when he was engaged with Judge S. C. Parks in defending a man accused of larceny. He said: "If you can say anything for the man do it, I can't; if I attempt it the jury will see that I think he is guilty, and will convict him." Once he was prosecuting a civil suit, in the course of which evidence was introduced showing that his client was attempting a fraud. Lincoln rose and went to his hotel in deep disgust. The Judge sent for him; he refused to come. "Tell the Judge," he said, "my hands are dirty; I came over to wash them." We are aware that these stories detract something from the character of the lawyer, but this inflexible, inconvenient and fastidious morality was to be of vast service afterward to his country and the world.

The Nemesis which waits upon men of extraordinary wit or humor had not neglected Mr. Lincoln, and the young lawyers of Illinois, who never knew him, have an endless store of jokes and pleasantries in his name, some of them as old as Howleglass or Rabelais. But the fact is that with all his stories and jests, his frank companionable humor, his gift of easy accessibility and welcome, he was, even while he traveled the Eight Circuit, a man of grave and serious temper and of an unusual innate dignity and reserve. He had few or no special intimates, and there was a line beyond which no one ever thought of passing. Besides, he was too strong a man in the court-room to be regarded with anything but respect in a community in which legal ability was the only especial distinction. Few of his forensic speeches have been preserved, but his contemporaries all agree as to their singular ability and power. He seemed absolutely at home in a court-room; his great stature did not encumber him there; it seemed like a natural symbol of superiority. His bearing and gesticulation had no awkwardness about them; they were simply striking and original. He assumed at the start a frank and friendly relation with the jury, which was extremely effective. He usually began, as the phrase ran, by "giving away his case," by allowing to the opposite side every possible advantage that they could honestly and justly claim. Then he would present his own side of the case with a clearness, a candor, an adroitness of statement which at once flattered and convinced the jury, and made even the bystanders his partisans. Sometimes he disturbed the Court with laughter by his humorous or apt illustrations; sometimes he excited the audience by that florid and exuberant rhetoric which he knew well enough how and when to indulge in; but his more usual and more successful manner was to rely upon a clear, strong, lucid statement, keeping details in a proper subordination, and bringing forward, in a way which fastened the attention of court and jury alike, the essential point on which he claimed a decision. "Indeed," says one of his colleagues, "his statement often rendered argument unnecessary, and often the Court would stop him and say: 'If that is the case, we will hear the other side.'"

Seeking Intoxication.

In no class of people does heredity do a more disastrous work than in the descendants of drinkers, whether excessive or moderate. A morbid appetite for liquor in such cases, with the disadvantage of an inherited nerve degeneration, may manifest itself in many terrible forms. Among these many forms are the ordinary symptoms of intoxication in a person perfectly temperate.

Dr. Crothers, of Hartford, Conn., presents many such cases in a paper read before the American Association for the cure of inebriates, and published in the Alienist and Neurologist.

The first cases that attracted his attention were two boys, sons of drunkards, in the Hartford Deaf and Dumb Asylum, who had shown clear signs of intoxication from their birth. He was afterwards surprised to find such cases not uncommon. In some persons the symptoms are present all the time, either appearing at birth, or slowly developing with the growth of the child. Most of such cases show other marked indications of physical degeneration—as idiocy, imbecility, or bodily deformity.

In a second-class of cases, almost any excitement is sufficient to bring on an attack. This class may include persons of an average intellect, and even of genius. In them the neurotic (nerve) degeneration may, at a later date, end in imbecility or insanity. A farmer, 54 years old, a man of wealth and character, whose father was a drunkard, but who himself never used any kind of spirits, showed symptoms of intoxication after meeting with an accident from a runaway horse. At the funeral of a child, some months later, his family were greatly mortified at his silly language, staggering gait, and other marked symptoms of intoxication. A year later a similar attack followed the burning of some buildings on his farm.

There are similar cases in which the nerve degeneration is due, not to heredity, but early habits of intoxication. A noted temperance lecturer, a total abstainer for ten years or more, received, while lecturing, a dispatch announcing the fatal illness of his daughter. He drank a glass of water, became confused, staggered, and was led from the stage laughing and shouting in a maudlin way. He had drunk no spirits, but the audience supposed him intoxicated. —Youth's Companion.

How to Keep the Carriage New.

The preservation of a carriage depends largely upon the way in which it is housed. The barn or shed should be airy and dry, with a moderate admission of light, otherwise the colors of painting and lining will be affected. Do not let the vehicle be coiled near a brick wall, as the dampness of the wall will fade colors and destroy the varnish. The coach house should not be connected with the stable or next the manure pit, since the ammonia fumes rising from the manure will do more to crack and ruin varnish, and ruin colors of paint and lining, than all other causes put together.

Do not allow mud to dry on a newly varnished carriage; spots and stains will be the result if you do. Do not permit water to dry of itself on a varnished surface, but remove all moisture with a chamois leather only, after the soft sponge has been used. Do not let the leather top carriages lie long unused with the tops down, but raise occasionally, taking off the strain on the leather and not stay by slightly easing the joints. Keep the moths out of cushions and linings by frequent brushing. Examine the axles often; keep well oiled and see that the washers are in good order.

Stone That Looks Like Beeswax.

A peculiar substance has been found in Georgia, a yellow material, very much like beeswax, which, when shaved off with a knife, rolls up like that article. It is a kind of rock, and, while there is nothing about it that burns, it becomes as hard as flint when heated.

The boy who was kept out of school for orthography said he was spell-bound.

Another Victim of Circumstantial Evidence.

No matter how strong may be every link in a chain of circumstantial evidence there is always a doubt, a lack of certainty, that should weaken it and cause us to distrust it. I remember a story my grandfather used to tell of a case in which an innocent life was sacrificed for a guilty person. A boy on a farm, for some misdemeanor, was sentenced by his father, a stern man, with an eye to saving a half-price ticket, to be deprived of his annual circus privilege, and, in addition, he was to hoe so many rows of corn while the rest of the family took in the lady's pad net, the bareback riding of Jack Robinson, the club that killed Captain Cook, and other attractions of the great moral show. The boy watched the wagon drive away, with tears in his eyes, and then he went at his corn rows with a determination to make a short crop, if it could be worked without detection. But he grew hungry after awhile and went into the house and investigated the pantry. There were seven pies—it was an American household—seven blackberry pies, baked for Sunday. The boy, who was not feeling very well himself, soon placed his person anterior to six of the pies, but passed thoughtfully, and with keen regret, midway on the seventh. One-half of that he left. He then caught the family cat, thrust her nose and feet into the remains of the pie and dropped her on the clean, white, sanded floor of the pantry that she might track around on it. Then he went back to his corn rows. Evening brought the family home. The boy saw them climb joyously out of the big wagon. He noted how the over-ripe apples fell from the trees when his sister jumped over the side and lighted flat-footed on the ground. He saw his father let himself down over the double-trees and get himself kicked twice by the roan colt. He saw his mother waiting patiently until somebody had time and inclination to take the baby. He saw his grandmother perch herself on the hub of the hind wheel on one foot, while she made vague, circumferential, wandering excursions for the wide, wide world with the other. He saw his brothers let themselves down over the tailgate and sneak away to avoid doing any work. At last the wagon was empty, and there were visible signs of excitement about the house. "The raid is discovered," said the boy, cutting the roots of a healthy stalk of corn and carefully billing up a vigorous lance weed. Presently he saw his father come out of the house with a gun over his shoulder and the cat under his arm. "The culprit is arrested," calmly remarked the young robber, as he leaned thoughtfully upon his hoe, and watched his father disappear behind the barn. The sharp report of a gun rang out upon the quiet of the sun-set hour. "There," said the boy, with the confident expression of one who knows what he is talking about, "there goes another victim to circumstantial evidence." —Burdette.

How Men Die in Battle.

When we got into the Brock Road intrenchments, a man a few miles to my left dropped dead, shot just above the right eye. He did not groan, or sigh, or make the slightest physical movement, except that his chest heaved a few times. The life went out of his face instantly, leaving it without a particle of expression. It was plastic, and, as the facial muscles contracted, it took many shapes. When this man's body became cold, and his face hardened, it was horribly distorted, as though he had suffered intensely. Any person who had not seen him killed would have said that he had endured supreme agony before death released him. A few minutes after he fell, another man, a little farther to the left, fell with apparently a precisely similar wound. He was straightened out and lived for over an hour. He did not speak. Simply lay on his back, and his broad chest rose and fell, slowly at first, and then faster and faster, and more and more feeble until he was dead. And his face hardened, and it was almost terrifying in its painful distortion. I have seen dead soldiers' faces which were wreathed in smiles, and heard their comrades say that they had died happy. I do not believe that the face of a dead soldier, lying on a battlefield, ever truthfully indicates the mental or physical anguish or peacefulness of mind which he suffered or enjoyed before his death. The face is plastic after death, and as the facial muscles cool and contract they draw the face into many shapes. Sometimes the dead smile, again they stare with glassy eyes, and belling tongues and dreadfully distorted visages at you. It goes for nothing. One death was as painless as the others. —Recollections of a Private.

An Irish Horse Trade.

The following story was told to a clerical friend in the west of this county by a countryman named Dinny Cooley:

"Good-morrow, Dinny, where did you get the horse?"

"Well, I'll tell your reverence. Some time ago I went to the fair of Ross, not with this horse, but another horse. Well, some a wan said to me, 'Dinny, do you come from the Aist or do you come from the Wesht?' and when I left the fair there wasn't wan to say, 'Dinny, are you going to the Aist or are you going to the Wesht?' Well, your reverence, I rode home, and was near Kilnagross, when I met a man riding along the road forinst me. 'Good-evening, friend,' said he. 'Good-evening, friend,' said I. 'Were you at the fair of Ross?' says he. 'I was,' sez I. 'Did you sell?' says he. 'No,' sez I. 'Would you sell?' sez he. 'Would you buy?' says I. 'Would you make a clean swap?' sez he; 'horse, bridle, and saddle, and all?' sez he. 'Done,' says I. Well, your reverence, I got down off my horse, not this horse, but the other horse, and the man got down off his horse, and we swopped and rode away. But when he had gone about twenty yards he turned round and called after me, 'There niver was a man from Ross,' sez he, 'but could put his finger in the eye of a man from Kilnagross,' sez he; 'and that horse,' sez he, 'that I swopped with you,' sez he, 'is blind as an eye,' sez he. Well then, your reverence, I turned upon him, and I called out to him: 'There niver was a man from Kilnagross,' sez I, 'but that could put his two fingers in both the eyes of a man from Ross,' sez I; 'and that horse that I swopped with you,' sez I, 'is blind at both his eyes,' sez I."

Heart Disease and High Altitudes.

Dr. Loomis details four cases in which heart disease was brought on by a change from a lower to a higher altitude. Two of these were persons going to St. Regis Lake, in the Adirondacks, at an elevation of only 2,000 feet. One was that of a visitor to the Catskill Mountains, and the fourth had gone to Colorado. Though relief was afforded them by a return to lower levels, they all died within four or five weeks. As the result of his experience in twenty-six cases, Dr. Loomis concludes that "the risks which one with even slight cardiac insufficiency runs by passing from a lower to a higher altitude is certainly very great, and if the insufficiency be extensive, such changes become immediately dangerous." This conclusion, strongly supported as it is by Dr. Loomis' data, is especially important when it is remembered that cardiac insufficiency may exist in those who give no evidence of it while residing at or moderately near sea level. It is well known that sojourn at the high resorts of the Swiss Alps is contra-indicated for persons suffering from diseases of the brain, heart, or the large vessels. The change in the blood due to deficiency of oxygen (calculation will show that ordinarily at an altitude of only 2,000 feet 173.48 grains less of oxygen are inhaled than at sea level) would alone explain the peril which which many people incur by exchanging tide-water for high mountain air. —Medical Record.

See Little War Paper.

"Yes," said the Major, waxing eloquent in his stories of the war, "I remember when I was but a private in the ranks that one day a party of us crept up on a 'wild-cat' battery. Just as we were preparing for a final rush to capture it they opened on us with shot. Our Captain, a hot, enthusiastic fellow, saw the situation and jumped on the stump of a tree, waving his sword and crying, 'On, men, on! Liberty or death?' and then he fell pierced by a bullet."

"And what did you do?" broke in a voice.

"What did we do? Oh, we took the hint. We preferred liberty and turned and ran." —Judge.

A dog frequently worries a cat, but man, who is nobler than the dog, worries himself.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, save baggage, expressage, and $3 carriage hire, and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot.

613 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages, and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

Napoleons's Savagery.

Madame de Bourrienne, speaking of the character of Bonaparte, as it displayed itself in the early part of his career, says:

"His smile was hypocritical and often misplaced. A few days after his return from Toulon, he was telling us that, being before that place, where he commanded the artillery during the siege, one of his officers was visited by his wife, to whom he had been but a short time married, and whom he tenderly loved. A few days after, orders were given for another attack upon the town, in which this officer was engaged. His wife came to General Bonaparte, and, with tears in her eyes, entreated him to dispense with her husband's services during that day. The General was inexorable, as he himself told us, with a sort of savage exultation. The moment of the attack, the officer, though a very brave man, as Bonaparte himself assured us, felt a presentiment of his approaching death. He turned pale and trembled. He was stationed beside the General, and during an interval, when the firing from the town was very strong, Bonaparte called out to him, 'Take care, there is a bomb-shell coming!' The officer, instead of moving to one side, stooped down, and was literally severed in two. Bonaparte laughed loudly, while he described the event with horrible minuteness."

Wanted a Divorce.

A middle-aged countryman walked into the office of a prominent Newport attorney and took a seat, when the following conversation took place:

"I called in to see about getting a divorce from my wife."

"Ah; what seems to be the difficulty?"

"Well, me and Jinny are always quarrelin', and think it would be better if she would go back to her folks and I stay where I am. She ken take the three children with her."

"On what grounds do you want a divorce?"

"Well, you see it's jist this way: Jinny's the most skeeriest woman of tramps ye ever seen, and so when we go up-stairs to bed she wants me to look under the bed for a man, when I know ther' ain't no man there. So you see that riles me and I get mad, and then she gets mad, and then there's a fuss, and I don't have no peace and can't get no sleep, and I'm a hard-working man."

"You can't get a divorce on those grounds, sir."

"I can't?"

"No sir."

"Well, then, I know what I'll do. I'll go home and saw the legs off the bed close up, so a man can't get under. If I had thought of that sooner I might hev saved all this time comin' in here."

—Kentucky State Journal.

"I Feel So Well."

"I want to thank you for telling me of Dr. Pierce's 'Favorite Prescription,'" writes a lady to her friend. "For a long time I was unfit to attend to the work of my household. I kept about, but I felt thoroughly miserable. I had terrible headaches, and bearing-down sensations across me, and was quite weak and discouraged. I sent and got some of the medicine after receiving your letter, and it has cured me. I hardly know myself. I feel so well."

MORMONS hold faith in a religious re-wive-all.

Farmers.

Send 10 cents to the PRICKLY ASH BITTERS Co., St. Louis, Mo., and get a copy of "THE HORSE TRAINER."

A complete system, teaching how to break and train horses in a mild and gentle way, requiring no elaborate apparatus, nothing more than can be found in any stable in the country—a rope and a strap. Every one handling horses should have a copy.

A COUNTER-IRRITANT—the woman who offers ten cents a yard for forty-cent goods.

PURE Cod Liver Oil made from selected livers, on the sea-shore, by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York. It is absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians have decided it superior to any of the other oils in market.

TALK is cheap—except you employ a stenographer. —Somerville Journal.

No Safer Remedy can be had for Coughs and Colds, or any trouble of the Throat, than "Brown's Bronchial Troches." Price 25 cts. Sold only in boxes.

Extra Liability to Malarial Infection.

Persons whose blood is thin, digestion weak, and liver sluggish, are extra liable to the attacks of malarial disease. The most trifling exposure may, under such conditions, infect a system which, if healthy, would resist the miasmatic taint. The only way to secure immunity from malaria in localities where it is prevalent, is to tone and regulate the system by improving weakened digestion, enriching the blood, and giving a wholesome impetus to biliary secretion. These results are accomplished by nothing so effectively as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which long experience has proved to be the most reliable safeguard against fever and ague and kindred disorders, as well as the best remedy for them. The Bitters are, moreover, an excellent invigorant of the organs of urination, and an active depurant, eliminating from the blood those acid impurities which originate rheumatic ailments.

Where Pure Air Exists.

Two scientific investigators, one Swiss and the other French, have been analyzing the Alpine air. They ascertained that entirely pure air is not found until an altitude is reached of from 6,000 to 13,000 feet above the level of the sea. The atmosphere around the lakes below that level, however pure and healthful apparently, was found to contain bacteria. Nevertheless it was pure enough by comparison with that of the French capital, where the bacteria contained in a square foot of air are 7,000 more numerous than those in the same quantity of air in one of the Swiss valleys.

Don't disgust everybody by hawking, blowing, and spitting, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and be cured.

The oldest inhabitant is usually a man, but the scoudest is a woman. —Philadelphia Chronicle.

SEND sixteen cents in stamps to Paul Morton, G. P. & T. A., C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago, Ill., and get a copy of the Pronouncing Dictionary published by the Burlington route. It contains 320 pages, 32,000 words, and 670 engravings, and is the cheapest book issued.

1,000 $2 WASHING MACHINES FREE, to introduce them. If you want one, send at once to Monarch Laundry Works, 82 Warren St., N. Y.

THE removal of Prof. Sanborn of New Hampshire, after being pronounced incurable by a score of physicians, from Las Vegas, N. M., to his home, was effected by administering Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic, which has restored him to his former good health.

"Rough on Dirt" whitens clothing yellowed by careless washing or use of cheap washing compounds. Washes everything from finest laces to heaviest blankets. There need be no fear in using this article. Does not rot nor yellow. 5 & 10c.

Something New

And most important, Hallett & Co., Portland Maine, can furnish you work that you can do at great profit and live at home, wherever you are located. Either sex; all ages. Asa P. Rand, Westboro, Mass., writes us that he made $60 profit in a single day. Every worker can make from $5 to $25 and upwards per day. All is now. Capital not required; you are started free. Full particulars free. Send your address at once.

IF YOU ARE LOSING YOUR GRIP

On life try "Wells' Health Renewer." Goes direct to weak spots. For weak men, delicate women.

"BUCHU-PAIBA." Quick, complete cure, all annoying kidney diseases, Catarrh of Bladder, &c. 50c.

If muslins, calicoes, etc., appear to not wear or wash as well as formerly the reason is in the use of inferior alkaline soap washing compounds that destroy the texture and neutralize the colors. Shun them! Use "Rough on Dirt."

RELIEF is immediate, and a cure sure. Pisco's Remedy for Catarrh. 50 cents.

That Tired Feeling

Is so general at this season that every one knows what is meant by the expression. A change of season, climate, or of life, has such a depressing effect upon the body that one feels all tired out, almost completely prostrated, the appetite is lost, and there is no ambition to do anything. The whole tendency of the system is downward. In this condition Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine needed. It purifies the blood, sharpens the appetite, overcomes the tired feeling, and invigorates every function of the body. Try it.

"We all like Hood's Sarsaparilla, it is so strengthening." LIZZIE BALFOUR, Auburn, P. Q.

The Weak Made Strong.

"I never took any medicine that did me so much good in so short a time as Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was very much run down, had no strength, no energy, and felt very tired all the time. I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had used one bottle felt like a different person. That extreme tired feeling has gone, my appetite returned, and it toned me up generally. My brother and sister have also received great benefit from it." CLARA W. PHELPS, Shirley, Mass.

N. B.—Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

DETECTIVES

Wanted in every County. Shrewd men to act under our instructions in our Secret Service. Experience not necessary. Send stamp for particulars. GRANNAN DETECTIVE BUREAU, 44 Arcade, Cincinnati, O.

All "Played Out."

"Don't know what ails me lately. Can't eat well, can't sleep well. Can't work, and don't enjoy doing anything. Ain't really sick, and I really ain't well. Feel all kind of played out, somehow." That is what scores of men say every day. If they would take Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" they would soon have no occasion to say it. It purifies the blood, tones up the system, and fortifies it against disease. It is a great anti-bilious remedy as well.

A CONTENTED man is better than riches; and yet you can't buy a brick block nor pay a board bill with it.

WELLS' HAIR BALSAM.

It gray, restores to original color. An elegant dressing, softens and beautifies. No oil nor grease. A Tonic Restorative. Stops hair coming out; strengthens, cleanses, heals scalp. 50c.

The best thing on earth to add to starch to give a good body and beautiful gloss, is "Rough on Dirt," only washing compound that can be so used. Makes ironing easy and saves the starch. Has dirt removing power double that of any other.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES. SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES. It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICK HEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c. disappear at once under its beneficial influence.

It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbid its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO. Sole Proprietors, St. Louis and Kansas City.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

IS WORTH $1,000 TO ANY MAN, Woman, or Child suffering from CATARRH!

Not a liquid or sniff. A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cts. at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. Circulars free. ELY BRO'S, Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS

The Original and Only Genuine. Safe and always Reliable. Beware of worthless imitations. Ladies, ask your Druggist for "Chichester's English" and take no other, or inclose 10c. stamps to us for particulars in letter by return mail. NAME FREE. CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., 2512 Madison Square, Philadelphia, Pa.

Sold by Druggists everywhere. Ask for "Chichester's English" Pennyroyal Pills. Take no other.

ADVERTISERS

or others, who wish to examine this paper, or obtain estimate on advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St., The Advertising Agency of

LORD & THOMAS.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief for ASTHMA. Price 25c. by mail. Lord & Thomas, Charlestown, Mass.

GOGEBIC IN MINING STOCKS

Reliable information furnished. The Milwaukee Mining Exchange, Milwaukee, Wis. Telephone 1334.

PATENTS

R. S. & A. F. LACEY, Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C. Instructions and opinions as to patentability FREE. 17 years' experience.

OPIUM FARMS

Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

OPIUM FARMS

on James River, Va., in Claremont Colony. Illustrated Circular Free. J. F. MANCHA, Claremont, Va.

PENSIONS COLLECTED

and increased by Fitzgould & Powell, Indianapolis, Ind. Old cases reopened. Send for copy of Laws, free.

$5 MONEY MADE

fast in Gogebic stocks. Reliable information furnished. C. G. COX & CO., 164 New Insurance Building, Milwaukee, Wis.

DRUG CLERKS

For information send to 40 Dearborn St., Chicago. Illinois College of Pharmacy.

Imported, Stallion CHFR, 5079 (2423). Winner of Sweepstakes Premium at the Great Percheron Show of the Ill. State Fair, held in Chicago Sept. 1886. Property of W. L. ELLWOOD.

PERCHERON HORSES.

The Largest Breeding Establishment of Pure Blood Percherons in the United States. Five hundred head of Pure Blood and Grades now on hand, a large number of which were imported in July, 1886, and another large importation of from 150 to 200 head will arrive about the middle of October. Visitors always welcome—come and see them. I handle nothing but the best, and take pride in showing stock.

Location, DE KALB, ILL. Is 53 miles west of Chicago, on Omaha Div. C. & N. W. R. R. Send for Catalogue.

THE GRAND RAPIDS HERD

Holstein-Friesians.

About 100 HEAD of both sexes and all ages. Several Head of BULLS READY FOR SERVICE Up to two years old. Choice Cows and Heifers bred to my prize service bulls.

Prins Midlum and Jonge Carre, Who have no superiors. A specialty of young pairs not akin for foundation stock. Every Head Registered and Guaranteed Pure-Bred. Write for Catalogue and prices, and state age and sex desired, or come and see the herd.

M. L. SWEET, Breeder and Importer. [MENTION THIS PAPER.] Grand Rapids, Mich.

PISCO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

HAINESVILLE, N. J., October 13, 1890.

E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

Dear Sir: I was taken with a very severe cold last Spring, and tried every cure we had in the store, and could get no help.

I had our village doctor prescribe for me, but kept getting worse. I saw another physician from Port Jervis, N. Y., and he told me he used Pisco's Cure for Consumption in his practice.

I bought a bottle, and before I had taken all of it there was a change for the better. Then I got my employer to order a quantity of the medicine and keep it in stock. I took one more bottle, and my Cough was cured.

Respectfully, FRANK McKELVY.

PISCO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

PISCO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

CATARRH TREATMENT FREE

So great is our faith in this cure that we will mail enough to convince, free. B. S. LAUDERBACK, 714 Broad St., Newark, N. J.

RUPTURE

If you want relief and cure at your home, send for Dr. J. A. Sherman's circular of instructions. 24 Broadway, New York.

N. L. W. No. 13—87.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

A TALK ON ANCHORS.

How They Are Made and the Manner of Using Them—The Bowers.

"When ships are moored by the solid anchor and are swung around by the tide, the cable often takes a turn around the arm that projects up above the ground," said a sailor to a New York Mail and Express reporter. "Then the strain comes on that arm, instead of on the shank, and so the anchor is pulled out of the ground and away goes the ship, unless another anchor is ready to drop. Ships at anchor always have the lead over, with the line hanging loose in a coil, so that the officer on watch can tell when the ship drifts by the way the lead-line runs out. There have been various changes made in the forms of the palms on the ends of the arms; attempts have been made to strengthen the arms by running a rod from palm to palm or from palm to shank. Others have tried, with some success, to do away, with the stock by using swinging arms, with projections on them to catch the anchor aright. The war-ship Atlanta has anchors of this design. The object is to save room in stowage; the objection, the weakness of all joints and their liability to rust. They require constant care. The Yankee merchant skipper places his trust in two good bow-ers of the modern old style and lets naval officers monkey with patents."

"What is meant by the 'best bower,' of which we read in the sea stories?"

"It should be written the best bow-er. It is the anchor placed at the starboard bow, which in the old days was larger than the one on the other bow. Now both anchors are of equal weight, though it is common to have one of them with a stock permanently fastened to the shank, while the other is a patent, with both stock and arms hinged. People read about sheet anchors, too, and probably wonder what they are. They are simply a smaller anchor than the bow-er, and are stowed abaft the fore-rigging where the fore-sheets are made fast, hence the name sheet anchor. The stream anchor is a medium-sized anchor sometimes carried by ships to use in sheltered local ties where a heavy one is not needed. The kedge anchor is a still smaller anchor used in kedging."

"What's that?"

"When the old ship Constitution escaped from the British fleet in the war of 1812 she did it by sending a boat ahead, while all were becalmed, to drop a small anchor to the bottom, with a rope attached and leading to the ship. The sailors walked away with the rope and hauled the ship to the anchor. Meanwhile another boat carried out another kedge to repeat the operation. That was kedging."

"How many anchors does a modern full-rigged ship carry?"

"Just as few as she can and save her insurance if lost. The law provides that she must carry one on each bow of a certain size, besides smaller ones. A ship of 2,000 tons must carry two bow-ers weighing 4,200 pounds each, a stream anchor weighing 1,900 pounds, a kedge of 950 pounds, and another of 500. A schooner of 100 tons is supposed to carry two anchors of 700 pounds each, besides two smaller ones. You would have to search a long time to find a vessel of that size, with four anchors on, however."

"There is one thing that should be said about modern anchors. The quality of the workmanship is far superior to that of the old ones. Good anchors did not come in vogue until modern steam hammers relieved the workmen of the drudgery of the old method of forging out such large masses of iron. Men cannot do good work and drudgery at the same time. The details of the anchors have improved since steam wielded the hammer. Anchors are made of scrap iron. New ones cost from 6 to 10 cents a pound according to size, the larger ones being cheaper. Galvanized iron, such as yachts use, costs 3 cents a pound more. A second-hand anchor is worth within 1 cent of what a new one is."

A Miner Millionaire.

A miner in Leadville, Col., who can neither read nor write, is worth to-day, at least, $3,000,000. Four years ago he hadn't a penny, except what he earned from day to day as a miner. His name is John L. Morrissey. He is a young man, not more than 32 or 33. The Crown Point mine, like Tom Bowen's Golconda, was just about paying expenses. Her owners offered to sell her for $40,000. Morrissey went to Chicago and interested Diamond Joe Reynolds in the matter. Reynolds knew that Morrissey was an authority on mining, even if he couldn't write his own name. He finally purchased the Crown Point, agreeing to give Morrissey a half interest after the original sum was repaid. Within thirty days they struck a vein of high-class ore that has yielded them a monthly income of $18,000 apiece ever since. There is said to be $5,000,000 worth of ore in sight. Morrissey cannot even tell the time of day. It is a stock joke among the boys, if you ask Morrissey what o'clock it is, for him to pull from his fob a $500 watch, and, with a condescending air, tell you to "luk for yerself and then ye'll know I am not lying to yez."—Salt Lake Tribune.

O'Flaherty and Sadleir.

A correspondent of the New York Times directs attention to the following interesting passage in the "Roundabout Papers" of Thackeray, referring to Edmund O'Flaherty (William Stuart):

Two years since I had the good fortune to partake of some admirable dinners in Tyburnia—magnificent dinners indeed; but rendered doubly interesting from the fact that the house was that occupied by the late Mr. Sadleir. One night the late Mr. Sadleir took tea in that dining-room and to the surprise of his butler, went out, having put into his pocket his own cream-jug. The next morning, you know, he was found dead on Hampstead Heath, with the cream-jug lying by him, into which he had poured the poison by which he died. The idea of the ghost of the late gentleman flitting about the room gave a strange interest to the banquet.

I neither knew this unhappy man nor his countryman—Laertes let us call him—who is at present in exile, having been compelled to fly from remorseless creditors. Laertes fled to America, where he earned his bread by his pen. I own to having a kindly feeling towards this scapegrace, because, though an exile, he did not abuse the country whence he fled. I have heard that he went away taking no spoil with him, penniless almost; and on his voyage he made acquaintance with a certain Jew; and when he fell sick at New York, this Jew befriended him and gave him help and money out of his own store, which was but small. Now, after they had been a while in the strange city it happened that the poor Jew spent all his little money, and he, too, fell ill and was in great penury. And now it was Laertes who befriended that Hebrew Jew. He fed doctors; he fed and tended the sick and hungry. Go to, Laertes! I know thee not. It may be thou art justly exul patrie. But the Jew shall intercede for thee, thou not, let us trust, hopeless Christian sinner.

Complexion and Health.

A physician in the Medical World gives the following advice to women for the improvement of their health and complexion: "For the present I prescribe only for your feet. First, procure a quantity of woolen stockings, not such as you buy at the store under the name of lambs wool, that you can read a newspaper through, but the kind that your Aunt Jerusha in the country knits for you, that will keep your feet dry and warm, in spite of the wind and weather; second, if you want to be thorough, change them every morning, hanging the fresh ones by the fire during the night; third, procure thick calf-skin boots, double uppers and triple soles, and wear them from the 1st of October to the 1st of May; make frequent applications of some good oil blacking; fourth, avoid rubbers altogether, except a pair of rubber boots, which may be worn for a little time through the snowdrifts or a flood of water; fifth, hold the bottoms of your feet in cold water a quarter of an inch deep just before going to bed, two or three minutes, and then rub them hard with rough towels, and your naked hands; sixth to go out freely in all weather, and, believe me, not only will your feet enjoy a good circulation, but as the consequence of the good circulation in the lower extremities your head will be relieved with all its fullness and your heart of all its palpitations. Your complexion will be greatly improved and your health made better in every respect."

It is easy to live in the world's opinion; it is easy in solitude to live after your own; but the great man is he who, in the midst of the crowd, keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of solitude.

J. D. LEIGHTY,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBER GOODS, HATS, CAPS, ETC.

A FULL LINE OF

Plug, Smoking and Fine Cut Tobaccos, Canned Fruits, Prunes, Raisins Currants, Etc., Etc.

St. Joe, - - Indiana.

M. T. BISHOP.

—DEALER IN—

LUMBER,

LATH. SHINGLES, PINE AND POP-LAR LUMBER, LIME, PLASTER, MOULDINGS, ETC., ETC.

I HAVE AN IMMENSE STOCK AND SOLICIT YOUR PATRONAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

YARD NEAR DEPOT, - - ST. JOE, IND.

S. & F. BARNEY,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

CLOTHING, GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, GROCERIES. GENERAL STOCK OF HARDWARE, STOVES AND TRIMMINGS,

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

Produce, Grain, Seeds, and Wool.

CASE & OLDS,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

GROCERIES, CLOTHING, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, QUEENSWARE, CLASSWARE, ETC.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

EXAMINE THE BARGAINS ON OUR

5 and 10c Counters.

---

Supplement to the St. Joe News.

---

FRIDAY, MARCH 25, 1887.

---

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

ORANGEVILLE.

Sol past through our village on the war path one day this week.

Jud Gee will move on his father-in-law's farm, on fish creek, in a few days.

Mrs. Ad Chubb is visiting with her father and other relatives near Spencerville this week.

Sam has begun his blind ditch and the only peculiarity we can observe about it is, that he is running it in a circle.

At the sale of Vint Bronson's, Anthony was just in the act of knocking off a fine mare belonging to Aye, for five dollars and a-half. Aye arrived just in time to stop the sale of the mare, telling Anthony that he had no objection to the price, but the mare was not for sale.

PIGEON'S RETREAT.

Alice Kline's health continues to improve very slowly.

Will Shilling and family called at Henry Timmerman's last Sunday.

There was a large crowd at Batdorf's sale on Saturday.

Charley McCrory has been working for the past few weeks in the mill at Hurshtown.

John Timmerman visited over Saturday night and Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Charles Jackson.

Theodore Kline of the south woods, was at his father's a few days last week hauling grain to market.

If Holly takes a girl to church again for some one else to take home, there will be an earthquake at Pigeon's Retreat.

This place used to be called Pigeon Roost, but when the new school house was built, the scholars re-christened it Pigeon's Retreat.

NEWVILLE CENTER.

Time to sow cloverseed.

School at this place closed on Friday last.

The songs of the birds indicate that spring has come.

The re-view on the county ditch commenced Monday.

Rev. Lowman is holding a protracted meeting at Moorsville.

Leslie Strong sowed some oats last Monday. Leslie is bound to be ahead.

We listened to a very interesting discourse delivered by Rev. Alton at Coburntown Sunday evening.

Arthur had better sleep with both eyes open, or some one from Ohio will beat his time. Look out for him Arthur.

One of Jerry's mules shook hands with Jim, the other morning. Be careful Jim, how you make friends with a mule.

The young folks of this vicinity had a surprise party at M. E. Ashelman's, in honor of his son Thomas; it being his 17th birthday. Tom went under the bed just the same.

JACKSON TOWNSHIP.

More snow and a little more sap.

John Kester is building a wagon shed and grain house.

Mrs. Catharine Farmer is building a new house on her farm.

L. R. Wasson purchased a horse of J. W. Dills the other day.

Dan Houck is preparing to build a house on his farm this spring.

Somebody ask Lete High whether he has heard it thnnder lately? Brace up a little Lete, and don't get frightened so easy.

We understand that Phillip has gone into the monument business. He uses ice for marble; for particulars inquire of Jim and Will.

Married, at the residence of Rev. John Staiford, on March 17th, 1887, John Dove to Della D. Farner. May peace, joy prosperity and happiness be theirs.

COBURNTOWN.

Will the correspondent at Pigeon's Retreat please come over and kick us. We confess we are too obtuse to know what he is hinting at.

The meeting at the corners came to a close last Monday evening, and Rev. Alton and wife start for home Wednesday. The best wishes of their many friends go with them.

A letter just received from Miss Elsie Coburn of Hesperia, Mich., but who formerly resided in Coburntown, states that she was married last Sunday, March 20th 1887. Of course all her former friends wish her joy.

I notice Mr. Editor that when "Barcus" wants a splendid subject for a picture to adorn the pages of the "News" he always comes over to Coburntown for it, which goes to show that he is a man of sense, and we feel greatly flattered by his preference. His last effort in that line is truly sublime, and does great credit to the artist. When he dies (if he ever does) S. Joe should erect a monument to his memory; still I think it could have been bettered. I notice the off hind leg is a little out of whack, and the countenance is most too serene for one taking such a fearful leap, but then of course he had to draw on his imagination largely and it can't be expected that he would get it perfect but when he undertakes to tell what we thought and said on the occasion he is a little off. The idea that we thought of all the meanness we ever did in the brief time allotted us is simply ridiculous. No sir! we couldn't do that in a life time; but we did think some, and the burden of our thoughts was how to get on to our feet again. We finally succeeded and after shaking ourselves together and ascertaining that there was no parts missing, we came home where we can be seen any time with one arm in a sling and a court plaster on our nose.

And now Mr. News,

You may try to abuse,
A man just because he is old;

But permit me to state,
You may fine when to late
You are being most awfully sold.

I am not young it is true,
And neither are you,
As young as you were years ago,
But you can not fly,
And neither can I.

And that you certainly know,
You may think you can jump,
And not get a thump,
When the cars are going like thunder,
But some day just try it
And see what you get by it,
If you don't get enough I'll wonder.

Sherm Gee is layed up with a sore hand.

Belva Lockwood spoke at Auburn Monday night.

Tin Cans for canning maple syrup at Conrad's.

The best Wask Board in the market, at Conrad's.

Arthur James, the jeweler of Spencerville dropped in to see us Saturday. Come again.

J. H. Conrad has secured the agency for Strubies' Iron Roofing. The best Roofing of the kind in the market. Prices very reasonable.

Wash Hart contemplates purchasing a new brick machine this spring. Wash is bound to keep up with the times, by having all of the new fangled machinery out.

APRIL

THE ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. I.

ST. JOE, IND., FRIDAY, APRIL 1, 1887.

NO. 10.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

—Emanuel Rosenbarger, an aged and respected farmer, of Harrison County, died of cancer, after long and most intense suffering. Mr. Rosenbarger has been one of the most unfortunate men in that county. About twenty years ago he became almost totally deaf, so much so that it was painful to try to converse with him. A few years later he had his right arm ground off in a molasses factory, of which he was owner. About seventeen years ago a cancer made its appearance on his face, and steadily grew worse until it ate almost his whole face away. For the last five years he has been blind, his eyes both being destroyed, and the lower part of his skull left bare. About the only thing he possessed which resembled a human face was his chin, his nose, cheeks, and upper lip all being eaten away by the cancer. During all these misfortunes he never complained. He was an honorable man, and the father of fourteen children. For the last two years it was necessary for his family to keep him in the cellar during the summer months; and to keep constant watch over him. Blind, deaf, and speechless, his wants could be known only by signals which he could make with his only hand.

—Patents have been issued to Indians as follows: Bellis, William K., Indianapolis, coin packet; Dodge, Wallace H., Mishawaka, devise for transmitting power; Fauber, W. H. Harry, Marshfield, fence-building machine; Fulton, Harmon H., Indianapolis, cultivator attachment; Hamilton, James J. and D. Bearly, New Castle, fire extension ladder and truck; Leonard, Charles N., Indianapolis, pillow-holder; Patee, Theodorus N. and S. R. Lawshe, Greencastle, lightning-rod standard and brace; Reed, Hugh T., Richmond, shelving; Shewmaker, John W., Terre Haute, barrel carrier; Solenberger, John T. and H. G. Woody, Kokomo, gas pressure regulator and cut-off; Sesecheh, Gustave H., Indianapolis, band-saw wheel.

—At a meeting held at Logansport for the purpose of making arrangements for unveiling the monument erected by Cass County to the soldiers and sailors of the war, it was decided to hold the celebration on July 13, that day being the centennial anniversary of the adoption of the ordinance of 1787, which dedicated Indiana and the Northwest to freedom. The committee on invitation were instructed to invite Col. William F. Vilas, of Wisconsin, and Gen. William H. Gibbon, of Ohio, as special orators of the day. The monument will be seventy-five feet high, and will be the first one in Indiana erected under the provisions of the State law.

—The first natural gas company formed at Crawfordville has ceased digging, and the well will probably be abandoned. A depth of about 1,200 feet had been reached. There is a light flow of water from the well which strongly resembles artesian. The workmen on this well have been transferred to the other company, and the digging of their well has been commenced. The first company expects to sink another well soon.

—Mrs. John Collins, who lives near Marietta, was standing near the fireplace when her clothing caught fire, and there being no aid near she was burned nearly to death before any one was alarmed by her cries. Her infant child was in the cradle, and the fire was rapidly making its way toward it when it was snatched from its couch by Charles Keath, who was the first to appear on the scene.

—De Pauw University has just closed an unusually pleasant and prosperous winter term. The aggregate enrollment so far this year is almost 700. The best of order has prevailed and thorough work has been done in all departments. The large Sophomore class had to be divided into four sections for their orations, and their entire performance was highly creditable and satisfactory.

—A horrible accident happened at a saw-mill near Cassville. While playing under one of the saw tables the 11-year-old son of T. M. Daniels was caught by a swinging circular saw, splitting his little body lengthways down the spine, penetrating the lungs and exposing other vital organs. The little fellow still clings to life, but there is no possible chance of his recovery.

—While Mr. J. Winslow, a farmer who lives near Millport, a few miles southwest of Seymour, was harrowing in oats with a drag, his team ran away, and dragged him across the field and into a ditch, where his dead and badly mangled body was found a little later by neighbors who witnessed the accident. He leaves a family.

—Gifts to Hanover College during the past year aggregate almost $20,000. This does not include handsome sums given by Mr. F. M. Root, of Cornersville; W. M. Hoffman, of Fort Wayne; Cyrus H. McCormick, of Chicago, and others, to enable Hanover to extend aid to young men studying for the ministry.

—The new farm residence owned by Thomas Ireland, nine miles north of Delphi, burned to the ground while the family was away from home. All the household furniture was lost. Loss between $3,000 and $4,000. Only slight insurance.

—Elmore Kickley and John Barrett, of Fort Wayne, warm personal friends, went out in the country to shoot at a target. During the shooting Barrett accidentally shot Kickley through the heart, causing instant death. Barrett is wild with grief.

—John W. Harper, President of the Wabash County Agricultural Society, and one of the leading stock-breeders and farmers, was nearly killed while felling a tree. His leg was broken in three places.

—Joseph Christian, a white barber of Madison, was President Lincoln's coachman for one year, beginning in 1862.

—The Old Fellows of Madison are arranging for a celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the order in that city on an extensive scale. There will be a public parade on April 26, and an address at night by ex-Secretary of State Myers.

—Earl, eldest son of Maj. G. W. Grubbs, of Martinsville, while holding a cartridge in his hand and striking it with a knife, had his hand perforated by the cartridge exploding.

—Mrs. Jesse L. Williams, of Fort Wayne, has just given a handsome donation to the current funds of Hanover College.

—Measles which has prevailed at LaPorte to a considerable extent for some time, has assumed the form of an epidemic. It is reported that there are between 300 and 400 cases in the city. Several adults have died from its effects.

—Hiram Thomas, an old and respected citizen of Elkhart, died after an illness of but fifteen minutes.

—Rev. J. L. Bassett, of Chicago, has been called to the Presbyterian Church at Rising Sun.

—Mrs. Martha Schemmel, of LaCrosse, fell through a trestle at Valparaiso, and was killed.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frame, the Quaker evangelists, are conducting a series of revival meetings at the Friends' Church, Muncie, in which much interest is manifested.

—Joseph Bloom, employed at White's Wheel Works, Fort Wayne, while stealing a ride on a Nickel Plate train, fell between the cars and was instantly killed.

—A stock company of $25,000 has been organized at Edinburg, for the purpose of boring for natural gas, which will be begun as soon as contracts can be made.

—Scarlet fever is raging at Judson, Park County. There are about ten cases, and two deaths have resulted. The schools have been closed.

THE PRINCE OF FILIBUSTERS.

Remarkable Incidents in the Career of the Famous Gen. Henningsen.

The prince of filibusters, so far as they were seen at Washington, was Gen. Henningsen. He was an Englishman by birth, and, after having received a military education, he left for Spain, when 19 years of age, to serve in the forces of Don Carlos as a staff officer of the partisan chief, Zumalacarrequi. After many acts of reckless heroism he was captured, and on the death of the artisan returned to England in 1835. Two volumes from the youthful officer's pen tell the story of a "Twelve Months' Campaign with Zumalacarrequi." He did not let his sword rest long in idleness. Schamyl, the prophet of Circassia, had unfurled the banner of rebellion in the Caucasus, and young Henningsen promptly repaired to his ranks. From the sunny vales of Spain to the snows of Russia was a strange translation, but it was sufficient for him that a weak side needed a brave sword. Henningsen's life in Russia furnished the material for half a dozen volumes, published at various periods when peace drove him to enforced retirement. Such occasions were rare, however. The Hungarian revolution of 1848 and 1849 found him serving with distinction under Kossuth, and he was appointed Governor of Camoon. Henningsen achieved a European reputation in the disastrous struggle, and was lionized on his return to England. Young, handsome, with great literary talent, honored with the friendship of Wellington, he still yearned for fresh fields of adventure. He followed Kossuth to America, where his reputation had preceded him, and society welcomed him everywhere. He married a Southern widow, Mrs. Connelly, of Burke County, Georgia, a niece of Senator Berrien, a devoted and cultivated woman. For a while he devoted himself to literary work, and published some once popular books of travel and fiction. But the fingers cramped by a pen were itching to grasp a sword-hilt, and the opportunity soon presented itself. The exploits of William Walker in Central America were astounding the world and attracting to his side the brave and adventurous of every land. Never since the days of Cortez had the world seen such a career as that of the once "immortal" fifty-six who sailed from California in a little vessel to conquer an empire and imperil the peace of two continents. Henningsen threw himself into the ranks of the American phalanx with his usual enthusiasm. His fortune and his life were freely risked, and, although he lost the one and exposed the other on a score of well-fought fields, he never regretted his experience with the so-called "filibusters." "I feel proud of having been one of them," he wrote to me, "and quietly glory in my retirement at having been able to command and control, besides securing their personal devotion and attachment." His comrades he considered the best soldiers the world ever saw, and his experience entitled his opinion to respect. They were mostly Californians. "California was the pick of the world, and they were the pick of California." With only 276 fighting men opposed to 4,000 allied Central Americans, and outnumbered with 200 or 400 non-combatants, Henningsen held the plaza of Grenada for seventeen days and nights of incessant fighting. They were poorly sheltered, or not at all, disease and death were daily and hourly thinning their ranks, but from leader or men there came not a whisper of surrender. Relief, ridiculously small in number, but invincible of courage, came at last. A hundred of those paladins whom the world calls "filibusters" disembarked from the lake steamer, and with a cheer and a volley carried four barricade and effected a junction with their beleaguered comrades. Henningsen less surely evacuated and burned the town, leaving his gage of defiance behind him—a lance stuck among the ruin with the taunting inscription: "Aquí fue Grenada." "Here was Grenada." Then a United States navy Captain's interference compelled the starving heroes to surrender, but the Ideal of Central America was past forever. During the early part of our civil war Gen. Henningsen commanded the Wise Legion, of Virginia. He was rapidly achieving a distinction, warranted by his military fame in smaller arenas, when he incurred the displeasure of Jefferson Davis, who had a singular genius for ignoring or suppressing the abilities of his subordinates. Henningsen had injudiciously anticipated the verdict of posterity by speaking contemptuously of Davis, and the latter could never forget such presence. After peace he lived quietly at Washington, a general favorite wherever his amiable disposition and stainless character were known.—Ben. Perley Poore

Corn-Starch Sugar.

The starch-sugar industry in the United States consumes daily 40,000 bushels of corn and produces grape sugar and glucose sirup of the yearly value of $10,000,000. There are thirty factories in the United States, furnishing their product to brewers and for the manufacture of table sirup and the adulteration of cane sugar. It is also largely used in confectionery, in canning fruits, making fruit jellies, and in cooking. Artificial honey is made of it, and so, also, is vinegar. In France and Germany potato starch is used instead of corn, the latter country consuming over 70,000 tons of starch and making 40,000 tons of starch sugar. The industry is an increasing one, and is another of the many contributions of chemical technology to the wealth of nations. In 1811 Kirchhoff prepared sugar from starch by the present process, which consists, in brief, of extracting the pure starch from corn or potatoes, transforming this into sugar by treatment with dilute acid, and subsequently neutralizing the acid, purifying and then concentrating the product to either glucose sirup or crystalline grape sugar. By this process fifty-six pounds of corn will yield thirty pounds starch sugar, the rest being used for cattle food, as it is rich in nutritive matters. The corn is steeped in hot water for several days, ground between buhr stones, the starch separated on silk sieves, cleaned by alkaline waters and separated from the waters by deposition. The conversion into sugar may be accomplished by various acids. In practice, one and one-half pounds of sulphuric acid will change 100 pounds of starch into sugar after a short boiling with the dilute acid. The acid mixture is neutralized with marble dust, decolorized by filtering through bone-black, and is ready for the market either as a colorless liquid or as snow-white crystals. When made into table sirup it is mixed with cane sirup to give it flavor and tone, the cane sirup being used much as butter is to give bovine qualities to oleomargarine. For brewing it is a very imperfect substitute for barley malt, as it is deprived of the nitrogenous bodies and mineral salts originally contained in the corn. For the adulteration of brown cane sugars, grape sugar is added to the extent of 20 or more per cent. But as the adulterant is perfectly harmless, nothing is lost except in taste, as glucose only has two-thirds the sweetening power of cane sugar. By no commercial process can all the starch be changed into glucose, about 5 per cent. remaining as intermediate products, mainly maltose and dextrine, which, though harmless to the human system, have no sweetening power. Indianapolis Journal.

The St. Joe News.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MORT & WILL OLDS. PUBLISHERS.

END AND MEANS.

BY SUSAN COOLIDGE.

We spend our strength in labor day by day;
We find new strength replacing old away;
And still we cheat ourselves, and still we say:

"No man would work except to win some prize;
We work to turn our hopes to certainties,
For gold, or gear, or favor in men's eyes."

And all the while, the goal toward which we strain,
Up hill and down, in sunshine and in rain,
Heedless of toil, if so we may attain.

Is but a lure, a heavenly set decoy
To exercise endeavor; full employ
Of every power, which is man's highest joy.

All work becomes the end; reward the means;
To exercise our idleness and dreams,
And each is truly what the other seems.

So Lord, with such poor service as we do,
Thy full salvation is our prize in view,
For which we long, and press unto.

Like a great star on which we fix our eyes,
It dazzles from the high, blue distances,
And seems to beckon and to say, "Arise."

And we arise and follow the hard way,
Winning a little nearer day by day,
Our hearts going faster than our footsteps may;

And never guess the secret sweet device
Which lures us on and upward to the skies,
And makes each toil its own reward and prize.

To give our little selves to Thee, to blend
Our weakness with our strength, O Lord, our friend,
This is life's truest privilege and end.
—Independent.

BLOOD-STAINED JEWELS.

BY CECIL STEME.

Monsieur Achille was the richest banker in Paris. Born and bred a Jew, he had when very young, from motives of interest, conformed to the Christian faith. He was now about forty years of age, but looked some years less—short, stout, sallow, with the features peculiar to his tribe, black hair, bushy whiskers, small, piercing eyes, dressed in the extreme of fashion, surrounded by every article of taste and luxury—in all extraneous circumstances a gentleman and a bel esprit; but in mind and heart a plebeian.

One morning, at the early hour of eleven, while seated at breakfast, he was startled by an announcement from his valet that the Duchess de Montifore was waiting to see him in the grand saloon; that she had come on foot and unattended, and had only at last given her name when she found it impossible to obtain admission without doing so.

Monsieur Achille's pale cheek flushed, then faded to a double sallowness—then he smiled—then almost trembled. At last, he desired his valet to return to the Duchess and announce his ready arrival; then, having carefully revised his toilet, and fortified himself with a glass from one of the bottles on the table before him, he descended to the grand saloon.

The Duchess was standing with her back to him, examining a picture of exquisite beauty, which hung on the opposite side of the room. He had time to close the door and advance half-way up the apartment before she became aware of his entrance or turned to greet him. When she did so, what a contrast did she present to him! She, in her calm and smiling beauty—so cold, so proud—so superbly lovely. He, with his coarse and ordinary features, his ungainly figure, his embarrassed manner! The Duchess was a beautiful woman—perhaps she had never looked more beautiful than she did at that moment.

She spoke first. "Monsieur Achille, I have come to beg a favor of you—but pray sit down." He obeyed her, and they seated themselves opposite to each other. "I have come to ask you for money—we know how rich you are. You must know how affairs stand with us—our revenues barely support our rank—our expenses are enormous. The sale of all my jewels will not raise sufficient to pay this debt of honor of my husband's; but it must be paid to-morrow. You, who know everything, must know all this; and to you, as the richest man in Paris, I come to request the loan—I might almost say, the gift—of thirty thousand louis d'or."

"Thirty thousand louis, madam! You ask half of what I possess."

"Not so; Monsieur Achille. One successful speculation will restore it to you. You will scarcely miss it; to me it will be life; more than life—honor. This, with the sale of my diamonds, will bring us barely through."

Monsieur Achille was silent for some time; then, with a bitter sneer, he said, "Try De Valens and Beaufeur—will not they supply you?"

"You mock me—you know they cannot. Oh! Monsieur Achille, have mercy—have mercy!" And the Duchess, sinking on her knees, clasped her hands, and laid them on his feet.

"You have had little mercy, madam—you have had little mercy!" And then there was a pause. At last, "You love your husband, madam?"

"Better than my life," was the reply.
"Then rise, madam; seat yourself, and listen to me."

That evening, about 9 o'clock, Monsieur Achille, dressed with the utmost elegance, shrouded in a large cloak, under which he carried a small but heavy packet, entered his cabriolet, and desiring his confidential valet to attend him, drove in the direction of the Hotel Montifore. The drive was a long one; and he, proceeding at a leisurely pace, had time to reflect upon and ponder over the events of the day. She, whom he had so loved!—she, who had so spurned, so despised him—the woman he had once sued and prayed to, whose laugh of derision had rung in his ears so long—she, so worshiped, so respected, whom calumny had never reached, who stood in the center of a profligate court purer than falling snow—she to be his at last—bought—bought with a price—she, to whom all the nobles of the land had sighed in vain, reserved at last for him!

At the corner of the street in which stood the Hotel Montifore, he stopped and gave the reins into the hands of his valet. He told him he was going on business to the Duke de Montifore; and if the nobleman was from home, should wait until he returned; that he expected his cabriolet to be at the same spot in two hours' time, and that, if he was not there to meet it, he wished his servant to take it home, and he would return on foot, and on no account to mention where he had left him, or to give any clue to the proceedings or destination of that evening.

The valet obeyed these orders to the letter. Monsieur Achille reached the Hotel Montifore, and, pausing at a small side entrance into the court, gave a low whistle. The door was immediately opened by a figure so muffled that it was impossible to distinguish either sex or age. With a silent movement, it beckoned him to follow; they crossed the court and reached a small and dark apartment. They paused.

"I have brought it all, most lovely Duchess. And now—" he took tenderly the extended hand of the figure—the grasp that met his was of iron.

"Is it all gold?"
"All gold," he answered; and this was the last word he ever uttered.

Monsieur Achille was missing for two days, and great excitement prevailed in consequence. On the third day, his body was found in the river, some miles from the place where his valet stated he had seen him last. His pockets were rifled, his jewels gone. A ghastly wound in his breast showed how he had died.

His servants were all strictly examined, when the valet made his statement, in consequence of which a visit was instantly paid by the commissioners of police to the Hotel Montifore, the result of which visit was that the valet was arrested and tried for the murder and robbery of his master. Want of evidence led to his acquittal; but while in confinement nothing could exceed the kindness of the Duchess towards him, or her liberality after his release. She, so beautiful, so beloved—she was still the same; as calm, as proud, as cold as ever. Made to adorn the world, to her that world was nothing—over her it had no power!

Among her intimate friends she was heard to lament the death of Monsieur Achille, as the means of depriving her husband of a large loan which he was to have received on the night on which the murder was committed, and of which it was supposed Monsieur Achille was robbed while in the act of bringing it to the Hotel Montifore. She also regretted having been obliged to part with some of her splendid diamonds, in order to raise sufficient to pay her husband's debts of honor.

All these debts were paid; and after a time, those matchless gems again blazed amid the pale gold of her rich hair, and spanned the snowy circle of her arm; the tresses were like sunlight, the arm like Parian marble, the diamonds without price. None saw or dreamt of the blood—the blood—that bound them round that bright head, clasped them on that arm, chained them to each other!

Monsieur Achille was soon forgotten. The Duke and Duchess de Montifore lived long after; no cloud ever seemed to shade his gay and open brow, or dim the luster of her glorious beauty. His debts once paid, no future embarrassments darkened their prospects. One bright path of unbroken prosperity alone remained for them; they died as they had lived, honored, respected, admired; and bequeathed to those around and beneath them the almost singular example of great rank, unblemished descent, unbounded wealth, united with all perfections of mind, character, and conduct!

An Inopportune Time.

Cannibal—I hear your mother is coming to visit us.

Wife—Yes, I had a postal from her yesterday. She'll be here Friday.

Cannibal—Just my luck. Don't you know I can't eat meat on Friday?—Tid Bits.

Though all afflictions are evils in themselves, yet they are good for us, because they discover to us our diseases and tend to our cure.—Tillotson.

Dramatic Escape of Gen. Beale's Daughter.

Gen. Beale's daughter Mary married a distinguished Russian, a member of the diplomatic service of his native country. Several years ago they were living in Paris. The husband was connected with the Russian legation. Gen. Beale's daughter had at that time a stag-hound of unusual size and purity of breed. It was very docile and her favorite companion. He nearly always went out with her. One day the dog disappeared. As he was a great pet and a dog of unusual value, they advertised for him, and sought through the police to recover him. One night when the Russian diplomat and his wife were seated about an open fire in their salon after returning from the opera there was a knock at the door. This was so unusual at this late hour of the night that the Russian went himself to answer the knock. As the door opened two men entered having the lost dog attached to a stout stick, which held him between them, but yet kept them at a safe distance. Gen. Beale's son-in-law was delighted to see the dog again. The dog's mistress was specially pleased. The dog, however, showed no sign of pleasure or recognition. He went over into an opposite corner and would pay no attention to their calls. They thought that he might feel strange, and so paid no further attention to him. Suddenly, without even a bark of warning, this great dog sprang and bit his mistress right through the upper lip and on her cheek before her husband could reach the stout collar which still encircled the dog's neck. The Russian succeeded in half a moment in dragging the dog off from his mistress, and then he had a terrific fight with the infuriated animal. If he had not been very muscular, he would not have succeeded in subduing him. He succeeded finally in dragging him into a bath-room and locking him up, but not until his right arm was bitten and torn from shoulder to wrist.

The scene that followed is dramatic enough for the most sensational of plays. The moment the door was locked the Russian returned. He glanced quickly at the fireplace, where he saw the poker was imbedded in the coals, and was fortunately nearly at a white heat. He drew it at once from its bed, and said to his wife: "The dog is mad. This is our only chance to escape a horrible death. These wounds must be cauterized at once." The brave American wife never flinched. With the courage of her soldier father she submitted to have the flaming iron burn most cruelly the flesh of her fair face. A moment's delay upon her part, or cowardice, would have made the operation upon her husband's arm useless. The moment after cauterizing her wounds the Russian turned to his own arm, and thoroughly burned every break made in his flesh by the dog. After this had been done as completely as it was possible, they sent for the surgeon of the Russian legation. He was one of the finest surgeons in Europe. He came and examined them. He brought his irons to perform the operation of cauterizing, but he said after he came that he had nothing to do. The young Russian diplomat had performed the work as well as if he had been a skillful surgeon. The surgeon also added that there was no danger.

The dog was undoubtedly mad. It tore everything to pieces in the room where it was confined, and died in horrible agony. Gen. Beale says that neither his daughter nor her husband have ever felt the slightest symptoms of trouble resulting from this accident.

Good Sense.

A writer speaks in the following justly indignant terms of a practice which sometimes obtains, of dressing little girls in exact accordance with the prevailing fashion, with scrupulous imitation of their elders:

"When I look at a child, I do not wish to feel doubtful whether it is not an unfortunate dwarf who is standing before me attired in a costume suited to its age. Extreme simplicity of attire, and a dress sacred to themselves only, are most fitted to these 'fresh female buds'; and it vexes me to see them disguised in the fashions of La Belle Assemblée, or practicing the graces and courtesies of maturer life. Will there not be years enough from thirteen to seventeen for ornamenting or disfiguring the person at the fiat of French milliners, for checking laughter and forcing smiles, for reducing all varieties of intellect, all gradations of feeling to one uniform tint? Is there not already a sufficient sameness in the aspect and tone of polished life? Oh, leave children as they are, to relieve by their 'wild freshness' our elegant insipidity; leave their hair loosely flowing, robes as free, to refresh the eyes that love simplicity, and leave their eagerness, their warmth, their unreflecting sincerity, their unschooled expressions of joy or regret, to amuse and delight us, when we are a little tired by the politeness, the caution, the wisdom, and the coldness, of the grown-up world."

Ben Wade's Pious Profanity.

Mr. Wade was an exceedingly sincere and earnest man. Whatever he believed or said he believed and uttered with his whole soul. He had the habit, when under excitement of some pressing event, of occasionally emphasizing his speech with slight oaths. Of course, all his judicious friends regretted this, but the habit was far less common than rumor has laid to his charge, and he was never rough in any marked degree offensively profane. So far as that plea may be allowed in extenuation, it must be admitted that Mr. Wade's profanity was usually well timed, and I remember on one occasion it certainly received the tacit approval of no less an authority than a Presiding Elder. It was well along in the first summer of the war that a gentleman from Western Pennsylvania one day came to me in Washington with a letter of introduction from a friend residing in Erie, and setting forth that the bearer was a distinguished Presiding Elder of the Methodist connection, anxious to offer his services to the country in whatever capacity he might be useful, and desirous of an introduction to Mr. Lincoln and Mr. Wade. I took the reverend gentleman, who seemed a very determined and earnest man, at once to Mr. Wade, to whom he told his wishes, closing with the remark that he "was ready to preach, pray, or fight for his country; only desiring employment in whichever service he could be of most use." Whereupon Mr. Wade grasped his visitor's hand a second time with a most cordial grasp, and replied that "in view of the situation of the country, he thought such talk on the part of a clergyman was d—d sensible talk." Taking his hat and trusting cane he said he would go at once with the gentleman to the White House, for Mr. Lincoln would be glad to see such a preacher, and before sunset they would have him confined in some one of the duties suggested.

It could not have been more than two hours before my clerical friend called on me a second time; now with his appointment as Chaplain in his pocket, and with transportation to a regiment then fighting in Tennessee, and he was to leave on the next train. The good man, who, I afterwards was glad to learn, proved himself through the war a genuine hero in all the capacities in which he had intimated his willingness to serve, was delighted with his prompt success, and full of hearty and loud expressions of admiration for both Mr. Lincoln and Mr. Wade. He declared, in full camp meeting emphasis, that "they were both Lions of the Tribe of Judah." "Yes," I replied, "they are indeed noble men—grand men for the time; but," thinking the Senator's oath of the morning, followed, as I feared, by others, might need some excuse, I added in apologetic tone, "you notice that our good friend Mr. Wade is inclined, in his earnestness, to emphasize his remarks with words not exactly in order." "Yes, yes, I noticed it," replied the Presiding Elder, and whispered in my ear, "but I noticed another thing—that he always put his oath in the right place."—French's "Ten Years Among Senators."

SENATOR DAWES does not pose as a humorist, but his wit is keen at times. During the boundary-line controversy between Massachusetts and Rhode Island the subject came up at a dinner-table in Washington, and a Rhode Island member of congress, waxing indignant over it, exclaimed to Mr. Dawes: "Dawes, it's a shame for Massachusetts to attempt to steal a part of Rhode Island! a confounded shame!" "Don't make so much fuss about it," retorted Dawes. "If we should steal your whole State it would only be petty larceny, and a Justice of the Peace would have jurisdiction."—Boston Journal.

If the young man who insists on stealing kisses don't abandon the practice, he will soon find himself behind the bars of "redlock."

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, save baggage, expressage, and $3 carriage hire, and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot.

613 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best horse care, stages, and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

His View of It.

"What are those men doing up there?" said a gentleman to an Irish hod carrier as he looked up at two men wildly prancing around on a narrow scaffolding on the third story of the Texas University building. "I be thinkin' that they're fightin' sor", and as a disinterested spectator, it seems to me that av aythur av thim shlips or loses his howlt, they'll wish to heaven they hed enjoyed their divarshun closter to the ground."

—Texas Siftings.

All Things Change.

The poor wild buffaloes of the West have been killed off, and there can be no more heroes like Buffalo Bill; but some day there may arise a mighty prairie dog hunter who will make dime-museums wild with applause, and an unlettered hurdy-gurdy grinder of Macaroni Gulch may come forward to take the place of the cowboy pianist. The public constantly demands novelty.

—New Orleans Picayune.

Don't get the big head and imagine that you are great and much needed in the affairs of the world. Remember that when the sun sinks lowest in the West, the larger shadows are cast and the sun itself is larger. So we are always greatest, in our own minds, when we are the least. Self-conceit that swells a man's head is a terrible affliction and one against which every man should be vaccinated by common sense.

—Peck's Sun.

The Stomach Distills Acids.

These, if existent in a natural quantity, and unvitiated by bile, play their part in the functions of digestion and assimilation. But the artificial acid resulting from the inability of the stomach to convert food received by it into sustenance, is the producer of flatulence and heartburn, which are the most harassing symptoms of dyspepsia. The best carminative is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Far more effective is it than carbonate of soda, magnesia or other alkaline salts. These invariably weaken the stomach without producing permanent benefit. No man or woman chronically dyspeptic, and consequently nervous, can be in possession of the full measure of vigor allowed by nature. Therefore, invigorate and regulate the system, and by so doing protect it from malaria, rheumatism, and other serious maladies.

Now that plate-ware has become so plentiful and cheap, the old expression, "born with a silver spoon in his mouth," goes out of date. Silver is not so tempting a thing as it used to be, except when the mint has struck it, although solid silver still means an awful lot. We might now say: "Born with a gold spoon," and not mean very much. But the San Francisco girl has got out an expression which will probably prove more expressive than any. "Yes," said a poor young lady, discussing the daughter of a rich man, "Lottie was born with a sealskin!"—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Most Remarkable Business in the Country.

Our citizens have observed notices in the leading papers, from time to time, of a little harmless food plant called Moxie, found in South America last year. Its fine taste as a beverage, and ability to restore nervous, weakly women in a few days, and help overworked people of both sexes to do two days' work in one with less fatigue, have made the demand so immense that 5,000,000 bottles have been sold in 17 months. What will be the sale in five years at this rate?

Where He Was Strong.

Amateur Actor (to friend)—What did you think of my Hamlet, Charley?

Dear Friend—Immense! In one part of the play you were equal to Booth.

Amateur Actor—What part was that, Charley?

Dear Friend—Where Polonius gives his parting advice to Laertes.

Amateur Actor—But I was behind the scenes, then.

Dear Friend—So is Booth.—Puck.

A LITTLE fire is quickly trodden out which, being suffered, rivers cannot quench. Procrastination may rob you of time, but by increased diligence you can make up the loss; but if at rob you of life the loss is irremediable. If your health is delicate, your appetite flake, your sleep broken, your mind depressed, your whole being out of sorts, depend on it you are seriously diseased. In all such cases Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will speedily effect a genuine, radical cure—make a new man of you, and save you from the tortures of lingering disease.

EVERYBODY'S companion is nobody's friend, but Red Star Cough Cure is everybody's friend. Prof. Grothe, of the Brooklyn Board of Health, endorses it as prompt, safe, and sure. Price, twenty-five cents a bottle.

A CORRESPONDENT wishes to ask how editors spend their leisure hours? They spend them in working.

MEN, such as U. S. Senator Voorhees, of Indiana, are loud in their praise of St. Jacobs Oil as an instantaneous cure for rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, and other bodily pains.

Tumble-Weed.

A common eastern weed, according to Prof. C. E. Bessey, is modified by climate on the western plains and prairies into a compact plant, whose stout, curving branches give it an approximately spherical form, and which is called "tumble-weed" from the fact that when the stem is broken near the ground by the autumn gales the upper part goes rolling and tumbling before the wind, often for miles. In the East the species, Amarantus albus, is a straggling herb, remaining rooted long after its death at the close of the season.

* * * * Piles, fistula, rupture, and stricture radically cured. Book of particulars 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE world moves, but it would seem to be the opinion of some enthusiasts that the momentum could not be preserved if it were not for the crank.

Farmers.

Send 10 cents to the PRICKLY ASH BITTERS Co., St. Louis, Mo., and get a copy of "THE HORSE TRAINER."

A complete system, teaching how to break and train horses in a mild and gentle way, requiring no elaborate apparatus, nothing more than can be found in any stable in the country—a rope and a strap. Every one handling horses should have a copy.

JUDGING from the tightness of the article, it isn't every girl who can laugh in her sleeve nowadays.

CHAPPED hands, face, pimples, and rough skin cured by using Juniper Tar Soap, made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York.

THE enormously large hats worn by some very little girls make it difficult to decide which there is the more of—hat or child.

Brown's Bronchial Troches for Coughs and Colds: "I don't see how it is possible for a public man to be himself in winter without this admirable aid."—Rev. R. M. Devens, Providence, Mass.

WANTED, the name of the goldsmith who made the welkin ring.

"Rough on Rats" clears out Rats, Mice. 15c.
"Rough on Corns" hard or soft corns. 15c.
"Rough on Toothache." Instant relief. 15c.
"Rough on Coughs," Troches, 10c. Liquid, 25c.

"Rough on Dirt" is unequalled for Dish-washing, House and Paint Cleaning, Cleaning Windows, Pails, Pans, Knives, Forks, Jewelry, Wash Basins, Bath Tubs, Sinks, Water Closets, &c. Cuts the dirt without injury or discoloration. Keep it on the wash and toilet stands.

Fortune's Favorites

Are those who court fortune—those who are always looking out for and investigating the opportunities that are offered. Send your address to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, and they will mail you, free, full particulars about work that you can do while living at home, wherever you are located, and earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards. Capital not required. You are started free. Both sexes. All ages. Some have earned over $50 in a single day. All is new.

"Rough on Pain" Plaster, Porosed, 10c. Best.
"Rough on Pain," Liquid, Quick cure, 20c.
"Rough on Catarrh." Cures all, worst cases. 50c.
"Rough on Piles." Sure cure, 50c. Druggists.

"Rough on Dirt" for the toilet, bath or shampoo. Perfectly harmless. Nice for washing infants, children or adults. For Miners, Machinists and others whose employment begrimes the clothing and hands. Invaluable in Hospitals, Asylums and Prisons as a disinfectant and purifier.

Regulate your watch with Teske's Regulator.

All Men Are Not Bad.

Neither are all prepared remedies unreliable. This is proven by the results following the use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic for dyspepsia, rheumatism, scrofula, jaundice, torpid liver, and general weakness.

"Rough on Bile Pills." Little, but good, 10 & 25c.
"Rough on Itch" cures humors, eruptions, Tetter, "Rough on Worms," Sure Cure, 25c.
"Rough on Pain" Plaster, Porosed 10c. Best.

BENSON'S
CAPSICINE
POROUS PLASTER

Highest Awards of Medals in Europe and America.

The nearest, quickest, safest and most powerful remedy known for Rheumatism, Pains, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Backache, W. aches, colic, in the chest, and all aches and pains. Indorsed by 500 Physicians and Druggists of the highest repute. Benson's Plasters promptly relieve in cure where other plasters and greasy ointments, liniments and lotions, are absolutely useless. Beware of imitations under imitating names, such as: Capsicum, "Capsicin," "Cap-cine," as they are utterly worthless and intended to deceive. Ask for BENSON'S and TAKE NO OTHERS. All druggists, SEABURY & JOHNSON, Proprietors, New York.

"Throw Physic to the Bogs"

When it is the old-fashioned blue mass, blue pill sort, and insist on using Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," a modern medical luxury, being small, sugar-coated granules, containing the active principles of certain roots and herbs, and which will be found to contain as much cathartic power as any of the old-fashioned, larger pills, without the latter's violent, drastic effects. The pellets operate thoroughly but harmlessly, establishing a permanently healthy action of the stomach and bowels, and as an anti-bilious remedy are unequalled.

THE only coolness that should come between two fond hearts is ice-cream.

THE best cough medicine is Piso's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere. 25c.

THE SUCCESSFUL REMEDY FOR CATARRH

I have used Ely's Cream Balm, which troubles me and con-bled with catarrh it is a sufferer myself cured. I seriously affected my sufferer 20 years from voice. One bottle of catarrh and catarrhal Ely's Cream Balm did headache, and this is the work. My voice is the first remedy that fully restored.—R. F. afforded lasting relief. Liepmann, A. M., Pasadena, T. Higginson, 145 tor of the Olmsted Bap-Lake st., Chicago.

For 15 years I was. For eight years I annoyed with catarrh, have been a sufferer severe pain in my head, from catarrh. After discharging into my using Ely's Cream Balm throat and unpleasant for six weeks I believe breath. My sense of myself cured. It is a small was much impair—most agreeable remedy. ed. I have overcome Joseph Stewart, 624 these troubles with Grand avenue, Brook-Cream Balm.—J. R. Lynn, N. Y. Case, St. Denis Hotel, I was cured by Ely's Broadway, N. Y. Cream Balm; was I have been a great troubled with chronic sufferer from dry catarrh, gathering in tarrah for many years my head, difficulty in Ely's Cream Balm breathing and dis-completely cured me.—charges from my ears. M. J. Lally, 30 Ward.—C. J. Corbin, 925 ward av., Boston, Mass. Chestnut St., Phila.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

is not a liquid, snuff or powder. Applied into the nostrils is quickly absorbed. It cleanses the head. Alleviates inflammation. Heals the sores. Restores the senses of taste and smell. 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cents. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES. SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES. It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System. DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICKHEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c disappear at once under its beneficial influence. It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbid its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults. PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO. Sole Proprietors, ST. LOUIS AND KANSAS CITY.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest. CATARRH Also good for Cold in the Head, Headache, Hay Fever, &c. 50 cents.

ADVERTISERS or others, who wish to examine this paper, or obtain estimates on advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St. the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

PENSIONS, Officers' pay, bounty provided, deserters relieved, 21 years' practice. Success or no fee. Write for circulars and new laws A. W. S. CORNICK & SON, Washington, D. C., & Cincinnati, O.

DEAF—A very interesting 8-page book on Deafness Noises in the Head, etc. How relieved. Sent free. Address NICHOLSON, 17 McDougall St., N. Y.

RUPTURE If you want relief and cure at your home, send for Dr. J. A. Sherman's circular of instructions. 201 Broadway, New York.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

PENSIONS COLLECTED and increased by Fitzgibbon & Powell, Indianapolis, Ind. Offices re-opened. Send for copy of Laws, free.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. H. F. KIRK & CO., Milwaukee, Wis.

MONEY MADE FAST in Gogebic stocks, and new town lots. Security guaranteed. Maps, etc. H. F. KIRK & CO., Milwaukee, Wis.

LOTS New Town of BENJAMIN, Wis. Cen. R. R. Plots apply Milwaukee Mining Exchange, Milwaukee, Wis. Gogebic Stocks bought and sold.

OAKLAWN PERCHERON HORSES.

200 Imported Brood Mares of Choicest Families. LARGE NUMBERS, All Ages, both Sexes, IN STOCK.

300 to 400 IMPORTED ANNUALLY from France, all recorded with extended pedigrees in the Percheron Stud Books. The Percheron is the only draft breed of France possessing a stud book that has the support and endorsement of the French Government. Send for 120-page Catalogue, illustrations by Rosa Bonheur. M. W. DUNHAM, Wayne, DuPage Co., Illinois.

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS, and Restore the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only add to its popularity. Do not experiment—get ORIGINAL AND BEST. DR. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS (Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage. THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only add to its popularity. Do not experiment—get ORIGINAL AND BEST. DR. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS (Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage. THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

HARTSVILLE, N. J., October 15, 1900. R. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa. Dear Sir: I was taken with a very severe cold last Spring, and tried every cure we had in the store, and could get no help. I had our village doctor prescribe for me, but kept getting worse. I saw another physician from Port Jervis, N. Y., and he told me he used Piso's Cure for Consumption in his practice.

I bought a bottle, and before I had taken all of it there was a change for the better. Then I got my employer to order a quantity of the medicine and keep it in stock. I took one more bottle, and my Cough was cured. Respectfully, FRANK McKELTY.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

One Agent, Merchant only wanted in every town for EST'D 1802.

Although I was paying $3.00 per 1,000 for any leading brand, my sales are more than twenty-five times as large since I put in your "Tansil's Plaster" to clear. I could not have believed it. Yours respectfully, W. M. DALE, Druggist, Chicago.

Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago. LADY AGENTS—Article new: sells fast. No money to invest. Address, R. P. LICKES, St. Louis, Mo.

N. Y. C. W. No. 14-87.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
One Year, in advance ..... $0.75
Six Months ..... 50
Three Months ..... 25

Entered at the Post Office at St. Joe as second-class matter.

FRIDAY APRIL 1, 1887.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that an election will be held in the Lutheran church in St. Joe, Ind., on Saturday afternoon, April 9th, 1887, at 3 o'clock, by the St. Mark's Congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran church of the Synod of Northern Ind., to elect three (3) trustees for said congregation, to hold their office for five (5) years, or until their successors are elected.

Trustees: John Leighty,
Robert Davis,
W. C. Patterson.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

PLEASANT HILL.

Willis Baker has built a summer kitchen.

John Koch has been laid up for a couple of weeks with the string-halt in his back.

Some of the boys from Hursttown cut quite a swell at the Spencerville Saturday evening.

Lige Saylor says he would rather hear the "bobolink" sing than any other bird except the snipe.

Charlie Jackson wants to buy a bushel of bohemian oats. Will give an order on the county for pay.

If reports are true, Gora Showalter will go in partnership with Mr. Fridenberger in teaching the summer school.

If people don't quit talking about Holl Jackson, they will get set up in the boot business. Holl kicks on such things.

John Scott and Elmer Chaney of Spencerville will build a house this summer for Jean Widowfield, living three miles south-east of Maysville, near the Blackcreek church.

PIGEON'S RETREAT.

The farmers are prophesying for snow, and sowing oats.

Emma Kline says that Ed Showalter has been very sick. Wonder how she knows?

If reports are true, the wedding bells will chime in our district before a great while. Eva says she has taught her last term of school.

Some light fingered puppy visited Ben Wasson's sugar camp the other night and carried off two pails of syrup. They must have been hungry for "lasses."

Uncle Moses Hildebrand has put a new roof on the porch of his house. Suppose he is afraid Bell and Lawrence will get moon struck sitting on the porch during the long Sunday evenings this summer.

We have heard that some of the readers of the News thought that the "Holly" referred to in last week's issue, meant a certain Holly north of St. Joe. They were mistaken; we have a Holly at Pigeon's Retreat.

Mr. Coburntown correspondent: we would like to accommodate you, but as there is mud, more mud, still more, over your way, we are really afraid we would swamp before we reached our destination. Obtuse yet? If so, we refer you to Boreus in No. 4.

COBURNTOWN.

Will's Beebe and wife went to Huntertown last Monday, to see a sick brother.

Birt Milliman is spending a few days at home this week nursing a crushed finger.

Henry Milliman has purchased a splendid span of horses, for which he paid three hundred and sixty-five dollars.

We and our better self had a "click" at some warm sugar the other day, the first for lo! these many years. I tell you Uncle George's is the place to go for tally.

Chris Curie seems to think we have nothing to eat over on this side of the river, and says he has to go home nights for his supper, but I don't think that is what he goes home for.

The Sunday school at the corners was organized last Sunday with Joseph Scholes as superintendent; Ervin Hadsell, assistant; Miss Andra Woodcox, secretary, and Adrian Hart treasurer.

I don't believe that St. Joe furniture man was as badly scared as "Boreus" tries to make us believe, as I notice he took the time to pull on his boots if he did forget his trousers; or maybe he slept in his boots, folk's do some times.

Jake Baker has eighty acres of land which has a public road on two sides of it, a railroad through the middle, three county ditches already established and the viewers are at work on the fourth one. Jake says if they will leave him enough for a potato patch, and to pasture one cow he will be satisfied.

CONCORD.

Mrs. Orange Herrick is afflicted with rheumatism.

Mr. Wayne Scott and wife visited over Sunday with friends near Garrett.

Mr. G. Morr is now working near the Junction. He is building a barn for A. Morr.

Dick Monroe has taken a business trip to Goshen. He will be gone a few days.

Aaron Guysinger will move in a few days, in the neighborhood of the cheese factory.

Mrs. Hildebrand returned home last Monday, from a few days visit with her daughter Sadie.

Tell Elson, of Fairfield center, was calling upon friends in the neighborhood, last Saturday.

The young people's society have changed the time of meeting, and will hereafter meet at two o'clock every Saturday afternoon.

James May has purchased a team of horses of John Smith, and will begin farming. Consideration $250.

A Sabbath school teacher's meeting has been organized, which will meet at the residence of some teacher every Thursday evening, at half-past six.

The young people gave Laura Lehman quite a surprise last Wednesday evening. It was her birthday and a goodly number were present, and had a merry time.

Those boys from Spencerville, that attended the party last Tuesday evening, should not have waited until the girls got out of the house, and started home before asking to accompany them. It was very impolite, but that such was the case, Lettie and Augusta are willing to testify.

Lost Saturday morning Ida Koch went to the barn to feed a calf, and in her haste to close the door, lest it should escape, she became locked in, and had to remain there until one of the family came and opened the door and released her from her prison. Beware of spring locks they are treacherous.

Says Belle "who wrote that item? If I knew, I'd indict 'em." I believe it was El Baker. If I see her, won't I shake her? No it was Alice or Vill Draggoo, And Vill, I really believe it was you; Or else it was Charley and Harry, If so, neither one will I marry. Then up spoke friend Deme. I think it real mean; For they've written about Bert, And his feelings they've hurt; Says Belle "you'll no more see a light, In my window on Saturday night; After this, please bear in mind, I'm going to pull down the blind; And then you'll not see 'Tuck, When he comes to see his little duck." Rose said they wrote of her just as bad - And I tell you it makes me mad; But girls, between you and me, I firmly believe it is M. D. B. Then Alice said "the little liar, Such things I surely don't admire." And so it goes, and nobody knows, Who writes the items in poetry or prose.

SPENCERVILLE.

Grandma Rhodes is quite sick. Spencerville will have another store shortly.

Miss Minnie Zimmerman spent Sunday at this place.

Sam Zahner has erected a Monitor wind engine.

Geo. Clark and Jennie Askew of Auburn were in town Sunday.

Rev. Fryberger and wife have returned from their visit in Ohio.

Miss Minnie Nichols is expected home this week from New Jersey.

Rallie and Rossie Murphy, of Leo spent a few hours in town Saturday.

John Hobbagh killed a very nice Blue Heron Wednesday.

Traveling men look disappointed when they stop at Barney & Erick's old stand.

Miss Nettie Askew, of Auburn, was the guest of Miss Eva Shutt over Sunday.

The Lutheran people will give their preacher a donation, at the church next Saturday.

Services at the M. E. church next Sunday morning, and in the Lutheran church in the evening.

Mrs. Cassius Silberg who has been visiting her parents at Maysville, returned home Saturday.

Mrs. John Beams being sick, the Missionary Society was entertained by Mrs. P. Bishop Thursday.

If you ever have anything to do with a post office you will find that there are hundreds of children, and millions of questions to answer, even in a small town.

Will Lako, Jack Beams, Mort Shutt, Frank Rhodes, and Will Tindall who are attending school at Valparaiso, are home, spending their vacation. They return Monday.

The ladies of the Lutheran church gave a pop-corn social at Walters' hall last Saturday evening. A large crowd was present, and all seemed to enjoy themselves hugely.

Two very good looking young ladies called at the Gallery, and had their pictures taken this week. They looked so much alike, we were hardly able to distinguish one from the other.

Charles Tustison will sell his personal property, consisting of 1 horse, 1 three year old colt, 3 head of cows, 50 bushels of oats, 1 reaper, and other articles; on Saturday, April 9th, 1887. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock.

M. TUSTISON,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES,

ROLLER FLOUR,

PROVISIONS, OYSTERS, LEMONS,

ORANGES, CANDIES, CIGARS &c.

MAIN ST. - ST. JOE, IND.

WILLIAM CURIE,

PROPRIETOR OF

MEAT MARKET

ST. JOE, IND.

Highest market price paid for Hides, Talley &c. Give me a call.

J. F. WALKER,

MAKERTAND DEALER IN

Harness, Collars,

WHIPS, HARNESS OIL &c.

ST. JOE, IND.

Repairing done promptly. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see.

A. KINSEY,

DEALER IN

FURNITURE

BUREAUS, TABLES,

Lounges, Beds, Chairs &c.

MAIN STREET, ST. JOE, IND.

All styles of Parlor Goods furnished to order at low prices. Thanking you for past favors I solicit your future patronage.

F. A. ZEIGLER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

HARNESS,

COLLARS,

WHIPS &c.

FLY NETS,

DUSTERS,

OILS &c.

St. Joe, Ind.

Prices the Lowest. All work guaranteed. Call and see me.

A. KINSEY.

Undertaker and Embalmer. Keeps on hand constantly, a stock of Undertaking Supplies, Coffins, Caskets, Burial Robes &c. I can supply as fine goods as can be furnished. Will attend to making all arrangements for funerals. Calls responded to at all hours of the night. Office on corner of Main and Second Streets; residence on corner of Main and Fourth Streets, St. Joe, Ind.

Business Notices.

H. W. BOWMAN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Office opposite the Drugstore.

ST. JOE HOTEL, Wm. Leighty, proprietor. Special attention given to furnishing teams for commercial men.

B. S. SIEFFER, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to his care.

ST. JOE BARBER SHOP, one door west of hotel, Will Gee, proprietor. Satisfaction guaranteed. Your patronage is solicited.

FELLEY, LOUNSBERRY AND SHULER, proprietors of the St. Joe Saw and Planing Mill. All work promptly done. Cash paid for Oak Logs.

CHEY BARBER SHOP, St. Joe, Ind., John Hull, proprietor. Shaving, Hair Cutting &c. done in the best of style. Come and see me. Two doors west of Kinsey's Furniture Store.

SIMON WINELAND, proprietor St. Joe Handle, Shingle and Feed Mills. Feed grinding a speciality. Highest prices paid for second growth White Ash. Enquire at the mill for full particulars.

LOCALS.

This is April the first time. Rich Culbertson is on the sick list. The days are now longer than the nights. We have twenty different styles of Wall Paper. Smoke the "MA" cigar, for sale by John Hull. This makes ten times we have issued the News. Only two more weeks in which to pay your taxes. Frank Walker is going to enlarge his harness shop. The scarlet fever patients are getting along nicely. Samuel Widney's condition remains about the same. Preaching Sunday morning and evening in the Lutheran church. St. Joe has a weather prophet. Read what he says in another column.

It is reported that John Beams will open a dry goods store at Spencerville.

F. A. Patterson the jeweler, of Hicksville was in town Tuesday. Andy is getting fat.

Next Monday the people of Michigan vote as to whether they shall have prohibition in that state or not.

Simon Bail, one of the old substantial farmers of Allen county, made us a pleasant visit last Saturday.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Mrs. William Hart, on Thursday afternoon, April 7th, 1887, at 3 o'clock. All are invited.

We were wrong in our statement last week in regard to the number of school children in this district. Trustee Dermott informs us that there are 145, instead of 134, as we stated.

Brushes of all kinds at the Drugstore at bottom prices.

Billy Gee has moved into part of Charlie Widney's house.

The Avilla News was printed in two colors last week.

Ben Leighty is working on the B. & O. gravel train.

We are getting from ten to fifteen new subscribers every week.

Frank Zern was visiting his parents in this place this week.

The eighth day of April has been set apart as Arbor day for the schools of Indiana.

August Kinsey will take all kinds of lumber in exchange for furniture. Give him a call.

Green apples were selling for one dollar and ten cents a bushel at Fort Wayne last week.

Al Evans and Jake Gelhausen have presented the Methodist church at this place with a handsome eight day clock.

Hank Reynolds talks of leaving this place about the middle of the month. Don't go Hank, we can't spare you.

If you want to go some where, and go in a hurry, get behind Billy Curie's mules. They make better time than the B. & O. trains.

When in need of painting, kalsomining or paper hanging, call on B. A. Woodcox. He guarantees his work to give satisfaction.

August Kinsey has invented a revolving milk safe, which looks as if it might be a good thing. He has applied for a patent on the same.

Ad Chubb bought a cow at Mrs. Carnes' sale last week, and undertook to lead her home, but the last we heard of them, the cow was leading Adam.

One of the Garrett papers said last week that the supervisor of Corned township has given notice that no stock will be allowed to run at large the coming summer. Wonder where Corned township is anyhow?

We are under obligations to County Superintendent Merica, for a copy of the Thirteenth Biennial Report of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. In looking over the same, we see that De Kalb county pays less wages to teachers than any other county in the state; and yet there are people who complain that teachers receive too much pay for the work they do. The average price paid to gentlemen teachers in this county for the year 1886 was $1.53 per day, and ladies received an average of $1.39 per day.

Quite a good deal of excitement was caused on our streets last Saturday by the runaway of Geo. Draggoo's team. It took fright near the depot, and although Mr. Draggoo had hold of the lines, the horses got under such head-way that he could not control them. They ran up Main street, and when near this office the wagon struck the street crossing with such force, that it broke the front axle square off. The team still continued on up street, minus one wheel, while Mr. Draggoo braced himself and hung on to the lines like grim death to a "nigger." Finally the team turned off into an alley, and came to a halt by coming in contact with a barn. Fortunately no damage was done, beyond the loss of a wheel, and a badly frightened span of fifteen year old colts. Uncle George, himself was considerably unstrung. It was a narrow escape from what might have been a terrible accident.

J. H. CONRAD,

DEALER IN

ROOFING AND SPOUTING

GUTTERING, HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS.

Cutlery, Nails, Paints, Woodenware &c.

MAIN STREET,

ST. JOE, IND.

"All work and goods guaranteed to give satisfaction." Give me a call.

AT THE

St. Joe

DRUG

STORE.

White-wash Brushes.
Kalsomine Brushes.
Paint and Wall Brushes.
Artist's Brushes.
Marking Brushes.
Shoe and Hair Brushes.
Tooth and Clothes Brushes.

AT THE

St. Joe

DRUG

STORE.

ST. JOE MARKET

CORRECTED EVERY FRIDAY.

Wheat	75 cts.
Oats	29 cts.
Corn	40 cts.
Butter	15 cts.
Eggs	10 cts.
Tallow	31 cts.
Lard	10 cts.
Potatoes	40 cts.
Smoked Hams	10 cts.
Shoulders and Side Meat	8 cts.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

WEST BOUND.

No. 9 Mail and Express	11:10 A. M.
3 Chicago Express	10:43 P. M.
35 Local Freight	3:53 P. M.

EAST BOUND.

No. 10 Express and Mail	2:08 P. M.
1 Morning Express	2:04 A. M.
34 Local Freight	8:00 A. M.

H. K. REYNOLDS, AGENT.

WEATHER PREDICTIONS.

BY PROF. TOMOTHY TWID OF ST. JOE.

So long as time lasts, there will be weather of some kind, and if we always knew exactly what kind of weather we were going to have for one month in the future, it would add much to our happiness and greatly assist us in laying out our work. A great many theories have been advanced for the purpose of fore-telling the weather. Among the most prominent is Hurchel's weather table that adorns a page of nearly every family almanac. Prof. Wiggins also has an idea that he controls the weather to a certain extent, and while I do not wish to say one word that would reflect in any way upon the honor of either of these gentlemen, I will say, and insist upon it, that their calculations are not based on solid ground, and therefore their prophecies are apt to mislead. Now I will endeavor to give you the exact state of the weather for one month at a time, calculations to be based on strictly scientific principles. For April the weather will be as follows: 1st to 5th pleasant; 6th to 11th cloudy with cold rains; 12th to 16th warmer; 16th to 22nd cloudy and cool; 23rd to 26th sunshine and showers; 16th to 20th warm and pleasant.

Wheat is looking terrible poor in some localities.

Al Rose has started a grocery store at Coleman's Corners.

Hi Hathaway is putting up a residence in the west end of town.

Sam Kees has quit working on the railroad. Noah Corpenny takes his place.

HOUSE PAINTING

Glazing Paper Hanging and Ceiling Decorating a specialty. All work guaranteed. B. A. Woodcox. Call and see me, or leave orders at the St. Joe Drugstore.

STAR WINDMILL, E. A. Wainmaker, agent, Newville, Ind. Farmers who think of buying a mill should give me a call before doing so. The star mill is the best and prices the lowest.

Pepel in this world doant awl go alike, nor like the same things the see. While one person ma be fond ov a gude horse, another ma hav a decided preference fur fine bluded sheap, or hogs or kattel, or sum other kind ov stock. Sum pepel like dogs an kats, an sum fokes even maik pets out ov snakes, but sum wa or another we never had a hank ering in that directshun. Ther is a kounty commishner living in this town who has recently take quite a fancy tu polety. He got the idee intu his hed that he cud raise chick ens, so he went tu work an fixed up a henery, with awl modern improve ments, and went at it in earnest. He has just imported at an enormous ex pance, a new bread ov chickens wich he calls the celebrated Holdovers. Tha ar rotud cheafly for thre thing viz: 1st. Tha maik a fine appear ance, the very lukes ov them im presses one with the idee that tha ar no common ordinary barnyard polety. 2nd. Tha ar eazy keepers; just build a lattaco fene 26 feet high around your chicken yard, and give them plenty to eat and you will find it a vari eazy mattar tu keep them. 3rd. Tha ar gude layers; that is tha lay around awl the tyme and dont lay ana eggs. Pursons who want tu improve ther breed ov polety shud send fur sampels of this celebrat ed stock.

Bareus Q. Hippenhammer.

SOME QUEER OCCUPATIONS.

Odd Ways of Making a Living That Some New Yorkers Have Adopted.

Two courageous New Yorkers follow the useful but unpoetic business of hanging their fellow-citizens. They are not prejudiced in favor of New Yorkers, but are easily persuaded to hang men elsewhere throughout the Union. It is always pretended that no one knows their names, and that only the sheriff of the county has their addresses. One is a Hebrew, dubbed "Isaac," and the other is a German, called "Menzesheimer"; but the city always lumps them both under the one name of Joseph B Atkinson, and under that name they draw their pay. They rig the gallows and finally cut the rope. One other sanguinary citizen, in Twenty-third street, swings a shingle declaring him to be "The Destroyer of Moths."

Four prosperous citizens earn their livelihood as doctors for the lap dogs of rich women. As a rule, the only medicine they use is starvation. They fling the dear pets into barred boxes and deprive them of food for four days, having found out that the usual trouble with pet dogs is that they are fed extravagantly and improperly. Just east of the Bowery, in a tenement house, resides a man whose business it is to rent himself and his Punch and Judy show to children's parties in the brownstone wards. A person on the Bowery keeps six or eight girls busy framing wreaths and pictures of tombstones, whereon are set forth the virtues of deceased New Yorkers. He follows where death notices in the papers lead him, and works upon the feelings of the grief-stricken families.

A rich Italian employs a horde of his countrymen to trim or balance the loads upon the scows of our street sweeping department. These trimmers save for him all the rags, fat, bone, metal, and other convertible refuse flung into the householders' ash barrels. Another man is making a fortune by carrying off all the waste and refuse the city will not remove, such as builders' leavings, dirt from cellar-diggings, and so on. The builders pay him to take it, and then he sells it in the suburbs for filling in sunken lands.

Only one man in town pretends to keep photographs of all the notable people in the world. There is not room for two in the business. Another citizen sells to public men and corporations clippings from all the newspapers that mention them at 5 cents a clipping, added to a subscription fee each year. Yet another citizen hunts up coats of arms and pedigrees for all who think theirs have been overlooked, or that they may get them from families of the same, or nearly the same, names as their own. This is quite English and therefore popular. It is said that the carriage-makers are giving away coats-of-arms like chromos. Lawyer Ed. Price, the ex-pugilist, has a monopoly as the attorney for the Chinese. The laundrymen will seek him when in trouble, and always pay him in silver dollars. The trade of painting black eyes with a mixture of six parts white paint and one part red now boasts several establishments. It is not popularizing the black eye, because it only covers up the scandal without removing the recollection of the accompanying "licking."

One New Yorker has posted himself about all the unclaimed estates in Christendom, and thus profits by a weakness more general than most folks imagine. Another New Yorker searches the streets at night with a lantern for coins and purses dropped during the evening. A woman near the City Hall takes care of the babies whose widowed mothers have to go out to work, and who check them, like umbrellas, in the morning and call for them in the evening. Many women in the East side tenements take care of a baby or two for their neighbors, but this downtown one is, I think, the only regular baby safe-deposit company or storage warehouse in town. There is no matrimonial agency or husband's exchange newspaper here just now. There have been many, but all have failed. That scheme is not so profitable as that of a man I met the other day, who told me he trained valuable dogs to come straight back to him as often as he sold them.

The Descent of Man.

"A few years ago," says Mrs. A, "I had a servant who hated men. She was a spinster, about 40 years of age, and she seemed to cherish a settled aversion to the brothers of the human family. One day she asked for my library ticket to go to our village library for a book to read. I recommended two or three books which I thought she would find within her capacity; but she found that they were all out and she chose a book for herself. It was Darwin's 'Descent of Man.' 'Why did you pick out this book, Biddy?' I asked her, in surprise. 'Sure, ma'am,' she replied, 'it says its about a daycent man, and if there's one daycent man top of ground I thought I'd like to be readin' about him; but it ain't about any man at all, ma'am; its all about monkeys, sure.'—Boston Record.

Hunting Pennsylvania Deer.

Deer hunting in the woodlands of Pennsylvania is not what it was thirty-five years ago. In those days the old military road from Olean to Kittanning in Western Pennsylvania made a way in the woods for the hunters. For a distance of 160 miles it led right through the forests, then unbroken, save here and there by a windfall or a pigeon-slashing. But doubtless many of my readers do not know the character of a pigeon-slashing. Pigeon-slashing is made by the noble red man where pigeons are nesting. The dusky warrior allows his faithful squaw to cut down the trees while he picks up the young nestlings.

In the present day good hunters are shooting both deer and bear in large numbers in Elk County. Deer are swift-footed creatures. They can smell a man with a rifle more than a mile. If they are not badly wounded they are almost sure to make their escape. Experienced hunters try to shoot the animals right behind the shoulder. The game is generally found on the hills. A deer is always suspicious of the low lands. If disturbed in the valleys they put for the hills without saying good-bye, and the hunter who follows the trail rarely overtakes his game. A man hunting alone never follows a deer, but takes a circuitous, and often very fatiguing route, and meets the prey up in the hills. I have followed a deer trail many a weary mile only to find that it came to an abrupt termination right in an open and unlooked for spot. This is accounted for by the fact that the cunning beast turns right about in his own tracks, stepping into each old footprint in the snow and retracing its steps until it finds a suitable place for a big leap, when he bounds off some twenty feet or more over underbrush or rocks and makes tracks in another direction, fully impressed with the idea that he has thrown his pursuers off his trail.

When a large animal is killed a good distance from the camp, it is a difficult undertaking to bring in the game. I have frequently left the carcass of a deer hanging to a tree until the following day. When the snow covers the ground, the Pennsylvania deer feeds on fallen acorns and beechnuts. They remove the snow with their antlers so that they can get at the feed. There is a place called Wilcox in the interior of Elk County which is a favorite resort for amateur hunters. There is a rich old tanner here who owns a park containing many acres in which is a herd of over 100 deer, buck, does, and fawns. He will let one hunt in this park by paying for all of the game killed or injured. In the backwoods, venison in bulk sells for eight or nine cents a pound, while steaks bring thirteen cents a pound. Bear meat can be procured at eight cents. A fully developed male deer will weigh 208 pounds. The only danger in hunting deer in the Pennsylvania woods lies in the fact that you may get lost or become a prey to a hungry wildcat.—Detroit Free Press.

Sparks and Flashes.

Bread is never made until it is kneaded.

A tumble in the price of wheat is not relished by the speculator in that commodity. It goes against his grain.

A new venture in the Chicago journalistic field is styled the Hog. Doubtless its projectors think they have a fat thing.

"The Telephone Suits," says the headline in a morning paper. Of course it does; but as the fact may not be generally known we give the information free of cost.

"More trouble among the minors, my dear," remarked Phasosius, arising to enter the adjoining room and quiet his trio of quarreling youngsters.

It is a wise tramp who eats his own pap.

The Story of an Ancient Egyptian City.

Upon some spot of rising ground above the level of the annual inundation a few mud huts cluster round a rude sanctuary. The hut-dwellers multiply; the village spreads, the sanctuary is enlarged or rebuilt. As time goes on, the village becomes a town; the town becomes a city; and the temple, enriched by successive generations of kings, governors, and pious donors, becomes a vast historical aggregate of chapels, halls, courts, avenues, pylons, and sacred enclosures. By and by, whether ravaged by foreign foes or shattered by some convulsion of nature, the splendid structure falls into partial ruin. Hereupon the degenerate princes of a later age, careless of the past and eager to raise some memorial of their own uneventful rule, lay profane hands upon the monuments of their great predecessors, cut them up for building material, and use them in the construction of debased imitations of earlier schools. This process, in all probability, is again and again repeated. Not merely stones, but statues, sphinxes, obelisks, are appropriated and reappropriated, worked and re-worked, till at last there comes a time of disruption and change, when the old religion is abolished, and the images of the gods are cast down, and the very language of the inscriptions is forgotten. After this, the sacred places become quarries for the builders of Coptic churches, Arab mosques, and the palaces of Turkish Governors. Meanwhile the actual city, consisting of labyrinthine lanes of mud-built dwellings, gradually disappears. The spacious houses of the rich, the hovels of the poor, crumble, collapse, and resolve themselves into mounds of dust and potsherds. Such is the local history of hundreds of ancient Egyptian sites, and such is the history of Tanis.

A hundred years ago, the grove of this dead city was yet inviolate. Then, as now, the great sand island was heaped high with desolate piles of reddish-brown rubbish. Then, as now, those mounds enclosed a low, level area of large extent like the bed of a dry lake, or the crater of an extinct volcano. The traveler, who—once, perchance, in a decade—scaled those crumbling slopes and looked down into that area, beheld at his feet an undulating waste enclosed by what at first sight looked like a quadrangular rampart of earthworks, but which proved, on closer inspection, to be the remains of an extraordinarily massive wall, built of sun-dried bricks. The space thus bounded was strewn with ruins.

Such was the aspect of the place when surveyed in 1798 by the engineers of the great French expedition. Meanwhile there was war in Egypt, in India, in Europe, on land, on sea—universal war, followed, in 1815, by universal peace. The rich, the learned, the adventurous, the speculative, were once more free to travel, and the world was speedily overrun by tourists and traders. The picture market and the antiquity market, both long dormant, started into new and vigorous life. In Egypt the soil was strewn with treasures which it was not only profitable but praiseworthy to rescue from the destructive propensities of native fellahs and Turkish pashas. A host of depredators laid hands accordingly upon every movable object within their reach, and the collections so amassed were sold for enormous sums to crowned heads and wealthy virtuosi. Thus were founded the great Egyptian galleries of our European museums.—Amelia B. Edwards, in Harper's Magazine.

The Rabbit Pest.

In Nevada and California we have not only the common gray species of rabbits, but also the large jack rabbit and the even larger white hare. These are all natives of the country. They have probably been here for ages and are doubtless as prolific as are rabbits in Australia; therefore the whole country should have been swarming with them when first visited by the whites had there not been something to keep them down. They were probably kept within bounds here by the wolves, wildcats, lynxes, and other carnivorous animals. The Australians introduced the rabbits no longer ago than 1860 for the purpose of sport, and fine sport they have had with them! They should now plant their land with wolves and wildcats and should cultivate owls and hawks. It is probable, however, that, owing to the general prevalence of the sheep industry, the wolf cure would be about as bad as the disease. In former times our Plate Indians slaughtered immense numbers of rabbits. Before the coming of the whites, they almost lived on rabbits, and all their cloaks and sleeping robes were made of the skins of the animals. They instituted rabbit drives, and at these roundups of the long-eared cattle swept into nets spread for the purpose all the rabbits of a large area of country. In Australia much might be done by means of similar drives or circular hunts but for the fact that the small gray rabbit is a burrowing animal, and pops into its hole with about as much celerity as the prairie dog.—Salt Lake Tribune.

A Realizing Conscience.

There are a great many people who cultivate conscientiousness to a greater or less degree, but after all there are comparatively few mortals who possess or desire to possess, a realizing conscience. A "realizing belief" of which theologians are apt to discourse, may be defined as a belief which involves a thorough consciousness of the consequences and the responsibilities of a course of conduct; a state of mind which consents not to ignore the logical consequence of a position. Most consciences confine themselves to deciding upon a course of action and decline to be troubled to consider the deductions which inevitably follow from the positions taken; and it happens more frequently than not that one decision is by all rules of logic inconsistent with those which went before and those which come after it. Mortality is apt to be quite as largely self-deception as it is inner illumination; and there are far more people who devote themselves to befogging their moral sense than to enlightening it.

A realizing conscience is a somewhat awkward and troublesome possession. If a man, for instance, has put himself under the guidance of such a mentor, he can no more commit misdemeanors in the way of business unrebuked than he can indulge them in defiance of the law. If he regards it as a wrong to pick the pocket of his neighbor on the highway, he is not allowed unreprieved to commit the same depredation by process of law in his counting-room. If his conscience reprove him for an undisguised falsehood, he knows perfectly well that he cannot beguile it into approving a lie because he has tricked it in cunningly-devised disguises. Neither does the realizing conscience keep one standard by which to measure the deeds of its possessor and a different scale for those of his fellows; it brings him to the bar as sharply, as unsparingly and as effectually as it does his enemy over whose peccadilloes he has gloated with keenly discriminating righteousness. It is not to be wondered that a conscience of this sort is by no means popular. The general diffusion of these instruments of torture would revolutionize the morals of society, besides causing their owners incalculable pain and inconvenience. It is, of course, conceivable that the cause of righteousness might be served by the spread of this rare virtue, but there is no little ground for supposing such a diffusion of the realizing conscience to be imminent as would render this consideration of any immediate practical application.—Boston Courier.

It Cured Him.

Apropos of a fashionable craze, the following story illustrates itself:

A little Detroit boy was sick, and his mother sat up at night with him and sung him to sleep.

The next night singing had lost its charm, so she told him stories, and, being an amateur elocutionist, recited the poem, "Rock of Ages," with such dramatic effect that he went to sleep and did not wake until morning.

The following night he was worse, and insisted that his mother should "pway" with him.

She began "Our Father," but was peremptorily stopped by a little hot hand laid against her lips.

Then she essayed "Now I Lay Me," but it threw the baby into a feverish rage.

"Pway, Mamma," he commanded. "pway 'Wock of Wages' all over the room, the way you did last night."—Detroit Free Press.

HUMILITY is a virtue all preach, few practice, and yet everybody is content to hear. The master thinks it good doctrine for his servant, the laity for the clergy, the clergy for the laity.

WHY LEE FOUGHT AT GETTYSBURG.

How the Great Battle on Pennsylvania Soil Was Drawn on Unexpectedly.

It had not been Gen. Lee's intention to deliver a general battle while so far from his base unless attacked, but he now found himself by the mere force of circumstances committed to one, says Gen. Henry J. Hunt, writing in the Century of the battle of Gettysburg. If it must take place, the sooner the better. His army was now nearly all on the ground, and delay, while it could not improve his own position, would certainly better that of his antagonist. Longstreet, indeed, urged Gen. Lee instead of attacking to turn Meade's left, and by interposing between him and Washington and threatening his communications, to force him to attack the Confederate army in position; but Gen. Lee probably saw that Meade would be under no such necessity; would have no great difficulty in obtaining supplies, and—disregarding his clamor from Washington—could play a waiting game which it would be impossible for Lee to maintain in the open country. He could not advance on Baltimore or Washington with Meade in his rear, nor could his army subsist itself in a hostile region which would soon swarm with additional enemies. His communications would be cut off, for his recommendation to assemble even a small army at Culpepper to cover them and aid him had not been complied with.

A battle was a necessity to Lee, and a defeat would be more disastrous to Meade and less so to himself at Gettysburg than at any point east of it. With the defiles of the South mountain range close in his rear, which could be easily held by a small force, a safe retreat through the Cumberland Valley was assured, so that his army once through the passes would be practically on the banks of the Potomac, at a point already prepared for crossing. Any position east of Gettysburg would deprive him of these advantages. It is more probable that Gen. Lee was influenced by cool calculation of this nature than by hot blood, or that the opening success of a chance battle had thrown him off his balance. Whatever his reasons, he decided to accept the gage of battle offered by Meade, and to attack as soon as practicable. Ewell had made arrangements to take possession of Culp's Hill in the early morning, and his troops were under arms for the purpose by the time Gen. Meade had finished his moonlight inspection of his lines, when it was ascertained by a reconnoitering party sent out by Johnson that the hill was occupied and its defenders on the alert; and further, from a captured dispatch from Gen. Sykes to Gen. Slocum, that the Fifth Corps was on the Hanover road only four miles off, and would march at 4 a. m. for Culp's Hill. Johnson thereupon deferred his attack and awaited Ewell's instructions.

Gen. Lee had, however, during the night determined to attack the federal left with Longstreet's corps, and now instructed Ewell, so soon as he heard Longstreet's guns, to make a diversion in his favor, to be converted, if opportunity offered, into a real attack.

Secession Possibilities.

"It was fortunate for the Confederacy that we lost that for which we fought," said a gentleman who stood high in the cause for which the South fought a quarter of a century ago to an Indianapolis Journal correspondent in Washington. "Yes, it was fortunate that we lost," he replied.

"Why?" inquired your correspondent. "Because the result would have been secession within secession," was the startling reply. "The original confederacy would have split into half a dozen smaller confederacies, warring with each other, till we would have had in North America the same terrible condition of affairs that we see in South America. Why, the very bait that was to be dangled under the nose of Louis Napoleon to induce him to recognize the new government presaged that result exactly. The French and Spanish creoles of Louisiana," continued the gentleman, who is a prominent resident of that State, "never have been and never will be reconciled to the transfer of their allegiance from France to the United States. The old and influential families among them prefer a strong and showy monarchy to a plain republic like ours. They would jump at a chance to resume their connection with France or Spain. Soule was fully possessed of this view when he sailed to Europe to secure the recognition of France and England. He carried with him secret proposals from leading French creoles to Louis Napoleon, to the effect that if he would assist in throwing off the yoke of the Republic, and thus give them a chance, they would, in a few years, so shape affairs in Louisiana as to bring about the secession of that State from the new concern and its annexation to France."

"Would not that have precipitated a new war?"

"Those men did not think so. They held that they had the right to secede from the new government, just as they did from the old government, and that Jeff Davis and his followers would have been estopped by their own theory from preventing their withdrawing from the Government which they fought for. But the unexpected power developed for the Federal Government on land and water thwarted the plan. Napoleon got scared and retreated from the position he was assuming, so the Confederacy went down. It was a good thing he did, too."

The Eve of Battle.

Augustus Brandegee writes to the New York Tribune of a talk he once had with Secretary Stanton. Mr. Lincoln had been excessively solicitous about the result of that battle. It was known that Lee had crossed in Pennsylvania, threatened Washington, and that battle had been joined near Gettysburg, upon which, in all probability, the fate of Washington and the issue of the war depended. The telegraphic wires ran into the war department, and dispatches had been received of the result of the first day's fight, which showed how desperate was the attack, the stubbornness of the defense, and that the result was indecisive. All that day and the next Mr. Lincoln was in an agony of anxiety, running over, as was his wont, to the war office to ascertain for himself the latest news instead of waiting for the report to be sent him by his subordinates. Then came a long interval when nothing was heard from Meade, and the President was wrought up to an intense pitch of excitement. Night came on, and Stanton, seeing the President worn out with care and anxiety, persuaded him to return to the White House, promising if anything came over the wires during the night to give him immediate information. At last toward midnight came the electric flash of that great victory which saved the union.

Stanton seized the dispatch and ran as fast as he could to the executive mansion, up the stairs, and knocked at the room where the President was catching a fitful slumber. "Who is there?" he heard in the voice of Mr. Lincoln. "Stanton." The door was opened, and Mr. Lincoln appeared with a light in his hand, peering through the crack of the door, "in the shortest night-dress and longest legs," as Stanton said, he ever saw on a human being. Before Stanton, who was out of breath, could say a word, the President, who had caught with unerring instinct the expression of his face, gave a shout of exultation, grabbed him with both arms around the waist, and danced him around the chamber until they were both exhausted. They then sat down upon a trunk, and the President, who was still in his nightdress, read over and over again the telegram, and then discussed with him the probabilities of the future and the results of the victory until the day dawned.

Richest Man in Germany.

The official German income-tax returns, says the London Standard, show that the man who is rated highest in all Prussia is Herr Krupp, the iron-maker of Essen. His income is assessed at more than 5,000,000 marks, or £250,000 sterling, on which he pays 151,200 marks, or £7,560 annually.

Next comes Baron Rothschild, of Frankfort-on-the-Main, with an income of 2,750,000, paying a tax of 81,000 marks, or £4,050 per annum. Then follows the British consul general, Baron Bleichroder, of Berlin, with an income of about 2,340,000 marks, paying an annual tax of 68,400 marks, or £3,420.

The two next richest men in Prussia are two Silesian ironmasters. The only other Prussian with an income of over 1,000,000 marks are Baron Hansemann and a Westphalian magnate, each of whom pays rather more than £1,500 a year to the treasury.

The student of human character is inclined to be a little testy.

The Oft Told Story

Of the peculiar medicinal merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla is fully confirmed by the voluntary testimony of thousands who have tried it. Peculiar in the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, peculiar in the extreme care with which it is put up, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in the unequalled good name it has made at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained, the most popular and successful spring medicine and blood purifier before the public to-day is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the summer I was all run down and troubled with a humor which came out all over my body and face. I read of the cures accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and decided to try it. At that time my weight was 133 pounds. I have now taken two bottles, and think very highly of it, as it has cured me of the humor, and also seems to have built up my whole system. I now weigh 157 pounds. I can recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla, as I know it has helped me more than I expected medicine could do for me." W. C. HENRY, Elkhart, Ind.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier, and am well pleased with it, being in my opinion the proper medicine for the purpose." WILLIAM G. WUERTH, organist, St. Mary's Church, 108 St. Antoine Street, Detroit, Mich.

Is the Best

"I have had dyspepsia for several years, and was urged to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I did with the very best results. I have also been troubled with catarrh, but since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla have been very much better. I recommended it to my neighbors, and all who have taken it speak very highly of it." MRS. MARY J. RYAN, 131 High Street, Indianapolis, Ind.

"During the summer I was feeling all run down, and, thinking I was needing something to tone up my system, I was recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. After taking two bottles I felt much better. I had also been troubled with dyspepsia, and Hood's Sarsaparilla helped me more than anything else I could find. I can cordially recommend it to any one feeling as I did." JAMES R. DARROW, Darrow House, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

SLICKER The Best Waterproof Coat.
The FISH BRAND SLICKER is warranted waterproof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. The new POMMEL SLICKER is a perfect riding coat, and covers the entire saddle. Beware of imitations. None genuine without the "Fish Brand" trade-mark. Illustrated Catalogue free. A. J. Tower, Boston, Mass.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS

The Original and Only Genuine. Safe and always Reliable. Beware of worthless imitations. Ladies, ask your Druggist for "Chichester's English" and take no other, or inclose 4c. stamp; it will be sent you by return mail. CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., 2515 Madison Square, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Ask for "Chichester's English" Pennyroyal Pills. Take no other.

PATENTS R. S. & A. F. LACEY, Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C. Instructions and opinions as to patentability FREE. 17 years' experience.

The Oldest Medicine in the World is probably Dr. Isaac Thompson's Celebrated Eye Water

This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century, and notwithstanding the many other preparations that have been introduced into the market, the use of this article is constantly increasing. If the direst eye is followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits. John L. Thompson, Sons & Co., Troy, N. Y.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES Sufferer, Asthma, by mail, Stowell & Co., Charlestown, Mass.

Why did the Women

of this country use over thirteen million cakes of Procter & Gamble's Lenox Soap in 1886?

Buy a cake of Lenox and you will soon understand why.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

A GERMAN astronomer has found reasons for believing that the zodiac light and the aurora borealis result from the reflection of sunlight by water and ice.

THE teeth of an individual often vary greatly in hardness at intervals, and a Berlin physician, W. D. Miller, is experimenting to show that this is due to a varying proportion of lime salts in the food.

PROBABLY no application of science is developing more rapidly than photography. Among recent appliances is a detective camera in the form of a watch, with a charm to hold a supply of miniature dry-plates, and a telescopic camera in which distant objects are brought near by telescopic aid and photographed.

THE method of vultures in finding carrion is seen by their habits of distributing themselves like sentinels over wide tracts of country. Their keen eyes, as they circle over miles of territory, scan every object, telegraphing to the adjoining sentinel, many miles away, the discovery of prey. In this way, during the Crimean war, it is said that the vultures of Northern Africa flocked in scores around the contending armies, coming from thousands of miles.

THE recent exhaustive researches by Mr. Verbeek into all the phenomena connected with the red sun glows of 1883 and 1884 have led him to conclude that they were caused mainly by the masses of aqueous vapor thrown out by the volcano Krakatoa. In this view, the watery vapor ejected by Krakatoa, after condensing and freezing in the high air, produces the remarkable sunset, though the ashes may have intensified the phenomena besides serving as a center of condensation.

MR. J. McNEIL, of Indiana University, mentions a long-horned beetle (Eburia quadrigemina) which lived no less than nineteen years, and probably more than twenty, in an ash door sill. Two similar cases of remarkable longevity in beetles are recorded by Packard. A specimen of Monohammus confusor, the common pine-borer, lived more than fifteen years in a pine bureau; and three beetles—probably Ceraphorus balleatus—came from an apple-tree table, the first after a residence therein of twenty years and the last of twenty-eight years.

A MEMBER of the London Astronomical Society has pointed out that the common assumption that a fragment of meteor dust no larger than a mustard seed may give the brilliancy of a first-magnitude star, is erroneous. To give that brightness at a distance of 100 miles, about that at which meteors are usually seen, would require an electric lamp of 10,000-candle power. It is therefore probable that the smallest visible meteors have a surface equal to the incandescent portion of a 100-candle power electric arc, if not much greater.

THE contagiousness of leprosy, says Science, has for a long time been a mooted question. The Royal College of Physicians, in order to obtain the best information on this subject, sent inquiries to physicians throughout the world, whose practice had brought them in contact with the disease, and whose opinions would therefore be of value. Thirteen of these have no doubt of its contagiousness, and thirty-four entertain no doubt of its non-contagiousness. Twelve regarded leprosy and syphilis as being intimately related; twenty-one believed there was no relation. Most of those to whom the inquiries were sent regard leprosy as hereditary, and also that it may originate spontaneously under suitable conditions.

Spells Their Voices.

"When I went on the road as a porter," said a natty-looking negro, "I had a good husky voice—a voice you could hear for blocks around. Now listen to it. The loudest tones are just about as clear as the muffled boom-boom of a bass-drum in a funeral procession. It is only about half of the time that I can make myself heard, and it is all on account of the porter business. You see, my run is on a sleeper and I have become so accustomed to whispering, for fear of disturbing the passengers, that it has almost ruined my voice. All old-time porters are similarly affected."—Chicago Herald.

At a spelling-match one man spelled "pasnip," and got beet.

PITH AND POINT.

A TRUE love-match should not spatter.

WE pity a drum major. He always has to face the music.

LOVE may be blind, but marriage is a very successful eye doctor.—St. Paul Herald.

THE reason why composers are often tempted to strike is because each one carries a stick in his hand.

A POET sings about "The Land of the Lyre." We didn't know where to locate it since Wiggins was gagged.

THERE is said to be a tree in New Guinea which, when touched, knocks a man down. It must be a species of boxwood.

BROWN—Hello, Jones! How's your wife? JONES (a little deaf): Very blustering and disagreeable again this morning.

A MACHINE has been invented that will sew on buttons as fast as seven girls. We had rather own one than be a Mormon.

THE question about extending a call turns sometimes on the age of the parson; the question of accepting it on the parsonage.

"WELL, what is it, Nora?" "Indade, mum, the water's cold." "What water?" "The hot water, mum."—Boston Commonwealth.

THE remark may not be a novel one, but it is certain that Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth is a woman of letters. Norristown Herald.

THE POWER OF GOLD.

Win gold, all doors will open to your knock; Your character from blemish will be free; Experience has shown that there's no lock That can't be opened with a golden key. —Boston Courier.

"WHERE shall we find rest?" asked a religious weekly, to which one of our exchanges answers: "My dear sir, the best place to find rest, and plenty of it, is to become a clerk in a dry goods store that does not advertise."

ADMIRING friend—And you've been writing poems how long? Complacent poet—Nearly thirty years. A. F. And you're still alive? Wonderful! C. P.—Well, you see, I've kept myself retired from the world a good deal.—Boston Courier.

"AUGUSTUS," said Maud, who, as he had been calling on her for some time, thought she would give him a hint, "I should like to be an actress." "An actress?" repeated Augustus, in astonishment. "What on earth do you want to be an actress for?" "Because then I might be engaged." She now wears a solitaire.—New York Sun.

ENGLISH tourist—Aw, yaas, I acknowledge the beauty of American women; but you all lack tact, don't ye know? American girl—Possibly. "Aw, yaas; you have not the finesse of European ladies, don't you know?" "Have you noticed such a lack in me?" "Aw, yaas." "Then I must confess myself beaten. I thought I was acting as if I enjoyed myself."—Omaha World.

JUDGE—In your drunken fury you drew your pistol and dangerously wounded an unoffending man. Cowboy—Yes, Judge, that's about the size of it. Judge—Whisky has got you into serious trouble. If it had not been for whisky you would not now be under arrest. Cowboy—That's where you're a little off, Judge. If I had been sober I'd have killed him deadlier than a door nail instead of only cripplin' him up a little.—Texas Siftings.

A WISH.

I wish I had a guinea hen,
A faithful German band,
A score of those "sweet orange" men
Who on the corners stand;
A blacksmith with a big trombone,
And wind to make it howl;
A bag-pipe with its wheezy drone;
A great, big hooting owl;
A screaming parrot prone to sing;
A crowd of yelling boys,—
My pick, in short, of everything
That's bound to make a noise.
Oh! then, sweet vengeance would be mine,
And retribution, too,
And, if you will your ear incline
I'll tell you what I'd do:
I'd make the whole accursed brigade
Play symphonies and things,
Beneath the window of the maid
Whose one song is "White Wings."

A MARINE alga of Arctic regions grows at a temperature far below zero, and its spores disappear at higher temperatures. It thus appears that intense cold is necessary to the existence of some forms of vegetable life, together with extreme dryness, and this class of plants probably includes the cryptogams of red snow.

If we had no faults ourselves, we should not be ready to note the faults of others.

J. D. LEIGHTY,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBER GOODS, HATS, CAPS, ETC.

A FULL LINE OF

Plug, Smoking and Fine Cut Tobaccos, Canned Fruits, Prunes, Raisins Currants, Etc., Etc.

St. Joe, . . . Indiana.

M. T. BISHOP.

—DEALER IN—

LUMBER,

LATH, SHINGLES, PINE AND POPULAR LUMBER, LIME, PLASTER, MOULDINGS, ETC., ETC.

I HAVE AN IMMENSE STOCK AND SOLICIT YOUR PATRONAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

YARD NEAR DEPOT, . . . ST. JOE, IND.

S. & F. BARNEY,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

CLOTHING, GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, GROCERIES. GENERAL STOCK OF HARDWARE, STOVES AND TRIMMINGS,

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

Produce, Grain, Seeds, and Wool.

CASE & OLDS,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

GROCERIES, CLOTHING, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, QUEENSWARE, CLASSWARE, ETC.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

EXAMINE THE BARGAINS ON OUR

5 and 10c Counters.

THE ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. I.

ST. JOE, IND., FRIDAY, APRIL 8, 1887.

NO. 11.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

—Charles D. Hilderbrandt, one of the most noted criminals of modern times, who claimed to have been reformed, died at Evansville recently. He was taken with pneumonia, and although he received the best medical attention and nursing, his shattered constitution could not withstand the disease, and after much suffering he passed quietly away. Hilderbrandt began his career of crime when a mere child, receiving a thorough schooling at the hands of a gang of thieves. He was a member of the famous Quantrell guerrilla band. He was also a member of the outlaw band of James boys. Out of forty-nine years of his life, twenty or more were spent in various prisons in this country.

—A shocking accident occurred six miles south of Warsaw, by which Will Walton, a young farmer living just outside the city limits, lost his life. Walton and Fred Moon, a young grocer, were duck-shooting at Muskalonge Lake. While walking through the marsh surrounding the lake, a duck flew over them, and both raised their guns to shoot. Walton slipped and fell backward, bringing his head directly in the range of Moon's gun at the moment the latter fired. The lead took effect in the back of the head and neck, and death was instantaneous. The men were the best of friends, and have hunted together for years.

—Circulars are to be sent to the county health officers by Secretary Metcalf, of the State Board of Health, calling attention to the requirements of Section 2151 of the Revised Statutes, relative to the enforcement of the fire-escape law. It is also the purpose of the Board to see that the hotels and places of amusements here are provided with suitable means of saving life in case of fire. No epidemic diseases have been reported to the Board from any point in the State.

—At Milroy, Rush County, Wesley Martin, Methodist class-leader, ejected A. L. Jenner, a young man, from church for disorderly conduct, and he sought to get even with him by securing his conviction for assault and battery. The trial took place in the Town Hall, before a jury of twelve men. The defense claimed that Martin did right in preserving order at the church, and asked his acquittal on that ground, and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

—On April 21 a Sunday-school convention will be held at Liberty Church, near New Richmond, Montgomery County. Addresses will be made by Rev. Thos. Birch, of Crawfordsville; Rev. S. Garrigus, of Lindon; Rev. J. F. Foster, of Crawfordsville; Rev. Aaron Wood, D. D., of Yountsville, and W. H. Orr, W. M. White, Eva M. Miller, Jessie B. Freeman, Rev. Maxwell, Fred Shanklin, Betty Thompson, D. S. Morris, Maggie Jones and others.

—A distressing accident occurred at Seymour, which resulted in the death of Mrs. Sarah Cooley, an estimable lady, the wife of Matt Cooley, an old resident. Mrs. Cooley was a devoted member of the M. E. Church. She attended services at church, and upon her return home she took a portion of what she supposed was quinine, but which proved to be strychnine. The poison caused her death within an hour.

—Wheat in Northern Indiana is still in an unusually advanced state, and as the season is so far along it is probable that growing crops will not suffer from any sudden change of the weather. The outlook for both grain and fruits is still excellent. There is a prospect for a larger crop of peaches this year than for several years, as the trees are known not to have been damaged by the last winter.

—The second spring meeting of the Indiana Academy of Sciences will be held on May 19 and 20 at the "Shades of Death," near Wayland, Montgomery County. The committee on arrangements—C. R. Barnes and B. W. Everman, of Brookville—request that members who expect to be present notify them by postal card at the earliest possible moment.

—The Lafayette City Council has ordered the claim of Dr. Isaac C. Walker, of Indianapolis, against Lafayette for infringement of certain patents used by the Fire Department, paid. Dr. Walker asked $1,800 damages, but accepted $1,500 in payment. Other cities in the State are involved in similar claims.

—Patents have been issued to the following inventors in Indiana: Jas. K. Trinamé, Indianapolis, chimney; Jacob L. Paynter, assignor of one-half to J. P. Kyle, Salem, pulverizing cultivator; John P. Brown, assignor to M. E. Brown, Rising Sun, fence machine; Henry J. Banta, Logansport, brake for vehicles.

—The ticket office at the Wabash depot, at LaPorte was burglarized, and several dollars were taken from the money-drawer. Some four or five holes were drilled in the safe, but an entrance was not effected. The thieves were probably frightened away, as their tools were left in the office.

—Levi Kemper, a prominent farmer of Tipton County, was run over by a Wabash engine, attached to the pay-car at Atlanta City, a small station south of Kokomó, and was instantly killed. Kemper was attempting to cross the track with a team. Both horses were also killed.

—Col. R. P. De Hart, Prosecuting Attorney, is making a vigorous crusade against Lafayette liquor dealers for selling to minors. About thirty convictions have resulted, with heavy fines in each case. His energetic work is commended by the law-abiding citizens.

—The result of the competitive examination held at Marion by Congressman Steele, to elect a naval cadet to Annapolis, was announced. The lucky boy is Clement C. Gohber, of Grant County. There were seventeen competitors for the honor.

—Oil of the same quality as that at Findlay, Ohio, has been found at Peru.

—The Governor has appointed Judge Milton S. Maffitt, of Paoli, as Prosecuting Attorney for the judicial circuit of Monroe, Orange, and Lawrence counties, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Abraham Noblett.

—William Miller, a lad of thirteen years, riding on the tender of a locomotive on the Wabash Railway at Fort Wayne, fell off, struck his head on a rail and cracked his skull, causing fatal injury.

—Capitalists from Cincinnati and other cities are investing in land in and about Portland, Ind. Natural gas is the magnet.

—B. McClintic, one of the pioneers of Miami County, died after a brief illness. He was one of Miami County's most respected citizens and a prominent member of the Masonic order.

—The fine residence of Dr. H. C. Fosdick, was destroyed by fire at Liberty. Loss, $2,000; insurance, $1,500. Several persons were painfully injured and burned during the fire.

—A street railway company, with a capital of $50,000, has been organized at Portland, and are asking the city for a franchise. That city is enjoying a big boom.

—Mrs. James H. Williamson, of Sullivan, who was going about her usual duties, suddenly dropped dead on the floor. Heart disease was the trouble.

—Annie M. Koontz, a widow 70 years old, was found dead in her bed at Peru. She had been in very feeble health for some time.

—The dwelling of Christian Ellwanger, at Hursttown, Harrison County, was burned to the ground.

—Rev. Hardin, of Illinois, has been called to the pastorate of the Mission Church in Kokomó.

—Thornton has a aer gas well after drilling 1,300

A MOONLIGHT FOX CHASE.

The Vivacious Picture of a Fifteen-Year-Old Memory.

(American Field.)

Some fifteen years ago I was a boy in my teens, but an enthusiastic lover of the chase and an ardent admirer of the fair sex. I could never quite decide in my own mind which was dearest to my heart—the girls or the hounds. It is true I went to see the girls oftener than I went fox-hunting, but many a time and oft have I cut short a visit when the fire was warm and the girl was pretty, to go home to give to Rowdy and Rival their evening meal and see that they were comfortably housed for the night. I had learned to hunt under the old squire, an old-time Virginia gentleman, who, although past three-score years, was a boy in his ardent admiration of the chase, and a desirable partner but dreaded opponent in a game of marbles or quoits. Oh, many a game of seven-up, of euchre, of whist, and of draw-poker have I enjoyed around his hospitable board. Peace be to his ashes; he is now no more, but his memory shall ever be dear to my heart. He once paid me a compliment I can never forget. After an unusually long and unsuccessful day's ride he turned to me, calling me by name, and said: "I have raised eight sons and taught them all to hunt, and have also taught a good many other boys, but you are the only one who would ride over with me all day and be as eager to hunt at night as you were in the morning; like myself, you never know when to quit." We had a very dry season the latter part of the summer and early fall, and could not take the dogs out, somewhat to our chagrin. One day by the way of consolation I rode over to see my elderly friend, and while there the rain began to fall and we hoped for an old-fashioned "dog mire," but were disappointed, for just before sundown the clouds broke away and the beautiful rainbow declared that the rain was over. "If we had your dogs and George's we would go out to-night on McGraw bridge and start a young fox." This was enough for me. "I will have my dogs and George's here in less than an hour," was my reply. The distance from his house to my grandfather's, where I lived, was between three and four miles, and almost an unlimited number of gates and draw-bars to contend with; but my pony, Old Rabbit, was fond of the sport, and I whispered in his ear and told him what was on hand. In an hour's time I had returned with my two hounds and with George and his two, which, added to the old squire's five, made nine as good, rattling, red-fox hounds as any neighborhood ever had. The squire was ready, as were two or three of his sons. Two black boys employed on the farm were told that if they desired it they might get a pair of unused horses and accompany us, and this they did with great gusto, thinking it a great thing to go fox-hunting along with the "gentlemen" on horseback. These boys were very useful that night pulling down and putting up fences. We had gone about a mile when the glorious full moon arose in its splendor, making it almost light enough to see to read. In a few moments after we entered a bank of mist which was so dense that in the moonlight it looked almost like wool. After passing through it we skirted its eastern border, with the moon on one side and the bank on the other, and then saw what I never saw before or since—a lunar bow. I had supposed that it was colored like the solar bow, but I was mistaken; it was as white as a sheet and not more than ten steps from us. It was an arc of a circle of about fifteen feet radius and about one and a half to two feet in breadth. The squire told the colored boys if they did not ride up close to us that the ghost would catch them. This made their teeth chatter, and had it not been for repeated assurances of safety I have no idea what would have been the result, for, as it was, they shadowed us closely the remainder of the evening. We started a young red, and after an interesting chase the dogs put him in the ground. Another was started—an old red, we thought, for he led the dogs at once to where no rain had fallen in this partial shower, and soon got away from them. We got home early, but I shall ever remember this as one of the pleasantest evenings of my life.

Plain Living.

A lawyer by profession, but a judge in one of the highest courts in New York for twenty-three years, is noted for methodical habits, legal acumen and perfect integrity. Long past 60, erect and vigorous as a man of 40, he cannot count a day lost by sickness in a quarter of a century. At his post as regularly as the sun rises, after adjournment he writes out the opinions of the court, which already fill several large volumes. No man in the city is more worthy of the universal regard which he long since secured. Having long known Judge Blank, I once asked him the secret of his power.

"Plain living," he replied, "has been my salvation. I was a nervous youth, high-strung and excitable. I smoked, drank occasionally, and was given to rich food. Shortly after being admitted to the bar, I found myself the victim of dyspepsia. I began to study my habits and their influence on mind and body. I experimented with food, drinks, and exercise. The result was in fixing a rule of life which I have since followed inflexibly. After a plain but substantial breakfast, I loiter about an hour or two and then walk to the court house, or a distance equal to three miles or more. Having previously had the room well ventilated, I stay in the building, occupied, except an hour at noon, with my judicial duties. The other judges take a hearty lunch; I eat nothing. At 5 o'clock I am through for the day, and walk up town again. Rain or shine, cold or hot, finds me swinging my arms and plodding along in the same gait. All legal work is dismissed as utterly from my mind as if I never knew Coke and Blackstone. I eat a hearty dinner; take no made dishes, no Worcestershire sauce or inflaming condiments, no pudding, pie, ice-cream, or custards, and drink no wine. I have a sense of comfort but not of repletion, feel no desire for intoxicating liquors, and make it a business to thoroughly digest my food, eaten twice a day, no more. I am frequently compelled to attend dinners, banquets, and festivals of every kind. But neither entreaty nor ridicule can induce me to change my habits. Even a dish of ice-cream cannot tempt me."—Good Housekeeping.

The Logical Faculty.

A little Virginia dandy named Cyrus had an older brother Cassius, who had spent a winter in Washington in swell society, and when he returned home he set himself up as a teacher to his less cultured family. One day at the table Cyrus said to him:

"Gimme some 'lasses, Cash."

"You musn't say 'lasses Cy," corrected Cassius; "you must say mo-lasses."

"Ugh!" grunted Cyrus; "how's I gwine to say mo' lasses when I hain't had none yet?"—Washington Critic.

STEATITE has been recommended as a dentifrice by M. Paul Vigier, who has discovered that it prevents the formation of tartar. His tooth-powder contains: Powdered steatite (soapstone), 60 grammes; dried alum or cream of tartar, 5 grammes; powdered cochineal, 10 grammes; essence of peppermint or other perfume, 20 drops.

The St. Joe News.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

FARMER GRUDGE.

Old Farmer Grudge was determined to trudge
In the same old way that his father went;
To toil and to slave, to pinch and to save
Nor to spend on pleasure a single cent.
His tools were few, and rusty, too,
For want of the needed drop of oil,
That creaky and slow they were forced to go,
And added much to his daily toil.

His crops were scant, for he would not plant
Enough to cover his narrow field;
But grumbled and growled and always scowled
At harvest over the meager yield.
And from the pantry store on the threshing floor,
From gaping mow and neglected bin,
Would voices cry as he passed them by:
"You can't take out what you don't put in."

Old Farmer Grudge was a doleful drudge,
And in his dwelling and on his land
'Twas pain to be seen he was shrewd and keen
And managed all with a miserly hand.
There was little wool, there was little food;
Oh, bare, indeed, was the pantry shelf,
Since he took no heed to another's need.
So he was warned and well fed himself.

The wife, it is true, would scimp and screw,
Piece and patch and in some way plan,
As women will with amazing skill,
Who is tied for life to a stingy man;
But oh, how she sighed for the things denied,
The boons and comfort; and large life
Of which she dreamed and for which she schemed.

When consenting to be Farmer Grudge's wife.

But Farmer Grudge not an inch would budge
From the path his penurious father trod;
But, though very rich, would work in a ditch
All day and at dusk in the corner would nod;
And his girls and his boys, bereft of the joys
That others had, were disposed to roam,
And to spend, profuse, not to put to use
The lessons they had been taught at home.
Kentucky Live Stock Record.

STORY OF AN HEIRESS.

BY DAISY MURDOCK.

"What do you think is Tennyson's most beautiful sentiment, Miss Holme?" Philip Carrick inquires.

"Ask me what is the truest; perhaps I could answer," the reply.

"Well, what is the truest, then?"

"A sorrow's crown of sorrows is remembering happier things."

Philip Carrick is surprised. Orna Holme is a bright, saucy-brunette, small and delicate; he does not understand what a woman like her need know of sorrow, and he says as much.

"It would not interest you to know what trouble I may have had, Mr. Carrick," she says, coldly. "Every one has some troubles, and they only increase by repetition; besides, one's confidant is always more or less bored, though politeness may keep back all signs of weariness."

Philip looks at her in wonder. Her eyes are dark with grief, passion, regret. What is it? She puzzles him exceedingly. Never in his thirty years of life, during which he has seen the women of every land, has he met one who so thoroughly interests and mystifies him as this one.

They are in a boat; the weather is perfect. Philip thinks he would be perfectly happy if he knew that this girl cared one iota for him; and this he does not seem likely to learn speedily, for she is armed with arrows of sarcasm, which she uses occasionally, and is encased in an armour of indifference, which he has as yet been unable to penetrate.

Presently he remarks, reading her name in the volume of "Tennyson" lying on the seat close beside him, "Orna—what a pretty name!"

"Do you think so?" she asks. "It has always worried me, fearing people would think it an abbreviation for 'Ornament.'"

They are floating along in shallow water near the shore, and the Miss Holme reaches out and gathers the lily leaves that lie all around them; it is too late in the season for flowers.

"How beautiful she is!" Philip thinks, watching the little white hands as she gathers the wet leaves.

She is pale and calm, intent on her occupation; she seems almost oblivious of the man who, resting his oars, sits watching her.

It is an entirely new experience for Philip Carrick. Hitherto he has been sought after, flattered, and made much of by the belles of society; but here, in this little Essex village, he has met a lady who is utterly indifferent to him, and, man-like, having found a woman who does not care for him, he proceeds straightway to fall in love with her.

He has not known Miss Holme long, and of her family and past history he knows nothing. He has come to this little village, intending to make it his headquarters while he spends a few weeks in hunting and fishing. He has engaged rooms at a private house, and has there met Orna Holme. She teaches a little country school a mile from her lodging.

So they have been together more or less for some time; but Orna's vacation is drawing to a close, and this golden September day is one of the last which they can have all to themselves.

"Don't you find going back to drill A B C's into the heads of those young savages?" Philip asks.

"Certainly not; I like to teach. Furthermore, I teach in order to get a certain amount of money with which to purchase things essential to the comfort of a lady of the nineteenth century."

Philip makes no reply, but he wishes he had not asked the question. She can certainly be very explicit when she chooses.

Presently Miss Holme glances at her watch. As she does so, diamonds flash in the sun.

"It is nearly tea-time. Mr. Carrick," she says, "shall we return?"

"I think I should like to drift this way forever," he says.

"Oh, no, you wouldn't!" she returns. "There is a dam two miles below here, and, if you undertook to drift ever as we are drifting now, you might drift into eternity."

Philip is too provoked to reply. Miss Holme either takes his words too literally, or twists them into something he does not mean; she seems determined not to understand, and he rows back almost in silence. "I am going to town to-morrow," he says to his hostess, Mrs. Dean; "a party of my friends write me from a little place called Nausean, in Italy, to join them there and go to Lake Como."

"We shall miss you," Mrs. Dean replies.

He glances across to Miss Holme; she is spreading jelly on bread for a young Dean, and for aught he can tell has not heard a word. Without doubt this country school-teacher, with her high-bred face, her diamond watch, and her supreme indifference to Mr. Carrick, is a new sensation to that gentleman.

Later in the evening they are sitting with others in the parlor. Miss Holme, rising, says, "Good night, Mr. Carrick; as you go early in the morning, I shall not see you again."

There were people looking on; he had meant to have had a different parting, but she has willed otherwise; he holds her hand an instant in his, says "Good-bye," the words half choking him, and she is gone.

A week later she is back in her old place, teaching a score of yellow-haired children; she is more lovely than ever, more bitter than ever; she has not done right, she is not doing right; how can she be happy?

Alfred Crosby and Philip Carrick are sitting by the lake. Alfred and Philip are old friends.

Alfred breaks the silence by remarking, "It strikes me, Phil, that this trip has not benefited you; you are pale and thin; you look as if you had the dyspepsia, or were in love. Honor bright, old fellow, did you fall in love while out of my sight?"

"Suppose I did, what then?" asks Philip.

"But who on earth could you have met here to captivate you? Was it a daughter of that noble gipsy, or a Norwegian girl? They are about all the women I've seen since I started on this trip."

"Oh, quit your nonsense!" replies Philip. "I stayed a month at Stony Point before coming here, if you choose to remember."

"But, my dear boy, there was nobody there."

"On the contrary, there were many nice people there, among them a Miss Holme, who was exceptionally 'nice.'"

"Oh, the mischief!" springing off his feet. "What does she look like? Describe her!"

Mr. Carrick wonders if any one can do that adequately, but he says, "She is slender and petite, has the smallest hands I ever saw, great gray eyes, chestnut hair, and the coldest, haughtiest manner I ever observed. She is certainly out of her element; she is teaching a country school."

"Well," remarks Alfred, "did she wear any jewelry—anything noticeable I mean?"

"She always wears a blue enamelled watch set with diamonds," returns Philip. "I noticed it because country school-teachers don't generally possess watches worth a hundred pounds."

"I should think not!" returns Alf. "Well, my boy, I am convinced that she is Baron Payne's niece, and heiress to all his property. He lives at St. Bride's; when I was there last winter she was a great belle. She took immensely, just because she was so utterly indifferent to everybody. The Baron has a nephew who is a gambler and everything else that's bad; he paid assiduous court to Miss Holme, and met with no success. He wanted the girl's money—she has plenty in her own right—and Orna hated him. Finally, one night, he proposed; she rejected him scornfully. She is younger than she looks, educated in a convent in France, and not very well versed in the ways of the world. The scoundrel, furious at having failed, turned on her, told her she was a pauper, that she had no claim to Baron Payne's bounty, being only a waif he had cared for, and there is no knowing what else he may have said. She must have been nearly distracted. Keenly sensitive and terribly proud, strangely enough she never stopped to question what he told her, but, taking a few things that were her own, among them the watch which had been her mother's, she left the house that night, leaving a note to the effect that she would not trespass any longer on the Baron's bounty. The Baron was frantic. He confronted his nephew the next morning, and the coward owned up to enough to make the old man forbid his ever entering the house again. Search for Miss Holme had been fruitless. It is marvelous that you, of all people, should have found her out and fallen in love."

"I didn't say I had fallen in love," said Philip, testily.

"No, but your appearance indicates that fact. I shall telegraph her uncle as soon as we reach civilization, the old Baron will be overjoyed."

It has been a hot day, uncommonly so for late September, and Orna Holme, trudging along the dusty road homeward, feels weary and heart-sick.

Teaching country children is hardly a congenial occupation for a girl brought up as an heiress, and this day had been an unusually wearisome one.

Mrs. Dean meets her at the door.

"There is a gentleman in the sitting-room waiting for you," she says; and Orna, her heart fluttering strangely with the hope that it may be Philip Carrick, enters the room, and confronts her uncle.

"Uncle! Oh, uncle!"

She is clasped in his arms, and a torrent of tears keeps back all further words.

Having grown calmer, the Baron tells her how Alfred Crosby had telegraphed of her whereabouts, and how he had traveled night and day to reach her.

"Why did you do this?" he says, reproachfully. "Could you not have trusted me, and rested in my love?"

"But he told me that you had said to him in the presence of others that I was not your niece, and that when I was married your duty towards me would be discharged."

Little by little the Baron convinces the high-tempered, foolish girl how wrong she has been, what danger she might have fallen into by her romantic escapade; and when, the next day, having procured a substitute to teach the tow-headed children, he starts home with her, it is a very penitent as well as happy little lady who sits beside him.

They both wonder how Alfred Crosby traced her, but it is not till long afterward that they learn.

Philip Carrick means to forget the girl who has treated his love so coldly, but to resolve is one thing, and to forget another. He devotes himself to his profession, but hard work produces weariness, not forgetfulness.

And Orna—her heart fails her when she remembers her systematic coldness toward one to whom she finds she has given her love, without any premeditation on her part. Society welcomes her back with open arms, and open siege is made for the capture of her heart; but it is useless.

One day a letter is brought to her, and she hesitates before opening the thick, creamy envelope. Having done so, she reads:

"DEAR MISS HOLME—Perhaps it is not wise for me to write you this letter. But what does it matter? Why should I try to conceal that which you already know? I love you. I learned the lesson in those beautiful days I spent in your society at Stony Point, and the lesson is one I shall never forget. I have tried hard to forget you, for you never gave me the least encouragement; but, my darling, if you will let me try to win your love, with the hope that some day I may be successful, I shall be perfectly happy, for life holds for me no greater blessing than the hope of some time making you my wife. May I come to you? If I see you sometimes I will be patient, and wait until you are willing to hear all that I would say. I shall count the hours until your answer reaches me, and my love, if you can truthfully give me a little word of hope, will you not do so?"

—PHILIP CARRICK.

Orna shed happy tears over this letter; she thought he had forgotten her, and has been teaching herself to give him up, knowing that it is her own fault that she has lost his love. Had she been less bitter and cold he would have spoken before he parted. His letter is like a cup of water held to thirsty lips. Fearful of betraying how much she cares for him, she writes briefly:

"You may come. I could not forget you. ORNA."

Two days later Miss Holme goes down to the drawing-room to meet Mr. Carrick. He said in his letter that he would be patient and wait, but a man's love is never patient, and he has waited too long already. Perhaps something in the sweet face as she gives him her hand tells that he need wait no longer, for he looks down into her eyes and says gravely without preface, "Will you be my wife?"

And at last she yields, a prisoner of love.

The Beauties of the System.

A fire broke out near the Government wharf in Detroit and the officer in charge called a tug, which put out the fire. The bill was sent to Washington and payment refused because the officer did not advertise for sealed proposals to put out the fire and have it done by the lowest bidder. When another fire breaks out in Government property that officer will put an advertisement in the papers asking for the lowest bidder to put it out. That is red tape.—Pitt's Sun.

It Wouldn't Be Funny.

"Wouldn't it be funny if ma should happen in on us to-day, George? She does things that way."

"I don't know with you."

"Why, G. you know ma never does things that way."

"Yes, but it wouldn't be funny."

—Tid-Bits.

PITH AND POINT.

A CELEBRATED CASE—Sweetzer.

"DO BIRDS fly down?" Possibly; but a shot sometimes makes the down fly.

PAT hit it about right when he spoke of the church sociable as "so-shyable."

"THERE'S plenty of room at the top," as the champagne remarked when it flew to the dude's head.

SOME claim that the pulley is the oldest mechanical invention, but probably the crowbar has a pryer claim.

"I WOULDN'T be a fool, if I were you," said Jones to a friend. "If you were me you wouldn't be a fool," was the reply.

A CORRESPONDENT says that "$50,000 in New York don't go very far." It frequently goes as far as Canada, anyway.

In a bookseller's catalogue lately appeared the following article: "Memoirs of Charles the First—with a head capably executed."

TENNYSON says: "Whatever you do, my boy, begin at the bottom and work up." "But, father, suppose I were going to dig a well?"

WASHINGTON IRVING BISHOP is an expert in finding hidden things. We defy him to find an editor's blotting paper when the editor wants it.

"SOMEBODY ought to give a donkey party," says the Merry War. This is always the way. When a man gets black-balled in a club he wants to form one of his own.

SERVANT—Boss, dars a man at de doah wid a bill. Mr. Henpeck—You know Mrs. Henpeck has gone out, and she always takes all the money with her. I haven't got a cent. "What shall I tell him boss?" "Tell him that the boss is not in."—Texas Siftings.

THEY COULD NOT MARRY.

The man I marry must have wealth,
Said she.
The girl I marry must have health,
Said he.
He had no wealth. His earnings he did waste
At night.
She had no health because her waist she laced
Too tight.

—Boston Courier.

"I DON'T see how you get so much news into your paper," said the village clergyman to the village editor, "seeing that you have no local reporter." "Oh! that's easily explained," replied the editor. "My wife belongs to three sewing societies in the village, and she has an excellent memory."—Boston Courier.

MAINE lumberman say that caribou grow scarcer with every succeeding year, the deer driving them toward the headwaters of the St. John and other rivers. The reason given is that the caribou do not yard, while the deer do, taking the "browse" so clean that the caribou find little to their liking left.

—Boston Record.

"I SAY, Dunley," remarked Robinson, with some indignation, "I hear you have reported it about that I owe you money." "You have owed me $20 for several years." "That may be, but I don't owe you anything now. That $20 debt became outlawed the first of the year. You ought not to spread damaging reports about a man," continued the still indignant Robinson.—Chicago Ledger.

A CHRISTIAN clergyman once went to an orthodox synagogue with a Jewish friend. He listened to a congregation chanting "Mismar L'David" with the usual congregational discord, and was told by his Jewish friend that it was sung to the same tune in the days of David. "Ah!" said the clergyman, with a sigh of relief, "that accounts for it. I have often wondered why Saul threw his javelin at David."

I HAVE pasted up in my office two signs which were taken from a courtroom in the Northern part of Wyoming Territory, and read: "No cracking peanuts in this courtroom," and "Lawyers are not allowed to kiss the baby during court hours." This latter, being translated, means they are not allowed to take a drink. Then I saw one in a courtroom in a town on Lake Superior which read: "This court adjourned at 2:30—the court is going to the dance at H—." The dance was held in a camp about six miles back of the town.—Buffalo Courier.

In Germany the microphone is now used for tracing leaks in water-pipes, the slightest trickling of the water being made distinctly audible when the apparatus is brought near it.

The child of shunder is never born toothless.

THE DOG AND THE THIEVES.

A Sagacious Animal's Frequent Efforts to Warn His Master of Danger.

A friend residing on Staten Island, whom I was in the habit of frequently visiting, had a very handsome Irish setter, says a writer in the Brooklyn Eagle. During the month of December, about five or six years ago, the dog manifested an unusual degree of restlessness. He had been permitted to run at large in the garden, and, until the time in question, seemed satisfied with this measure of liberty. But on Sunday morning he showed a strong desire to follow his master and mistress out at a gate as they were leaving to go to church. They drove him back, and instead of receiving the repulse kindly, he protested in a series of piteous howls. In the afternoon his master took him for a stroll, greatly to the delight and satisfaction of the animal. Their way skirted an uninclosed lot about 300 feet distant, in which stood a deserted frame shanty. Bruno, when they came opposite it, darted off and ran round and round the building, pausing at intervals and gazing toward his master, who took no particular notice of his actions and continued the walk. After that the dog followed reluctantly and would from time to time turn back, as if it was his intention to retrace his steps. These peculiar movements my friend recalled subsequently, although they did not excite his curiosity at the time. On Monday and Tuesday ensuing he betrayed the same eagerness to get out and attempted to follow when any member of the family left the premises. On Wednesday I was a visitor at the house. In the afternoon my friend and I went out together, accompanied by the dog. He acted, on passing the uninclosed lot, just as he had done three days before. His efforts to attract our attention were so marked that I humored him by walking across the lot. He led me directly up to the shanty, and then ran around it with his nose close to the ground several times. I could discover no reason for his singular maneuvers, and, attributing them to some idle freak, rejoined my friend and thought no more of Bruno and his eccentricity. Nevertheless the sagacious animal was wiser than either of us, although to our dullness his dumb show of knowledge had no significance. On Saturday night following, my friend's house was broken into by burglars and about $2,000 worth of property carried off.

But what connection had the burglary with the dog's pertinacious visits to the shanty? The police discovered it in less than thirty minutes after their examination of the premises. A narrow lane ran back of the garden from a side street to the open lot where the shanty stood. The burglars had made their approach by way of this lane. Footprints in the wet snow were clearly visible. The officers traced these prints back to the north side of the shanty, and there the secret of the dog's curious behavior was disclosed. A few feet underneath the building was a kit of burglar's tools, which had been stored there in preparation for the robbery, and which the burglars, in the hurry of their flight, had not had time to carry off. A jimmie and pair of false keys lay close to the hole and revealed the exact spot where the kit had been hidden.

The question of interest suggested by this remarkable case is: How did the dog know there was something concealed there for an improper purpose. That he had such knowledge there is not the slightest doubt. There is no other way to explain his eagerness to draw his master's attention to it. Moreover, this very eagerness raises a presumption in favor of the belief that the animal not only had a sense of the unlawful character of the enterprise, but a consciousness that it threatened the interests of his master.

A Glowing Tribute.

A paper published in a rural district pays the following tribute to a lady who has died in the vicinity:

"She was a good lady, and one which to know was to admire, for the noble feminine qualities of her nature. We long enjoyed her personal acquaintance, she being a subscriber and a warm admirer of this paper. Her fame went beyond the narrow precincts of our own town, she having won the first premium three time hand-running on her butter at our county fare, and twice honorably carried off the blue ribbon on a log-cabin quilt. Other qualities than these made her a citizen whose loss will be felt by our community. She long enjoyed the distinction of being the fastest quilter in the country, Mrs. Jane H., wife of our highly esteemed fellow-townsmen, William H. H. (also one of our most valued subscribers) coming in as second-best. May she requiescat, as the psalmist puts it."—Tid-Bits.

Chilblains.

Chilblains are most common on persons of a feeble constitution and languid circulation. A rheumatic tendency is also thought to occasion a greater liability. They are brought on by the exposure of a part, usually the foot, to such a degree of cold as thoroughly to chill without actually freezing it, followed usually by the application of external heat before the circulation has been fully restored.

The usual symptoms are heat, redness and swelling, with a burning and stinging sensation, accompanied by intense itching. In severe cases there may be formation of vesicles, and sometimes actual ulceration.

Persons subject to chilblains should exercise great care to avoid prolonged exposure to cold and dampness, and when so exposed should protect themselves by wearing warm shoes and woolen stockings, and warm coverings on the hands and exposed parts of the face. Cold and wet feet should be carefully dried and rubbed with a flannel cloth, coarse towel, or flesh brush. Care should be taken not to rub them so harshly as to break the skin. Snow and ice-water is sometimes used with advantage to rub upon the parts, after which they should be dried and wrapped in flannel.

But the most important rule of all is to avoid any sudden approach to the fire after being exposed to the cold, as this is a most fruitful cause of chilblains. Indeed, there is little danger of chilblains if this is avoided, and the chilled parts are warmed slowly by a gradual restoration of the circulation, rather than by direct external heat.

To relieve the distressing burning and itching, and restore the affected parts to their normal condition, various stimulating and astringent applications may be used. There is none better than the common tincture of iodine, applied with a brush or feather, once or twice a day. If the feet are the parts affected, and there is much swelling and smarting, they may occasionally be soaked in hot water to advantage; but this should not be done too frequently, and only on going to bed at night.—Portland Transcript.

The One-Horse Farmer.

The one-horse farmer has a life-long ambition to gain a reputation for wearing a dirty shirt.

He will alarm the neighborhood by getting up two hours before day, then set around and not go to work till after sun-up.

He will complain of hard times, then tear his pants climbing a fence where a gate ought to be.

He will pay $3 for a new bridle, then let the calf chew it all to pieces before Sunday.

He will get all his neighbors to help in getting a cow out of the bog, then let her die for the want of attention.

Stock will get in and destroy his crop at a place in his fence that he has been putting off fixing for six months.

He will sprain his back lifting something to show how strong he is.

He will talk all day Sunday on what he knows about farming, then ride round the neighborhood Monday, hunting seed potatoes.

He will go in his shirt sleeves on a cold day, to show how much he can stand, then return home at night and occupy two-thirds of the fire-place till bed time.

He will ridicule the mechanism of a cotton planter and then go out and mash his thumb nailing a board on the fence.

He will go to town on Saturday and come back with 50 cents worth of coffee, a paper of pins, a dollar's worth of chewing tobacco and his belly full of whisky.

He is economical; economy is his forte; he will save 10 cents' worth of axle grease and ruin the spindle of a $70 wagon.

He won't subscribe for a newspaper but will borrow one from his friend and forget to return it.—Navasota Taebit.

No METAPHYSICIAN ever felt the deficiency of language so much as the grateful.—Colton.

BENSON'S CAPSICINE POROUS PLASTER

Highest Awards of Medals in Europe and America.

The nearest, quickest, safest and most powerful remedy known for Rheumatism, Pleurisy, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Backache, Wounds, Colic, Gout, and all aches and pains. Indorsed by 5000 Physicians and Druggists of the highest repute. Benson's Plasters promptly relieve and cure where other plasters and greasy salves, liniments and lotions, are absolutely useless. Beware of imitations under similar sounding names, such as "Vanadium," "Capucin," "Capicine," as they are utterly worthless and intended to deceive. Ask for BENSON'S and TAKE NO OTHERS. All drug stores, NEARBY & JOHNSON, Proprietors, New York.

Cheap Homes in north-western KANSAS INVESTMENTS. Profitable. Safe. For information write Mickey Bros. 111 Broadway, New York.

RUPTURE If you want relief and cure at your home, send for Dr. J. A. Sherman's circular of instructions. 231 Broadway, New York.

HARTER'S IRON TONIC

THE ONLY TRUE
Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and restore the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only add to its popularity. Do not experiment—get ORIGINAL and BEST.
(Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Bile Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)
THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

MONEY MADE FAST in Gopher stocks, and new town lots. Security guaranteed. Maps, etc., H. F. Kink & Co., Milwaukee Wis.
LADY AGENTS—Article new, sells fast. No money to invest. Address, R. P. LICKES, St. Louisville, O.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RY

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest—is the only true middle-link in that transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Danforth, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodations is unequalled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

ALL EXPRESS TRAINS between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of comfortable DAY COACHES, magnificent PULLMAN PALACE PARLOR and SLEEPING CARS, elegant DINING CARS providing excellent meals, and—between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—restful RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains run daily to the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The rich wheat fields and grazing lands of interior Dakota are reached via Watertown.

A short desirable route, via Seneca and Kankakee, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points.

All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employees of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly attention.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders—obtainable at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada—or any desired information, address,

R. R. CABLE, Pres't & Gen'l Mgr, Chicago. E. ST. JOHN, Asst Gen'l Mgr, Chicago. E. A. HOLBROOK, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt., Chicago.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND

SLICKER

Is The Best Waterproof Coat Ever Made.

None genuine unless stamped with the above TRADE MARK. Don't waste your money on a gum or rubber coat. The FISH BRAND SLICKER is absolutely water and wind proof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. Ask for the "FISH BRAND" and you can't take another. If your storekeeper does not have the "FISH BRAND", send for descriptive catalogue to A. J. TOWER, 29 Simmons St., Boston, Mass.

Why did the Women

of this country use over thirteen million cakes of Procter & Gamble's Lenox Soap in 1886?

Buy a cake of Lenox and you will soon understand why.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

One Year, in advance ..... $0.75
Six Months ..... 50
Three Months ..... 25

Entered at the Post Office at St. Joe as second-class matter.

FRIDAY APRIL 8, 1887.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

PLEASANT HILL.

Hard weather on wheat.

Samuel Widney is not much better at this writing.

Uncle Daniel Reasoner was down to his farm on Tuesday.

Morris Widney of Auburn, called to see his sick brother Sunday.

Jerry Ulms and wife were the guests of Charley Jackson and wife last Sunday.

Holly Jackson commenced work last Monday for Warren Webster, six miles north-east of Newville.

We understand there was quite a contest between Lige and Hen last Saturday night as to which should hear the bobolink sing.

The school house is to be moved this summer, one mile west of where it now stands, which will make it nearer the center of the district.

NEWVILLE CENTER.

Next Sunday is Easter.

Orland Hatch has moved to Newville.

Jim Decker, of Edgerton, purchased some fine horses at this place.

We suppose that Arthur will walk up like a little man and pay that dollar.

Sugar making is over, for Grandma and Mandy have brought in their sap pails.

Jacob Presler has gone to North Baltimore to purchase some fine poultry.

Jerry Andrews has eighteen acres of oats sowed. He talks of sowing fifty-six acres.

Arthur Platter will move in the house formerly occupied by Orland Hatch on the Johnson place.

Tim Redanner had ten bushels of potatoes stolen last week. Tim says the thief had better bring them back.

Jacob Presler is engaged in raising poultry this summer. Jake understands how to make the hens fruit.

If any one finds a number 13 over shoe, men's size, between Newville and Moorsville, they will please leave it at the parsonage in Newville, and receive a reward.

COBURN TOWN.

Miss Ida Scholes commenced her school at the south school house last Monday.

The Sunday school at the Corners opened last Sunday with a large attendance.

Some of our ditchers are likely to get into trouble, by not working up to specifications.

John Milliman has moved into Wm. Monroe's house, lately vacated by Samuel Emory.

Mrs. Flora Testison was able to be at meeting last Sunday, for the first time in many months. All were glad to see her out again.

We have examined "Barcus" No. 4, and still we are in the fog, as we followed his instructions to the letter.

Now Mr. "Pigeon's Retreat," if you don't like our style, what are you going to do about it?

Romeo Headley will farm his mother's place this season. His sister Lucy, the late Mrs. Koch, will keep house for him.

Now let everybody size up their pile, and see how poor they are. Uncle Mose is noseing around again, to see how much you are worth.

B. A. Hadsell is tearing the old Richmond farm all into "splitterink-teeruns." Some of you St. Joe "fellers" look over this way some morning before daylight and see the dirt fly.

SPENCERVILLE.

The new store is nearly ready for business.

Hi Houk will erect a Menarch wind engine soon.

Dan Bair is erecting an addition to his store.

Our post office will be put on wheels shortly.

Our fishermen have been catching some nice pike lately.

Mrs. Sam Wasson is dangerously sick, and not expected to live.

Willis Carey will teach the young ideas how to shoot at McCauley's.

Mrs. R. Chaney pleasantly entertained several young ladies last Friday afternoon.

Walter Horn and family have been visiting at Mrs. Sam. Shutt's during the past week.

A large crowd of young people were entertained at Mrs. Dan Butler's one evening last week.

Scott and Chaney will build a fine dwelling for William Carl near Black Creek church.

The Lutheran Sunday school will give an Easter exercise at the church next Sabbath evening.

The Great American Heron killed by John Hobaugh, has been nicely mounted and is now on exhibition at the gallery.

The sneak thief that broke the glass and stole a watch from Arthur James' window, must be the same fellow that stole the retouching pencil and comb from the gallery.

While the editor of the Owl was attending to his official duties in Indianapolis his bird escaped, but was recovered again by the assistance of a good many men and three guns. The owl came to an untimely death back of J. A's barn.

CONCORD.

Richard Ervin continues to improve in health, but very slowly.

Mrs. Roberts of Butler, was entertained by Mrs. Joseph Koch last Saturday.

Mr. Isaac Meese is doing some good work on our roads, with the new road scraper.

Henry Melton purchased a yoke of oxen of J. B. White, and will hereafter do his own farming.

How does it happen that Jim Ervin and Mart Hull are so intimate? O! Mart has a sister that Jim goes to see.

Last Saturday afternoon Misses Sarah and Laura Lehman and Belle Hildebrand visited with Mrs. Florence Buchanan.

Lew Howey has taken up his abode with G. W. Draggoo and family, and expects to remain during the spring and summer months.

Jim Wyatt thinks that if being a member of one church makes a person good, that to be a member of two or more at the same time will make them better.

It is rumored that we had a wedding in our midst last Tuesday. Wedding or no wedding, the boys gathered together and Wade(d) into the belling, and played Sherman's march to the sea quite lively for the benefit of the groom.

There is great rejoicing at C. A. Jenkins mansion, over the advent of a fine baby boy. Alotha continues to be the prettiest girl her mother has.

Some of the debaters are becoming alarmed for James Smith, lest he shall have a crippled back, because of the position he assumes in debating.

Last Tuesday a wagon load of ladies, married and single, visited with Mrs. Plattner and daughters, near Butler. They report a very pleasant visit.

We noticed several strangers in the congregation last Sabbath, and they seemed to be giving good attention to the very excellent sermon delivered by our worthy pastor.

"Have you heard the news?" "No, what is it?" "Charley Knight's have one of the nicest little baby girls at their house." "Mort Olds will get to sell some more safty pins, won't he?"

Belle says she wants it understood that the Pigeon Retreat correspondent will not get to see her and Lawrence if they do sit on the front porch during the summer evening, for she is going to train morning glory vines so thickly around that porch, that no one can see through them.

Mr. Sechler made an effort last Saturday evening to organize a singing school at the church, but there not being finances enough raised to justify him in beginning, he gave it up. We know that it is needed badly enough in our midst and do not see why some one should not succeed.

F. Buchanan said that last Friday afternoon he saw Mort Olds and—no, we won't be personal—we mean a buggy full of folks, (some five or six) going towards Auburn, and one of them acted as if he was going crazy, and he supposed they were taking some one over to Auburn to be sent to the insane asylum.

It is beyond our comprehension why one of our young men should go way over to Coburntown to see a girl, when we have so many fair maids in our midst. Nevertheless, such is the case, for the young man was seen wending his way south last Saturday evening about five o'clock, until he reached the railroad and then across the river to Coburntown. Monday morning he was seen coming back looking tired and sleepy, but when he reached the school house of district No. 4, he endeavored to assume an air of cheerfulness, and go through the routine of teaching those under his jurisdiction. We should think her mother would scold(ed) her for staying up so late at (K)night.

Yesbera, the tailor of Auburn, is making some pobby suits this spring.

We done a job of printing for Charlie Grubb of Maysville, this week.

Miss Lizzie Evans returned last Saturday from a few weeks visit with friends at Angola. We understand that she expects to remain at home this summer and teach a class in music.

We overheard Ben Hamilton and Wash Hart talking about making maple syrup one day last week. They said they had been freshening trees, and we found out the way they done it, was to climb up a tree and pore a bucket of water down, and let it run down the tree into the bucket again, and then boil it down into maple syrup. That's the way they freshen trees, you know? We caught on that time.

M. TUSTISON,
DEALER IN

GROCERIES,

EARTHEN POTS FOR HOUSE PLANTS

PROVISIONS, OYSTERS, LEMONS

ORANGES, CANDIES, CIGARS &c.

MAIN ST. - - - ST. JOE, IND.

WILLIAM CURIE,

PROPRIETOR OF

MEAT MARKET

ST. JOE, IND.

Highest market price paid for Hides,
Tallow &c. Give me a call.

J. F. WALKER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

Harness, Collars,

WHIPS, HARNESS OIL &c.

ST. JOE, IND.

Repairing done promptly. I don't allow as the lowest. Call and see.

A. KINSEY,

DEALER IN

FURNITURE

BUREAUS, TABLES,

Lounges, Beds, Chairs &c.

MAIN STREET, ST. JOE, IND.

All styles of Parlor Goods furnished to order at low prices. Thanking you for past patrons I solicit your future patronage.

F. A. ZEIGLER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

HARNESS,

COLLARS,

WHIPS,

FLY NETS,

DUSTERS,

OILS &c.

St. Joe, Ind.

Prices the Lowest. All work guaranteed. Call and see me.

R. G. COBURN,

AGENT FOR THE

ALBION SPRING TOOTH Cultivator

AND FIELD HARROW,

AND DAISY RAKE.

—000—

Farmers will save money by seeing me before buying. I will call on you with a sample in a few days.
R. G. Coburn, St. Joe, Ind.

Business Notices.

H. W. BOWMAN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Office opposite the Drugstore.

ST. JOE HOTEL, Wm. Leighty, proprietor. Special attention given to furnishing teams for commercial men.

B. S. SIEFFER, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to his care.

ST. JOE BARBER SHOP, one door west of hotel, Will Geo. proprietor. Satisfaction guaranteed. Your patronage is solicited.

FULEY, LOUNSBERRY AND SHULER, proprietors of the St. Joe Saw and Planing Mill. All work promptly done. Cash paid for Oak Logs.

CITY BARBER SHOP, St. Joe, Ind.; John Hall, proprietor. Shaving, Hair Cutting &c. done in the best of style. Come and see us. Two doors west of Kinsey's Furniture Store.

SEMON WINELAND, proprietor St. Joe Handle, Shingle and Feed mill. Feed grinding a specialty. Highest prices paid for second growth White Ash. Enquire at the mill for full particulars.

LOCALS.

Read R. G. Coburn's new "ad" in another column.

W. C. Pfitter-on had business at Hicksville yesterday.

Wash Woodcox expects to take a trip west next week.

You can expect better weather after Easter, if you want to.

Clarence Widney is confined to the house on account of sickness.

Frank Barney was at Chicago last Monday, laying in a supply of new goods.

Barnes Bros & Son will open up a new stock of goods at Spencerville this week.

We invite your attention to our spring stock of clothing, which arrived this week.

John Leighty is at home on his Easter vacation. He will return to school Monday.

Yesbema, the fashionable tailor, has the finest line of piece goods ever shown in Auburn.

John P. Widney, wife and daughter Cora, are visiting old friends in this neighborhood.

Miss Addie Widney commenced teaching her first term of school this week, at the Carr school house.

There was over three hundred dollars worth of tickets sold at this station, during the month of March.

There will be an Easter service in the Lutheran church next Sunday evening, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Fryberger. All are cordially invited to attend.

Frank Draggoo and wife have gone to Frankfort, Ind., where they expect to remain for several months. Frank will make several deliveries of fruit trees in that vicinity.

Misses Violet Barney, Maud Langley and May Leighty, who have been quite sick with scarlet fever, are all improving. There are no new cases, and it is thought that there will be no further spread of the disease.

Rev. Langley will preach at the Methodist church Sunday morning.

Yesbema of Auburn has fits; that is, he fits people with fine tailor made clothing.

Rev. Thomas did not fill his appointment here last Sabbath evening, on account of sickness.

The first day of April passed off rather foolishly. There was about the usual number of fools.

Some correspondence was received to late for publication last week. Send it in by Wednesday, sure pop.

Persons who think of buying a carpet this spring, should call at J. D. Leighty's and see his fine line of samples.

O. H. Widney went over to the poor farm Monday. It will tickle the Dispatch man to know that "Hold-over" has finally landed at the poor house.

We understand that Charlie and Frank Meek are closing out their business at Avilla, and hereafter they will engage in buying and shipping produce.

The contract for doing the brick work on the new church at Spencerville, has been let to Weis & Callender. The other work will be let to home parties.

Walter Horn made us a pleasant call last Friday. He has sold his farm near Cedarville, and he and his family will spend the summer in Minnesota, with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shutt.

An exchange says that a doctor in Detroit successfully amputated a man's tongue a few days ago. It does seem pretty tough for a man to lose his tongue, but just imagine what a woman would do with her tongue sawed off close up. Whew!

We see by the Hicksville News that Wash Hart expects to get out 300,000 rubicund parallelopipeds. What stumps us is to know what Wash is going to do with all them parallelopipeds when he gets them out. They will eat him out of house and home in a short time.

The following slick scheme is being worked in different parts of the country by a set of sharpers. They watch the papers for the advertisements of stray stock that has been taken up. When the notice is given one of the gang goes to the farmer, makes an examination of the stock, but pretends to be sorry that it is not his. He then gives his partner a minute description of the animal, who calls on the farmer, gives a correct description and is ready to take the animal. Before going, he will say that he does not need the stock and will sell it cheap; offers it at a low figure; the farmer buys it and the swindler disappears. In a short time the rightful owner comes along, claims his property and then the farmer realizes that he has been robbed.

"Allan Quartermain; or A Frowning City," the new story by the author of "She," increases in interest in DEMOREST'S MONTHLY for April, and promises to rival its predecessor in wonderful adventure. Enterprise is shown on every page of this Family Magazine. Not only are the best authors secured, but selections are made, so as to make up a Magazine giving information upon every point relative to the household. A lady possessing its valuable aid does not even have to buy her dress patterns for herself and children, as they are furnished free, and in any size required. The small subscription price ($2) saves hundreds of dollars in waste and worry, and furnishes reading matter that interests the whole family. Published by W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, 17 East 15th Street, New York.

J. H. CONRAD,

DEALER IN

ROOFING AND SPOUTING

GUTTERING, HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS,

Cutlery, Nails, Paints, Woodenware &c.

MAIN STREET,

ST. JOE IND.

All work and goods guaranteed to give satisfaction. Give me

AT THE

St. Joe

DRUG

STORE.

White-wash Brushes.
Kalsomine Brushes.
Paint and Wall Brushes.
Artist's Brushes.
Marking Brushes.
Shoe and Hair Brushes.
Tooth and Clothes Brushes.

AT THE

St. Joe

DRUG

STORE.

A. KINSEY.

Undertaker and Embalmer. Keeps on hand constantly, a stock of Undertaking Supplies, Coffins, Caskets, Burial Robes &c. I can supply as fine goods as can be furnished. Will attend to making all arrangements for funerals. Calls responded to at all hours of the night. Office on corner of Main and Second Streets; residence on corner of Main and Fourth Streets, St. Joe, Ind.

ST. JOE MARKET.
CORRECTED EVERY FRIDAY.

Wheat	77 cts.
Oats	29 cts.
Corn	40 cts.
Butter	15 cts.
Eggs	10 cts.
Tallow	31 cts.
Lard	10 cts.
Potatoes	10 cts.
Smoked Hams	10 cts.
Shoulders and Side Meat	8 cts.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

WEST BOUND.

No. 9 Mail and Express	11:10 A. M.
3 Chicago Express	10:43 P. M.
35 Local Freight	3:53 P. M.

EAST BOUND.

No. 10 Express and Mail	2:08 P. M.
1 Morning Express	2:57 A. M.
34 Local Freight	8:00 A. M.

H. K. REYNOLDS, AGENT.

Wes Hart is shipping a car load of brick to Garrett.

We have some of the finest clothing ever shown in St. Joe.

There seems to be quite a good deal of sickness in this vicinity.

Barney Woodcox sold his baby carriage last week. That settles it.

We were mistaken in saying that Jake Gilhausan and Al Evans had presented the Methodist church at this place with a handsome clock. It was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Jake Gilhausan.

There is a young man near Hicksville who has called on his best girl two hundred and forty times inside of two months, and the result is the young lady is seriously ill. We should think she would be sick; it's a wonder if she don't die. We have heard of boys going to see their girls eight nights out of a week, but when it comes to going four times a day, it is enough to make anybody sick.

HOUSE PAINTING, and Glazing Paper Hanging.

Ceiling Decorating a specialty. Work guaranteed. B. A. W. Call and see me, or write to the St. Joe Drugstore.

STAR WIND PUMP, E. A. W.

Manufacturer, agent, Newville. Farmers who think of buying should give me a call before so. The Star Mill is the best price the lowest.

There are lots of funny things in this world, and for sure or another we most awlways have had happens in this immediate hood about as sure as the sun. We heard a pretty good story of a prosperous farmer near Conks station on the b and o railroad. The kars don't stop, Mr. kannon has awlways kousidered himself a crack shot, with a gun, in fact I have heard that he is the only one in that neighborhood that can put the wonderfool feet of hitting the brode side of a barn at a distance of 22 feet and a half. Sun time Mr. Buhannon wanted to kill a fur for his own use, so he got down a faithful old rifle and went out where the beef was and cornered it up, an blazed away. When the smoke had cleared away he found that he had missed the whole busines and the beef was standing ther chawing just as if nothing had happened. He loded up and tried it again, but he eud'nt hit it; finally after several trials he got the muzzle of his gun rite up close to the animals hed an fired, an if he didnt hit it, he skart it to death, for it died rite ther and ther.

Barnes O. Hippenhammer.

Trade off your dog; the assessor is on the tramp.

Russ Kopp is getting material on the ground for building an addition to his house.

The Courier scribe from this place called us a naughty name last week, but he done it according to scripture, and therefore we say, amen!

WOMEN WHO WORK.

A SERIOUS SOCIAL PROBLEM SERIOUSLY CONSIDERED.

The Women Who Slave from Morning to Night and the Methods for Improving Their Condition.

There are in the United States 2,647,157 women who earn their own living. Of this number 2,242,252 are laborers (mainly agricultural), mill operatives, seamstresses, domestic servants and teachers—all of them, except the last, menial and poorly paid employments, and the last is poorly paid when the teachers are women.

With the above statistics Ida M. Van Etten opens an article in the last number of the North American Review. Continuing, she points out that we thus find a social condition which obliges nearly 3,000,000 women to depend upon their own exertions for a livelihood, and offers them a field of labor so circumscribed as to afford employment for not more than one-tenth of the number. Enormous overcrowding, fierce competition, and a consequent undue pressure of wages necessarily follow.

MERE HUMAN MACHINES.

The number of mill operatives, which is given at 152,163, includes only those engaged in the textile manufactures; but the number engaged in other manufacturing would greatly swell these figures. For instance, about 20,000 women and girls are cigarmakers. More than 21,000 work in the boot and shoe factories, where they do the meaner sort of work—binding, sewing on buttons, etc., and are very poorly paid. There is, moreover, no chance of advancement, as the work requires only a certain amount of manual dexterity, which is readily acquired by a child, and thus the wages of the woman are kept at the level of those of a child. Experience and trustworthiness count for naught. "Nothing," says the writer, "is more effectual in producing abjectness of character, and deadening the moral and intellectual nature, than a mean, servile condition which holds out no hope of change or improvement, and in which the compensation is insufficient to afford the means of comfortable living."

THE OPPRESSION OF THE WEAK.

Notwithstanding these apparent drawbacks, the fact remains that 45 per cent. of the employees in many manufacturing enterprises are women. That they are in reality mere beasts of burden—part of the machinery—does not deter them from seeking such employment. Carroll D. Wright, United States Commissioner of Labor, calls attention to the fact that in all departments where men only are employed the hours of labor are but ten, but where the women and children preponderate the hours are eleven or more, and asks why it is that the weakest, the most helpless and dependent, are loaded with more hours, while the strong and those better able to bear it have fewer hours to work? This is a question that has bothered many a head, and has been vainly asked over and over again. Ways and means looking to a betterment of the condition of the workingwomen have been discussed; a few of them have assumed tangible shape and have been followed by satisfactory results. These are mainly clubs which look to the amelioration of the social condition of mill operatives, seamstresses and shop-girls, and to bureaus of employment and information. These are excellent in their way, but have no effect in relieving the overcrowded avenues of labor open to women or in protecting them from the demands for excessive hours so often imposed.

METHODS FOR A CURE.

As a remedy for this system of oppression the writer in the Review, to whom we have referred, suggests that the workingwomen organize trade-unions to determine the hours and wages on the same plan that the trade-unions for men are now carried on. This might, it is true, better their condition in a measure, but the system is beset with difficulties that I fear would be more wearing and tearing to the average woman than the toiling and scrimping that she now endures. The kind of organization that would do away with child-labor in the factories would be more to the point. It would make room for more women and would undoubtedly raise their wages to the level of women's work.

WHERE ORGANIZATION MAY DO GOOD.

But sad as is the condition of female operatives in the mills, that of the women who fight the wolf from the door with the point of a needle is infinitely worse. For them there are no hours, no Sundays, absolutely no time for recreation. I do not refer to the skilled dress-makers, or the accomplished seamstresses who fashion dainty wear for fashion's favorites, but to the sewing-woman who makes a heavy pair of workingman's trousers for 7 cents, or a shirt for 6 or 8 cents. It is easy to see that these poor creatures can hardly find time to eat or sleep, much less for recreation. It is only by unceasing labor, twelve or fifteen hours a day, and seven days in the week, that they are able to ward off starvation and keep the life in their wretched bodies at all. And the condition of the cloakmakers and those who make women's underclothing is not much better. Comparatively few women nowadays have their underwear made at home. After buying the materials scarcely anything is left to pay for the making; they find it much cheaper and quite as satisfactory to buy these garments ready-made. But it is clear that they are cheapened by the heart's blood of the sewing-woman who make them, and not by pecuniary loss to the merchant who sells them. These are hard facts, but they are apparent. Cloakmakers are slightly better off, for their work calls for experience, taste, and skill; but they are wretchedly paid for all that. For this class of workingwomen thorough organization might do much.

A BETTER REMEDY STILL.

But there is another way out of the difficulty—a way that requires no system of organization or concerted action. Every workingwoman has the matter in her own hands. There is a constant and ever-increasing demand for domestic servants. The cry of their scarcity and incompetency is heard on every hand. It is folly to say that this branch of employment is overcrowded, although nearly 1,000,000 women in the United States are household workers. We need more and we need better servants. The newly-landed immigrant who has probably worked in the fields all her life, does not fill the bill. We want intelligent women in our houses who, if they do not know how already, are capable of learning how to perform household work acceptably, and at no great outlay of time and experience.

POSITIONS OF LEISURE AND PROFIT.

The talk about domestic service and curtailing the privileges of the worker is all sheer nonsense. In all well-regulated households the maid has her weekly afternoon and evening out and her alternate Sunday. In almost every house these regular outings are supplemented by others, so that her life is far from being the life of a prisoner, and infinitely more free than that of the sewing-woman, who must make the most of every available moment or starve. Mistresses are generally kind and considerate if maids be cheerful and willing. Moreover, household work is healthful; it offers a diversity that is of itself a relaxation to mind and body; and, finally, it is better paid than any other branch of labor open to uneducated workingwomen. Indeed, it is doubtful if many of the female teachers can save as much money as the domestic worker in the course of the year.

The Book-Keeper Swore.

The head of a firm, whose office is within six blocks of the Treasury building, is a very good and pious man, and the head book-keeper, who is called Sam for short, is also a church member. One day Sam and the chief were in the office alone, and Sam was wrestling with an account which persisted in not coming out as he wanted it to. Finally he became so provoked that he slapped the ledger shut and vindictively muttered: "D—n the thing." The chief was so shocked at first as to be speechless, and he gazed at Sam in horror. Then he spoke.

"Samuel," he said, slowly and firmly, "shut the office door and lock it."

Samuel obeyed, and returned to his desk, wondering what was going to happen.

"Samuel," continued the chief, "let us pray."

Then the door was opened and business was again resumed.—Washington Critic.

A MATERIAL called "featherbone," prepared from the quills of geese and turkeys, is said to be largely taking the place of whalebone for many purposes.

Shipping Kegs of Gold.

The process of shipping gold across the ocean is thus described by the Boston Commercial Bulletin:

Each keg contains $50,000 in clear gold. It is from the Bank of America at New York that most of the gold is shipped from that city. The foreign steamships sailing from this city now carry little or no gold, although the reverse was the case years ago.

The shipments of gold are not generally on the bank's account. At a first glance persons might well suppose that when the demand arises for gold to send abroad the shipper would only have to send in his order for his hundreds of thousands to the sub-treasury, where millions of specie are on deposit. But there are sufficient reasons why this plan will not work. The sub-treasury can pay out its coin only to creditors of the government. With the Bank of America the associated banks keep on deposit constantly an enormous sum of gold, sometimes amounting to $40,000,000. To the members of the bank association the Bank of America issues its own certificates against these deposits redeemable on demand. So when there is occasion for making a gold shipment, the coin is prepared for that purpose in the rear office of that bank; here it is bagged and kegged and made ready for shipment.

Kegs in which gold is packed—"specie kegs," as they are called—are made of extra hard wood. They must have an extra iron hoop. Specie is not thrown loosely into a keg; nor, upon the other hand, is it carefully wrapped in tissue paper and piled up one coin upon another. The keg serves only as a protection for canvas bags, into which the gold is placed in the ordinary hit-and-miss fashion of pennies in a man's pocket. Into each bag goes $5,000, and ten bags fill a keg.

In the interests of security each keg is treated to what is technically known among the shippers as the "red-taping" process. At each end of the keg, in the projecting rim of the staves above the head, are bored four holes at equidistant intervals. A piece of red tape is run through these holes, crossing on the head of the keg, and the ends finally meet in the center. At the point of meeting the tape is sealed to the keg's head by wax bearing the stamp of the shipper.

Gold crosses the ocean very much as does every other kind of freight, without any special looking after. The average rate of insurance is about $2,000 on a shipment of $1,000,000. There are shippers who do not insure. Having to ship $1,000,000, they give it in equal parts to half a dozen different vessels. It is a strict rule with some firms never to trust more than $250,000 at a time on any one ship.

A certain party furnishes all the kegs for gold and packs them. The man who does this is a monopolist in his way. Shippers of large amounts always lose a few dollars by abrasion, but not exceeding sixteen ounces on a $1,000,000 shipment. The only protection to be found against abrasion lies in the shipment of gold in bars instead of coin. Gold bars are not readily obtained.

The Bee's Eye.

There is the bee's eye, with its hundreds of facets, each presenting the same image. This is proved by separating the many-sided cornea and looking through it with a microscope at a candle-flame. The bee, moreover, besides its pair of faceted eyes, carries on top of its head three simple eyes, very convex, for short-distance vision. Then there are its antennae, whereby it feels its way in the dark hive and which give it, moreover, its exquisite power of smell. Bees can hear, too, though Sir John Lubbock thinks not. They seem deaf because, like wise people, they only attend to such sounds as concern them; their own hive's "roar" the stragglers can hear a very long way off, and Mr. Cheshire thinks that the old key and warning-pang music at swarming time is by no means exploded. Their impassiveness under many kinds of sounds he compares with that of most human beings in a thunder-storm; we are as if we heard not, whereas, if a child cries for help we wake into activity. Bees clearly are not given to waste emotion or nerve force. They have a nervous system, with ganglions—i. e. knots or lumps where the nervy threads meet. A bee's brain is a bigger ganglion placed in its head, divided—like ours—into two lobes. In queens and drones the brain is small. The worker has proportionally twice as much brain as the ant, and none other twenty times as much as the corkchafer. Intelligent though it is, we need not suppose it to be a high-class mathematician because its cells are hexagonal. Mr. Cheshire says that if you put a soap bubble on a bit of slate one side gets flattened. Put another close to it, and the contiguous walls become quite flat, owing to the equal tension on the two sides. Now add five more bubbles, so that the first occupies the center, a cross-section of this central bubble will now be perfectly hexagonal, all the contiguous walls of the seven bubbles being flat, the free ones curved. This is the case in the hive; the free walls of the comb always running in a sweep, and the hexagonality being simply due to the pressure of one bee against another as they are working.—All the Year Round.

Parisian Advertising Lists.

There are in Paris about two dozen offices called bureaux d'écritures or maisons de publicité. Their main business consists in addressing envelopes or wrappers for price lists and wrappers. Their principal clients are the large drapers' shops; financial concerns about the periods of public loans and the launching of joint stock companies; proprietors of patent medicines, dentists and perfumers. But side by side with their principal clientele they have others, special and almost incredible patrons. The bureau d'écritures, if it be worth anything, is sure to possess lists of addresses of the various social categories. The advertiser wishes to submit something to a certain class of the inhabitants, to a certain series of traders, to a community of artists. The office invariably supplies him with the list suited to his purpose. Of course, there is nothing surprising in that. With the aid of a directory, intelligently gone through, such documents may be compiled. But there are others the drawing up of which absolutely requires genius—such as, for instance, a more or less complete enumeration of all the stammerers, the lame and the halt, the hump-backed, the over-corpulent, the defective of sight, the buyers of such and such curiosities. Well, these lists are in existence, compiled by men who have made it their special business. I have a friend who has the misfortune to be bald. Twice or three times a year, as regularly as clockwork, he is sure to receive the prospectus of some pomatum that professes to restore the ambrosial locks of his youth, so much regretted. He probably took off his hat one day in a cafe when in juxtaposition to one of these amateur statisticians. From that moment he was a marked man. After all, the clew was not difficult to obtain. But what shall we say for lists of ladies not too plentifully endowed with the charm which staymakers assert they replace by art for all purposes but the natural one? How did the amateur detective get his material for these? It is a mystery, and these lists exist, for I have seen them, together with others of ladies and gentlemen whose teeth departed too soon. Every one of these lists is worth about 100 francs to the manager of an advertising office, and he willingly gives it.—Paris Correspondence London Globe.

Ahead of Time.

"You can't fight here," said Officer Daily as he came upon two men who were wrangling on Clinton street the other day.

"Who wants to?" boldly demanded one of the twain.

"You seem to."

"No, I don't. I'm simply getting mad now so as to lick this feller when he comes out into the country."—De-troit Free Press.

The Kind of Ball.

Jackson—Yes, the minnie ball was very destructive; much more so than the round ball.

Billings—I suppose so, but in case our dispute with Canada results in war, a different missile will be used.

Jackson—What kind?

Billings—The codfish ball, I think.—Arkansas Traveler.

SAWDUST thrown on a circular saw table will render the hauling of heavy planks quite easy. The grains act as small rollers and reduce friction.

THE London Society of Arts offers two gold and four silver medals for the best electric light motors.

THE man who never committed a folly never appreciated wisdom.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, save baggage, expressage, and $3 carriage hire, and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot.

618 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages, and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

Cleaning Floors.

In cleaning floors never wet too large a space at once. If beyond the comfortable range of the arm, there is almost certain to be a dark circle when dry, showing where you leave off each piece, because, being out of easy reach you have no power to scrub well or wipe dry. Always in using the drying cloth, rub it well beyond the space you are now cleaning over, to the one last done.—Boston Budget.

A MAN in Concord, N. H., whose wife was killed while traveling on the cars has accepted $25 from the railway company and given a receipt in full of all claims against the road for damages. It need not occasion the righteously indignant reader any surprise to meet this man in Heaven. His soul is of such dimensions that it could slip in unobserved through the keyhole.

LEBERT mentions forty-five cases of tumors in the brain, and in most of these cases the mind was not affected, and the mental faculties were retained to the last. Archiv fur Pathologische Anatomie, etc. Band III, p. 475.—Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

In Town and Hamlet

The seeds of intermittent and bilious remittent fever germinate and bear evil fruit. No community has altogether escaped it. In populous wards of large cities bad sewage causes it, and in their suburbs stagnant pools in sunken lots breed it. There is at once a remedy and a means of prevention. Its name is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is, without peradventure, the most potent antidote in existence to the malarial virus. Fortified with this incomparable, saving specific, miasmatic influences may be encountered with absolute impunity. Disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, begotten by mismanaged water, or any other cause, succumb to the beneficent corrective named, and rheumatic, kidney and bladder troubles are surely removable by its use when it is given a persistent trial.

"THERE is no proof of the theory that the cultivation of the mind, or one set of faculties can give expansion or increased size of brain. The Teutonic races in their barbarous state, 2,000 years ago possessed brains as large as now, and so with other races." J. C. Nott, in Types of Mankind, p. 278.—Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

THE "old reliable"—Dr. Sago's Catarrh Remedy.

A SCIENTIST says that ducks are large eaters. This fellow must keep an ice-cream saloon.—Yonkers Statesman.

Northern Michigan Attractions.

No section of the United States is receiving more attention at the present time than what is known as the iron region of Northern Michigan. Laborers and mechanics of all kinds find employment there at good wages, and capital is constantly pouring in for the development of new iron ranges. The richest and most prosperous districts in this section of Michigan are reached by the Milwaukee and Northern Short Line Railroad, trains upon which leave the C. & M. St. P. Union Depot in Chicago daily at 11:30 a. m. and 10:30 p. m., making the trip to Iron Mountain in eleven and a half hours, stopping at Green Bay, Menominee, and other important towns on the route. Parties contemplating a trip to the Northern Michigan iron ranges during the coming season should not fail to purchase their tickets over the Milwaukee and Northern Railroad, from Chicago or Milwaukee.

WELLS' HAIR BALSAM.

If gray, restores to original color. An elegant dressing, softens and beautifies. No oil nor grease. A Tonic Restorative. Stops hair coming out; strengthens, cleanses, heals scalp. 50c.

The best thing on earth to add to starch to give a good body and beautiful gloss, is "Rough on Dirt," only washing compound that can be so used. Makes ironing easy and saves the starch. Has dirt removing power double that of any other.

Money Makers.

Don't let golden opportunities pass unimproved; there are times in the lives of men when more money can be made rapidly and easily, than otherwise can be earned by years of labor. Write Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, who will send you free, full particulars about work that you can do and live at home wherever you are located, at a profit of at least from $5 to $25 daily. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All is new. You are started free. Capital not required. Either sex; all ages.

As a raindrop foretells a storm, so does a pimple upon the human body indicate health-detracting virus in the blood, which can be neutralized and expelled only by Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

BEST, easiest to use and cheapest. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. By druggists. 50c.

A BOTTLE of Red Star Cough Cure made a thorough and permanent cure of a cold so severe that I could not talk, says Mr. J. P. Roach, assistant superintendent New York Central Sleeping Car Company.

THE busiest poet will have his idyl moments.

HON. M. A. FORAN, of Ohio, member of House of Representatives, writes that St. Jacobs Oil relieved him of acute bodily pains.

As to Woman Suffrage.

There is no doubt that the right of suffrage may properly be, and gradually will be, extended under certain restrictions to women. That process has already begun, and if it be carried on guardedly and with sense it may go a good way. But there is no consideration of justice or expediency requiring Congress to move in the matter in the direction of a sweeping constitutional amendment.—New York Times.

Above all other earthly ills, I hate the big, old-fashioned pills; By slow degrees they downward wend, And often pause, or upward tend. With such discomfort are they fraught, Their good effects amount to naught. Now, Dr. Pierce prepares a pill That just exactly fills the bill—A Pellet, rather, that is all—A Pleasant Purgative, and small. Just try them as you feel their need, You'll find that I speak truth, indeed.

The flour of the family is generally in a saque.

MEN'SMAN'S Pentonized Beef Tonic, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritive properties. It contains blood-making, force-generating, and life-sustaining properties; invaluable for indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous prostration, and all forms of general disability; also, in all enfeebled conditions, whether the work of exhaustion, nervous prostration, or over-work, or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. Caseswell, Hazard & Co., proprietors, New York. Sold by druggists.

LIKE hot weather, the smiles of a lovely woman will at all times wilt a man's choler.

Farmers.

Send 10 cents to the PRICKLY ASH BITTERS Co., St. Louis, Mo., and get a copy of "THE HORSE TRAINER."

A complete system, teaching how to break and train horses in a mild and gentle way, requiring no elaborate apparatus, nothing more than can be found in any stable in the country—a rope and a strap. Every one handling horses should have a copy.

A FIRE-PLACE has a grate opportunity.—Carl Pretzel's Weekly.

"Rough on Dirt" whitens clothing yellowed by careless washing or use of cheap washing compounds. Washes everything from finest laces to heaviest blankets. There need be no fear in using this article. Does not rot nor yellow. 5 & 10c.

Spring Medicine

Is a necessity with nearly every one. This is the best time of year in which to purify the blood, to restore the lost appetite, and to build up the entire system, as the body is now peculiarly susceptible to benefit from medicine. The peculiar medicinal merit of

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Have made it the most popular medicine to take in the spring. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, and all humors, biliousness, dyspepsia, headache, kidney and liver complaints, catarrh, and all affections caused or promoted by low state of the system or impure blood.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier, and am well pleased with it." W. G. WERTH, organist St. Mary's Church, Detroit, Mich.

Builds Up the System

"I gladly attest the peculiar building-up power of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For some time I have been unable to attend to business, but finally at the request of a friend I used part of a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gave tone and strength to my system, and made me feel young as when a boy." GRANVILLE T. WOODS, 64 and 66 Lodge Street, Cincinnati. N. B.—If you have made up your mind to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not take any other.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $3. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

ELY'S CREAM BALM

I have used two bottles of Ely's Cream Balm and consider myself cured. I suffered 20 years from catarrh and catarrhal headache and this is the first remedy that afforded lasting relief.—D. T. Higginson, 145 Lake St., Chicago, Ill.

A particle is applied to each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50c. at druggists; by mail, 75c. per bottle. Circulars free. ELY BROS., Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

PATENTS R. S. & A. P. LACEY, Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C. Instructions and opinions as to patentability FREE. Over 17 years' experience.

PAINT YOUR BUGGY for ONE DOLLAR
By using COIT'S ONE-COAT BUGGY PAINT. Paint Friday, run it to Church Sunday. Six Fashionable Shades: Black, Maroon, Vermilion, Olive Lake, Brewster and New Green. No varnishing necessary. Dries hard with a high Gloss. Tip top for Chairs, Furniture, Baby Carriages, Fruit Baskets, Shoe Trunks, etc. Will hold enough to paint your Buggy upon receipt of One Dollar, and warrant it to wear. Discount to the Trade. COIT & CO., 106 & 108 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

The Morning Dress.

It is said that a lady's standing in society can easily be determined by her dress at the breakfast-table; an expensive, showy costume indicating that the wearer has not yet learned the proprieties. But no one need be afraid of being called "shoddy" if her loveliness is as apparent by daylight as at the hops. Perfect beauty is never the attendant of disease; above all, of those diseases peculiar to women, and which find a ready cure in Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists.

TO-DAY is a good deal closer than yesterday," said Smith to Jones. "Yes," said Jones, "it's nearer."

THE THROAT.—"Brown's Bronchial Troches" acts directly on the organs of the voice. They have an extraordinary effect in all disorders of the throat.

MOLLIFIED was John when Mary said she loved him.

IF YOU ARE LOSING YOUR GRIP On life try "Wells' Health Renewer." Goes direct to weak spots. For weak men, delicate women.

"BUCHU-PAIBA." Quick, complete cure, all annoying kidney diseases, Catarrh of Bladder, etc. 50c.

If muslins, calicoes, etc., appear to not wear or wash as well as formerly the reason is in the use of inferior alkaline soap washing compounds that destroy the texture and neutralize the colors. Shun them! Use "Rough on Dirt."

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficial influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health. It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young. As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

$300 REWARD WILL BE GIVEN to any person that can furnish an Automatic Swinging Straw Stacker that can do better work than the IMPERIAL STACKER that we are building. Send for circular and price list which will be mailed free. All are warranted to do good work or no sale.

NEWARK MACHINE CO., Columbus, O.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS

The Original and Only Genuine.

Safe and always Reliable. Beware of worthless imitations. Ladies ask your Druggist for "Chichester's English" and take no other, or enclose 4c. stamps to us for particulars, in letter by return mail. CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., 2818 Madison Square, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Ask for "Chichester's English" Pennyroyal Pills. Take no other.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

We want you as our Agent to sell the Perfection Slate Eraser. It is Attractive, Durable, Indispensable, and sells at night. Every boy and girl wants it. Send 10 cents in stamps for sample and particulars. Write to Wm. G. Co., San Francisco, Cal. Box 341.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 30c. Sold by mail. Stowell & Co., Charlestown, Mass.

GREATEST Puzzle out—Thermometers, Embroidery, Silks, Serap Pictures, Magic Knives, Envelopes, etc., by mail. Circulars free. JOLLY BROS., JOHNSTOWN, PA.

OPIUM FARMS Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

OPIUM FARMS on James River, Va. in Claremont Colony. Illustrated Circular Free. J. F. MANCHA, Claremont, Va.

OPIUM FARMS and Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. Refer to 1000 patients cured in all parts. Dr. Marsh, Quincy, Mich.

PENSIONS COLLECTED and increased by Fitzgerald & Powell, Indianapolis, Ind. Old cases renewed. Send for copy of Laws, free.

LOTS New Town of BENJAMIN, Wis. Con. R. R. Plans supply Milwaukee Mining Exchange, Milwaukee, Wis. Goodie St.cks bought and sold.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50. FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address Brewster's 8 Ely Rein Holder, Holly, Mich.

Imptd. Stallion CHFR. 3079 (222). Winner of Sweepstakes Premium at the Great P. Exhibition Show of the Ills. State Fair, held in Chicago Sept. 1886. Property of

W. L. ELLWOOD,

IMPORTER AND BREEDER OF

PERCHERON HORSES.

The Largest Breeding Establishment of Pure Blood Percherons in the United States. Five hundred head of Pure Blood and Grades now on hand, a large number of which were imported in July, 1886, and another large import from France 150 to 200 head will arrive about the middle of October. Visitors always welcome come and see them. I handle nothing but the best, and take pride in showing stock.

Location, DE-KALB, ILL.

1 1/2 miles west of Chicago, on Omaha Div. C. & N. W. R. R. Send for Catalogue.

THE GRAND RAPIDS HERD

Holstein-Friesians.

About 100 HEAD of both sexes and all ages. Several Head of

BULLS READY for SERVICE

Up to two years old. Choice Cows and Heifers bred to my prize service bulls.

Prins Midium and Jonge Carre,

Who have no superiors. A specialty of young pairs not akin for foundation stock. Every Head Registered and Guaranteed Pure-Bred.

Write for Catalogue and prices, and state age and sex desired, or come and see the herd.

M. L. SWEET, Breeder and Importer.

(MENTION THIS PAPER.) Grand Rapids, Mich.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

HAYNEVILLE, N. J.,

October 15, 1886.

E. T. HAZELTINE,

Warren, Pa.

Dear Sir:

I was taken with a very severe cold last Spring, and tried every cure we had in the store, and could get no help.

I had our village doctor prescribe for me, but kept getting worse. I saw another physician from Port

Jervis, N. Y., and he told me he used Piso's Cure for Consumption in his practice.

I bought a bottle, and before I had taken all of it there was a change for the better. Then I got my employer to order a quantity of the medicine and keep it in stock. I took one more bottle, and my

Cough was cured.

Respectfully,

FRANK McRELVEY.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

DETECTIVES

Wanted in every County. Shrewd men to act under our instructions in our Secret Service. Experience not necessary. Send stamp for particulars. GUANNAN DETEC-

TIVE BUREAU, 44 Arcade, Cincinnati, O.

ADVERTISERS

or others, who wish to examine this paper, or obtain estimates on advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at

45 to 49 Randolph St.,

the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

No. 14 E. W. No. 15-87.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

Corean Royalty.

The Corean royal family is directly composed of four members—the king, queen, crown prince, and his wife. Their majesties are about thirty-eight years of age, and are very intelligent. It is often remarked with wonder and surprise how well posted the king is on foreign inventions, social customs, and political relations. He is short in stature and seems greatly to admire big men. His face is very pleasing and bright. He has a kind look and manner and doubtless shrinks from some of the penalties he has to inflict. Her majesty is rather tall for a Corean lady; somewhat spare, and with a very determined mein. Her face in conversation is pleasing but one feels that it could soon change if she were crossed. The crown prince is a boy of fifteen, and is as tall as his father. He is at a time of life when not much can be known as to his future development, but he bids fair to fill out and become strong of mind and body. Domestically they seem to be a happy family. The Queen is never seen by any men outside of her own family and the many eunuchs of the palace. They like foreign things and will have only the best. They possess a number of handsome gold watches and finely jeweled works, and cases set with diamonds. They use foreign lamps altogether and eat quite a good proportion of foreign food. All Coreans are fond of champagne. Although the king has been badly deceived at times in foreigners, he still seems to believe in them, and is very friendly to those whose duties bring them in contact with him. Some of them have his confidence to a great degree. Her majesty seems to enjoy seeing foreign ladies. She was very fond of the late lamented Mrs. Foote, and seems quite warmly disposed toward some of the ladies now resident at the capital. Banquets are not infrequently given at the palace in foreign style, and that style is well sustained. At these times the guests first have an audience, and when all have been received the banquet proceeds. The courses are livened by short theatricals, music, and fireworks. The royal hosts are usually sequestered in some convenient place, so that they may enjoy the scene without embarrassing the guests by their presence. The table is usually presided over by one of the heads of departments (Cabinet officers), and messages are sent in by the royal family, to whom many toasts are offered.

Salt for Stock.

Salt is not only the savor of the earth, says a Baltimore paper, but of the flesh and every known organism. It is a constant constituent of the blood, keeping it limpid and healthful, and is more universally distributed over the globe and throughout all organized nature than perhaps any other compound. It is also one of the most staple compounds. The waters of the deep are charged with it, and traces of it may be found in the very air we breathe. By inference, then, we may conclude that salt is an essential constituent of all things, especially of all things organized. The instincts of all animals concur in this—wild animals going long distances to prove it. In countries where it is not accessible, men are willing to pay any price for it. Nor is the relish for it an acquired one, but an instinctive craving to satisfy the demands for the animal system. Animals deprived of salt do not thrive, nor wear as sleek coats as those having a full supply. If placed where they have constant access to it no animal will eat too much of it, but if fed irregularly and at long intervals there is great danger of their taking more than enough for the good of the system. Great care should be taken in the manner of feeding it that an overdose be not administered. In order to avoid this, the best way is to allow the stock free access to it all times, and the best form in which to accomplish the object is in the shape of rock salt, that the animals may lick it at will, not overlooking the necessity of placing the same under shelter and out of the way of the rain. As stock of all kinds are now upon grass it is the more necessary that the attention of farmers should be called to the subject, and not by salting irregularly allow the stock to so gorge themselves as frequently to bring on severe cases of purging, and thus endanger the health of the animals.

SIMPLICITY of manner is the last attainment. Men are very long afraid of being natural from the dread of being taken for ordinary.—Jeffrey.

Insanity Among Rulers.

De Quincey, in his wonderful study of the early Caesars, the paper in which his power of suggestive narrative and his control over the resources of language are perhaps seen at their best, says the Spectator, is, so to speak, driven by wonder at the wild willfulness of his subjects that all the Caesars of the Julian house were mad. Caligula may have been, though his symptoms, as recorded by Suetonius, are rather those of delirium tremens; but the theory which makes of the grand though sinister statesman, Tiberius, who gave the Roman monarchy its final impress, a man of disordered mind in the ordinary medical sense, will not readily be accepted as correct. He was no more mad than Philip II., whose private life was much of the same kind. It would, as we read history, be far truer to say that power when really absolute, so absolute that the volition is executive and the necessity for self-restraint is unfelt, produces of itself a special mental disease, which is not insanity, because it would disappear with the power, but which has at intervals, like the passion of children, many of its external symptoms and effects. Nero, the artist emperor, who was always seeking the impossible, and whom the early Christians believed to be the veritable incarnation of evil, may be said undoubtedly to have suffered from it; so did one or two of the Italian tyrants of the Renaissance; and so, in our judgment, though it is a disputable point, did Ivan the Terrible. Power of that sort, though it does not always injure the mind—for several of the Caesars and some of the emperors of Delhi were men of splendid sanity and judgment—when it happens to fall to a man predisposed by inherited tendency or by drink or by special solitariness of nature, undoubtedly weakens the restraining force of the will and strengthens impulse until many of his acts resemble closely the acts of madmen. Half the great sovereigns of Asia, if their private lives were accurately known, would be seen to have had their characters, so to speak, poisoned by power; as directly as if they had been poisoned with one of the drugs which temporarily disturb reason. Drink, wild and continuous drunkenness with bad brandy, was the predisposing cause in Peter the Great, and it is believed, in Theban, and probably in the Emperor Baber, who, wise by daylight, would in the moonlight occupy himself with jumping from battlement to battlement of his palace, eighty feet from the ground. In Czar Paul the predisposing cause was probably an insane tendency though that is not quite proved; and in Alexander III. it is a solitariness almost beyond example. There is not a man in the world more deeply to be pitied than the present emperor of Russia. The loneliness of king, a loneliness naturally resulting from their place, which hardly admits of friendship and does not admit of equality, is always terrible, and is frequently felt by themselves so severely that they break through all restraints of prudence and moral laws in order to be rid of it.

Smoothing the Rough Places.

Black—How do you get along at your new boarding-house?

White—Very well indeed. I am well lodged, well fed, and everything is made comfortable for me.

Black—I am surprised.

White—Why so?

Black—Because I boarded there myself and I was half starved. I can't understand why they treat you differently.

White—I'll tell you. You remember the landlady's baby?

Black—That squint-eyed little brat? I do. I can hear him yelling now.

White—The baby is not handsome, I admit. It cries considerable, I allow, but I can't make it any handsomer nor improve its temper, therefore I make the best of it. I call it a pretty little darling, a sweet little thing. I make excuses for the noise it makes by saying all children are so. The other boarders laugh at me, but the laugh is on my side when they are sawing away at tough round steak and I am luxuriating on tenderloin. It doesn't take much effort to smooth over the rough places of life.—Boston Courier.

MANY persons fancy themselves friendly when they are only officious. They counsel not so much that you should become wise as that they should be recognized as teachers of wisdom.

PREJUDICE is charity's greatest foe.

J. D. LEIGHTY,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBER GOODS, HATS, CAPS, ETC.

A FULL LINE OF

Plug, Smoking and Fine Cut Tobaccos, Canned Fruits, Prunes, Raisins Currants, Etc., Etc.

St. Joe, - - Indiana.

M. T. BISHOP.

—DEALER IN—

LUMBER,

LATH, SHINGLES, PINE AND POPULAR LUMBER, LIME, PLASTER, MOULDINGS, ETC., ETC.

I HAVE AN IMMENSE STOCK AND SOLICIT YOUR PATRONAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

YARD NEAR DEPOT, - ST. JOE, IND.

S. & F. BARNEY,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

CLOTHING, GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, GROCERIES. GENERAL STOCK OF HARDWARE, STOVES AND TRIMMINGS,

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

Produce, Grain, Seeds, and Wool.

CASE & OLDS,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

GROCERIES, CLOTHING, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, QUEENSWARE, CLASSWARE, ETC.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

EXAMINE THE GAINS ON OUR

5 and 10 Cents.

THE ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. I.

ST. JOE, IND., FRIDAY, APRIL 15, 1887.

NO. 12.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

—Patents have been granted Indians as follows: Charles E. Anderson, LaPorte, fence machine; Arnonous B. Austin, Fort Wayne, dust-pan; John B. Bennett and F. W. Samuels, Indianapolis, target trap; George G. F. Boswell, assignor of two-fifths to J. E. Boswell, Indianapolis, stalk harvester; Henry L. Brown, Indianapolis, air pump; William H. Brown, Indianapolis, assignor to C. H. Sparks, Chicago, jail or prison; George S. Claw, North Indianapolis, scythe snath coupling; Mary E. Cory, sleeve-protector; Elizabeth E. Fisher, Delphi, ward-robe hook; George W. Immel, Logansport, door clamp; Francis M. and S. C. Love, Shelbyville, wire fence machine; Amos Mendenhall, Unionport, gold-mining device; James N. Loore and A. L. Minor, Lowell, car-coupling; Orville K. Patterson, Willis Grove, assignor of one-half to J. K. Patterson, Petersburg, combined square and bevel; Charles E. Sweeney, assignor to C. R. Long, M. E. Sweeney, Piercetown, and T. J. Keagy, Kosciusko County, corn-planter; Henry H. Wilson, Huntington, table-leaf support.

—Mr. Wm. Gorham, who has been a guard at the State Prison South for twenty-eight years, and during that time filled temporarily all the official positions in that institution, and recognized as one of the most competent and faithful employes, was asked to resign. Mr. Gorham tendered his resignation at once, which was immediately accepted. From the outlook it is probable that all the employes under the Howard administration will also be set aside. Another guard named Knackley, who is a brother of the Vincennes postmaster, was also discharged, on the ground that there were more men than were needed. The State owes both of these gentlemen under Warden Howard's administration four months' salary, or $240. Mr. Patton paid Mr. Gorham for his services since he took charge of the prison.

—A pamphlet has been issued by State Fish Commissioner Reed containing the laws in reference to fish. With the laws thus distributed, he says that ignorance can be no longer set up as a defense by those who violate the statutes. The first act of this nature passed in 1852, related to the poisoning of fish and the stretching of nets across the Ohio River within one mile of its mouth. Fifteen years later an act was approved defining the time when fish could be trapped, netted or seined. Following these came amendments and codifications which are set forth in the pamphlet. In connection with this, the Commissioner has sent out a circular asking for the co-operation of all citizens in enforcing these laws. It is his determination to prosecute all violators to the fullest extent the statutes warrant.

—Intelligence of the successful transfusion of blood from the veins of a husband to those of his wife has been received from Elkhart County. Mrs. Daniel Slonder, residing near Goshen, has been very ill for several months of anemia, and her condition became so critical that the operation was decided upon as the last resort. Mr. Slonder consented to supply the blood, and the physician, after placing Mrs. Slonder under the influence of ether, opened a vein in her left arm, inserted the end of a rubber tube, the other end of which was inserted in a vein in the arm of Mr. Slonder. The blood flowed freely for over half an hour, when the tube was withdrawn and the orifice closed. The patient showed signs of improvement immediately, and the doctor is now confident of her recovery.

—The Delaware County Stock-breeders' Association held its annual meeting for the election of officers recently. Lewis Moore, of Hamilton Township, was elected President for the ensuing year. A committee of five was appointed to co-operate with the Muncie Board of Trade for the advancement ment of the interests of Muncie and Delaware County.

—At Columbus, a colored lad named William Foster, about sixteen years of age, from Gallatin, Tenn., while attempting to steal a ride on a freight-train out of the city, was caught under the wheels and his leg crushed so that it had to be amputated. He was sent to the county poor-house, and is in a precarious condition.

—John Hanses, saloon-keeper at Wana-tah, on the Fort Wayne road, committed suicide by getting down on all fours and thrusting his head on the rail while a freight train was passing. The wheels cut his head off. The cause is unknown, but he had threatened suicide for several weeks.

—Argus Dean and the Hon. J. H. Stotsenberg, who own about fifty thousand peach trees near the boundary line between Clark and Jefferson counties, report the buds all safe so far, and the prospects good for an abundant yield of the fruit next summer.

—John McHale, a fireman on the Pan-handle between Logansport and Bradford, was killed at Amboy. Deceased was a nephew of Patrick McHale, one of Logansport's most prominent Irish citizens, and had only been in America four months.

—As an outgrowth of the Woodworth meetings at Greensburg, the newly-organized "Church of God" has bought a corner lot three squares from the Court-house, and will proceed to erect thereon a neat house as a place of worship.

—A young daughter of John Shenkel, living several miles from Huntington, was playing about a sugar-camp, when her clothes caught fire, and she was so horribly burned that death followed in a few minutes.

—By the bursting of a grindstone in Pratt & Son's carriage works at Elkhart, Henry Stair was struck and so badly injured that death resulted in a short time.

—Louis Lingg, of Logansport, committed suicide by throwing himself under the wheels of a moving freight-train.

—At Columbus Millard F. Gray, an old freight conductor, who had a leg crushed some time ago while coupling cars, has brought suit against the Pennsylvania Company for $10,000 damages.

—The Bierbusse Manufacturing Company of Morris, have begun to remove the debris from about the old port-house, at Martinsville, preparatory to removing the factory to that city some time in June.

—Property to the value of $16,000 has been burned at Ligonier, the losses being borne by ten or twelve persons and firms. The cause of the fires is unknown.

—John C. Robinson, of Spencer; Joseph R. Gray, of Hamilton; Eugene Bundy, of Henry, and DeForrest L. Skinner, of Porter, commissioners for the new insane asylums, have been reappointed.

—In the Crawford Circuit Court Samuel Bradley was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for the killing of Thomas Nash, at Bird's-eye, last July.

—The trial of Benjamin Smith, charged with the murder of William Real, at English, Dec. 6, 1886, has just been concluded at Leavenworth, the jury bringing in a verdict of not guilty.

—The farm residence of Michael Cayler, situated about three and a half miles north-east of Noblesville, was burned. Loss, about $1,000; no insurance.

—A young man named Straub, living just east of Martinsville, received serious though not fatal injuries, by falling on a pitch fork.

—Within a few weeks cases of scarlet fever have rapidly increased in the eastern part of Terre Haute.

—A stranger was run over and killed by the cars at Goshen.

TOMATO red is the new shade. A toper's nose is in the height of fashion.

MECHANICAL.

In Sweden steam engines have hitherto been without any government control whatever, but orders have now been given to the magistrates to send in before March 15, a list of all steam engines in their district, with full report of age, kind, etc. In Norway no steps have as yet been taken in this direction.

A METHOD of producing a screw or bolt, which is adapted to receive a nut, having either a right or left-handed screw-thread, consists of forming a blank having two opposite arc-shaped portions and intermediate flattened portions, in cutting a thread upon such blank, and in subsequently chamfering portions of the thread by means of dies.

THE State of Texas, which is about completing its new capitol, will cover it with copper, using about 800 squares. For buildings owned by the people, not by individuals, copper is said to be far the cheapest roofing; for although more expensive in first cost, it exceeds all other in durability, and does not require painting or other repairs if applied properly.

WITHIN the limits of belting and shafting overhead, or shafting in any direction or all directions, underground power may be readily transmitted, but when the attempt is made to send steam for power or for heating, it is quite probable that it will be found economy to make the coal into gas and transmit that to points to be consumed under boilers and water heaters to supply steam on the premises.—Power.

THE very rapid progress which has been made within recent years in the manufacture and treatment of steel, and in the investigation of other properties of other alloys of iron than those with carbon, and the influence of impurities on the properties of steel, have left all our text-books so far behind that a work intelligently recording our present practice, and collecting and analyzing the scattered information existing in public and private records, has been greatly needed.

TO DETERMINE whether wool is present or absent in a piece of goods, a solution of picric acid may be employed, which instantly imparts a full yellow tint to the wool, but does not in the least affect cotton, linen, or China grass, so that it is only necessary to immerse the fabric in the dye, wring it out and wash well with water; should any portion remain of the yellow color, the presence of wool is indicated. Of course a closer discrimination is afforded by the microscope.

A SERIES of tests have recently been made by Dr. Fischer, the well-known German chemist, showing that in ordinary domestic stoves, in use not more than 20 per cent. of fuel consumed is really utilized for warming the rooms, whereas with stoves burning gas, 80 per cent. and more of the possible effect is obtained. In a sugar manufactory at Elsdorf, it is stated no steam engines have been used for several years. Gas is made at a cost of about 10d per 1,000 cubic feet, and is used for lighting and driving steam engines. At the Essen Works, water gas is made at a cost of 4d. to 8d. per 1,000 feet, and serves both for fire and lighting.

Sunday in Mexico.

A Sunday in Mexico is one long feast of champagne, without a headache the next day. When the first streaks of dawn appear in the east people bob out from this street and that, hostlers hurry horses off to private residences, gay riders whirl by as if eager to catch the shades of night as they are sinking in the west, and by half-past six it looks as if all Mexico was on horseback. Ladies wear beautiful costumes, dark habits, short skirts, silver and gold buttons and broad sombreros. Men display greater variety of costumes; some wear yellow buckskin suits trimmed with gold or silver, others have a drab skin suit artistically trimmed, still others wear light cloth suits and high boots, buttoned at the side and reaching the knee. A belt holding a revolver, and a Mexican saddle to which is fastened a sword, complete this beautiful riding suit. And then what riders! It is the poetry of motion; they are as but part of the perfect horse they ride. Take the beautiful horses, artistic outfit, grand eyes glancing at you from beneath a pretty sombrero, and you have a Mexican scene which is irresistible. Even Americans are a thousand times handsomer when they don this outfit, and it is safe to wager that if the men in the States would adopt the Mexican riding suits there would not be a single man left after two months' trial.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

A Royal Dinner.

Mr. Granville, in his diary, gives the following account of his interview with Emperor Napoleon III. on the 26th of June, 1885:

Yesterday morning arrived an invitation to dine at the Tuileries the same evening. I went there, was ushered into a room with eight or ten men in it, none of whom I knew except Count Bacciochi, whom I had met at Fould's the day before—three in uniform, the rest in plain clothes. A man, whom I supposed to be the aide-de-camp de service, came forward to receive me, and invited me to sit down. Presently the same, or another man, came and said: "Milord" (they all milorded me), vous vous mettez a table, s'il vous plait, a cote de l'Empereur a sa droite. I was then taken into the next room, which adjoins the cabinet of the Emperor. In a few minutes His Majesty made his appearance; he immediately came up to me, bowed very civilly, and asked me the usual questions of when I came to Paris, etc. In a minute dinner was announced, and we went in. As we went in, he said to me: L'Imperatrice sera bien fachee de ne vous avoir pas vu. At dinner, which did not last above twenty-five minutes, he talked (a sort of dropping conversation on different subjects, and I found him so easy to get on with that I ventured to start topics myself. After dinner we returned to the room we had left, and after coffee, seeing me staring about at the portraits, he said all his family were there, and he told me who they all were and the history of these portraits, which, he said, had made the four of the world. After this he asked me to sit down, which I did at a round table by his side, and M. Visconti on the other side of me, and then we had a conversation which lasted at least an hour and a half, on every imaginable subject. It was impossible not to be struck with his simplicity, his being so natural and totally without an air of assumption of greatness, though not undignified, but perfectly comme il faut, with excellent manners, and easy, pleasant, fluent conversation. I was struck with his air of truth and frankness.

Simply Disgusting.

Office-seeker—I called, sir, to ask you to request the President to give me a foreign mission or something.

The President's Pastor—Excuse me, sir; but you are the 105th office-seeker who has been here to-day, and I have had to explain to each and all that I have had no influence with the Administration.

"No influence with the President?"

"Certainly not."

"Well, I didn't suppose he was such a heathen as that."—Omaha World.

"I HAVE three children who are the very image of myself." "I pity the youngest," replied the interlocutor. "Why?" Because he is the one who will have to resemble you the longest."

The St. Joe News.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MORT & WILCOX, PUBLISHERS.

ON THE BELFRY TOWER.

AUSTIN DORSON.

"Look down the road. You see the mound rise on the right, its grassy round broken as by a scar?"

We stood, Where every landscape-lover should, High on the gray old belfry's lead, Scored with rude names, and to the tread Waved like a sea. Below us spread Cool grave-stones, watched by one great yew. To right were ricks; thatched roofs a few; Next came the rectory, with its lawn And nestling schoolhouse; next withdrawn Beyond a maze of apple boughs, The long low-latticed manor-house, The wide door showed an antlered hall; Then, over roof and chimney stack, You caught the fish pond at the back, The roses and the old red wall. Behind, the Dorset ridges go With straggling wind-clipped trees, and so The eye came down the slope to follow The white road winding in the hollow Beside the mound of which he spoke.

"There," said the rector, "from the town The Roundheads rode across the down. Sir Miles—'twas then Sir Miles' day— Was posted further south, and lay Watching at Weymouth; but his son— Rupert by name—an only one, The veriest youth it would appear, Scrambling about for jack-daws here, Spied them a league off. People say, Scouring the tedious turret way, (Or else because the butler's care Had turned the key to keep him there, He slid down by the rain pipe. Then, Arming the hands and serving-men With half-pike and with harquebuses, Snatched from the wainscot's overplus, Himself in rusty steel-cap clad With flapping ear-pieces, the lad Led them by stealth around the ridge So flanked the others at the bridge. There were but six to half a score. And yet five crop-eared, if not more, Sleep in that hillock. Sad to tell, The boy, by some stray petromel, Or friends or foes—report is vague— Was killed; and then, for fear of plague, Buried within twelve hours or so.

"Such is the story. Shall we go? I have his portrait here below: Grave, olive-checked, a southern face, His mother, who was dead, had been Something, I think, about the queen, Long ere the days of that disgrace, Saddest our England yet has seen, Poor child! The last of his race." —Longman's Magazine.

HER ENGAGEMENT RING.

BY LILY CURRY.

"Goodnight, Paulita, I must go." "You must go?" She fell back a step, as if she detected impatience in his tone. "You can't stay any longer," she said then, more helplessly.

"No, I must be off. Be a good girl, Paulita, and—think of me sometimes." He ended with a laugh that sounded half sarcastic. But she had loosened her hold upon his arm, and she looked at him almost with the calmness of despair.

"Think of me sometimes," he repeated. "Sometimes?" she struck in with quiet intensity. "Always. Night and day, morning and midday and evening and midnight. Every moment; constantly, faithfully, I shall never let your image leave me for an instant. I will wear your ring and I will look at it and see your two blue eyes watching me." "Good-bye, good-bye, good-bye." "Good-bye, good-bye."

He regarded her for a brief moment in silence. He appeared surprised yet relieved at her quietude. He was glad there had been no scene. He had almost expected one. Then he stooped hastily and kissed her forehead, lightly, just brushing it with his lips, and turning hastened away.

Perhaps as he hurried down the quiet street—for it was midsummer and the neighborhood being a fashionable one was deserted—down the strangely quiet street of so great a city, he breathed more easily than for some days. It is highly probable. He was a rich young scapegrace and this was only his latest fancy. He owned to himself that he should have ended the affair somewhat sooner. But then she was such a faithful little creature, and really intelligent for a domestic. And her brown eyes had pleased his own of blue, and her devotion had really been charming. Of course he knew he deserved it all. Else why had he been given the stature of an Apollo, and a countenance a young god might have envied. He knew his own attractiveness, from the tip of his shining golden head to the arch of his royal instep. He was Roger Hastings, the son of wealthy parents; he traced his ancestry back for many generations. He had gotten all out of his college course that he cared for, and he was going to see the world pretty thoroughly for the dozen years to come.

It would be strange if he did not care to gather an occasional flower by the wayside as he went.

And Paulita? She watched him as long as her eyes could tell his shape. Watched him pass briskly off into the twilight. "to the world made for him." Then she faced about and rang the area door-bell, and the kitchen maid came to let her in. Paulita was different. Paulita was no ordinary servant. She was the seamstress. Yet she must conform to the rules laid down for the servants here.

She climbed all the staircases to the attic where all the servants slept and entered the little chamber that she shared with the chambermaid. Dusk was gathering rapidly. The room was very warm and stuffy. She knelt down by the one little window and rested her face upon the sill. A dreamy fragrance floated up from the trees in the back-yard garden far below. She thought of her childhood in the country; it seemed far off now, very far off and unreal. This life was so different. She wondered when she would see him again. She had asked him over and over during their stroll of the past half-hour, but he had not been able to tell her more than that he would come back "as soon as he could." He had to go thousands of miles away. His father had sent for him to join him.

She put her hand in the bosom of her dress and touched tenderly the ring she wore upon a blue ribbon—the ring that he had given her—the solid band with its quaint setting of twin turquoises, like two blue eyes gazing steadfastly outward. She knew he would be true to her. She knew he loved her—"her Roger!" Then she wondered why he should care for her. Was she so pretty as he had told her? Were her brown eyes softly beautiful? Was her hair thick, soft, and golden-brown? Was she really graceful? If so, she thanked Heaven for these gifts and for her lover's love.

And she would have remained at the window and continued to think tenderly of him she loved, but for the entrance of her room-mate, who lighted the gas and threw herself down heavily on the bed and began to complain of the mistress's latest orders. Here it was July and everybody else out of town, and they not half ready to go yet; and the Newport cottage waiting and waiting for them all, and yet they must still be shut up here.

Then Paulita came back to herself out of a pleasant dream into which she had been drifting, and remembered that she must go to bed at once in order to rise early and finish the fine work in time.

"I never saw that ribbon around your neck before," said the chambermaid, suddenly. "What is it—a 'Gospel' you're wearing?"

Paulita hesitated. "Yes," she said, softly. "It—it keeps harm away."

In a fortnight the family were at Newport.

Paulita wondered how soon she would hear from her lover. She looked for a letter any day. He would write to Newport, or even if he did not, the letter would be forwarded from the city house.

Paulita dreamed a good deal—day-dreams; while she sewed, or while she helped the governess take the children for walks. Paulita dreamed by day and by night. She dreamed as she walked by the ocean and looked out toward the blue horizon rim.

But no letter came.

She wore her ring within her bosom. Sometimes she took it out and looked at it and remembered his voice when he gave it to her; remembered his soft laugh when he warned her not to let acid touch the stones and darken them.

Sometimes—aye, very often—she kissed the ring, and said, "My Roger!"

But the days passed, and the weeks passed, and no letter came, no word or sign of her lover.

At length Paulita's face began to grow thin and pale, her eyes seemed larger, darker,—for great hollows came about them. She did not care for food. She did not sleep at night.

And still she waited for his letter.

One afternoon the mistress bade her do some work that needed the mistress' supervision.

Paulita sat palely watching her stitches and plying her needle. Some strange influence had moved her to take the turquoise ring from her bosom and place it upon her wedding-ring finger. Her hands were very thin and white—to match the pallor of her face, and the blue and heavy gold shone markedly.

Was there any strangeness in this, that a friend of Paulita's mistress, an intimate friend, a brusque, elderly, somewhat eccentric lady should drop in for a chat, and so sit with Paulita's mistress in her boudoir?

Paulita rose with an inquiring glance at her mistress. But the latter only smiled languidly.

"You need not go, Paulita. Continue your work." And to her visitor, "This is my seamstress. She is an excellent little creature. You need not mind her at all."

"No?" said the visitor, good humoredly, but she glanced sharply at the girl. And presently, when she had spoken a little with her friend she appeared greatly interested in what the seamstress was doing.

She was a woman with a heavy, almost coarse voice. And when she suddenly addressed Paulita, the girl started and grew a shade paler.

"That is a very peculiar ring you wear." "Yes, madam," said Paulita in a low voice.

"Will you oblige me by letting me look at it?"

Paulita's breath came hard for a moment. Her cheeks began to crimson. She slowly drew the band from her finger and carried it to the visitor.

"Certainly, madam," she said, but rather indistinctly.

"Ahem!" said the lady. "Yes. Very quaint. Quite rococo I may say. May I ask where you got it?"

Paulita's crimson cheeks grew more like scarlet.

"It was—a gift," she answered.

"Ah! And for how much could I induce you to part with it?"

Paulita's head was raised proudly.

"For no money!" she said.

"You really mean you would not like to let it go? It is very valuable, is it not?"

"It is priceless," said the girl, gaining some courage.

Her mistress smiled languidly as she sat watching.

"Do you really fancy the ring?" she inquired of her caller.

The latter nodded briskly.

"I want it very much."

"O well, Paulita," said her mistress, "let Mrs. Van Campen have the ring, if she chooses to buy it from you. Who gave it you, anyway?"

"My sweetheart gave it to me," said Paulita, after a silence, in which she seemed nervy herself for something. "It is—my—engagement ring. Nobody on earth—no money could buy it from me." Her eyes were fixed upon the treasure as she spoke, jealously.

"Ahem!" said the caller. "Engagement ring? I wonder who the thief was? You see this ring is mine. I can identify it by the inside. I haven't looked yet and couldn't read it without my glasses, but I think younger eyes could find the letters 'R' and 'H,' and a date. The ring is older than it looks. People do not wear good turquoises constantly. They are easily discolored."

Paulita stood motionless. No sound came from her lips. The scarlet had faded from her cheeks. A sickness, a deathly feeling had come upon her. What did it mean? Her—Roger's—ring! Stolen! This woman knew, the inscription.

The room seemed going around. She was dizzy, faint.

And then the caller's voice fell upon her again through the darkness.

"Of course I don't doubt you came by it honestly, my poor girl; but nevertheless it is—or was—my ring. Your sweetheart probably bought it at a pawnshop, where it had been left by me—by my scapegrace of a nephew. My favorite nephew, my incorrigible, always into scrapes and always having to be helped out. I suppose," (she was talking to Paulita's mistress now.) "I suppose young men must be young men, and young rascals as well. Only fancy that scoundrel of a Roger—you know my nephew, Roger Hastings—only fancy his pawning my ring. I missed it a good while since. Here, my good girl,"—for Paulita had turned and walked toward the door—walked unsteadily, had they but seen or cared. "Here, my girl; I will not claim the ring, unless you choose to accept a fair equivalent."

Paulita returned, put out her hand blindly and took the ring. Her heart was dead, cold, horrible within her. Was Roger Hastings the real name of her Roger Hardy? Had he deceived her? Yet she took and held the ring in her numb hand, and heard her mistress' murmur:

"You are too good, Mrs. Van Campen. Indeed, I think you are really foolish to be so good."

And Mrs. Van Campen's voice—disregarding her friend's remonstrance—celebrating the follies of her favorite nephew. "At all events he has got to the end of his tether. He is going to be married soon, and I fancy his wife will make him walk very straight. She's a dashing girl and he's completely infatuated. Miss Van Waters—very rich, of course."

"You can go for a while, Paulita," said her mistress, serenely, foreseeing perhaps, some delightful bit of gossip about the coming wedding—since weddings are usually first or last attended with scandal of some sort.

And Paulita obeyed. She went out of the room. She went out of the house. She wore her cap and apron; she seemed neat and modest. No one would have suspected any terrible impending trouble. She went toward the sea.

"O, my God!" She kept saying these three words over and over, helplessly, despairingly.

False, false, false! Her world had come to a sudden, terrible end. Her world had stopped revolving—had collided with huge obstacles, had crashed and smashed and was dropping away from under her feet. She was sinking into an abyss.

It was death! She walked a long distance. She hardly knew where she stopped or what she brought back with her.

She had no money. How could she buy poison in order to end her life?

She did not return to the house until after dark. She crept in like a shadow. No one seemed to see her. Her mistress was whirling, whirling in the delicious dance to delicious music, in costly silks and splendid blaze of diamonds, among others of her set—at the Casino. The chambermaid, Paulita's room-mate, was strolling in the beach, with a chance lover. Paulita crept to her room. She sat down in the chair by the small stand in the corner. She bowed her head upon her hands and did not move. Perhaps she said a prayer. The wind—the sweet sea breeze stole in upon her.

But she did not stir. At midnight the chambermaid crept in softly, saw Paulita praying there but did not speak to her. The chambermaid crept into bed and slept soundly and selfishly till broad daylight.

And by the broad daylight they found Paulita—dead.

Cold and still and pale. She would never move or speak again.

Did she take her own life? Quærens vobis? There was a glass and dregs of something that might have been deadly. And closely clutched in one thin hand—her turquoise ring. And, as if some powerful acid had fallen upon them, the twin stones were turned black—disfigured beyond redemption!

Dragons' Bones.

In the folk-lore of many of the tribes that live along the borders of northern and eastern Asia are found tales quite as marvelous and wonderful as those handed down to the boys and girls of the warmer and more civilized countries of the South, in which fairies, heroic giants, and gods are the principal figures,—the offspring of vivid tropical imaginations. But in the tales related to the children of the far-away ice country, the main characters are gigantic animals and monsters of strange appearance; and as the northern storytellers are not noted for their imaginative powers, we are led to look for some solid foundation of fact upon which the originators of the myths must have built their wondrous tales. The Chinese legends abound in dragons and unicorns; and in Canton, to-day, may be purchased "dragons' bones and teeth," which form part of the regular stock of the native druggists.

In the "Chinese Repository" is a quotation from Li She Chap, the author of a Chinese medical book. He says, concerning dragons' bones:

"The bones are found on banks of rivers and in caves of the earth, places where the dragon died, and can be collected at any time."

In the far north, "dragons' bones" were very common, but they were usually considered there to have belonged to gigantic birds. To prove their belief, the natives showed the claws, three or four feet long, of these monsters, which, if they had ever existed, must have far exceeded in size the roc of the "Arabian Nights." Quaint tales of these were told on winter evenings, perhaps, to native boys and girls; and little reason had the children to doubt them, for the claws were so plentiful that their fathers used them, as the Chukches of eastern Siberia do strips of whalebone, to make their bows, which they use for hunting, more elastic.

Finally, an English naturalist, while studying Chinese folk-lore, made the discovery that the "dragon's bones and teeth" were no more nor less than the remains of a great extinct rhinoceros. Soon after, a scientist traveling in northern Siberia, heard the natives talking about the gigantic birds I have just mentioned, and being shown a "claw," he saw that it, too, was in reality, a horn of a monster rhinoceros that in past ages had lived in that far-off land of ice.—Charles Frederick Holder, in St. Nicholas.

Wanted Some on Account.

A few days ago a well-known negro man, who was the fortunate possessor of a fine lot on one of the leading residential streets of the city, sold his property for $10,000 cash. He was given a check for that amount, which was carried in due time to one of the banks. The paying teller asked the negro how much of the money he wanted in cash.

"I wants all that ar paper calls fur," replied the negro.

"What! You don't want $10,000 in cash?"

"Jesso, sah."

"All right," answered the man who shuffles the bank bills, and in five minutes he began piling the money on the counter. As he laid the $500 packages on the counter the negro's eyes began to grow larger, and finally when twenty of the packages were placed before him his eyes looked as large as new moons. The negro looked intently at the stack of money for a moment and then, with a broad grin on his face, said:

"I'se jist paralyzed, boss; gimme $1.50 and you kin keep de rest of that till I call agin."—Chattanooga Times.

THE man who "can either take it or leave it alone" usually has a little drop in the house in readiness for an emergency.

PHYSIC-TIPPLERS.

A Plea for Temperance in the Use of Medicinal Beverages.
(Philadelphia Record.)

One of the most interesting of the papers read before the State sanitary convention, held in this city last May, was in the form of a warning against intemperance in the use of drugs. The writer, Dr. Frank Woodbury, of this city, has permitted the publication of this noteworthy contribution to popular knowledge in advance of the annual report of the convention, and it is certainly worthy of careful study. The habit of taking into the system drugs of whose ultimate effects the partaker is either ignorant or supremely careless has grown very common of late among a large class of people who are usually credited with more than ordinary intelligence. Dr. Woodbury's experience leads him to the conclusion that it has attained to such considerable proportions as to command attention and consideration from all medical practitioners. He finds the physic-tipler and medicine-bibber everywhere not the solicitous and overanxious citizen, who, with every slight cold or sore joint, rushes off to a doctor for a course of constitutional treatment, not altogether the devotees of narcotic and stimulant drugs, but a great mass of people who use almost every description of real or pretended medicament without knowledge and without stint. Even the comparatively harmless and innocuous soda-water fountain has been diverted to the uses of the physic-tipler, for upon inquiry Dr. Woodbury found that numerous powerful tinctures, and elixirs, as well as potassium- and sodium bromide, soda mint, sodium bicarbonate, acid phosphate, and aromatic spirits of ammonia, were regularly served out to patrons of soda-water fountains in the drug stores. Probably very few of the these customers could give a logical or pathological reason for this form of indulgence in extemporized mixtures, which might or might not prove harmless, but which, in any case, could not be classed as remedial agents. For overmedication is a danger against which the physician guards no less carefully than against the earlier stages of an acute disease. He knows when to administer and when to withhold. But the slave of a habit of drugging often persists until an enfeebled digestion and a collapsed nervous system sound imperative notes of warning.

In the immense increase noted of late years in the preparations of narcotic and alkaline drugs, as well as in the continuous accessions to the amount of capital invested in making patent medicines, Dr. Woodbury finds reasons for believing that the practice of medicine-bibbing is more than keeping pace with the growth of wealth and population. Especially has there been increase in the demand for those drugs that act specifically upon the nervous system. But a few years ago the bromides were little known or used; at the present time it is estimated that over 200 tons are annually used in this country. Chloral hydrate has been in use but fifteen years, yet its consumption in Europe and America now amounts to many hundreds of tons each year, while of the opium products, of ether, chloroform, and the iodides, there is a constant flow from a severely-taxed yet apparently-exhaustless source of supply. Dr. Woodbury tells of a formula for a mixture containing chloral which he saw conspicuously posted behind a druggist's counter. It was found on inquiry that the posting was merely a matter of convenience, since the calls for the mixture were exceedingly frequent. Alcoholic mixtures he learned were similarly redemanded, often for months after the occasion for their use had passed away. Intemperance in drugs and medicines, it appears, is no less common than are other forms of self-indulgence.

They Knew the Flag.

I once saw a young soldier who belonged to a battery of artillery, engaged in patching the holes in his guidon (a marker's flag) with cloth from the lining of his uniform. When I asked him why he spent so much time to mend that old flag, his answer was, that as we are so far from the base of supplies he could not get a new one, and that when the battery went into action with thirty-six horses and six guns, he always stuck the pike of the guidon into the ground where the battery was to form, and even if the man who rode the leading horse was killed or disabled, and the noise of the battle was so great that the bugle call could not be heard, the horses would wheel around the flag and execute the maneuver known as "By left into line," and bring the muzzles of the six guns on a line with the flag, and then, as soon as the guns were unlimbered, he would again place it about two hundred paces in the rear, and the horses would gallop to the rear with the caissons and halt again on a line with it.—Chicago Journal.

The Distribution of Earthquakes.

In the present condition of the earth's crust, so far as the brief historic record goes to show, earthquakes of an intensity menacing to man are limited to certain regions which probably do not altogether include more than one-fourth of the area of the lands, though shocks of a less degree of violence appear to be common to every part of the surface of the continents. The regions of recurrent shocks of considerable violence are so irregularly distributed that they cannot be adequately noted in this brief essay. They include, in Europe, Iceland, Portugal, Spain, and Southern Italy; the region of the Lower Danube, and some of the islands of the Grecian Archipelago. In Asia, the larger part of Asia Minor, several limited areas in Hindostan, the greater part of the eastern littoral region of Asia, and the islands of the Japanese and Malayan Archipelagoes are subjected to destructive shocks.

In Africa, there is, save in Egypt, little architecture to suffer from earthquake disturbances, and even little history to record it. Egypt seems to have been, on the whole, singularly exempt from great earthquakes, while the western portion of the Mediterranean face of the continent shares the disturbances from which the Spanish peninsula has repeatedly suffered. The vast Australian and Polynesian district of the Pacific affords a number of regions of great earthquake activity, of which New Zealand is the only one where we have anything like good observations for even a few score years. It may be said, however, that the greater part of this vast area seems to be more exempt from these indications of activity in the crust than any other equally extensive part of the earth's surface.

We now come to the twin continents, North and South America. The obvious resemblances in the physical configuration of these continents lead us to expect a likeness in their conditions of stability. This resemblance in a certain measure exists. The western shore of both of these continents, the seaward face of the great Cordilleran range of mountains, is the seat of the most frequent and, on the whole, the most energetic disturbances which occur within their limits, while the eastern shore of each is comparatively little assailed by shocks. The northern, or Venezuelan, district of South America, which is apparently the seat of an active mountain growth, of which there is no parallel in the northern continent, is a district of recurrent shocks of great violence, such as have never been observed in high latitudes on our own continent. On the other hand, the region from the mouth of the Amazon to the La Plata River, which corresponds to our seaboard Atlantic States, and the provinces of Canada, enjoys an immunity for disturbances probably not exceeded by any other equally extensive area occupied by the Aryan race, while the corresponding region in North America is much less fortunate.—Scribner's Magazine.

Louis XVI's Last Order.

An interesting document is about to be added to the treasures of the Hotel Carnavalet, Paris. It is the last order signed by Louis XVI, ordering the Swiss Guard on August 10, 1792, to cease firing and abandon the Tuileries. His Majesty and his family had been driven from the palace, and had taken refuge in the National Assembly, holding its sittings in the Salle du Manège. A company of Swiss Guards, under the direction of Capt. de Dürler, was advancing in shooting order to deliver the Royal family, whereupon a number of deputies and citizens begged the King to sign a formal order to put an end to the combat. Louis XVI. signed the document with a trembling hand. Capt. de Dürler preserved the document, which his descendants have now placed in the Musée Carnavalet.—Galignani's Messenger.

Though measured by feet, poetry is the kind of literary gush in which sentimental writers take a hand.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER

Highest Awards of Medals in Europe and America.

The nearest, quickest, safest and most powerful remedy known for Rheumatism, Pains, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Backache, Wounds, colic in the chest, and all aches and pains. Indorsed by 5,000 Physicians and Druggists of the highest repute. Benson's Plasters promptly relieve an acute or chronic rheumatism and greasy sores, hemorrhoids and eczema, are absolutely useless. Beware of imitations under various assuming names, such as "Capcine," "Capurin," "Capicine," as they are utterly worthless and intended to deceive. Ask for BENSON'S and TAKE NO OTHERS. All druggists. SEABURY & JOHNSON, Proprietors, New York.

During the last year you furnished me with 97,000 "Tansill's Plaster." This month you have sold me 2,000, almost all of which have been sold from one to five to each person. You will please ship 5,000 every Saturday until further notice.
C. S. PROWITT,
Druggist Denver, Col.
Address
R. W. TANSILL & CO.,
Chicago.

PENSIONS. Officer's pay, bounty procured; deserters relieved. 21 years' practice. Success or no fee. Write for circulars and laws. A. W. SCORRIS & SON, Washington, D. C. & Cincinnati, O.

OAK LAWN The Great Nursery of PERCHERON HORSES.

200 Imported Brood Mares of Choicest Families. LARGE NUMBERS. All Ages, both Sexes, IN STOCK.

300 to 400 IMPORTED ANNUALLY. From France, all recorded with extended pedigrees in the Percheron Stud Books. The Percheron is the only draft breed of France possessing a stud book that has the support and endorsement of the French Government. Send for 120-page Catalogue, illustrations by H. Benheur.
M. W. DUNHAM,
Wayne, DuPage Co., Illinois.

RUPTURE If you want relief and cure at your home, send for Dr. J. A. Sherman's circular of instructions. 24 Broadway, New York.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RY

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest—is the only true middle-link in that transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie, Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodations is unequalled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

ALL EXPRESS TRAINS between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of comfortable DAY COACHES, magnificent PULLMAN PALACE PARLOR and SLEEPING CARS, elegant DINING CARS providing excellent meals, and—between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—restful RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis. This route solid Fast Express Trains run daily to the summer localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and wheat fields and grazing lands of interior Dakota are reached. A short desirable route, via Seneca and Kanabek, offer to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and officials and employes of Rock Island trains protection, and kindly attention.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders—obtainable at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada—or any desired information, address,

R. R. CABLE, Pres't & Gen'l M'gr, Chicago. E. ST. JOHN, Asst Gen'l M'gr, Chicago. E. A. HOLBROOK, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt, Chicago.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND

SLICKER

The Best Waterproof Coat.

The FISH BRAND SLICKER is warranted waterproof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. The new FISH BRAND SLICKER is a perfect riding coat, and covers the entire saddle. Beware of imitations. None genuine without the "Fish Brand" trade-mark. Illustrated Catalogue free. A. J. Tower, Boston, Mass.

Why did the Women

of this country use over thirteen million cakes of Procter & Gamble's Lenox Soap in 1886?

Buy a cake of Lenox and you will soon understand why.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
One Year, in advance ..... $0.75
Six Months ..... 50
Three Months ..... 25

Entered at the Post Office at St. Joe as second-class matter.

FRIDAY APRIL 15, 1887.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Dilley, well known to almost everybody in this neighborhood, recently lost their only child, a bright little boy, by death, and for the benefit of their many friends here, we clip the following obituary notice from a paper published in the county where they live:

"Died, February 12, 1887, of membranous croup, Ira T. Dilley, aged three years, six months and twelve days. It was an angel who passed this way and took the lovely flower away. This death was very unexpected, as he was the picture of health, giving great promise of comfort to his fond parents. He was a remarkable child, having a mind developed beyond his years, kind and affectionate to his parents. He was the idol of the home, as he was all the child they had, having buried two sweet little girls previous, the last one only last March. The sadly bereaved parents have the heartfelt sympathy of friends and neighbors in this great affliction. May they trust in the sweet promises of God and lean upon His strong arm. We are told in His word that all things work together for good to them that love the Lord. His funeral services were conducted by Mrs. Mackey, at the school house, from a text taken from II Kings, XXVI, 4th Verse.

We received the following letters this week, asking us in regard to "Holdover" breed of chickens. We kindly refer them to O. H. Widney, the originator and patentee of this celebrated breed, who will no doubt be glad to answer their inquiries.

Des Moines, Iowa,

April, 12, 1887.

Dear Sir: Please send sample and price list of your celebrated "Holdover" chickens. Would a 30 foot fence be too high? That is the length of our palings, and we hate to cut them off; it wastes them so, and our saw is awful dull. Send them by telegraph.

David Magozlem

Graceville, April 10, 1887.

Dear Sir: Will you please send 1 dozen eggs of those celebrated "Holdover" chickens. We like that name as it is so cold here we can't get a breed that will holdover these Iowa winters, and we think the "Holdovers" are just the thing we want "eggactly."

William H. Dilley.

Altoona, April 9, 1886.

Dear Sir: Will you send us a price list of your "Holdover" chickens. We like the looks of them, and think they are just what we want for this climate. Is there any roosters in the "Holdover" breed, or will the eggs hatch without a rooster. Please give us all the information you can.

Indiana Poultry Co.

Tiffin, Ohio, April 7, 1887.

Dear Sir: Send me a sample of the "Holdover" chickens. What will you take for the exclusive agency for this state?

John R. Higgins.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

NEWVILLE CENTER.

High taxes is the chief topic of conversation.

A. J. Countryman made a business trip to Auburn, Tuesday.

Mrs. Polly Medert has moved in a house belonging to Isaiah Davis.

On Sunday we went to the residence of William Countryman, where a house full of invited guests had assembled to enjoy a dinner that could not be surpassed.

Jacob Presler returned home from North Baltimore last Tuesday. He reports having a splendid time and seeing grand sights at the numerous gas wells at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Presler invited in their neighbors and friends to enjoy an Easter supper, on Saturday evening, that will be long remembered. All we could say would hardly do justice to the good things prepared by the estimable hostess; the table almost groaned under its weight of good things. After supper was over the remainder of the evening was spent in singing and pleasant conversation. We all went home feeling that it was good to be there.

PLEASANT HILL.

Curtis Washler called on Calvin Saylor last Sunday.

We are glad to say Sam Widney has been improving for the last few days.

White and Culberson have a fine lot of sheep pasturing on the Ed. White farm.

Andrew Jackson talks of plastering his new house next week. Aaron Gaysinger will do the work.

Some of the farmers in this section are working three horses to the plow, the ground being so hard and dry.

Harlo Lockwood, of Auburn, and his brother George of Nebraska, were visiting relatives in this neighborhood last week.

Last Tuesday John Koch not thinking it was dry enough to do any damage, put fire in his swamp. It reached the fence in a number of places burning fifteen or twenty rods of fence before he could get it out.

NEWVILLE.

Mrs. Murray is reported as better, but gaining health slowly.

Ida Cottrill commenced school last Monday at Stafford's, No. 1.

Miss Effie Smith is working for Mrs. Countryman this spring.

Wheat looks splendid on the sandy ground, but on the clay it is "thin."

House cleaning is in full blast now and garden making is not far behind.

Spring has arrived at last, as the frogs are singing merrily in the ponds.

What takes O. V. D. toward St. Joe every Saturday evening? Effie please explain.

There has been an improvement made to our village in the way of a meat market.

Lizzie looks lonely lately. Wonder if the departure of Horace had any thing to do with it?

Who ate the greatest number of eggs Sunday? We heard of one person who ate twenty-four.

We understand Mr. Jones intends to leave this place, since John S. won the cigars from him.

Geo. F. DeLong is at home from Pennsylvania, where he has been taking care of his brother A. L., who is very low with consumption.

The M. M. M's met with Miss Charrie Linton last Friday evening and report an enjoyable time.

Uriah Linton has erected a building on the lot formerly owned by Mr. Bartlett, and will supply the town with meat in the future.

A daily scene—A boy with a fish pole on his shoulder and a can full of "bait" in his hand trudging toward the river. School has no attractions for him.

Our schools are progressing finely, although the attendance is not so large as in the winter. J. A. Barber is principal and Mattie May primary teacher.

CONCORD.

Sherman Rickett is preparing to go west in a short time.

Orange Herrick entertained friends from St. Joe last Sunday.

Josephus Shilling's little daughter Lelia, is on the sick list.

Mrs. James Baker invited in a few of her many friends to a quilting last Tuesday.

Mrs. Orange Herrick and Miss Arvilla Draggoo were at Auburn Wednesday.

Dan Wyatt is getting the timber on the ground for a barn and expects to build this spring.

The measles continue to rage among us. Belle Milton was taken quite sick with them in Sunday school last Sabbath.

Mrs. Wasson has been dangerously ill, but at the present, writing her physician thinks with good care, she may possible recover.

Mrs. Jones and daughter Lily, of Farmer's Center, visited with her daughter Mrs. John Feters last Monday and Tuesday.

Willis Brown and family, of Auburn, James Hamilton, of Rehoboth, and John Dawson, of Garrett, were the guests of F. Buchanan and family last Sabbath.

"Judge not lest ye be judged," is scriptural injunction; but it seems that some persons will judge others of saying and doing things, whether they are guilty or not.

Grandma Scott continues very feeble, and is a great sufferer nearly all of the time. She often expresses a wish to be at rest, but is submissive to the will of Him who doeth all things well.

Yesbora, the tailor of Auburn, is making some nobby suits this spring.

One of Auburn's big lumber firms shipped fifty-three loads of lumber from there in the month of March.

Garrett is suffering for want of house room. As high as three and four families are living in one house,

G. V. James, of North Baltimore, is H. K. Reynolds' successor as agent at this place. He seems to be a very pleasant gentleman.

Spencerville is agitating the subject of a railroad. Why of course, have one by all means; they are a mighty convenient thing.

At a meeting held last Saturday, M. T. Bishop, Samuel Lawhead and Erastus White were elected trustees of the Lutheran church for a term of five years.

Sam. Johnson will sell his personal property, consisting of 3 horses, 2 cows, 1 wagon, 10 hogs, both sleds, harness, corn, and other articles; one quarter mile north of St. Joe, on Saturday, April 16th, 1887. Sale to commence at 1 o'clock.

M. TUSTISON,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES,

EARTHEN POTS FOR HOUSE PLANTS

PROVISIONS, OYSTERS, LEMONS,

ORANGES, CANDIES, CIGARS &c.

MAIN ST., - - ST. JOE, IND.

WILLIAM CURIE,

PROPRIETOR OF

MEAT MARKET

ST. JOE, IND.

Highest market price paid for Hides,

Tallow &c. Give me a call.

J. F. WALKER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

Harness, Collars,

WHIPS, HARNESS OIL &c.

ST. JOE, IND.

Repairing done promptly. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see.

A. KINSEY,

DEALER IN

FURNITURE

BUREAUS, TABLES,

Lounges, Beds, Chairs &c.

MAIN STREET, ST. JOE, IND.

All styles of Better Goods furnished to order at low prices. Thanking you for past favors I solicit your future patronage.

F. A. ZEIGLER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

HARNESS,

COLLARS,

WHIPS,

FLY NETS,

DUSTERS,

OILS &c.

St. Joe, Ind.

Prices the Lowest. All work guaranteed. Call and see me.

R. G. COBURN,

AGENT FOR THE

ALBION SPRING Cultivator

AND FIELD HARROW.

AND DAISY RAKE.

Farmers will save money by seeing me before buying. I will call on you with a sample in a few days. R. G. Coburn, St. Joe, Ind.

GRAND

OPENING

—OF—

Fine Millinery.

You are hereby cordially invited to attend my grand opening of new Spring and Summer Millinery, at my new rooms over Dr. Bowman's office, on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 20th and 21st. I have taken special care this spring in making my selections, and I think I am safe in saying that I have the finest line of Millinery Goods ever shown in St. Joe. Hats and Bonnets in all the newest and latest styles and shapes. Flowers, Feathers, Ribbons, Plumes, Ornaments, Lace Novelties &c. Call and see. Prices the lowest. Thanking you for past favors, and asking for a continuance of the same, I am

Yours Very Truly,
MISS S. A. BARTLETT.

Business Notices.

H. W. BOWMAN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Office opposite the Drugstore.

ST. JOE HOTEL, Wm. Leighty, proprietor. Special attention given to furnishing teams for commercial men.

B. S. SHEFFER, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to his care.

ST. JOE BARBER SHOP, one door west of hotel, Will Gee, proprietor. Satisfaction guaranteed. Your patronage is solicited.

FILLEY, LOUNSBERRY AND SHULER, proprietors of the St. Joe Saw and Planing Mill. All work promptly done. Cash paid for Oak Logs.

CITY BARBER SHOP, St. Joe, Ind. John Hull, proprietor. Shaving, Hair Cutting &c. done in the best of style. Come and see me. Two doors west of Kinsey's Furniture Store.

SIMON WINELAND, proprietor St. Joe Handle, Shingle and Feed Mills. Feed grinding a specialty. Highest prices paid for second growth White Ash. Enquire at the mill for full particulars.

LOCALS.

Sam White is learning the painter's trade.

Hugh Maxwell was at Auburn Thursday.

Josh Lounsberry was at Angola this week.

John Hull is having his barber shop painted.

Mrs. John Davis has been quite sick, but is getting better.

Traveling men were thicker than hops in town yesterday.

See our elegant new line of Dress Goods before you buy.

FOR SALE.—A printing press. For particulars inquire at this office.

We are glad to know that Samuel Widney is able to be out again.

Miss Estella Hartman is visiting her grandmother Mrs. Robert Davis.

Miss Bertha Coughanour of Hicksville visited friends in town this week.

There will be an examination for graduation, at the school house tomorrow.

We see by the Hicksville News that the saloons in that place have all been closed.

Fred Jenkins had a large abscess on his back, lanced by Dr. Bowman one day this week.

Yesbera, the fashionable tailor, has the finest line of piece goods ever shown in Auburn.

Rev. Fryberger will preach in the Lutheran church next Sunday morning. All are welcome.

Several of our correspondents are behind time this week. They must have an attack of the spring fever.

Trustee Derrnott has about concluded to build an addition to the school building at this place.

Every lady should call at our store next Wednesday and get one of those beautiful embossed pictures.

Don't forget to go to Miss Bartlett's next Tuesday and Wednesday, and see the new Millinery goods.

We print nearly 400 copies of the News this week, and our circulation is on the increase. Slow but sure.

Don't forget the Grand Millinery Opening at Miss Bartlett's, in St. Joe, on next Tuesday and Wednesday.

The committee for making arrangements for the County Sunday School Convention meets at Auburn tomorrow.

Jud Davis, who has been quite sick at Janesville, Wis., where he has been attending school, was able to return home this week.

It pays to advertise in the News. For proof of this fact notice the orders that O. H. Widney is receiving for his chickens.

H. K. Reynolds, the genial, jolly good natured agent at this place has gone. His hearty laugh, and the patter of his No. 10 boots will be heard no more on the St. Joe pavements. Henry has many warm friends here, who are sorry to see him leave, and we think they all join with us in wishing him success where ever he may go.

Next week we shall place on exhibition one of the finest assortments of spring goods that we have ever shown. We have some special nice things in Summer Dress Goods and Trimmings, White Goods, Shawls and hundreds of new novelties. We will present a handsome embossed picture to every lady who will call at our store on Wednesday, March 21st, and examine our new spring stock. Don't forget it.

J. H. CONRAD,

DEALER IN

ROOFING AND SPOUTING

GUTTERING, HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS.

Cutlery, Nails, Paints, Woodenware &c.

MAIN STREET,

ST. JOE IND.

All work and goods guaranteed to give satisfaction. Give me a call

AT THE

St. Joe

DRUG

STORE.

White-wash Brushes.
Kalsomine Brushes.
Paint and Wall Brushes.
Artist's Brushes.
Marking Brushes.
Shoe and Hair Brushes.
Tooth and Clothes Brushes.

AT THE

St. Joe

DRUG

STORE.

A. KINSEY.

Undertaker and Embalmer. Keeps on hand constantly, a stock of Undertaking Supplies, Coffins, Caskets, Burial Robes &c. I can supply as fine goods as can be furnished. Will attend to making all arrangements for funerals. Calls responded to at all hours of the night. Office on corner of Main and Second Streets; residence on corner of Main and Fourth Streets, St. Joe, Ind.

ST. JOE MARKETS.

CORRECTED EVERY FRIDAY.

Wheat	77 cts.
Oats	39 cts.
Corn	40 cts.
Butter	15 cts.
Eggs	10 cts.
Tallow	3 1/2 cts.
Lard	10 cts.
Potatoes	40 cts.
Smoked Hams	10 cts.
Shoulders and Side Meat	8 cts.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

WEST BOUND.

No. 9 Mail and Express	11:40 A. M.
3 Chicago Express	10:43 P. M.
35 Local Freight	3:53 P. M.

EAST BOUND.

No. 10 Express and Mail	2:08 P. M.
4 Morning Express	2:57 A. M.
34 Local Freight	8:00 A. M.

G. V. JAMES, AGENT.

Sol Barney was at Fort Wayne last Monday.

Yesbera of Auburn has fits; that is, he fits people with fine tailor made clothing.

The best is always the cheapest, and especially does this apply to farming tools. We were reminded of this by seeing R. G. Coburn on our streets last Saturday with one of those No. 10 Albion Spring Tooth Cultivators and field Harrows, manufactured by the Albion Manufacturing Co. of Albion, Mich. Several of our citizens and a number of old farmers saw it at work on the railroad grounds back of the elevators, and they all speak very highly of it as doing effective work. We would advise farmers to take a look at it and see it work before buying either a cultivator or harrow. There is also a seeder attachment that will sow any kind of grain or seeds.

HOUSE PAINTING. Graining, Glazing Paper Hanging and Ceiling Decorating a specialty. All work guaranteed. B. A. Woodcox, Call and see me, or leave orders at the St. Joe Drugstore.

STAR WIND PUMP, E. A. Wainmaker, agent, Newville, Ind. Farmers who think of buying a mill should give me a call before doing so. The Star Mill is the best and prices the lowest.

The melancholic days have come. The saddest of the year: When cleaning house begins to bore. An men get on their ear. It does seem trying indeed, in a man's sole to think that just after passing thru the ordeal of a severe winter, that he must be again plunged into the depths of despair by the inevitable house cleaning act. When a woman marries a man, she promises to love and protect him, but she forgets all about it this time or the year. They think it awful to hear a man swear, an yet they thro the worst kind of temptations in his way to do so, by asking him to put up stoves, dust carpets and such work. Truly man cumeth up like a shadow, his days are full of trouble, an he fleeth awa; or at least he'd like to flea about house cleaning tyme. Sa, bi the way did yu hear about them fokes over north-east o' here that had triplets. Thasa that when he cum into the room, and seen how many there was it nearly skart him to death; he wanted to know weather ana had got awa. It was enuf to friten ana body that watsent used to it.

Bareus Q. Hippenhammer.

Will Curie is finishing up the inside and outside of his butcher shop in fine shape, and will give it a coat of paint. Nothing adds so much to the looks of a building as to see it tastefully painted.

HOW THEY WRITE.

The Peculiarities of Some Well-Known Authors.

(From the Philadelphia Press.)

Authors and actors have a time-honored right to be eccentric, and in no way does an author display his or her eccentricity more markedly than in the preparation of the manuscript. Of late years the type-writer is doing much to destroy the individuality of an author's copy, but even here the man will show himself. For instance, Robert Grant's stories are fastened at the corner with a legal rivet, his name and address with his profession (lawyer) neatly printed in the corner, and the title, in true conveyancer's style, is double underscored with red ink, while the names of people in the dialogue have a single red ink line drawn under them. The whole affair is neat and in perfect condition for publication.

Hjalmar H. Boyesen, on the contrary, writes his articles on the green, pink, or blue rosters of Columbia College, where he is professor. His work, as he sends it to the press, is evidently a first draught, scratched and changed no end of times. Prof. Sophocles, the late professor of Greek at Harvard, wrote his entire Byzantine Dictionary on ribbon paper.

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell uses the type-writer and ties the unruly legal-caption which he writes with red tape. May Agnes Tincker writes a neat small hand, and although her pages are unruly, the number of words will average 125 to the page with almost unflinching exactness. Joaquin Miller writes a diminutive hand, spells badly, has a noble disregard for punctuation, and so separates his syllables that it gives his manuscript the effect of writing in a foreign language.

Frank Denipster Sherman's work is as neat and careful as his verse. Written on small and highly-glazed note paper, the writing is so done that it gives the effect of print, and the blue ink which he uses enhances the dainty appearance of his written page.

To turn to another popular poet and look at Ella Wheeler Wilcox's poems before they appear in print you will find an unformed hand, scrawled over a foolscap page, and when the poem does not reach a full two pages the second page is properly reduced to the requisite size with commendable attention to economy.

Edith M. Thompson uses linen note, and in a delicate hand writes her verses, never crowding, and yet always giving the impression of condensation.

John Habberton, whom every one knows as the "Helen's Babies" man, uses large yellow paper with green lines; the first page or so is exquisitely neat, but soon the corrections become more frequent until they reach a perfect fortissimo of scratches.

Brander Matthews writes a flowing, easy hand, and if he has to erase no human being can tell what it was that he changed, for he draws a square around the unfortunate intruder and lines it over and over until it is literally blotted out of existence.

Sidney Lusk (Harry Harland) does not need to resort to any device to cover up his mistakes. From end to end his curious, forcible, jet-black and heavy ink lines run without a correction. He uses common white paper with rough and ragged edges. Henry Greville is just the opposite. One has to pick out the part that is to be printed from the maze of alterations. Julian Hawthorne writes a small, legible hand, and with commercial care marks on the outside of his MS. the number of words it contains.

George Alfred Townsend utilizes the typewriter. The matter is copied in a lump and afterwards properly punctuated and paragraphed by the author in lead-pencil.

Edgar Fawcett writes on journalist's paper in lead-pencil. An occasional smear indicates that the rubber has been used, and on the outside of his copy he usually places the price of his work.

Marchioness Clara Lanza uses large green paper with no lines. Her handwriting is neat and her work is but little corrected.

George MacDonald writes on thin, crossed French paper, a fine, almost feminine hand, and if he needs to change a passage simply draws his pen through it and writes on.

Sidney Lanier wrote on a highly-glazed note-paper in blue ink, and corrected his copy in a curious ink of a brown hue. His work is very legible.

Louise Chandler Moulton, as the amanuensis of Philip Bourke-Marston, writes an almost masculine hand. It is naturally, being dictated, not a little corrected.

Van Wyck's Trousers.

Senator Van Wyck of Nebraska, is probably the most bow-legged man that was ever in public life, and it is one of the traditions of the country he comes from that he has his pantaloons cut with a circular saw. The result is that those garments are very conspicuous for their baggy appearance and usually attracts attention and comment when he is walking away from a group of his friends.

One day, writes a Washington correspondent, Senator Vance of North Carolina, who is a great wag, was standing with a party of Senators, when Van Wyck passed. Says Vance:

"Do you see those pantaloons old Crazy Horse has got on? I never look at them without being reminded of a story of an old far-heel down in my State who went to the circus for the first time in his life. When he came home he sat around the tavern one night drinking moonshine whiskey and telling his friends what he had seen. He looked down upon them with an air of superiority, and they were rather meekly inquisitive.

One of them says: "Uncle Zeke, did you see the bar at the circus?"

"Yes," says Uncle Zeke: "I seen the bar."

"Well," says the questioner, "what kind of a bar was it, Uncle Zeke?"

"I never seen a bar afore," was the reply, "but it pears to me as if that might be a right smart of a bar."

"Did you see the lion, Uncle Zeke?" put in another one.

"Yes, I seen the lion."

"Waal, what sort of a lion was it, Uncle Zeke?"

"I never seen a lion afore, but it pears to me that it might be a right smart of a lion."

"Did you see the camel, Uncle Zeke?"

"Yes, I seen the camel."

"What sort of a camel was it?"

"Waal, I never seen a camel afore, but it appeared to me that it might be a right smart of a camel."

"Did you see the elephant, Uncle Zeke?"

"Yes, I seen the elephant."

"What sort of an elephant was it, Uncle Zeke?"

"Waal, I never seen an elephant afore, but it pears to me that it might be a right smart of an elephant, barring that he had a good deal of slack leather about his pants."

Clothes and Hats in Corea.

In the matter of clothing Corea is unique. The prevailing color is what is supposed to be white. A man starting out in the morning arrayed in freshly-laundered clothing presents a remarkably fresh appearance, but on his return at night he may not be spotless. The articles of clothing worn at first, a hat, or rather two, or even three, are worn at one time; a tunic, loose and reaching to the waist; loose, baggy white trousers supported by a girdle; white leggings, white stockings, shoes of various kinds; and over all a coat the sleeves of which are very flowing and reach down to the hips or lower, and are sewed up from the bottom to the wrist, so as to form very capacious pockets, where merchants often carry goods in astonishing quantities. In these pockets the petty official carries his fan, his handkerchiefs, his tablets for writing, and sundry little articles. Not to be forgotten are the purse for coins and knife, and the tobacco-pouch and pipe suspended from the girdle, without which no Corean is dressed. In the case of a man of high rank, however, these latter articles are carried by his servants. Of all lands in the world, Corea is the land of hats. There is some variety, but no change of style. The fashion once set, everybody follows it, and sticks to it. With the exception of the forests of the Amazon, where hats, like umbrellas, are worn to shed the snakes which rain down from the dense overhanging branches, Corea leads the world in the superficial area of headgear. They may be seen there measuring two feet from the rim to the crown. The stockings and shoes are also very peculiar.—London Figaro.

BLESSED are the "home-sick," for they have no hospital fees to pay.

A WOMAN'S heart, like the moon, should have but one man in it.

The Wet Blanket.

There are few of us who have not made the acquaintance of the wet blanket, and have not experienced its chilling effects, and suffered influenzas and pneumonias from its contact. We have often received it, no doubt, from a quarter from which we least expected it, and have, it may be, in our turn bestowed it where it was equally unwelcome. What a tendency it has to kill our little enthusiasms with its frosty touch, to accent our ignorance, to arrest our progress, to annihilate our pet conceits! She who does not know the wet blanket is a fortunate being, perhaps, but she lacks this means of development and discipline, although most of us would vastly prefer to remain undeveloped and undisciplined to the end of our days. It is not cheerful to be matured by misfortune; one would rather submit to the natural process of time. The wet blanket renders us self-conscious and shrinking; it makes us feel as if we were too insignificant, too stupid, to accomplish anything serious or serviceable. It is worse than a narcotic for stupefying the faculties and benumbing the activities; one could no more live under its constant application than under that of a chronic blister; it is a species of torture which, although slight, ends by paralyzing effort, spontaneity and originality. There are instances, however, where the wet blanket has not been applied often enough where it would be rather remediable than otherwise in counteracting self-sufficiency and other deep-seated ailments. It is as good as physic for those whose stomachs are disordered by too sweet an opinion of themselves and contempt for others, or as salicylic acid for the mentally rheumatic. There are wives who have become so docile under its influence that they not only dare not say their souls are their own, but no longer believe the fantasy, who never venture to give an opinion on any subject till they have found out which way the wind blows, who have had their intellect eliminated by this dampening method. Indeed, the wet blanket is largely used in the domestic circle, and one can usually count among one's friends a few who keep it constantly on hand, and do not scruple to use it in order to subdue high spirits, contented minds, and lofty aspirations; like the cold compress, it is a sure means of reducing the temperature and bringing the fever of high emprise down to the normal pulse of commonplace repose. However medicinal this treatment may prove, we all like to swallow our bitters voluntarily, and not have them thrust upon us like greatness; and to whatever school of medicine we may belong, we place little confidence in the saving grace of the wet blanket for our own personal disorders, however we may insist on its efficacy with regard to others.—Harper's Bazar.

Wanted—A Boy with Ten Points.

1. Honest. 2. Pure. 3. Intelligent. 4. Active. 5. Industrious. 6. Obedient. 7. Steady. 8. Obliging. 9. Polite. 10. Neat. One thousand first-rate places are open for one thousand boys who come up to the standard. Each boy can suit his taste as to the kind of business he would prefer. The places are ready in every kind of occupation. Many of them are already filled with boys who lack some of the most important points, but they will soon be vacant. One is an office not far from where we write. The lad who has the situation is losing his first point. He likes to attend the circus and the theater. This costs more money than he can afford, but somehow he manages to be there frequently. His employers are quietly watching to learn how he gets so much extra spending money; they will soon discover a leak in the money-drawer, detect the dishonest boy, and his place will be ready for some one who is now getting ready for it by observing point No. 1, and being truthful in all his ways. Some situations will soon be vacant, because the boys have been poisoned by reading bad books, such as they would not dare to show their fathers, and would be ashamed to have their mothers see. The impure thoughts suggested by these books will lead to vicious acts; the boys will be ruined and their places must be filled. Who will be ready for one of these vacancies? Distinguished lawyers, useful mechanics, skillful physicians, successful merchants, must all soon leave their places for somebody else to fill. One by one they are removed by death. Mind your ten points, boys!

they will prepare you to step into vacancies in the front rank. Every man who is waiting to employ a boy is looking for you, if you have the points. Do not fear that you will be overlooked. A young person having these qualities will shine as plainly as a star at night. We have named ten points that go toward making up the character of a successful boy, so that they can be easily remembered. You can imagine one on each finger, and keep them in mind; they will be worth more than diamond rings, and you will then never be ashamed to show your hand.—For change.

Kind-Hearted Insects.

The Bible has made ants famous for industry and foresight, and modern naturalists find few animals more worthy of study. These insects not only are surprisingly intelligent, but manifest a lively regard for each other's welfare, as the following incident well illustrates. It is taken from Mr. Belt's "Naturalist in Nicaragua."

One day while watching a small column of these foraging ants, I placed a little stone on one of them to secure it. The next that approached, as soon as it discovered its situation, ran back in an agitated manner to communicate the intelligence to the others. They rushed to the rescue. Some bit at the stone, and tried to move it; others seized the prisoner by the legs, and tugged with such force that I thought its legs would be pulled off, but they persevered till they got the captive free.

I next covered one up with a piece of clay, leaving only the ends of his antennae projecting. It was soon discovered by its fellows, which set to work immediately, and by biting off pieces of the clay, soon liberated it. Another time I found a very few of them passing along at intervals. I confined one of these under a piece of clay, at a little distance from the line, with its head projecting. Several ants passed it, but at last one discovered it, and tried to pull it out, but could not. It immediately set off at a great rate, and I thought it had deserted its comrade; but it had only gone for assistance, for in a short time about a dozen ants came hurrying up, evidently fully informed of the circumstances of the case, for they made directly for their imprisoned comrade, and soon set him free. The excitement and ardor with which they carried on their unflagging exertions could not have been greater if they had been human beings.

Sealskins.

Sealskins are salted and brought to market in barrels, and do not have the color which they have when they are made up into ladies' sacques. A dirty cinnamon is the natural color of the fur, which is tangled and curly before it has been prepared for use. The first work done on the raw skins is to lay them, fur down, on semi-circular beams, and strip off the fat with knives of different shapes. Next they are stretched on hoops and placed in a drying-room. Next comes the business of plucking, or "unhairing," as it is called in the English factories, and this process is kept a secret. The skins are then washed clean and hooped and dried again. Once more they are shaved, then "butter-tanned," and then put into a trampling-tub, where a man in Adamic costume kneads them until the whole mass of skins is impregnated with animal heat. The tanning and trampling are repeated again and again, until good leather has been made. The cleaning machine and the beaving machine come next, and then the skins are taken into the chemical room and the door locked upon the operator. Then comes the smearing, the rubbing, the beating, the smearing again, and so on until the dark-bronze or jet-black color required has been obtained. As may be gathered from this brief outline, the whole process involves a vast amount of labor and skill. Each skin is handled more than 200 times, and at least two months is required to bring the pelt to perfection.

THE strength and toughness that fire-brick acquires in the burning are the result of fritting; the aluminum silicate frits with impurities and with silica, and an excess of the latter prevents the fritting particles from rendering the mass too dense or brittle.

THE world is a comedy to those who think, a tragedy to those who feel.—Horace Walpole.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, save baggage, expressage, and carriage hire, and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot.

613 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages, and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

Plantation Philosophy.

We l'arn ez much frum de 'zample o' de fool ez we do frum de words o' de wise man.

I's seed men dat didn't hab time ter eat nor ter sleep, but I neber yit seed er man dat didn't hab time ter die.

Er man ken be sich er ole frien' dat be thinks it his right ter 'pose on yer; like er ole famly boss what takes up de idee dat he's got er right ter kick de chillun.

Hope is like er sassafras sprout. Yer mer tramp on it; your mer cut it down ur eben dig it up by de roots; but de fust thing yer know er tender shoot dñn come up.

Er pñsson will sometimes make de same mistake twice, but I ain't foun' de man yit dat eber crowded one dese year laung, hungry houn' dogs up in de corner o' de fence de secon' time.

De rascal may lib wid mo' comfort den de good man, but he doan die half so easy. Ef dar wa'n't no udder argyment, de fact dat de mean man is skeered at de approach o' death would vince me dat dar's er God.—Arkansaw Trav'ler.

A Life Made Miserable

By dyspepsia is scarcely worth the living. A capricious appetite, heartburn, puzzling nervous symptoms, increased action of the heart after eating, sinking in the abdomen between meals, and flatulence after, are among the successive indicia of this harassing complaint. Two things only are needful for its removal. A resort to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and persistence in its use. These remedial measures being adopted, a cure is certain. Taken immediately before or after meals, this great stomachic promotes secretion of the gastric juice, the natural solvent of the food. The nervous and bilious symptoms consequent upon chronic indigestion disappear, as the complaint gradually yields to the corrective and invigorating influence of the Bitters. Appetite returns, sleep becomes more refreshing, and as a sequence, the body is efficiently nourished, muscular power increases, and the mind grows sanguine. Use the Bitters for chills and fever, and rheumatism.

In some of the French glass manufacturing processes are carried on to superior advantage by means of air stored under great pressure, in this way dispensing altogether with the necessity of blowing by the mouth. Glass blowers are known to be peculiarly susceptible to certain disorders, such as diseases of the lips and cheeks, and predisposition to tumors and rupture, these affections being also the more serious because boys are often employed when the system is weakened by rapid growth, the high temperature and dry atmosphere increasing the unfavorable hygienic conditions. The new process now brought forward entirely obviates any blowing by boys, and, with rare exceptions, by adults also. As a result, the manufacture of glassware is found to be ameliorated by rapidity of execution, as well as by the perfection and the large size of the pieces which are produced.

Political Temperance Parties.

It would be the most remarkable thing in the history of the world if the little harmless Moxie Nerve Food plant should substitute the use of stimulants, and take the wind out of the sails of the political temperance parties. There is the best of authority for the statement that the drinker is better satisfied with it, and the liquor dealer has to keep it or lose his custom. It is a powerful factor that they can make just as much money on it, and pay no license. Also, the women and churches back it to the utmost. All the dealers say its sale is enormous. The company putting it on the market offer the chemists $5,000 if they can find anything in it more deleterious than common bitter root and wintergreen. We thank God it can do so well without harm.

It was a very proper answer to him who asked why any man should be delighted with beauty? That it was a question that none but a blind man could ask, since any beautiful object doth so much attract the sight of all men that it is in no man's power not to be pleased with it.—Clarendon.

MONEY and time are the heaviest burdens of life, and the unhappiest of all mortals are those who have more of either than they know how to use.—Johnson.

*** Organic weakness or loss of power in either sex, however induced, speedily and permanently cured. Inclose 10 cents in stamps for book of particulars. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE object of a hotel bill of fare, between men, is to prevent you finding out what you are going to eat.

A LEADING physician has made the startling revelation that six thousand people, mostly children, die yearly in this country from the effects of cough mixtures containing morphia or opium. Red Star Cough Cure contains neither opiates nor poisons; purely vegetable.

A COCKNEY punster being asked by a friend his opinion of a new piece of hall furniture, replied that he thought it very hat-rack-tive.

MARCH, 1882, Rev. L. N. St. Onge, P. P. Indian Missionary, Glen Falls, N. Y., wrote: "A single application of St. Jacobs' Oil relieved me of rheumatism." October 29, 1886, he writes again: "It cured me then."

The Tree of Death.

On the New Hope battlefield was a tree upon which the soldiers nailed the inscription: "Tree of Death." Seven Federals were killed behind the tree by Confederate sharpshooters. The tree was in advance of the Federal line, and was about three hundred yards from the Confederate works. It was used by Federal skirmishers, who would stand behind it and load and then step out and fire. Confederate sharpshooters went along the Confederate line for nearly a mile in each direction, and then, being so far from the tree that they could see behind it, by a cross-firing made it as dangerous to stand behind the tree as to stand in front of it. Seven Federals were killed behind the tree and it came to be known as the "Tree of Death."—Atlanta Constitution.

An Offensive Breath

Is most distressing, not only to the person afflicted, if he have any pride, but to those with whom he comes in contact. It is a delicate matter to speak of, but it has parted not only friends but lovers. Bad breath and catarrh are inseparable. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases, as thousands can testify.

PERSONS who take measures to enlarge their business—tailors.

Farmers.

Send 10 cents to the PRICKLY ASH BITTERS Co., St. Louis, Mo., and get a copy of "The Horse Trainer."

A complete system, teaching how to break and train horses in a mild and gentle way, requiring no elaborate apparatus, nothing more than can be found in any stable in the country—a rope and a strap. Every one handling horses should have a copy.

BUT few men can handle a hot lamp-chimney and say there is no place like home at the same time.

A slight cold, if neglected, often attacks the lungs. Brown's BRONCHIAL TROCHES give sure and immediate relief. Sold only in boxes. Price 25 cts.

MOST of the time in hot water—the washerwoman.

Snug Little Fortunes

May be had by all who are sufficiently intelligent and enterprising to embrace the opportunities which occasionally are offered them. Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, have something new to offer in the line of work which you can do for them, and live at home, wherever you are located. Profits immense, and every worker is sure of over $5 a day; several have made over $50 in a single day. All ages; both sexes. Capital not required; you are started free; all particulars free. You had better write to them at once.

Posterity vs. Ancestry.

It is no longer questioned, it is admitted, that the blood of man is improving. The children of to-day are better formed, have better muscle and richer minds than our ancestors. The cause of this fact is due more to the general use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic than any other source.

If afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it 25c.

At this season nearly every one needs a good medicine to purify, vitalize, and enrich the blood, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best for this purpose. It is peculiar in that it strengthens and builds up the system and creates an appetite, while it eradicates disease. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla. Do not take any other.

Hood's Sarsaparilla sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Especially to Women.

"Sweet is revenge, especially to women," said the gifted but naughty Lord Byron. Surely he was in bad humor when he wrote such words. But there are complaints that only women suffer, that are carrying numbers of them down to early graves. There is hope for those who suffer, no matter how sorely or severely, in Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." Safe in its action, it is a blessing, especially to women, and to men, too, for when women suffer the household is askew.

If Adam had taken his home paper, the devil would never have got the best of him.

INDIGESTION, dyspepsia, nervous prostration, and all forms of general debility relieved by taking MEN'SMAN'S PEPTONIZED BEEF TONIC, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. It contains blood-making, force-generating and life-sustaining properties; is invaluable in all feeble conditions, whether the result of exhaustion, nervous prostration, overwork, or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. Casswell, Hazard & Co., proprietors, New York.

The earliest mention of neck-wear is that of Job's three comforters.

No opium in Piso's Cure for Consumption. Cures where other remedies fail. 25c.

CATARRH

HAY-FEVER

ELY'S CREAM BALM
Is not a liquid, snuff or powder. Applied into nostrils is quickly absorbed. It clears the head. Allays inflammation. Heals the sores. Restores the senses of taste and smell. 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cents.
ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health. It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young. As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

PATENTS

R. S. & A. F. LACEY, Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C. Instructions and opinions as to patentability FREE. 17 years' experience.

$2.95 A Month and a Gold Watch free to every Agent selling Dahlem's Furniture Polishes. Finest in the world. Big money. Send 25c for sample bottle and terms. C. S. Dahlem & Co., New York, N. Y.

LONGFELLOW'S POEMS; LIFE OF TEN. U. S. GRANT; 100 Popular Songs, and 16 Complete Stories; all four books only 12c. M. C. Burkel, 479 Nelson Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

OPIMUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

LOTS New Town of BENJAMIN, WIS., Cen. R. R. Plans apply Milwaukee Mining Exchange, Milwaukee, Wis. Goebels Stocks bought and sold.

MATRIMONIAL advertisements printed free in our next issue. Send them to CLIMAX, Chicago. This mammoth paper, by mail, 10c.

PENSIONS COLLECTED and Increased by Fitzgerald & Powell, Indianapolis, Ind. Old cases reopened. Send for copy of laws free.

MONEY MADE FAST in Goebels stocks, and new town lots. Security guaranteed. Made, etc., H. F. KNAK & Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

LADY AGENTS—Article new; sells fast. No money to invest. Address, R. P. LICKER, Steubenville, O.

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and restore the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Indigestion, Lack of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only add to its popularity. Do not experiment—get Original AND BEAT IT.
Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS (Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)
THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

FOR HORSES.
CURE A. W. A. L. Nov. 17, 1886.
Recently I bought a young horse. He was taken very ill with Pleumonia. I tried to think of something to relieve him. Colicaded what was good for man would be good for the horse. So I got a bottle of Piso's Cure and gave him half of it through the nostrils. This helped him, and I continued giving same doses night and morning until I had used two bottles. The horse has become perfectly sound. I can recommend Piso's Cure for the horse as well as for man.
N. S. J. STRIDER.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

WEBSTER'S Unabridged Dictionary. A DICTIONARY, 118,000 Words, 3000 Engravings, a GAZETTEER OF THE WORLD, of 25,000 Titles, and a BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY, of nearly 10,000 Noted Persons, ALL IN ONE BOOK. Contains 3000 more Words and nearly 2000 more Illustrations than any other American Dictionary.
G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Pub'rs, Springfield, Mass.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS The Original and Only Genuine. Safe and always Reliable. Beware of worthless imitations. Ladies, ask your Druggist for "Chichester's English" and take no other, or inclose 1c. (stamp) to us for particulars in letter by return mail. NAME PAPERS. CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., 2815 Madison Square, Philada., Pa. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Ask for "Chichester's English" Pennyroyal Pills. Take no other.

CATARRH

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest. Also good for Cold in the Head, Headache, Hay Fever, &c. 50 cents.

ADVERTISERS or others who wish to examine this paper, or obtain estimates on advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St., the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co., Charlestown, Mass.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. $5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.00 FREE. If not put under the horse's feet, Address Brewster's Safety Rein Holder, Kelly, Mich.

N. U. F. W. No. 16-87. When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

ARISTOCRATIC SURNAMES.

How to Pronounce Some of the Best-Known English Names.

[London World.]

Phonographers complain that hardly one English word in a thousand is spelt correctly—that is, all its letters are not sounded precisely as they are in the alphabet. And such criticism is perfectly just, though, from the force of habit, we seldom notice the faulty orthography of common words. But if we meet proper names, of persons or places, their eccentric spelling is more observable, and sometimes even puzzling. Highly-educated persons often hesitate in pronouncing a proper name which they see for the first time. This remark especially applies to some aristocratic surnames, as will be seen by the subjoined, with their recognized pronunciation:

Clanranald must be sounded as if written Clanronald. Derby, in speaking either of the peer, the town, or the race, should always be called Darby. Dillwyn is pronounced Dillon, with the accent on the first syllable. In Blyth the th is dropped, and the word becomes Bly. Lyveden is pronounced as Liven, and Pepys as Pepis, with the accent on the first syllable. In Monson and Ponsonby the first o becomes short u, and they are called Munson, Punsonby. In Blount the o is silent, and the word is spoken as Blunt. Brougham, whether referring to the late illustrious statesman or the vehicle named after him, should not be pronounced as two syllables Brawham or Brooham, but as one—Broom. Colquhoun, Duchesne, Majoribanks, and Cholmondely—four formidable names to the uninitiated—must be called Cohoon, Dukarn, Marshbanks, and Chumley! Cholmeley is also pronounced Chumley. Mainwaring and McLeod must be pronounced Manering and Macleod. The final x in Molyneux and Vaux is sounded, but the final x in Devereaux and Des Vaux is mute. In Ker the e becomes short a, and the word is called Kar; it would be awfully bad form to pronounce it Cur! In Waldegrave the de is dropped, and it becomes Walgrave, with the accent on the first syllable. Berkeley, whether referring to the person or place, should be pronounced Barkley. Buchan is pronounced Bunan; Beauchamp, or Beauchamp, as Beaclare, with the accent on the first syllable, and Beauvoir as Beevor. Wemyss is pronounced as Weems, and Willoughby D'Eresby as Willowby D'Ersby; St. John must be pronounced Sinjin as a surname or Christian name; when applied to a locality or a building, it is pronounced as spelled, Saint John. Montgomery, or Montgomerie, is pronounced Mungumery, with the accent on the second syllable. In Elgin g takes the hard sound it has in give; in Gifford and Giffard it takes the soft sound as in gin—as it also does in Nigel. In Conyngham the o becomes short u, and the name is called Cunningham. In Johnstone the i is silent. Strachan should be pronounced Strawn; Heathcote, Héthkut; and Hertford, Harford. The ar is dropped in Abergavenny, which is called Abergenny; and the n in Penrith, which is called Perith. Beauchamp must be pronounced Beecham; Bourne, Burn; and Bourke, Burk. Gower, as a street, is pronounced as it is written, but, as a surname, it becomes Gor. Eyre should be pronounced Air; and Du Plat is called Du Plah. Jervis should be pronounced Jarvis; Knollys, as if written Knowls; Menzies as if written Mynjes; and Macnamara must be pronounced Macnamarah, with the accent on the third syllable. Sandys should be spoken as one syllable—Sands.

It Startled Him.

He was a clerk in a shoe store, but rather new to the business. When a pretty girl tripped in and asked for shoes he inquired politely:

"What number do you wear?"

"Why, two, of course," she snapped; "how many feet do you suppose I have?"

"I—I—meant what size?" he stammered.

"Oh! size 3, and D— wide," she responded, carelessly.

He fainted before a brother clerk could explain that the width of shoes was regulated alphabetically and no profanity was intended.—Detroit Free Press.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN doubtless referred to good yeast when he wrote: "Early to bed and early to rise."

RITH AND POINT.

PAGES-IN-WAITING—MSS. held over by the magazine publisher.

PRINTER'S ink is a great thing, yet printers sink much money in it, some times.

A LAD cannot expect to be dressed up like a man until he is through being dressed down like a boy.

A MARRIED man who never took a drink in his life, will see double when his wife presents him with twins.

THE ideal wife gets out of bed, lights the fire and has the breakfast prepared before she calls the ideal husband.

"I KNOW what four o'clock a. m. and four o'clock p. m. mean," said old Beezum to his wife; "but what is this four o'clock t. that we are invited to?"—Texas Siftings.

"HENRY," asked the fond wife of her sick husband, "would you not like to see somebody?" and he faintly responded, "No, I'm not see sick."—Commercial Bulletin.

WHEN a young lady runs off and marries a coachman a great fuss is made about it; but every day some bride marries a groom and nothing is thought of that.—Brooklyn Union.

TRUST him little who praises all; him less who censures all, and him least who is indifferent to all. In fact, don't trust anybody if you can get ready money.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

"THAT fellow calls himself a soldier, and he never smelt powder," said Jones to Smith. "Never smelt powder, eh?" "No, sir." "I think you're wrong, I saw him kissing a society girl the other night."—Boston Courier.

POOR FELLOW.

The man who never advertised his store sat down one night a little while to think, And after meditation rose and swore: This place is deadlier than a roller rink.

—Boston Courier.

John and Ida married lived In Idaho forlorn, 'Cause John hung round the tavern And let Idaho the corn.

—Texas Siftings.

"WHAT do you consider the most difficult thing in the world?" asked an inquisitive old lady of the President of a college. "Ah," sighed the learned man, who had a family of grown-up daughters, "the most difficult thing, I find, is to convince a woman that she should wear her old stockings on a muddy day."—Chicago Ledger.

PLEASE SING WITHOUT LYING.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead, He does not love to lie in bed, While matin bells are loudly rung And caustic taunts at him are flung? If such there be, go, mark him well, And ring for him the daylight bell, Far happier than that wretch forlorn, With joyous snores I'll hail the morn, And as the sun up-climbing goes, Make the day hideous with my nose.

Burdette, in Brooklyn Eagle.

Fogg—I've been writing something here; but I don't know whether to publish it or not. What do you think of it? Brown (after looking over a few pages)—To be frank with you, I don't believe anybody but a fool would buy such a book; certainly nobody but a fool would ever read it. Fogg—Thank you, I'll publish it. The man who writes only for the wise men is a fool; he who writes for fools is a wise man. He has a hundred readers to the other's one.—Boston Transcript.

JOHN SMITH, familiarly known as "Shemoka John," formerly of McCalmont Township, now deceased, was a great tobacco-chewer in his day. He would bite off a chunk as large as an elephant's ear, and twist it around with great satisfaction. One day, while mastering a fresh invoice of plug, he noticed that it produced a peculiar crackling and grating sound and tasted nasty. He looked at the plug and saw that a mouse had been embedded in it, and that he had bitten it in two and had half of it in his mouth at that moment. That was his last chew of tobacco.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

Retailing Buffalo Meat.

An Abilene, Texas, correspondent writes: "A wagon was in town a few days ago from which the proprietor was retailing fresh buffalo meat. It is probably the last wagon with such goods that will ever be seen on the streets of Abilene. There have been a few lonesome buffaloes for some years past in the unfrequented wilds of Crockett County. From these wilds they never emerged, seeming to understand that they were hemmed in on all sides by a merciless cordon of fire. Therefore their migratory instinct was forgotten, or at least they never attempted to follow it."

J. D. LEIGHTY,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,
GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBER GOODS, HATS, CAPS, ETC.

A FULL LINE OF

Plug, Smoking and Fine Cut Tobaccos, Canned Fruits, Prunes, Raisins Currants, Etc., Etc.

St. Joe, - - Indiana.

M. T. BISHOP.

—DEALER IN—

LUMBER,

LATH. SHINGLES, PINE AND POPULAR LUMBER, LIME, PLASTER, MOULDINGS, ETC., ETC.

I HAVE AN IMMENSE STOCK AND SOLICIT YOUR PATRONAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

YARD NEAR DEPOT, - - ST. JOE, IND.

S. & F. BARNEY,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

CLOTHING, GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, GROCERIES. GENERAL STOCK OF HARDWARE, STOVES AND TRIMMINGS,

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

Produce, Grain, Seeds, and Wool.

CASE & OLDS,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

GROCERIES, CLOTHING, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, QUEENSWARE, CLASSWARE, ETC.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

EXAMINE THE BARGAINS ON OUR

5 and 10c Counters.

THE ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. I.

ST. JOE, IND., FRIDAY, APRIL 22, 1887.

NO. 13.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

—A few weeks ago, at Richmond, Jonas Bennett and Jennie Kilmer, who had long been lovers, were married. Early one morning recently she arose, gave her husband an evasive answer that led him to believe she was necessarily going down stairs for a few moments, and proceeded to the bridge across White River, where she leaped about seventy feet; and broke her neck in striking the water, where she was subsequently found by her husband, who became alarmed at her prolonged absence and instituted search. She was crazed by the death of her mother, about five years ago. Developments leave little doubt but the act was premeditated.

—For a number of years Amos H. Mills, of Decatur Township, Marion County, returned for taxation $9,000 in money, which he said was buried on his farm. He paid taxes promptly on it, but last June he died without giving any information as to where the money lay. The administrator plowed every part of the farm, dug around the dwelling-house and out-buildings without discovering anything of the least value. The widow had no other means, and in time a small judgment was taken against her. Under attachment her buggy and horse were taken away.

—Notices have been received from W. S. Chapman, of the Central Union Telephone Company, by subscribers to the Wabash exchange that, owing to the restrictions imposed upon the business by law, they will be compelled to close the exchange in that city. Mr. Chapman adds that in case any accommodation can be rendered by private line or public toll service the company will cheerfully do so.

—Some years ago the old Board of Tippecanoe County Commissioners contracted with Barnes and Mitchel, County Auditor and County Clerk, to do certain indexing of records. The work was done, and proved more expensive than was anticipated, and the new Board of Commissioners refused to allow the bills. Appeals were taken, and Judge Vinton held that the county must pay.

—On petition of citizens the Richmond City Council has passed a resolution appropriating $10,000 to be used in boring for gas. The object is to thoroughly test the field near Richmond, and perhaps adjacent towns, and determine whether it is necessary to go to the known field and pipe to the city, as proposed in organizing a citizen's association, with $200,000 capital, if it proves necessary.

—As the Bradford train was passing through the Panhandle yard at Logansport, Joseph Austin, a resident of Bunker Hill, Ind., fell from a platform against a switch engine moving in an opposite direction. Mr. Austin was knocked under the wheels of the passenger train and instantly killed. Austin was a one-armed man, and was proprietor of a lunch-counter at Bunker Hill.

—A 13-year-old son of John Johnson, of Decatur, while trying to put a belt on the pulley of a grindstone in his father's planing-mill, was caught by the driving-belt of the mill, and carried to the line-shafting, and whirled round and round until every bone in his body was broken. One of his arms was torn from his body at the shoulder. His death was almost instantaneous.

—President Watson, of the Vincennes and New Albany Railroad, says there is no longer any question as to the road being built. He states that the company's surveying party have found an excellent line from New Albany to Paoli, and have prospecting for a route from Paoli to Jasper. The entire line can be built at a very reasonable sum per mile.

—The boy, Jesse Heimbaugh, of Lafayette, who was by many believed to have been killed by his mother during her insanity, has been found at Elwood, where he had gone to visit relatives. The mother's talk about a strange man killing her boy and her having buried him in a lonely spot, gave rise to the theory of murder.

—The Governor has appointed David W. Chambers, of New Castle, as Trustee of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, in place of Stephen E. Urnstrom, the State Senator who resigned his trusteeship on Jan. 5. Andrew Hagan has been reappointed State Oil Inspector, and Enos B. Reed State Fish Commissioner.

—Dr. K. H. Williams, recently appointed postmaster at Cope, has become disgusted with the position and forwarded his resignation to the Postmaster General. He assigned as a reason for this action that the pay of the office was inadequate to the labor and responsibility. His salary for March last was 15 cents.

—Information received from Warren, Huntington County, states that the impression is abroad that the man recently employed to "shoot" the oil well there was "influenced by an Eastern corporation, and instead of increasing the flow intentionally destroyed the well, which is now worthless.

—Mrs. J. W. Long, a passenger on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad train, en route to Englewood, Ill., her home, died within a short distance of Fort Wayne, of consumption. The remains were taken off at that city and prepared for burial.

—Mrs. Philas Seely, of Elkhart, aged 83 years, died recently. She was a pioneer, and one of the best-known characters of that city. She was very prominent in the affairs of the First M. E. Church, of which she had been a member over sixty years.

—The Miller school-house, five miles southwest of Crawfordsville, was destroyed by fire. Loss, $1,200; insured for $375. As the house had not been in use for some time, some person must have set it on fire.

—The Washington Common Council has granted to the Washington Street Railway Company an exclusive franchise for thirty years. The company was organized three days ago. J. C. Lavelle is President.

—The Nickel Plate people are building one of the finest wrought-iron bridges in the State over the St. Mary's River at Fort Wayne. The improvement will not be finished before the 1st of June.

—Polly Ward, of Columbus has received a telegram advising her of the death of her brother in Colorado, leaving her the sole heir to his estate, worth over $1,000,000.

—James McGurdy, aged 35 years, while hunting on the Kankakee in company with Charles Herbert, Jr., and Fred Nelson, of Brazil, shot himself dead accidentally. He left a widow and children.

—At Hartsville, Cash Carter, aged 15, clerk in Self's store, while carelessly handling a revolver, discharged it, tearing a hole through his head above the eye. He died soon after.

—A gas and oil-well association has been formed at South Bend, with John Caldwell as President. It is the intention to prospect and bore thoroughly for gas and oil.

—William Gorham, aged 71 years, an ex-prison guard at Jeffersonville, dropped dead from heart disease at his home, in that city.

—Gen. Lew Wallace and Hon. John Dougherty have both declined to serve on the Soldier's Monument Commission.

—A first-class passenger depot will be built at Kokomo this season for the Lake Erie and Western.

—The telephones are to be removed from Crawfordsville, and all the offices discontinued.

—A natural-gas company has been formed at Ladoga, Montgomery County.

Gambetta's Duel with M. De Fourton.

The cause of the duel was an exclamation of Gambetta during the sitting of the Chamber of Deputies on November 18, 1878—"It is a lie!" These words were addressed to M. De Fourton, who was making a speech to the Chamber.

After having given the lie to M. De Fourton, Gambetta left the sitting, and went to look for M. Clemenceau in the lobbies of the Chamber. Gambetta asked M. Clemenceau to act as his second, but the latter refused, not caring to accept the responsibility of such an affair, for, naturally, had anything serious happened to Gambetta, the seconds would have had to bear the brunt of public blame. However, Gambetta insisted. "If you refuse," he said to M. Clemenceau, "I shall not be able to find a single man to serve as my second. Theirs fought a duel. I must fight too." Finally M. Clemenceau accepted, and it was he who arranged the whole affair, charged the pistols, and gave the word of command—"Faites, deux, trois!" The adversaries were placed at a distance of thirty paces in an open space on the plain of Chatillon, where there was neither tree nor house nor any object in sight of importance enough to guide the aim; the silhouettes of the combatants stood out against a perfectly clear sky, for the report that the duel was fought in a fog is untrue; the pistols were charged with the regular quantity of powder and with regular bullets by M. Clemenceau himself. M. Clemenceau chose pistols as the arms of his principal, for the simple reason that he did not consider Gambetta to have sufficient agility to fight with swords. As for distance, M. Clemenceau had at first proposed thirty-five paces, but the seconds of M. De Fourton suggested thirty. Gambetta himself would have fought at even five or ten paces, had his seconds ordered him to do so; but there was an excellent reason for separating the adversaries by as great distance as possible, namely, the fact that Gambetta was a very large man and M. De Fourton a slender man.

Throughout this duel Gambetta acted with perfect coolness. On the eve of the engagement M. Clemenceau gave him some hints as to the correct manner of using his arm and aiming. The next morning, when he went to carry him to the rendezvous, he found Gambetta sitting at his window and calmly shooting with a revolver at the sparrows in his garden. While they were riding out to Plessis-Piquet, Gambetta wished to smoke, but M. Clemenceau prevented him, saying that the tobacco would make his hand unsteady. Gambetta's first words, when the duel was over, were, "Ah! now I'll light up a cigar."—Theodore Child, in Harper's Magazine.

Kindness to Horses.

The National Live Stock Journal, in advocating kindness to horses, says: "Domestic animals are the creatures of circumstances, and the circumstances that make them tractable, or, on the other hand, fractious and difficult to manage, are mainly—almost entirely—within our control. Many men expect an untutored beast to obey a word of command that it has not been taught the meaning of. If the animal goes to the right when the driver wants it to go to the left, this is taken as a piece of wilful stubbornness, and a harsh word, a harsher kick or blow from the whip is the animal's reward; not for doing a wrong thing, but for not doing that which it had not been taught to do. In the case of horses, they are not usually credited with more than a fraction of the intelligence and willingness to obey, that they possess. The work done by the average horse is performed under a feeling of compulsion, as under ordinary management there is no full feeling of sympathy between horse and master. The deportment of the master toward his animals generally settles the question of the animal's deportment toward the master. Hence, it should be always borne in mind that a link of sufficient strength to bind the horse, through sympathy of feeling, can better be made, and will be immeasurably stronger, if made of kind words and a lump of sugar, than if made of whalebone and rawhide."

Well Situated.

A traveler in the Missouri River bottoms came upon an old fellow sitting on a log, nodding.

"Halloa,"

"Hy," replied the old fellow, lazily looking up.

"Do you live near here?" the traveler asked.

"Over yan," pointing.

"What, down in that low place?"

"Ah, hah."

"It's a wonder you don't die."

"Would, I reckon, if I didn't keep on er livin'."

"Don't you have chills and fevers?"

"Shake a little sometimes, but er fellow don't mind it ef he ain't got nothin' else to do."

"Yes, but I should think that he would have to do something else in order to make a living."

"Yas, do look er leetle thater way."

"Why don't you move away from here?"

"Look here, whar do you live?"

"In the blue-grass regions of Kentucky."

"Why don't you move away?"

"Because I like the country."

"Wall, I don't move because I like this here country."

"But, my dear sir, there are many things to induce a man to live where he do. One of them—and I suppose it would strike you harder than any of the rest—is that a man does not have to work very hard for a living."

"Podner, that's just the very reason I stay here. It ain't no trouble ter ketch fish enough ter eat."

"Yes, but this bottom overflows. You can't catch fish then."

"No, but then the picnic comes, furrer see, the Government sends us meat an' meal. Podner yer may talk erbout your blue grass an' all that, but thar ain't nothin' like livin' in a country whar the Government makes it er pint ter feed yer. Cattle mount die, cotton mount fail—an' all your work be lost, but thar ain't no danger uv the Government goin' under. Say, whut's ther river doin' erbove?"

"Rising."

"Thank ther Lawd. Nancy," arising, and shouting to his wife, "I b'leve ther Lord's gwine ter answer our prar'."—Arkansas Traveler.

A Young Financier.

Nellie, whose grandfather began life as a cabin-boy and finished as a millionaire, was paid by her mother 1 cent a dozen for pins picked up from the carpet, to keep the baby from getting them. "Nurse," said Nellie, as her stock of pennies increased, "do you know what I am going to do when I have 6 cents?"

"No," answered the nurse.

"I am going to buy a paper of pins and scatter them over the floor, and then pick them up," replied the young financier, who was barely 5 years old.

Cause for Absence.

Layman (to minister)—The bad weather keeps a good many people away from church, I suppose, Mr. Goodman.

Minister—Ye-es; but bad weather doesn't keep as many away from church as the contribution-box does, my brother.

New York Sun.

DOMESTICS belong to the hire class of society.

The St. Joe News.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

A FRATERNAL TRIBUTE.

BY DICK STEELE.

Brother Ned
Is home from college,
And his head
So full of knowledge
Is that really 'tis an effort to adjust his Derby hat.

Full of boating, full of racing,
Full of base-ball, steeple-chasing,
Boxing, foot-ball, hare and hounds,
Putting up the monstrous bell weighing many many pounds,
And all that.

He can leap
And he can tumble;
In his sleep
He talks of "fumble."
"Half-back," "touch-down," "cushion-carroms,"
"Sets-to," "going out on strike."

"Umpire's ruling," "even innings,"
Like his Coney Island winnings,
And he's followed by a pup
That at any time can go against its weight and do it up,
If it like.

Such is Ned
My cultured brother;
College-bred,
There's sure none other
Can compete with him in classics—such as wild
Olympian games.

He's a boxer, he's a runner,
He's a short-stop, he's a stunner,
Always leading, never led,
Is my short-haired, noseless, careless, brokenfingered brother Ned.
He is Fame's
Omaha World.

A HAPPY HOME.

BY EDNA R. RUSSELL.

"Oh, Harry, how beautiful this is!" cried Sophie Garland, clasping her plump little hands with delight. "I never dreamed that you had prepared such a home as this for me!"

"Love in a cottage, eh?" said Harry Garland, looking down with eyes of amused admiration, at his pretty young bride. "But you see, Sophie, I thought this would be so much nicer than a town house. For the summer months, at least!"

Cloverdale was the prettiest of Gothic cottages, all embowered in blooming lilacs, fragrant tresses of honeysuckle and climbing roses. There was a little lawn shorn close as green plush, a running brook bridged over, and the smallest of grottoes, where the drip of cascade was lost among ferns and irises.

"It's most charming," said Mrs. Garland, who had filled both hands with tulips, daffodils, and early roses. "I never dreamed of anything so lovely! And there is a cabinet piano in the drawing-room, and real stained-glass windows in the library, and the quaintest sun-dial I ever saw."

"And plenty of spare-rooms if my mother should wish to spend the summer with us," said Mr. Garland, carelessly.

Sophie's face fell, all of a sudden. The roses and daffodils drifted to the ground; she came close to Harry, and began nervously playing with the middle button of his coat.

"Harry," she said, "I don't want to seem ungracious, but—perhaps it is best to have an understanding on this question at once."

"On what question?" said Harry, somewhat bewildered.

"On the mother-in-law question," courageously answered Sophie.

Harry burst out laughing.

"My dear child," said he, "who has been filling your innocent little head with nonsense?"

"It isn't nonsense," said Sophie. "But I have made up my mind never to let our domestic peace be imperiled by such an element as this. And I—I can't consent to receive your mother here, Harry."

Mr. Garland whistled low and long.

"The deuce you can't!" said he.

"You won't ask it, will you, dear?" coaxed the young wife, in her sweetest accents.

"If you only knew my mother, Sophie—" "But I don't know her," pleaded Sophie, "and I don't want to know her."

"I'm sure you would like her, Sophie; and I am positively certain you could not help loving her."

"As if there ever could be any relationship nearer than armed neutrality between mother and daughter-in-law!" satirically observed Mrs. Garland. "No, Harry, it is too dangerous an experiment to try. You will let me have my own way in this matter, will you not?" she added, caressingly.

"It is the first favor I have asked of you."

"Of course you are the mistress here," said Garland, feigning an indifference that he did not feel. "I do not intend to oppose your wishes in any respect."

And Sophie stood on tip-toe to kiss him, by way of reward.

After this discussion, it is hardly necessary to say that Mrs. Harry Garland was not a little surprised, two or three days subsequently, by the arrival of a cab at the gate, loaded with trunks, and the appearance of a juvenile-looking elderly lady, very much powdered and frizzed, with an eighteen-year-old bonnet and a parasol which a school-girl might have envied. Sophie started from the cozy nest in the hammock where she was reading Dante.

"Mamma!" she exclaimed.

"Yes, darling, it's me," said Mrs. Percy, her mother. "I was on my way to Brighton, so I thought I would surprise you and dear Harold."

And she gave Sophie a succession of kisses, which were very strongly flavored with rose-powder, and beckoned the cabman to bring in the trunks.

"Four," said she. "And a bonnet-box, and an umbrella-strap, and two traveling bags. I believe that is all. My darling Sophie, what a lovely home you have here! And the Doctor says country air is the very thing I need to set me up."

Mrs. Peregrine Percy was one of those old-young ladies who remind one forcibly of an antique piece of furniture varnished up to look like new. Sophie Garland had never been in sympathy with her fashionable mother. She had married decidedly in opposition to that lady's wishes, and was, to tell the truth, not especially pleased at her appearance on the scene at this particular moment.

"But what am I to do?" she said to herself. "I certainly can't turn her out of doors; though I'm sure I don't know what Harry will say, after all those disagreeable things I said about his mother."

But Harry Garland was too much of a gentleman not to behave courteously under any circumstances. He welcomed Mrs. Percy with genuine hospitality, and did not even notice Sophie's appealing glances when the old lady incidentally let fall the information that, since she liked the situation at Cloverdale Cottage so well, she should, perhaps remain there all the summer, "just to keep Sophie company, you know."

"It is so good of Harry not to fling back my own silly words into my face," she thought, with a thrill of gratitude.

But at the end of a week Mrs. Peregrine Percy sickened.

"I hope it's not going to be anything serious," said she. "Sickness does age a person so. I never had any wrinkles, you know, dear, before that last attack of neuralgia."

But when it transpired that Mrs. Percy's ailment was a severe and contagious form of disease, there was a general commotion at Cloverdale Cottage. The servants gave warning; the neighbors kept away; and poor Sophie was weary, worn out with nursing and fatigue, when one day a gentle little woman in black presented herself.

"She will see you ma'am," said the little charity girl, who alone could be induced to cross the infected threshold, and who loudly declared that "at the asylum she had had everything, and wasn't afraid of nothing!" "I told her to go away, but it was no good."

Sophie, pale and haggard, crept down into the darkened drawing-room.

"I don't know who you are," said she, "or what your business is, but you had better go away. There is terrible sickness here."

"I know it, answered a mild voice, "and that is the very reason that I am here. I am Harry's mother, darling. I have come to help you."

So, like a ministering angel, the "mother-in-law" came into the house, just as Sophie herself succumbed to the fell disease.

No sooner did Mrs. Peregrine Percy recover than she packed her trunks and made off for Brighton as fast as possible.

"One always needs change after illness," said she. "And the atmosphere of a sick-room always was most depressing for me. I dare say that the good Mrs. Garland will do all that is necessary for dear Sophie; and I have my own welfare to think of."

Sophie, just able to sit up in a pillowed arm-chair, her cheeks hollowed by illness, her large eyes shining from deep, purple circles, looked after the departing carriage, and then lifted her glance to the tender nurse beside her.

"Mother," she said, wistfully, "you will not leave me?"

"Not unless you send me away, Sophie," said Mrs. Garland, tenderly.

"And that will be never," said Sophie, closing her eyes with a sigh of relief. "How very good you have been to me! Without you I should surely have died."

And even in her slumber she could not rest peacefully unless she held Mrs. Garland's hand in hers.

That evening, when Harry came home, she opened her heart to him.

"Harry," she said, "can you ever forgive me?"

"Forgive you, dearest?"

"For what I said about our dear, dear mother," fervently uttered Sophie. "She is precious beyond expression to me now. She has saved my life by her courage and devotion. And I feel that I cannot part with her any more. Would she stay here with us always, do you think, Harry?"

Harry smiled gravely.

"I am her only son, Sophie," said he.

"Yes, I think she will—if you ask her."

Sophie made her confession to her mother-in-law at once.

"I was so rude, so selfish," she candidly acknowledged. "But I did not know you then."

And Mrs. Garland's tender kiss was a seal of the most loving forgiveness.

Mrs. Peregrine Percy never has gone back to Cloverdale Cottage.

"I don't fancy that stupid, monotonous life," said she. "And my poor child is given up, soul and body, into the clutches of a mother-in-law! It wasn't for want of warning, either. I told Sophie how it would be, but she never would take my advice."

Birds That Kill Snakes.

The trumpeter-bird is the rag-picker of the woods and swamps of Guiana, where he is always at work at his trade, with his stomach for a pack and his bill for a hook. He performs a most useful but most extraordinary service, devouring a perfect multitude of snakes, frogs, scorpions, spiders, lizzards, and all the like creatures. But this terrible bird can be made perfectly tame.

On the Guiana plantations he may be seen fraternizing with the chickens, ducks, and turkeys, accompanying them in their walks, defending them from their enemies, separating quarrelers with strokes of his bill, sustaining the young and feeble, and waking the echoes with his trumpet while he brings home his flocks at night.

The trumpeter is as handsome as he is useful. Noble and haughty in his aspect, he raises himself upon his long, yellow-gaitered legs, and seems to say: "I am the trumpeter, the scourge of the reptiles, and the protector of the flocks!"

In Southern Africa there is another great exterminator of reptiles—the snake-eater or secretary-bird, a magnificent creature, who attacks the largest serpents, making a shield of its wings and a sword of its beak. The name "secretary-bird" is derived from the plumes projecting backward from its head, which look like quill-pens carried behind one's ear.

In South America, in the very neighborhood of the trumpeter's home, there lives the kamichi, or kamiki, who wears a sharp horn projecting from his forehead and a murderous spur upon each of his wings. With these three weapons the serpents that he attacks are powerless against him and are easily put to death.

The secretary-bird, the Kamichi, and the trumpeter form a valiant and useful trio. The trumpeter has two merits above the others: the ease with which he can be domesticated and his musical talent.

The natives have a saying that he has swallowed a cornet. Whether promenading or war-making, he fills the air with his trumpet calls, and at the sound of his voice of brass the reptiles take to flight.

Presently the bird arrives, flapping his wings and wielding them like a sword. Having killed the serpent, the trumpeter sounds his blast of victory, as he had sounded his charge.—Youth's Companion.

Does Gold Grow?

Years ago I wrote and published in a London magazine an article in which I undertook to prove that gold grows—grows the same as grain and potatoes or anything else. I reckon I did my work crudely, not knowing anything about chemistry or even the ordinary terms of expression about such matters, and so my earnest and entirely correct sketch was torn all to pieces and laughed to scorn.

Well, I have at last found positive proof of my general statement right here in these mountains by the Pacific Sea. Briefly and simply, I have found a piece of petrified wood with a little vein or thread of gold in it. How did that gold get into this piece of wood? Was it placed there by the finger of God on the morning of creation, as men have claimed was the case with the gold found in the veins of the mountains? Nonsense!

Gold grows. Certain conditions of the air, or certain combinations of earth and air and water, and whatever chemicals may be required, and then a rock, a piece of quartz, or petrified tree, for the gold to grow it, and there is your gold crop. Of course, gold grows slowly. Centuries upon centuries, it may be, are required to make the least sign of growth. But it grows just as I asserted years ago; and here at last I hold in my hand such testimony as no man in this world will be rash enough to question—a portion of a petrified tree with a thread of gold in it.—Joaquin Miller, in Chicago Times.

A MAN dying left a thousand pounds to an individual who years before ran away with his wife. He said in his will that he never forgot a favor.

PITH AND POINT.

A HACK-DRIVER—A cough drop.

A PAIR of slippers—Two toboggans. "Who shall decide when doctors disagree?" Sometimes the undertaker.

"Is THE head of the family in, bub?" asked a washing-wringer, peddler. "Yes," mother's in there," replied Johnny.

AN advertiser in Texas calls for "an industrious man, as a boss hand over 5,000 head of sheep that can speak Spanish fluently."

SMYTH—I see our doctors are having a great boom now? De Forest—Is that so? Smyth—Yes; we're going to have two new cemeteries.—New Haven News.

"Men must work and women must weep." This is incorrect. When men work, women smile and are happy. It is when men drink that women weep. Try again, Brother Kingsley.

"You seem to be in the clouds, Mr. Pegasus," said a friend to an absent-minded verse-writer the day after the class dinner. "I certainly do feel like thunder," was the weary reply.

THE success of Sam Jones as a preacher is said to lie in his power of illustration. In this respect Sam stands upon the same plane with the artist who makes pictures for the papers.

BARKEEPERS are men who like to see friendly feelings prevailing among their customers, or, in other words, they like to see their customers treating each other well—and often.—Boston Courier.

AN irate female seeks admittance to the editor's sanctum. "But I tell you, madam," protests the attendant, "that the editor is too ill to talk to any one to-day." "Never mind; you let me in. I'll do the talking."

AFTER debating a long time as to the proper inscription to put on the gravestone of a man who was blown to pieces by a powder-mill, his friends decided on the following: "He was a man of excellent parts."—Burlington Free Press.

A NEW ORLEANS editor has discovered that fishing is hard work. It was generally supposed that fishing was easy enough, but that it was the lying about the big ones which got away that entailed the hard labor.—Norristown Herald.

A NEW YORK judge has decided that "cornering" is a crime. When you return home a few inches after midnight by the clock, and your wife begins to question and "cross" examine you, and finally begins to "corner" you, call her attention to this decision.—Norristown Herald.

THE old church in Torrington had a pew for "nigger men" and another for "colored ladies." Also a "high pew for gentlemen visitors," and one for "bachelors" and "old maids," respectively. Stranger still, it is claimed that the last-named was occupied on Sunday. This goes ahead of New Hartford's old church, which had one pew set apart for the widows, one for the deacons, and one in the gallery for Indians.—Torrington (Conn.) Register.

OMAHA GIRL—Mercy, me! You certainly don't mean to say that that beautiful Miss Million is going to marry a Chinese laundryman? New York girl—Oh, you misunderstood me, dear; he is not a laundryman, he is a member of the Chinese legation at Washington. "But he is a Chinaman, all the same." "Yes, but he is thoroughly Christianized." "Are you sure?" "Yes, indeed. He is a graduate of an American college and was the best pitcher in the ball club."—Omaha World.

DISILLUSION.

Said a silver shin dadd, with an emphasis rude
Of a daisel ahead whom he swiftly pursued:
"Now this rain will I use
As a clever excuse
To share her umbrella and capture her mood."

For the style of her dress and her trimmings express
She's a maiden of taste, and of fashion I guess;
If it isn't quite grace
In her motions I trace,
There is strength which is better I'm bound to confess.

"Now," he said, "will I make a dashing old break; Clear the track! Now, I hope she won't give me the shake."

Then he sprang to her side—
"Great Heaven!" he cried,
"Excuse me," he stammered, "I've made a mistake."

Cried the maiden, "Whoroo! That's the nather wild you?
Come as ye like, there be shelter for two;
I am taking a jaunt
To the corner beyond,
To get a few murrhins to put in the shlow."—Texas Siftings.

25 cts. per year for illustrated monthly with elegant chromo, "Sunbeams," Port Jervis, N. Y.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

PATENTS R. S. & A. P. LACKY, Patent Attorneys Washington, D. C. Institutions and opinions as to patentability FREE. 15-17 years' experience.

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

travels travel north and south in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific. The Rock Island has many lines and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, St. Louis, St. Paul, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Evansport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oakdale, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Galatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

ALL EXPRESS TRAINS between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of comfortable DAY COACHES, magnificent PULLMAN PALACE PARLOR and SLEEPING CARS, elegant DINING CARS providing excellent meals, and—between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—restful RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE

All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employes of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly attention.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders—obtainable at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada—or any desired information, address,

R. R. CABLE, Pres't & Gen'l Mgr, Chicago.	E. ST. JOHN, Asst Gen'l Mgr, Chicago.	E. A. HOLBROOK, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt, Chicago.
---	---	--

Flange Station Dec 17 1886

Messrs.
 B. F. Lundebach & Co.
 773 & 775 Broad St.
 Newark N. J.

Gentleman. I am happy to inform you that your Catarrh remedy, has I think completely cured me of the Dreadful Catarrh. I have not used near all my money you sent me for my cure was a bad one. I have expended hundreds of Dollars for the past 20 years trying every thing that I could hear of, but all to no purpose, until hearing, or rather seeing your advertisement in the papers... and, as a last resort,
 I concluded to try once more. Thinking of course that it would prove a failure, same as all others, but to my surprise and astonishment, I found relief immediately the very first day, and now after only about 6 weeks I am now I think entirely clear of the loathsome disease, I was so bad that for the past year I have been unable to sleep, sleep to sit bolted up in my bed could not lay down, on account of the constant dripping in my throat. I my breath was terrible. Now the whole thing is clear and I cheerfully recommend to every one who is troubled with Catarrh to call on you. Knowing from personal experience that your remedy is a sure cure. There is nothing else for your remedy that is in any way disagreeable on the other hand it is pleasant to take. I require no trouble and it only takes from 3 to 5 minutes each day. You are at liberty to use this recommendation as you see fit, knowing that it may influence hundreds of others to use your remedy.

Very respectfully, Yours
 Moses. Pinkeshoff.
 R. P. R.
 Fargo Bt

COMPLETE TREATMENT, $2.00. If you are unable to obtain it from your druggist, we will mail it upon receipt of price. Sample mailed on receipt of 10-cent stamp. Address
B. S. LAUDERBACH & CO.,
771 & 773 Broad St.,
Newark, New Jersey.

SLICKER

None genuine unless stamped with the above TRADE MARK.

Don't waste your money on a gum or rubber coat. The FISH BRAND SLICKER is absolutely water and wind proof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. Ask for the "FISH BRAND" slicker and take no other. If your storekeeper does not have the "FISH BRAND", send for descriptive catalogue to A. J. TOWER, 20 Simmons St., Boston, Mass.

293 COLUMBUS

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH
PENNYROYAL PILLS

The Original and Only Genuine.

Safe and always Reliable. Beware of worthless Imitations. Ladies, ask your Druggist for "Chichester's English" and take no other, or refuse to. (Stamp it on us for particulars in letter by return mail.) NAME AND ADDRESS. CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., 8813 Madison Square, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Ask for "Chichester's English" Pennyroyal Pills. Take no other.

C The Oldest Medicine in the World is probably Dr. Isaac Thompson's Celebrated Eye Water R

This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century, and notwithstanding the many other preparations that have been introduced into the market, the value of this article is constantly increasing. If the directions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits.

John L. Thompson, Sons & Co., Troy, N. Y.

LEADY AGENTS - Article now sells fast. No money to invest. Address, R. P. LICKES, St. Charles, Mo.

DETECTIVES

Wanted in every County. Threw men to act under our instructions in our Secret Service; Experienced not necessary. Send stamp for particulars. CHANNAN DETECTIVE BUREAU 44 Arcade, Cincinnati, O.

LOTS New Town of BENJAMIN, Wis., Con. B. 11
 Parts apply Milwaukee Mining Exchange
 Milwaukee, Wis. (Crested) Brought and sold

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
One Year, in advance ..... $0.75
Six Months ..... 50
Three Months ..... 25

Entered at the Post Office at St. Joe as second-class matter.

FRIDAY APRIL 22, 1887.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

SPENCERVILLE.

Mrs. Bittenger is on the sick list. Cassius Silberg was at Maysville last Monday.

Grandma Rhodes is slowly recovering from her late illness.

Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Barney visited at Maysville last Thursday.

Mrs. Henry Murray and daughter were at Hicksville Wednesday.

Teacher's meeting at the home of Mrs. Oberholtzer on Saturday evening.

Mr. Henry Fales and wife have been visiting their son at Nappanee during the past week.

Ben Zimmerman organized a singing school last week, to be held every Tuesday evening, at the M. E. church.

ORANGEVILLE.

The assessor is paying the farmers in this vicinity a visit.

The oats are nearly all sowed in this part of the township.

The best is always the cheapest, at least that's what Catharine thinks.

Ad Chubb has some oats that is up nicely. He thinks that if the weather continues cold he will have to blanket them.

William Draper is one among our enterprising farmers; at least we have reason to judge from the fact that he killed his dog before the assessor came around.

Mr. Bartholomew and lady of Waterloo, formerly of this place visited a few days last week with their old neighbors and friends at this place, and by the way, he did not come empty handed either; but brought a full line of fishing tackle. He had all the way from a minnow to a whale hook, and the way he threw out the fish we call pumpkin seed, was a caution.

PIGEON'S RETREAT.

Batdorf's moved to Cedar Creek last week.

George Dilley was the guest of his sister Mrs. Ella Horn Sunday.

Daniel Houk will build a new house on his farm some time this summer.

Miss Nannie Timmerman has been suffering for the past few weeks from an attack of rheumatism.

Gerry Wasson, who has been working for Theodore Kline of the south woods, returned home this week.

Butch Hill will leave in a few days for his uncle's in Steuben Co. with whom he will stay for an unlimited time.

Ben Wasson's missing sap buckets returned to camp, but lo and behold! the syrup had been licked out clean.

Mrs. Gratz of Bryan, Ohio, who has been visiting friends and relatives in this neighborhood, returned home last week.

Will Koch's little daughter Beulah, has been quite sick with malaria fever and canker sore mouth. She is better now.

Mr. Coburntown: Please don't get under the impression that we don't like your style of writing. On the contrary we think your items splendid and always read them first. But "Barcus" is a dutchman, and you must take him as he means and not as he says.

PLEASANT HILL.

John Koch's visited with his brother Wilson last Sunday.

Mrs. Chas. Jackson visited with her parents last Sunday.

Bleeks and Barlett are hauling some large logs from the Saylor farm.

Wonder why Lige goes to Newville to Sunday school when it is nearer to St. Joe?

Henry Hull and wife were the guests of Andrew Jackson and wife last Sunday.

We understand that bird didn't meet Henry Krabill a week ago Saturday evening, where it had intended to sing for him.

We would think that last Monday was a bad day on O. H. Widney's "Holdovers." Especially if they had to lay out.

COBURNTOWN.

Peddlers average about three a day, now.

It is sometimes the case that a little "set to" between neighbors will result in a lasting friendship. So mote it be.

The surveyor or his deputy rather, was in this neighborhood Saturday looking after the interest of the county ditches.

Mort Milliman has set out five hundred raspberry plants of a new variety. Hope he may succeed in raising lots of them, as we like raspberries.

If that young blizzard Monday, and the freeze at night didn't cook the early fruit buds, there is no use in trying to kill them; but I don't think it did.

There is more potatoes planted in this neighborhood than ever was known before so early in the season. Every body that has a swamp is planting it to potatoes.

War Coburn built a chimney for J. M. last week, commencing in the cellar, and now the family can leave home and not be afraid they will find their house in ashes when they return.

What has become of our fair correspondent at Pigeon's Retreat? Have not heard from there for several weeks. By the way, I suppose I owe him, that is I mean her, an apology. I didn't know that he was, or I mean she was a—or I supposed that he was—plague on it I mean that your correspondent was a kicker. I take it all back and won't do so any more.

CONCORD.

Charley Wyatt is quite sick with the measles.

Mrs. Jane Morris afflicted with a very bad sore throat.

Mrs. Vina Johnson entertained friends last Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Dilley and wife of Spencerville, attended church at this place last Sunday.

G. W. Simanton is having his house raised and other necessary repairs are being made.

Misses Maggie Koch and Bertha Meese called on Miss Arvilla Draggoo last Saturday evening.

Mrs. M. Hennesy and Mrs. A. Baker visited with Mrs. John Hull last Thursday.

A few ladies in the vicinity were the guests of Mrs. James Smith last Thursday.

Henry Baker has placed new chandeliers in his store, which are very useful and ornamental.

Belle Hilderbrand is visiting for a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. E. Wyatt near Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Wasson's case is not as hopeful at present as it was last week. Her recovery is very doubtful.

Mrs. McCune, of Auburn, called on Mrs. F. Buchanan Saturday afternoon, and stayed all night with Mrs. P. A. Shurts. She returned home Sunday morning.

James Baker will do nothing more with his fish pond, until after corn planting, when he will again resume work and in a short time have it stocked with fish.

Will Baker must have been thinking of his girl last Thursday afternoon while out on the road selling pumps. For he lost one near N. Wyatt's and did not discover that he had, until he got at the foot of the hill near James Johnson's.

Dan Wyatt raised his barn last Saturday. Quite a crowd were present and there being no accident, every thing went off nicely, and the barn was raised by noon. About as many women were there as men, and after dinner they thought they must raise the cook, but the wonderful feat would never have been accomplished without the aid of James Smith.

The season for house cleaning and garden making has arrived and the ladies are vying with each other to see who will have the nicest garden and the earliest vegetables. But we do not see why the men should look so glum and be so crusty, because they have to take down stoves, or dust and tack down carpets, when they all enjoy a clean house so much, and best of all they have the privilege of eating cold dinners in the wood house, but some people cannot appreciate such privileges.

George Stout, of Hamilton is conducting a writing school at this place.

Wagons are cheap; Patterson is selling a good two horse wagon for only $1.00.

Yesbers, the fashionable tailor, has the finest line of piece goods ever shown in Auburn.

A. M. Richards was in town Tuesday, making his semi-occasional distribution of insurance blotters.

Wash and Ward Woodcox left this week for the west, where they intend purchasing land. Wash will return about the first of June, but Ward will remain there permanently.

Trustee Dermott informs us that he has decided to build an addition of 26x40 feet, to the north end of the school building. The job will be let as soon as possible, in order to have the room ready for the winter term of school.

August Kinsey has invented a patent Combination Milk Safe and Kitchen Cupboard that for convenience and economy, is bound to take front rank of improved household furniture. It is constructed so that each shelf revolves independent of the other, and always brings the article wanted, to the front. The shelves can be raised and lowered to suit any highth crock or pan, thus giving one third more room than any other safe in the market. It is easily understood at a glance, and at once appreciated by every good housekeeper. Call at Kinsey's Furniture store and examine them.

M. TUSTISON,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES,

EARTHEN POTS FOR HOUSE PLANTS

PROVISIONS, OYSTERS, LEMONS,

ORANGES, CANDIES, CIGARS &c.

MAIN ST., - - - ST. JOE, IND.

WILLIAM CURIE,

PROPRIETOR OF

MEAT MARKET

ST. JOE, IND.

Highest market price paid for Hides, Tallow &c. Give me a call.

J. F. WALKER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

Harness, Collars,

WHIPS, HARNESS OIL &c.

ST. JOE, IND.

Repairing done promptly. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see.

A. KINSEY,

DEALER IN

FURNITURE

BUREAUS, TABLES,

Lounges, Beds, Chairs &c.

MAIN STREET, ST. JOE, IND.

All styles of Parlor Goods furnished in order at low prices. Thanking you for past favors I solicit your future patronage.

F. A. ZEIGLER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

HARNESS,

COLLARS,

WHIPS &c.

FLY NETS,

DUSTERS,

OILS &c.

St. Joe, Ind.

Prices the Lowest. All work guaranteed. Call and see me.

R. G. COBURN,

AGENT FOR THE

ALBION SPRING TOOTH Cultivator

AND FIELD HARROW,

AND DAISY RAKE.

Farmers will save money by seeing me before buying. I will call on you with a sample in a few days. R. G. Coburn, St. Joe, Ind.

Miss S. A. Bartlett,

—DEALER IN FINE—

MILLINERY

—HATS, BONNETS,--

Flowers,
Ribbons,
Feathers,

—ORNAMENTS &C.--

I invite the attention of the ladies of St. Joe and vicinity to my new stock of Spring and Summer Millinery Goods, comprising the newest and latest styles and shapes. I am constantly receiving new goods, and therefore can please everybody. Give me your patronage. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see my line before making your purchases. Rooms over Dr. Bowman's office, St. Joe, Ind.

MISS S. A. BARTLETT

Business Notices.

H. W. BOWMAN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Office opposite the Drugstore.

ST. JOE HOTEL, Wm. Leighty, proprietor. Special attention given to furnishing teams for commercial men.

B. S. SHEFFER, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to his care.

ST. JOE BARBER SHOP, one door west of hotel, Will Gee, proprietor. Satisfaction guaranteed. Your patronage is solicited.

FILLEY, LOUNSBERRY AND SHULER, proprietors of the St. Joe Saw and Planing Mill. All work promptly done. Cash paid for Oak Logs.

CITY BARBER SHOP, St. Joe, Ind., John Hull, proprietor. Shaving, Hair Cutting &c. done in the best of style. Come and see me. Two doors west of Kinsey's Furniture Store.

SIMON WINELAND, proprietor St. Joe Handle, Shingle and Feed Mills. Feed grinding a specialty. Highest prices paid for second growth White Ash. Enquire at the mill for full particulars.

LOCALS.

M. T. Bishop has on hand a large stock of shingles.

Free Zeigler has sold seven sets of harness in the last month.

Charlie Widney has been quite sick this week, but is better.

Why not have the old settler's meeting at St. Joe this year.

H. R. Babcox returned to this neighborhood last week.

O. H. Widney carries a cane, and it is not a gold headed one, either.

Miss Bartlett has a handsome line of millinery goods this spring.

Come to St. Joe to buy your goods. Big stocks to select from, at bottom prices.

Yesbera, the tailor of Auburn, is making some nobby suits this spring.

Russ Kopp had a dream the other night that was pretty tough on Sol Barney.

Over $300,000 worth of wall paper was burned up in Chicago, one night last week.

Bill Baker has been catching some fine strings of fish in the river the past week.

Yesbera of Auburn has fits; that is, he fits people with fine tailor made clothing.

Ed White is giving his house a coat of paint, which adds much to its appearance.

The big snow storm of last Monday done no damage; in fact it was a benefit to the county.

The Sullivan-Walters case is set for trial in the Steuben County Circuit Court on April 25th.

Dr. Bowman was at Cherubuseo last Friday looking after the interests of his farm at that place.

We will gladly insert notices of any kind in this paper free of charge. Just see that they are handed in to us by Thursday noon.

Go to Testison's grocery and get some of those earthen pots to put your flowers in. They are cheap and are just the thing.

Gerry Sanders is visiting friends in this neighborhood again. It is rumored that Gerry will take unto himself a wife from among the fair daughters of Springfield township.

There will be a Song Service at the Lutheran church Sunday evening, in which all are invited to take part. Singing will commence immediately after the ringing of the first bell. Bring your Gospel Hymns.

The executive committee of the De Kalb County Pioneer Association is requested to meet at the court house in Auburn, on Monday, May 2, 1887, at eleven o'clock, to make arrangements for holding the next annual meeting.

We are glad to know that the St. Joe band has recently reorganized, and elected new officers, and it is now in a good thriving condition. A band is an important feature in a lively, wide awake town, and our citizens should lend it all the encouragement possible.

A number of the young people of St. Joe met at the residence of Dr. Sheffer on last Wednesday evening, for the purpose of organizing a young people's temperance society. The following officers were elected: Miss Hattie Langley, president; Misses Addie Widney, Vergie Langley and Frank Hart, vice-presidents; Ella Sanders, secretary; Miss Leona Tustison, corresponding secretary; Burt Hull, treasurer. The exercises will consist of literary work in general. The society will meet at the residence of Miss Prudie Lounsberry, on next Monday evening, April 25th.

J. H. CONRAD,

DEALER IN

ROOFING AND SPOUTING

GUTTERING, HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS,

Cutlery, Nails, Paints, Woodenware &c.

MAIN STREET,

ST. JOE IND.

All work and goods guaranteed to give satisfaction. Give me a try.

AT THE

St. Joe

DRUG

STORE.

White-wash Brushes
Kalsomine Brushes
Paint and Wall Brushes
Artist's Brushes
Marking Brushes
Shoe and Hair Brushes
Tooth and Clothes Brushes.

AT THE

St. Joe

DRUG

STORE.

—A. KINSEY—

Undertaker and Embalmer. Keeps on hand constantly, a stock of Undertaking Supplies, Coffins, Caskets, Burial Robes &c. I can supply as fine goods as can be furnished. Will attend to making all arrangements for funerals. Calls responded to at all hours of the night. Office on corner of Main and Second streets; residence on corner of Main and Fourth Streets, St. Joe, Ind.

ST. JOE MARKETS.

CORRECTED EVERY FRIDAY.

Wheat	77 1/2 cts.
Oats	28 cts.
Corn	40 cts.
Butter	15 cts.
Eggs	10 cts.
Tallow	3 1/2 cts.
Lard	10 cts.
Potatoes	50 cts.
Smoked Hams	10 cts.
Shoulders and Side Meat	8 cts.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

WEST BOUND.

No. 9 Mail and Express 11:10 A. M.
3 Chicago Express 10:43 P. M.
35 Local Freight 3:53 P. M.

EAST BOUND.

No. 10 Express and Mail 2:08 P. M.
4 Morning Express 2:57 A. M.
34 Local Freight 8:00 A. M.

G. V. JAMES, AGENT.

Jud Davis is still dangerously sick. April showers have been scarce this year.

Webb & White are doing a job of painting at Butler.

Al Hall now has his blacksmith shop open for business.

The graduation exercises of the St. Joe school occurs some time in May.

The W. C. T. U. met at the residence of A. Evans yesterday afternoon.

Howard Northup has some cane seed which he offers to give away to any one who will call and get it.

Simon Wineland has purchased a portable saw mill, which he will use in connection with his other machinery.

The habit of allowing everybody to carry the mail between here and Spencerville has been done away with. Only authorized persons can carry it.

HOUSE PAINTING. Graining, Glazing Paper Hanging and Ceiling Decorating a specialty. All work guaranteed. B. A. Woodcock. Call and see me, or leave orders at the St. Joe Drugstore.

STAR WIND PUMP. E. A. Wagoner, agent, Newville, Ind. Farmers who think of buying a pump should give me a call before doing so. The Star Mill is the best and prices the lowest.

Shingles!

Shingles at $1.10 per Thousand
Shingles at $2.20 per Thousand
Shingles at $2.60 per Thousand
Shingles at $3.25 per Thousand
Shingles at $3.60 per Thousand
M. T. BISHOP, St. Joe, Ind.

The editor growles a gude deal be caws I take up so much space with mi remarks on chickens, but never the less I cannot refrain from giving the readers of this valuable paper an illustrashun of another nue breed ov chickens discovered recently by P. A. Shurts, ov this stato. He calls them the "Prohibishunests." They differ from the "Holdovers" from the fact that, tha never drink aon thing stronger than watter. They dont favor licens ov ana kind, and tha sa the eggs tha lay wont even maik gude eg-nog. The only particular draw back ther is tu them is tu hav tu put hog rings in ther snouts tu keep them from rooting. For further informashun, inquire ov A. himself.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer

NOTICE.

Sealed proposals will be received at the Post Office for carrying the United States Mail from Butler, Ind., via Newville, Ind., to St. Joe Station, six (6) times per week, each way, by a schedule time of three (3) hours each way, distance of 103 miles, from July 1st, 1887, to June 30th, 1888. Bids received for ten (10) days only. For further information inquire at the Post Office. By order of Postmaster General.

Frank Barney, P. M.
St. Joe, Ind., April 20, 1887.

PAPIER MACHE.

Method of Its Manufacture and Uses to Which It Is Applied.
(Pittsburgh Chronicle.)

"A dollar you can't tell me what that match-box is made of," said Dick, handing the object to his friend, Harry Dolt.

"Don't bet, in the first place," replied Harry, "and don't care in the second. Suppose all a man wants to know is if it'll hold matches and isn't too big for his pocket."

"Never saw such a fellow as you in my life. I'm sure that if the last judgment was announced on good authority for noon, sharp, to-morrow, you'd take it as a matter of course."

"Why not? When I run up against the inevitable I try to manage things so as not to get concussion of the brain. Is there anything as startling as your supposed announcement in that match-box?"

"Did you ever see a piece of polished ebony as light as that?"

"Polished pancakes! It's nothing but papier mache. Any child can tell that."

"Perhaps so. But, admitting the fact, there is a child of about six-and-twenty solid winters in front of me who can't tell how papier mache is made."

"I'm very much given to minding my own business, and the making of papier mache is no part of it. But I think it's an open question whether you could accurately describe the process yourself. By the way, why does it interest you?"

"I have the prosperity of Pittsburgh at heart. Some people seem to think that all we can or ought to do here is to make iron, steel, and glass. Now, with our splendid advantages in point of fuel, I think Pittsburgh would be a first-rate place for the manufacture of paper car wheels."

"That's quite another matter. Now, I'm prepared to listen. But you know I love brevity."

"Well, cotton forms the basis of the paper used. The sheets are pasted together with dextrine until the mass is thick enough to go under the hydraulic press. There they are squeezed into any desired form, which, when dry, is as hard as and a good deal lighter, bulk for bulk, than any wood."

"Brief enough; go on."

"This product is poreless, fiberless, seamless, and knotless. It is subjected for twenty-four hours to a high-drying heat. Then it can be worked with any kind of tool. The varnishing of it is a mere detail."

"It is from this substance that are manufactured all those bracelets of large black beads studded with Scotch imitation diamonds, all those necklaces, pins, clasps, and trinkets of all sorts that are taken for pitch coal or some precious wood. Again, those handsome bracelets, composed of semi-lucid and opaline globules, that seem to have been cut out of a stone formed by concentric layers, like certain precious stones, are merely of papier mache, cemented with white varnish and coated with the same. So, too, those beautiful nacreous, painted, and gilded trays, round tables, and caskets that are known as Japanese work are merely of papier mache. The Japanese know but one kind of gilding, while we have two—the dead and the brilliant. We have, likewise, a liquid naere taken from the scales of the whitebait that well imitates the white currant and certain transparent berries. The naere is solidly inlaid by means of the hydraulic press, and finally the surface is finished with pumice stone to make it perfectly even, and covered with a colorless varnish of the first quality."

"Well, that was worth listening to. But if I were as much interested in all this kind of stuff as you are I think I'd try and invent something myself."

"Too many patent sharps around. Wouldn't pay. More fun in letting other fellows do that."

On Time.

A clerk in an Austin store informed his employer that his sister was going to get married, and he wanted a furlough of forty-eight hours to attend the wedding, which was to take place out in the country somewhere. The merchant could not well spare the services of the young man for that length of time, but he finally consented to let him go on condition that he would return promptly at the expiration of the two days.

"As soon as my forty-eight hours are up I'll be back," said the young man, hurrying off to catch the train, and that was the last his employer saw of him for six solid days. Then he walked in, grip-sack in hand, and a beaming smile on his face, remarking:

"Back on time."

"Back on time!" roared the exasperated employer. "Do you call six days forty-eight hours?"

"Of course I do. What else do you call it?"

"Have you lost the use of your mental faculties, or are you trying, sir, to take unwarranted liberties with me?"

"Why, I am surprised. I told you I wanted forty-eight hours' recreation, didn't I?"

"Certainly. And I gave it to you."

"Just so. And I work in the store eight hours a day, don't I?"

"Of course."

"Well, eight into forty-eight goes six times, and I have been gone eight hours a day for six days, so you see I'm on time. If there is one thing I know better than another, it is how to be on hand at the appointed hour."—Texas Siftings.

The Whitehead Torpedo.

The torpedo that has been adopted by nearly every naval power of Europe is known as the Whitehead, and belongs to what may be designated as the "projectile class," that is, having been started on its course toward the enemy, no control of it is retained by the operator. Most of the various types of this class are wholly submerged when operated against an enemy, and are generally arranged to run at a given depth below the surface, varying from 5 to 15 feet.

Naturally, one of the main objects of inventors of torpedoes, as well as of those engaged in other fields of invention, is financial profit. The Whitehead is the only torpedo that has yet proved a success in this respect. It is built of thin sheets of steel, is cigar-shaped, like those already described, but without the attached float, and is made in three sizes, the largest being 19 feet long by 16 inches diameter, and the smallest 9 feet long by 11 inches diameter. The motive power is compressed air, carried at a pressure of about 70 atmospheres, in a cylindrical reservoir within the torpedo. The speed attained is about 25 miles per hour for a distance of 450 yards. The torpedo is divided into three sections—"forward," "middle," and "rear"—containing, respectively, the charge of 70 to 93 pounds of gun-cotton; the adjusting mechanism, wherein lies the secret of the inventor, and by which the hydrostatic pressure of surrounding water is made to regulate the depth of immersion; and the air-engines and steering machinery. It is designed to be carried on board a very swift torpedo-boat, capable of overtaking the fast iron-clad, and, when within effective range, to be discharged from the boat with the steering rudder of the torpedo set in such a position as to direct its course toward the enemy. The first motion, or "discharge," is effected through a guide-tube in the bow of the boat, either above or below the surface of the water, usually by means of a very small charge of powder, after which, upon reaching the water, the torpedo is propelled by its own engines. The explosion may be made to take place either upon impact with the enemy or after the torpedo has run a given distance. — Lieut. W. S. Hughes, in Scribner's Magazine.

Adjourned the Bear Hunt.

"Any bear about this neighborhood?" he inquired as he leaned an $800 breech-loader carelessly in the hollow of his arm.

"The woods is full of 'em," said a citizen. "One of 'em bit my brother's leg off yesterday. Are ye loaded for b'ar, mister?"

"No, sir," replied the young man, hastily boarding the train; "I'm loaded for rabbits."—Harper's Bazar.

How to Turn Their Heads.

"Miss Smith, are you going to the ball to-morrow night?" asked Kosciusko Murphy.

Miss Smith—"Of course I am."

"I supposed as much. Why is it that you are so fond of dancing?"

"You see, it's the easiest way to turn men's heads."—Texas Siftings.

A JOLLY-LOOKING Irishman was saluted with the remark, "Tim, your house has blown away." "Deed it's not," said Tim, "for I've the key in my pocket."

RELIGIOUS SCENES IN CHINA.

A Picturesque Church-Beggar—Carrying Out a Dreadful Vow.

"Church-begging" is very common in China. The temples advertise their wants by posting on walls in the neighborhood square pieces of yellow paper, wherein is the exact Chinese equivalent of the scriptural, "Ask and ye shall receive," together with the name and location of the temple where prayers are always answered.

But there are also more personal forms of begging. The writer of an article in the Youth's Companion has seen in Peking a priest whose cheeks had been pierced, and the teeth knocked out so that an iron rod, as large as one's middle finger, could be passed through, to project an inch or two beyond either cheek. An iron half-circle was hinged to each end of this, and passed around the back of the priest's head. Attached to the half-circle was an iron chain, which was so long as to drag on the ground several feet behind him.

His business was to go from house to house, beating a small drum, asking help to repair a temple. Sympathy would be wasted on him. He was a "professional church-debt lifter," who had monthly wages and a commission on his collections, and the rod and chain were his stock in trade.

There is another way, still more peculiar. A priest stands in a small box-like structure, placed in front of a temple, through the boards of which spikes have been driven, so that the imprisoned priest can move no part of his body, except his right arm, without being pricked by a spike. With his right hand he rings a bell to draw attention to his pitiable condition. Charitable persons give so much for the privilege of drawing out a spike.

The highest-priced spikes are those which point at the vital parts of the body. The priest is supposed to stand in his kennel day and night until all the spikes have been bought and drawn, but no one believes that he really does so.

A single incident will show how much hardship and self-inflicted suffering some of these heathen will undergo to fulfill a religious vow. One intolerably hot and dusty afternoon in 1871 the writer was resting at a wayside tea house to the southwest of Peking and saw, approaching a man and a woman. The man would first take one long step, then bring his other foot up and measure his whole length in the road.

Having knocked his head three times on the ground, he rose, took another step, and again prostrated himself. The woman was his wife, and was waiting upon him. In answer to questions, he said that he had made a vow that if Buddha would restore to health his son, who was desperately sick, he would make a pilgrimage to Wu-tai-shan and home again, a step and a prostration all the way.

Not more than three miles could be made in a day. He had traveled about 600 of the 2,000 miles of his double journey, and would be two years longer in completing his vow. As he was 78 years old, and almost worn out, it was easy to see that he would not live to fulfill it. A callous lump as large as an egg projected from his forehead, raised by his knocking his head upon the dusty road. Yet this man was shocked and angry at a suggestion that he should abandon his useless pilgrimage, and passed out of sight measuring the road with his infirm body.

Jay Gould's Blunderbuss.

A German once called at the office of Mr. Morosini and inquired for Mr. Gould. This man had invented a new method of churning butter. The invention consisted of an immense copper syringe, about two feet long and six inches in circumference. His idea was to supply the great American public with the means of churning their own butter, and thus making every household happy. The cream was to be placed within the syringe and then put into the owner's pocket. The constant walking during the day was supposed to agitate the cream sufficiently to form butter; failing in this, however, a few rapid movements of the plunger would answer the purpose. This could be done by a gentleman when leaving home for business in the morning, and when he returned at night he would have two pounds of fresh butter that would astonish the natives. The idea was certainly economical as well as novel.

On entering the office the man met

Mr. Morosini, who asked him his business. The German replied that he had perfected a great invention, and desired to show it to Mr. Gould. The gentleman in question was standing close by, and on hearing his name mentioned he stepped forward to the pigeon-hole in the office. The outer room at that time was divided by a partition in which was a pigeon-hole, and through this visitors were interviewed. With a wave of his hand Mr. Morosini referred the stranger to Mr. Gould. After looking at the railroad magnate in silence for a moment, the man suddenly made a dash with his right hand into his vest pocket and drew forth this odd butter churn or syringe, which he pointed in a confiding manner and with the blandest of smiles toward the two gentlemen. Visions of an assassination crossing their minds, both Mr. Gould and Mr. Morosini simultaneously dropped tremblingly to the floor, beneath the pigeon-hole, and in the most heart-rending tones shrieked: "Please shoot high."

The wounded feelings of the innocent German may be imagined when he discovered that his great invention was mistaken for a blunderbuss.—New York Star.

How to Live Without Eating.

Henry Howard, explains in his article on "Fasting and Fasting" in the Cosmopolitan how it is that some people and animals can get along without food.

Auto-suggestion, or a belief that one is nourished when one is not, is a great thing, and accounts for many phenomena otherwise inexplicable. Sedillot relates an incident to prove its existence in the animal kingdom as well: "A tortoise weighing one kilogramme and a half had been captured and permitted during several weeks to wander around the garden, subsisting on flies and other insects. When weighing two kilograms the creature was recaptured and eviscerated from behind, its head, members, and shell being left intact. It was then restored to its liberty weighing fifteen grammes less than at the time of its first capture, and, although entirely hollow and open in its posterior aspect, it roamed about as before, snapping up flies that, after being swallowed, readily escaped from behind. After two weeks the animal was taken and again weighed, when it was found to be five grammes heavier than at the period immediately after its evisceration. The creature was a croyant that is, it believed it was taking into its system an abundance of aliment; it was growing fat. What was this mysterious energy that worked an apparent impossibility if not auto-suggestion?"

On the other hand, this sensation of hunger is, at least, in a certain measure, independent of the state of inanition. In other words, in cases of nervous diseases hunger may be felt acutely, with all its distressing effects, in a body sufficiently nourished. In support of this distinction, M. de Parville says: "We are acquainted with a lean lawyer and a fat engineer, both of them neurotic. If the lawyer does not take a glass of Madeira and a sandwich at 5 o'clock he becomes livid and has an attack of vertigo. The engineer is tougher. For about a year he guarded himself against his indiosyncrasy by smoking, but toward half past 7, when he came home and smelled the odor of the dishes, if he was not served on the instant he could not control himself, and went into a veritable fury. He became positively and in spite of himself furiously ravenous. And yet he was fat, and had no need to repair the losses of the organism that was already too well nourished."

So also numerous stories are found in all ancient medical dictionaries relative to those great eaters whose insatiable stomachs engulphed enormous masses of solids and liquids. Such was the case of Tarras, who went so far as to drink the blood of his patients and eat the flesh of his cadavers, and who was suspected of having devoured a 4-year-old child; yet he had a most sweet disposition when he wasn't hungry.

An Unexciting Election.

"Have any fun on election day?" queried one as they leaned against the wall.

"Oh, some," replied the other.

"How?"

"Well, I had two fights and got struck on the head by a policeman's club. Pretty dull day, though, take it all around."—Detroit Free Press.

The Sahara Desert.

The Sahara, the largest desert in the world, occupies an area estimated at from 1,500,000 to 2,500,000 square miles. The sterility of the Sahara is largely attributable to the fact that the prevailing northeast trade winds which blow over its surface bring it no moisture, having been almost drained of aqueous vapor in their long continental journey over Europe and Asia. On the mountains south of the Mediterranean they deposit more than they have collected in their brief passage over the sea. When they reach the heated desert beyond, where the absorptive capacity of the air is greatly increased by the access of temperature, they bear away moisture instead of bringing it, and it is not condensed into rain until it reaches the mountains of Central Asia. The Sahara is probably subject to a higher temperature than any other region on the globe; the thermometer has been known to register 133 deg. F. This terrific heat imparts their dreaded characteristic to the simoons and other similar winds blown off the desert. According to Sir Charles Lyell the Sahara was under water between latitude 20 degrees and 40 degrees N. at one time during the glacial epoch, so that there was water communication between the southern part of the Mediterranean and that portion of the Atlantic ocean now bounded by the west coast of Africa. A project has of late been advocated of reconverting the deeper part of the Sahara, an area of about 126,000 square miles, into a sea, by cutting a canal from the Atlantic through the sand hills which form the western border.

"Several ounces of the brain have been lost in consequence of wounds, without death, or the loss of memory or intellect." Sir Charles Bell's Anatomy and Physiology of the Human Body. London, 1816, Vol. II, p. 408. —Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

Man Wants a Tonic

When there is a lack of elastic energy in the system, shown by a sensation of languor during the day, and disturbed sleep at night. Hostetter's Kidney Bitters infuses unwonted energy into the enfeebled and nervous, endowing them with muscular energy, an ability to repose healthfully and digest without inconvenience. Nervousness, headache, biliousness, impaired appetite, and a feeble, troublesome stomach, are all and speedily set right by this matchless regulator and invigorant. The mineral poisons, among them strychnia and nux vomica, are never safe tonics, even in infinitesimal doses. The Bitters answers the purpose more effectually, and can be relied upon as perfectly safe by the most prudent. Fever and ague, kidney troubles and rheumatism yield to it.

War on the Chatterer.

A reform, which has come gradually but quite definitely within the last few years, is the extinction of the race of beings who beat time unconsciously with their feet upon the floor, their fans upon the chair in front, or their fingers upon the arm of the chair in which they sit. I attribute this in great measure to the frequent productions of Wagner's music, to which no creature can beat the rhythm. However this may be, this pulsating evidence of your neighbor's enjoyment is now seldom felt, and I hope it has gone to join the "Bowery tramp," in which the galleries used to take such delight, and which was, indeed, in its day, a soulful demonstration in comparison. But there yet remains the chatterer, and to him—or, quite as frequently, to her—I would suggest that there be next directed the reformatory influence of the dames and demoiselles who have won such a notable victory over the high hats. —Boston Post.

"A LARGE portion of bone may be driven down without any permanent disturbance of the functions of the brain." Practical Surgery, Fourth Edition, London, 1846, p. 43. —Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," Positively Popular; Provoke Praise; Prove Priceless; Peculiarly Prompt; Perceptibly Potent; Producing Permanent Profit; Precluding Pimples and Pustules; Promoting Purity and Peace. Purchase. Price, Potty. Pharmacists Patronizing Pierce—Procure Plenty.

Go to a ball unglowed if you want to bear the palm. —New York World.

The Strongest Man in Ohio

Is said to be George C. Arnold, of Cleveland, O., who less than one year ago, owing to chronic liver trouble and Bright's disease of the kidneys, weighed less than ninety-five pounds, but by using Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic has gained in strength and weight until now he is admitted to be the giant of Ohio.

How His Hair Became White.

"Young man to have white hair? Yes, that's so. I'm just turning forty, which is too young to have it so naturally. How did it happen? Well, I don't mind telling you, although the experience was a painful one to me and always makes me shudder when I think of it.

"I was in Boston when I was a young man—that was about twenty—and I wanted to call upon a friend of mine who had an office in one of the Washington street blocks. It was about six stories high, and I found that the room I had to visit was in the fourth story.

"I stepped into the elevator, which, by the way, was not provided with so many improvements and safeguards as at present. A gentleman got on to go up and I followed him. He dexterously started the thing and soon stopped it one story higher and stepped out, leaving me all alone.

"I had never been on one of them before, but noticing the manner in which it was started, gave the wire a pull and was conscious of being slowly taken upward. One, two stories were passed and I caught a glance of the busy clerks in the offices, and then I reached for the wire to stop at the next story.

"I gave a slight pull. It did not stop; I pulled again still harder, but the speed only seemed to increase. I was now just past the fourth floor and rapidly nearing the fifth. I pulled again, but still the thing kept on.

"I could hear the ominous rumbling of the machinery overhead. Would the thing never stop, I thought, or was I to be hurled to death or crushed to nothing by the deadly cogs overhead?

"Past the sixth floor I went, and it commenced to grow darker. The machinery sounded louder, and I could almost see it from the light that struggled through the dingy left window. I tried to cry out, but my voice failed me.

"I determined to make one more effort, and accordingly reached out in the dark. I encountered a wire, and yanked it with force enough, it would seem, to break it. Still upwards I groped further, and found another, and this time with both hands I pulled for dear life.

"Thank heaven, the elevator ceased its upward motion, and slowly descended. As it moved down into the light I saw that I had hold of another wire, which I had overlooked before. I let the elevator run until the lower floor was reached, forgetting all else in my desire to get into the air.

"As I stepped off a small boy, who had seen me go up, looked at me in astonishment, and exclaimed:

"Say, mister, are you the same man that went up a few minutes ago?"

"I thought it must have been a half hour, but answered, 'Yes.'

"Did you go up to buy a wig?" he asked.

"No," said I, "why?"

"Cause yer had black hair when yer started, and now it's white."

"I rushed to a convenient glass and grabbed my hat from my head. The boy was right, gentlemen; my hair was as white as you see it now, turned from fright in the two short minutes I was in the elevator.

"Fact, gentlemen, fact. My parents did not know me when I got home, and I had to show several birthmarks before I could convince them that I was their son. Fact, gentlemen."

And the gentlemen looked at him, wondering whether to call him a liar or a very unfortunate man. —Boston Globe.

He Was Embarrassed.

The Governor of a Western State is noted for his bland method of public speaking during an electioneering tour. He assumes the ingratiating familiarity of knowing every one, and usually the result is most successful.

On one occasion he visited a town at some distance from his home for the purpose of making a speech. When he rose to address his audience his face was wreathed in smiles, and he began: "Ladies and gentlemen, it affords me great pleasure to meet the old friends here whom I have known so long."

At this point, a shrill voice from the audience shouted: "Name 'em; name 'em, Governor!"

The Governor was so disconcerted by the pertinent request that he did not recover his composure during the entire evening. —Kansas City Star.

HEADSTRONG people invariably think it much pleasanter to give than to receive. —advice.

"What Is Woman's Worth?"

Asked a fair damsel of a crusty old bachelor. He did not know, so she said: "W. O. man" (double you, O man). But a woman feels worth little if disease has invaded her system and is daily sapping her strength. For all female weaknesses, Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" stands unrivaled. It cures the complaint and builds up the system. Send 10 cents in stamps for pamphlet to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main street, Buffalo, N. Y.

A SKILLFUL horsewoman is always able to hold her roan.

For dyspepsia, indigestion, depression of spirits, and general debility, in their various forms, also as a preventive against fever and ague and other intermittent fevers, the "Ferro-Phosphated Elixir of Calceaya," made by Hazard, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all druggists, is the best tonic; and for patients recovering from fever or other sickness it has no equal.

It isn't a great way to the end of a cat's nose, but it's fur to the end of its tail.

Gold Fields.

That pan out richly, are not so abundant as in the early California days, but those who write to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, will, by return mail, receive, free, full information about work which they can do, and live at home, wherever they are located, that will pay them from $5 to $25 per day, and upwards. Either sex, young or old. Capital not required; you are started in business free. Those who start at once are absolutely sure of snug little fortunes.

3 MONTHS' treatment for 50c. Pierce's Remedy for Catarrh. Sold by druggists.

Spring is the best time to purify the blood, for at no other season is the body so susceptible to benefit from medicine. The best thing to take is Hood's Sarsaparilla, which by its peculiar combination of proportion, and preparation possesses curative powers unequalled by any other medicine. Be sure to get Hood's. Do not be induced to take any other.

Hood's Sarsaparilla sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.

It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young. As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

ELY'S CREAM BALM CATARRH

when applied into the nostrils will be absorbed effectually, cleansing the head of catarrh, relieving the membrane of the nasal passages from additional colds, completely healing the sore and restoring sense of taste and smell.

Not a Liquid or Snuff

A Quick Relief

and Positive Cure

A particle is applied into each nostril and is absorbable. Price 50c. at druggists; by mail, postpaid, 60c. Circulars free. ELY BROS., Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

OPIMUM

W. L. ELLWOOD, IMPORTER AND BREEDER OF PERCHERON HORSES.

The Largest Breeding Establishment of Pure Blood Percherons in the United States. Five hundred head of Pure Blood and Grades now on hand, a large number of which were imported in July, 1895, and another large importation of from 150 to 200 head will arrive about the middle of October. Visitors always welcome—come and see them. I handle nothing but the best and take pride in showing stock.

Locations: DE KALB, ILL. 153 miles west of Chicago, on Omaha Div. C. & N. W. Ry. 2 1/2 miles from De Kalb.

THE GRAND RAPIDS HERD

Holstein-Friesians.

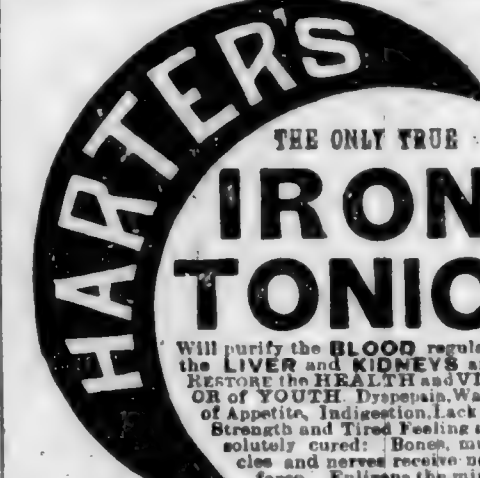

About 100 HEAD of both sexes and all ages. Several Head of BULLS READY FOR SERVICE

Up to two years old. Choice Cows and Heifers bred to my prize service bulls.

Prins Midlum and Jonge Carre, Who have no superiors. A specialty of young pairs not skin for foundation stock. Every Head Registered and Guaranteed Pure-Bred. Write for Catalogue and prices, and state age and sex desired, of course and see the herd.

M. L. SWEET, Breeder and Importer, [MENTION THIS PAPER.] Grand Rapids, Mich.

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE THE HEALTH AND VIGOR OF YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only add to its popularity. Do not experiment—get ORIGINAL AND BEST.

DR. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS (Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.) THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

ADVERTISERS or others who wish to examine this paper, or obtain estimates on advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St., the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

RUPTURE If you want relief and cure at your home, send for Dr. J. A. Sherman's circular of instructions. 224 Broadway, New York.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES Sure relief. Price 50c. per box. Sold by Dr. J. A. Sherman, 224 Broadway, New York.

FARMS A Month and a Gold Watch free to every Agent selling Danley's Furniture Polish. Finest in the world. Big money. Send 2c. for sample bottle and terms. C. L. Danley & Co., Newaygo, Mich.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50. Fiddle lines not under the horse's feet. Address: Brewster's Safety Rein Holder, Holly, Mich.

OPIMUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

FENSON'S COLLECTED and Increased by FENSON'S FITZGERALD & POWELL, Indianapolis, Ind. or send for copy of Laws, free.

MONEY and our business for "Savings" Send 10 stamps for outfit. ST. AUGUSTINE, Port Jervis, N. Y.

THE POHICK CHURCH.

Where Washington Worshipped and Was a Vestryman.

(Cor. Washington Star.)

After a delightful drive through a finely-wooded and well-cultivated country I arrived at Pohick Church, in Virginia, regarded with so much reverence by Americans, as it was here for many years that Gen. Washington worshipped. The sexton unlocked the large gate of the inclosure. The site of the church was selected by Washington on account of its central position and its proximity to Mount Vernon. The contractor was Mr. Daniel French. It was begun in 1769 and finished in 1772. The bricks were made in the county, and the stone was brought from the Isle of Wight. The building was sixty-six and one-half feet in length by forty-five in width, and the walls are twenty feet in height. The entire cost was £887 sterling. The money for the payment was raised by taxation. The walls appear to have been broken, as the repairs have been made of new bricks. The church has an ancient appearance, and is very much larger than is usually seen in the country.

There are two large doors on the western side and one on the south side, and twenty-six windows. The steps are eight in number, built of the same stone as the trimmings and casements of the doors. The church has been thoroughly renovated. There are two aisles and four rows of substantial pews and a beautiful chancel inclosed with a semi-circular railing. During the civil war the regiments stationed at Alexandria quartered their pickets in this church, and the Pennsylvania and Iowa Union soldiers stabled their horses in it. The stone flagging of the aisle was torn up and thrown out, the pulpit and pews broken up, and the pieces sent as mementoes or relics to different States, to relatives and friends. Washington's pew met with the same treatment. The spot on which it stood, on the north side, is pointed out to visitors. The roof of the church was pierced with bullets; all the plastering fell down; holes were chiseled out in the corners of the church, which had stone facings, to find the money supposed to be in the corner-stone, and some members of an Iowa regiment carved their names in the west corner on the stone facings near the door.

The list of the names of the original vestrymen of Pohick Church was kindly furnished me by a Virginia gentleman of Accotink, who is quite an antiquarian and had copied them from the vestry book of 1772, which has been found during the last three months in the State of New York, where it had been treasured and hid away by a Virginia family. The first vestryman's name on the list was that of George Washington, and then followed the names of George Mason, of Gunston, who wrote the bill of rights of the State of Virginia; George W. Fairfax, baronet, collector of the king's customs for the Potomac; Alexander Henderson, Martin Coburn, Col. Daniel McCarty, Gen. William Payne, Thomas Wilber Coffey, and Mr. Elizer.

Near the church is a small grove. There are also many graves. I read the following inscription on a tombstone over a hundred years old:

"To the memory of Mrs. Susanna Mills, wife of John Mills (merchant), who departed this life June 12, 1774, aged 39 years.

"Whatever she was for to say,
Will best be known on the great day,
When you and all and every one
Must give an account of what was done.
To say no more she lived approved,
Died lamented and beloved.

As I turned away to return homeward my mind was filled with thoughts of the different scenes which had been enacted on and around the historic spot during peace and war, under the same soft blue sky, with its feathery clouds, and the same beautiful surroundings of emerald green meadows, yellow-tinted green fields, and distant hills flooded with waves of light catching gleams of the sun's glory.

Besieging a Lunatic.

A crazy man, by name Wetterlind, recently terrorized the Swedish town of Goteborg for more than a whole week. He had locked himself in the top story of a house whence he commanded a wide sweep of street, and marked and fired at any and everybody who approached. After he shot one man dead the firemen attempted to drown him out, but could not get near enough, as the man was a dead shot. They next made iron shields to protect them in the approach, but these proved too cumbersome. An attempt to dislodge the lunatic by throwing dumbbells charged with electricity at him had to be abandoned. A barricade was then erected around the house by the police and a regular siege laid to it. The lunatic stood it a week before he was starved out, and was then seized by strategy, too weak to defend himself. He had wounded a number of people from his perch during the singular campaign.—New York Sun.

Domestic Training for Girls.

Nothing is more significant of the social condition of a people than the training of its girls in domestic life. In Germany the daughter of the nobleman, of the prince, and of the small shopkeeper learns alike to cook, to sweep, and to keep house. After the training in books is over, Fraulein Lena and her Royal Highness Princess Sophie both begin this home education. There are establishments where they are taken by the year, as in a boarding school. In one month they wash dishes and polish glass and silver; in another they cook meats; in another bake; in the next "lay down" meat for winter use, or preserve fruit, make jellies and pickles, sweep and dust. Plain sewing, darning, and the care of linen is also taught, and taught thoroughly. The German "betrotted" is thus almost always a thorough housekeeper, and spends the time before marriage in laying in enormous stores of provisions and napery for her future home.

In France a girl begins at 12 years of age to take part in the household interests. Being her mother's constant companion, she learns the system of close, rigid economy which prevails in all French families. If there be but two sticks of wood burning on the hearth, they are pulled apart when the family leave the room, even for half an hour, and the brands are saved. The nourishing soup, the exquisite entrees, and dainty desserts are made out of fragments, which in many an American kitchen would be thrown away. The French girl thus inhales economy and skill with the air she breathes, and the habits she acquires last her through life.

English girls of the educated class seldom equal the German and French in culinary arts, but they are early taught to share in the care of the poor around them. They teach in the village classes, or they have industrial classes; they have some hobby, such as drawing, riding, or animals to occupy their spare time with pleasure or profit. Hence the English girl, though not usually as clever or as well read as her American sister, has that certain poise and aplomb which belongs to women who have engrossing occupation outside of society, beaux, and flirting.—Fourth's Companion.

All for a Purpose.

In a conversation drifting toward the many wise provisions of nature, the Rev. Mr. Maxwell said: "The other day in my intellectual excursions, I came across a wonderfully sensible paper treating of the use of snakes. The long black snake is especially useful. He goes into the dense swamps, worms himself among the reeds and flags and devours thousands of scorpions and lizards, which, without his timely interference would become too numerous. So, you see, everything, even the black snake is useful, being created for a purpose."

"That is all very well," one of the reverend gentleman's listeners replied. "We recognize the usefulness of the snake, because he devours scorpions and lizards, but of what use, pray tell me, are the scorpions and lizard?"

"They eat innumerable insects," the minister triumphantly replied.

"All right, but of what use are the insects?"

"The insects? Why er—they serve as food for the lizards."

"Yes, but of what use are the lizards?"

"Why, you must be blind not to see that they serve as food for the snakes."

"Of course I see that, but that only brings up the question of what use are snakes?"

"To eat up the lizards, I tell you. My dear sir," the minister added, "it is not strange that philosophy advances so slowly when we think of man's narrowness of understanding."—Arkansas Traveler.

"BRIDGET, this dust upon the furniture is intolerable. What shall I do?"

"Do as I do, marn—pay no attention to it."

J. D. LEIGHTY,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBER GOODS, HATS, CAPS, ETC.

A FULL LINE OF

Plug, Smoking and Fine Cut Tobaccos, Canned Fruits, Prunes, Raisins Currants, Etc., Etc.

St. Joe, - - Indiana.

M. T. BISHOP.

—DEALER IN—

LUMBER,

LATH. SHINGLES, PINE AND POPULAR LUMBER, LIME, PLASTER, MOULDINGS, ETC., ETC.

I HAVE AN IMMENSE STOCK AND SOLICIT YOUR PATRONAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

YARD NEAR DEPOT, - - ST. JOE, IND.

S. & F. BARNEY,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

CLOTHING, GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, GROCERIES, GENERAL STOCK OF HARDWARE, STOVES AND TRIMMINGS,

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

Produce, Grain, Seeds, and Wool.

CASE & OLDS,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

GROCERIES, CLOTHING, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, QUEENSWARE, CLASSWARE, ETC.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

EXAMINE THE BARGAINS ON OUR

5 and 10c Counters.

THE ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. I.

ST. JOE, IND., FRIDAY, APRIL 29, 1887.

NO. 14.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

—John J. Miller, an old and wealthy farmer living near Milford, in the northern part of Kosciusko County, is the victim of a confidence game whereby he is loser $2,300. The circumstances are almost identical with the case at Warren, and the game was no doubt worked by the same men who robbed old man Lewis. Two men called on Miller, and bargained for his farm. On the road to Milford, accompanied by Miller, to complete the negotiations, they met the customary affable stranger, who induced them to bet a few dollars on a little trick with cards. Miller was easily duped, and the rascals departed with his money. The men were well-dressed and of pleasing address. A reward of $300 is offered for their apprehension.

—Joseph Butch, of Indianapolis, in the employ of A. Bresner, was killed at Lafayette. Butch had ascended a derrick, intending to tighten the bolts on the cable used on the steam hoisting apparatus at the sewer. Not understanding the apparatus, he did not notice that he was loosening one end of the bolts, thus letting the derrick fall. The heavy timbers struck Butch on the head, causing death soon after. Butch was to have been married soon, and his wedding-suit will be his shroud.

—The elevator at Cooley & Morrison's furniture factory, in Connorsville, dropped from the fifth-story of the building to the basement, caused by the cable breaking. Three men were on it at the time. Robert Hampson, aged 33, was instantly killed; William Burkus was fatally injured, and John McCormick was badly hurt, but will recover.

—The residence of Chris Mills was burned, at Greentown, a small town on the narrow-gauge, east of Kokomo. Mrs. Mills had left her year-old babe asleep in the cradle, and went out to a neighbor's. On returning she saw her house in flames, and only succeeded in securing the charred remains of her little child.

—The State Board of Health has daily reports of the continued spread of measles. In some places the disease is malignant and in others of a mild form. Dr. F. G. Thornton, of Knightsville, Clay County, said he had thus far attended 311 cases. Randolph County has 282 cases, and Laporte 287.

—In a fight between officers and tramps, at South Bend, the police captured eleven of the vagrants, and a twelfth was shot through the heart by Officer John Metz in a struggle. The name of the tramp was given as "Baltimore Ed." He was about 20 years old, and was believed to have been a tailor.

—Samuel Ogborn, who was sentenced to the penitentiary for three years for assault and battery with intent to kill, has been paroled by the Governor on the conditions of good behavior and abstinence from intoxicants. He was convicted in the Wayne Circuit Court two years ago last February.

—The Baptist Church of Greensburg, that has been without a pastor several months, has extended a call to Rev. Sanders, of Columbia City, who has preached at Greensburg several times recently. He is regarded as a very strong minister, and in all probability will accept the call.

—The prospects that the Southwestern Railroad out of Terre Haute will be built brighten. At Terre Haute $23,000 has already been raised by private subscription to encourage the enterprise, and the soliciting committee have not as yet seen half of the friends of the enterprise.

—Albert Magle, of Columbia City, who had been married only two weeks, committed suicide by banging, in his barn. Cause unknown, as he was living happily with his young wife, who discovered him first. He was but 25 years of age and worth considerable money.

—While Hon. R. P. Effinger, a prominent citizen of Peru, was engaged in taking down a bird-house on his premises, the rotten supports of the structure gave way, and the mass fell on Mr. Effinger, whose ankle was crushed into a shapeless mass, rendering amputation necessary.

—Dr. F. B. Thomas, of Winamac, met with a severe and painful accident. He was shooting rats at his residence with an old muzzle-loading rifle, when the breech-pin blew out, striking him on the forehead, and inflicting injuries which may prove fatal.

—Mr. Patrick Campbell, an aged and much-respected citizen of Shoals, while engaged in his usual vocation, and apparently in good health, suddenly dropped dead, without apparent warning to himself or friends. He was about 60 years of age.

—George Howard, en route from a dance, near Harmony, sat down on the ties and fell into a dose. A freight backing, struck him, fracturing his skull and otherwise fearfully mangle him. He lived but a short time after being found.

—Gas well No. 2, at Frankfort, is now down over 200 feet. The pipe has been driven through quicksand and drift so far, and the contractors do not expect to reach rock under 300 feet. Frankfort is enjoying a substantial boom already.

—J. W. Middleton, of Jennings Township, Scott County, desiring to end his life, made a variation on the usual hakeneyed methods of suicide and went out where wood-choppers were at work and let a tree fall on him.

—John Warnock, aged 93, a resident of Tippecanoe County, has been for a long time without food. He takes an occasional sip of water, but no food enters his mouth. His fasting is not from choice, but necessity.

—The annual Union Sunday-school convention of Montgomery County will be held at Crawfordsville on May 25.

—Preston Dant, aged 23 years, and unmarried, attempted to board a moving freight train on the Ohio and Mississippi Railway at Washington, fell under the wheels, and was almost instantly killed.

—A movement is on foot at Crawfordsville for the erection of a soldiers' fountain in the court-house yard. This fountain is to cost $1,600, and the most of this sum is to be raised by subscription.

—A Fort Wayne policeman was run over by the fast-line express on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, and horribly mangled.

—J. M. Hill, the Liberty man who had his leg amputated at St. Stephen's Hospital, Richmond, a few days ago, as a last resort, died.

—Forest fires are raging in Brown County, a district about twenty miles in length being in a blaze.

—House-breakers are actively at work in Jeffersonville, and a number of residents have suffered recently.

—Near Wabash, Charles McGinnis was fatally shot in the abdomen while cleaning a revolver.

—Martin Schneider died at Fort Wayne, aged 102. He was a soldier at Waterloo.

—The farm residence of Mrs. Sarah Smith, south of Gasburg, Morgan County, was burned, none of its contents being saved.

THE enormously large hats worn by some very little girls make it difficult to decide which there is the more of—but or child.

PHASISUS imagines the Pension Bureau must be a massive piece of furniture—there are so many drawers.

A CORRESPONDENT wishes to ask how editors spend their leisure hours? They spend them in working.

STRANGE as it may seem, iron is not firm. The market reports say so.—Lowell Courier.

GIVEN UP FOR DEAD,

But Still Alive, and Now Claiming His Father's Distributed Estate.

[Philadelphia Times.]

A case involving a most intricate legal problem, and all the features of a romance, has been brought to the attention of the Court at Huntington, Pa. In 1872 old Jacob Stahley, a man of eccentric habits, died at his home on Shaver's Creek, leaving an estate worth $30,000. A protracted settlement of the estate reduced this amount to about $20,000, and over this sum a long and stubborn legal controversy ensued. Stahley left a widow and a son. The widow had been his fifth wife, and the son was supposed to be a child of his second wife, and was also named Jacob. The son left home early in life, and in 1860 he married. He and his wife went to Rebecca, Nebraska, where he was appointed postmaster, but some irregularities occurring in connection with the mails resulted in his being sent to the House of Correction at Detroit, Michigan. He was extravagant and improvident, and it was no doubt his father's knowledge of these qualities that induced him to make his will as he did.

During their absence in the West the will was made. It was executed in December, 1870, and the testator died two years later. It provided that his real estate should be rented and the rents paid annually to his son Jacob, and that, at the latter's death, the real estate should go to his heirs, including Mrs. Jacob Stahley. It also provided that the executor might sell the real estate at his discretion and place the proceeds at interest, and all the moneys at the death of the son Jacob should be equally divided among his heirs. In 1872 Stahley and his wife returned from the West, coming to Huntington to live. He had left creditors in this State, and after his return, as his father's will did not provide that this annuity should not be liable for his debts, his creditors obtained judgments against him, and attached the money in the hands of the executor, so that he never received any of it. Being childless, Stahley conceived the idea of obtaining an heir by adoption, and selected a boy 4 years of age, named George Leightner, son of a very poor man living in Stone Valley.

Stahley continued to live with his family until February 13, 1874, when he suddenly disappeared, leaving a note for his wife, in which he stated that he had determined upon suicide and that his body would be found at a designated spot in the Juniata River. His coat, hat, and other articles of apparel were found at the place indicated, and although the river was carefully searched for several weeks, no tidings of his body was ever heard of. No one could throw any light on the matter, and all accepted the suicide story except several of the attaching creditors. As no witness was ever produced who had seen or heard of Stahley afterwards, the Auditor before whom the case was heard held that the evidence was sufficient to warrant the presumption of death, and in 1881, after the seven years' absence of her husband had expired, Mrs. Stahley took out letters of administration on his estate, and a distribution of the estate of old Jacob Stahley was made under his will equally between her and the adopted son. Mrs. Stahley soon afterward married and located in one of the extreme western States, where she is still living. The adopted son, who is now in his fifteenth year, resides with his natural parents in this county. He expended a considerable portion of his share of the estate on his education.

The strange sequel to this singular story remains to be told. In January last Stahley, whom every one regarded as dead, wrote to Mr. S. Lytle, of this city, under the assumed name of W. W. Williams. He was then living in Boston, but now resides in North Dighton, Mass. He made inquiries after the Stahley family and particularly about the estate of old Jacob Stahley. Mr. Lytle, who had been Stahley's attorney, recognized the handwriting, and during the correspondence which followed Stahley threw off his disguise and acknowledged his identity. He has never been away from Massachusetts, he says, since his mysterious disappearance from this city thirteen years ago. In his letters he expressed repentance for his wayward course, but says that under his assumed name he has acquired a good reputation. He now desires that his father's estate, distributed between his wife and their adopted son, be recovered to himself, and to this end his attorney commenced the preliminary proceedings before Judge Furst.

Josh Billings' Scrap Book.

The late Josh Billings told me once, says a Chicago Mail writer, that his first experience on the lecture platform was the making of him.

"I had been writing a good deal," he said, "and the stuff was pretty well received. At least I thought it was. I got it printed, and a good deal of it was paid for. I imagined that I was a little the biggest man in New York, and certainly the best known man outside the city, except Greeley. I had made a scrap-book of my writings, and concluded I would give readings from these. I made an engagement to give such a reading at a small town in New Jersey. I carried my book with me and put up at the one hotel in great style. The landlord did not seem remarkably overawed by my presence, which was somewhat dampening. I gave him a half dozen tickets for the lecture. When I came on the platform there were but seven persons in the hall, six of them being from the hotel, and the seventh a small boy who came in free. When I got back to the hotel I called the landlord into my room and had him bring me all the old newspapers he could find and a ball of cord. I took out my book, wrapped a dozen or so of newspapers around it, and then began winding the cord. I wound the entire ball about the bundle and tied the ends in a double knot.

"The landlord had watched the proceedings intently, and when I had finished my wrapping he inquired what the proceedings meant. I told him I was going back to New York and go to work, and I did not propose to untie that book until I could do so in his town and before an audience that would fill the house. I went back to the city," continued Mr. Shaw, "and struck out on a new lead. Two years after I received an invitation to lecture in this same town. I had been waiting for this. I took my old book and took it along to see how things looked. When I came on the platform I found an audience so tightly packed that the last man had to leave his cane in the vestibule for lack of room. I took out my book and unwrapped it before them, telling the story as I did so. It was this shutting up of the past and beginning again that saved me—or at least made me what I am."

A Difference.

Judge—"And you say that you did not strike the plaintiff until he had become abusive?"

Defendant—"That's hit, Judge."

Judge—"Well, tell the court what he said?"

Defendant—"He called me a horse thief, Judge."

Judge—"That won't excuse your conduct; a man might call me a horse thief all day."

Defendant (interrupting)—"Yes, but I guess you've never been one, Judge, and you don't know how it riled me!"

—Detroit Free Press.

The train of thought leads the pencil, and hence it is a led pencil.

The St. Joe News.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MORT & WILLOIDS.

PUBLISHERS.

THE SEEKING.

BY J. T. TROWBRIDGE.

I.

By ways of dreaming and doing,
Man seeks the bourns of the blest;
Youth yearns for the Fortunate Islands,
Age pines for the haven of rest.

And we say to ourselves: "O, surely,
Beneath some bluer skies,
Just over our bleak horizon,
The land of our longing lies!"

Each seeks some favored pathway,
Secure to him alone;
But every pathway thither
With broken hearts is strown.

II.

The Giver of Sleep breathed also,
Into our clay, the breath
And fire of unrest, to save us
From indolent life in death.

Fair is the opening rosebud,
And fair the full-blown rose;
And sweet, after rest, is action,
And, after action, repose.

But indolence, like the cow-bird,
That's hatched in an alien nest,
Crowds out the native virtues,
And soon usurps the breast.

Better the endless endeavor,
The strong deed rushing on,
And happiness that, ere we know her,
And name her, smiles and is gone.

III.

We wait for the welling of waters
That never pass the brink;
We pour our lives in the fountain,
But cannot stay to drink.

"To-morrow," says Youthful Ardor,
Twining the vine and the rose,
"I will couch in these braided bowers,
As blithe as the breeze that blows."

"To-morrow," says earnest Manhood,
Yet adding land to land,
"I will walk in the alleys of leisure,
And rest from the work of my hand."

"To-morrow," says Age, still training
The vine to the trembling wall,
Till the dark sweeps down upon us,
And the shadow that swallows all.

IV.

Ebb-tide chased by the flood-tide,
Night by the dawn pursued,
And ever contentment hounded
By fresh inquietude!

Not what we have done avails us,
But what we do and are;
We turn from the deed that is setting,
And steer for the rising star.

We may wreck our hearts in the voyage;
But never shall sail or oar,
Nor wind of enchantment, waft us
Nearer the longed-for shore.

In vain each past attainment:
No sooner the bound appears
Than the spirit, ever aspiring,
Spreads sail for untried spheres.

Whatever region entices,
Whatever siren sings,
Still onward beckons the phantom
Of unaccomplished things.

—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

A HEARTLESS FLIRT.

BY BURT BYRNE.

Mrs. La Rue was in sore perplexity and dire trouble as she sat in her cozy boudoir, the prettiest in Ashtown, knitting a snowy "seaside."

She was not accustomed to trouble, although ten years a widow; for Mr. La Rue, many years older than herself, had given and received a calm, quiet affection, and when he died, leaving her a widow at 25, had bestowed upon her his ample fortune, uncontrolled by conditions.

Two beautiful children were but an added happiness in Imogene La Rue's wedded life, being healthy, loving darlings, who gave her no anxieties and many pleasures.

But on this snowy January day, Mrs. La Rue having seen the children well wrapped up and started for school, and Miss Leonie Castlemaine, her cousin and guest, at the piano in the drawing-room, practicing a new fantasia, had gone to her own private sitting-room, for a quiet hour of troubled thought.

"Where is Fred?" Miss Castlemaine had inquired, opening her glorious eyes a little wider at the decided snap in her cousin's reply.

"He has gone over to Mrs. Grant's for me."

Now it was Miss Castlemaine and Fred who were troubling Mrs. La Rue almost beyond that little woman's power of endurance.

Twice she had ventured to hint to Leonie that she was going too far in her coquetting with Fred, and twice that lady's silvery laugh had preceded the answer: "Nonsense, Imogene, he is only a boy!"

Well, he was only a boy, just 19—a precocious, sensitive boy, with an inherited tendency to heart disease.

He was John La Rue's nephew, the son of his only brother, orphaned while very young, and heir to property his uncle had nursed carefully for him until it was a handsome sum, and which, if Fred died before he came of age, would fall to Mrs. La Rue's John and Imogene.

It was this fact that had made Mrs. La Rue almost morbid in her care of Frederick La Rue from the time when he came to his uncle's, and a big-eyed, pale-faced boy, frail and sensitive, and needing far more care than her own rosy, healthy children.

"If the money would not come to my children," Mrs. La Rue thought, "it would not be so dreadful; but the idea that they will be richer if Fred dies makes me almost crazy. What can I do? I cannot send him away—he is too weak; and Leonie never hints at shortening her visit. What can I do?"

Travel over the ground as her thoughts would, they came back always to the same refrain—"What can I do?"

Leonie Castlemaine was Mrs. La Rue's first cousin, and a belle. No one had ever disputed her claim to the latter title. Beautiful in the richest brunette type, she had been trained by a foolish, fashionable mother for society. She was a splendid pianist, had a rich contralto voice, highly cultivated, danced with incomparable grace, conversed brilliantly, and burst upon society as a star of the first magnitude. Her toilets were marvels of Parisian art, and if her mother's income were stretched to starvation limits to procure them neither murmured over scanty diet to adorn Leonie. She was to make a dazzling marriage; that was understood. Nothing less than a nobleman would win such charms; but the noblemen did not crowd about her. Somehow the artificial in her manner was too apparent. There was too much of the dramatic in her perfect bow; her sweet voice was too well modulated; her attitudes too well posed.

Seasons in London, Brighton, and wherever the society flocked, had drained the maternal purse, and Mrs. Castlemaine had said, with pathos, "We have been living on our capital for two years, Leonie, and you are nearly twenty-seven. I almost wish you had accepted Mr. Dolman."

And Leonie had replied, "Mr. Dolman did not give me an opportunity."

"But what are we to do this winter?"

"I'll tell you! I'll make Cousin Imogene a visit. There is a good society at Ashtown, and at any rate it will save my expense towards a summer at Scarborough."

So, self-invited, this gorgeous butterfly of fashion had fluttered into Mrs. La Rue's quiet home, while Fred was there, invalidated by a course of hard study at college.

Now flirtation was the bread of life to Leonie Castlemaine; and the tall boy who threw his admiration into his voice and eyes in greeting her, was a handsome, refined specimen of an Englishman. His eyes were as beautiful as her own, with this difference, that their expression was dictated by his heart, while hers merely obeyed her will.

It was but natural and altogether proper that Frederick La Rue should place himself at the service of his aunt's guest and cousin. He was her escort to the mild dissipations of Ashtown; drove her in his aunt's pony carriage whenever a mild day tempted her out; practiced duets with her, the piano accompanying his violin; listened to her magnificent voice in song; and, not gradually, but at once and for his life, loved her as only such a passionate, sensitive temperament can love.

Even Mrs. La Rue, watching in fear, did not realize the extent of the mischief done. She saw Fred's infatuation, but seeing, as only a woman could see, through Miss Castlemaine's many affectations, did not see that every well-assumed grace and charm were realities to poor Fred. How could he know that the voice lowered to such exquisite tenderness for him was as well trained for flirtation as for song? He never suspected that the beautiful eyes that drooped under his ardent gaze had practiced that shy drop of the snowy lids with dozens of lovers.

Sometimes he laughed, sometimes he grew indignant over his aunt's well-meant cautions. What if Leonie was older than himself? Love did not pause to count years! What if Leonie had been in society for many seasons? She had come heart-whole out of that fiery ordeal, to find rest and peace in a life of refined quiet.

For Leonie could be so sentimental that no one, least of all poor, infatuated Fred, would divine that she was yawning behind her fan.

"A home of peace and love!" That was Leonie's modest desire, if her own word was to be taken, and Fred imagined her a "ministering angel" therein. She had been with him more than once when the frightful heart-attacks that were his mother's sad legacy had followed some great excitement, and, to do her justice, all the true woman came forward at such times. There was but little to do, but that little was done tenderly and deftly. His necktie and collar loosened, his head raised, Fred would recover to find Leonie fanning him gently, his face wet with her soft handkerchief upon his forehead, and her eyes, full of womanly tenderness, fixed upon his own.

Knowing herself answerable for the attack, by some word of encouragement for his mad passion, Leonie would draw back for a time, only to meet reproaches and the threat of worse trouble by the excitement of despair. She had played with edged tools till she could handle them very skillfully, but these cut her conscience sharply at times.

Yet she would not drop the dangerous game, because, after all, she might do worse than marry Frederick La Rue.

"He cannot live long," she wrote in confidence to her mother, "and £20,000 would be a comfortable fortune for his widow. The trouble is that he will not be of age for nearly two years, and may die before he can make a will. Still, I shall keep him as my 'forlorn hope.' Be sure you keep your eye on Mr. Dolman, if, as you write, you think my absence has really quickened his love. If he proposes, I will return at once, for, as you say, it will not do to let such an offer as that pass now. Six years ago I should have refused him, but, between ourselves, opportunities increase in value as years pass by."

Keeping Fred as a "forlorn hope" meant to give him just enough encouragement as made Mrs. La Rue nearly frantic, and at the same time keeping clear of an actual engagement.

"To tell the truth," Miss Castlemaine wrote, "I am dreadfully weary of Fred's raptures. He is such a boy yet in feeling and words that his love has no shades or refinements, and is as blunt and outspoken as a child's delight over a toy. The least smile, tiniest word of hope, sends him into the seventh heaven of ecstasy, while a frown or cold look reduces him to despair. It was amusing at first, but has become tiresome! Imogene is an agonist; but, really, mamma, if the heart disease is hereditary, I don't see why she should feel so much responsibility. One would think, to hear her, that she was actually answerable for his life."

And poor Imogene would not have denied the statement. "Lookers-on," we are told, "see most of the game," and Imogene looked on until her heart grew sick. She thoroughly understood Leonie's tactics, yet to send her away would probably make matters worse, as Fred was sure to champion her cause, and would probably follow her. Words of warning were wasted; remonstrances were in vain; and the sacred charge her husband had left her had become the misery of the conscientious woman's life.

"Can you not see," she asked Leonie, with all her heart-agonish in her voice, "that you are killing Fred?"

"Don't exaggerate so," was the cool reply.

"I do not exaggerate. He has wasted to a shadow since you came, and his color fluctuates till it terrifies me. I tell you that he cannot bear this strain of excitement."

"How can I help a boy's foolish infatuation? I have had dozens of boys in love with me, and they all got over it. Calm love is ever in extremes, Imogene."

"Fred is a man in feeling, Leonie."

"Bah! He will forget me in a month after I leave."

The winter wore away, and April came; but Leonie said nothing of returning home until the month of showers was half gone. Then a momentous letter came. Mamma had succeeded where Leonie had failed, and Mr. Dolman's heart, hand, and fortune were laid at the feet of Miss Castlemaine.

Exultant, and without one pang of self-reproach, Leonie wrote a maidenly, charming letter of acceptance, and concluded her letter to her mother with the words:

"I will be with you on Thursday. Have my trousseau under way by that time, and do not spare expense. I can soon repay all you spend."

She took the letters to the post herself, and coming back in the dusk of twilight, found Mrs. La Rue and Fred in the porch, the air being soft as June.

"Why did you go alone?" Fred asked, reproachfully.

She laughed, a sweet, silvery laugh, before she answered.

"I must learn to do without you, Fred! I am going home on Thursday."

"Going home!" he faltered, his very lips white.

"Yes, my long holiday is over, and mamma writes that I really must superintend the last touches to my trousseau."

"Your trousseau!" cried Mrs. La Rue, sharply.

"Did I not tell you," asked Leonie, with well-acted surprise, "that I am engaged to Mr. Dolman?"

There was a strange, hoarse cry as Fred started to his feet, with the face of a man who is strangling. Mrs. La Rue's arms were about him in a moment.

"Go away!" she cried, as Leonie loosened Fred's necktie. "You have killed him!"

But Leonie did not go, for in another moment it took the strength of both women to hold the "boy" working in convulsions. Cries brought the servants, and a man was sent for the doctor, but before he came Fred's life-struggle was over; and Leonie Castlemaine knew that her heartless flirtation had killed him.

Tender and True.

Wife—And you will not forget me, darling, while I am away? You will always think of me every day while I am gone, won't you, dear?

Husband—Yes, my love, I am sure I shall. The bills I get will keep you constantly in mind.—Somerville Journal.

It is a question whether a man can ever be an angel. But if men couldn't there is a general belief that women wouldn't want to be.—Somerville Journal.

PITH AND POINT.

FREE lunch for callers—Sponge cake. A MAN of deeds—The country recorder.

A STOPPED-UP-GEYSER is an ex-spurt in its way.

"WHAT would the world do without alcohol?" asks an exchange. Do without, probably.—New York Graphic.

THE life of the book-agent is full of wormwood and gall. The wormwood is barely perceptible.—Merchant Traveler.

"If misfortune overtakes you, smile," advises a poet. That's all well enough, but suppose misfortune overtakes you in a strictly prohibition town?—Burlington Free Press.

A MAINE paper inquires: "Is there more money in heels than in heads?" Yes, in politics, where the heelers get all the money and the head men all the honors.—Washington Star.

A PHILADELPHIA firm has published a book called "How to Become a Public Speaker." In the interest of suffering humanity that book ought to be suppressed at once.—Boston Post.

A "SEASONABLE-HINT" column says that warm soapsuds is one of the best insect washes. It is well to know this. Insects lose half their unpleasantness when kept nice and clean. Save your suds.—Life.

MRS. IKENSTEIN—Ron mit der dootker vick, Solomon! Ter papy is swallowt a silver tollar! Mr. L.—Vos it dot von I left on ter dable? Mrs. L.—Yes, dot vos id; hurry mit der dootker. Mr. L.—Don't ged excited, Rajel, it vos goulder-veid.

A WILD mountain blizzard broke loose in Dakota and started off whooping like a Comanche Indian until it met a Chicago real-estate agent, when it tucked its tail between its legs and sat down and whined like an applicant for a postmastership.—Newman Independent.

MR. JEFFERSON was at one time a member of the Legislature and did much good work while there. He was instrumental in abolishing the laws relating to entail and primogeniture. He also greatly improved the existing game laws, making it a felony to turn a jack from the bottom of the pack.—Bill Nye.

THE course of true love may be traced in the eight letters produced at the hearing of a breach-of-promise case. The first letter commenced, "Dear Mr. Smith," then followed "My dear John," then "My darling John," "My own darling Jack," "My darling John," "Dear John," "Dear Sir," and all was over. Volumes could not say more.

ALL who remember the late Rev. William Adams, D.D., will be able to appreciate the grace with which, at the Pan-Presbyterian Council in Edinburgh, he rebuked his British Presbyterian brethren for their almost numberless divisions and subdivisions. "Brethren," said he, "you are R. P's., and I. P's., and U. P's. Why don't you call yourself split peas and be done with it?"

THERE is a story of a Chicago man who lost his brother by death, and called on an undertaker. He asked the undertaker how much it would cost to keep the body on ice till after the funeral, and on being told the price, said, "I suppose you will give a discount. My brother had his feet frozen before he died. He was caught out in a blizzard." The undertaker gave the bereaved mourner 20 per cent. off, on account of the feet.—Peck's Sun.

THE APPLE-BLOSSOM.

A little apple-blossom fluttered down
And lightly came between the lips of two Who just that moment would have changed a kiss.

But for the warping that the light breeze blew.

She started back, and with a nervous laugh
Refused his kiss, and in her rosy hand
Gayly held up the dainty cup of pink
Loosed and set floating by some fairy wand.
And so she kept it for a little while,
And in a few short, fleeting months from then
She sent it to him on his wedding-day,
Writing, "An emblem of the hearts of men."
—Gertrude H. Ring.

ERSKINE once was prosecuting a stage-coach proprietor in behalf of a gentleman who had suffered from an upset. "Gentlemen of the jury," said Erskine, in opening the case, "the plaintiff is Mr. Beverley, a respectable merchant of Liverpool, and the defendant is Mr. Erison, proprietor of the Swan with Two Necks in Lad lane—a sign emblematic, I suppose, of the number of necks people ought to possess who travel by his vehicles."—The Argonaut.

NOVEMBER, 1880. Thomas Tormey, Scott Depot, Putnam Co., W. Va., writes: "In bed with sciatica; am using St. Jacobs Oil." Oct. 25th, 1886, he writes: "Three rubbings with it got me out and cured me. No return."

"DIED for want of one foot of rope," is the suggestive verdict of a lynching party out West.—Boston Star.

"We have used Red Star Cough Cure," writes the sisters of the Notre Dame, Goyanstown, Md., for the cure of coughs, oppression of the chest and sore throat." Price twenty-five cents a bottle.

Pawned His Glass Eye.

A man must be reduced to sore straits who pawns his glass eye to buy food. That is what a poor fellow at Bromley has done. The pawnbroker to whom he took it valued the singular pledge at the wretched sum of two shillings. No doubt the loss of his ornamental optic is a great disfigurement to its late owner, but he probably consoles himself with the reflection that an empty eye-socket is better than an empty stomach, and that to a hungry man a loaf of bread is of greater worth than a ball of glass, "which is vanity."—Pull Mall Gazette.

WHAT funny things we see as we sit by the window, after the lamps have been lighted, and watch the shadow pantomimes on the curtain across the street.

The Queen.

If Moxie Nerve Food can take the place of drugging and stimulating, it has come to stay, and many of the doctors say it actually does. After thirteen or fourteen months on the market its sale is said to be the largest ever known. The large cities are talking Moxie forever, and every nervous woman or overworked person thinks it is the last half of everything that has just been found. Poor little Moxie weed, it never dreamed before that it was soon to be queen of the medical world.

In a recent paper on the coincidence of certain solar phenomena with the perturbations of terrestrial magnetism, M. E. Marchand shows, from a comparative study of the solar observations made at the Lyons Observatory in 1855-56 with the curves of the Mascart magnet-recorder, that there exists a direct relation between the terrestrial magnetic disturbances and the displacement of certain solar elements accompanying the spots and the faculae.

To Ladies

Suffering from functional derangements or any of the painful disorders or weaknesses incident to the sex, Dr. Pierce's treatise, illustrated with wood-cuts and colored plates (160 pages), suggests sure means of complete self-cure. Sent for 10 cents in stamps. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE oyster persistently refuses to respond to an encore.—Burlington Free Press.

AMONG the people of to-day there are few, indeed, who have not heard of the merits of Prickly Ash Bark and Berries as a household remedy. Teas and drinks have been made of them for centuries, and in hundreds of families have formed the sole reliance in rheumatic and kidney diseases. Prickly Ash Bitters now takes the place of the old system and is more beneficial in all troubles of this nature.

THE man who ate his dinner with the fork of a river has been trying to spin a mountain top.

PURE Cod Liver Oil made from selected livers, on the seashore, by Hazard, Hazard & Co., New York. It is absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians have decided it superior to any of the other oils in market.

SOME men are like an anchor. They are not useful until they are buried.—Boston Transcript.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is agreeable to use. It is not a liquid or a snuff. 50c.

35 MEDALS AWARDED TO
BENSON'S
Cures Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Backache, Weakness, Colds in the chest and all Aches and Strains.
CARCINE
Beware of imitations under similar sounding names. Ask for BENSON'S and TAKE NO OTHER.
PLASTER
THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS
The Original and Only Genuine.
Safe and always Reliable. Beware of worthless Imitations. Ladies, ask your Druggist for "Chichester's English" and take no other, or inquire for stamps to us for particulars in letter by return mail. NAME PAPERS.
2515 Madison Square, Philadelphia, Pa.
Sold by Druggists everywhere. Ask for "Chichester's English" Pennyroyal Pills. Take no other.

"Fools Rush In, Where Angels Fear to Tread."

Impetuous youth is often given to folly and indiscretions; and, as a result, nervous, mental and organic debility follow, memory is impaired, self-confidence is lacking; at night bad dreams occur, premature old age seems setting in, ruin is in the track. In confidence, you can, and should write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., the author of a treatise for the benefit of that class of patients, and describe your symptoms and sufferings. He can cure you at your home, and will send you full particulars by mail.

WHEN he sighs for her and she sighs for him, sighin's of the times may be considered auspicious for a wedding.

Health Marks.

A bright eye, clear skin, glowing features, animated expression, and a quick, firm step. These are all secured by using Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies, Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula, "Salt-rheum," "Fever-sore," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-Joint Disease, "White Swellings," Gout, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and bodily health will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "CONSUMPTION CURE," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequalled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the

Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

Sold by Druggists at $1.00, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Address,

World's Dispensary Medical Association,
603 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

RUPTURE If you want relief and cure at your home, send for Dr. J. A. Sherman's circular of instructions. 201 Broadway, New York.

PENSIONS, Officer's pay, bounty procured; deserters relieved; "1 year" practice. Success A. W. McDORMICK & SON, Washington, D. C., & Cincinnati, O.

LOTS New Town of BENJAMIN, Wis. Gen. R. R. Pats supply Milwaukee Mining Exchange, Milwaukee, Wis. Good best prospects and sold

TELEPHONES (or private lines. Sold outright Circulars free. Agents wanted. Address, HARBERT TEL. CO., 150 La Salle St., Chicago.

PENSIONS COLLECTED and increased by Fitzerand & Powell, Indianapolis, Ind. Old cases reopened. Send for copy of Law, free.

HARTER'S
THE ONLY TRUE
IRON TONIC
Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and REPAIR the HEALTH AND VIGOR OF YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only adds to its popularity. Do not experiment—get ORIGINAL AND BEST.
DR. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS (Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Broam Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.
THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

LADIES or others, who wish to examine this paper, or obtain estimates on advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St.

The Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

PATENTS R. S. & A. P. LACEY, Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C. Inventors and solicitors of patents in all countries. 17 years' experience.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES Sure relief. Price 25c. Asthma. Sold by mail. Stowell & Co., Haverhill, Mass.

OAKLAWN

The Great Nursery of

PERCHERON HORSES.

200 Imported Brood Mares of Choicest Families.
LARGE NUMBERS All Ages, both Sexes, IN STOCK.

300 to 400 IMPORTED ANNUALLY from France, all recorded with extended pedigrees in the Percheron Stud Books. The Percheron is the only draft breed of France possessing a stud book that has the support and endorsement of the French Government. Send for 120-page Catalogue, Illustrations by Rose Bonheur.

M. W. DUNHAM, Wayne, DuPage Co., Illinois.

WARREN'S FEATHERBONE Dress Stay!

The only Dress Stay in the world. Absolutely unbreakable. Price 15 cents per yard. For sale everywhere. Also, just prepared for the market, new, elegant Satin covered Featherbone, ready for attaching to the finest dresses. Price 25 cents per yard. Colors: Black, White, Cardinal, Blue, and Pink. If your dealer has not yet received it, any amount desired will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of orders. Address: WARREN'S FEATHERBONE COMPANY, Three Oaks, Michigan.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

A MAN
WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R.R.
By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest—in the only true middle-link in that transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific. The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE
Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodations is unequalled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.
ALL EXPRESS TRAINS between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of comfortable DAY COACHES, magnificent PULLMAN PALACE PARLOR and SLEEPING CARS, elegant DINING CARS providing excellent meals, and—between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—restful RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE
Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains run daily to the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The rich wheat fields and grazing lands of interior Dakota are reached via Watertown. A short desirable route, via Seneca and Kankakee, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points.
All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employees of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly attention.
For Tickets, Maps, Folders—obtainable at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada—or any desired information, address,

R. R. CABLE, Pres't & Gen'l Mgr., Chicago. E. ST. JOHN, Asst' Gen'l Mgr., Chicago. E. A. HOLBROOK, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt., Chicago.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND SLICKER
The Best Waterproof Coat.
The FISH BRAND SLICKER is warranted waterproof, and will keep you dry in the heaviest rain. The new FISH BRAND SLICKER is a perfect model, and is made of the finest material. Beware of imitations. Note the "Fish Brand" trade-mark. Illustrated Catalogue free. A. J. Tower, Boston, Mass.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH
The Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.
Also good for Cold in the Head, Headache, Hay Fever, &c. 50 cents.
$5 to $10 a day. Sample worth $1.50. FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address: Brewster's S. J. & Ben Holder, Holly, Mich.
LADY AGENTS—Article new, sells fast. No money to invest. Address, R. F. LICKER, Mountville, O.
N. U. F. W. No. 15—87.
When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
One Year, in advance ..... $0.75
Six Months ..... 50
Three Months ..... 25

Entered at the Post Office at St. Joe
as second-class matter.

FRIDAY APRIL 29, 1887.

This issue closes up the first three months existence of the News, and we are gratified to announce that it has proven a success beyond our expectation. Our object was to establish a little paper, devoted to the interests of St. Joe, and for the purpose of supplying her citizens each week with local and home news, as well as to furnish an advertising medium for her business men. That our efforts have been appreciated is attested from the fact that we now have nearly 400 subscribers and have the advertising patronage of all our business men. We have received many words of encouragement, and all have expressed themselves as being well satisfied with the paper. It is small we know, but the price corresponds with the size. It is not always the biggest that's the best. In the future we shall endeavor to make the News better, and we trust it will be a welcome weekly visitor into every household in this part of the county. We have several subscribers on our list who only subscribed for three months; their paper will be discontinued after this week, unless we receive orders to keep on sending it. We have heard it remarked that the only way to stop a county paper was to kill the editor, and while we are anxious to have every body take the News, we have made it a rule to stop all papers when the time expires, unless we receive orders to the contrary.

A man died in Fort Wayne last week who was 102 years old.

Misses Josie Smith and Georgia Van Fleet were at home over Sunday.

Rev. J. A. Thomas will preach in the Lutheran church Sunday evening at the usual hour.

Dan Baker took in the sights of Hicksville last Saturday. We don't know whether he took in any thing else or not.

A petition will be forwarded to Washington this week asking for a daily mail between St. Joe and Spencerville. Just what they ought to have.

The Spencerville Owl of last week puts a pretty low estimate on somebody's soul in this place. While we are aware that there is a sort of a rivalry existing between these two towns, yet we are loath to believe that we have any one here, who is so selfish as to want to deprive the citizens of Spencerville of any of their mail privileges.

The entire class of 1887, of the St. Joe school, consisting of Misses Emma Curie, Virge Langley, Callie Kopp, Edie Hart and Frank Hart passed the graduation examination. These young people are to be congratulated on their success, and while they have no doubt studied hard to attain this end, yet a proper amount of credit should be given their teacher, Miss Eva Shutt, who has labored so earnestly during the past winter for the advancement of those under her care.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

PLEASANT HILL.

Willis Baker plowed some of his wheat crop up and sowed it to oats.

Silas Reasoner's little boy has been quite sick for the last week with the fever.

William Johnson has made an assignment of his property, personal and real estate.

Willie Jackson has been suffering much the past two weeks with an abscess on his leg.

There is a young man in this neighborhood who wants to know when a fellow is qualified to get married. We are unable to answer and if there is any readers of this paper that can, they will please do so in the next issue of the News.

Sam Parson has returned again from the soldiers home. This makes the third winter he has spent there, and he says there was over six thousand soldiers wintered there and he thinks this will be the last winter there for him, as they have started a saloon. He is now employed by Dan Baker of Concord for the summer.

COBURN TOWN.

The sick are all getting better.

Charley Tustison is working for Charley Coburn this week.

Charley Coburn has been quite sick but is better at this writing.

Jud Davis after having all the ailments flesh is heir to, is getting well again.

Sell Gee is on the road selling the Albion Spring Tooth Cultivator for R. G. Coburn.

Joseph Scholes is at work for his brother Frank, on some ditches in Van Wert Co. Ohio.

George Wade got his leg broken by the falling of a tree last Monday. Have not heard the particulars.

If any of your readers have any old last years birds nests they will please save them, as there is a demand for them over this way.

Barney Woodcox and Fremont Ables have set out two acres of currants and raspberries in that little muck swamp on the Milliman farm.

Mrs. Libby Tibbitts and son Willie, of Denver, Mich., are visiting with her mother, brothers and sisters and friends in this neighborhood. She will leave for home next week.

SPENCERVILLE.

Measles in town.

The owl hooted again last week.

Mrs. Tindall is dangerously sick.

Dr. Murphy was in town Saturday.

Joe Fredrick spent Sunday at this place.

Work has been commenced on the new church.

Gerry Sanders has been visiting in town the past few days.

Teachers meeting at the home of Mrs. Smith on Saturday evening.

Will Tindall has been called home from Valparaiso by the illness of his father.

Elmer Chaney and Will Fales are at work repairing Mr. Simanton's house.

Rev. Curry preaches next Sunday morning, and Rev. Fryberger in the evening.

Mrs. Allen has been at Fort Wayne during the past week selecting a line of millinery goods.

The Missionary Society of the Lutheran church, will be entertained by Mrs. John Beams, Thursday April 28th, 1887. All are invited.

Mrs. A. Miller, of Garrett, was visiting her mother, Mrs. Wilson a few days last week. She left for Nebraska Sunday night to join her husband, where they will make their future home.

PIGEON'S RETREAT.

Miss Krist was the guest of Miss Timmerman last Sunday.

Mrs. Wasson is reported a great deal better and improving daily.

We hear that Jim Ervin prefers Hulls to hickory nuts. Jim always was peculiar.

Jack Moody is putting a cellar under his house. Jack always was "big" on having things convenient.

Frank Henderson is almost dead broke. He has only one Shilling, and that is not in his possession.

Mr. Timmerman and wife were caught in the blizzard Sunday while returning from a visit to their daughter's.

We understand that Theodore Kline has purchased a farm of J. D. Leighty. Said farm lies west of the Gill farm and is at present tenanted by William Wyatt.

Spencerville is showing her good taste by inviting quite a number of Pigeon Retreaters to help in the proposed entertainment. Some will accept but the majority will decline the invitation.

That black-eyed widow Martin, Is Bennie's favorite bird. He says "She sings the sweetest Of any I ever heard."

That Martin lives in Bryan, A town in O hi-o.

And regularly twice a month, There Ben is sure to go.

If the Hicksville oil well's a success, 'Twill be a boom to Ben.

He'll sell his shares, invest his coin, Retire from toil, and then

He'll buy himself a cozy cage, And bring his Martin home;

And there forever she will sing, For Ben, and Ben alone.

CONCORD.

Will Morr is working for Mr. M. Darling this spring.

What value does Rosa place upon a certain gentleman? One Shilling.

Wesley Hines, of Grove Bethel, attended singing school at this place Saturday evening.

Sherman Rickets started for the west last Monday night, but does not know just where he will locate.

It seems that Louie and Charley greatly admire a certain color we term Brown. At least we thought so last Sunday evening.

Wayne Scott has made some improvements about his house. He has also purchased a new range, so that his wife may be able to cook appetizing meals for him.

We think one of the girls extremely selfish in having so many beaux in one Sunday. She had better divide up with some of the girls that don't have any.

Girls, don't you know why that singing teacher is so determined to have a singing school at this place. The attraction is just north of the church a "loedle vays."

Miss Ida Koch has organized a singing class at this place for the benefit of the little folks. We hope her efforts will be crowned with success, for singing has been sadly neglected for the past few years at this place.

Barcus will not have an opportunity of poking fun at F. Buchanan again soon in regard to butchering. Last Monday morning he was up before daylight and had his porker killed and dressed, and had some of it for his breakfast. He did not try to shoot it, but cut the jugular vein; and let it die a peaceful and painless death. (Ov korse he had tu stick the hogg, he caddent hit the brode side ov a ten aker feld with a shott gun.—Barcus.)

M. TUSTISON,
DEALER IN

GROCERIES,

EARTHEN POTS FOR HOUSE PLANTS

PROVISIONS, OYSTERS, LEMONS.

ORANGES, CANDIES, CIGARS &c.

MAIN ST., — — — ST. JOE, IND.

WILLIAM CURIE,

PROPRIETOR OF

MEAT MARKET

ST. JOE, IND.

Highest market price paid for Hides,
Tallow &c. Give me a call.

J. F. WALKER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

Harness, Collars,

WHIPS, HARNESS OIL &c

ST. JOE, IND.

Repairing done promptly. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see.

A. KINSEY,

DEALER IN

FURNITURE

BUREAUS, TABLES,

Lounges, Beds, Chairs &c.

MAIN STREET, ST. JOE, IND.

All styles of Parlor Goods furnished to order at low prices. Thinking you for your patrons I solicit your future patronage.

F. A. ZEIGLER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

HARNESS, —

— COLLARS,

WHIPS, &c.

FLY NETS,

DUSTERS,

OILS &c.

St. Joe, Ind.

Prices the Lowest. All work guaranteed. Call and see me.

R. G. COBURN,

AGENT FOR THE

ALBION SPRING TOOTH Cultivator

AND FIELD HARROW.

AND DAISY RAKE.

—000—

Farmers will save money by seeing me before buying. I will call on you with a sample in a few days.
R. G. Coburn, St. Joe, Ind.

Miss S. A. Bartlett,

DEALER IN FINE—

MILLINERY

HATS, BONNETS,

Flowers,

Ribbons,

Feathers,

TRIMMINGS & C.

I invite the attention of the ladies of St. Joe and vicinity to my new stock of Spring and Summer Millinery Goods, comprising the newest and latest styles and shapes. I am constantly receiving new goods, and therefore can please everybody. Give me your patronage. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see my line before making your purchases. Rooms over Dr. Bowman's office. St. Joe, Ind.

MISS S. A. BARTLETT.

Business Notices.

H. W. BOWMAN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Office opposite the Drugstore.

ST. JOE HOTEL, Wm. Leighty, proprietor. Special attention given to furnishing teams for commercial men.

B. S. SHEFFER, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to his care.

ST. JOE BARBER SHOP, one door west of hotel, Will Geo, proprietor. Satisfaction guaranteed. Your patronage is solicited.

FILLEY, LOUNSBERRY AND SHULER, proprietors of the St. Joe Saw and Planing Mill. All work promptly done. Cash paid for Oak Logs.

CITY BARBER SHOP, St. Joe, Ind, John Hull, proprietor. Shaving, Hair Cutting &c. done in the best of style. Come and see me. Two doors west of Kinsey's Furniture Store.

SIMON WINELAND, proprietor St. Joe Handle and Feed Mills. Feed grinding a speciality. Highest prices paid for second growth White Ash. Enquire at the mill for full particulars.

LOCALS.

Eli Perkins will lecture at Hicksville to-night.

The office at the depot has recently been carpeted.

J. D. Leighty has been at Indianapolis this week.

Everybody reads the News. Those who don't take it, borrow it.

Filley Lounsberry & Shuler shipped a car load of lumber this week.

Cleaning house seems to be a very popular amusement at the present time.

Aaron Thomas went to Ft. Wayne Monday to work for the Flemming Scraper Co.

Eph Boyles spent Sunday in this place, but returned to Butler Monday morning.

Rev. Fryberger will preach in the Lutheran church Sunday morning at half past ten o'clock.

Simon Wineland has rented the railroad farm at this place. He pays $50 per year for it.

Sam Warner and War Coburn are doing a job of brick work for Mell Davis of Jackson township.

Last Saturday was a cold disagreeable day, and there was not no demand for palm leaf fans at all.

R. G. Coburn has 40 acres of timbered land in Michigan which he will trade for property in St. Joe.

Miss May Topping, formerly a teacher in the schools at this place, visited with friends in town over last Sabbath.

O. H. Widney has been acting in the capacity of a hired girl this week. He has been helping his wife clean house.

Dan Baker can handle grain, and weigh a load of hay, but he can't pitch quoits for shucks, because he ain't built that way.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at the residence of M. T. Bishop, on Thursday afternoon, May 5th, 1887, at 3 o'clock. All are invited.

I. Wyatt brought in one thousand seven hundred seventy dozen of eggs last Saturday for shipment. He is doing a rattling egg business.

C. O. Merica, formerly principal of our schools, and well known to most of our citizens, has become a Methodist minister, and is located at Napoleon Indiana.

They say that Jake Gelhausen of Garrett was so excited last week that he didn't know a cow-catcher from a steam gauge, all on account of a big boy baby that came to their house.

M. T. Bishop tried to kill a rat down at the elevator the other day, but he couldn't make it. The rat seemed to know who had hold of the trigger, and wasn't the least bit alarmed.

Information is wanted of William Vogeler, aged about forty-five years, farmer. When last heard of, he was living at Oxford Michigan. Any person acquainted with his present whereabouts will confer a great favor by communicating the fact to N. Stevens Bryan, Ohio.

Rich Culbertson bought the building just north of Kinsey's Furniture store, and has moved it on to his lot and will use it for a summer kitchen. This is the building in which the wounded prisoner Thompson was taken after he was shot last fall.

The young people of this place have organized a Young People's Temperance Society, which meets once a week for literary exercises. It is a good idea and will no doubt be a profitable way for the young people to spend at least one evening in each week.

J. H. CONRAD,

DEALER IN

ROOFING AND SPOUTING

GUTTERING, HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS.

Cutlery, Nails, Paints, Woodenware &c.

MAIN STREET.

ST. JOE IND.

All work and goods guaranteed to give satisfaction. Give me a call

AT THE

St. Joe

DRUG

STORE.

White-wash Brushes.
Kalsomine Brushes.
Paint and Wall Brushes.
Artist's Brushes.
Marking Brushes.
Shoe and Hair Brushes.
Tooth and Clothes Brushes.

AT THE

St. Joe

DRUG

STORE.

A. KINSEY.

Undertaker and Emballer. Keeps on hand constantly, a stock of Undertaking Supplies, Coffins, Caskets, Burial Robes &c. I can supply as fine goods as can be furnished. Will attend to making all arrangements for funerals. Calls responded to at all hours of the night. Office on corner of Main and Second Streets; residence on corner of Main and Fourth Streets, St. Joe, Ind.

ST. JOE MARKETS.

CORRECTED EVERY FRIDAY.

Wheat	77 1/2 cts.
Oats	28 cts.
Corn	40 cts.
Butter	15 cts.
Eggs	10 cts.
Tallow	34 cts.
Lard	10 cts.
Potatoes	50 cts.
Smoked Hams	10 cts.
Shoulders and Side Meat	8 cts.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

WEST BOUND.

No. 9 Mail and Express	11:10 A. M.
3 Chicago Express	10:43 P. M.
35 Local Freight	3:53 P. M.

EAST BOUND.

No. 10 Express and Mail	2:08 P. M.
4 Morning Express	2:57 A. M.
34 Local Freight	8:00 A. M.

G. V. JAMES, AGENT.

"Peck" Sanders is working on the brick yard.

Sherm Ricket left for the west Monday evening.

George Metcalf of Garrett, was in town Wednesday.

Jacob Sechler has taken up a stray cow; color black, and about twelve years old.

George Wilson and wife, who have been living in the west for the past few years, are visiting with their parents.

Simon Wineland having rented the B. & O. farm for 3 years, requires that all stock that has been in the habit of pasturing thereon, be kept off and thus save trouble.

John Provines gave a free exhibition with his Texas pony on our streets one day this week. The pony didn't want to go, and John was just good natured enough to let him have his own way about it.

HOUSE PAINTING.

Graining, Glazing, Paper Hanging and Ceiling Decorating a specialty. All work guaranteed. B. A. Woodcock. Call and see me, or leave orders at the St. Joe Drugstore.

STAR WIND PUMP, E. A. War-

Semaker, agent, Nowville, Ind. Farmers who think of buying a mill should give me a call before doing so. The Star Mill is the best at prices the lowest.

We have always been lead to believe that on the other side of the river there would be no fighting and quarreling, no neck-downs and blood-sheds, but it seems that such is not the case. Only a short time ago, we heard of a little unpleasantness between two fellows on the other side of the river, that resulted in a deal of fashioned fore by six sham battles; and then wasn't so awful much shot about it either. Just what the time was about, we don't exactly know, but as near as we could find out, we think it is something about a ditch. It seems that the ditch got mad and blew up and hit one of the men in the face, which caused the other man to get edgewise, and he up and knocked the ditch down; this made the other man hopping mad and he went for him, and for a few minutes the two things was pretty hot in that vicinity. After it was all over the both felt ashamed of themselves, and then there, upon the gory battle-field, which but a few minutes before had been the scene of a bloody conflict, they buried the hatchet, and agreed from that time forward to be good friends. Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Our citizens should examine every one before taking it now days, as there are a number of $1,000 counterfeit bills in circulation.

Brown & Culbertson, the popular agricultural dealers of Auburn, have recently got out a good advertising scheme, in the way of a map of the state with illustrations of the implements they handle arranged around the border. Its pretty slick, but the picture on the upper right hand corner gives it away badly.

AN EXODUS FROM THE FARM.

The Young Men of the South Will Not Till the Soil Any More.
(Savannah News.)

There is a phase of life at the South which not only gives occasion for earnest thought, but for serious alarm. When the war closed, and for a number of years after, the changed condition of affairs led many young men to believe that the cities and towns afforded the best fields for making a living. Farms and farm-houses were in ruins, labor was disorganized, and there seemed to be no profit in tilling the ground. To a very great extent, therefore, young men sought the centers of population, while their fathers rented the farms to negroes. Many found employment as clerks in stores, others entered some one of the learned professions. As a rule the clerks received small salaries, and when the busy season was over their occupation was gone until the return of fall. In the summer months some went back to the farms and engaged in irregular work; but the majority remained upon the scenes of their spasmodic careers as clerks, and kicked their shins in idleness. Those who entered a professional life fared no better than the clerks. A few made fame and fortune, but by far the greater number barely succeeded in keeping up the union between the body and soul.

The example set by these young men was contagious, because the exodus from the farms continues, and every year there is a large increase in the number of poorly-paid clerks and half-starved lawyers and physicians. In recent years the activity in mining, manufacturing, and railroad building has been an additional inducement to young men to seek the centers of population. This was never so apparent as at present. The dazzling stories of rapidly-acquired fortunes in pursuits just mentioned have caused a rush of young men to the cities and towns that is astonishing, and to which there seems no end.

The exodus from the farms has two unfortunate results. One is that the farms suffer, and the other is that the pursuits open to young men in the cities and towns yearly become more crowded, thus lessening the opportunities for acquiring a competency. The exodus ought to stop. It is based upon fallacy. Young men who remain on the farms and cultivate them intelligently and industriously are much more likely to make fortunes than those who seek a livelihood in the cities and towns. Besides, the prosperity of the country depends upon the prosperity of the farming interest, and unless farmers and the sons of farmers do their duty the country cannot prosper.

Perils of Photography.

In the year 2887 nobody will be proud of his ancestors. There will be no claims of long descent, and people, instead of constantly alluding to their forefathers, the pioneers of 1849, the passengers of the original Mayflower, will carefully avoid all mention of them. Why? Because when any such allusion is made the nouveau riche will ask to inspect the family album, and the photographs of this century will simply be discreditable.

Do you ever open the old album and look over the pictures? Well, the old folks—your father and mother—always look well, for don't you know, parents are always old-fashioned. But there's your aunt, with a coal-scuttle bonnet and hoops, and her hair pasted down over her forehead and parted in the middle; with a kind of jaundiced complexion and bright eyes, that show in their pupils nothing but the excited, intense interest of trying to look into the camera for fifty seconds without winking. And you thought she was so pretty then, and you remember as a child when you went and told your mother you saw her being kissed by her beau at the gar-len-gate. Then there's her beau, who afterwards married her. He was so handsome, don't you know. Look at him. He wears a long frock coat with lapels that curl up under his arms; he has a flaming necktie and a shirt front showing down to where the coat looks as if it were tied by a string tight around his waist. His trousers don't fit, and his face is all covered with yellow specks, and he looks as if he had swallowed a fly and it was in dying agonies in his windpipe, while he daren't cough for fear of spoiling the picture. Then there's yourself. Well, that's not so bad. You know you were very pretty as a child, and you remember the dress, and—well—you're not quite so old-fashioned—to yourself—as the others. And you turn the pages. There's Fred, whom you jilted. You look at him and you're glad you jilted him. He used to be so beautifully pensive. Now he looks like an idiot; and—well—you doubt if he ever could have been so horrid, any way. Then your husband comes along and turns the book over and says: "Do you remember that?" You close it on his fingers; it's fearful. You have an old-fashioned, shapeless, black silk gown that looks like gingham, or something with wide sleeves and big ruffles, and the skirt is gracefully bunched out like a half-exhausted balloon. And you've had the picture painted, and the beautiful red of your cheeks has become mottled, and the neck is yellow, and the hair is a dirty-brown color, and you've got hold most awkwardly of a green chair. And your husband wonders what he ever could see in you, until you show him his own picture. Then he shuts up suddenly, like a knife, don't you know.

—Peck's Sun.

London Needlewomen.

The women engaged in the shirt trade are to the full as ill off, as badly paid, and as much to be pitied as were their sisters in the days when Hood sang their sorrows and sufferings. The woman who is solely dependent upon shop shirtmaking starves rather than lives by it. She soon becomes in very deed

The seamstress, lean and weary and wan,
With only the ghosts of garments on,
Who,

In poverty, hunger, and dirt,
Sees at once with a double thread
A shroud as well as a shirt.

Happily, many of the shirt hands are not wholly dependent upon the earning of their needles. Numbers of the married women of the poorer classes work at the shirt trade with a view to supplementing the scanty wages of their husbands, and the additional income thus gained, though it may be but three or four shillings a week, sensibly increases the comfort of the household. Considering the wretched prices paid for the work, the surprising thing is that the women should earn even so much at it as some of them do. Take the buttonholing—the leading branch of the work is Tenement street. The holes are rough punched in the factories, the work of the outdoor hands being to stitch them round. This buttonholing is admittedly "niggling" work, and yet the rate at which it is paid for by the sweaters is a penny per dozen collars. As each collar has three holes, the hand, who finds her own needle and cotton, has to stitch thirty-six holes for a penny. Even so, some of the experts, by working long hours, by rising early on summer morning and sitting late on winter nights, by living on food that is "ready to be put in the mouth," chiefly bread and butter, and eating as they work; by acting on these lines some of the buttonholers will earn as much as eight or nine shillings per week. The prices paid by the manufacturers who give it out in the first instance are probably such as would enable a skilled and industrious hand to make a living wage, but as matters stand such men are almost compelled to employ middlemen, and the tender mercies of the sweater are cruel.—All the Year Round.

Sweet Potatoes as Stock Feed.

By most Northern people the sweet potato is eaten only sparingly, and, as it has to be bought often at a high price, it is regarded as a rather expensive luxury. But it is very easily grown, and with equal care and culture will out-yield the common potato, especially on poor ground. Its rampant vines choke down weeds, making little culture necessary. In some of the Southern States the sweet potato is planted for stock feed for pigs, which, when the crop is ripe, are turned in and do their own harvesting. The sweet they contain is very fattening, but it does not make very solid pork. The vines of potatoes are greedily eaten by cows, and have none of the poisonous qualities of our common potato, which is of a family containing many poisonous plants.—Chicago Herald.

"BETTER late than never" will do very well when applied to a legacy left by some sturdy old uncle whom you had expected to outlive you, but "Better never than late" should be your motto in catching a railway train.

On seeing a house being whitewashed a boy asked, "Ma, if you please, are you going to shave that house."

Parson Whangdoodle Baxter.

De subject'er which I desire ter call yer attenthun dis ebenin' am gambollin' or de playin' ob keards.

I has reason ter dread dat some ob de mah members ob dis heah Blue Light Tabernackel am in de habit ob playin' poker, an arterwards dey lies ter dar wives when dey comes home late.

Dearly belubbed sistern, when yer husband comes home pertickerly late, an' says in his sleep, "I se dun froze out—is aanty up?" don't yer fer er minit serpose he am a sufferin' for quilts, or am bodderin' his head about his aanty. Hit means dat he has been playin' the sinful game ob draw poker.

Maybe in his sleep de husband will talk about jack pot, and next morning when yer asks what a jack pot am, he will say dat hit am de pot what Jack cooks his whittles in when he camps out. Don't yer berlieve him, for dat ar ain't de right meanin' ob jack pot—so I has been informed by Deacon Snodgrass.

Der am seberal kinds ob games. Some games am healthful an' some am siekly. Hits my idea dat poker am one ob de siekly games, for Deacon Snodgrass, in the amen corner, ober yonder, has ter sit up wid poker all night long most ebery night in de week.

Playin' poker am not confined to de lower elements ob serchity, for I has been told dat at Washington City some ob de congressmen plays de game reg'lar. Not long sence I read in one ob de papers dat Secretary Manning made a call for $10,000,000. An' yet dar am lots ob folks who am willin' ter play all night long wid a two-dollar limit—so I has been told by Deacon Snodgrass.

De American game ob poker, like de gospel, has spread all ober de civilized world. I was conversin' wid a returned missionary from de Souf Sea Islands, and he tole me I'd be sprised at de spread ob Christianity among de heathens; dat all de natives ob de Souf Sea Islands hab larned ter cuss in English an' play poker, an' dat one ob 'em skinned him outer seventy-five dollars wid a cold deck.

Eben de boys in dis heah age ob progress know more about poker den de boys ob prehistorical times. In former days de boys in de lawdige ob de poek, stood on de burnin' deck, whence all but him had fled, but nowadays de boy has de deck up one ob his sleeves, an' he draws out de face keards as he needs 'em ter make a full han'.

Yer can tell by lookin' at er man ef he plays poker or not, but I has always noticed dat when er man nobber warts an obercoat in winter because hits not heafy, hit am a 'spicious circumstance. He sorter indicates dat he has been bluffin' on a weak han'. Deacon Snodgrass, yer didn't bring yer obercoat wid yer dis Sabbath morn'.

Brudder Sam Johnsing will please pass de hat. I hope yer will ehup in liberally. It takes occasion ter remark dat de habit ob flattenin' out buttons, while hit spiles de button, does not increase his availability as a circulatin' mejum.—Texas Siftings.

How Animals Practice Medicine.

Animals get rid of their parasites by using dust, mud, clay, etc. Those suffering from fever restrict their diet, keep quiet, seek dark, airy places, drink water and sometimes plunge into it. When a dog has lost its appetite it eats that species of grass known as dog-grass, which acts as an emetic and a purgative. Cats also eat grass. Sheep and cows when ill seek out certain herbs. An animal suffering from chronic rheumatism always keeps as much as possible in the sun. The warrior ants have regularly organized ambulances. Latroille cut the antennae of the ant, and other ants came and covered the wounded part with a transparent fluid secreted from their mouths. If a chimpanzee is wounded it stops the bleeding by placing its hands on the wound or dressing it with leaves and grass. When an animal has a wounded leg or arm hanging on it completes the amputation by means of its teeth. A dog, on being bitten in the muzzle by a viper, was observed to plunge its head repeatedly for several days into running water. This animal eventually recovered. A sporting dog was run over by a carriage. During three weeks in winter it remained lying in a brook, where its food was taken to it. This animal recovered. A terrier hurt its right eye. It remained under a counter, avoiding light and heat, although it habitually kept close to the fire. It adopted, by way of general treatment, rest and abstinence from food. The local treatment consisted in licking the upper surface of the paw, which it applied to the wounded eye; again licking the paw when it became dry. Animals suffering from traumatic fever treat themselves by the continued application of cold water, which M. Delamay considers to be more certain than any of the other methods. In view of these interesting facts we are, we think, forced to admit that hygiene and therapeutic as practiced by animals may, in the interest of psychology, be studied with advantage.

Jackson's Duel with Dickinson.

In a paper in the Southern Bironce the following conversation between Gen. Harding and Gen. Andrew Jackson, relative to Jackson's duel with Dickinson, is given:

"In conversation with Gen. Jackson, one day I said: 'General, is a brave man ever frightened?'

"I don't know that I am competent to answer that question," said he. I replied: 'The world accords you as much bravery as is possessed by any man.'

"If that be so, sir, said the General, I would say I have been badly frightened as a gentleman ought ever to be."

"Said I, 'I presume that was in some of your Indian fights?'

"No," said he, "it was when I went on the field with Dickinson. I knew him to be a cool, brave, determined man, and the best shot I ever saw, and I never expected to leave the field alive. I owe my life to the fashion of the day—the full-breasted coat. This and the peculiar conformation of my much-sunken chest were all that saved me. Dickinson's bullet struck what appeared to be the center of my body under the right arm, and the ball grazed my breastbone. I had gone upon the field determined not to fire at Dickinson, but to discharge my pistol in the air, having no ground of quarrel with him, and not wishing to hurt a hair of his head. My quarrel was with his father-in-law, Ervin; but when I felt myself shot under the impression that I had received a mortal wound, and starting under this belief and the physical pain, I fired the fatal shot, and no act of my life have I ever regretted so much."

"Under the conditions of the meeting we had a right to reserve the fire, because I knew Dickinson could shoot so much more quickly than I could. It has been asserted in the public prints," said Old Hickory, "that I advanced on Dickinson to deliver my shot and that he gave back, both of which statements are false, sir. I stood in my place when I fired and Dickinson remained in his, receiving my shot like a cool, brave man as he was."

General Harding said that at this same interview, which was the last he ever had with Gen. Jackson, the latter said to him:

"The world is greatly mistaken about my having an ungovernable temper. I never gave an exhibition of temper without my judgment approved it. I sometimes found it necessary even to prevent the shedding of blood."

Toothache Superstitions.

In some parts of Sussex, England, there is a superstition that if you put on your right stocking, right shoe, and right trouser-leg before the left you will never have toothache. To drink out of a skull and wear it round the neck, to apply the tooth to your own living but aching tooth, to put a double nut into your pocket, to pare your finger-nails and toe-nails, and wrap the parings in a paper—all are charms against the toothache. In other parts of England there is a custom of calling the toothache the "love-pain," for which the sufferer is not entitled to any commiseration. Whether he or she fully consents to this may, perhaps, be doubted.—Iron Times.

Willing to Do the Right Thing.

Dumley (calmly)—I understand, Robinson, that you have said that I look like a monkey.

Robinson—I believe I did say something of the sort, Dumley.

Dumley (threateningly)—Well, you will have to apologize.

Robinson—All right, Dumley. The first time I see a monkey I'll apologize.
Harper's Bazar.

A NEWSPAPER correspondent speaks of having lately seen Gladstone when "he was immersed in thought and bathed in perspiration."

THE most precious canine is a diamond setter.

CHASED BY MEXICAN ROBBERS.

Finding Refuge from Guerrillas in the House of Their Chief.

"I obtained leave of absence to visit some friends in Monterey," said Gen. Doubleday to a New York Mail and Express reporter, telling of adventures in Mexico after the Mexican war. "When the visit ended I started back to Saltillo with a Mr. Miller, of New Orleans. It was dangerous traveling, and we were liable to be attacked by prowling bands of guerrillas at any time, but my leave had expired and I could not wait any longer. I was riding a swift horse, was well armed, and so was my companion. Nothing occurred until one morning when we were several miles to the right of a small town, Santa Maria, forty miles from Saltillo. We were pushing forward at a moderate gait and continually on the lookout for robbers. I had a large pair of field glasses, and frequently surveyed the surface of the surrounding country. I saw a body of Mexican lancers a mile or so distant. They were coming toward us, and our only alternatives were to give fight or retreat. We chose the latter, as the lancers were considerable in numbers. I concluded to make a dash for Santa Maria. I happened to know the alcalde, and he had invited me several times to partake of his hospitality. He was a dandified kind of a man, and put on a great deal of style. My hope was to reach his house and claim his protection, and, if he refused to give it, to demand it with a pistol at his head. The lancers soon saw us and dashed forward at full speed. They were not near as far to the right of Santa Maria as Miller and I, so all they had to do was to cut us off, if possible. We made a bee line, riding at full speed. The robbers saw their chance of cutting us off and took advantage of it. Fortunately Miller and I rode swift horses and managed to reach the town just a few hundred yards ahead of our pursuers. We galloped right up to the alcalde's house, followed by the lancers. I rapped at the gateway in the wall where horses and riders pass through, and the gate opened. Miller and I rode in, leaving our would-be slayers some fifty yards from the house. They came no farther. I told the alcalde that I had come to pay him that visit, and would remain until 6 o'clock the next morning. I also took pains to inform him what route I intended to take for Saltillo. Well, I departed that afternoon at 4 o'clock, and by a different route than the one I had given the alcalde. The strange part of the adventure was explained some months afterward. The alcalde, although Governor of the town, was the chief of a band of robbers, and that very band which chased Miller and myself. The robbers were delighted to see us ride into Santa Maria, for they thought they had us then, sure. But when they saw us boldly ride to the house of their chief and be admitted they were struck with astonishment. They did not understand it, and imagined that we were in collusion or connected some way with the alcalde. The alcalde was arrested by United States troops soon afterward and his connection with robbers thoroughly exposed."

American Farmers.

Very few people appreciate the importance of American farming interests. We hear the everlasting hum of our manufacturing night and day, and every orator who talks about the splendor of this country refers in the most glowing language to our workshops and mills and looms and forges and trip-hammers. But the farmer is seldom heard of. He sits quietly in the background by the side of his plow and threshing-machine as though he were of little account.

We can easily recognize his value to the nation, however, by a few figures which may startle our readers unless they have already looked into the subject with some care. Of our entire exports 84 per cent comes from the ground and from mines, forests, and fisheries, while only 16 per cent is the product of machinery. The cotton of the South and the grain of the West hold a dual control over our national prosperity. The one keeps the spindles of England busy, and the other feeds the world. Europe has almost as much interest in the products of American soil as we have ourselves. A loss of these two crops for a single season would create a panic throughout the civilized globe.

There are in America over 4,000,000 farms, large and small. They cover 300,000,000 acres of improved land; their total value is something like $10,000,000,000. These figures are not, of course, comprehensible. They simply convey the idea of vastness of area and importance. The estimated value of the yearly products is between $2,000,000,000 and $3,000,000,000. What America takes out of the ground, therefore, has much to do with the prosperity and happiness of the nation. What helps the farmer helps us all, and what hurts him hurts us all. His well-tilled acres are the heart of the republic, and each pulse drives the products of the country into every market on the planet. Congress has been asked to establish an experimental farm in every state and territory at a cost of $15,000 each. It will encourage the tillers of the soil and show them the results of methods which they cannot afford to test for themselves. It will be money well spent. By all means take good care of the farmers. —New York Herald.

Well-Preserved Meat.

The River Vilou, in North Siberia, is frozen a greater part of the year. In the cold season the natives follow its course to the south; and as spring comes on they return. It was during one of these migrations that an entire rhinoceros was discovered. The river, swollen by the melting snow and ice, had overflowed its banks and undermined the frozen ground, until finally, with a crash, a huge mass of mingled earth and ice broke away and came thundering down. Some of the more daring natives ventured near and were rewarded by a sight wonderful in the extreme. A broad section of icy earth had been exposed, and hanging from a layer of ice and gravel was a creature so weird that at first they would not approach it. It hung partly free, and had evidently been uncovered by the landslide. From the head extended a long horn, as tall as some of the children, while behind it was another, smaller one. But the strangest feature of this curious monster was that it was covered with hair.

At first, the astonished discoverers thought the creature was alive, and that it had pushed aside the earth, and was coming out. But the great rhinoceros was dead, and had probably been entombed thousands of years. The body was frozen as hard as stone, and the hair-covered hide seemed like frozen leather, and did not hang in folds as does the skin of living species. Several months passed before the animal was entirely uncovered, and so perfectly had nature preserved it, that it was then cut up and the flesh given to the dogs.

The news of this discovery passed from native to native and from town to town, until it reached the ears of a government officer. He at once sent orders for the preservation of the carcass, but the flesh had already been destroyed; and now only its head and feet are preserved in one of the great museums of Russia. —Charles Frederick Holder, in St. Nicholas.

Dry Feet and Better Complexions.

Madam, allow me to prescribe for you. I have had a long experience in the management of delicate women and believe I can give you some important advice. For the present I prescribe only for your feet. First, procure a quantity of woolen stockings not such as you buy at the store under the name of lamb's wool that you can read a newspaper through, but the kind that your aunt Jerusha in the country knits for you, that will keep your feet dry and warm, in spite of wind and weather; second, if you want to be thorough, change them every morning, hanging the fresh ones by the fire during the night; third, procure thick calfskin boots, double uppers and triple soles, and wear them from the 1st of October to the 1st of May; make frequent applications of some good oil blacking; fourth, avoid rubber boots, which may be worn for a little time through the snowdrifts or a flood of water; fifth, hold the bottoms of your feet in cold water a quarter of an inch deep just before going to bed two or three minutes, and then rub them hard with rough towels and your naked hands; sixth, now, madam, go out freely in all weathers, and, believe me, not only will your feet enjoy a good circulation, but as the consequences of the good circulation in the lower extremities your head will be relieved of all its fullness and your heart of all its palpitations. Your complexion will be greatly improved and your health made better in every respect. —Medical World.

The Haughty Burmese.

The Burmese have an exalted opinion of themselves. Their religious, historical, and social traditions, acquired from earliest childhood and kept prominently before them by the almost daily dramatic performances which are a conspicuous feature in the national life, serve to convince them of the validity of their claim to purity of descent and the grandeur of their antecedents. "Does not their very name imply," they say, "that they are descendants of the holy Prahmah who came to earth from the blessed regions of the Rupa, or seventh heaven? Does not their 'Great Chronicle of Kings' indisputably prove that their kings are representative scions of the immortal Mahla Thummada, the first emperor of the universe?" Though this display of overweening pride and self-assertion is, to say the least, far from attractive to even their best friends and well-wishers, still, if kept within reasonable bounds, those eccentricities should be rather encouraged than otherwise, for at this critical period of their national and political life, when many sinister influences are at work calculated to undermine and destroy their commendable independence of character, every indulgence should be meted them rather than they should suffer as regards self-respect, and lose the manly bearing which is so refreshing to Europeans accustomed to the obsequiousness of the mild Hindoo. —International Review.

The Sun Going Out.

Sir W. Thomson, who is in many respects the most sensational of all our scientists, has declared at the royal institution that the sun is going out at the rate of thirty-five meters a year. In two thousand years its radius would be 100 per cent. less than at present, and in ten million years it will have shrunk so much that life will be impossible on this planet. As this puts the extinction of the race at a date beyond our time, this prophecy will probably attract less attention than Sir William's calculation that the sun can not have existed more than twenty million years. This, if correct, would be a staggering blow to many received evolutionary theories which require much more elbow room than a paltry twenty millions of years. Sir William Thomson, however, is obdurate. He has no compassion on geologists or biologists, who will almost be as hard put to it to reconcile their theories of creation with so brief a span of time as with the Mosaic six days. —Pall Mall Gazette.

To Dislodge the Enemy.

When it takes the form of disease of the kidneys or bladder, is a task well nigh impossible of accomplishment. Renal and vesical maladies are more obstinate than any others. Counteract, therefore, the earliest indications of inactivity of the many organs with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which possesses, among other excellent qualities, those of an efficient diuretic. The degree of stimulation apparent from its use reaches, but never goes beyond, the bounds of safety. It invigorates always, never irritates. Bright's disease, diabetes, catarrh of the bladder, are diseases successfully combated in their incipency with this benign medicinal stimulant and tonic. Besides re-enforcing and regulating the kidneys and bladder, the Bitters is a specific for fever and ague, constipation and dyspepsia.

The people of Bermuda have a general idea that there is no civilization worth speaking of outside of Bermuda. Not long ago an official of the island fell ill, and hurried home to London to be cured. "Oh, if he had only stayed here! How unwise to go home!" exclaimed a lady, bewailing his fate. "Why stay here?" asked some one in surprise. "Oh, we have such splendid physicians here!" "But don't you think he will find equally good physicians in London?" said her questioner, politely suppressing a smile. "In London? No! How could he? Where would they be educated?"

The Trouble Is to Be Understood.

The following quaint advertisement appeared in a contemporary recently: "A situation wanted by a steady, settled young Woman of the Established Church, who understands a cow." There's very little Christianity in a cow, according to our country experience. It's easy enough to understand the cow; the sublime difficulty is to get the cow to understand you. —Fun.

Is There no balm in Gilead?

Is there no physician there? Thanks to Dr. Pierce, there is a balm in his "Golden Medical Discovery"—a "balm for every wound" to heal, from colds, coughs, consumption, bronchitis, and all chronic, blood, lung and liver affections. Of druggists.

This standard preparation has by its peculiar merits and its wonderful cures won the confidence of the people, and is to-day the most popular blood purifier and spring medicine. If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself. Hood's Sarsaparilla sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

The Successful Remedy for Nasal Catarrh

Must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will, by its own action, reach all the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh during the past few years demonstrates that only one remedy has met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This safe and pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. The more distressing symptoms quickly yield to it, and a multitude of persons who have for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrh can inflict, testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by it. Ely's Cream Balm is perfectly soothing, excites no dread, dissolves the hardened accumulations, lessens the extreme sensibility of the nerve centers to cold and all external irritants, and is followed by no reaction whatever.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

is not a liquid, snuff or powder. Applied into the nostrils it is quickly absorbed. It cleanses the head, allays inflammation, heals the sores. Restores the senses of taste and smell.

50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cents. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficial influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health. It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young. As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

EST'D 1862. Your cigar cases are just the thing, and permit me to say you are the "boss" advertiser. Continue to ship 30, to "Tansill's Punch" on the 1st and 15th of each month. They are the best goods for the money on this coast. G. B. Corwin & Co., San Francisco, Cal. Address

R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

$300 REWARD WILL BE GIVEN to any person that can furnish an Automatic Sewing Straw Stacker that can do better work than the IMPERIAL STACKER that we are building. Send for circular and price list which will be mailed free. All are wanted to do good work or no sale.

NEWARK MACHINE CO., Columbus, O. Buys New Silver-plated Singer Sewing Machine, warranted 5 years. For particulars, address C. G. A. M. M., Chicago, Ill. $10

MECHANICAL.

A NEW file for band saws has been devised, in which the cross section represents an isosceles triangle, the sides of which are in height more than double the width of the base, and whose corners are curved and rounded.

TO GET a good working speed for a turbine, allow the wheel to run free for a while and then reduce its speed one-third. Fifty per cent. is an allowance that will only work where there is no hindrance to the flow of water or resistance through the wheel.

A CAST iron pot or pipe having a hole or crack in it may be mended as follows: Take two parts sulphur and one by weight of fine black lead; melt the sulphur carefully in an iron vessel over a gentle fire, and then mix the plumbago with it, stirring thoroughly. Pour it on a stone to cool, and when cold break into small pieces. In mending the crack or hole, put a sufficient quantity of the cement over it and use it as a plumber uses solder, melting it into the crack with a hot iron. A small hole can be filled with a copper rivet before the cement is applied.—Sanitary Plumber.

SANDPAPER is at present made with powdered glass instead of sand. Glass is readily pulverized by heating it red hot and throwing it into water, and finishing the powdering in an iron frame mortar. By the use of sieves of different sizes of mesh the powder can be separated into various grades, from the finest dust to very coarse, and these should be kept separate. A strong paper is tacked down and covered with a strong size or glue, and the surface covered with powdered glass of the desired fineness; when the glue is dry the surplus glass is shaken or brushed off. Muslin is better than paper and lasts much longer.

IN a large factory in which were employed several hundred persons, one of the workmen carelessly allowed a hammer to slip from his hand which he was wielding. It flew half way across the room and struck a fellow workman in the left eye. The man averred that his eye was blinded by the blow, although a careful examination failed to reveal any injury, there being not a scratch visible. He brought a suit in the courts for compensation for the loss of half his eye-sight and refused all offers of compromise. Under the law the owner of the factory was responsible for an injury resulting from an accident of this kind. The day of the trial arrived, and in open court an eminent oculist retained by the defense examined the alleged injured member, and gave it as his opinion that it was as good as the right eye. Upon the plaintiff's loud protest of his inability to see with his left eye, the oculist proved him a perjurer, and satisfied the court and jury of the falsity of his claim. He did it simply by knowing that the colors green and red combined make black. He prepared a black card, on which a few words were written with green ink. Then the plaintiff was ordered to put on a pair of spectacles with two different glasses, the one for the right eye being red and the one for the left eye consisting of ordinary glass. Then the card was handed him, and he was ordered to read the writing on it. This he did without hesitation, and the cheat was at once exposed. The sound right eye fitted with the red glass, was unable to distinguish the green writing on the black surface of the card, while the left eye which he pretended was sightless, was the one with which the reading had to be done.—The Pottery Gazette.

Not in Style.

It has come at last. Fashion having exhausted every detail of life has turned its attention to funerals.

"Poor, dear Mrs. ———! Wasn't it sad?"

"Awfully sad. I was quite shocked."

"So was I—terribly shocked. It was so sudden, you know."

"It wasn't that that shocked me so much. But she was buried all out of style."

"How? What do you mean?"

"It's all out of style to have flowers at a funeral now, and the coffin was completely covered with them."—San Francisco Chronicle.

A SHEET of paper seventeen inches wide and more than seven miles long was recently made at Watertown, N. Y. The leading plumber of the place had a bill to make out.—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

ODD THINGS IN CHINA.

BOATS are drawn by horses, carriages are moved by sails.

OLD women, instead of the young, are the belles of society.

OLD men play ball and fly kites, while the children fold their arms and look on.

THE highest recommendation a man can have is the fact of his having a wife.

THE highest ambition of a Chinese gentleman is to have a nice coffin and a fine funeral.

MEN wear long petticoats and carry fans, while the women wear short jackets and carry canes.

PARENTS and spectators, instead of the children, are held responsible for the crimes committed by the latter.

A BACHELOR is likened to a counterfeit coin; he is looked upon with suspicion even by members of his own household.

TO ENCOURAGE honesty and sincerity, confidential clerks and salesmen in all branches of industries receive an annual net percentage of the firm's business besides their regular salaries.

A GIRL is never considered anything else in her own father's house than an honored guest. She is neither responsible for the family's debts nor enjoys a share in its fortunes, as in the case of the sons.

A PREVIOUS acquaintanceship between the male and female prevents them from marriage. For this reason a man seldom weds a girl of his own town. They are likewise prevented from marrying kins or namesakes.

WHEN a Chinaman desires a visitor to dine with him he does not ask him to do so, but when he does not wish him to stay he puts the question, "Oh, please stay and dine with me!" The visitor will then know he is not wanted.

IF a Chinaman desires the death of an enemy he goes and hangs himself upon his neighbor's door. It is a sure cure to kill not only that particular enemy, but members of his entire family will be in jeopardy of losing their lives.

A MAN could borrow money on the strength of having a son, but no one would advance him a cent if he had a dozen daughters. The former is responsible for the debts of his father for three generations. The latter is only responsible for the debts of her own husband.

A RICH man's servant gets no salary, yet many are the applicants; while big salaries are paid to the servants of the common people, but few make applications. The perquisites of the former, often more than triple the salaries of the latter, are the sole reasons for these differences.

WHEN a Chinaman meets another he shakes and squeezes his own hands and covers his head. If great friends had not seen each other for a long time, after the mutual hand-shaking they would rub shoulders until they become tired. Instead of asking each other's health they would say: "Have you eaten your rice, where are you going, what is your business when you get there, how old are you, and how much did you pay for your shoes?"

Patriotic Southerners.

Major Seecah—If the South had only 30,000 more men at Gettysburg, the confederacy would now be an established fact.

Col. Lordly—I'm glad the South didn't have 30,000 more men at Gettysburg.

"Why, Colonel, I am surprised to hear you talk that way. Didn't you lose two hundred slaves by the war?"

"No; three hundred."

"And two plantations?"

"Four plantations."

"And you were imprisoned for a year on Johnson's Island?"

"A year and a half."

"And you are now a poor man?"

"I am a pauper."

"And your health is broken?"

"I don't expect to live the year out."

"And after all these sufferings you say you are glad that the South did not have 30,000 more men at Gettysburg?"

"I do. What do my sufferings amount to when compared with those the American people would have to endure if 30,000 more magazine articles on the Battle of Gettysburg are inflicted upon them?"—Texas Siftings.

It isn't safe to trust the man who makes gold leaf. He is always on the beat.

J. D. LEIGHTY,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBER GOODS, HATS, CAPS, ETC.

A FULL LINE OF

Plug, Smoking and Fine Cut Tobaccos, Canned Fruits, Prunes, Raisins, Currants, Etc., Etc.

St. Joe, - - Indiana.

M. T. BISHOP.

—DEALER IN—

LUMBER,

LATH. SHINGLES, PINE AND POPULAR LUMBER, LIME, PLASTER, MOULDINGS, ETC., ETC.

I HAVE AN IMMENSE STOCK AND SOLICIT YOUR PATRONAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

YARD NEAR DEPOT, - ST. JOE, IND.

S. & F. BARNEY,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

CLOTHING, GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, GROCERIES. GENERAL STOCK OF HARDWARE, STOVES AND TRIMMINGS,

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

Produce, Grain, Seeds, and Wool.

CASE & OLDS,

—DEALERS IN—

Dry Goods, Notions,

GROCERIES, CLOTHING, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, QUEENSWARE, GLASSWARE, ETC.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

EXAMINE THE BARGAINS ON OUR

5 and 10c Counters.

MAY

THE ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. I.

ST. JOE, IND., FRIDAY, MAY 6, 1887.

NO. 15.

Churches.

DISCIPLE.

SERVICES every alternate Sunday evening, in the Lutheran church. Cottage prayer meeting every Friday evening.

J. A. THOMAS, PASTOR.

METHODIST PROTESTANT.

SERVICES every alternate Sunday at 10:30 A. M. Prayer meeting every Tuesday evening. Sunday School at 9:30 A. M.

J. M. LANGLEY, PASTOR.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN.

SERVICES every Sunday, one Sunday in the morning at 10:30, and the following Sunday—in the evening. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Sunday School at 9:30 A. M.

S. P. FRYBERGER, PASTOR.

Societies.

G. A. R.

REGULAR meetings on Saturday evening, on or before the full moon of each month, at their hall over Leighty's store.

O. H. WIDNEY, COMMANDER.

J. M. MILLIMAN, ADJUTANT.

Business Notices.

H. W. BOWMAN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Office opposite the Drugstore.

ST. JOE HOTEL, Wm. Leighty, proprietor. Special attention given to furnishing teams for commercial men.

B. S. SHEFFER, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to his care.

ST. JOE BARBER SHOP, one door west of hotel, Will Gee, proprietor. Satisfaction guaranteed. Your patronage is solicited.

FILLEY, LOUNSBERRY AND SHULER, proprietors of the St. Joe Saw and Planing Mill. All work promptly done. Cash paid for Oak Logs.

CITY BARBER SHOP, St. Joe, Ind., John Hull, proprietor. Shaving, Hair Cutting &c. done in the best of style. Come and see me. Two doors west of Kinsey's Furniture Store.

SIMON WINELAND, proprietor St. Joe Handle and Feed Mills. Feed grinding a specialty. Highest prices paid for second growth White Ash. Enquire at the mill for full particulars.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

—The thirty-third annual convocation of the Indiana Commandry of Knights Templar was held at Indianapolis, and the following officers were elected: Right Eminent Grand Commander, George W. F. Kirk, Shelbyville. R. E. Deputy Grand Commander, Reuben Peden, Knightstown. R. E. Generalissimo, Duncan T. Bacon, Indianapolis. R. E. Grand Captain-General, Henry W. Lancaster, Lafayette. R. E. Grand Prelate, Edward P. Whallon, Vincennes. R. E. Senior Warden, Irwin P. Webber, Warsaw. R. E. Junior Warden, Joseph A. Manning, Michigan City. R. E. Grand Treasurer, Joseph W. Smith, Indianapolis. R. E. Grand Recorder, John M. Bramwell, Indianapolis. R. E. Standard-bearer, James B. Safford, Columbus. R. E. Sword-bearer, Simeon S. Johnson, Jeffersonville. R. E. Grand Warder, Charles W. Slick, South Bend. R. E. Captain of the Guards, William M. Black, Indianapolis.

—Joseph and George F. Boswell, of Indianapolis, have just received a patent on the first fodder and silo harvester ever invented, and are making arrangements to begin the manufacture of the machine in that city. Last year Mr. Joseph Boswell, who is a large farmer, discovered that cheap cattle food could be had by cutting up the green corn, stalk and all, as soon as the grain had matured, and then salting and packing it. From some experiments he learned that one ton of it was worth two of hay. He immediately began work on a machine to cut the corn, and has succeeded in producing a successful one. It can also be used for cutting ensilage. The McCormick Reaper Works, of Chicago, are trying to purchase the right, and the proprietors will probably sell to the company, reserving a royalty on each machine manufactured.

—Patents have been issued for the following Indiana inventors: Charles F. Bassett, Hillsdale, end gate; John W. Culbertson, Indianapolis, inhaler; George Frazer, Williamsburg, wagon jack; Ernest F. Grether and C. Mosher, South Bend, treating raw hides; Adam Hoffmann, Indianapolis, harness; Jesse B. Johnson, Indianapolis, bailing press; Jonathan D. Mawhood, assignor, to Richmond City mill works, Richmond, feeding device for roller mills; Aaron D. Miller, Union City, device for operating window shades.

—A Ladoga man went to Crawfordsville and requested the Mayor to place him in jail, so as to keep from drinking. He was informed that a complaint must be filed against him before he could be sent to jail. Accordingly, the man went out and got a drink of whisky, and finally persuaded a policeman to file an affidavit against him for drunkenness. Then the Mayor sent him to jail for fifteen days. He has a wife and several children.

Major Jonathan Gordon died at his home in Indianapolis, of congestion of the brain. He had at different times filled a large space in the public eye and played a prominent part in affairs. He possessed talent, genius, great capacity for work and many qualities calculated to win friends and capture the populace. His political and professional services made him widely known throughout the State.

—A sad case of poisoning occurred near Stendale, a small town fifteen miles from Huntington. Two sons of J. D. Lampton, one of G. Wilson, and one of J. Moore, while in the woods, found what they supposed to be spinach, but which proved to be that deadly plant, wild parsnip. Three of the boys died in excruciating agony within eight hours, while the other is in a hopeless condition.

—Mrs. Christina Openhoff visited Mrs. Imen, a neighbor, at Fontanet, nine miles east of Terre Haute, and while there fooled with a revolver. The weapon went off:

the ball striking Mrs. Imen in the abdomen. She would have become a mother in a few days. The child was born dead, with a bullet hole through its head. The mother will die.

—The Nickel Plate Railroad has a large force of men and several construction trains in service on the Indiana division, grading and graveling it, and putting in some twenty-five miles of side-track. This supports the statement that the road is to be put in good order, and through passenger as well as freight trains to be run over it.

—One morning recently, when the parents of Miss Anna Scott, living two miles north of Muncie, went to her room they found her dying from a pistol-shot in her head. She had covered herself up with several quilts so the noise would not be heard. She died at noon. Her parents had opposed her in a love affair.

Herbert Mattingly, a young man of Evansville, who has a notorious reputation, while on a drunken spree, attacked John Buchanan, a peaceable citizen, and, in self-defense the latter cut Mattingly twice, below and behind the arm, and through the lungs, inflicting fatal wounds.

—Wm. Reese, of Jamestown, has sued the Western Union Telegraph Company for $5,000 damages, on account of failure to deliver a message announcing the death of a relative. He claims that he did not receive the message until a month after it had been sent.

—An unknown colored man was killed by an Ohio & Mississippi passenger train while walking on the track near Dillsboro. He was walking in the same direction as the train was going, but did not heed the engineer's whistling. It is thought he was insane.

—Elijah Fox, a young married man, living nine miles north of Bedford, jumped into Salt Creek and drowned himself. He left a note in his hat on the bank of the creek, saying: "You will find my dead body at the bottom of the creek."

—During the Odd Fellows' parade, at Madison, a horse ridden by ex-Sheriff Isaac Wagner was accidentally knocked down, throwing Wagner with great violence on his head, producing concussion of the brain, which, it is feared, will result fatally.

—Fowler has organized a building association with a capital of $400,000. The stock of the proposed gas well has all been taken, and work will shortly be commenced.

—The store of D. L. Lee, at Crawfordsville, was entered by burglars, and revolvers and ammunition taken valued at about $75.

—The Governor has appointed Abram F. Wilden, of Goshen, Charles C. Reynolds, of Milford, and William Conrad, of Warsaw, to appraise the county property of Albion, from which it is proposed to remove the county-seat.

—The School Trustees of Lebanon have advertised for bids for the erection of a high-school building to cost not less than $20,000, and to be completed during the coming summer.

—The New Albany District Methodist Conference will be held at Paoli May 23, 24, and 25. Rev. T. H. Willis, of New Albany, will preach the opening sermon.

—Fourteen orphan children from the Cincinnati Orphans' Home were distributed, at Fowler, to homes with the farmers and residents of that town. The supply did not fill the demand.

—At Hagerstown, on the Vandalia Railway, two tramps threw themselves under a locomotive, and were instantly killed. One of the men was identified as A. Bowsher, of Kingsman.

—Melvin Duffy, aged 16, fell from a feed-wagon, near North Madison, and broke his neck, dying soon after.

—Rev. Simeon Stone, late of Illinois, has been appointed pastor of Ebenezer Church at Madison.

PITH AND POINT.

How to keep your rooms warm—keep your grates coal'd.

"GIVE every man a chance," says an old adage. And that's just what the proprietors of lotteries, who are said to be enemies of their fellows, are all ways willing to do.

EMPLOYER—James, here is a letter for you from the dead-letter office. James (in agony)—Then it's from my son. He's been sick for weeks, and I've been expectin' this every day.

DEACON HARRIS—Remember that you must give an account of all your actions and deeds when you go to the other world. Old Mose—Waal, boss, I've mighty glad I've got a poor memory.

SERVED HER RIGHT
A maiden who used to play euchre
Was wooed by a young man who tucked
And made her his wife.
But she lend him a life
Of misery, and so he forsook her.
—Boston Courier.

A BENEVOLENT gentleman dropped a coin into a blind man's hat. The man took it, turned it over, and weighed it in his hand. "Do you think it is not a good one?" "Oh, it's all right, sir, only as times go we've to keep a sharp lookout."

SEXTON (to group of travelers)—This, gentlemen, is the highest church steeple in the country. It contains three bells; the largest is rung only on the arrival of the bishops, in cases of fire and floods, and other threatened calamities.

THERE were few Connecticut women of the last century who did not keep a diary. We quote this from a diary of 1790: "We had roast pork for dinner, and Dr. S—, who carved, held up a rib on his fork and said: 'Here, ladies, is what Mother Eve was made of.' 'Yea,' said Sister Patty, 'and it's from very much the same kind of critter.'"
—The Living Church.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELER—Do you know that one of the regular drummers in this country is a full-blooded Japanese? Omaha merchant—No, I never heard of it. "Well, he is one of the most successful drummers on the road, and we would all like him if it wasn't for one fault." "Eh! What's that?" "Well, you see, he has the Oriental tendency to exaggerate the qualities of his goods."
—Omaha World.

THE stories of clergymen who go through the service for one auditor reminds one of a case in Eastern Connecticut. The auditor in this case was a young lady, a member of the clergyman's family. He not only went through the entire service for her solo benefit, but read to her the notice of a change in the time of meeting of the Young Women's Guild, which she had herself handed to him.—Waterbury American.

"THIS Transcontinental Quick Dispatch is a soulless, swindling, grinding monopoly, isn't it?" asked Old Hyson. "You bet your life that's just what it is," replied Old Gunnybags. "I've been trying to get into that concern for three years or more, and not a dollar of stock will they sell at any figure. Won't let me have a smell. There ought to be some way of getting at these fellows in the courts. They're afraid to let an honest man into their rascally ring."
—Burdette.

WE clip the following from the Haycreek (Texas) Prairiefire of a late date: "A reporter of this paper witnessed a fine burst of speed yesterday while returning from the funeral of the wife of our estimable fellow-townsmen, Judge Jaybird. Sandy Harrigan, the driver of the hearse, attempted to throw a little dust on the Judge, when the afflicted and grief-stricken widower pulled out in the ditch with his fine bay horse, Three Spct, and easily passed the outfit shouting and a-dying."
—Dakota Bell.

The St. Joe News.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MORT & WILL OLDS.

PUBLISHERS.

"WHICH IS TO SAY, THE WIMMIN."

BY REGINE FIELD.

The comely shank uv evenin' has dwindled into mornin'. As the timid light a-peepin' thru the winders gives us warnin'. We've eaten an' we've tumbled 'till the roosters are a-crowin'. And, unless I am mistaken, it is time that we wuz goin'. Now, with glasses, like our hearts, filled full and all a-brimmin'. Suppose we drink, afore we go, a bumper to the wimmin'.

They more than half suspicioned that we couldn't do without 'em. And 'twill tickle 'em all-fired to know we talked about 'em. So I, for one, acknowledge that, with prospects kinder breezy. I favor what'll let me down with the family sorter easy. How can we drown our sorrows when our heads ke p on a swimmin'? It ain't no use—it must be done—let's talk about the wimmin'.

Not one of us but loves to spark, an' court 'em, an' carress 'em. Not one but will respond "amen" when I suggest "God bless 'em!" Why, when the rib from Adam's side was plucked for woman's makin'. I calculate the Maker took about all worth a-takin'. At any rate, since Adam's time, creation's been a-bummin'.

The virtues of the fairer an' the better sex, the wimmin'. An' we—wal, if there is a love we hold afore all oth'rs. It is the tender, sacred love uv sweethearts, wives, an' mothers. No matter where our lots we cast, or though all else abhor us. How glad they are to fight our fights, and die, if need be, for us! Here, Mister Tavern-keeper, fill our glasses all a-brimmin'. We'll drink a toast to those we love—which is to say the wimmin'.

MY LITTLE SWEETHEART.

"Uncle Harry, may I be your sweetheart?" asked Marian Sterling, lifting her big brown eyes to mine, with all the innocent frankness of her eight years of maidenhood.

"Indeed you may," I cried, stooping to lift her to my knee.

"No," she said, drawing back; "if I am your sweetheart I mustn't sit on your lap, but beside you. You may kiss me, though, all the same, and call me May, and I will call you Harry. Mamma says you are not really our uncle, but we call you so because we love you."

"Quite true," I answered; "but if you are not to love me when you are my sweetheart, I shall retire."

"Oh, but I will! You see, Agnes has Tracy Hill. I tried very hard, but failed, to get Tracy Hill to love me; then I thought of you, and perhaps you would bring me flowers and tell me I added to their beauty by wearing them, and sugar-plums, and say my lips were sweeter than sugar almonds, and take me to walk and to ride, and always, always be lovely to me!"

"But," I asked gravely, "what are you to give me?"

"Oh, I will work you a pair of slippers when I am big enough, and I'll kiss some of the sugar-plums and let you eat them, and I'll wear the flowers, and if there is any song you like very much I will practice it and learn it, if the accompaniment is not too hard."

"All right. It's a bargain. You are my little sweetheart and I your devoted adorer from this day," I cried. "But it seems to me, May, that for a lady of your age you know a good deal about the sweetheart question."

"Well, you see, uncle—no; you're not my uncle any more."

"Dear Harry," I suggested.

"Dear Harry, you see there is the drawing-room and there is the parlor, and if Tom Irving comes while Agnes is in the parlor, she says, 'Run up-stairs, May; that's a good girl; and when I get to the drawing-room I see Tracy Hill kissing Janet, and he mutters, 'There's that child again; and I run into the kitchen, and Molly has John McCoy there; and I can't help seeing them all,' she added, piteously. 'Exactly. And I think you are a very sensible child to start a courtship of your own. Will you allow me to drive you to the Grove this afternoon, Miss Marian?' I added, with my very best society bow."

"Thank you, dear Harry," she said, with demure gravity. "I will go with pleasure."

So we commenced our flirtation, and never had any man a more piquant, lovely little sweetheart than I, Harry Montgomery, had for the three years I remained at Maxwellbrig, the village in which the Sterlings were leading people.

Mr. Sterling and my father had been friends for many years, and when I finished my medical studies, Mr. Sterling let me know there was a good opening for me at Maxwellbrig, and a warm welcome at his house, where Mrs. Sterling and the three girls made me at once "like one of the family."

My calf-love in its entirety and devotion was given to Janet, until I found she had a previous attachment, and I was dolorously weeping over the fact when Marian generously came to the rescue.

"What pleasant days we do have, dear Harry!" she said to me, when we were picnicking in the woods: "all the the girls think I have the nicest beau in the world. And nobody has an idea who it is who helps me with my French and German, and shows me all about my Latin, and I go up over their heads because you make all my lessons so easy. It's not cheating if I really study all the same and do all my sums and exercises myself, is it?"

"No," I said, truthfully, for the child's own eager thirst for knowledge and hard work gave me only the pleasure of simplifying some of her lessons and defining some of the "hard words."

But when I had been nearly four years at Maxwellbrig my father obtained for me a diplomatic appointment in Germany, and there was a heart-breaking parting.

"It is not the drives and rides, and rowing and flowers and candies I'm crying for," sobbed my little sweetheart, "though Agnes pretends it is. It is because I am going to lose you. You don't believe I love you just for those things, do you, dear Harry?"

"No, my little love," I said; "I believe you love me with all your pure young heart."

"I do! I do! You will come back?"

"Yes, but I shall find you a grown-up lady with dozens of lovers."

"No! I'll have no other lover. If you marry I shall die! And here is my ivory-type and a curl of my hair, and I want yours."

I readily promised the exchange, and went to Germany, the ivory-type and curl set in a locket—the face promising rare beauty of the golden hair, brown-eyed type.

We corresponded, of course. At first the correspondence flourished; then it grew languid, finally died. I was engrossed with business and society; May was working through school, through society, and as a belle. Agnes and Janet, middle-aged matrons, left Marian, the only daughter, at home, and society was exacting. I heard of her a brilliant beauty, a musician of great talent, and a bright, sparkling conversationalist. I tried to fit this to my little sweetheart, and failed. I had lost my childish adorer.

But I was not fond of society, nor devoted to the duties of a cavalier. Perhaps Janet had left too deep a wound to heal, though I did not think so, when, ten years after our first meeting, I found her with a party of tourists, "doing the Continent," a loud-voiced, red-faced woman of fashion, who had left three little children at home while she displayed costly dresses and horrible French and German abroad. Tracy evidently preferred the society of the babies, as he was not one of the traveling party.

"Marian!" she said, when I inquired for all the home circle, "why, Marian is in London. Didn't you know about Marian? Ah! Mrs. Agnew—good evening."

"Tell me," I entreated. "What about Marion? Is she married?"

"Bless me, no! Hasn't even a beau, as far as I know. May is so prim—cut out for an old maid. And she'll be worse than ever now. Excuse me. Mrs. Maitland is moving to the dressing-room, and I go in her carriage. Good night. Do come and see us." And her escort came up, and she sailed away. It was not until ten minutes later I remembered that I had not asked for her address or Marian's.

I tried to repair this omission the next morning by visiting all the hotels and examining their registers. The only result was the assurance that the whole party had left Berlin that morning.

But the fates favored me. I dropped into a nice legacy, quite sufficient for the wants of a family of modest tastes, and I determined to go to England, home! It was a year since I had met Mrs. Hill in Germany. Was Marian still in London? My little sweetheart! Strange how she had lingered always in my memory as the ideal woman of my bachelor fancy!

I determined to go home at once and accept a long-standing invitation to visit my friend, Lord Loring, at his place, Loring Hall. I met with the most cordial welcome, and arriving just before dinner-hour, Lord Loring hurried his own preparations and came into the room assigned to me.

"What good wind," he exclaimed, "blew you into England?"

I told him of my legacy, my resignation of my position, and my return home.

"But you are absolutely your own master for the present?" he asked.

"Yes. Nobody expects me at home, as I was returning on that most idiotic principle—a surprise."

"Join us, then! We all start next week for a jaunt through France, Spain, Italy, perhaps up the Nile. We are not bound by any route, by any promises. We start a party of fourteen, everybody at leave if he prefers another route. We are to be joined by another party in Paris, Mr. and Mrs. Englewood, Dr. Smith, and a Miss Marion Temple, who will probably prove to be bore of the party."

"Why?"

"Oh, she is an old maid, a blue-stocking, and a poet. I forgave her novel, 'Irmine'; but deliver me from a woman who writes verses and calls them 'Water-lilies.'"

"Now I should enjoy all the pleasures of novelty in meeting her," I exclaimed. "I have not one old maid on my visiting-list, and I never had an hour's converse with a novelist—or is it a novelists, or a poetess. You don't happen to have her books about you, do you?"

"You will find them on the library table, unless some one is reading them. There are several copies about, as most of our guests brought them."

I found them, as promised, on the library table, and after I got in my own room I opened the poems. The more I read, the more I was convinced that no old maid penned them. They were full of fire, the genius, even the faults of youth, and some of them I seemed to have written myself. The leading one, "Water-lilies," brought back to me the lake where May and I had floated upon the transparent water, gathering the great, white, snowy treasures in profusion. I saw her sweet face dip into a great heap upon the floor of the boat and come up laughing, far sweeter than the most glorious blossom there. Then I saw her in the soft white evening dress, with the white lilies trailing from her soft curls upon her pretty, dimpled childish shoulders, dancing gleefully, the only little girl in the room, and with an admirer wearing a mustache—her devoted admirer.

And here it was all in musical verse, with a refrain of regret for the child-love gone for ever.

It was far into the night when I slept, with the volume of "Water-lilies" tucked under my pillow, and at the first daylight I was picking out once more little scraps of memory—a drive we took to Marian's Falls, which Marian gravely assured me were named "years and years" before she was born; a walk we took, when I tucked up her curls in womanish fashion and twisted in sweetbrier, being piteously reproached a few hours later with making her "pull every hair out with those horrid thorns;" a ride we took to Silver Grove, where we pledged mutual faith and love in cups of lilies and vowed eternal constancy. Page after page brought my sweetheart to me, till I reached out my locket from my dispatch box and put round my neck, ready for any emergency—ready to swear with as much truth as most lovers' vows that it had never left my heart since her white hands first placed my treasure round my neck.

To Paris! We were en route at last. I knew my darling a verses by heart. I had read her novel twice, dreadfully disgusted both times by the fact that the heroine, who had brown eyes and golden hair, married a hero who bore not the faintest resemblance to me.

The party had engaged rooms for use at the hotel they were staying at, and one general drawing-room was to serve the entire party. Here, after making my dress an object of the most especial study, I went on the wings of love.

A lady stood by the window looking out, and I went forward timidly. She must be one of our party or she would not be there. Her dress—a Parisian marvel of taste and simplicity—was that of a jeune fille; her figure was tall, graceful, and slender, and her golden hair was dressed with all the modern abominations. But she never stirred or turned her full face to me. My darling's face, with all the little baby curls on her forehead, all the sweet innocence in the big brown eyes. It utterly unmanned me. For a moment I could not speak; then I held out trembling hands, almost whispering, "My little sweetheart!"

Her eyes grew soft, lustrous, dewy.

"You have not forgotten?" she said. "I have not forgotten. No other has taken for one hour your place in my heart. But you, beautiful and famous with your talent—"

"Hush!" she said, softly. "Who gave me any of the gifts you call talent? You, who taught me that books were not merely dreadful repetitions invented to torment school-girls, but preparations for future power to intellect; that lessons were not strings of words to be committed to memory, but stores of knowledge to be garnered and cherished. You roused my ambition, my hope, what power I have of expressing what my brain suggests."

"May," I said, gaining possession again of the hands she had released, "you have traveled, seen the world, had your conquests; can I, dare I, hope I may still call you—"

She nestled into my bosom, her big eyes raised frankly to meet mine, and said: "Your little sweetheart, now and ever!"

"How I meant to torment you!" she told me, later, when her soft loving emotion over her sauciness regained sway. "I intended to win you back by all the arts of coquetry, of jealousy—for I have a lover or two, sir—but my heart betrayed me when I saw your love in your eyes and knew that you had been faithful all these long years. Dear father and mother will be delighted; but perhaps I ought to tell you Janet is a widow."

"Then you guessed that secret, too?"

"You big goose; you were the family laughing-stock until I took pity on you."

"I'll believe as much as I please of that," I retorted. "You can never deny that you made the first advances."

NEATNESS and simplicity are the best ornaments, good habits are better than fine clothes, and the most elegant manners the kindest.

A CUP is useless to hold water when it is cracked.

A Louisiana Sugar Plantation of the Old Regime.

In the beginning of 1798, when Gayoso de Lemos was Governor of Louisiana, the Bore plantation was visited by three illustrious strangers, the Duke of Orleans and his two brothers, the Count of Beaujolais and the Duke of Montpensier, of the royal house of France, who, driven into exile after the death of their father on the scaffold, were striking examples of those remarkable vicissitudes of fortune with which the annals of history are so replete. When a mousquetaire, or guardsman, in the household troops of Louis XV., and watching over the safety of the Majesty of France, little did De Bore dream that the day would come when three princes of the blood would be his guests on the bank of the Mississippi.

This plantation was sagaciously and tastefully laid out for beauty and productiveness. The gardens occupied a large area, and at once astonished the eye by the magnificence of their shady avenues of orange-trees. Unbroken retreats of myrtle and laurel defied the rays of the sun. Flowers of every description perfumed the air. Extensive orchards produced every fruit of which the climate was susceptible. By judicious culture there had been obtained remarkable success in producing an abundance of juicy grapes, every bunch of which, however, when they began to ripen, was enveloped in a sack of wire to protect them against the depredations of birds. The fields were cultivated with such a careful observance of the variable exigencies of every successive season that there was no such thing known as a short or half crop, or no crop at all. This was reserved for much later days. But under the administration of Etienne de Bore, during a period of about twenty-five years, from the first ebullition of a sugar kettle in 1795 to the time of his death in 1820, every crop was regularly the same within a few hogsheads. When, however, he ceased to exist, this seat of order and prosperity became a chaos of disorder and ruin, and the estate finally passed away from the family into the hands of strangers.

It was a self-sufficient little domain, exporting a good deal, and importing but meagerly, so that the balance was very much in its favor. It was largely supplied with sheep and their wool, with geese, ducks, turkeys, guinea-fowls, and every variety of poultry without stint. Eggs were gathered by the bushel. Pigeons clouded the sun, and when the small black cherries (called guirises in French) were ripe, those feathered epicures ate them voraciously, got royally drunk, and falling from the trees, strewed the ground beneath. A numerous herd of cattle, under the inspection of old Pompey and a black youngster called Souris (in English mouse), on account of his diminutive figure, pastured luxuriously and grew fat. What a quantity of fresh butter, rich cheese, milk, cream, and clabber! Vast barns gorged with corn, rice, and hay; lives bursting with honey; vegetables without measure, and so luscious; a varied and liberal supply of carriages always ready for use, and horses for the saddle or for driving, all glossy and sleek; spirited mules, well-fed and well-carried—the pride of the field hands; shrimps and fish from the river; multitudes of crayfish from the deep ditches; raccoons and opossums to gladden the heart of the most surly negro. Bore had made of his estate both farm and plantation.

The discipline established on it was a sort of military one. At dawn, when it was time to go to the field and to the other labors of the day, the big bell rang. The whole gang of negroes came to the house, in front of which they all knelt, and a short prayer was said, always in the presence of a male member of the family, who stood up with head uncovered. The same ceremony was performed in the evening before they went to their supper and their rest for the night.—Charles Gayarre, in Harper's Magazine.

Legislative Requirements.

"Have you a copy of the laws passed by the last Texas Legislature?" asked a stranger of an Austin stationer.

"No, sir, the laws of the last Legislature have not been published, but we have 'Schenck's Handbook on Poker,' pocket-books, and almost every other legislative requirement you can think of."—Texas Siftings.

TO MAKE sure of getting a thing done, do it yourself.

A FAMOUS DETECTIVE.

James Jackson, the famous State detective, resides in Sing Sing, and is generally in attendance at the prison. His duties are to examine carefully the face of every convict as he enters, and to scrutinize every visitor in order to prevent any discharged convict from seeing his pals. Occasionally he has to make long journeys in pursuit of runaway prisoners or to identify criminals convicted in other States. He never makes a mistake; if once he looks a man in the eye he will know him under any disguise, as he tells his man by the look of his eyes. Once an escaped convict had his nose pared down one-third, but Jackson detected him at once, notwithstanding this remarkable change of feature. Mr. Jackson is about 5 feet 8 inches in height, about 35 years old, of a light and snappy build, with black hair and piercing black eyes, and is altogether remarkably handsome. He knows about 10,000 criminals, and it is simply wonderful that he can distinguish the features of every one. On his long journeys he eats very moderately and always takes one Brandreth pill at night. When much fatigued by the jolting of the cars on his tiresome trips he uses two Allcock's Porous Plasters on the small of the back, which give him renewed vigor and quickly relieve him of all weariness. These are the only two remedies he uses, and he attributes his vigor and remarkable health to Allcock's Porous Plasters and Brandreth's Pills.—Sing Sing, N. Y., Daily Register.

Scientific Rewards.

The prizes which have been bestowed by the French Academy of Sciences form a long list, one of the most important of the number being that given a few years ago to Prof. Bell for his work in connection with the telephone. Those offered for 1887 include 100,000 francs for the discovery of an efficient remedy for Asiatic cholera; 10,000 francs each for the best works on physics, chemistry, and physiology; 5,500 francs for work on general embryology; 3,000 francs for researches on the phosphorescence of animals; 3,000 francs for a comparative study of the hearing apparatus in mammals and birds; 3,000 francs for a comparative study of the fresh-water animal life of Africa, south Asia and Australasia; 2,500 francs for an improvement of the steam engine, or other invention contributing most to the progress of steam navigation; 2,000 francs for any valuable therapeutical discovery; 2,500 francs for work on the distribution of heat over the globe's surface; 500 francs for a theoretical and practical study of progress in aerial navigation since 1880; besides many others, ranging from a set of Laplace's works to 10,000 francs, for specified work in mathematics, astronomy, chemistry, botany, medicine, mechanics, and other sciences, and in aid of scientific students.

Agony Is Courted

By persons who, attacked by a mild form of rheumatism, neglect to seek prompt relief. Subsequent torture is prevented by an immediate resort to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Slight exposure, an occasional draught, will beget this painful malady, where there is a predisposition to it in the blood. It is not difficult to avert the trouble at the outset, but well nigh impossible to eradicate it when matured. No evidence in relation to this superb blood purifier is more positive than that which establishes its efficacy as a preventive and remedy for rheumatism. Not only is it thorough, but safe, which the vegetable and mineral poisons, often taken as curatives of the disease, are not. Besides expelling the rheumatic virus from the system, it overcomes fever and ague, biliousness, constipation, and dyspepsia.

The photographer's lens is more discerning than the naked eye. A recent photograph of a figure painting by an American artist shows that a woman's gown was first painted a hue and texture very different from that finally chosen, the underlying brushwork appearing plainly in the photograph, though not seen by the most attentive observer of the original picture. In like manner photography revealed the stars that to the human eyes are not distinguishable from nebulous matter.

*** Nervous debility, premature decline of power in either sex, speedily and permanently cured. Large book, 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 603 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

The name France comes from Francis, the land of the Franks. Frank, the generic name of the people, is derived from an old German word signifying a battle-axe.

Bartholdi's Statue of "Liberty Enlightening the World"

Will be a reminder of personal liberty for ages to come. On just as sure a foundation has Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" been placed, and it will stand through the cycles of time as a monument to the physical emancipation of the human race. By its use, have been relieved from consumption, consumptive night sweats, bronchitis, coughs, spitting of blood, weak lungs, and other throat and lung affections.

WE have heard a stage whisper—Can a gig giggle?

CHAPPED hands, face, pimples, and rough skin cured by using Jeuneur Tar Soap, made by Hazard, Hazard & Co., New York.

POLITICIANS are excusable for being on the fence.—They wish to keep posted.

BRONCHITIS is cured by frequent small doses of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

You Need It Now

This is the best time to purify your blood, for at no other season is the body so susceptible to benefit from medicine. The best purifying and renovating qualities of Hood's Sarsaparilla are just what are needed to expel poisons and get the system rid of the debilitating effects of mild weather. Every year increases the popularity of Hood's Sarsaparilla, for it is just what people need at this season.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I have a blood which is much improved. My hair, arms, and face were covered with scurf and pimples, and all the medicine that I could get did not improve me. I was advised to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. After taking four bottles, the sores were all healed up, and after using six bottles, which cost me only five dollars, I was well and healthy as I ever was." Fred J. M. Watson, Lincoln, Mass.

Creates an Appetite

"With the first bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla my headache entirely disappeared, and where before I could not muster up an appetite for my meals, I can now get enough to satisfy my appetite. I am at present taking my second bottle, and feel like a different person." William Lansing, Post 49, G. A. H. Neenah, Wis.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES. SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES. It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS
CURES
ALL DISEASES OF THE LIVER KIDNEYS STOMACH
AND BOWELS
FOR SALE
BY ALL DRUGGISTS
PRICE 1 DOLLAR

DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICK HEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c disappear at once under its beneficial influence.

It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbid its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO.
Sole Proprietors,
ST. LOUIS AND KANSAS CITY

THE GRAND RAPIDS HERD

Holstein-Friesians.

About 100 HEAD of both sexes and all ages. Several Head of BULLS READY FOR SERVICE Up to two years old. Choice Cows and Heifers bred to my prize service bulls.

Prins Midlum and Jonge Carre, who have no superiors. A specialty of young pairs not skin for foundation stock. Every Head Registered and Guaranteed Pure-Bred. Write for Catalogue and prices, and state age and sex desired, or come and see the herd.

M. L. SWEET, Breeder and Importer.

[MENTION THIS PAPER.] Grand Rapids, Mich.

DETECTIVES

Wanted in every County. Thorough men to act under our instructions in our Secret Service. Experience not necessary. Send stamp for particulars. GWANAN DETECTIVE BUREAU, 44 Arcade, Cincinnati, O.

PATENTS

R. S. A. P. LACEY, Patent Attorney, Washington, D. C. Instructions and opinions as to patentability FREE. 17 years' experience.

ELY'S CATARRH CREAM BALM

I was so troubled with catarrh it was only after using Ely's Cream Balm did the work. My voice is fully restored. R. F. Lipsner, A. M., Pastor of Olivet Baptist Church, Philadelphia, Pa.

A particle applied to each nostril is a powerful remedy for Catarrh, Hay-Fever, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all other ailments of the throat and lungs. ELY BROS., Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

$1000 REWARD THE VICTOR

For any machine killing and cleaning fit for market as much Clover Seed in ONE DAY.

NEWARK MACHINE CO., Columbus, Ohio.

ADVERTISERS

or others who wish to examine this paper, or obtain estimates on advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St.

The Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

FARMS

on James River, Va. in P. Farmington, all 100 A. B. situated in the best of the State.

J. L. MANCHA, Agent, N. Y.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R.R.

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest—this is the only true middle-link in that transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific. The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodations is unequalled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains run daily to the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The rich wheat fields and grazing lands of interior Dakota are reached via Watertown. A short desirable route, via Seneca and Kankakee, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points.

All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employees of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly attention.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders—obtainable at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada—or any desired information, address,

R. R. CABLE, E. ST. JOHN, E. A. HOLBROOK,
Pres't & Gen'l Mgr, Chicago. Ass't Gen'l Mgr, Chicago. Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt, Chicago.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS

The Original and Only Genuine. Safe and always Reliable. Beware of worthless imitations. Ladies, ask your Druggist for "Chichester's English" and take no other, or include 4c. stamps to us for particulars in letter by return mail. NAME: CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., 2215 Madison Square, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Ask for "Chichester's English" Pennyroyal Pills. Take no other.

Importation CH. EL. 1075 (1923). Winner of sweepstakes Premium at the Great International Show of the Illinois State Fair, held in Chicago, Sept. 1898. Property of

W. L. ELLWOOD,

IMPORTER AND BREEDER OF

PERCHERON HORSES.

The Largest Breeding Establishment of Pure Blood Percherons in the United States. Five Tonnage head of Pure Blood and completely on hand, a large number of which were imported in July, 1898, and another large importation of from 1,500 to 200 head will arrive about the middle of October. Visitors always welcome. Name and address of J. H. Ellwood, nothing but the best, and take pride in showing stock.

Location, DIE KALB, ILL.

Is 5 miles west of Chicago, on Omaha Div. C. & N. W. Ry. Ask agent for Catalogue.

JONES

PAYS THE FREIGHT 5 Ton Wagon Sealer.

Large, heavy, 5 ton capacity. Brass band, 100 lbs. weight. For description of this and other goods, send for price list.

JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

CONSUMPTION

N. U. F. W. No. 19-87

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

Is The Best Waterproof Coat Ever Made.

Don't waste your money on a gum or rubber coat. The FISH BRAND SLICKER is absolutely water and wind proof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. Ask for the "FISH BRAND" Slicker and take no other. If your storekeeper does not have the "FISH BRAND" Slicker, send for descriptive catalogue to A. J. TOWER, 20 Shumway St., Boston, Mass.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND SLICKER

None genuine unless stamped with the above TRADE MARK.

Don't waste your money on a gum or rubber coat. The FISH BRAND SLICKER is absolutely water and wind proof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. Ask for the "FISH BRAND" Slicker and take no other. If your storekeeper does not have the "FISH BRAND" Slicker, send for descriptive catalogue to A. J. TOWER, 20 Shumway St., Boston, Mass.

CONSUMPTION

N. U. F. W. No. 19-87

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
One Year, in advance ..... $0.75
Six Months ..... 50
Three Months ..... 25

Entered at the Post Office at St. Joe
as second-class matter.

FRIDAY MAY 6, 1887.

TOWNSHIP NOTICES

Parties having sheep killed or damaged by dogs, will bring appraisers to swear to same.

J. E. Dermott, Trustee

Sealed proposals will be received at the school house in St. Joe, on Saturday, May 21, 1887, at 1 o'clock, for the building of an addition to the St. Joe school house. Plans and specifications can be seen at my residence.

J. E. Dermott, Trustee

All scholars of the public schools of Concord Township who wish to enter the reading contest at the Waterloo Fair this fall, are requested to meet at the school house in St. Joe, on Saturday, May 14, 1887, at 1 o'clock, at which time judges will be appointed and two persons each, from the second and third reader grades, will be selected to read at the contest at the fair. Teachers who taught in the schools of the township during the winter are also requested to be present.

J. E. Dermott, Trustee.

The croquet balls began to move here this week.

Flower Pots from 5 to 25 cents, at Testison's grocery.

Alex. Filley and J. D. Leighty drove to Fort Wayne Wednesday.

Jake Dermott made over four hundred pounds of maple syrup this spring.

The mosquitoes of this section held a caucus down in the swamp below here this week, and have concluded to begin operations in about 10 days.

Alex. Filley has a curiosity on the corner of his lot in the shape of a tree. As yet nobody has been able to give it a name. Stop and look at it when you are passing.

The G. A. R. Post meets Saturday evening, at which time arrangements will be made for the proper observance of Decoration Day, which occurs the 30th of this month.

Mell Bishop helped his wife clean house about fifteen minutes last week, and it nearly tuckered him out. Mell says he won't vote for another representative, unless he will pledge himself to work for the passage of a law, prohibiting a woman from cleaning house more than once in two years.

At a meeting of the executive committee at Auburn last Monday it was decided to hold the old settler's meeting at St. Joe this year. A committee of arrangements has been appointed, and at an early date they will arrange a full list of committees to take charge of the various work necessary to make the meeting a success. St. Joe never does things by halves, and when the old settler's get through with this meeting they will find that it has been the largest and best that they have ever held, providing it don't rain.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS

PLEASANT HILL.

Stephen Baker and wife called on their son Willis last Sunday.

Holly Jackson visited under the parental roof last Sunday.

There will be lots of corn planted this week if the weather prevails good.

Jake Malone has been afflicted with a large boil on his face for the past week.

Miss Maggie Koch assisted her sister Mrs. John Koch in cleaning house last week.

Bub Stilling and his sister Vienna called on their sister, Mrs. John Koch last Sunday.

Joseph Koch planted five acres of corn last week. He always is a head of any one else.

Next Sunday at half-past two is the regular appointment for preaching at the school house.

Charley Jackson has been quite sick for the past few days, and is no better at this writing.

Friday is the last day of our school in District No. 2. The scholars have all enjoyed a good term of school.

SPENCERVILLE.

Will Tindall is sick with the mumps.

Arthur Olds has gone to Newville to work.

Gerry Emanuel came home from Dakota last Wednesday.

Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Shutt were at Fort Wayne Wednesday.

Sarah Boger spent Sunday at this place with her grand-parents.

Mark Barney and wife have gone to spend a few days at Larwell.

Becks Erick and wife are visiting his parents at White Pigeon Mich.

George Wilson and wife, of Iowa, are visiting his mother at this place.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will hold their next meeting at the M. E. church, on Saturday afternoon, May 7th, 1887.

The commencement exercises will take place Wednesday evening May, 20th, 1887. The graduates are Minnie Provines, Sarah Boger and Ivan Fryberger.

CONCORD.

Belle Milton is on the sick list.

Miss Bell Hilderbrand returned home last Saturday.

Miss Jamie Monroe visited with her parents last Sunday.

Dick Monroe went to Auburn last Monday to study telegraphy.

W. Wyatt contemplates moving to St. Joe in a short time.

Will Koch and family visited under the parental roof last Sunday.

Miss Ida Scholes, of Coburntown, visited with Mrs. Gill last Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Gibford, Mrs. Hennessey, Mrs. Rickett, Mrs. James Smith and Mrs. Fotters were the guests of Mrs. F. Buchanan last Wednesday.

"Bub" Stilling took his best girl visiting last Sunday. His sister Vienna accompanied them. They were the guests of Mrs. John Koch.

S. George and F. Buchanan attended the funeral of John Lawrence, last Tuesday, at Auburn. They were in the same company during the late Rebellion.

One night this week, some light fingered chap helped himself quite

J. D. LEIGHTY,

—DEALER IN—

DRY GOODS

NOTIONS, GROCERIES

Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps &c.

A full line of Plug, Smoking and Fine Cut Tobacco, Cut Peppercorns, Raisins, Currants &c. Examine our Carpet Samples.

ST. JOE, - IND.

liberally to Joe Koch's meat and soap, also took wheat from Levi Showalter's granary.

Two ladies a visiting did go. And to get there, they were not slow. When they arrived the lady was cleaning house. She saw them coming but kept still as a mouse.

Then one said (with a terrible frown) "Never mind we'll go on to town." The other one, not wishing to be contrary, said "yes we will go and visit with Sarah."

So to town they went, and the day did spend. Visiting with another dear friend. The next time you a visiting would go, You had better let the people know.

About (this item) there is some contention, And this I would just like to mention, If you cannot take a joke, Do not your fun at others poke.

Mrs. Anna McDonald visited in town Wednesday.

Dan Baker has gone into the banking business. Ask him if he has cashed any checks lately.

Hoffman's teams from Ft. Wayne are hauling logs to this place, which it said are to be shipped to the old country.

Ladies, if you want a progressive magazine, see DEMOREST'S. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York city.

Miss Bartlett has the best line of millinery goods in this part of the county. If you need any thing in that line, and of course you do, it will be to your interest to call and examine her stock before making your purchases.

BY PROF. TOMOLIN.

I said last month that my theories had been fore-telling the weather, and many sayings have become also; some claim that frosts are always introduced by rain. Others claim if the sun shines with lowing, others assert a wet spell of weather, and as well never clear up at night. Some lay poolical, as the plain:

If the sun come Then clouds T will rain.

If we have a great tion, yet while that should not lose sight of one there is exceptions to all rules. While these sa been true at certain not follow that they prove true times. It is impossible to without clouds, but it is have clouds without weather for this month follows: 1st to 5th clear, 10th cloudy, 10th to 15th showers, 15th to 20th w sultry, 20th to 25th 31st warm and pleasant.

Billy Leighty is learning phy, nights at the depot Use Prinley's Family for sale at the Drugstore.

Billy Curie's mules were cising themselves the other evening and just for fun, one of them Jim White, who was riding it, off into a fence corner. Jim think it was very funny.

This space is reserved for
S. & F. BARNEY.
Look out for next week!

Mss S. A. Bartlett,

—DEALER IN FINE—

MILLINERY

—HATS, BONNETS, &—

Flowers,
Ribbons,
Feathers,

—ORNAMENTS &C—

I invite the attention of the ladies of St. Joe and vicinity to my new stock of Spring and Summer Millinery Goods, comprising the newest and latest styles and shapes. I am constantly receiving new goods, and therefore can please everybody. Give me your patronage. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see my line before making your purchases. Rooms over Dr. Bowman's office, St. Joe, Ind.

MISS S. A. BARTLETT.

STAR WIND PUMP. E. A. Wamsley, agent, Newville, Ind. Farmers who think of buying a mill should give me a call before doing so. The Star Mill is the best and prices the lowest.

HOUSE PAINTING. Graining, Glazing Paper Hanging and Ceiling Decorating a specialty. All work guaranteed. E. A. Woodcox. Call and see me, or leave orders at the St. Joe Drugstore.

—LOGAN'S—

Charlie Grubb was in town Thursday.

Milo Stafford moved to Newville this week.

Land Plaster in barrels for sale at the St. Joe Lumber Yard.

Some of our correspondents are behind time again this week.

Forepaugh's circus exhibits at Deliance on the 14th of this month.

A chimney sweep caused quite a little amusement in town yesterday.

Mrs. W. B. McClaren is visiting with friends here and at Spencerville.

Miss Lizzie Evans has been very sick the past week but is some little better at this writing.

M. T. Bishop sold one man nearly 5000 feet of lumber Wednesday. He is having a good trade.

Wm. Simanton says there is some kind of a worm working at the wheat, and in spots it is badly damaged.

Little May Leighty has improved wonderfully in the last few days, and will soon be able to be out again.

Commissioners Probst, Bowman and Widney made this office a call yesterday. They are a very pleasant set of gentlemen, and we should be glad to have them come again. They all take the News, which shows that they have good sound sense, and lots of it.

W. C. Patterson was at Butler Tuesday.

Plenty of Lard and Mess Pork at Curie's butcher shop.

Mrs. W. C. Patterson and daughter Bessie visited in Hicksville last Saturday.

The gravel pit track has been filled with brand new box cars for a week past.

Loran Saylor, wife and son, were visiting friends in this neighborhood last week.

One man's opinion is just as good as another man's opinion, in his own opinion.

The first day of May came in with a warm shower, afterward it cleared off and was a beautiful day.

Wm. Stamen will build a fine residence this summer. Smith & Volmer will do the work.

Frank Walker is making a fine set of harness for Milas Rhodes. Frank is doing some fine work and lots of it.

G. V. James, the new agent at this place has moved his family into the house formerly occupied by H. K. Reynolds.

We make some changes in our advertising columns this week. Look them over and see who are the live business men of St. Joe.

G. V. James and Dan Baker went to Hicksville last Friday to hear Eli Perkins lecture. They say that Eli got there in good style.

George Stout closed his writing school last Saturday evening. Miss Mattie White and Leo Shuler carried off the laurels for being the best writers.

O. H. Widney caught a rat last week two feet and a half long. They say they are good to eat, but they look too much like a snake to go down well with us.

Dan Baker shot at a rat the other day and failed to hit it. Dan thinks if the rat had been at the end of the gun that he was, it would have been killed sure.

Miss Bartlett's Millinery rooms were crowded with ladies last Saturday, who were looking for a new hat or bonnet. Miss Bartlett carries a fine assortment of goods, and has a large trade.

John Widney and wife were called to the bed-side of Gus Hull last Sunday, who had a stroke of palsy. His left side was entirely paralyzed, but it is hoped that unless he has another attack, he may recover.

Jake Sechler wanted us to say in our last issue that he had taken up a stray cow. We did so, and before the papers were out, the owner had called and claimed his property. That shows that it pays to advertise in the News.

Bill Smith says he saw a man over south of here the other day who is in a bad condition. He says that the lower half of his heart is paralyzed, and that some times his heart will quit beating for twenty or thirty minutes at a time. Where is that old badge that the boys had last winter. Bring it out and paste it on Bill's coat collar.

Report of school district No. 5, in Concord township, for the month ending April 29th, 1887. Number of pupils enrolled during the month 23, average daily attendance 18, cases of tardiness 1. Names of those neither absent nor tardy during the month: Charley Gibford, Johnnie Elm, Hattie Ricketts, Cora Draggo, Roy Gibford, Belle Milton, Bertha Hennessy, Hattie Draggo, Orange Draggo, Cecil Shilling, Charley Ricketts, Johnnie Draggo, Mary Layman and Walter Elm.

Addie Widney, Teacher.

THIS SPACE BELONGS TO SHUTT & WHITE.

AGENTS FOR

The "Champion" Binder.

They will tell you all about it in a few days. Don't buy, or contract for a Binder until you see them.

The second annual commencement of the St. Joe schools will be held the last week in this month, and of course the children, the Misses and the Ladies will want new dresses. We have a handsome line of White Goods, Fancy Dress Robes, All-over Laces, Seersuckers, Lawns, Kid Gloves, Silk Veiling, and everything necessary for a complete outfit. Call and see. CASE & OLDS.

Try Primley's Remedies!

Blood and Liver Medicine for a Blood Purifier.
Speedy Cure for Coughs, Colds and Lung Affections.
Iron Tonic Bitters for Kidney trouble and General Debility.
Glycerine and Anise for all ailments of the Throat.

For Sale at the St. Joe Drugstore.

ST. JOE MARKET CORRECTED EVERY FRIDAY.

Wheat	80 cts.
Oats	29 cts.
Corn	40 cts.
Butter	15 cts.
Eggs	10 cts.
Tallow	3½ cts.
Lard	10 cts.
Potatoes	60 cts.
Smoked Hams	16 cts.
Shoulders and Side Meat	8 cts.

Josh Lounsberry was at Hicksville the fore part of the week.

The young people enjoyed a very pleasant party Tuesday evening at the residence of Simon Wineland, in honor of the twenty-first birthday of John Wineland.

Wash Woodcox writes that he has bought 160 acres of land near Walnut Ridge, Ark. He seems to be well pleased with the country, and thinks he bought land at a decided bargain.

The Young People's Temperance Literary Society will meet at the residence of Miss A. C. Merrill, Monday evening May 9th. The following program has been selected. Select Reading by Miss Addie Widney; Declamation by Miss Cora Dilley; Select Reading by Miss Sake Bartlett; Quartette by Misses Addie Widney, Leona Tustison, Messrs. Frank Hart and Clarence Hull; Declamation by Miss Nina Filley; Instrumental Music by Miss Prudie Lounsberry; Select Reading by Leo Shuler.

Sum men kan write a tupe
An sum kan pla koka:
But the best milk cow with a suckers.

Bekaws the aint built that wa.
Sa, did yu hear about Doc
Boman trading for a cow last week.
He did, and the sa he got beet pretty badley. We wassant along wen h traded, butt eved it from a fall that knos, that he swopped a hors fur sum floats an a row. The row iz a butifool crushed rosherry color about 6 years old and iz cross-eyed
She iz a gude milker, and iz no afraide ov the kars, or any thing ov
It iz tru that once in a wile she a spel and dose a tall kicking. For this hardley ever happens onli at one milking tyme. She (the row) iz on forth short-horn and three-fourth hyena. She iz veri much attached tu her nne home bi means ov a rope, fastened around her horns se kurely and tide tu the manger. She iz knot fur sail, however on a pine ho wood trade her fur a gude well improved farm.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer

HOW FICTION BECOMES HISTORY.

People Who Tell a Story So Often They Finally Come to Believe It.

Washington Letter in New York Sun.

The late Col. Scott, of the War Records Office, often confounded many a story-teller. It was he who had the documents at his elbow to furnish the exact truth in regard to every battle and campaign, and every order and report in regard to them. To him went a host of people who wanted light on the war. A few weeks before his death Col. Scott said: "There are innumerable calls on me from officers on both sides for exact information about various movements and engagements. Most of them deal with personal affairs. Some fellow who led a scout wants to hunt up a report where his name is mentioned. A Major General is not often any more sure of facts twenty-five years old than a private, and a dispute with a brother officer sends both here for the record. It not infrequently happens that I unwittingly deal some of my best friends cruel blows. A Western Senator came here a year or so ago and got documents that made Admiral Porter ridiculously imaginative where everybody supposed he was precisely historical, in regard to President Lincoln's visit to Richmond at the surrender, and an alleged interview en route with Duff Green. The greater part of the story turned out to be fiction. One day an old officer came rushing in, and, in an excited tone, exclaimed:

"Have you said I was not in the second battle of Bull Run?"

"No, not exactly that," I said.

"Well, Bob Scott, I was told you said so, and I came in here to put daylight through you if you stuck to it."

"O, no," I replied, laughing. "I never said you were not in that battle. What I said was that you yourself, in an official report dated the day of the battle, said that you were in the Cumberland Valley, 100 miles from Centerville and Bull Run."

"His eyes looked dizzy and his face was a most amusing picture of consternation. What I said was true. I tapped a bell, called a clerk, who brought the officer's official report, and there in his own handwriting, over his signature, in black and white, was his own word that he was not at Bull Run. He read the report through twice in silence so solid you could slice it. Then he took his hat, and, without a word, arose and left the building."

"A prominent officer of my acquaintance has described often in my hearing, with great minuteness, the battle of the Monitor and the Merrimac. He told the story as an eye-witness, described his field-glass and the point of observation. I paid no attention to the matter until I had heard the tale told twice. Then I became curious, and hunted up the official reports made by this officer. I found that if he saw the Monitor and Merrimac in that battle his field-glass was a most powerful one. He never saw the Monitor and Merrimac fight, but was at Falls Church the day of the battle, if his own reports are to be believed. There is a great deal of fiction in our war stories."

"The greatest number of inquiries about war history," said Col. Scott, "come from the South." The Johnnies fought well, and, in the absence of a good deal else to give them satisfaction, take great pleasure in their fighting. Nearly all the prominent Confederate officers have visited this old building, and hardly a day passes that we do not receive half a dozen letters from Southerners asking for information."

Keen as a Razor.

Countryman—"That feller in the telegraph office up these thought he was mighty smart, but I fooled him."

Policeman—"Oh did? How?"

Countryman—"You, easy enough. You see I went in there yesterday to send a message to St. Louis, and told him what I wanted. 'All right,' sez he, 'seventy-five cents.' So I paid him the seventy-five cents, and I'll be darned if he did a thing but rap that old brass clicker of his fifteen or twenty times, and then hang the message on the hook."

Policeman—"Well do you call that fooling him?"

Countryman—"You just hold on, and I'll tell you. To-day I wanted to send another message to St. Louis, but I'll be gosh-darned if I want to pay another seventy-five cents. So I went up to the office, kinder polite like, an' sez I 'Mister, say I, 'There's a young lady outside as sez she wants to speak to you. I'll tend office while you're gone.' Well, she, he but right away. Off he went in a hurry and before he got back I had plenty of time to click his 'old brass machine' all I wanted, and hang my message on the hook. Just as he did the day before. I know they got it, too, at the other end, for the minute I got through the old machine went to click-clicking like blue-blazes, 's much's to say. 'All right, old man, we hear you. Oh, I fooled him good, I did. You Uncle Peter lives in Wayback, but he ain't no fool, he ain't, not by a long chalk, 'no-sir-ee!' Somerville Journal.

An Old Mexican Tragedy.

High up in a desolate canon, about forty miles from Monterey, the traveler on the ferro carril (as the steam cars are called) sees the ruins of an ancient casa whose crumbling walls are usually mistaken for one of the many fortifications left in the wake of our General Taylor. But this ghostly place has a sadder history. It was the scene of a midnight tragedy the actors in which, if stories be true, still prow about the premises, though their bodies have been dust more than half a century. The history in brief is this: Some sixty years ago a proud-spurred Spaniard lived there who had inherited all the jealousy, suspicion, and bad blood of his race. His beautiful wife had refused an earlier suitor—a Mexican—in order to marry the Spaniard, whom she devotedly loved, and the rejected lover determined on revenge. He acted the part of Iago, and caused the Spanish Othello's ear to be filled with cunning tales of his own invention concerning the wife's unfaithfulness. Jealousy, once thoroughly roused in Southern blood, knows no bounds but death. The infuriated husband carefully devised his diabolical plans, and when all was ready, he sent his wife to be stationed every five miles along the route. During the silent watches of the night he returned to the casa, murdered his gentle wife in her bed, and accomplished the entire, eighty miles before daylight. Being found in Monterey next morning, nobody suspected him of the crime, but the fiendish Iago could not disguise his exultation, and in the gushing confidence of too much megalomania disclosed the whole plot. When convinced at last beyond doubt of his dead Deademon's innocence, crazed with remorse, Othello plunged his dagger into Iago's heart, and then into his own. The orphaned children were taken to Monterey and cared for by the church, and to-day their descendants represent some of the most prominent families in the State of Coahuila.—Correspondence San Francisco Examiner.

Hints to Penny-Tossers.

Proctor, in his new book on "Chance and Luck," touches upon one point which must at some time have interested everybody. It is the notion that if you toss a coin, say ten times in succession, and it comes down "tails," it is more likely on the eleventh throw to come down "heads" than "tails." The truth appears to be this, that if you toss for an hour "heads" will not exceed "tails" or "tails" "heads" in a greater ratio than twenty-one to twenty. If you toss for a day the inequality will not be greater than 101 to 100. And yet, if during that time you toss "tails" ten times in succession (as you may often do) there will be no more likelihood of "heads" than of "tails" on the eleventh throw.

It is, indeed, obviously out of the question that anything that has previously taken place can have given the coin a tendency to come down in one way rather than in another. The notion is perhaps capable of a reduction to absurdity in this way. Suppose it to be true that a coin which has come down "tails" ten times in succession is more likely at the eleventh throw to come down "heads" than "tails."

Now let the tosser who has thrown "tails" ten times refrain from making the eleventh throw. Let him put the coin in his pocket and toss it a year hence; it is still more likely to come down "heads" than "tails." Or let him not toss at all, but pass it to another, who will toss it five years after. As the probability inheres in the coin it is still more likely to come down "heads" than "tails."

Supposing all this to be true, it would appear that you might take up an old Roman coin and toss it, thinking the chances to be even, whereas the probabilities had really been decided by the last pitcher, who tossed it two thousand years.

Holding a Seat.

"Will you be kind enough to watch my seat here and allow no one to get into it while I go into the smoking car and take a smoke?" asked the presumptuous passenger in the opposite seat of me.

What else could I do but to answer yes, though I had started out on a pleasure excursion, and this man's condescension quite knocked all the pleasure out of the trip at the beginning, and now that fatal seat lay on my mind like last year's debts—provided I had some.

At the next station a big man came in, and, spying the only vacant seat, pre-empted it on the spot, and proceeded to make himself comfortable. I sat a long time considering how far my responsibility went, but I saw that I must do something, so I mildly whispered to him that the seat belonged to another, and he, scowled and left at the next station, where some ladies got aboard. As a last resort I placed my new hat over, in the seat to preserve it; the seat, not the hat—and two of the females sat down on the hat. They did not appear to notice the hat, or probably thought it was the bustle, and began to make themselves at home. I told them as coolly as I could that the seat was occupied. They said of course it was, I remarked that the owner's hat was under them. They obliterated me with a frown and got up; the hat didn't get up. Its get-up was gone. I tried to straighten out the hat, and felt sick; so did the hat. I indulged inwardly in some strongly secular language, and soon a tall, long-haired fellow got aboard, whose pantaloons were poked into his boots to rest, and whose shirt yearned towards a washtub, and took the fat seat without paying any attention to me waving him away.

I had to do it, though I shuddered. I walked to him and gently and politely told him the seat belonged to another man, when, all of a sudden, he jumped up as if there was a tack in the seat and gave a regular Comanche howl, as I sat back into my seat, wishing there was a trap-door through the floor of the car.

"This seat belongs to another, does it? Where is the duffer? Where are his symptoms? Nothing here. Where are his remains, his silk umbrella, his peanut shells, his tobaccoer spit, his chewing-gum shoes, his fur-collar overcoat, his thirty-eight-caliber valise, and his eyeglass? Show me, if you please, his assets, his liabilities, his heirs, administrators, or assigns! Where is his mortgage, or his lien, or twenty years' lease? I am Charney Bill from Brazos! (and he parenthesized the name with a couple of long-horn revolvers). Are you the ozone, the canned fruit man who is trying to preserve this seat for the coming man, or the rising generation?"

I begged to prove an alibi, insanity, or anything legal that was necessary, or would do any good, and begged him not to mention it, when in came the former occupant and asked the stranger shortly to get out. The stranger got out, and the owner of the seat began to fall all over himself, to explore the ceiling with his feet, to test the floor, to unhandle the neighboring seats, and when the stranger laid him gently down in the aisle and spread him out comfortably to rest, and recuperate, and catch his breath, and get his health back, and try to feel better, and try to be easier, and wait for a doctor, and gather his senses, I had time to think that it was the right way for a man to be served who will ask another to hold his seat during his absence.—Detroit Free Press.

Weather Errors.

Few erroneous notions are spread so readily and cling so tenaciously as those respecting the weather. In noticing common errors of this kind, Prof. Cleveland Abbe, the distinguished meteorologist, urges attention to these facts: That while the moon might well be expected to influence our weather, scientific evidence shows that it does not; that there is no sound reason for believing that sunspots have any appreciable effect in producing storms, or other local changes; that animal instinct ranks greatly below human intelligence as a guide to future weather; that the indications furnished by plants are due to the hygroscopic condition of the air, as are also other "signs," and are less delicate and reliable than the accurate instrumental tests of meteorologists; that electricity and ozone do not produce the effects often ascribed to them; that thunderstorms do not cool the air, but the cool fresh results, like the storm, from the rise of hot air, at least in many cases; that it has not yet been proven that the removal of forests and the extension of railroads and telegraphs have influenced our climate; that the weather is materially the same as in centuries ago; that scientific records disproving the faulty recollections of the oldest inhabitant; and that severe storms are no more liable to occur at the date of the equinoxes, or on certain days of the week or month, than at other times.

A Gypsy Beauty.

Under the above title, in the Century, Charles G. Leland writes of Charlotte Cooper, one of the oldest and most famous of the Romanies.

"Fifty or sixty years ago the gypsies in England were a much more remarkable race than they are at present. The railway had not come to break up their habits, there were hundreds of lonely places in dell and dingle where they could batch the tan, or pitch the tent, their blood had been little mixed with that of the Gorgio, or Gemile; they spoke their language with greater purity than at present, and still kept their old characteristics unchanged. If they had the faults of Arabs, they had also many of their good qualities. If they stole horses and foraged on farmers, if their women told fortunes, lied, and sometimes cheated a man out of all his ready money by pretending to find a treasure in his cellar, on the other hand they were extremely grateful and honest to those who befriended them, and manifested in many ways a rough manliness which partially redeemed their petty vices. They were all, as are many of their sons at present, indomitable rough riders, of the horse horse, and to a man boxers, so that many of them were distinguished in the prize-ring, the last of these being Jim Mace. At this time there prevailed among the English Romanies a strong, mutual faith, a tribal honesty, which was limited, but all the stronger for that, even as the arms of a man grow stronger when he loses the use of his legs. They were a people of powerful frames, passions, and traditional principles. Their weak children soon died from the hardships of nomadic life, the remainder illustrated olden life by suffering, and the survival of the fittest to fight."

"With such characteristics there could not fail among the gypsies many striking instances of warm friendship, intense love, and the fidelity which endures even till death. This was known of them when little else was known beyond their most apparent and repulsive traits. Walter Scott indulged in no romantic license when he depicted Hayraddin Mangrabin as devoted to Quentin Durward; even at present the incident of a thoughtful gift or any little act of kindness to them will be remembered with a gratitude out of all proportion to its value, and go the rounds of all the Romanies in the United States. And therefore when men fell in love with women there often resulted those instances of intense passion and steady faith, which at the present day are really becoming mythical. The gypsy in this, as in everything else, has been a continuation of the middle ages, or of the romance era."

"Such a passion was inspired more than half a century ago by Jack Cooper, the Kurumengro Rom, or Fighting Gypsy, in a girl of his own tribe. Her name was Charlotte Lee, and it was about 1830 that Leslie, the Royal Academician, led by the fame of her beauty, painted the picture, now in New York in the possession of his sister, Miss Emma Leslie, from which the engraving here given was taken. The fame of her charms still survives among her people, and when a few days ago as I was talking of Charlotte to some gypsies of her kin near Philadelphia, I was asked if I meant the Rinkent; that is, the Beautiful one."

Western Journalism.

Western journalism is full of spice and enterprise. Not your ordinary adulterated mustard and pepper, but the genuine article, which makes the tears flow and gives you the whooping-cough. As for instance: "Owing to the death of the editor there won't be any leader to-morrow, but look out for a ripper the day after."—New York Herald.

A SOLITARY woman is an unhappy creature—so is a solitary man.

THE WESTERN BOOM.

St. Joseph, Mo., Still Leading All Competitors in Real Estate Deals and the Acquisition of Substantial Enterprises.

The most noticeable real estate activity continues to prevail at St. Joseph, Mo., says a correspondent of an Eastern paper. Packing houses and other industrial enterprises, among them the Louisiana Tobacco Works, are going in at a lively rate; one of the chief evidences of the growth of the city being the granting of a franchise to a syndicate of Kansas City capitalists for the construction of an extensive system of cable lines, to be completed at once, and to cost $300,000. The best evidence, however, is in the showing of actual transactions closed in one week recently. W. A. P. McDonald bought 99 lots in Eastern Extension for $10,500. He sold 54 of them for $10,700, and sold the balance at an advance of $20 per foot in cost. Sam Nave and J. S. Britton bought a lot in Patee's addition for $2,000 and sold for $3,000 in four days. W. H. Constable bought lot 2, block 54, St. Joseph Extension, for $300, and sold for $550. J. Blackwelder, of Chicago, bought eighty feet, southeast corner of Third and Sylvan, for $14,000, and has been offered nearly double that for it and refused it. J. M. Hill paid $7,000 for northeast corner of Second and Francis, and has since refused $18,000. C. W. Brown bought two lots on St. Joseph Avenue for $1,900, and sold in six days for $3,000. John Kelly bought two lots in Eastern Extension; he paid $600; in thirty days he sold for $900; it has since been resold for $1,200. J. F. Tyler bought a lot in Eastern Extension for $125 and sold to Hubbard for $500, who has since been offered $700. L. E. Carter bought a lot in January in Kemper's addition for $700. In three days after he was offered $1,000, and since then $2,000. He bought four lots in Robidoux addition for $1,000; sold for $6,000, and his purchaser sold for $8,000. Mrs. N. M. Brewster bought three lots for $500 and sold for $1,150 in three days, and in four days they were resold for $1,400. D. G. Griswold bought six lots in East St. Joseph for $200 and sold the next day for $750; also three others for $200 and resold in three weeks for $1,000.

One of the publishers of Hoyer's Directory, speaking of the Western cities and the prevailing boom, writes as follows of St. Joseph, where he has just issued the Directory for 1887: "Not only has St. Joseph increased in population at a most satisfactory rate, there being an increase in one year of 5,846, while the total population in round numbers is shown to be 60,000, but she has undergone a spirited revival that augurs the outstripping of all competition. Ten years ago the city had scarcely a dozen manufactories, whereas the year '87 finds her with some 170 of all kinds, with thirteen railroads, the largest stock-yards west of Chicago, some thirteen miles of streets, paved with asphaltum, and as many miles more under contract, with the electric motor soon to be in operation on two of the car lines, and the cable line an assured fact, and new enterprises springing up daily on every hand. The demand for real estate has been steady and active. For the past year St. Joseph has led almost continually the other cities of the United States in bank clearances, the per cent. of increase over 1886 reaching in one case 140.7, and up to date maintaining an average of almost 100. Down to December 31, 1886, St. Joseph's jobbing houses did a business of $110,539,000, showing an increase in the business of 1886 over that of 1885 of $23,111,028. A fair indication of the increasing business may be sought in the fact that St. Joseph now employs a force of commercial travelers numbering 1,013 men."

St. Joseph, more than any other Western town, offers the best inducements to men of small capital to commence a manufacturing business, and to mechanics and laborers to find employment and build desirable homes.

Costly Taffy.

"Now, young lady, you may take the stand," said the lawyer.
"Yes, sir," she replied, with a beaming smile.
"That does me up!" whispered a man on one of the benches. "I'm her husband, and she's 49 years old, but the sugar on that lawyer's tongue will cost me $30 for millinery before the 1st of May."—D. Mail Tribune.

Earthquakes in Massachusetts.

It is to be noted, however, that since the settlement of this New England country there have been several shocks of an alarming nature, which have principally affected the State of Massachusetts. That of 1727 and several following years was one of the most peculiar disturbances which have ever been recorded. The first movements of this long-continued series of shocks disturbed a tolerably large area; but in a short time the shocks became confined to the region near the old town of Newbury, Mass., where from 1727 to 1740 each shock, though the motion was slight, was accompanied by loud and terrifying sounds proceeding from the depths of the earth. We have the story of this strange convulsion from the journal of the Rev. Matthias Plant, the pastor of the Puritan church at Newbury. Although he viewed the matter rationally, many people believed that the tumult was caused by the devil at work in his nether realm.

In 1755, almost coincidently with the great Lisbon earthquake, Central New England was visited by a disturbance of considerable violence, one which, though a single shock, was probably nearly, if not quite, as violent as any of the several movements which have recently occurred in South Carolina. This disturbance, though not hurtful to life or limb, did a good deal of minor damage to the buildings of Boston and vicinity; a good part of the chimneys were overturned, and wherever a heavy weight was supported on a fall, frail base the effects were considerable. John Winthrop, then professor of physics and astronomy, one of the few eminent American men of science of the eighteenth century, states that the bricks from the chimney of his house, in Cambridge, the top of which was thirty-two feet from the ground, were thrown to a point thirty feet from the base of the structure. If we may trust this observation, it is clear that the shock, though not of great violence, was of sufficient force to bring havoc to many flimsy structures of the present day. Since 1755 there has been no earthquake in this district which can be termed menacing in its violence, though movements of slight importance have been numerous.

We may reasonably conclude that while the New England district has probably long been exempt from disturbances of great severity, the Massachusetts district appears to be liable to shocks of a violence sufficient to wreck buildings which are not well fitted to sustain such assaults.—Prof. N. S. Shaler, in Scribner's Magazine.

Benton's Departure from Congress.

The close of the session reminds me of the last night of the Thirty-third Congress in the House of Representatives. The Senate sent over 145 amendments to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, and it was 8 o'clock in the morning before they were disposed of by a committee of conference. Mr. Pratt then asked whether it would be in order to have the restaurant servants bring in breakfast.

"Let me amend the question," said Mike Walsh, "by having cocktails and whisky-punches introduced also."

A conversational debate followed, during which some very clever things were said, and at last the Sergeant-at-Arms reported a quorum present. Several bills were then passed under a suspension of the rules, and during the taking of the yeas and nays the Clerk called Mr. Benton's name, when that gentleman appeared at the door of the main aisle, and protested, with violent gesticulation, against his name being called. He said he was an ex-member, and that the session that day was a libel on the Sabbath.

Some confusion followed this episode, when the Speaker, pro tem, Mr. Orr, told the gentleman that he was out of order.

"I am not a member," growled Mr. Benton.

"Then," promptly retorted Mr. Orr, "if the gentleman is not a member, the doorkeeper will put him out."

Mr. Benton did not say another word, but taking the package in which he had tied up the contents of his desk he left the House, thus, on March 4, 1855, closing a Congressional career that he had commenced in the Senate on August 10, 1821.—Ben: Perley Poore, in Albany Journal.

If just now too harsh a word was uttered, may the immortals make it vain!—Bryan's Homer.

A LEADING real estate agent and private banker, Mr. Ira Brown, Chicago, Ill., writes: "I feel it my duty to say of St. Jacobs Oil that I lay on my back three months with rheumatism. I tried it, was cured, and have never been troubled since."

If good bread is to be made woman must be bred to make it.

Mr. T. J. MURPHY, 61 Dehavoise Place, Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I was afflicted with sciatic rheumatism and found St. Jacobs Oil very efficacious."

The Pretty Girl.

The intelligence which is brought to bear upon the study of the masterpieces of English literature in the clubs of the land is illustrated often enough, as anybody knows who has investigated the subject; but it is seldom that it takes so discouraging a form as that encountered by a professor who has been conducting a fashionable Shakespeare Club. After he had expended infinite patience and hardly less erudition upon the study of "Othello," the Professor asked, in a glow of self-satisfaction, if there were any last questions any one wished to ask before another play was taken up. His feelings may be imagined when a very pretty girl, who had been very close in her attention throughout the entire course, inquired naively and earnestly: "But Professor—, what did he kill Desdemona for? How could he be angry with anybody so sweet?"

German Carp.

A farmer residing near Fairfield, Iowa, started a fish pond four years ago with three German carp, about two inches long and very small. He now reports his stock at 12,000, after having sold hundreds for stocking ponds in other parts of the State. The fish are said to be as tame as chickens, and a source of great pleasure to the family. There is food for reflection in this statement for those who like carp.

"That Miss Jones is a nice looking girl, isn't she?"

"Yes, and she'd be the belle of the town if it wasn't for one thing."

"What's that?"

"She has catarrh so bad it is unpleasant to hear her. She has tried a dozen things and nothing helps her. I am sorry, for I like her, but that doesn't make it any less disagreeable for one to be around her."

Now, if she had used Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, there would have been nothing of the kind said, for it will cure catarrh every time.

Out West when a bear gets into a hog-pen there is trouble brud for the pigs.

Among the people of to-day there are few indeed, who have not heard of the merits of Prickly Ash Bark and Berries as a household remedy. Teas and drinks have been made of them for centuries, and in hundreds of families have formed the sole reliance in rheumatic and kidney diseases. Prickly Ash Bark now takes the place of the old system and is more beneficial in all troubles of this nature.

A BUSINESS outlook. A merchant in his doorway looking for customers.

Vitality of Great Men

Is not always innate or born with them, but many instances are known where it has been acquired by the persistent and judicious use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

35 MEDALS AWARDED TO

BENSON'S

Cure for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Backache, Weakness, Colic in the Chest and all Aches and Pains.

Be aware of imitations under similar sounding names. Ask for BENSON'S AND TAKE NO OTHER.

CAPICINE

PLASTER

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

SOUTHERN FARMS FOR SALE.—Prices from $5 to $15 per acre; good lands and climate; cheap labor; work out eleven months in the year; near Petersburg, a city of 22,000 inhabitants; convenient to market or James River; healthy climate; mill property and water power; mineral spa. Write to HARRISON & PADRON, Petersburg, Va.

PILES Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is a sure cure for blind, bleeding or itching piles. Cure guaranteed. Price 50c and $1. At druggists or mailed by Wm. H. Kinnear & Marvin, Who. & Sale Agents, Toledo, Ohio.

RUPTURE If you want relief and cure at once, send for Dr. J. A. Sherman's circular of instructions. 29 Broadway, New York.

$350 Will buy a complete Newspaper (not Bt. suitable for publishing a week) in a town of 100,000 or over, inhabitant. Address: FORT WAYNE NEWS-PAPER UNION, Fort Wayne, Ind.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES Sure relief for Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat, Stomach and Bowel Complaints. Sold by all druggists.

LOTS New Town of BENJAMIN, Wis. Con. R. R. Point supply Milwaukee Mining Exchange, Milwaukee, Wis. Guaranteed to be bought and sold.

LADY AGENTS—Article new; sells fast. No money to invest. Address: R. F. LICKER, St. Albans, O.

The Original

Pierce's

PLEASANT LITTLE PURGATIVE PILLS.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. ALWAYS ASK FOR DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS, OR LITTLE SUGAR-COATED PILLS.

Being entirely vegetable, they operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. As a laxative, alterative, or purgative, these little Pellets give the most perfect satisfaction.

SICK HEADACHE.

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets.

In explanation of the remedial power of these Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their salutary influence. Sold by druggists, 25 cents a vial. Manufactured at the Chemical Laboratory of WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

$500 REWARD

is offered by the manufacturer of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH. Inflammation of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acid, at others thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, dizziness, hickering or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scales from the nostrils; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting but of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians. By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache. Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh."

Prof. W. H. HARTNER, the famous mesmerist, of Haverhill, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."

THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 202 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.

ELI ROBBINS, Rutland, P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now fifteen years old and sound and hearty."

HARTER'S

THE ONLY TRUE

IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and Restore the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling, absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerve receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only add to its popularity. Do not experiment—get the Original and Best.

DR. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS (Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Stomach Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Miss B. Stevenson

PENSIONS, Metropolitan Block, Chicago, Ill.

PENSIONS COLLECTED and increased by Fitzgerald & Powell, Indianapolis, Ind. Old cases returned. Send for copy of Laws, free.

$5 to $25 a day. Samples worth $1.50. FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address: Brewster's Safety Rein Holder, Holly, Mich.

BOB BURDETTISMS.

FADING AWAY.

"Don't see so much of you lately as we used to, Dick." "No, no; fact is, I reckon you don't see quite so much of me; you see I've been a little short this month."

A BED FULL OF CRACKER CRUMBS.

An exchange says: "Europe is sleeping on bayonets." It is well for Europe since she has to lie on such a bed, that she can go to sleep. A country that can go to sleep on a bed of bayonets would regard a Mexican cactus as an eider-down quilt.

A DEVELOPED MAN.

"Lighthouse," exclaimed his excellent wife, testily, "you are a bigger fool than I took you to be." "Thanks," he said, gratefully, but meekly, "that is to say, I grow on you with longer acquaintance. Ah, my ownest own, you haven't half found me out yet."

JUST THE THING.

"Want a picture for your dining-room, eh?" said the dealer. "Yes," replied the landlady, "and don't give me some gluttonous subject that will disgust the boarders. Let me see something pretty and appropriate." "Certainly, ma'am; here's the very thing—'The Death of St. Malachi.'" "How did he die?" "He was starved to death."

—Brooklyn Eagle.

HE KNOWS WHAT HE IS BUYING.

A Chicago drummer, returning from a trip through Iowa, says: "You can find whisky in almost everything you buy in that State." Well—er—ah—just one moment, brethren, before we decide the case against Prohibition Iowa on the evidence of this witness. You will bear in mind that the Chicago drummer never buys anything unless he is dead sure that it has whisky in it. The jury may now retire.

THE BLIGHT OF LANDLORDISM.

"Reginald" wants to know what is the "blight of landlordism" of which he reads so much. Well, we asked our landlord about it, and he said it was paying a plumber, a carpenter, a painter, and a plasterer $800 a year to keep a $600 house in repair, and then have the tenant take out the door bell, chandeliers, and range, and skip with about three months' rent unpaid. He says there are some other blights in the landlord business, which any one may find out by building a few houses to rent.

INQUIRE WITHIN.

"Husband in?" asked the assessor cheerfully. "No," answered the woman, "he isn't home." "Expecting him soon?" asked the assessor. "Well," the woman replied thoughtfully, "I don't know exactly; I've been lookin' for him seventeen years, and he hasn't shown up yet. You travel around a good deal, and if you see a man who looks as though he'd make me a pretty good husband, tell him I'm still waitin' and send him along. How's your wife?" But the assessor wrote something in his book and without speaking slid softly away, with the cautious haste of a man walking over a thin place in the ice.

Marrying Money.

When a young man marries an heiress, says a writer in the Epoch, the changes in his outward condition are subtle, but none the less interesting. Very soon—miraculously soon, indeed—he becomes a little stouter, and his walk is slower, his feet being planted more solidly and more carefully than they were when they carried a bachelor. His clothes turn darker by one shade at least, and his watchchain is certainly a thought heavier. The handle of his umbrella, also, has become perceptibly bigger, whereas his scarf-pins are undoubtedly more quiet in character—less fantastic or trivial. Observe him on his way to a church wedding, for example, and mark how different is his mode of progression from that of an unattached and miscellaneous youth. The rogue knows that a good seat will be reserved for him at the head of the aisle, and that he has no occasion for hurry. When he drives out it is in a substantial dog-cart or mail phaeton, and he escheweth—not, perhaps, altogether without regret—the sidebar buggy which he used to think the kind of vehicle that he would have if he were rich. He is now a substantial person in the community—a family man, a capitalist by proxy—and he begins to have serious views on political and financial matters, which he is desirous of discussing with older men. In fact, he is rather given to humning his contemporaries, and is not altogether easy in the society of his former companions. He has deserted their ranks, and, although he has gained in dignity, he has lost in freedom. His chains are golden, to be sure, but they bind with the force of a less costly metal. No longer for him are the delights of a midnight cigar or a refreshing brandy and soda at the club. He is now the victim of times and seasons, and must go discreetly home when the proper hour arrives.

"Madcap Harry" and Sir John Popham.

It is a curious circumstance—not, as I think, much noticed by Shakespearean critics—that with all our great dramatist's marvelous gifts, his power of delineation and surpassing knowledge of human character, his development of our language, his dramatic force, his poetic feeling, and his wealth of poetic expression—yet he seems to have been singularly deficient in originality, all his dramas, with the exception of "Love's Labor Lost," having been traced to some older tale or play. Now it is well known by students of history that Shakespeare's character of Prince Henry, afterward Henry V., is a gross libel upon one whose personal life was singularly pure and upright. I am not quite clear that the Prince can be exonerated entirely from robbing the King's mails; but he had this excuse, that his father withheld from him his income as Prince of Wales, partly from innate meanness, but more, perhaps, from the jealousy inherent in such natures toward his next heir—one who utterly surpassed him in nobleness of mind and popular gifts.

Who, then, was the original of Shakespeare's "Madcap Harry"? If I mistake not, he is to be found in Sir John Popham, sometime Speaker of the House of Commons and Lord Chief Justice of England. At the time that Shakespeare was writing his plays and residing at Bankside, in Southwark, the circumstances with which he credits Prince Henry were being enacted in the borough, probably, before his very eyes.

Sir John Popham was a native of Somerset. How far his being stolen by gypsies when a child and remaining with them some months gave him a taste for a vagabond or Bohemian way of life, one cannot say. At Balliol College, Oxford, he bore a high character, and is said to have laid in a good stock of classical learning and dogmatical divinity, but on removing to the Middle Temple he appears to have fallen in bad company and utterly neglected his judicial studies.—Walford's Antiquarian.

Too Dignified by Half.

Writing lines is the penance Harrow boys do for all their sins, in and out of school. If a boy is late for school, he writes lines; if he misses "bill," he writes lines. If the lines are not finished at a stated time, their number is doubled. There was one clever boy who escaped writing half the ordered quantity; and the masters tell the story of how he did it to this day. He was an untidy boy and was often taken to task for his carelessness and disorder. One day his master, who had very dignified and impressive manners, and who always said "we" instead of "you" when talking to the boys, found occasion to reprove him.

"We do not look very clean," he said, with much severity. "We have not washed our hands this morning. Have we?"

"I don't know about yours," was the impudent boy's answer, "but I've washed mine."

"Ah!" said the master, "we are very impertinent to-day. We will have to write a hundred lines before the next 'bill.'"

When "bill" time came, the master sent for the boy.

"Have we written our lines?" he asked.

"I've written my fifty," the boy answered very promptly, handing in his paper; "but I don't know whether you've done your half!"—Elizabeth Robins Pennell, in St. Nicholas.

A CERTAIN witty bishop was recently asked about a sermon to which he had listened, whether he thought it High or Low. He replied that he did not know about that, but there could be no doubt that it was long.

THE little girl who was disappointed because her name could not be found in the Bible, says, "Never mind! She will be such a good girl that if ever another Bible is written, her name shall go into that."

J. H. CONRAD,

DEALER IN

ROOFING AND SPOUTING

GUTTERING, HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS,

Cutlery, Nails, Paints, Woodenware &c.

MAIN STREET,

ST. JOE IND.

All work and goods guaranteed to give satisfaction Give me a call.

WILLIAM CURIE,

PROPRIETOR OF

St. Joe Meat Market,

ST. JOE, IND.

Highest market price paid for Hides, Tallow &c. Give me a call.

M. TUSTISON,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES,

EARTHEN POTS FOR HOUSE PLANTS

PROVISIONS, CYSTERS, LEMONS,

ORANGES, CANDIES, CIGARS &c.

MAIN ST. ST. JOE, IND.

J. F. WALKER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

Harness, Collars,

WHIPS, HARNESS OIL &c.

ST. JOE, IND.

Repairing done promptly. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see.

R. G. COBURN,

AGENT FOR THE

ALBION SPRING Cultivator

AND FIELD HARROW.

AND DAISY RAKE.

Farmers will save money by seeing me before buying. I will call on you with a sample in a few days. R. G. Coburn, St. Joe, Ind.

Take Notice!

Having returned from Tennessee, I will assist again in

Raising & Moving Buildings,

in short all kinds of Rope, Tackle and Jack-screw Work. Having had 15 years' experience, and improved machinery, I feel safe in guaranteeing satisfaction. Heavy and difficult work a specialty. Correspondence solicited. Direct all communications to H. or M. Millman, St. Joe Station, Ind., or A. Monroe, Hicksville, Ohio.

A. HINSEY.

Undertaker and Embalmer. Keeps on hand constantly, a stock of Undertaking Supplies, Coffins, Caskets, Burial Robes &c. I can supply as fine goods as can be furnished. Will attend to making all arrangements for funerals. Calls responded to at all hours of the night. Office on corner of Main and Second Streets; residence on corner of Main and Fourth Streets, St. Joe, Ind.

Arthur James,

DEALER IN

Watches, Clocks,

AND JEWELRY.

Repairing done promptly and all work warranted. Call and see me at Bair & Son's store, Spencerville, Ind.

M. T. BISHOP,

DEALER IN

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

Shingles, Lime, Lath,

MOULDINGS &c.

Large Stock and Prices Low. Yard Near Depot, St. Joe, Ind.

F. A. ZEIGLER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

HARNESS

COLLARS, WHIPS,

Fly Nets and Dusters,

HARNESS OIL &c.

Prices the Lowest. All work guaranteed. Call and see me.

THE ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. I.

ST. JOE, IND., FRIDAY, MAY 13, 1887.

NO. 16.

Churches.

DISCIPLE.

SERVICES every alternate Sunday evening, in the Lutheran church. Cottage prayer meeting every Friday evening.

J. A. THOMAS, PASTOR.

METHODIST PROTESTANT.

SERVICES every alternate Sunday at 10:30 A. M. Prayer meeting every Tuesday evening. Sunday School at 9:30 A. M.

J. M. LANGLEY, PASTOR.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN.

SERVICES every Sunday, one Sunday in the morning at 10:30, and the following Sunday in the evening. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Sunday School at 9:30 A. M.

S. P. FRYBERGER, PASTOR.

Societies.

G. A. R.

REGULAR meetings on Saturday evening on or before the full moon of each month, at their hall over Leighty's store.

O. H. WIDNEY, COMMANDER.

J. M. MILLIMAN, ADJUTANT.

Business Notices.

H. W. BOWMAN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Office opposite the Drugstore.

ST. JOE HOTEL, Wm. Leighty, proprietor. Special attention given to furnishing teams for commercial men.

B. S. SHEFFER, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to his care.

ST. JOE BARBER SHOP, one door west of hotel, Will Gee, proprietor. Satisfaction guaranteed. Your patronage is solicited.

FILLEY, LOUNSBERRY AND SHULER, proprietors of the St. Joe Saw and Planing Mill. All work promptly done. Cash paid for Oak Logs.

CITY BARBER SHOP, St. Joe, Ind, John Hull, proprietor. Shaving, Hair Cutting &c. done in the best of style. Come and see me. Two doors west of Kinsey's Furniture Store.

SIMON WINELAND, proprietor St. Joe Handle and Feed Mills. Feed grinding a specialty. Highest prices paid for second growth White Ash. Enquire at the mill for full particulars.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

At Wabash, Pat McCoy, a laborer in the trenches of the water company, was fatally injured by the discharge of a heavy blast of Hercules powder. The charge had failed to ignite, and McCoy was instructed to wet it and swab it out. Instead of obeying he began drilling it with an iron bar, and it suddenly let go. McCoy was almost blown out of the trench; his face, neck, and breast were horribly lacerated; his right arm was shattered, and the fingers of both hands were torn off. His breast and neck are literally filled with fragments of limestone. The physicians say he cannot live. McCoy is a married man and resides at Peru.

Patents have been issued for Indians as follows: James W. Cole, Greencastle, multiple subsidiary ground terminal for lightning rods; Joshua J. Collins, assignor to himself, J. S. Collins, and W. D. S. Rogers, Knox, clothes wringer; Andrew J. and G. W. Forsythe, Kokomo, wire-fence machine; Charles Gibson, Mount Vernon, fence; Samuel M. Jackson, Logansport, machine for bundling wall paper; Jesse B. and O. B. Johnson, Indianapolis, baling press; Jacob V. Rowlett, Richmond, roller skate; Francis M. Fribbey, New Albany, combined table and cot; Peter Wahl, North Vernon, razor.

Some five weeks ago W. W. Costancer was put off of a Vandalia freight train by the conductor because he did not have a ticket. Costancer claimed that he could not buy a ticket, because there was no person in the ticket office, and the conductor refused the money he offered as fare to Darlington. Suit was brought at Darlington, and judgment for $200 was obtained by default. It is understood that the railway company will appeal the case, while on the other side they declare that a locomotive will be chained to the track if necessary to secure the judgment.

Prof. E. T. Cox, formerly State Geologist, and now of New York, furnishes some interesting information relative to the geological formation of Indiana, and the probable sources of natural gas. He does not accept the porous-rock theory. As oil and gas are both found in Trenton rock, which is not porous, he holds that it must exist in large cavities or systems of fissures, furnishing a much greater capacity for storage than the pores of any rock could. It would follow from this, then, that to find gas in any large quantity one of these cavities must be tapped.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kissing, living a few miles from Elkhart, have begun proceedings against some of their neighbors, whom they charge with endeavoring to blow up their house with dynamite. Some one exploded a dynamite bomb so close to the Kissing house that the building was badly wrecked, the window-panes shattered, Mr. and Mrs. Kissing thrown from their bed, and a young daughter frightened so that she was attacked by convulsions.

B. Wilson Smith, of Tippecanoe County; John W. Study, of Rush; John R. Cravens, of Jefferson, and Daniel McDonald, of Marshall, have been appointed by the Governor as honorary Commissioners from Indiana at the Centennial celebration of the settlement of the Northwestern Territory at Marietta. O. W. W. Woollen, of Indianapolis, and R. M. Lockhart will serve as Commissioners to the exposition to be held at Columbus, O., next year.

Elmer Betts, of Portland, while returning from church one night recently, began firing at a scare-crow in a fence corner. Three shots were fired, the last striking Willie Sasser, a companion of Betts, and killing him. Young Betts surrendered to the Sheriff. Coroner Kinsey and Prosecutor Adair held an inquest. After examining witnesses the Coroner was satisfied the shooting was accidental, and rendered a verdict to that effect.

MECHANICAL.

In the automatic cut-off engine, the governor acts directly upon the cut-off valve, prolonging the period of admission when the work is heavy, and shortening it when the work is light. Engines so governed or regulated are called automatic engines.

A method of making embossed sheet tin and other like material, in imitation of finer grades of material, consists in uniformly applying a yielding lacquer to the sheet to produce the appearance of the metal imitated, and then embossing or impressing the same.

An improvement in steel forgings consists in casting an ingot whose transverse section is greater in one direction and less in another than that of the forging desired, so as to induce a lateral instead of a longitudinal flow of its metal under pressure, and converting said ingot or casting into a forging by reducing it to the desired form by the application of pressure between forming dies.

In steam engines governed by the throttling method, the governor acts upon a valve placed in the steam pipe, admitting more or less steam according to the speed at which the engine is running, more steam being admitted when the engine is heavier loaded, and consequently a slight falling off in speed, and less steam permitted to enter the cylinder when the load is light, and the speed consequently greater. Thus the governor valve acts as a throttle valve, throttling the steam more or less according to the requirements of steam pressure and load.

The bricks for a chimney-top, should be soaked in water a few minutes, so that they will not extract the water from the mortar. In order to have mortar become very hard, it must dry slowly. By laying up wet bricks, the mortar will set slowly, and eventually become almost as hard as the bricks. Every brick chimney should be covered with a copestone, with an arched top or with bricks placed over the flues, like the rafter of a building, for the purpose of turning off the water which would go down the inside, be absorbed by the bricks, and, in some instances, soak through and wet the paper or kalsomining on the inside.

The wonderfully well-colored articles of bronze, now seen in the market, and showing all tints, and adhering thoroughly to the metal, is a French process, but it is no longer a secret. The method of manufacture lies in the use of solutions of sulphides of antimony and arsenic which were applied to the bronze or brass articles. After thoroughly washing them with water, since every trace of acid left in pickling would show black spots, they are thoroughly dried, and then the sulphide solution is applied with a brush. The best way is to begin with a dilute solution of ammonia, giving one application. After drying, the coating is brushed, and then the dilute solution of sulphide of arsenic in ammonia is used, which produces a yellow color. The oftener this sulphide of arsenic is applied the browner will be the color, and a deep tint may thus be finally obtained. By solutions of sulphide of antimony, either in ammonia or in sulphide of ammonia, the tint is reddish, and it is possible in this way to obtain either the most delicate red or the deepest dark red. If some of the parts of the article are rubbed more strongly a high metallic luster is obtained. Ammonia or sulphide of ammonia reabsorbs the bronzing, and in this way defective spots may be improved. It is possible also to use solutions in caustic soda or potash, or the sulphides of either.

An advertiser in Texas calls for "an industrious man, as a boss hand over 5,000 head of sheep that can speak Spanish fluently."

VARITIES.

We live by faith and faith lives by exercise. As is said of some men, they are never well but at work; so here hinder faith from working and you are enemies to its very life and being.

HEADACHES, restlessness, irritability, and inattention, are the finger-posts which usually point to the commencement of the symptoms of overwork; their warning should be heeded in time to avert serious consequences.

PAIN itself is not without alleviations. It may be violent and frequent, but it is seldom both violent and long-continued, and its pauses and intermissions become positive pleasures. It has the power of shedding a satisfaction over intervals of ease which I believe few enjoyments exceed.

HATE keeps the heart always at full tension. It gives rise to oppression of brain and senses. It confuses the whole man. It robs the stomach of nervous power, and digestion being impaired, the failure of life begins at once. Those, therefore, who are born with this passion should give it up.

We must have a weak spot or two in a character before we can love it much. People who do not laugh or cry or take more of anything than is good for them, or use anything but dictionary words, are admirable subjects for biographers. But we don't care most for these fine pattern flowers that press best in the herbarium.

I HAVE been more and more convinced, the more I think of it, that in general pride is at the bottom of all great mistakes. All the other passions do occasional good; but whenever pride puts in its word, everything goes wrong; and what it might really be desirable to do quietly and innocently, it is mortally dangerous to do proudly.

EVERYTHING that happens to us leaves some trace behind; everything contributes imperceptibly to make us what we are. Yet it is often dangerous to make a strict account of it. For either we grow proud and negligent, or downcast and dispirited, and both are equally injurious in their consequences. The surest plan is just to do the nearest task that lies before us.

The Man-About-Town.

I fell to thinking of the rounders and men-about-town as I leaned over the edge of a box and saw them file past me in platoons. They go to pieces at a faster rate than any other set of men in the world. Many a head was gray that did not show a sign of age five years ago, and man after man passed by with a careless carriage and blasé face who had not passed 30, but who looked and acted the man of 40 years. Some of the men who were turning gray when I was a boy, and who are perhaps now 40 or 45 years of age, are round-shouldered, bent, and querulous, their faces white and their heads bald and gray. They were admirably dressed, their manners easy and agreeable, and every body knew them; but they were the oldest men in the world that night. The average man-about-town seems to go to pieces all at once. He is suave, well-dressed, agreeable, and apparently healthy for a few years, and then suddenly he goes all to pot. It never changes his manner or his habit. It holds him up as an appalling example to younger men, but I doubt if it ever does any good.—New York Correspondence Argonaut.

In guiding belts on or off, it is best to protect the hand with a piece of cloth held in the hand, but never wrapped around it or the wrist or arm. A stick is liable to be caught by the pulley or belt, drawn between the pulley and belt into other machinery, or thrown swiftly, striking you or some one else.

The St. Joe News.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

THE SONG OF THE HEADLIGHT.

BY RABBY JACKSON.

When the full moon lays a radiant haze
From earth to heaven's wall,
Or the tranquil stars mark the viewless bars
Whence the arrows of vision fall,
I send my glance where the quick drops dance.

With the pattering call of the rain
To their comrades asleep in the hidden deep
Of the subterranean main,
Or if storms are out and the free winds shout
With a full and a swell,
A steadfast glow of light I throw
On my gleaming parallels.

I guide the train over the level plain,
A swiftly nearing star,
And I bend and avert where the mountains curve.
My iron-bound path to bar;
Up their rocky steep the fleet flame leaps,
Of flash in their depths below,
Till the mazes that dress each dim recess
And the nodding ferns I show;
I spring to illumine the frowning gloom
Of precipices gray,
And waters smile from the deep defile
In my momentary day.

Where the wood benign, with beck and sign,
Invites all timid things
To its shelter, spread for the crouching head
And its covert for drooping wings,
I bear my light, till in vain I search
The doe with her trembling fawn
And the croaking creek that refuge seek
In the forest shade withdrawn.
Press closer yet to the copse dew-wet,
Or speed through the whispering grass,
To hide them away from the searching ray
I shoot through the dark as I pass.

As a meteor flies in star-streaked skies
By a myriad moveless spheres,
I hurry along where the lamp-lights throng
As the sleeping town appears;
Like the coming of fate, to those who wait
Till I bear their loved away,
I seem as I shine down the widening line,
Ere I pause for a moment's stay;
But he who feels those rolling wheels
Laid to rest, to his heart's desire,
Can half believe his eyes perceive
The prophet's chariot of fire.

Still on and on till the night is gone
I follow the vibrant rails,
Till the East is red, and overhead
The star of the morning pales;
As foes may fear the soldier's spear,
But comrades have no dread,
The lines of light I hurried at the night
Pierce not where sublimas spread,
So I cease my rays when the heaven ablaze
Proclaims the darkness fled.

A NIGHT WITH SPOOKS.

BY CECIL STERNE.

"I don't know how I'm to tell her, I'm sure," said Jenny Plumer to herself, as she stirred the plums bricky around in the preserving kettle, and skimmed off the scum as it slowly eddied to the surface. "I wish I'd spoken the truth when first I came to live with her. It would have been a deal easier then. But I knew how set she was against such things, and it might have lost me the place, and there was mother and the children to be considered. Oh, dear, how hard it is to do right in this world!"

And Jenny sighed as she stirred the plums yet once again, for they were the very choicest green-gages, and old Miss Gatchitt was very particular about the quality of her preserves.

At the same moment old Miss Gatchitt herself walked up to the door, looking like a damaged edition of somebody's fairy god-mother, with her red cloak, her poke bonnet, and her gold-headed cane. In her hand she carried a discolored leather bag, filled with papers.

"Well, Jane," said Miss Gatchitt, "how are the plums? They smell exceedingly nice. Be sure there's no mistake in covering 'em up. Take my cloak, Jane. I've been very busy this afternoon. I've bought a new house!"

Jenny Plumer only said, "Have you, indeed?" as she hung up the red cloak and went on with the plums; for Miss Gatchitt was very rich, and bought houses and lands as other ladies buy parcels and pocket handkerchiefs.

"A bargain," said Miss Gatchitt, "a stone cottage, with four acres of ornamental land, and a view of the sea at White Harbor. 'Grayledge' they call it."

Jenny stopped stirring her, and turned around with the spoon suspended in mid-air.

"White Harbor?" she cried. "Grayledge! Why, we used to live at White Harbor. And I've peeped through the fence palings at Grayledge many a time. But—did you know—did they tell you that it was—haunted?"

"Oh, yes, they told me all about it!" said Miss Gatchitt, sorting her papers over. "It was on that account that I got it at a bargain, ghost and all."

"No tenant ever stayed there very long," said Jenny. "Two or three people died there suddenly."

"Very likely," said Miss Gatchitt, jumping up and seizing the spoon from Jenny's hand. "None, you're spoiling the preserves. I never saw such carelessness in my life. People die everywhere, don't they?" she added, going abruptly back to the subject of Grayledge. "Your ghost is bad drainage, nothing more nor less. And to-morrow you and I are going down to Grayledge to see what repairs are needed. I'll have the house in the market again, thoroughly renovated and overhauled, before you can say Jack Robinson. You aren't afraid of the ghost, I hope?"

"N-no," said Jenny. "Of course I know it's all nonsense. It is a human head without any body. It looked in at the window after nightfall."

"Well, let it look," said Miss Gatchitt. "It will turn out to be nothing on earth but mist and malaria. I'll drain the land and fill up the fish-pond, and you'll see that the ghost is exorcised fast enough. You may pack the trunks, Jane, and tell old Betty that we shall be away for a month."

"Yes," said Jenny. And then she opened her lips as if to add something more, but lost courage and closed them again.

Jenny Plumer was a sort of seventh cousin of old Miss Gatchitt. The Plumers were a large family, without a penny to bless themselves with, and it was considered great promotion for Jenny when Miss Gatchitt wrote for her to come and be her companion, at a comfortable salary.

"I should have liked it, Jane," said the old lady, eyeing the new candidate critically through her spectacles, "if you had been a trifle older and not quite so good-looking, for I don't want any followers hanging about. No, and I won't have them," she added, stamping her foot. "A girl that comes to live with me has got to give up the notion of getting married. I'll have nothing in the shape of a man about my premises. And I want you to understand that distinctly."

This was the time that Jenny Plumer should have spoken out the fact that she was engaged to Reuben Joyce; this was the time that she unluckily kept silence.

"I was frightened at the way she spoke," Jenny afterwards told her mother. "And I thought of you and the girls, and how much you needed the wages she would pay me. But, oh, mother, Reuben never would have kept still in my place. Reuben would have spoken out his mind whatever happened."

However this might have been, Jenny and Miss Gatchitt went down to Grayledge the next day, with the secret yet unsyllabled. It was a grim, solemn old place, shut in by murmuring pines and draped with ivy. Green mold crept over the stone steps, festoons of cobwebs swung across the barred shutters. It looked exactly like the popular idea of a haunted house.

"Ghosts!" said Miss Gatchitt, elevating her nose as the front door with difficulty opened, and a gust of sepulchral air swept out. "I should think by the smell that there might be a whole churchyard full of 'em. Is this a house or a vault that I have bought? But I'll inaugurate quite a different state of things, see if I don't!"

All the doors and windows were flung wide open to let in the mellow autumn sunlight; great fires were built upon the widest hearths; ancient curtains were torn ruthlessly away, and damp-smelling furniture was moved out of cavernous recesses.

"Why, Jane, you seem to like the place," said Miss Gatchitt, as Jenny came dancing in with a basket of wild plums and a handful of blue asters which she had gathered in the weed-grown garden outside.

"Oh, I think it is beautiful!" cried Jenny, with a face all alight.

"One would think you had just met your oldest friend," said Miss Gatchitt.

Jenny colored scarlet.

"My oldest friend doesn't live hereabouts," said she.

"But you like it?" said Miss Gatchitt.

"Yes, I like it."

"Ghosts and all?"

"Yes; ghosts and all."

Miss Gatchitt chuckled at her own facetiousness, but Jenny looked strangely serious.

"Don't shut a shutter to-night," said Miss Gatchitt, when the twilight fell in soft, purple masses of shadow. "I don't want the churchyard atmosphere back again, and bring the lamp into the big room, where the fire burns the brightest. I'll look over the volume on 'Drainage' to-night. And you may go to bed early, Jane."

"I'm not tired, indeed," pleaded Jenny.

"Go to bed early, I say," said Miss Gatchitt. "If ever girl needed rest, you do."

"Mayn't I walk around the garden first?" said Jenny.

"No," said Miss Gatchitt.

And Jenny obeyed so reluctantly that Miss Gatchitt half believed that her young protégée was afraid of the Bodiless Head.

She was wrong there, however.

Jenny had not been asleep more than an hour or two when she was aroused by a voice at her bedside—Miss Gatchitt's voice.

"Jane—Jane!" cried the little old lady, in accents of mortal terror; "get up! I've seen it!"

"Seen what?" said the bewildered Jenny, sitting up and pushing the hair out of her eyes.

"The head—the head! Looking right in at the windows! Once at the side-lights, as I came across the hall where I had been to get a glass of water—the second time at the very window close to me."

"Are you sure it wasn't burglars?" cried Jenny, with clattering teeth.

"Burglars, indeed! Do you suppose I don't know a burglar when I see him?" screamed Miss Gatchitt. "No, no, child, it was the Bodiless Head, sure enough. Get up, at once, and dress yourself, and come downstairs and sit with me. I won't stay alone, and I won't go to bed in this house until there's a man here to protect both of us."

"But a man can't keep away ghosts, Miss Gatchitt," stammered Jenny Plumer.

"He can break up this horrible sensation of loneliness, though," retorted Miss Gatchitt, irritably. "What a girl you are for contradicting people, Jane! By the way, you say your people once lived hereabouts. Do you know of any trustworthy man that I could get to stay about the place—some one who is quite reliable?"

"Oh, yes!" breathlessly cried Jenny. "There's Reuben Joyce, down at the Mills!"

"I'll go and see him to-morrow," said Miss Gatchitt. "I'll pass no more nights such as this."

Reuben Joyce appeared quite willing to come and accept the post of general steward to Grayledge. And Miss Gatchitt went back contented.

"He seems a very nice young man," said she. "I don't like the idea of breaking through my lifelong rule, but I really think that Mr. Joyce is to be trusted."

"Oh, dear! oh, dear! Please don't!" cried Jenny, wringing her hands.

"Eh?" said Miss Gatchitt.

"You have been so kind to me!" sobbed Jenny. "And it would be so wicked of me to deceive you!"

"To deceive me!" repeated Miss Gatchitt.

"It wasn't the Bodiless Head at all," said Jenny; "it was Reuben."

"What?" shrieked the old lady.

"Trying to get a glimpse at me," faltered Jenny. "I know it wasn't right, but we had been separated so long, and we've been engaged for two years; and, indeed, he didn't dream of frightening you so terribly. Oh, please forgive us both, and I'll go away to-morrow."

Miss Gatchitt drew a deep sigh, and yet at the self-same moment she smiled.

"No," said she—"no; you needn't go away, Jane. I have got accustomed to you; and he seems to be a very nice young man. And since the head has got a body belonging to it, after all, I'd rather they should be inside the window than outside of it. Anything is better than a ghost."

"And—will you forgive me?" pleaded Jenny, in a voice tremulous with hope.

"Yes," said Miss Gatchitt, rubbing her nose—"yes, Jane. After all, I suppose human nature is stronger than any rule I can make."

And it is probably unnecessary to add that the Grayledge ghost never flattened its supernatural countenance against the windowpanes of the old house again.

Long Life and Heredity.

One inherits from his ancestors, near or remote, more or less modified by the blending of the male and female lines, not only complexion, features, form, size, intellect, disposition, etc., but the tendencies to particular ailments, and even the germs of positive disease.

Consumption can be traced along in some family lines for many generations, while in others it is almost unknown. So, too, asthma, gout, rheumatism, apoplexy, constantly reappear in some lines, while they are unknown in others. We should expect, therefore, beforehand that heredity would have much to do with the question of longevity, and it is a matter of common observation that it does.

Life insurance companies recognize the fact. Still it has not had the full scientific consideration that it should have, and doubtless will have in time. Meanwhile, it is desirable to accumulate facts.

Says the London Lancet, "It would be interesting to study more closely, in the case of centenarians and other aged people, the ages of their near relatives and immediate ancestors." Of Sir Moses Montefiore, who passed his hundredth year, it says, "One parent died at 79, one at 83, his grandfather at 87, his grandmother at 93, a brother at 75, another at 69, a sister at 84, another at 79, another at 82. These nine ages at death give an average longevity of 81 years. The first four—those of the parents and grandparents of Sir Moses give an average of eighty-five years."

A long-lived ancestry, however, does not insure longevity, for many in such a line fail of reaching advanced age. Indeed, vigor of constitution often leads to suicidal violations of physical law. It is therefore a matter of congratulation if one has inherited the long-lived tendency, but the rich gift should be well guarded, for physical vigor is apt to render one thoughtless of the little things that sap the foundations of the grandest constitutions.

Let him, also, who has inherited but a poor patrimony of health remember that, after all, there is nothing like taking good care of one-self. By obedience to the laws of health, he may reverse the hereditary tendency.—Youth's Companion.

AN unmix'd devil—w-lskey straight.

God's Acre.

The old Teutonic and Saxon term, "God's Acre," as applied to the last resting-place, has been the theme of one of Longfellow's most beautiful poems, and is eminently suggestive. The acre or field of God contains the seed hidden in the ground for a while, to ripen into a glorious harvest; and just as we write labels in the spring-time for the seeds we put into the earth, that we may remember what glorious flower is to spring from the little gray, hidden handful that seems so insignificant now, so we put a stone at the head of the grave of our dead. The name "Cemetery" also signifies merely the place where one may lie, slumbering for a while, till the dawn shall come and the trumpet sound.

They who lie there are at rest from head to foot; they have gained what so many have longed for, like Hawthorne when he yearned for a "good long sleep of a thousand years before the resurrection." Men go back to their projects, their successes, their failures, to their money-winning or losing, to their hopes, joys, and fears, their triumphs, and their disappointments. As those whose place knows them no more, so are these; and as the unchanging sea and rocks and everlasting hills speak of the myriads of mankind, who come and go while the earth abideth forever, so do the tempests which beat upon them foretell the storms and struggles, the buffetings and trials, wherein the strong shall triumph and the feeble go down; the bitter sorrows, the empty fantasies, the sore temptations, and the crushing doubts, which shall continue in this weary world long after we, and countless generations of such erring dreamers as we, have gone to rest like these sleepers in their graves.

It is a happy thought that places so many of our lovely cemeteries at easy distances from the centers of activity, and throws them open for the constant visits of the people. No less reverence for sacred things is caused thereby, but the popular views of life and death are insensibly elevated. The tendency of our insane activity is to shut the thought of death altogether from the mind. And this fanaticism for work reverts in a no less destructive fanaticism of meditation, which overlooks this world and lives in ecstatic dreams of a future heaven. A pure and wise philosophy unites time and eternity in one complete view of life, and shows us how our ordinary occupations are not the be-all and the end-all here, but are entangled with the highest spiritual relations which reach forward into the future and yet unseen world.

The sentiment is admirable which places the city of the dead within sight of all the agencies of our new civilization. Walking among its silent graves you can almost hear the hum of the machinery upon the banks of the adjacent stream. The meadows are sown and reaped beneath your eye. In the dim blue distance you may see the gleaming spires and roofs of the city of the living, while the nearer village street is vocal with the music of laughing children. The river flashes in the sunlight, and we see afar off the ocean with here and there the fitting sail. The thunder and the scream of the lightning train startle the echoes, and swift as thought fly tidings of humanity over the glittering wire. All is life around; yes, and there is no death here.

Could we explore the secrets of these green graves, we would discern the resistless laws of nature clamping that which lies within to grass-blade, and flower-cup, and gleaming foliage, life ever rising out of death, till at the last death shall be swallowed up in life. Let every community esteem most holy, and guard with watchful care, the sacred enclosure of its dead. So shall these spots of quiet beauty grow still more lovely as generations pass away, and their gentle and persuasive influence be like sweet fragrance visiting the haunts of business and retirement of home. These acres of God will blossom with a harvest of ennobling influences for the living, proclaiming the equality and dignity of all men, and reconciling the life that now is with the life that is to be.—Providence Journal.

"How do you like your new position?" inquired a traveling man of a friend. "O, first rate." "Your employer treats you well, does he?" "Yes, indeed. He has already given me a raise." "What, so soon? When was it?" "Last Sunday night, when I called on his daughter."—Mechanic's Trade.

DAKOTA CHARACTER.

Humor and Pathos of the Settler's Life on the Far-Off Western Frontier.

[Philadelphia Times.]

There are a great many humorous and pathetic incidents in all new countries. Even the gloomy Puritans had their fun. The mingled pomposity and bashfulness of Capt. Miles Standish were not entirely of Longfellow's creation. There were doubtless many sad mishaps about that landing from the Mayflower and possibly a few jokes. The pathetic and heroic features have never been disputed. Dakota is a new country, a pioneer country, however much her externals may seem to disprove the assertion. Her people won't admit it, though they feel it. The word "pathetic" applied to any of their experiences or any suggestion of a parallel between the hardships of the pioneers of the Eastern coast and their own may arouse their resentment. They are sensitive about being laughed at. They mistake a smile of appreciation for a sneer. It must be a broad, open-eyed exclamation of wonder, no paltry "Well done!" that satisfies their ozone-fed aspirations. Putting aside the mood of the observer, an observer insists that there is much that is very funny about Dakota and much that should move a less sympathetic mind to sincere pity—pity that would remove its source—Samaritan sympathy.

The most universal characteristic of Dakotans is their Dakotism. It approaches the ludicrous at times. If a procession of cyclones should go twisting across the whole extent of the Territory from Montana to the banks of the Red River of the North and to the worried current of the Sioux, I believe that the inhabitants, between the furrows of ruin, would rise up and assure any straggling prospectors in the vicinity that their locality was not in "the cyclone belt; the alkali water is positively healthy"—and it is for some; the changes from extreme heat to the coolness of evening would even produce a cold in the head; the air is too pure for that, whatever the doctors may say; the short, wiry grass of a prairie that never felt plow is better for stock than the best clover or herd grass. These are some of the preposterous assumptions of a people who, as pioneers, are the most favored and generally fortunate that the world ever knew. Many came "wanting the earth," and to those who are now coming they promise a world with a barbed wire fence on every section line. The offer is a joke and its dupe is liable to become either a misanthrope or a knave.

The monstrous has an immense mortgage on Dakota. Many of the larger adjectives have been sadly worn down by life here. "Great" is a mere shadow, and "big," short and stocky as he is, is getting thin. Hotels hitch their names on behind. To illustrate—"Hotel Turtle," which may be "on the beautiful Turtle River, nestled among its bluffs, that roll like the gigantic billows of the ocean." Grand, Palaces, Wonders, etc., are "as thick as gophers." Barbers are all tonsorial artists and their shops visions of Oriental luxury. Half the papers of Dakota have something to indicate the magnitude of their future circulation—in their titles. A city or county is too small for them. The truly great here is something that the inversion of Dakota's magnifying process cannot belittle—the stretches of arable land that time and toil will add to the productive area of the United States.

Curious Clocks.

When the Emperor Charles V. of Spain retired to the Monastery of St. Yuste he took with him Torriano, his clock-maker, in order to while away the time by constructing the movements of clocks. So wonderful were some of the pieces of work which they made that the monks would not believe any one except the devil had a hand in them, until the machinery was shown to them by the ex-Emperor. It was ordered by Charles that when he should die all of these clocks should cease running—and it is said to be a fact that his orders were obeyed.

Another king of Spain came to Geneva to see a clock which had been made by Droz, a merchant of that city. Upon the clock were seated a shepherd, a negro, and a dog. As the hour was struck, the shepherd played upon his flute, and the dog played gently at his feet. But, when the king reached forth to touch an apple that hung from a tree, under which the shepherd rested, the dog flew at him and barked so furiously that a live dog answered him, and the whole party left in haste. Venturing to return, one of the courtiers asked the negro, in Spanish, what time it was. There was no reply, but when the question was repeated in French an answer was given. This frightened the courtier, who rejoined his companions, and all of them voted that the clock was the work of the evil-one.

Upon the belfry of the Kanthaus, in Coblenz, there is the head of a giant—bearded and helmeted with brass. The giant's head is known as "the man in the custom house," and whenever a countryman meets a citizen of Coblenz away from that place, instead of saying "How are all our friends in Coblenz?" he asks "How is the man in the custom-house?" At every stroke of the bell which sounds the hours upon the clock the mouth of the giant opens and shuts with great force, as if it were trying to say, in the words of Longfellow, "Time was—Time is—Time is past."

[Popular Science Monthly.]

Substitutes for Hard Coal.

It is possible that the hard-coal barons and their allies, the railway kings, have injured their future prospects by advancing the price of the fuel now generally used in town residences far beyond the cost of mining and transporting it. The great abundance of anthracite coal in this country, the cheapness of mining it, and the low cost of transporting it made it for a long time the fashionable fuel for nearly all our urban populations. In fact, its use was extending into the rural districts very rapidly till the unholy alliance of mine-owners, railway companies and wholesale coal-dealers was formed. That it is possible to get along and to render life comfortable and pleasant without using anthracite coal is certain. It is desirable for the reasons that it is clean to handle, and that it burns without creating smoke. But inventive talent may be able to produce stoves, ranges, and furnaces in which bituminous coal can be burned without the production of smoke, soot, or tar. It may also provide means for compressing peat and straw so that they can be burned in ordinary stoves and grates. Had the country not been well supplied with hard coal a fuel equal or nearly equal to it would have been brought into use long ago. Its abundance and former cheapness stood in the way of finding a good substitute for it.

The country contains enough peat to supply it with fuel for centuries. It is found in almost every township in all the Western States and Territories. It can generally be obtained and put in a condition for burning at the cost of cutting and drying. In the form in which it is generally burned in Ireland it is quite bulky, and requires protection to keep it in good condition. It is, however, clean to handle, and the slight smoke thrown off by it in a stove or grate is not offensive, like the smoke of soft coal or green wood. It can be compressed in the form of sticks of stove-wood, so that it can be burned in an open fireplace or in lumps suitable for stoves made for burning hard or soft coal. During the civil war anthracite coal became so dear that several companies were formed in various parts of the country for pressing peat to be used in locomotive and stationary boiler furnaces, and in stoves and open fireplaces. The fall in the price of hard coal at the close of the war put an end to the operations of most of these companies, but they demonstrated that it was practicable to furnish a substitute for anthracite coal. Had the digging and pressing of peat been encouraged by the Department of Agriculture as the sorghum sugar and silk-raising humbugs have been, people might now sit by their pleasant peat fires and laugh at the operations of the coal barons.—Chicago Times.

Morning Recreation in St. Petersburg.

First Nihilist (with yawn)—What are you going to do with yourself to-day, good Petroff?

Second Nihilist (with yawn)—Alas, I know not. Time hangs heavy.

First Nihilist (another yawn)—Let's go over and take a shot at the Czar before lunch.

Second Nihilist (wearily)—So be it, but it's dull sport. I wonder that you take to it still.—Macon Telegraph.

The barbers trace their calling back to Solomon, who was the first hair-cutter.

A Great Engineering Work.

An engineering work that has taken over a century to construct can hardly fail to offer some points of interest and illustrate the march of events during the years of its progress. An instance of its kind is to be found in a tunnel not long since completed, but which was commenced over one hundred years ago. This tunnel, or adit, as it should be more strictly termed, is at Schemnitz, in Hungary. Its construction was agreed upon in 1778, the object being to carry off the water from the Schemnitz mines to the lowest part of the Gran Valley. The work is now complete, and, according to the Bauzeitung für Ungarn, it forms the longest tunnel in the world, being 10.27 miles long, or about one mile longer than St. Gotthard, and two and a half miles longer than Mont Cenis. The height is 9 feet 10 inches and the breadth 5 feet 3 inches. This tunnel, which has taken so long in making, has cost very nearly a million sterling, but the money appears to have been well spent—at least the present generation has no reason to grumble, for the saving from being able to do away with water-raising appliances amounts to $15,000 a year. There is one further point, however, worth noticing, for if we have the advantage of our great-grandfathers in the matter of mechanical appliances they certainly were better off in the price of labor. The original contract for the tunnel, made in 1782, was that it should be completed in thirty years, and should cost £7 per yard run. For eleven years the work was done at this price, but the French Revolution enhanced the cost of labor and materials to such an extent that for thirty years little progress was made, and then the work dropped for twenty years more until the water threatened to drown the mines out altogether. Finally the tunnel was completed in 1878, the remaining part costing $22 a yard, or more than three times as much as the original contract rate.—Engineering.

GEN'L SAMUEL L. GIVEN, Ex-Chief of Police, Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "Years ago I was permanently cured by St. Jacobs Oil. I have had no occasion to use it since. My family keep it on hand. Its healing qualities are wonderful." Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere.

AGE before beauty—A piece of spring chicken on a pretty girl's plate.

THE proprietor of the Plain Dealer, Fort Madison, Iowa, Mr. J. H. Duffus, writes: "Two years ago I was cured of rheumatism in my knee by St. Jacobs Oil; have had no return; two applications did the work."

Easily Satisfied.

Dogs naturally have a great deal of curiosity, but a dog who has happened to wonder once how a bite of porcupine would taste, seldom feels the same curiosity another time.—Journal of Education.

THE first asylum for idiots in this country was established in a wing of the Perkins Institution, Boston, in 1848. New York followed with a similar asylum in 1851. The first lunatic asylum in the country was established at Williamsburg, Va., in 1773; the second at Somerville, Mass., in 1818.

We heard, with a grin of joy, of the Working Woman, a woman's paper at Washington, D. C., last week. We are always glad to exchange with such papers; for full well we know that female labor is no disgrace.—Sunny Clime.

Over-Worked Women.

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school-teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and over-worked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. It is a powerful, general as well as uterine, tonic and nerve, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, debility and sleeplessness, in either sex. Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under our positive guarantee. See wrapper around bottle. Price $1.00 a bottle, or six bottles for $5.00.

A large treatise on Diseases of Women, profusely illustrated with colored plates and numerous woodcuts, sent for ten cents in stamps.

Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

ENGLAND, the land of the Angles, takes its name from one of the chief tribes of Low German invaders, and the term Anglo-Saxon as applied to the language represents the union of dialects of the Angles and Saxons.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of women's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect specific for women's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nerve, "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to women's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhoea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, female weakness, anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The Change of Life."

"Favorite Prescription" when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood, jaundice, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

For large, illustrated Treatise on Diseases of Women, (100 pages, paper-covered), send ten cents in stamps. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

HARTER'S
THE ONLY TRUE
IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS, and cure the HEATH and VIGOR OF YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. Suffering from complete prostration to their sex will find in DR. HARTE'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity. Do not experiment—get ORIGINAL AND BEST.

DR. HARTE'S LIVER PILLS
(Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)

THE DR. HARTE MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

HUSBAND WANTED

I am 25 years of age, height 5 feet 2, weigh 180 pounds, have a turn-up nose and am planning to marry a good, honest affectionate man. On our wedding day I will give my husband $1,000 in cash, and one year later, if we are still living together, I will make over to him the balance of my property which consists of $10,000 in government bonds and twice that amount in real-estate, etc. No mill-and-water man need answer, etc. Address, etc. Send the answer for illustration paper printing the above advertisement (overseas) and 250 similar advts from both sexes. Address Publisher CLIMAX, Chicago.

BEST ROOFING
Any one can apply it. Catalogue & samples Free.

ESTAB. 1866. W. H. FAY & CO. Camden, N. J.
ALSO ST. LOUIS, MINNEAPOLIS, OMAHA, NO. 10

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
One Year, in advance .....$0.75
Six Months ..... 50
Three Months ..... 25

Entered at the Post Office at St. Joe as second-class matter.

FRIDAY, MAY 13, 1887.

TOWNSHIP NOTICES.

Parties having sheep killed or damaged by dogs, will bring appraisers to swear to same.

J. E. Dermott, Trustee.

Sealed proposals will be received at the school house in St. Joe, on Saturday, May 21, 1887, at 4 o'clock, for the building of an addition to the St. Joe school house. Plans and specifications can be seen at my residence. I reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

J. E. Dermott, Trustee.

All scholars of the public schools of Concord Township, who wish to enter the reading contest at the Waterloo Fair this fall, are requested to meet at the school house in St. Joe, on Saturday, May 14, 1887, at 1 o'clock, at which time judges will be appointed, and two persons each, from the second and third reader grades, will be selected to read at the contest at the fair. Teachers who taught in the schools of the township during the winter are also requested to be present.

J. E. Dermott, Trustee.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

PLEASANT HILL.

Miss Jennie Widney was the guest of Miss Viola Widney, Sunday.

Laten Lake and wife were the guests of John Koch and family last Sunday.

John Tappin and wife and two ladies from Butler, were the guests of Jay Tappin, Sunday.

John Groff who is working for Byron Widney, has been very sick for three weeks with catarrh fever.

It makes most of men feel big to become grandpa, but we don't know how it was with Wm. Johnson, but naturally suppose it had the same effect on him.

The stock notices has't done much good in this neighborhood yet. It appears that the people who have the least land live up to the law, the best in that respect.

There was quite a congregation listened to the excellent sermon delivered by Rev. Langley last Sunday afternoon. We noticed a number of St. Joe citizens present.

PIGEON'S RETREAT.

The measles are still spreading. Ollie Pervines has them now.

Will Rudy will commence building John Gill's house this week.

Cora Dilley is staying with grand- ma Dilley, who has been sick for the past few days.

Ben says we are mistaken about going to Bryan to see Mary Martin. He says it is another girl, so we will have to give up beat, for of course Ben ought to know.

What district with the same number of inhabitants can ladle up a bigger dish full of bachelors than No. 11? We have six now but one of them will soon lead a fair bride to the altar, if reports are true.

COBURNTOWN.

Wheat is looking pretty fair over this way.

Mrs. Lydia Beaber, of Hometown, is visiting with friends here this week.

Coburntown against the world, at least that is what John Milliman thinks since he got to be daddy.

Wils Beaber got a pinch in the eye by being to friendly with his horse. He looks now as if he might have had an interest in the Baker ditch.

Barney Woodcox's cow was knocked off the track by a passing train, and made into mince meat in short order. That is the way we raise beef over this way.

Mrs. Philona Maxwell returned home last week from a visit to her son A. Benjamin of Smithfield township, where she had been nursing him through a spell of the measles.

Mort Milliman undertook to pull a post hole out of the ground, when it flew up and hit him on the head. he was knocked sensible for a little while, but has got all over that now.

There was quite a string of accidents in Coburntown last week. Charley Tustison got a whack across the nose from a limb which flew back and hit him on that organ. He says he prefers blowing his own nose in the future.

Walter Able's little boy came near being trampled to death and then plowed under, one day last week. It seems the boy was driving while his father had hold of the plow, and the colts, with which he was plowing, became frightened, wheeled around and run over the boy dragging the plow onto him before they could be stopped. The boy was some hurt but not seriously.

CONCORD.

Miss Sadie Hilderbrand visited at home last Sunday.

Miss Rilla Wade is now staying with Mrs. Grill of St. Joe.

Miss Hattie Langley, of St. Joe, and Mrs. F. Buchanan visited in Auburn last Tuesday.

Grandma Wyatt is in very feeble health this spring. She had a slight stroke of palsy one day last week.

Now that Belle has come home, Tuck is a regular attendant at singing school on Saturday evenings.

Mrs. James Gibford bears the palm in our midst for garden making. She has had her cabbage plants out for some time.

Wayne Scott went fishing last Saturday evening, and caught an eel 16-feet long, (so says Will) and not not knowing what it was, when he got home, he routed the neighbors out of bed to tell him what it was.

The friends and neighbors of Mrs. Manerva Baker went in last Thursday and assisted her in sewing carpet rags. She is so much afflicted with her eyes that she is not able to do much of any thing, and it was a kindly deed to help her.

We forgot to mention last week that C. A. Jenkins fell in the ditch on his way to church, and missed Sunday school entirely. He stopped at James Johnston's to get dry and managed to get to church in time to hear the reading of the text.

WANTED 50 CUSTOMERS

To Buy Our Carpet Samples.

We have a large line of Tapestry, Walton and Bely Brussels, Ingrain and Hemp Carpet Samples which we are closing out for Rugs. We carry a full line of E. P. Reel & Co's and Gokey & Son's Ladies' Misses' and Children's Fine Shoes. Secure a pair of those 75 cent Fine Slippers before they are all gone.

J. D. Leighty, St. Joe, Ind.

Ditch Notice.

In the matter of the petition of Frank P. Hart of Concord township, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of De Kalb County, State of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be on Tuesday, the 7th Day of June, 1887, the same being the second day of their June term, 1887.

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route, to-wit:

Beginning nineteen hundred and (1900) feet west and ten hundred and seventy-five (1075) feet north of the south-east corner of section sixteen (16) township thirty-three (33) north range fourteen (14) east, State of Indiana, De Kalb County and from thence as follows:

South 36 1/2 degrees, East 100 feet
South 89 degrees, East 100 feet
South 89 degrees, East 115 feet
South 52 degrees, East 585 feet
South 22 degrees, East 100 feet
South 11 degrees, East 100 feet
South 30 degrees, East 600 feet
South 11 degrees, East 100 feet
South 5 degrees, East 100 feet
South 18 degrees, West 100 feet
South 22 degrees, West 100 feet
South 13 degrees, West 180 feet
South 32 degrees, East 420 feet
South 47 degrees, East 100 feet
South 60 degrees, East 570 feet
South 16 degrees, East 30 feet
South 3 degrees, East 160 feet
South 63 degrees, East 840 feet
South 35 degrees, East 200 feet
South 50 degrees, East 400 feet
South 79 degrees, East 60 feet

Ending in the St. Joseph river on the east and west line between land owned by Christopher Curie and John W. Dills, situated in the north-west quarter of section twenty two (22) township thirty-three (33) north range fourteen (14) east, State of Indiana.

De Kalb county.

And also the following lateral ditch, commencing thirty five (35) rods south and twenty (20) rods east of the north-west corner of section twenty-one (21) township thirty-three (33) north range fourteen (14) east and from thence as follows:

South 60 degrees, East 280 feet
South 73 degrees, East
South 58 degrees, East
South 65 degrees, East
South 75 degrees, East
South 60 degrees, East
South 61 degrees, East
South 70 degrees, East
North 82 degrees, East
North 87 degrees, East
South 82 degrees, East
East
North 81 degrees, East
South 87 degrees, East
North 80 degrees, East
North 73 degrees, East
North 69 degrees, East
North 50 degrees, East
North 70 degrees, East

On curve
South 80 degrees, East
Ending in the main ditch, seventy-five (75) feet below stake twenty five (25) on land of John Y. Davis.

The proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Heirs of Isaac C. Culbertson,
Alexander and George Culbertson
Franklin P. Hart,
Robert Davis,
James W. Hart,
Jacob T. White,
Christopher Curie,
Abraham Depew,
John Y. Davis,
William L. Hollabaugh,
David Knisely,
Lydia Myers,
William H. Saylor,
John and Jacob D. Leighty,
Emilus Case,
Henry H. and Orange Fales,
Emanuel Chin,
Solomon Shearer,
Dennis D. Barley.

CYRUS C. WALLER,
Auditor De Kalb County

WOOL WANTED!

100,000 Pounds of Wool Wanted, for which we will pay the highest market value. Also all kinds of country produce wanted. Call and see us.

S. & F. BARNEY.

Miss S. A. Bartlett,

DEALER IN FINE

MILLINERY

HATS, BONNETS,

Flowers,

Ribbons,

Feathers,

ORNAMENTS &c.

I invite the attention of the ladies of St. Joe and vicinity to my new stock of Spring and Summer Millinery Goods, comprising the newest and latest styles and shapes. I am constantly receiving new goods, and therefore can please everybody. Give me your patronage. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see my line before making your purchases. Rooms over Dr. Bowman's office, St. Joe, Ind.

MISS S. A. BARTLETT.

STAR WIND PUMP. E. A. Wankmaker, agent, Newville, Ind. Farmers who think of buying a mill should give me a call before doing so. The Star Mill is the best and prices the lowest.

HOUSE PAINTING, Graining, Glazing Paper Hanging and Ceiling Decorating a specialty. All work guaranteed. B. A. Woodcox. Call and see me, or leave orders at the St. Joe Drugstore.

LOCALS.

Butler's gas well is down over 300 feet.

There are 666 school children in Auburn.

Now let everybody boom the old settler's meeting.

Wash and Ward Woodcox returned home from the west this week.

A band of gipsies have been encamped near this place this week.

Dr. Gerry Emanuel has returned from Dakota, and will resume the practice of medicine at Spencerville.

Trustee Dermott lost a valuable mare the other day. He was offered two hundred dollars for her only a few days previous.

Samuel Flint made us a pleasant call Monday. He subscribed for the News, and also sends a copy to his daughter at Minneapolis.

Some effort ought to be made to provide a cemetery at this place. It is a matter of necessity, and our citizens should at once give it their attention. Certainly we do not desire to always bury our dead away from home; but on the contrary, we would be glad to have the forms of our loved ones laid to rest near-by, where we could visit them often, and see that their graves are properly protected and cared for.

Willis Brown, of Auburn, was in town Monday.

The click of the corn planter is heard in the land.

Case & Olds have the finest line of summer dress goods in St. Joe.

We have a few gallons of good maple syrup for sale at a low price.

Mrs. Everett and Miss Merrill spent last Sunday with friends in Waterloo.

Barney Woodcox is doing some fine inside decorating for Josh Lounsberry.

The leading question now among the young ladies is "what are you going to wear to commencement?"

Case & Olds are selling lots of summer dress goods. The reason why is that they have a large line to select from.

Remember the old settlers, as well as the young settlers and everybody else, will meet at St. Joe on Thursday, June 16, 1887.

Mrs. Everett and Miss Merrill have moved, and now occupy the rooms over Tustison's grocery. They kindly solicit the patronage of any who are in need of sewing or dress making.

Joseph M. Barr died at this place last Sunday morning, at the residence of his Uncle Mart Bodoy. He was twenty-two years old and has had very poor health for a long time. His funeral occurred at Newville, on Monday afternoon.

The Central Conference of the Lutheran church will be held at Maysville, Ind., commencing on next Tuesday evening, May 17th, and continue until Friday evening. An interesting programme has been prepared, and a cordial invitation is extended for all to attend.

While at Hicksville last week we had a short talk with H. H. Ackley, who has just returned from the west. He seems to think that while a good many have done well and made money by going west, that a man with moderate means can do equally as well here. He has bought out a candy store, and will remain in Hicksville.

Stouffer, one of the burglars who tried to rob Sol Barney at Spencerville several years ago, and who with two others, was sentenced to a term of 10 years in the penitentiary, was released last week, and returned to his home near Bryan. For some extra work he had performed, he was given his liberty before his full term had expired.

The other day Dan Baker was sitting in the office at the depot, when an old gentleman stepped up to the window and asked him if the local was on time? Dan said he would find out, so he reached over and took hold of the ticket stamp, and acted as if he was telegraphing to find out. After a few seconds he turned and said "she's just 40 minutes late," and the old gentlemen went off happy, thinking that he knew all about it.

The Young People's Temperance Literary Society will hold their next meeting at the home of Miss Hattie Langley, on Monday evening, May 16th. The following programme has been arranged. Select Reading by Miss Mattie White; Declamation by Frank Hart; Quartette by Misses Nina Filley, Mattie White and Burt Hull and Frank Hart; Dialogue by Misses Hattie Langley, Nina Filley and Elsworth Sanders; Impersonation by Virginia Langley; Declamation by Miss A. C. Merrill; Select Reading by Miss Sake Wineland; Duett by Misses Virgie Langley and Nina Filley.

The Champion Binder takes the lead of all others, and don't you forget it. Call on Shutt & White for full particulars.

Try Primley's Remedies!

Blood and Liver Medicine for a Blood Purifier.
Speedy Cure for Coughs Colds and Lung Affections.
Iron Tonic Bitters for Kidney trouble and General Debility.
Glycerine and Arnica Salve for all purposes where a salve is needed.

For Sale at the St. Joe Drugstore.

ST. JOE MARKETS.

CORRECTED EVERY FRIDAY.

Wheat	82 cts.
Oats	29 cts.
Corn	40 cts.
Butter	10 cts.
Eggs	10 cts.
Tallow	34 cts.
Lard	10 cts.
Potatoes	60 cts.
Smoked Hams	10 cts.
Shoulders and Side Meat	8 cts.

REGARD OF THANKS.

I wish through your paper, and in this public manner to return my thanks to the kind friends and neighbors, who gave me their sympathy and assistance during my recent illness.
C. M. Coburn.

ARRANGEMENT.

A Gospel Temperance Meeting combined with a Memorial Service, in memory of our departed sister, Miss Lizzie Evans, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., will be held at the Lutheran church in St. Joe, on Sunday evening, May 15th, 1887.

At a meeting of the executive board last Saturday, the following committees were appointed to make arrangements for the old settler's meeting:

Committee on grounds: James H. Ables, John Widney, J. M. Lounsberry, Henry Hull and Geo. Bleck.
Committee on Music: J. W. Dills, M. T. Bishop, B. H. Hadsell, Mrs. Frank Barney, Mrs. M. E. Olds and Miss Ida Scholes.

Committee on Finance: W. C. Patterson, G. A. Bishop and Mort Millman.

Committee on Speaker: J. D. Leighty, S. S. Shutt and Dr. B. S. Sheffer.

Committee on Printing and Programme: Frank Barney, Chris Curie and August Kinsey.

These committees as well as everybody else, who are interested in the success of this meeting are requested to meet at St. Joe, on Monday, May 16, at 2 o'clock, to make further arrangements. Let there be a good turn-out.

Ernest Brown, clerk for Henry Coburn of Newville, was in town Wednesday.

Nothing for many a day has cast such a deep gloom over our village as did the death of Miss Lizzie Evans, which occurred last Tuesday at 12 o'clock. Although she has been in poor health for some time, and it was feared that she would not recover, yet when the solemn tones of the church bell announced that her spirit had departed, many a heart beat faster, and many a tear glistened in the eye, as they realized that a place had been made vacant that could never again be filled. Miss Evans has been closely identified with all the social and religious interests of this place; and especially has taken an active part in the development of our village. She was a graduate of music and seemed especially fitted and adapted for the work of teaching. She was ever ready and willing to lend her assistance to any and all of the musical interests of the town, and for the service she has rendered as a community we owe her a debt of gratitude that ought never to be forgotten. But alas! that voice that we have been so accustomed to hear is forever hushed; those hands that have always been prompt and willing to do an act of kindness are folded in the cold and silent embrace of death. She is gone, but not forgotten; her memory will long be cherished by the people of St. Joe. The funeral was one of the largest and saddest ever held in this place; it was held in the new Methodist church, of which she was a prominent member. Rev. Frank Hussey, her former pastor, and an intimate friend of the family, preached the discourse. The floral tributes were beautiful. Her friends at Garrett sent a cross made from white flowers, the Y. P. T. A. of this place presented a handsome wreath made from home flowers, and the W. C. T. U., of which she was an active member, sent to Fort Wayne for a pillow of moss roses, with the name "Lizzie" in the center, which was a very beautiful tribute indeed. Thus did our people do honor to one who was in every way worthy of it.

Drayman White now drives a span of mules.

Why not celebrate the Fourth of July at this place?

Uncle Joe Shutt was in town yesterday. He seems to like Spencerville better than St. Joe.

"THE SILENT PARTNER."

A Lesson to Men About Their Wives—
What a Good Wife Really Is.
Detroit Journal.

In many a firm, with only a single name or even with a double name, there is a silent partner. He lends his capital or his credit; he gives the council of long business experience, but he never appears to the public except in a modest notice of the copartnership or under the uninforming name of "company." These mercantile partnerships are not the only associations where there is a silent partner. They are frequently formed in youth and formed for life. A magnificent structure of fame, of renown, even of wealth, may be erected, and the success achieved be wholly attributed to the name on the sign which the world can read; to the active, bustling member of the firm who is always at the front of the establishment; who sells its wares, who comes in contact with the people; who is associated with every enterprise and applauded for every great stroke that it makes. But back of it all stands the silent partner.

In the splendid life work accomplished by Beecher, he is now in the literal sense of the words the silent partner. But up to his death the brave, quiet, steadfast woman on whom all eyes are now turned, was for fifty years the silent partner of the concern. How much of its success was due to her, it is impossible to compute. From what blunders and errors her good sense and less impulsive nature may have saved him can only be guessed by counting those which, in spite of her restraint, his impulsive nature succeeded in perpetrating. But more than that probably he owes a large measure of his achievement to her thousand thoughtful attentions and cares; his health to her skillful feeding of him; his leisure for work to her making herself disliked and censured, by standing between him and the public, who are always flocking about a famous man and eating away his time; to her strong, sensible temper, which more than once strengthened his own judgment and protected his masculine vanity from the fumes of flattery, which ascends as an acceptable offering to the hero and denigrates which many delight in making of distinguished and popular men.

They often have a hard time of it—these silent partners, trying to keep up with their dashing companions. They are the servicable vehicle that has to follow the spiritual animal wherever it goes, bounding over the rough places in life, jumping out of the beaten paths, shying and running and galloping away with many a snort of impatience, perhaps, at the lumbering, hampering attachment from which it cannot get free. But it is the proud steeds' salvation, notwithstanding. It keeps them straight, it makes them useful.

These silent partners are in these modern times becoming more and better known. They are the "mascots" of many a great man, are so recognized. Mrs. Disraeli, Mrs. Gladstone, Mrs. Carlyle, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Garfield, Mrs. Logan, and Mrs. Hendricks are only a few of this gracious and beneficent sisterhood to whom the world owes more than can be reckoned, for what it is accustomed to credit to the active, ostentatious and prominent personages of those happy partnerships.

Private life as well as public life abounds with them. In many a home there goes forth to the counting-house, the lawyer's office, the pulpit, the judge's court, the hundreds of occupations, an influence of not only love and devotion, but of affection seasoned and toned by the strong, wholesome common sense, the worldly shrewdness, the foresight and insight, the corrective judgment and the deserved admonition of "the silent partner."

Noses as a Science.

The nose, we all know, forms a prominent feature in everybody's career, but it has been left to M. Sophus Schack, a Danish disciple of Lavater, to find out that it is an infallible index to human character. He tells us in a book just published that his discovery is the result of a long and patient study of this facial organ among peoples of all nations. According to his experience the moral and physical nature of a person can be gathered from the formation of his nose. A well-developed nose, he says, denotes strength and courage; a little, turn-up nose indicates cunning and artfulness; a delicate, straight nose, taste and refinement; a curved nose, judgment and egotism; and a thick, misshapen nose, dullness and want of tact. But this is not all. "The nose," proceeds our physiognomist, "discloses to the intelligent observer the faculties possessed by the owner. It also indicates the intensity of his intellectual activity and the delicacy of his moral sentiment. Finally, the nose, which belongs both to the mobile and immobile parts of our visages, reflects faithfully the fugitive movements of our inclinations." If all this be true it is evident that people who desire to disguise their character or dissemble their passions must in future beware of their noses, or rather, they must wear false ones.—Full Mall Gazette.

Jealousy.

The old adage that "jealousy is as cruel as the grave," is, to my way of thinking, wrongly put, for were the grave one half as cruel as this taunting fiend, no one would desire, with the longing which at some time or other in life comes to poor jaded humanity, to fly to its sheltering arms for rest.

Were I asked to diagnose this passion, it would be as the chill of despair, the sting of envy, the fire of lunacy, and claim for it precedence in the celebrated box presented by Jupiter to Pandora, but with hope left out. I would call it a monster greater than the python of old, for where is the hand that can stay its ravages when once its hydra head is lifted? Step by step it makes progress to the verge of the madhouse where lie so many wrecked barques which started on life's journey with such fair freight of hopes and promises; withering the freshness of the heart and narrowing the judgment, it makes a pandemonium of home and happiness; like the swallow, goes and comes then finally takes a farewell flight.

Not the least contemptible phase of this many-sided evil—and often displayed when least expected—is that which makes one envious of another's personal influence or position. If the hitherto dearest friend of such a person is unfortunate enough to arouse this antagonistic feeling, he or she will not hesitate to resort to the meanest subtleties and innuendoes; especially is this the case where the offending party has the least claim to good looks or fascinating manners. At once they become the target for invidious remarks, and branded by their suspicious natures as designing; everything to them is tinged with a lurid light. With such persons friendship counts for nothing, for the slime of the serpent is trailed over all the hitherto pleasant relations. Envy and doubt are allowed to creep in and blind the eyes to true merit and motives. Sacred confidences are laid bare and put to such base uses as would cause friendship to veil her face in shame and make the very name a by word.

No one who studies the vagaries of this passion and notes its influence on various temperaments, but has abundant food for moralizing over the strange and often ridiculous amusements—like wine it seems to bring out the idiosyncracies of character and runs the entire gamut of feeling. Caused after all by that "spasm of the heart" so graphically described in Chesbro's Victoria.

I have seen persons under the influence of this emotion do the most unnatural things; love, fatal consequences, pride, the one thing only that holds many a strong nature in check, are swept away by its mighty power.

I am aware of the wrecked reputations blasted, and tragedies enacted through this insane passion that fills our lunatic asylums and prison cells with its victims. I doubt if Heaven's shining messengers stood with flaming sword at the portals of this monster's keep they would have power to stay its course, for with the strength of the attachment comes the intensity of the fever that consumes.

I believe that jealousy is one of the component parts of all human nature. A latent germ, perhaps, in many who are unconscious that the least taint lurks within their veins until some circumstance forces it to the surface, and they are suddenly awakened to the fact that there is a slumbering volcano in their breasts, ready to throw out the deadly lava which withers everything it touches.—Mary V. Stiles, in St. Louis Magazine.

A POULTRY authority says "hens will lay a certain number of eggs in a year." Our experience is that they will lay an uncertain number.

The Sense of Humor.

There is somewhere in George Eliot a remark to the effect that a dissimilar taste in jokes is a great strain upon affection, and innumerable families might serve as melancholy instances of the truth of the observation. Many a marriage has come to an unhappy ending from the lack of a sense of humor to serve as a lubricating oil to the wheels of daily life. There was a profound practical wisdom in the advice given by a shrewd and worldly-wise old woman to her granddaughter on the latter's wedding day: "Feed your husband well and learn how to amuse him;" and it is safe to say that if the bride succeeded in filling these two injunctions her married life moved on with smoothness and happiness. Somebody has described humor as the sixth sense, and certainly the unfortunate mortal who lacks this is deprived of as large a part of the pleasure of life as a man who has lost one of the five which are reckoned the rightful inheritance of all humanity. It is true that a majority of mankind are more or less lacking in this respect, and that a genuine and delicate appreciation of humor is rarer even than a musical ear; yet it is fortunately true that in most of us exist the rudiments which may be cultivated into a very respectable capability of enjoying the ludicrous. Only one man in a thousand can compass a philosophical superiority which shall enable him to regard the accidents of life with undisturbed equanimity; but if one can cultivate the habit of discovering in all things a subject for laughter or for smiles, there are few lots which may not be very comfortably endured. Upon him who persistently smiles at fate, she is very apt to bestow the opportunity of smiling with her. The sense of humor, moreover, serves as a common meeting-ground for natures which without it must forever remain separate. It is the password to a secret brotherhood in which the good-fellowship is perfect. Those who possess it are never strangers after occasion has brought a recognition of this powerful bond of sympathy. No matter how diverse the tastes, the circumstances, the ambitions, the sixth sense makes of one race all who are endowed with it, and the fact that the exquisite delight they enjoy must forever remain a mystery to ordinary mortals increases the strength of the bond that unites them. A comforter in sorrow and misfortune, a lightener of life's burdens, a quality that heightens joy and lightens misery, there are few human qualities so well worth cultivation as a sense of humor; and there is no other which does so much to render its possessor pleasant to live with or so much aids him to avoid the sharp corners and ungracious characteristics of his fellow-mortals who go through life endowed with but five senses.—Boston Courier.

Needles, Pins and Fish Hooks.

According to the most recent estimate says the American Analyst, the present production of needles in Redditch, England, is not less than fifty million per week, and, as may be inferred from the enormous aggregate, machinery has been brought to bear upon the trade in a most extensive degree, and with marked success. The pointing of needles, one of the most delicate of all the operations, is now almost exclusively done by machinery, and so is the cutting, skimming, stamping, eyeing, tempering, counting, heading and tailing, bluing, blurring, finishing, assorting, and sticking. New and improved machines for all these processes have been successfully introduced during the last twenty years or so, and, unlike the experience in other trades, the machine work about needles is not only cheaper but better. The latest novelty, and one pronounced success, is the "grooving machine" machines for making sewing-machine needles, the old stamping process being thereby superseded. Work done by "grooving" machine is better and truer, besides being more economical. The old process of ether-gilding has been been almost entirely superseded by the newer and improved method of electro-gilding. Redditch is becoming a rival of Birmingham in the manufacture of pins, the ordinary common household pin being supplemented by shawl and scarf pins with glass and steel heads. About two tons weight of pins of all sorts are made at Redditch weekly. According to the latest phase which ingenious enterprise has taken in this trade, the production ought to increase by "leaps and bounds," for an attempt is being made to so reconstruct the machines that they may produce two pins at a time instead of one. Redditch produces every week an average of 20,000,000 fish-hooks of all descriptions from that required by the angler of minnows in the streamlet to that adapted for pike and salmon fishermen. Machinery is very largely used in the manufacture of fish-hooks, and, in connection with the smaller class of sea-hooks, electrotyping is being extensively adopted. Fishing-rods, floats, and swivels, constitute important branches of Redditch industry, and a considerable trade is growing up in the production of artificial flies, which are exclusively hand-made.

A Left-hand Fur Glove.

In a quiet village on the Connecticut River, in Massachusetts, where the good people have been in the habit of sending a "missionary box" to the West every year for half a century or more, this very remarkable incident occurred: The usual notice was given from the pulpit requesting the families to send their contributions of clothing, etc., to a family named, to be appraised and arranged for shipment to a clergyman's family in the West. The received, and among them was a very fine fur glove for the left hand, the right-handed glove having been lost. The lady donating the glove accompanied it with a note explaining why she sent it, and asked the ladies in charge of the "box" to exercise their judgment as to the propriety of putting it with the rest. The matter was discussed by the ladies who packed the box, and they finally decided to send the odd glove, attaching the donor's note to it.

At due time the clergyman sent his letter of acknowledgment, stating that the articles were very nice and acceptable, just what they needed, and they were made happy and warm by the generous gifts of their Eastern friends, adding: "I want to thank you especially for the left-hand fur glove. During the late war I lost my right hand, and this glove is my great comfort, as I drive over the prairies when the thermometer ranges far below zero. Please thank the donor for her opportunity gift." I know these are facts. No one knew anything in particular about this minister, not that he had been a soldier even. It is a remarkable coincidence, and may interest those who notice providences. "Those who notice providences" will have providences to notice." So says Matthew Henry.—Evangelist.

The Lady-Killer of To-Day.

The old type of society man, says a New York correspondent, was giddy, talkative, and more or less effeminate. He was a lady-killer, masher, and a swell, danced as often as the opportunity offered, and affected a spirited manner and great animation in telling small talk and gossip. He was not a being who commanded admiration from men of sense and importance; but he pleased the ladies, and that was considered quite enough. He has broadened wonderfully now. He is dignified in manner, quiet, monstrously exclusive, and he affects a single club where he knows outsiders cannot intrude upon him. He drives heavy horses to ponderous English carts, seldom attends the theater, and does the opera only on important nights. As a rule he does not dance unless the occasion is one of great importance. His hair is clipped short, parted carelessly, and there is about his whole attire and manner an air of ease and negligence, which is so finely assumed that it seems thoroughly natural. From the artful and animated creature of a few years ago the society man has grown into the most simple and unostentatious of New Yorkers. To men whom he believes to be below him in the social scale he is an absolute snob, in the sense that he will have absolutely nothing to do with them, and refuses to recognize them under any circumstances. To those in his own set he is thoroughly natural, unaffected, and entertaining. There are few such men in town—perhaps not over 200 at the outside—but they are invited everywhere, and the more important of them have it in their power to make or mar the success of any entertainment to which they are invited, or make the reputation of a beautiful woman by a single word.—San Francisco Argonaut.

An Irishman says he can see no earthly reason why women should not be allowed to become medical men.

Seemingly Eradicated
With repeated and powerful doses of quinine, chills and fever, in some one of its various forms, springs into active existence again, often without the slightest apparent provocation. To extinguish the smoldering embers of this obstinate and recalcitrant malady, no less than to subdue it when it rages fiercely in the system, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is all sufficient. When every resource of the pharmacopoeia has been exhausted against it in vain, the Bitters conquer it; will remove every lingering vestige of it. Nay, more, the Bitters will protect those brought within the influence of the atmospheric poison that begets malarial disease, from its attacks. Disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are among the complaints to be apprehended from the use of miasma-tainted water. These are both cured and prevented by the Bitters. Rheumatism, constipation and renal complaints yield to its action.

Literature at the Hub.
Boston is credited with buying more of the popular monthly magazines than any other city in the country, and numerous foreign publications also are purchased, the demand for the class of literature growing constantly with regular subscribers. The counters of the leading news stands have at least 100 different periodicals on sale. This collection of literature embraces a wide range, all the arts, sciences, theologies, educations, etc., being covered by the list. Prominent among others, publications devoted to speculative philosophy, theosophy, etc., find a ready sale. The purely literary magazine or paper is, of course, always most in demand. The prominent literary lights usually invest in the North American Review, the Nation, Atlantic Monthly and the British reviews. The last new addition to the list of popular monthlies is Scribner's, which starts off well. The New York Life comes nearest to Punch of any light reading paper. Still, only one periodical of note, the Atlantic Monthly, is published at the Hub, which claims to be the head-center of advanced thought and all that sort of thing.—San Francisco Call.

From Boston.
One of the most eminent physicians in Boston gives his opinion that the extent of the Moxie Nerve Food plant, now so rapidly substituting stimulants and recovering the nervous system, will probably become one of the great trade staples of the country, because its place cannot be filled. Most of the dealers so consider it now, and even the grocers deliver it to their customers as they do eatables. When we consider it has been on the market but fourteen months, and that it can now be found in almost any part of the country, and that the company are selling it at the rate of 7,200,000 bottles per year, it must have a most marvelous power over the people.

The Only Uncaptured Capital.
Albany is the only capital of the original thirteen States which was not captured during the revolutionary war. It stood like a Gibraltar of the colonial cause, when Boston, New York and Philadelphia had fallen. Enemies endeavored to capture it from the north, but melted away by the time they reached Saratoga. Time and time again did the English troops attempt to force their way up the Hudson, with ill success. During the war of 1812 the attempt was again made to capture Albany from the north. But though the capital of the nation was pillaged Albany remained in security. Even in the dark days of the seventeenth century the French and Indians did not come closer than Schenectady.—Albany Express.

When all so-called remedies fail, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures.

The chestnut bell is proving a great annoyance in the public schools. A chestnut switch might be a good preventive.

MENSMAN'S Peptonized Beef Tonic, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritive properties. It contains blood-making, force-generating and life-sustaining properties; invaluable for indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous prostration and all forms of general debility; also, in all enfeebled conditions, whether the work of exhaustion, nervous prostration, overwork or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. Hazard, Hazard & Co., proprietors, New York. Sold by druggists.

SEVERAL deaf persons in a Massachusetts rural community are circulating a petition praying the Legislature to give them a hearing.

AMONG the people of to-day there are few, indeed, who have not heard of the merits of Prickly Ash Bark and Berries as a household remedy. Teas and drinks have been made of them for centuries, and in hundreds of families have formed the sole reliance in rheumatism and kidney diseases. Prickly Ash Bitters now takes the place of the old system and is more beneficial in all troubles of this nature.

HEAVEN help the duke in an emergency. He lacks presence of mind.

EVERY wide awake town of 500 inhabitants or more should have its local newspaper. Full particulars regarding the cost of an outfit, and how to run it and make money, can be had by addressing Practical Printer, box 421, Fort Wayne, Ind.

DR. PIERCE'S "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" cleanse and purify the blood and relieve the digestive organs.

QUEEN ELIZABETH style is expected to come in again about 1888. This is indeed ruff.

America's Pride.
True American men and women, by reason of their strong constitutions, beautiful forms, rich complexions, and characteristic energy, are envied by all nations. It is the general use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic which brings about these results.

If afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it 25c.

RELIEF is immediate, and a cure sure. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. 50 cents.

Biliousness

Is more general at this season than any other. The bitter taste, offensive breath, coated tongue, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness, and loss of appetite make the victim miserable and disagreeable to others. Hood's Sarsaparilla combines the best anti-bilious remedies of the vegetable kingdom, in such proportion as to derive their best medicinal effects without the least disturbance to the whole system. This preparation is so well balanced in its effects that it brings about a healthy action of the entire human organism, restores the appetite, and overcomes that tired feeling.

Dyspepsia and Malaria

"I had been sick for several years, being troubled chiefly with dyspepsia and malaria. I had medical attendance, but only grew worse, until one day in February my wife brought me a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which seems to have entirely cured me, as I have not been troubled by any ailment since taking it." JOHN BASKIN, Chillicothe, Ohio.

"I have taken not quite a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and must say it is one of the best medicines for giving an appetite and regulating the digestive organs that I ever heard of. It did me a great deal of good." MISS N. A. STANLEY, Canastota, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists, $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES, SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES. It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS
CURES ALL DISEASES OF THE LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH AND BOWELS.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS
PRICE 1 DOLLAR
DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICK HEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c disappear at once under its beneficial influence.
It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbid its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.
PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO.
Sole Proprietors, ST. LOUIS AND KANSAS CITY

WARREN'S FEATHERS Dress Stay!

The only Dress Stay in the world. Absolutely unbreakable. Price 15 cents per yard. For sale everywhere. Also, just prepared for the market, new, elegant Satin-covered Featherbone, ready for attaching to the finest dresses. Price 25 cents per yard. Colors: Black, White, Cardinal, Blue, and Pink. If your dealer has not yet secured it, any amount desired will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price. Address WARREN'S FEATHERBONE COMPANY, Three Oaks, Michigan.

EST'D 1862
We have your "Tansill's Punch" cigar to be the best in America for the money. W. B. SEXTON & Co., Jamaica, N. Y.
"Tansill's Punch" is the best cigar in the market. C. M. TOWNSEND, Wallingford, Vt.
Address
P. W. TANSILL & CO.,
Chicago.

PENSIONS, Officer's pay, bounty procured, deserters relieved, or no fee. Write for circulars and new laws. L. W. McORRICK & SON, Washington, D. C., & Cincinnati, O.
$350 Will buy a complete Newspaper Outfit, suitable for publishing a weekly paper in town of 1000 or over, in habitants. Address FORT WAYNE NEWS-PAPER UNION, Fort Wayne, Ind.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES Sure relief for ASTHMA, Hay fever, Croup, Stomach and Bowel troubles. Sold by mail, Stowell & Co., Boston, Mass.

PATENTS R. S. & A. P. LACKY, Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C. Instructions and opinions as to patentability FREE. 57-17 years' experience.

$225 A Month and a Gold Watch free to every Agent selling Biddle's Furniture Polish, Finest in the world. Free money. Send for sample bottle and terms. C. L. Biddle & Co., New York, Mich.

$10 Buy New Silver-plated Singer Sewing Machine, warranted years. Particulars, address C. G. A. M. M., Chicago, Ill.

ADV AGENTS—Article new sells fast. No money to invest. Address: R. P. LICKER, Steubenville, O.

35 MEDALS AWARDED TO
BENSON'S
Cures Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Backache, Weakness, Colds in the Chest and all Aches and Pains.
CALCINE PLASTER
Beware of imitations under similar sounding names. Ask for BENSON'S AND TAKE NO OTHER.
THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

CREAMERY

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

The entire outfit of the TUSCOLA (Ethiopia) CREAMERY, consisting of: Boiler, Engine, and all the apparatus for the manufacture of butter and cheese, will be sold very cheap, either with or without the Engine and Boiler. This machinery is entirely new, having been used only a few weeks. For particulars address HENRY T. CARAWAY, President First Nat'l Bank, Tuscola, Ill., or D. R. PATTERSON, Pur. Agent C. & E. I. R. R., 125 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISERS or others who wish to examine this paper, or obtain estimates on advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St. the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RY

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest—is the only true middle-link in that transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Danville, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Galatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul in Minnesota; Watertown in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experienced proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodations is unequalled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

ALL EXPRESS TRAINS between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of comfortable DAY COACHES, magnificent PULLMAN PALACE PARLOR and SLEEPING CARS, elegant DINING CARS providing excellent meals, and—between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—restful RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains run daily to the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The rich wheat fields and grazing lands of Interior Dakota are reached via Watertown. A short desirable route, via Seneca and Kankakee, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points.

All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employees of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly attention.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders—obtainable at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada—organ desired information, address,

R. R. CABLE, Pres't & Gen'l M'gr, Chicago. E. ST. JOHN, Asst Gen'l M'gr, Chicago. E. A. HOLBROOK, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt., Chicago.

TOWER'S
FISH BRAND
SLICKER
The Best Waterproof Coat.
The FISH BRAND SLICKER is warranted waterproof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. The new PONSIL SLICKER is a perfect fitting coat, and covers the entire saddle. Beware of imitations. Name remains without the "Fish Brand" trademark. Illustrated Catalogue free. Address: Boston, Mass.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS
The Original and Only Genuine.
Safe and always reliable. Beware of worthless imitations. Ladies, ask your Druggist for Chichester's English Pills and take no other. Or write to us for particulars, in letter by return mail. $2.50 PER BOX.
CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO.,
2518 Madison Square, Philadelphia, Pa.
Sold by Druggists everywhere. Ask for "Chichester's English" Pennyroyal Pills. Take no other.

OAKLAWN

The Great Nursery of

PERCHERON HORSES.

200 Imported Brood Mares of Choicest Families.

LARGE NUMBERS, All Ages, both sexes, IN STOCK.

300 to 400 IMPORTED ANNUALLY from France, all recorded with extended pedigrees in the Percheron Stud Books. The Percheron is the only draft breed of France possessing a stud book that has the support and endorsement of the French Government. Send for 120-page Catalogue, illustrations by Rosa Boschar.

M. W. DUNHAM, Wayne, DuPage Co., Illinois.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Sold by druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

$5 to $4 a day. Samples worth $1.50. FREE. (Lines not under the horse's feet. Address: New York - Safety Remedy, Bells, Mich.)

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RY

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest—is the only true middle-link in that transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Danville, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Galatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul in Minnesota; Watertown in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experienced proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodations is unequalled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

ALL EXPRESS TRAINS between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of comfortable DAY COACHES, magnificent PULLMAN PALACE PARLOR and SLEEPING CARS, elegant DINING CARS providing excellent meals, and—between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—restful RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains run daily to the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The rich wheat fields and grazing lands of Interior Dakota are reached via Watertown. A short desirable route, via Seneca and Kankakee, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points.

All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employees of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly attention.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders—obtainable at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada—organ desired information, address,

R. R. CABLE, Pres't & Gen'l M'gr, Chicago. E. ST. JOHN, Asst Gen'l M'gr, Chicago. E. A. HOLBROOK, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt., Chicago.

TOWER'S
FISH BRAND
SLICKER
The Best Waterproof Coat.
The FISH BRAND SLICKER is warranted waterproof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. The new PONSIL SLICKER is a perfect fitting coat, and covers the entire saddle. Beware of imitations. Name remains without the "Fish Brand" trademark. Illustrated Catalogue free. Address: Boston, Mass.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS
The Original and Only Genuine.
Safe and always reliable. Beware of worthless imitations. Ladies, ask your Druggist for Chichester's English Pills and take no other. Or write to us for particulars, in letter by return mail. $2.50 PER BOX.
CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO.,
2518 Madison Square, Philadelphia, Pa.
Sold by Druggists everywhere. Ask for "Chichester's English" Pennyroyal Pills. Take no other.

RUPTURE If you want relief and cure at your home, send for Dr. J. A. Sherman's circular of instructions. 254 Broadway, New York.

PENSIONS COLLECTED and increased by Dr. J. A. Sherman's circular of instructions. Send for copy of laws, free.

N. O. F. W. No. 20-87

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

Russian Tea-Gardens.

The Oriental domes and mosque-like pinnacles of Odessa suggest Constantinople or Bagdad, and the filthy beggars who lounge within the court-yards of the sacred edifices make the illusion disgustingly real. It is in this great wheat-market city, called "the Chicago of Russia," that the stranger gets his first glimpse of Eastern life. The stately public buildings, the lazarelike shop-windows, the abject appearance of the beggars, the ferocity of the fleas, and the infinite number of dogs are more real than the "Arabian Nights" to an imaginative mind. The summer nights are cool, but during the day the sun floods the earth with its scorching rays. The evenings are usually spent at the tea-gardens, which are a feature of all Russian towns. They are like the large beer-gardens of Germany, only tea is drunk instead of beer. It is called "chai" (pronounced "chi"), and served in Bohemian cut-glass "tumblers," with lumps of loaf-sugar and slices of lemon. Chai is the universal drink, and the samovar in which it is made is a symbol of Russian hospitality. This curious teapot is a brass or copper vessel, shaped not unlike an urn. The ordinary household samovar is from one to two feet high, and ten inches in diameter, polished in the highest style of art. It is so ingeniously constructed that, with a hot charcoal fire burning in its little furnace, it may stand on a table for hours without scorching the cloth. Some of the very expensive samovars are as large as a barrel and as high as a man's head, but all are made on the same principle; that is, a straight pipe or flue runs perpendicularly through the center of the vessel, which is filled with water. The flue projects at the top of the samovar like a little round chimney. When the charcoal is well kindled and the water boils a few spoonfuls of black tea are put in a small china teapot, which is filled with hot water drawn from the faucet of the samovar. Then the teapot is set over the chimney, in which a series of holes just below its mouth prevents stoppage of the draught. When the tea is thoroughly "steeped" and the liquid very dark, a little is poured into the guest's glass, which is then filled with boiling water from the samovar. There is a saying in Russia that hospitality never ceases while there is water in the samovar. The water in the teapot is never allowed to boil, and only the best tea that the host can afford is used. It costs all the way from $1 to $30 a pound, and merchants make a business of bringing it overland across the deserts from China by expensive tea caravans. It is generally believed in Russia that a sea voyage destroys the peculiar flavor of the chai. The best quality—such as is used for the imperial table—is transported in leather bags inclosed in carefully sealed cases, to prevent contact with the atmosphere. This kind of tea is worth from $30 to $40 a pound. Various grades of Russian tea are sold in Paris, where also samovars of beautiful designs can be purchased for $20 or $30 apiece. The ordinary tea of Russia is far superior to any tea drunk in this country or in England; in fact, its delicious flavor is unknown and cannot be imitated by the most skilful preparation of English tea. Crystallized white sugar is used by the Russian tea-drinkers, and a slice of lemon gives the liquid an exquisite flavor, but cream or milk is never seen on a tea-table. Wealthy people often use jellies. From six to twenty glasses of chai are often drunk by a single person at a sitting, and at private parties the guests remain until very late. In the tea-gardens bands of musicians play regular programs during the evenings, while the fashionable ladies and gentlemen of the city drink tea and discuss the gossip of the hour.—Ralph Meeker, in Harper's Magazine.

In Cuba a woman never loses her maiden name. After marriage she adds her husband's name to her own. In being spoken of she is always called by her Christian and maiden names. To a stranger it is often quite a task to find out whose wife a woman is. Never hearing the wife called by the husband's name, one naturally does not associate them together. The children take the names of both parents, but place the mother's name after the father's.

LAUNDREYMEN are the most humble and forgiving beings on earth. The more cuffs you give them the more they will do for you.—St. Paul Herald.

Caravansaries in India.

Many years ago traveling in India was anything but pleasant, as hotels or other places of entertainment for man and beast were seldom met with. On this account the Government put up buildings for the accommodation of Europeans at many places, and called them dawk bungalows, the Indian name for post-houses. To-day hotels can be found in any important town in India, but the dawk bungalow still remains, being conducted in the same manner as originally. An agent, appointed by the ruling authority of the district, manages the establishment, and is held responsible by the appointing power. Any traveler can stop at a dawk bungalow if there is room for him. The manager assigns vacant apartments to travelers in order of priority of arrival, preference always being given to ladies. No guest can retain a room longer than twenty-four hours if it is needed for a new arrival. The charge for the occupancy of the room is one rupee (about 36 cents) a day, and guests can have meals or not, as they please, and if they have them, at such hours as they please. A printed card in each room gives the rules regulating the establishment, and a Government scale of prices for food, wines, etc. On departing from one of these places guests are expected to enter the length of stay, amount charged, and their impression of the place. A dawk bungalow differs from a hotel in allowing guests a greater amount of freedom in regard to time of meals. Both places have about four servants to wait on each guest, all of whom expect a gratuity when the guest leaves. The morning after our arrival I was aroused by a Mohammedan servant who brought me my chota hazere (little breakfast) of tea and toast. Prior to this the sweeper, the lowest caste of the Hindoos, had cleaned out my bath-room, and a Hindoo water-carrier had prepared my bath from goat skins filled with water. Each one of these servants had his own particular work, and religious and caste prejudices would not permit either to do the work of the others.

The Lime-Kiln Club.

"De case of Brudder James Warren, of Miner Hill, Tenn., will be fust taken up," said Brother Gardner as he opened the meeting and winked to Elder Toots to push another empty herring box into the stove. "Brudder Warren claims dat he am bewitched, an' he has writen to dis club to ask it to do sunthin' to drive de evil speerits away. It has got to sich a pass dat de witches take his ole mule outer de ba'n at night an' ride him all ober de kentry, an' Brudder Warren feels speerit hands passin' ober his face an' pullin' his h'ar o' nights. Dis club will do sunthin' fur him. If he war a local member we'd cure him in about ten minits. As he am an honorary, an' fur away, we shall cross his names off de books an' send him offishul notis dat he am a bounced man. "I hev repeatedly referred to dis matter of superstishun, an' if members can't be enlightened dey kin be fired out. De day of ghosts, hobgoblins an' witches has passed away, an' de cull'd man who, can't belive it has no bizness in dis club. Mebbe dar' was a time when witches went chasin' round de kentry on an ole raw-boned mule, scarin' people half to death an' leavin' a trail of fiah an' smoke, but things hev changed. De wedder hain't right fur 'em now, an' de purleeces giv' 'em de collar an' send 'em to de work-house. "Mebbe speerit hands hev bin laid on Brudder Warren, but I doubt it. I guess Tennessee whisky had a good deal to do wid it. All o' you jist listen to me when I say dat de fust complaint of speerit hands in Detroit will be folered by a scene to make somebody's heart ache! Be keeful how unknown hands pull yer h'ar. De member of dis club who sees a witch had better keep powerful quiet about it or he'll be turned ober to de Kickin' Committee to be dealt wid. De Seckretary will write to Brudder Warren dat we hev dun sunthin' fur him, an' notify our branches at Chattanooga an' Knoxville dat he has been fired."—Detroit Free Press.

He Will Never Get Her.

"Do you think," she asked, dreamily, as he sat beside her at the circus, "that this is the same elephant I saw when I was a child?" "No," he answered, with scornful candor, "you know elephants only live to be 200 years old."—Detroit Free Press.

J. H. CONRAD,

DEALER IN

ROOFING AND SPOUTING

GUTTERING, HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS,

Cutlery, Nails, Paints, Woodenware &c.

MAIN STREET, ST. JOE IND.

All work and goods guaranteed to give satisfaction. Give me a call.

WILLIAM CURIE,

PROPRIETOR OF

St. Joe Meat Market,

ST. JOE, IND.

Highest market price paid for Hides, Tallow &c. Give me a call.

M. TUSTISON,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES,

EARTHEN POTS FOR HOUSE PLANTS

PROVISIONS, OYSTERS, LEMONS,

ORANGES, CANDIES, CIGARS &c.

MAIN ST. ST. JOE, IND.

J. F. WALKER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

Harness, Collars,

WHIPS, HARNESS OIL &c.

ST. JOE, IND.

Repairing done promptly. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see.

R. G. COBURN,

AGENT FOR THE

ALBION SPRING Cultivator

AND FIELD HARROW,

AND DAISY RAKE.

—000—

Farmers will save money by seeing me before buying. I will call on you with a sample in a few days. R. G. Coburn, St. Joe, Ind.

Take Notice!

Having returned from Tennessee, I will assist again in

Raising & Moving Buildings,

in short all kinds of Rope, Tackle and Jack-screw Work. Having had 15 years experience, and improved machinery, I feel safe in guaranteeing satisfaction. Heavy and difficult work a specialty. Correspondence solicited. Direct all communications to H. or M. Milliman, St. Joe Station, Ind. or A. Monroe, Hicksville, Ohio.

A. KINSEY,

Undertaker and Embalmer. Keeps on hand constantly, a stock of Undertaking Supplies, Coffins, Caskets, Burial Robes &c. I can supply as fine goods as can be furnished. Will attend to making all arrangements for funerals. Calls responded to at all hours of the night. Office on corner of Main and Second Streets; residence on corner of Main and Fourth Streets, St. Joe, Ind.

Arthur James,

DEALER IN

Watches, Clocks,

AND JEWELRY.

Repairing done promptly and all work warranted. Call and see me at Bair & Son's store, Spencerville, Ind.

M. T. BISHOP,

DEALER IN

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS,

Shingles, Lime, Lath,

MOULDINGS &c.

Large Stock and Prices Low. Yard Near Depot, St. Joe, Ind.

F. A. ZEIGLER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

HARNESS

COLLARS, WHIPS,

Fly Nets and Dusters,

HARNESS OIL &c.

Prices the Lowest. All work guaranteed. Call and see me.

THE ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. I.

ST. JOE, IND., FRIDAY, MAY 20, 1887.

NO. 17.

Churches.

DISCIPLE.

SERVICES every alternate Sunday evening, in the Lutheran church. Cottage prayer meeting every Friday evening.

J. A. THOMAS, PASTOR.

METHODIST PROTESTANT.

SERVICES every alternate Sunday at 10:30 A. M. Prayer meeting every Tuesday evening. Sunday School at 9:30 A. M.

J. M. LANGLEY, PASTOR.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN.

SERVICES every Sunday, one Sunday in the morning at 10:30, and the following Sunday in the evening. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Sunday School at 9:30 A. M.

S. P. FRYBERGER, PASTOR.

Societies.

G. A. R.

REGULAR meetings on Saturday evening on or before the full moon of each month, at their hall over Leighty's store.

O. H. WIDNEY, COMMANDER.

J. M. MILLMAN, ADJUTANT.

Business Notices.

H. W. BOWMAN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Office opposite the Drugstore.

ST. JOE HOTEL, Wm. Leighty, proprietor. Special attention given to furnishing teams for commercial men.

B. S. SHEFFER, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to his care.

ST. JOE BARBER SHOP, one door west of hotel, Will Gee, proprietor. Satisfaction guaranteed. Your patronage is solicited.

FILLEY, LOUNSBERRY AND SHULER, proprietors of the St. Joe Saw and Planing Mill. All work promptly done. Cash paid for Oak Logs.

CITY BARBER SHOP, St. Joe, Ind., John Hull, proprietor. Shaving, Hair Cutting &c. done in the best of style. Come and see me. Two doors west of Kinsey's Furniture Store.

SIMON WINELAND, proprietor St. Joe Handle and Feed Mills. Feed grinding a speciality. Highest prices paid for second growth White Ash. Enquire at the mill for full particulars.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

—Attorney General Michener has filed a suit against H. C. Timney, Clerk of Tippecanoe County, to compel him to pay over $1,300 claimed by the State. The money is the unclaimed residue of the estate of Annie Gwimp, deceased, and the law provides that such moneys shall be paid to the State, to be held in trust for future claimants. Mr. Timney claims that the law only requires him to pay the money to the County Treasurer, and that official to the State. He wants to find out to whom he must pay it, and has refused to pay, so that it may get into Court and bring a decision which can be used as a precedent. It is a test case.

—The Auditor of State asked for the Attorney General's opinion regarding the right of a County Treasurer to retain 5 per cent. of delinquent taxes collected by prosecuting attorneys under Section 649L of the Revised Statutes. Attorney General Michener holds that a county treasurer, under Section 5928 of the Revised Statutes, is entitled to retain 6 per cent. of all delinquent taxes collected. There are no words of limitations in the Statute. On the contrary, the law expressly says that the treasurer is entitled to 6 per cent. of the collections no matter by whom they are made.

A man was taken from his bed by a band of masked men and tied to a tree in his yard, and unmercifully whipped. He is a young married man, and lives about five miles south of Corydon. Just before orders were given by the captain of the gang to lay the lash to his bare back, he was informed that he was about to be whipped for general cussedness. But the true reason of the whipping he received is supposed to be that he had denounced the Knights of the Switch, and had accused a number of parties of belonging to the organization. His dose was a terrible one.

—In the Allen County Circuit Court judgment in foreclosure was rendered in favor of H. B. Hollins against W. K. Vanderbilt and the Nickel Plate Railway for $281,667. The property affected, and which will be sold by the Sheriff at Fort Wayne, is the bed of the old Wabash and Erie Canal from the Ohio State line to LaGro, Ind., a distance of thirty-three miles, except five miles constituting the Nickel Plate right-of-way through Fort Wayne.

—While standing conversing on the pavement in front of a two-story building on the north side of the public square at Greencastle, Hon. J. G. Drubar, and Mr. Artie Call, of Madison Township, were struck about the head and neck by portions of a falling brick cornice and dangerously, though it is thought not fatally, injured. Had not the fall of the brick been broken by an awning both men would doubtless have been killed instantly.

—Not long since a man at Crawfordsville lost his false teeth, and, as he was to make a public speech the next day, he was in an awkward predicament. But he was not long in solving the question what to do, and he soon persuaded a neighbor woman to loan him her teeth for the special occasion. The speech was delivered, the teeth returned, and no person was the wiser.

—A curious phenomenon resulted in Harrison County a few days ago from a bolt of lightning striking a tree standing in the yard of William Alstott, near Nevin. Near the stricken tree was a large pond, which had been used for watering stock. Shortly after the lightning stroke, the pond began sinking, and has, in the few days since that time, disappeared entirely.

—The State Medical Society, in session at Indianapolis, elected the following officers: President, S. H. Charlton, Jackson County; Vice President, C. W. Burckett, Kosciusko; Secretary, E. S. Elder, Marion; Assistant Secretary, John Nixon.

Randolph, Treasurer, C. B. Higgins, Miami.

—Wm. Pogus, a young man, 22 years old, residing at Anderson, a brakeman on the Panhandle Railway, was instantly killed at Duareith, by falling from a west-bound freight train while the cars were in motion. He was cut to pieces, his head being severed from his body.

—The Battle-ground Camp-meeting will begin on the 27th of July, this year, and continue over two Sundays. It is understood that the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago Railway will run Sunday trains this year—something that has not been done for some years.

Mrs. Wm. Gates, an eccentric old lady who died at Elkhart, was found to have $5,000 sewed up in her skirt—$300 in small change, $200 in one-dollar bills, and the remainder in bills of various other denominations. She was wealthy, but had no confidence in banks.

Mrs. William St. John, of Martinsville, fell down a stairway into the cellar of her residence, striking her head against the steps, and died in a few hours. She was an estimable lady, about fifty-five years of age, and the wife of one of the leading citizens.

—Levi Thomas, who was sent to the Michigan City prison for two years, was visited by his wife, who walked two hundred miles to see him. She has engaged as a domestic in a family near the prison that she may be near him during his incarceration.

—Martin Bout, while plowing on his farm near Michigan City, exploded a dynamite bomb which had been placed there by unknown parties. His arm was blown off, both legs broken, and he was otherwise terribly mangled. He will hardly recover.

—Oliver Linsey, of Alamo, was stricken with apoplexy at Crawfordsville, and fell from his wagon to the ground, and now lies in a serious condition.

The Vincennes Board of Trade has guaranteed the bonus asked by the Enterprise Stove Works, and that institution will remove to Vincennes from California, O., at once. They employ about one hundred men. The bonus was raised in a few days.

—Lon Drake, of Fairbanks, fatally shot himself in the right side by the discharge of one barrel of a shotgun, which slipped off the seat of a buggy in which he and a companion were riding.

—Frank Kuhn, aged 22, a well-known Madison butcher, shot his brains out, owing to despondency, caused by consumption.

—Orrin Hendricks, residing near Lexington, was out hunting recently, and by some unknown cause the shot-gun he was carrying was discharged, the load taking effect in the left arm, tearing the member completely off.

—Henry Price, a miner, was killed Tuesday night by a premature blast in Wilson's mine, near Brazil. He was an Englishman, 31 years old, and left a wife and two children.

—The newly-incorporated suburb, just southeast of Crawfordsville, has been named Englewood, and contains about twenty voters.

—Thousands of fish in the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad Reservoir, at Milan, are dying from some mysterious disease.

—Mrs. Nathan Aldrich died at her home in Logansport, aged 82. She had been a resident of that city fifty-two years.

—A friend of Hanover College has just given $1,000 cash to the endowment fund, and intends to give more.

THE devil is a cobbler who is always pegging away at souls.—Whitehall Times.

It is to be hoped the bonnet has about reached the height of its ambition.

MOTTO for a corset factory—"We have come to stay."—Cleveland Sun.

USEFUL AND SUGGESTIVE.

FREE your stoves and flues from soot by throwing a piece of zinc on a bed of hot coals.

STEEL, when hardened, decreases in specific gravity, contracts in length and increases in diameter.

A POUltICE of salt and the white of an egg is a powerful resolvent, and if applied in time will disperse a felon.

ASPHALTUM dissolved in oil of turpentine is recommended as one of the best varnishes for smoke-stacks and steam-pipes.

A SOLDERING fluid composed of a teaspoonful of chloride of zinc dissolved in two ounces of alcohol will not rust and tarnish and has no bad smell.

SAWDUST thrown on a circular saw table will render the hauling of heavy planks quite easy. The grains act as small rollers and reduce friction.

PLASTER busts may be cleaned by dipping them into thick, liquid starch—that is clear starch mixed with cold water—brushing them when dry.

STEEL plates in the fire-box can be prevented from cracking by washing out with cold water after being blown out. Hot water will produce a crack.

Six parts of sulphur, six of white lead and one of borax, thoroughly mixed and wetted with strong sulphuric acid, make a strong cement for connecting iron work.

In the healing of burns and scalds, where there is danger of contracting scars, rub the new skin several times a day with good sweet oil. Persist in this rubbing until the skin is soft and flexible.

According to a French industrial paper a mixture of oil and graphite will effectually prevent screws becoming fixed, and, moreover, protect them for years against rust. The mixture facilitates tightening up, is an excellent lubricant, and reduces the friction of the screw in its socket.

To POLISH plate glass and remove slight scratches, rub the surface gently, first with a clean pad of white cotton wool, and afterward with a pad covered over with cotton velvet which has been charged with fine rouge. The surface will, under this treatment, acquire a polish of great brilliancy, quite free from any scratches.

A BELT has been known to refuse to do the work allotted to it, and continue to slip over pulleys two feet in diameter, but from the moment the pulleys were changed to three feet in diameter there was no further trouble. These observed facts seem to be at variance with and to contradict the results of the experiments that have been made.

Buffalo Bill in England.

Buffalo Bill, in going to England, deviated from the usual custom of less illustrious travelers. Instead of putting himself at once into the hands of London's tailor, Poole, as soon as he arrived, he chose to supply himself with a liberal outfit in America, and he landed on the other side with any amount of "store clothes." One suit, in which he intends to pay his respects to the Queen, is of dark gray; another, in which he will appear at the Queen's jubilee as Nebraska's representative, is two shades of blue, while a gorgeous hunting costume, which, perhaps, will be seen in Windsor forest, consists of blue corduroy jacket, gray corduroy trousers, and scarlet and brown waistcoat.—New York Sun.

POETRY is not made out of the understanding. The question of common sense is always: "What is it good for?" a question which would abolish the rose and be triumphantly answered by the cabbage.—Lowell.

In London side-whiskers are called "side-wings."

The St. Joe News.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

HIS SECOND WIFE

In silence she rises
Her low drooping head
To list while he praises
The wife who is dead;
And ever he echoes the old refrain,
"Oh! what was life
With such a wife,
Poor Susan Amanda Matilda Jane."

She never was idle,
She never would tire;
Her temper could bridle,
Her servants inspire,
And ever her virtues he sang again:
"No one could be
Like her to me,
Poor Susan Amanda Matilda Jane."

She never spent money,
Was ever content;
To have a new bonnet,
Would never consent;
Yet summer or winter, or shine or rain,
Would never stay
From church away,
His Susan Amanda Matilda Jane.

Was never too early,
Was never too late;
Her dinner was ready,
Or ready to wait,
But ah! he never should see again
With mortal eyes
Such peerless pies—
Poor Susan Amanda Matilda Jane.

Could sew on his buttons,
Darn, back-stitch, and hem,
Each button a picture,
Each darn a gem,
A vision of beauty, a pearl without stain,
When she was there,
His woes to share,
Poor Susan Amanda Matilda Jane.

In silence she listens,
Till sudden the re-echo
An ember that glimmers
Deep down in her eyes,
"To praise her yet farther to me is vain:
No one" quoth she,
"Rejoice like me
Poor Susan Amanda Matilda Jane,"
Harper's Magazine.

A MAIDEN'S WOES.

BY E. H. L.

It is evening, on the Lake of Geneva, and I am sitting on the shore, my eyes on the beautiful prospect before me, and my thoughts far away in the sad, sad past.

A boat is crossing the gleam of moonlight that silvers the ripples that stretch far away into distance, and from it I hear a soft, girlish voice singing an English song, "I remember, I remember."

The voice has a faint resemblance to one long hushed. Ah! how it recalls to me all that I, too, remember! The scenes of my life float through my mental vision, and this is what I see:

Another summer evening, painfully like the present, but here the sun has set on an English wood, and the last rays linger softly on two figures that stand by a rustic gate. One, a girl—myself—is listening tremblingly to a voice that has grown strangely dear to her.

It says, "Mildred, my darling, to-night I claim your promise. The only barrier, your father, that has ever stood between us is no more, and it is my right and my happiness to take you to my home—you as a fondly-loved wife, and little Lena as a dear sister, and then nothing but death can ever separate us again!"

And Maurice Deignville has passed his arm round me, and I know that never again can I feel the bitter loneliness that has been mine since my father's death left little Lena and me orphans, thrown almost penniless on the cold mercy of the world, and the love that has so long been mine will shelter us from all harm.

As the stars steal one by one into the summer sky, and the nightingale's sweet note comes softly on the air, I know we must part for a few hours; and so, with fond promises and sweetest words lingering in my ear, I turn to go.

What is that slight sound that suddenly stops and sends me back to Maurice's side again? A faint, low sob it seems to me, quite close to where we stood, and then a sound of footsteps softly treading on the grass.

"Look!—oh, look, Maurice! What can it be?"

"Nothing—nothing, dear little love! You are nervous and fanciful. Hasten in, my darling! Again good night! Good night!"

After this, the days pass rapidly, gladly; and the day draws near which will make me Maurice Deignville's wife. Happy, peaceful days, yet with one small cloud daily growing larger in my life's cloudless sky. My sister, dear Lena, hitherto my constant companion and dearest friend, seems to care for me no longer. For hours she roams through the woods and fields, returning later and later each day. Vainly I expostulate, and try, by every means in my power, to win her back to me; but my words, kind and gently as I try to make them, seem but to irritate her, and more and more she avoids me. It is a trial to me, but I fancy it is but a little jealousy of my love for Maurice; and she thinks, perhaps, poor darling, that I, having him, may care for her less.

To Maurice himself she is simply indifferent, and seldom seems to notice him; and yet how fondly I had once hoped she might regard him as a dear brother! I reproach myself with the thought that perhaps I, in the new hopes opening out before me, may have neglected her, and I do try honestly to be all to her that I have ever been.

"Mildred, my love, to-morrow will be our wedding-day! Look up, sweet one, for almost I thought I saw sadness in your eyes." I look up into the dear eyes, gazing so fondly upon me, and their tenderness seems but to make it more impossible to keep back the tears that rise unbidden to my own.

"What is it, dearest? What can make you sad on such a day as this?"

"Maurice, forgive me! I cannot shake off a sad foreboding of evil that seems almost to overwhelm me."

"But why, dear child?"

"I hardly know, but it seems connected with Lena; and she has been away all day by herself, and it is now almost 10 o'clock—later than she has ever stopped before."

"The beauty of the night has tempted her, little one. She must soon be back."

And Maurice, trying to cheer me, goes on to paint, in glowing colors, the happiness of our future.

I try to listen, but my thoughts are with Lena; and, as the chimes from the village clock strike ten, I start.

I can bear the suspense no longer; and Maurice, ever watchful of me, seeing the sorrow I cannot suppress, says, "Come, Milly, I see how anxious you are. Come with me, and together we will find Lena."

So together we wander through the woods—to all her favorite haunts—to the fields beyond—sometimes calling her name. But no answer comes back but the echoes from the hills around us—"Lena! Lena!"

Together we stand by the river, and listen vainly for the slightest sound that may tell us she is near. Together we wander on and on, keeping still by the river side, and once faintly through the gathering darkness I think I hear a cry.

Following the sound, we hasten on, I trembling with an unknown dread; and then, how can I ever recall the misery, the terror that overwhelmed me!

In the water, almost at our feet, something white is gleaming, and I seem to know all at once what I am to see. Oh, Lena, my darling, my darling, before I saw your dear white face lying among the clustering water-lilies, I seemed to know it was there!

I close my eyes with an earnest prayer for strength, and, when I open them, I see Maurice kneeling by the white figure he has laid upon the grass, trying by every means in his power to stay the life that is ebbing so fast away.

"Lena," I cry, wildly, "why is this?"

I am on my knees beside her, and have drawn the fair, drooping head against my breast.

Slowly, gaspingly, the faint words come. "Milly, dearest sister, forgive me! Did you not guess I loved him—too?"

Again the blue eyes closed, and fainter and fainter came the breath.

A mist seemed to gather over all my senses, and I remember no more.

Of the dark, dreary days that followed I can write nothing. I seemed to live in a dream—nothing real, nothing tangible, except the firm resolve that never, never could I be Maurice Deignville's wife.

Of the continued reasoning, the tender pleading that strove to alter my determination, I will say nothing, except to say that all was in vain. Between me and my happiness stood out clearly my darling's dead face.

Wearied at last with the struggle, I left England, seeking a refuge with an aunt who lived on the shores of the Lake of Geneva, living a lonely, uncared-for life, my thoughts ever with the dear ones I have lost. And so passed three long years, which have brought me to this evening when I am watching the gleaming rays upon the water.

The evening shadows fall darker, darker, and, with a sigh, I rise to go. The sigh seems echoed close by me, and hastily turning, I see a tall figure standing with anxious eyes looking into mine, and arms outstretched towards me.

"Come to me, my loved one. Oh, Milly, do not send me from you!"

With a glad, low cry, I go to him; and as his faithful arms close round me, Maurice Deignville knows that never, while life is given me, can I send him from me again.

Caught Him Foul.

McPeters—Mr. Sontag, you gave me a punched quarter this morning through mistake.

Sontag—Oh, no, I didn't.

McPeters—Oh, you didn't? It wasn't a mistake? Then the sooner you make it good the better! And Sontag had exchanged with him before he could frame an apology.—Detroit Free Press.

BARBED-WIRE fences are now used by many English farmers to protect their premises from the depredations of hunters, who seemingly delight in trampling down the crops and destroying fences.

COACHING is no longer the proper thing in England.

The Rappites.

These people are known as the Rappites. Their founder, George Rapp, was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, in 1770. During the last decade of the century an unusual religious excitement prevailed in that locality, and Rapp became imbued with the idea that he had received a divine call to restore the Christian religion to its original purity. He, therefore, organized a sect on the model of the primitive church, all of whose members were pledged to strict celibacy of life, and to a common ownership of property. Having some difficulty with the Wurtemberg authorities on the subject of worship, he came, in 1803, to America to find a home for his flock. He purchased 5,000 acres of land in Butler County, Pennsylvania, and in 1804 his flock of disciples, 600 in all, came over the ocean and joined him. They soon had built up a flourishing village, which they called Harmony, and their diligence made the surrounding wilderness bud and blossom as the rose. In 1814, desiring a better location for business, they sold their Pennsylvania property and moved to Indiana, where, on the banks of the Wabash, they built a second village called Harmony. Here they prospered more than ever, and new members swelled their number to nearly a thousand. In 1824 they again became dissatisfied with their location on account of bad neighbors and malaria. They again sold out all their property, disposing of the entire town, its houses, mills, factories, and 30,000 acres of land for $150,000. This was an immense sacrifice of their valuable labor on the property, but they consented to the loss in order to get away from their distasteful surroundings. The property was purchased by Robert Owen, who had just come over from England in search of a good locality for a socialist community. The Rappites, in the meanwhile having through their leader purchased a location in Beaver County, Pennsylvania, on the Ohio River, built a steamboat, and removed in detachments to their new and final place of settlement. There they built the town of Economy, and there what are left of the original colony of the Rappites still reside. George Rapp died in 1847. The community has always been very prosperous, but while it has grown steadily in wealth, it has decreased in numbers by many secessions on the part of the younger and deaths of the older members. At one time, soon after the founding of Economy village, the sect numbered about 1,800; there are now less than 100 living in the neat little village, and nearly all of these are old men. They own much property in real estate, in coal mines, and factories, aside from their property in Economy Township. The colony has always used the German language almost exclusively. In religion they are strict Protestants, accepting the commands of the New Testament literally as their code of conduct. Members of both sexes have always been admitted into their church, but marriage has been positively prohibited among them. Their reputation has always been that of a moral, intelligent, and industrious community.—Inter Ocean.

The Favorite Food at Buda-Pesth.

The goose, as I have several times had occasion to remark, is a bird that, after it is dead, constantly thrusts itself on the stranger's attention in Austria. Its apparition is frequent on the tables and hotels at Vienna, and it reappears more frequently as you descend the Danube. It is the most chosen viand at Buda-Pesth. Here it achieves its apotheosis. But it is not so much to the bird itself as to that important organ, its liver, that I desire to direct attention. The local commerce in this delicacy is considerable. On certain streets the attention of the pedestrian is attracted by the counterfeit presentment of a goose dead and cooked, beside which is a painted object so nearly like that he is aware it is the liver of the deceased bird. This sign indicates a shop whose sole business is to sell roasted goose cut in pieces, goose livers, and a sort of biscuit made of chopped goose and flour. Here is a temptation to those who are fond of paté de foie gras. On entering the dealer is discovered standing behind a huge tray filled with livers arranged in rows, armed with a fork resembling Neptune's trident. He passes the trident mystically over the livers, and names the prices—20 kreutzers, 25 kreutzers, 30, 40, 50 kreutzers, the latter being from giant birds and weighing nearly a pound. You take one of the smallest as a starter, and a biscuit, and adjourn to a neighboring wine shop, properly adjust your digestive apparatus to the metuous viand with a "fourth" of white Hungarian wine. No bad result follows, as with the artificially fattened livers that cost their weight in gold in America. Your digestion continues excellent. What is the effect? The next day you come back and buy a liver twice the size, take two rations of biscuit, and wash the repast down with a "half" of the same wine, and so on. As this ratio of increase cannot go on forever, you find yourself obliged to leave town a day or two sooner than you intended, to subdue a growing appetite, taking with you in your valise a few pounds of goose livers to satisfy the pangs of hunger and soothe the regret of parting, for you know when you have left the Danube you can see this luxury no more. Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

Interest in Study.

In all pedagogy the great thing is to strike the iron while hot, and to seize the wave of the pupil's interest in such successive subject before its ebb has come, so that knowledge may be got and a habit of skill acquired—a headway of interest, in short, secured, on which afterward the individual may float. There is a happy moment for fixing skill in drawing, for making boys collectors in natural history, and presently dissectors and botanists; then for initiating them into the harmonies of mechanics and the wonders of physical and chemical law. Later, introspective psychology and the metaphysical and religious mysteries take their turn; and last of all, the drama of human affairs, and worldly wisdom in the widest sense of the term. In each of us a saturation-point is soon reached in all these things; the impetus of our purely intellectual zeal expires, and unless the topic become associated with some urgent personal need that keeps our wits constantly whetted about it, we settle into an equilibrium, and live on what we learned when our interest was fresh and instinctive, without adding to the store. Outside of their own business the ideas gained by men before they are twenty-five are practically the only ideas they shall have in their lives. They cannot get anything new. Disinterested curiosity is past, the mental grooves and channels set, the power of assimilation gone. If by chance we ever do learn anything about some entirely new topic we are afflicted with the strange sense of insecurity, and we fear to advance a resolute opinion. But, with things learned in the plastic days of instructive curiosity, we never lose entirely our sense of being at home. There remains a kinship, a sentiment of intimate acquaintance, which, even when we know we have failed to keep abreast of the subject, flatters us with a sense of power over it, and makes us feel not altogether out of the pale.

Whatever individual exceptions might be cited to this are of the sort that "prove the rule."

To detect the moment of the instinctive readiness for the subject is, then, the first duty of every educator. As for the pupils, it would probably lead to a more earnest temper on the part of college students if they had less belief in their unlimited future intellectual potentialities, and could be brought to realize that whatever physics and political economy and philosophy they are now acquiring are, for better or worse, the physics and political economy and philosophy that will have to serve them to the end.—Prof. William James, in Scribner's Magazine.

The French Crown Jewels.

The official catalogue of the French crown jewels, which Tiffany & Co., of New York City, agents of the French Government to further and assist in their sale, have lately received, presents a list of more than 30,000 brilliants and 2,700 rose diamonds, of an aggregate weight of over 8,000 carats, with a large variety of pearls, rubies, sapphires, and other precious stones. The largest single diamond weighs twenty-seven carats, and in one set are over 6,000 brilliants. The jewels, which are now on exhibition, will be sold at auction in the palace of the Tuilleries, beginning on May 8, and their proceeds turned over to the public treasury. Good judges estimate the market value of the entire collection at not less than 10,000,000 francs.—Frank Leslie's.

QUEER DISHES FROM ALL LANDS.

Bears' Paws, Elephants' Feet, Deer's Noses, and Odd Parts of Other Animals.

The New-Brunswick find a special charm in the loose nose of a moose deer, says Household Words. Sharks' fins and fish-maws, unhatched ducks and chickens, sea-slugs, and birds' nests are all prized by the omnivorous Chinese. The Parisians eat horse-flesh; and at the exhibition of 1851 a M. Brocchieri showed and sold delicious cakes, patties, and bon-bons of bullock's blood, rivaling the famous marrons glaces of the confectioners of the boulevards. This seems almost a triumph of art. In Havana the shark is openly sold in the market, and the Chinese ascribe special invigorating virtues to its fins and tail. The Gold Coast negroes are all fond of sharks as they are of hippopotami and alligators, and the Pygmies are also very fond of shark's flesh, quite raw.

Caymans and crocodiles, lizards and frogs are all eaten and enjoyed by certain people. The typical crocodile is like veal; but some species have a strong flavor of musk, and some are like young, juicy pork, while others resemble lobster. Others, again, have a powerful fishy taste, very disagreeable. On the whole, therefore, crocodile is uncertain eating, and not to be ventured on with rashness. Alligator is supposed to be invigorating and restorative, and at Manilla is sold at high prices, the Chinese clutching at the dried skin, which they use in their awful messes of gelatinous soup. Alligator is likened to sucking pig, but its eggs have a musty flavor.

The French are notoriously addicted to frogs, which command a high price in New York also, where they sell the large bullfrog, sometimes weighing half a pound, as well as the tender little green animal (rana esculenta), whose hind legs taste so like delicate chicken when served with white sauce in restaurants and hotels of Paris and Vienna. Of course, frogs do not escape the Chinese, who devour everything with blood and fiber; and the negroes of Surinam eat the loathsome Surinam toad. Monkeys are also considered good eating in some countries. African epicures are never more charmed than when they can dine off a highly-seasoned, tender young monkey, baked gypsy fashion in the earth. The great red monkey, the black spider monkey, and the howling monkey are all eaten by the various peoples among whom they are found. The flesh of the monkey is said to be both nutritious and pleasant.

One species of bat is considered good eating by the natives of the islands of the Indian archipelago, Malabar, etc.; it is called by naturalists the edible bat, and it is said to be white, tender, and delicate; but for all that, it is a hideous beast, like a weasel, with a ten-inch body, covered with close and shining black hair, and with four-foot wings, when stretched to their full extent.

In some countries even the fox is considered a delicacy; in the arctic regions, where fresh meat is scarce, when judiciously made into a pie it is considered equal to any rabbit, under the same conditions, ever bred on the Sussex downs. But, strange to say, the Esquimaux dogs, which will devour almost everything else, will not touch fox. Cats and dogs readily find purchasers and consumers in China, where they are hung up in the butchers' shops, together with badgers—tasting like wild boar—and other oddities of food.

In the South seas, too, a dog is a favorite dish, and a puppy stew is a royal feast in Zanzibar; but it is only fair to say that where dog is eaten it is especially fattened for the table and fed only on milk and such like cleanly diet. The Australian native dog or dingoo is eaten by the blacks, but by no one else; and a South African will give a cow for a good-sized mastiff.

Elephants' feet, pickled in strong odd vinegar and cayenne pepper, are considered in Ceylon an Apician luxury. The trunk is said to resemble buffalo's hump, and the fat is so highly prized by the bushmen that they will go almost any distance for it. Hippopotamus is also considered a treat; when killed it is thought superior to our best breakfast bacon, and the flesh is both palatable and nutritious, the fat being used for all the ordinary uses of butter.

It is difficult to distinguish between iron and steel tools. They have the same polish and workmanship; use will commonly show the difference. To make the distinction quickly, place the tool upon a stone and drop upon it some diluted nitric acid (four parts water and one part acid). If the tool remains clean, it is iron; if of steel it will show a black spot where touched with the acid. These spots can be easily rubbed off.

Queer Things About Money.

A woman who bought an old-fashioned bureau at a second-hand store in Cincinnati discovered a secret drawer in it which contained $1,300 in gold and bank bills.

Money was so scarce in certain counties of Southwestern Texas during the earlier part of the winter that in some instances the skins of javelina hogs were used as a circulating medium, and possum skins were frequently offered in liquidation of grocery bills.

Squire Royal, the tax collector of Taylor County, Pa., took out a well-worn overcoat to sell to an old-clothes man a few days ago, and found $100 in bills rolled up in a sheet of note-paper. The Squire is confident that the money is his own, but he has no recollection of having placed it in the pocket.

John Monroe, a young man living with his widowed sister in the northern part of Georgia, was digging a hole for a potato bin in his cellar the other day, when his spade broke open an earthen pot containing $1,180 in gold. The coin had been buried by his sister's husband during the war and subsequently forgotten.

A young farmer in Des Moines County, Iowa, who had saved up $200 in bank bills, wrapped a piece of paper around them and stuck the roll up the chimney in his bedroom for safe-keeping. One cold afternoon his mother put a stove in the room and built a roaring fire in it, and when the young man returned to supper only the charred remains of the notes could be found.

A lady living in Butler, Ga., through fear of the depredation of tramps, put $110 in bank-notes in a paste-board box and buried it in the yard near the wood-pile. Some months afterwards she went out to get it, and found that the box and bills had been badly mutilated by wood-lice. She has sent the notes to the banks which issued them for redemption.

The pet cat belonging to Mrs. Lucy Cain of Hannibal, Mo., brought a mouse into the parlor and with it a small piece of paper money. Mrs. Cain thought nothing about the occurrence until one day last week, when she discovered that a roll of bills had been missing from her bureau drawer. Then she put two and two together and began a vigorous search of the premises. The missing bills were finally unearthed in a corner in the cellar, where a colony of mice had made a nest of them.

Their Literary Tastes.

Senator Ingalls likes old English novels and is well up in scientific literature.

Senator Hear is regarded as the best authority on American history in the body.

Senator Hale has one of the finest libraries in Maine and is well read in general literature.

Senator Eustis speaks and reads French like a native, and is fond of yellow-covered novels.

Senator Ransom runs to Latin and dates, especially in Horace, whom he is fond of quoting in his speeches.

Senator Beach is fond of poetry and can repeat the "Lady of the Lake" without a slip from beginning to end.

Senator Joe Brown, of Georgia, spends most of his time pursuing musty volumes of public records and documents.

Among the Senators who write for magazines or other periodicals are Sherman, Hoar, Ingalls, Ransom, and Hale.

Senator Vest is a great reader of the Bible, and knows whole chapters by heart. All scriptural facts in dispute are referred to him.

Senator Sherman is a classical scholar and reads French. He scans the newspapers, but does not believe in reading a book until time has tried it.

Senator Joe Blackburn is well-informed on sporting matters, and can tell the record and pedigree of every fast horse in Kentucky without looking it up.

Senator Payne is not noted for his literary attainments, but he is fond of biography and travel, and has more reminiscences to tell than most any man in the Senate. — New York Graphic.

THE BEST OLD-STYLE GORDON JOB PRINTING PRESS

IN THE MARKET.

Strong, perfect in finish, made of the best material, light-running, and simple to operate. Guaranteed in every respect. Patent Throw-off, Patent Chase-Block, Hardened Steel Cam Rollers, and other valuable improvements. Three Chases, two Branches, one Roller Mold, one Brayer, and two sets of Roller Stocks furnished with each press.

Size. Price. Size. Price. EIGHTH MEDIUM, 7x11, $138.00. QUARTO MEDIUM, 10x15, $245.00.

The above are CASH Prices for these Presses delivered on board the cars at the factory. FOR SALE by the FORT WAYNE NEWSPAPER UNION, 57 & 59 Columbia Street, Fort Wayne, Ind., General Dealers in PRINTERS' SUPPLIES.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RY

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest—is the only true middle-link in that transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodations is unequalled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

ALL EXPRESS TRAINS between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of comfortable DAY COACHES, magnificent PULLMAN PALACE PARLOR and SLEEPING CARS, elegant DINING CARS providing excellent meals, and—between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—restful RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains run daily to the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The rich wheat fields and grazing lands of interior Dakota are reached via Watertown.

A short desirable route, via Seneca and Kanabek, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points.

All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employees of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly attention.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders—obtainable at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada—or any desired information, address,

R. R. CABLE, Pres't & Gen'l M'gr, Chicago.

E. ST. JOHN, Asst Gen'l M'gr, Chicago.

E. A. HOLBROOK, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt., Chicago.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

One Year, in advance ..... $0.75
Six Months ..... 50
Three Months ..... 25

Entered at the Post Office at St. Joe as second-class matter.

FRIDAY MAY 20, 1887.

TOWNSHIP NOTICE.

Sealed proposals will be received at the school house in St. Joe, on Saturday, May 21, 1887, at 1 o'clock, for the building of an addition to the St. Joe school house. Plans and specifications can be seen at my residence. I reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

J. E. Dermott, Trustee.

The Lutheran Sunday school voted last Sunday to buy new singing books.

Wm. Hart is getting material on the ground for an addition to his residence.

Everybody should make their arrangements to be at St. Joe on the 16th of June.

W. C. Patterson and Dr. Bowman went over to see the Auburn gas well last Wednesday.

The contract for building the addition to the school house will be let Saturday afternoon.

Miss Bartlett has a new sign over the entrance to her millinery store. It is the best looking sign in town.

Chris Curie has built a fine fence in front of his farm residence. Chris displays a good deal of taste in the way he has things arranged.

The contract for carrying the mail between here and Butler was awarded to Jonathan Bair for $300.00. Jonathan will begin his travels on the first day of July.

The resolutions adopted by the W. C. T. U. of this place upon the death of Miss Lizzie Evans were handed in to late for publication this week. They will appear next week.

The residents of the west end of St. Joe are fixing up in fine style. Houses are being painted, new fences built, yards cleaned and a general improvement of things. This shows enterprise on their part that is highly commendable.

John Leighty will go to Washington next week, to participate in the national drill, to be held there. The company of which John is lieutenant are making a special effort to win the one thousand dollar prize, offered to the best drilled company.

Decoration services will be observed on Monday, the 30th day of May, by the John C. Carnes Post of St. Joe, as follows: Appropriate services at the cemetery near Howard Northrup; at the cemetery known as the Jinken's cemetery, and at the cemetery at Bear Creek in Jackson township at 9:30 A. M. There will be appropriate speeches made at each place. Rev. Fryberger at Bear Creek, Rev. Langley at Jinkens, and Rev. Thomas at Northrup. In the afternoon, at 2 o'clock, services will be held at Spencerville; an oration will be delivered by Rev. Fryberger. The citizens are respectfully invited and urged to take part with the Post in observing the decoration of the graves of our honored dead. Let all turn out and show the respect that is due the men who gave their lives that the nation might live.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

PLEASANT HILL.

Isaac Meese lost a valuable cow last week.

John Koch and wife visited with her parents last Sunday.

Charley Jackson and wife visited with friends and relatives at Leo over Saturday and Sunday.

Aaron and Thomas Guisinger are going to do a job of plastering for Mrs. Liddy Rickett. They are doing good work.

The women of this neighborhood are a little more than common, for the most of them are through cleaning house and are helping to plant corn.

SPENCERVILLE.

School closes this week.

Ed Chapman has moved to town.

P. Bishop is visiting at Van Wert Ohio.

Mr. Tindall is improving very slowly.

Mrs. Hays, of Maysville spent a few hours in town Saturday.

Miss Rallie Murphy, of Leo, spent Sunday with Miss Maud Murray.

Grace Zimmerman and Ella Provins are sick with the measles.

Rev. Hussey and daughter spent a couple of days in town this week.

The stone work on the new church was commenced the first of the week.

Henry Dove and Emma Rhodes were united in marriage Sunday May 15th, 1887.

The Nut Social given by the ladies of the Lutheran church last Saturday evening was a success. But not as many were present as would have been, had it been more widely known.

CONCORD.

Miss Amanda Koch is very much indisposed.

F. Buchanan made a flying business trip to Auburn this week.

Nelson Tustison and wife visited with her parents, Mr. James Baker's last Sunday.

Mr. Green Brown and wife entertained Mr. B. Moffatt and family of Jackson township, last Sunday.

Mrs. Feters has gone home to visit for a few days with her mother, Mrs. Jones, of Farmer's Center.

John Feters is coming out in grand style. He has recently purchased a top buggy, harness and lap robe.

Rev. F. Hussey and daughter Ella, of Kendallville, were the guests of F. Buchanan and family for a short time last Monday.

If you want a pattern of a scare crow to put in your garden just go to Vill Draggoo. She has the latest style, and we should think it would scare most any thing.

The girls are all wondering where the jeweler of Spencerville goes every Sunday evening. Just stand at the cross-roads and see if he goes any farther north than Koch's. He'd like to tell you all about it.

In honor of J. Baker's thirtieth birthday, about fifty of his friends went in last Saturday morning and gave him a genuine surprise. He was always opposed to birthday parties, but he enjoyed this one hugely. The dinner was such as only the "gude wife" of that house can prepare, and the friends left the table regretting they could eat no more. The presents were numerous and useful, and it seems that that day did not complete the surprises that were in store for him, for the next morning upon opening the front door, he beheld an elegant rocking chair on the porch. May he live to enjoy many more such happy birthdays. One sad feature of the occasion was, Mrs. J. Hull was quite badly hurt. Children should be careful in romping.

WANTED 50 CUSTOMERS

To Buy Our Carpet Samples.

We have a large line of Tapestry, Walton and Body Brussels, Ingrain and Hemp Carpet Samples which we are closing out for rings. We also carry a full line of E. P. Reed & Co's and Gokey & Son's Ladies' Misses and Children's Fine Shoes. Secure a pair of those 75 cent Fine Slippers before they are all gone.

J. D. Leighty, St. Joe, Ind.

Ditch Notice.

In the matter of the petition of Frank P. Hart of Concord township, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of De Kalb County, State of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be on Tuesday, the 7th Day of June, 1887, the same being the second day of their June term, 1887.

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route, to-wit:

Beginning nineteen hundred and (1900) feet west and ten hundred and seventy-five (1075) feet north of the south-east corner of section sixteen (16) township thirty-three (33) north range fourteen (14) east, State of Indiana, De Kalb County and from thence as follows:

South 36 1/2 degrees, East 100 feet
South 80 degrees, East 100 feet
South 84 degrees, East 115 feet
South 52 degrees, East 585 feet
South 22 degrees, East 100 feet
South 11 degrees, East 100 feet
South 30 degrees, East 600 feet
South 11 degrees, East 100 feet
South 5 degrees, East 100 feet
South 18 degrees, West 100 feet
South 22 degrees, West 100 feet
South 13 degrees, West 180 feet
South 32 degrees, East 420 feet
South 17 degrees, East 100 feet
South 60 degrees, East 570 feet
South 16 degrees, East 30 feet
South 3 degrees, East 160 feet
South 63 degrees, East 840 feet
South 35 degrees, East 200 feet
South 50 degrees, East 400 feet
South 79 degrees, East 60 feet

Ending in the St. Joseph river on the east and west line between land owned by Christopher Curie and John W. Dills, situated in the north-west quarter of section twenty-two (22) township thirty-three (33) north range fourteen (14) east, State of Indiana,

De Kalb county.

And also the following lateral ditch, commencing thirty-five (35) rods south and twenty (20) rods east of the north-west corner of section twenty-one (21) township thirty-three (33) north range fourteen (14) east, and from thence as follows:

South 60 degrees, East 280 feet
South 75 degrees, East 395 feet
South 58 degrees, East 305 feet
South 65 degrees, East 170 feet
South 75 degrees, East 150 feet
South 60 degrees, East 100 feet
South 61 degrees, East 200 feet
South 70 degrees, East 200 feet
North 82 degrees, East 100 feet
North 87 degrees, East 100 feet
South 82 degrees, East 200 feet
East 400 feet
North 81 degrees, East 350 feet
South 87 degrees, East 150 feet
North 80 degrees, East 100 feet
North 73 degrees, East 100 feet
North 60 degrees, East 400 feet
North 50 degrees, East 170 feet
North 70 degrees, East 130 feet
On curve 100 feet
South 80 degrees, East 116 feet

Ending in the main ditch, seventy-five (75) feet below stake twenty-five (25) on land of John Y. Davis.

The proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Heirs of Isaac C. Culbertson.
Alexander and George Culbertson.
Franklin P. Hart.
Robert Davis.
James W. Hart.
Jacob I. White.
Christopher Curie.
Abraham Depew.
John Y. Davis.
William L. Hollabaugh.
David Knigely.
Lydia Myers.
William H. Saylor.
John and Jacob D. Leighty.
Emilus Case.
Henry H. and Orange Fales.
Emanuel Uhn.
Solomon Shearer.
Dennis D. Burley.

CYRUS C. WALTER,
Auditor De Kalb County.

WOOL WANTED!

100,000 Pounds of Wool Wanted, for which we will pay the highest market value. Also all kinds of country produce wanted. Call and see us.

S. & F. BARNEY.

To the Ladies!

I have received this week some elegant new millinery goods, such as Gause Trimmings in different shades of color, new novelties in Ribbons, Tips, Laces, &c. Also some of the latest shapes in Hats and Bonnets. I hav'nt time to tell you all about the many new things that I have, but come and see for yourselves. Don't forget the place, and come as early as possible, while you can have a full line to select from. Prices always the lowest. Miss S. A. Bartlett, St. Joe, Ind.

STAR WIND PUMP, E. A. Wanmaker, agent, Newville, Ind. Farmers who think of buying a mill should give me a call before doing so. The Star Mill is the best and prices the lowest.

HOUSE PAINTING. Graining, Glazing, Paper Hanging and Ceiling Decorating a specialty. All work guaranteed. B. A. Woodcox. Call and see me, or leave orders at the St. Joe Drugstore.

LOCALS.

The price of wheat is slightly on the boom.

No preaching in the Lutheran church Sunday.

Fine assortment of summer shawls at Case & Olds.

S. and F. Barney have a quantity of good corn for sale.

George Bloeks is giving his house a new coat of shingles.

For all kinds of agricultural implements call on Shutt & White.

Mrs. J. D. Leighty spent a few days in Fort Wayne last week.

Mart Engle and family are visiting friends near Montpelier, Ohio.

Auditor Walter was in town last Saturday, posting ditch notices.

Don't fail to call at Miss Bartlett's and see the new millinery goods.

When you are looking for a nice suit of clothes call on Case & Olds.

There is some talk of having a boat race here on old settler's day.

W. B. McClaren left for his new location at Findlay, Ohio, yesterday.

Ras Wanemaker says that there are 10 calf buyers and 5 peddlers in Newville.

Everybody is requested to meet at the old orchard on Friday, May 27th to clean off the ground for the old settler's meeting. Turn out.

The Second High School Commencement of the St. Joe school will take place on Thursday evening, May 26th, in the Lutheran church.

Kite flying is all the rage among the small boys.

There will be an abundance of cherries this year.

The first batch of wool was marketed here this week.

For millinery goods go to Miss Bartlett's, every time.

Try Primley's Family Remedies, for sale at the Drugstore.

Jud Davis was in town Saturday. He looks pretty thin after his long siege of sickness.

Mell Bishop sold four car loads of lumber for the new church at Spencerville last week.

Finest line of 5 cent Lawns in St. Joe at Case & Olds. Call in and examine them.

The Spencerville High School commencement took place last evening, at the M. E. church.

Forepaugh's show passed through this place last Sunday morning, on its way to Chicago.

It is reported that the strawberry crop will be a large one this year. The more, the better.

Dr. Sheller and Josh Lounsberry with their wives, attended church at Edgerton last Sunday.

We printed the programmes for the St. Joe and Spencerville school commencements, this week.

Land Plaster is one of the very best of manures. Try it; for sale at the St. Joe lumber yard.

Wes Hart shipped another car load of brick to Garrett this week. That makes five car loads in the last few weeks.

William Leighty and Charlie Bartlett took in Forepaugh's show at Defiance last Saturday, or else the show took them in; one of the six.

The shade trees that have been set out along our streets are beginning to make a nice appearance, and add much to the beauty of our village.

Joe Shilling forgot to tie his team the other evening, and they took a lively ramble around some of our streets. St. Joe is getting to be a noted place for run-a-ways. People sometimes forget what a hitching strap is for.

Bring your wool to St. Joe if you want to get the highest market price. It might also be well enough for us to state right here, that you can buy goods in this town cheaper than any other place in the county. Auburn and Garrett papers please copy.

The Memorial services held at the Lutheran church last Sunday evening, was largely attended. Mrs. Jones of Garrett, was present and offered a beautiful tribute of words to the memory of the departed sister. Rev. Thomas also made some appropriate remarks.

Frank Walker has moved his present harness shop back, and has begun the erection of quite a large addition to it. It will have a square front, and when completed it will make a nice looking building. Frank shows a good deal of push and enterprise, and that's just what a town needs.

The Y. P. T. L. A. will meet at the residence of Bert Hull, Monday evening, May 23rd, 1887. The following program has been prepared. Impersonation, Miss Anna Merrill; Select Reading, Clarence Hull; Quartette; Misses Mattie White, Nina Filley, Frank Hart and Bert Hull; Declamation, Clarence Hull; Select Reading, Addie Widney; Instrumental music, Leona Tustison; Select Reading, Hattie Langley; Impersonation, Emma Tustison; Instrumental music, Prudie Lounsberry.

The Champion Binder takes the lead of all others, and don't you forget it. Call on Shutt & White for full particulars.

Try Primley's Remedies!

- Blood and Liver Medicine for a Blood Purifier.
- Speedy Cure for Coughs Colds and Lung Affections.
- Iron Tonic Bitters for Kidney trouble and General Debility.
- Glycerine and Arnica Salve for all purposes where a salve is needed.

For Sale at the St. Joe Drugstore.

ST. JOE MARKETS.

CORRECTED EVERY FRIDAY.

Wheat	84 cts.
Oats	29 cts.
Corn	40 cts.
Butter	10 cts.
Eggs	10 cts.
Tallow	34 cts.
Lard	10 cts.
Potatoes	60 cts.
Smoked Hams	10 cts.
Shoulders and Side Meat	8 cts.

WORD OF THANKS.

To the people of St. Joe who so kindly assisted us, during the recent sickness and death of our daughter Lizzie, we would tender our sincere and heartfelt thanks. Furthermore that our thanks be extended to the choir who furnished the beautiful singing; also to her friends and scholars at Garrett, and to the Y. P. T. A. and W. C. T. U. of this place, for the honor and respect shown to her, as one of their number, by the presentation of such beautiful floral tributes. Words cannot express how much they were all appreciated by the family. May the Lord bless and reward you all for the many acts of kindness which you have shown to us, is the prayer of her grief-stricken father and mother.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Evans.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Y. P. T. A. of this place, upon the death of Miss Lizzie Evans:

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father in his infinite providence, has called from our midst one of our number, our beloved friend and founder of our society, Miss Lizzie Evans,

Resolved, that we feel with deep regret the loss of this one of our members.

Resolved, that the memory of Lizzie is endeared to us on account of her uniform kindness and christian character.

Resolved, that we tender to her parents our condolence in this their affliction.

Ellsworth Sanders,
Clarence Widney,
Miss Anna Merrill.

Committee on Resolutions.

Rev. Langley will preach in the Methodist church Sunday evening.

I went down to mi farm last week, to set out sum cucumber vines, and I diddent git back in tyme to rile peace fur the last paper, but ile be on hand after this, unless it gits to sulphurios hot. Bi the wa I hav herd ov sevrul pretty gude thing lately, but the ritcheest thing was about those two young fellers that went up north last Saturday to see a cupel ov gurls that used to be twins. The boys went to gude deel ov extra trabel to git their mustaches colored (bekaws if tha haddent, it wood hve ben impossibel to hav seen them) and after tha had got rigged out in fine style, tha started out, and walked the whole wa up ther a distance ov frum six to six and a half miles. Wen tha got ther tha rapped at the dore expecting ov korse the gurls wood open it and bid them weleum, but instead ov that the old gentleman came to the dore, and told them boys that he wood jist giv them three sekonds to git out, ov that yard or he wood turn the brode side ov his boot loose on them. The boys diddent stop to argue the qestshun, but tha jist got rite out hence forth and forever moor.

Barcus Q. Hippenhammer.

Case & Olds have an elegant line of Parasols.

The Sunday schools were both well attended last Sunday.

Aaron Thomas came home from Fort Wayne last Saturday, to go to church or to see his girl, or perhaps a little of both.

O. H. Widney says something is taking his "holdover" chickens. He don't know whether the animal that is doing the mischief has two legs or four.

SONGS OF THE OLD DAYS

Replaced by Modern Trash—Working the "Mother" Theme Too Freely.

In the mass of trash that has been adopted by the singing public, what has become of the good old songs of a decade, a score of years, or even a generation ago? "I cannot sing the old songs," affirms one of Claribel's plaintive ballads, but with the singers of the present it would seem to be less "cannot" than "will not" that keeps the "old songs" in the background "unmourned, unhonored, and unsung," save by those who cannot reconcile their musical consciences to the crimes against poetry and harmony committed by the writers of the imbecile lucubrations now in active demand. "The sweetest melodies," says Wordsworth, "are those by distance made more sweet"; and the distance seems to apply more to the space of time through which the music is heard in memory than to material space. What is sweeter than the memories called up by one of the old songs of our youth? The melody may be heard after intervals of years, and at a place thousands of miles from the home where it was made dear and familiar, but its notes have power to bridge over time and distance, and old scenes and associations come before us as in a picture on memory's wall. It may be a lullaby; and then we hear a mother's tender voice lulling us to rest or crooning softly to some younger brother or sister. It may be a love song, and the associations are almost as dear and have about them the glamor of romance.

Song-writing was never so profitable as at the present time, and yet the large profits are all made by the authors of insipid and stupid rubbish. The art of music was never the object of so many admirers as now, yet the taste of the masses inclines to favor the trash turned out by ignorant tyros rather than the many good old songs or the few good new ones.

The theme of maternal affection—the purest and tenderest of sentiments—is harped upon by modern song-writers, until it is almost turned into ridicule. Those "mother" songs should be tabooed. They flood the market. Go into a music store and you will find dozens of them strewn upon the counter. Evening and the breeze will bear them to your ear from the mansions of the unblest, where young women sing of their love for young maternal parents while the latter are skirmishing around doing the housework, or mending the raiment of the family musician. The melodies of these songs are plagiarisms and the words are too absurd to be anything but original. "Mother" has been slandered lyrically and she should be allowed a respite. Everything about her has been sung about from her eyes to her shoes.

Any one guilty of writing or singing a song of this kind should be considered a conspirator against the public weal. If people want to apostrophize the mother-familias let them sing one of the old-time favorites. Where will you find a sweeter ballad on this subject than "Rock Me to Sleep," which was written by Elizabeth Akers Allen?

Backward, turn backward, O Time, in your flight,
Make me a child again, just for to-night!
Mother, come back from the echoless shore,
Take me again to your heart as of yore,
Kiss me from my forehead the furrows of care,
Smooth the few silver threads out of my hair;
Over my slumbers your loving watch keep—
Rock me to sleep, mother, rock me to sleep.

Backward, flow backward, O tide of the years!
I am so weary of toil and of tears—
Toil without recompense, tears all in vain—
Take them, and give me my child-deed again!
I have grown weary of dust and decay—
Weary of frowning my soul-wealth away;
Weary of sowing for others to reap—
Rock me to sleep, mother, rock me to sleep.

Who has not felt the regret and the longing expressed in that song! It is genuinely poetic and yet simple enough to have sung its way down to the hearts of a generation. How does "Stick to Your Mother, Tom," compare with this? If we are to have "mother" songs, let there be a renaissance of "Rock Me to Sleep." John Howard Payne's "Home, Sweet Home," is one of the songs that is old and yet ever new. It was originally written for an opera, which was produced at Drury Lane. The piece failed, but the song succeeded. One hundred thousand copies were sold in a year and the publishers made a fortune. Payne never received any royalties worth mentioning, but as he has a very nice monument in Oak Hill cemetery he probably feels quite content.

Moore's songs seems to have been driven out by the driveling ditties of minstrel makes and variety fakirs. No one, however, will question the superiority of "The Last Rose of Summer" or "The Meeting of the Waters" over "The Land Where the Shamrock Grows," and other latter-day lyrics of Erin. Some of the ballads sung on the stage lamenting the oppression of the green isle are the acme of the ridiculous. Patriotic Celts can do no better than cling to Tom Moore when they are desirous of vacally demonstrating their love for the sod. Let us have less of "The Wearing of the Green" and more of—

The harp that once through Tara's halls
The soul of music shed,
Now hangs as mute on Tara's walls
As if that soul were fled,
So sleeps the pride of former days,
So glory's thrill is o'er,
And hearts that once beat high for praise
Now feel that pulse no more.

Fishers' Superstitions.

Before very rough weather there occasionally comes a strange calm, a hush—like to nothing save the holding of a breath before a furious outburst of rage. It has a weird effect, coming, as it often does, at nightfall. After this a dull, wailing, muffled sound creeps out of the darkness—a sound as lamentation and entreaty heard from afar. "The sea is calling," they say here; and when this happens the fishermen expect a gale before morning.

When the sea has got hold of its prey, and there is a house or houses desolate in the village, they hold that it mourns, making quite a different sound to any other time.

About funerals there are odd observances and ideas. It is unlucky either to meet or cross a funeral train.

There are girls in the village who are sort of professional mourners (though unpaid) for children and young women who die unmarried. They are dressed in black, with white hoods, and shawls of white spun silk on their shoulders. Six of these mourners is the mystic number, and when one is married another is selected to fill her place. Probably it is considered a post of honor, for there never seems a vacancy, though I do not know how the selection is made. They are grave-looking damsels, so it may be by their fitting appearance.

At a young man's funeral there are only two of these girls, who walk before and are called "servers."

The Dissenters have a custom of singing a sort of dirge over their dead, not unlike in effect the chanting of the monks at a funeral in Rome. But when the sad duties are done comes a time of feasting. Their pride forbids them to have anything but a "menseful funeral." Another peculiarity is that when the people are asked to attend, it is by men and the girls named "bidders" (not necessarily relatives of the deceased).—Ari Journal.

The Language of Nails.

He who has white spots on his nails is fond of the society of ladies, but is fickle in his attachments. He who keeps them well rounded at the tips is a proud man. He whose nails are detached from the finger at the further extremities, and when cut showing a larger proportion of the finger than usual, ought never to get married, as it would be a wonder if he were master in his own house, for short nails betoken patience, good nature, and above all, resignation under severe trials.

Nails which remain long after being cut level with the finger end are a sign of generosity. Transparent nails with light red mark a cheerful, gentle, and amiable disposition. Lovers with transparent nails usually carry their passion to the verge of madness. If you come across a man with long and pointed nails you may take it for granted that he is either a player of the guitar, a tailor, or an attorney. He who keeps his nails somewhat long, round, and tipped with black is a romantic poet.

The owner of very round and smooth nails is of a peaceable and conciliatory disposition. He who has the nail of his right thumb slightly notched is a regular glutton, even nibbling at himself, as when having nothing eatable at hand, he falls to biting his own finger-nails. And, lastly, he who keeps his nails irregularly cut is hasty and determined. Men who have not the patience to cut their nails properly generally come to grief; most of them commit suicide or get married.—Baltimore News.

HEAVEN opened wide her ever-during gates, harmonious sound! on golden hinges turning.—Milton

Southern Mountaineers.

Among these mountaineers the purity of old English nomenclature and traces of English dialect barbarisms are singularly well preserved. Occasionally there is a strong Welsh infusion in a "neighborhood," which has been existent longer than current memory. In the West Virginia mountains there is a singular race of dwarfish people whose origin nobody can suggest. They have been held in contempt by their neighbors ever since they appeared, and are even yet regarded as menials little better than slaves. They intermarry among and perpetuate themselves, now and then getting fresh, but not better. blood, from those outside whose condition renders harmless the contempt that they will invite by marriage with the dwarfs. In the North Carolina range there is a strong Turkish reminiscence directly traceable to fugitive piracy. Constantine is there a commonly recurring surname, being a corruption of the Turkish Constantine, a name borne by the merciless John of that ilk, who, for some years before the war, was an outlawed highwayman and murderer infesting the swamp lands of Carolina, levying terror and tribute upon the same surrounding country. So great was the dread of his name and the traditional infamy attributed to him that he had seemed to protect him on many occasions, that even after he had been pursued into a swamp and killed by avenging planters, the negroes firmly believed in his ability to triumph over death, and for years were confident that he would again appear in the majesty of his gigantic person and wield his celebrated one-fingered hand with more than his destroying skill. Of the British refugees who took to the mountains for liberty's sake, many were enslaved convicts but not all were felons. With the connivance of the corrupt officers of the Georges there were many instances of kidnapping. The slave trade with Africa, which was then precarious and slight, could not furnish the colonies with enough labor. Even the efflux of felons from English parsons, filled, as they were, with men accused and convicted on slight grounds, could not supply the terrors of the coast climate and the severity of the toil imposed killed off the penal slaves rapidly. Resort was had to force, and kidnapping Englishmen to be sold as slaves in Virginia became almost as frequent as the impressment of American seamen for British ships at a more historic period. Many of those who escaped from the coast plantations by flying to the mountain fastnesses were therefore innocent, unfortunates, and deserving men. Embittered by their fate, made self-reliant by their solitude and the terrors and dangers of their surroundings, all these confused yet distinct elements grew up imbued with wild courage, an instinctive disregard of life, and a character that was Puritanic in some directions, while it was singularly loose and reckless in others.—The Southern Bironae.

Perils of Photography.

In the year 2887 nobody will be proud of his ancestors. There will be no claims of long descent, and people, instead of constantly alluding to their forefathers, the pioneers of 1849, the passengers of the original Mayflower, will carefully avoid all mention of them. Why? Because when any such allusion is made the nouveau riche will ask to inspect the family album, and the photographs of this century will simply be discreditably.

Do you ever open the old album and look over the pictures? Well, the old folks—your father and mother—always look well, for, don't you know, parents are always old-fashioned. But there's your aunt, with a coal-scuttle bonnet and hoops, and her hair pasted down over her forehead and parted in the middle; with a kind of jaundice complexion and bright eyes, that show in their pupils nothing but the excited, intense interest of trying to look into the camera for fifty seconds without winking. And you thought she was so pretty then, and you remember as a child when you went and told your mother you saw her being kissed by her beau at the garden gate. Then there's her beau, who afterward married her. He was so handsome, don't you know. Look at him! He wears a long frock coat with lappets that curl up under his arms; he has a flaming necktie and a shirt front showing down to where the coat looks as if it were tied by a string tight around his waist. His trousers don't fit, and his face is covered with yellow specks, and looks as if he had swallowed a fly while he was dying agonies in his wind-spoiling the picture. Then turn to yourself. Well, that's not so bad. You know you were very pretty child, and you remember the dress—well, you're not quite so old-fashioned—to yourself—as the others. You turn the page. There's Fanny whom you jilted. You look at him. You're glad you jilted him. He to be so beautifully pensive. No, looks like an idiot, and—well, doubt if he ever could have been horrid, anyway. Then your husband comes along and turns the book and says: "Do you remember the day you close it on his fingers; it's fear. You have an old-fashioned, shapely black silk gown with wide sleeves or something with looks like gloves, big ruffles, and the skirt is graceful bunched out like a half-exhausted loon. And you've had the picture painted, and the beautiful red of your cheeks has become mottled, and your hair is yellow, and the hair is a dirty brown color, and you've got hold awkwardly of a green chair. And your husband wonders what he ever could see in you, until you show him his picture. Then he shuts up suddenly like a knife, don't you know?"—Francisco Chronicle.

Up a Tall Tree in Borneo.

The Hill Dyaks of Borneo are expert climbers. Mr. Hornaby, while collecting specimens of natural history, saw a Dyak ascend a large tapang tree, 100 feet in diameter at the base, straight to a ship's mast, and without the smallest limb or knot for 120 feet up.

The man went up the tree to see a bees' nest hanging from the underside of the lowest limb. The nest was simply a large, naked, triangular piece of white comb.

A Dyak "ladder" had been put up the previous year, and reached from the ground to the branches. It consisted of seven 20-foot bamboo poles held almost end to end alongside the trunk by sharp pegs driven into soft wood about two feet apart.

The pegs were driven first on one side of the poles and then on the other, and to them the bamboos were lashed by rattans, which held them first about eight inches from the tree. The pegs served as the rungs of the ladder.

The builder must have been a bold man, with nerves of steel. He was obliged to let the ends of the poles overlap a few feet in order to build the ladder with safety to himself.

The completion of the ladder was most difficult. Clinging to the slight bamboo pole, 100 feet from the ground, he hauled up the last bamboo, twenty feet long, drove in the peg, lashed the lower end of the pole to it, and then ascended that shaking bamboo to fasten it at the top.

The Dyak honey-hunter fastened to a basket to receive the honey. Making up his torch-wood, with which to smoke the bees out of the nest, and away from himself, he ignited it, slung it by a cord from his neck, and that it would hang below his feet, and started up the slender "ladder."

Hand and foot he went up, peg after peg, with a nonchalant ease which would have done credit to the most daring of sailors. Even that sailor would have been pardoned if he was a little shaky while climbing, a tall factor chimney by the lightning-rod.

On reaching the lower limb, 120 feet from the ground, he took his torch in one hand, waved it to and fro until it smoked freely, and then crawled on along the bare branch until he was in reach of the coveted nest.

Examining it first on one side, and then on the other, he shouted down at cheerfully as if his climb had been nothing. "No honey!"

Leaving the comb untouched, he descended with a smile, and reached the ground without the least tremor.—Youth's Companion.

The Men to Interview.

The man who wants to be interviewed is the man the reporter does not want to interview. He will show his ax to grind. Find a man who has to be sought, one who knows something and has not talked out all he knows, and he is a treasure.—New Orleans Picayune.

WHAT it is our duty to do we must do because it is right, not because any one can demand it of us.—Whewell.

A Seaside Passenger.

On the ocean, care a little about a storm. He is positively indifferent whether he is washed overboard or not. But, set right by a wine-glassful or two of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, he feels renewed interest in his personal safety. This fine corrective neutralizes brackish water—often compulsorily drunk on shipboard, to the grievous detriment of health—the brackish impurities which give rise to disorders of the stomach, liver, and bowels. To the mariner, the tourist, the Western pioneer and miner, the Bitters is invaluable as a means of protection against malaria, when its seeds are latent in air and water. The effects of overwork, mental or manual, it is a most reliable antidote, and, to the debilitated and nervous, it affords great and speedily felt relief and vigor.

Nym Crinkle says we have morphine girls who use this drug to drown mental trouble; belladonna girls who employ this powerful herb to dilate the pupil and give brightness to the eyes; the arsenic girl who employs this mineral to improve her complexion; the nitrate of silver girls, who employ this poisonous wash to the hair, to obliterate gray hairs; and the nicotine girl who smokes her cigarettes privately because she enjoys the habit. Nym Crinkle is right so far as the girls are concerned, but how is it about the men?—Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

At Bieber, Lassen County, Cal., resides Mr. Thomas P. Ford, who writes: "I can truthfully say I have used St. Jacobs Oil in my family for years, and find it a never failing remedy for all painful complaints."

The dude's collar is said to be getting lower. Is this one of the effects of the decline in stocks?

MR. F. E. HUSH, Adrian, N. Y., says: "My father was very lame with rheumatism. Now after using St. Jacobs Oil he is no lammer than I am. He was cured." Price 50 cents.

She's Here Already.

Dr. Mary Walker says the coming woman will wear pants. If Dr. Mary Walker had been a married man she would have said regarding the pants business that the woman is here, and she wears the pants by a large and most enthusiastic majority.—Boston Courier.

According to the Austrian Consul at Yokohama, the earthquakes of Japan destroy a city every seven years on the average.

What can be more disagreeable, more disgusting, than to sit in a room with a person who is troubled with catarrh, and has to keep coughing and clearing his or her throat of the mucus which drops into it? Such persons are always to be pitied if they try to cure themselves and fail. But, if they get Dr. Sassa-Catarrh Remedy there need be no failure.

THE memorable assembly known in English history as the Long Parliament is so called because its sessions continued for thirteen years. This was the Parliament that arrayed itself against Charles I., precipitating the civil war between the Cavaliers and Roundheads, and eventually bringing the monarch to the block.

Rupture radically cured, also pile tumors and fistula. Pamphlet of particulars 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

THEY are trying to suppress the whip factories on the ground that they deal in lickens.

INDIGESTION, dyspepsia, nervous prostration and all forms of general debility relieved by taking MENSA'S PEPTONIZED BEEF TONIC, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. It contains blood-making, force-generating and life-sustaining properties; is invaluable in all enfeebled conditions, whether the result of exhaustion, nervous prostration, overwork, or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. Hazard, Hazard & Co., proprietors, New York.

THE "I deal" man will usually be found presiding over a faro bank.

AMONG the people of to-day there are few, indeed, who have not heard of the merits of Prickly Ash Bark and Berries as a household remedy. Teas and drinks have been made of them for centuries, and in hundreds of families have formed the sole reliance in rheumatic and kidney diseases. Prickly Ash Bitters now takes the place of the old system and is more beneficial in all troubles of this nature.

SLAVE of the still—servant in a deaf and dumb asylum.

Excursion to Ottawa, Kansas. The Great Rock Island Route announces an excursion rate of one first-class fare for the round trip to Ottawa, Kan., and return, on account of the annual meeting of the German Baptist brethren. Tickets good for going passage May 25 to 29 inclusive, and for return passage thirty days from date of sale. Free chair cars, magnificent Pullman palace-sleeping cars, elegant day coaches, unequalled dining cars. Two daily trains each way. For further particulars address E. A. Holbrook, General Ticket and Passenger Agent, Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway, Chicago, Ill.

The best cough medicine is Pico's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere. 25c.

A Sad Case of Poisoning

Is that of any man or woman afflicted with disease or derangement of the liver, resulting in poisonous accumulations in the blood, scrofulous affections, sick headaches, and diseases of the kidneys, lungs or heart. These troubles can be cured only by going to the primary cause, and putting the liver in a healthy condition. To accomplish this result speedily and effectually nothing has proved itself so efficacious as Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which has never failed to do the work claimed for it, and never will.

THE pugilist who was struck foul said man wants but little here below—the belt.

A Husband's Greatest Blessing

Is a strong, healthy, vigorous wife, with a clear, handsome complexion. These can all be acquired by using Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

EVERY wide awake town of 500 inhabitants or over, should have its local newspaper. Full particulars regarding the cost of an outfit, and how to run it and make money, can be had by addressing Practical Printer, box 921, Fort Wayne, Ind.

A Good Appetite

Is essential to good health; but at this season it is often lost, owing to the poverty or impurity of the blood, derangement of the digestive organs, and the weakening effect of the changing season. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine for creating an appetite, toning the digestion, and giving strength to the whole system. Now is the time to take it. Be sure to get Hood's.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla, and am pleased to say it has cured me of a very severe pain in the small of my back. I also gave it to my little girl. She had very little appetite, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has increased it wonderfully, and from our experience I highly recommend this excellent medicine." Mrs. A. B. L. L. Van Horn Street, Jersey City.

Makes the Weak Strong

I must say Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine I ever used. Last spring I had no appetite, and the best work I did fatigued me over so much. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon I felt as if I could do as much in a day as I had formerly done in a week. My appetite is voracious. Mrs. M. V. Bayard, Atlantic City, N. J.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. Price 50c for $1. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES. SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES. It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS
CURES ALL DISEASES OF THE LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH AND BOWELS.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
PRICE 1 DOLLAR.

DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICK HEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c. disappear at once under its beneficial influence.

It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbid its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO.
Sole Proprietors, ST. LOUIS AND KANSAS CITY.

ELY'S CREAM BALM
IS WORTH $1,000 TO ANY MAN, Woman, or Child Suffering from CATARRH!

Not a liquid or snuff.

A particle is applied into each nostril and is immediately absorbed; by mail, registered, 50c. Circulars free. ELY BROS., Drugists, Owego, N. Y.

ELLY'S CREAM BALM
CURES COLD IN HEAD, CATARRH, RHEUMATISM, BRUISES, SORE THROAT, PRICE 50 CENTS. ELY BROS., OWEGO, N. Y., U.S.A.

ADVERTISERS or others who wish to examine this paper, or obtain estimates on advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St., the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

RUPTURE If you want relief and cure of your home, send for Dr. J. A. Sherman's circular of instructions. 291 Broadway, New York.

PATENTS R. S. & A. P. LACEY, Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C. Instructions and opinions as to patentability FREE. 12-17 years' experience.

ENSIONS COLLECTED and increased by Fitzgerald & Powell, Indianapolis, Ind. Old cases reopened. Send for copy of Laws, free.

Imported Stallion CHERI, 1679 (423). Winner of Sweepstakes Premium at the Great International Show of the Ill. State Fair, held in Chicago, Sept. 1896. Property of W. L. ELLWOOD, IMPORTER AND BREEDER OF PERCHERON HORSES.

The Largest Breeding Establishment of Pure Blood Percherons in the United States. Five hundred head of Pure Blood and grades now on hand. A large number of which were imported in July, 1896, and another large importation of from 150 to 200 head will arrive about the middle of October. Visitors always welcome—come and see them. I handle nothing but the best, and take pride in showing stock.

Location, DE KALB, ILL. 15 miles west of Chicago, on Omaha Div. C. & N. W. Ry. Send for Catalogue.

THE GRAND RAPIDS HERD

Holstein-Friesians.

About 100 HEAD of both sexes and all ages. Several Head of BULLS READY FOR SERVICE Up to two years old. Choice Cows and Heifers bred to my prize service bulls.

Prins Midlum and Jonge Carre. Who have no superiors. A specialty of young pairs not taken for foundation stock. Every Head Registered and Guaranteed Pure-Bred. Write for Catalogue and prices, and state age and sex desired, or come and see the herd.

M. L. SWEET, Breeder and Importer. (MENTION THIS PAGE.) Grand Rapids, Mich.

HARTER'S IRON TONIC
THE ONLY TRUE

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and restore the HEALTH and VIGOR OF YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex with D.B.R. HARTE'S IRON TONIC safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only add to its popularity. Do not experiment—get ORIGINAL AND BEST.

Dr. HARTE'S LIVER PILLS (Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dose Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)

THE DR. HARTE MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

LADIES
The Oldest Medicine in the World is probably Dr. Isaac Thompson's Celebrated Eye Water

This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century, and notwithstanding the many other preparations that have been introduced into the market, the sale of this article is constantly increasing. If the directions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits.

John L. Thompson, Sons & Co., Troy, N. Y.

PILO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

DETECTIVES
Wanted in every County. Shrewd men to act under our instructions in our Secret Service. Experience not necessary. Send stamp for particulars. GHANNAN DETECTIVE BUREAU, 44 Arcade, Cincinnati, O.

PILES
Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is a sure cure for hemorrhoids, itching piles. Cure guaranteed. Price 50c and $1. At druggists or mailed by Waldron, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Agents, Toledo, Ohio.

$350 Will buy a complete Newspaper Only $1. suitable for publishing a weekly paper in a town of 1000, or over, inhabitants. Address FORT WAYNE NEWS-PAPER UNION, Fort Wayne, Ind.

TOWER'S SLICKER
FISH BRAND
Is The Best Waterproof Coat Ever Made.

Don't waste your money on a gum or rubber coat. The FISH BRAND SLICKER is absolutely water and wind proof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. Ask for the "FISH BRAND" SLICKER and take no other. At your storekeeper or send for descriptive catalogue to A. J. TOWER, 21 Shumway St., Boston, Mass.

Miss B. Stevens & Co. PENSIONS. Metropolitan Block, Chicago, Ill.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel full, languid, low-spirited, listless, and indiscreetly misanthropic, both physically and mentally; experienced a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "grogginess," or emptiness of stomach in the morning; tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

CURES ALL HUMORS, from a common Itch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula, Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin. In short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eruptions rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Gouty or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE." Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and bodily health will be established.

CONSUMPTION, which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties is unequalled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the

Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy. Sold by Druggists at $1.00, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 643 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS
The Original and Only Genuine. Safe and always Reliable. Beware of worthless imitations. Ladies ask your Druggist for "Chichester's English" and take no other, or include 4c. stamps to us for particulars in letter by return mail. CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., 234 Madison Square, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Ask for "Chichester's English" Pennyroyal Pills. Take no other.

JONES PAYS THE FREIGHT
3 Ton Wagon Sent, 1000 Lbs. Steel Bearings, Brass Yoke Beam and Beam Box for $60.00. Every size Scale. For free price list send this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y. Sure Relief for ASTHMA, KIDDER'S PASTILLES, by mail, Stowell & Co., Charlestown, Mass.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines of under the horse's feet. Address Brewster's Safety Rein Holder, Holly, Mich.

N. U. F. W. No. 21-87. When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PITH AND POINT.

ON THE RACQUE.

When she hasn't a racquet in her racquet. The maiden is very unhappy, alasque.

A WRITER in Tid-Bits says: "You don't can buy anythings for dher soul mit money." Just wait till the pew rent collector comes around and see.—Boston Courier.

THE man who wants the earth and can't get it should not despair. He will get six feet of it by and by, providing he is not drowned in mid ocean.—Boston Courier.

"Ergo," remarked the professor to his class, after a long preamble; "Ergo," then he stopped to take breath. "Well, let ergo," sung out one of the students, and the conclusion was ruined.

"A MAN can get nothing without labor," said a woman to a tramp who declined to saw some wood in exchange for a dinner. "I know better than that," he replied as he turned away; "he can get hungry."

YOUNG housewife (consulting with cook about the dinner for a party)—As a second course we will have eel. Cook—How many ought I to get, ma'am? Young Wife—I fancy ten feet will be sufficient.

FATHER of Stupid Boy—Professor, I want you to teach this boy German and French. Professor—Why do you want the Germans and French to know what an ass he is? Isn't it enough that the English-speaking races should know it? Texas Siftings.

SHE—Where are you going, Charley? He—Going to the theater. She—Ah, I understand. The ballet. But why don't you go to the dog show instead? I think you will like it ever so much better. The dogs, you know, have four—twice as many as the ballet-dancers.—Boston Transcript.

OLD lady to street urchin—Wouldn't you like to be a good little boy and go to Sunday-school and be taught not to swear or say wicked things? Little boy—No'm. Me fadder's goin' to git me a job on de canal to drive mules, an' I musn't do anythin' to interfere wid de bizness.—New York Sun.

HE was an ardent but an economical lover, and had been courting her for three months. "When do you think, dearest," he said, as they sat near the moonlit window one evening, "that the moon appears at its best?" "I think," she replied, "that the moon always looks the loveliest when one is returning home from the opera."—Dry Goods Chronicle.

OMAHA husband—Now, I think this is going too far. You promised me you would countermand your order for that dress. Omaha wife—I wrote to the firm that very day. "But here is the dress and the bill for it—enough to bankrupt me almost. How do you explain that?" "I gave you the letter to mail and I suppose you forgot it, as usual."—Omaha World.

"JANET," said her mother, "young Mr. Piebiter comes to the house now very frequently, and often stays very late; have you any reason to think his intentions are serious?" "I should think so," she replied; "he says he has no conversational powers, and so he wants to sing all the time, and he knows nothing but church music. Serious? I should groan."—Burdette.

GENTLEMAN—Two dollars you will charge for carrying in that coal, Uncle Rastus? Why, you never charged me but one dollar before. Uncle Rastus—I know dat, boss; but labor has riz. Gentleman—I would rather carry it in myself than pay that extra dollar. Uncle Rastus—All right, boss. Yo' kin give me one dollar and carry de coal in yo'self ef yez wan's ter. I'se satisfied.

"How DELIGHTFUL it will be, Cicely, my dear. Of course you have an invitation to the theater party, and we are all to leave off our hats," said her friend, excitedly, as she dropped in for her morning call. "Yes, I have an invitation, to be sure, but I hardly think it worth while to join in the hat-reform movement myself." "Certainly not. I ought to have remembered that your hat is 'all new,' for the first time in two years." There was no "applause" when that theatrical party came in.—Hartford Post.

DAYTONA, Fla., ships on an average of 250 boxes of oranges a day to Northern markets.

ONE Montana stock-raiser lost 20,000 head of cattle last winter, out of a herd of 26,000.

Feminine Stenographers.

Did you ever have anything to do with a woman stenographer? If so, you know that where there is one, self-respecting, work-respecting, money-making, successful, acceptable servant in that line, as we are all servants in some line, there are a dozen who, forgetting themselves, forgetting their occupation, forgetting the object for which they are sought, utilize their unquestionable art far up along the line of intellectual endeavor, simply as a hinge on which to turn for flirtation, for a boy and girl give and take intimacy, so that men of real industrious habits and end-seeking desire say nearly every time, "Oh, thunder! I would a darned sight rather do the work myself than be bothered with a woman." I wonder if I make myself clearly understood. I wonder if I draw the line between the women who do work industriously, conscientiously, intelligently, honestly, and successfully, and those who, like my friend in the telegraph office, are surly and indifferent and unpleasant, and others too, who are equally objectionable and don't know the difference between a woman who is sought for herself and a woman who is sought for her art.

I have utilized stenographers for ten years and I have utilized telegraphers for over twenty years, and the conclusion I have come to about women in both lines is this, that, take them by and large, many of them are no use, and the why and wherefore is very simple and plain. It is, because, first, they expect to get married, and regard their work as a mere means to that end; and second, they insist upon being regarded as women rather than as employees. I concede there mental superiority as a rule. I insist that they have certain special physical advantages in the way of manipulative facility, but I am compelled to recognize what is forced before me, their utter inability to recognize the supreme authority of duty and work over the charms of personality. I suppose there are three thousand stenographers in New York city, women, and there are twice as many telegraphers. Their ranks are depleted every year by matrimony, and the one-third who get married of course instantly forget all the troubles of life and swim out in the paradisaical sea of enjoyment, and alleged bliss. The other two-thirds sulk and grow older and think it is confounded mean that they too have not the chance that has been granted their more favored sisters, and the public has to suffer for it.

The public is not to blame, the public can't marry everybody, and if there are more women than there are men, so long as the laws against bigamy are enforced what can the poor fellows do? If women would only regard themselves as entities, put into this world for a purpose, and that purpose not matrimony alone, matrimony being but a simple incident to them as well as to their masculine companions, and having chosen a life of work to adhere to it, being quietly molded, directed, swerved, as the case may be, by matrimony, as by misfortune, or by good fortune, or by one of the 10,000 incidents liable to happen, they would then have just as good a chance in working life as any man has; but until they learn that when they sit as receivers in a telegraph office they are not there as girls, not as women to be flirted with, to be talked to, to be joked with, or if in the operating room they are to be held as rigidly to account as the man who sits next them, or if in the practice of that marvelous art of stenography they sit quietly at their desk and do as they are told without the quick glance of the bright eye, without the pretty ways, without any of these infernal attentions which characterize so many women, but simply conduct themselves as the machine a true stenographer is, turning out from the hand what they take in at the ear, there is no reason why they should not succeed as well as the man who operates by their side.—Boston Globe.

A NEWLY-CONTRIVED, turbine water wheel has a water-supply chamber and a bearing or step, the latter having a convex bearing surface. The water-wheel shaft has a concave lower end, and is provided with a water channel leading from a point in the water-supply chamber through the concave lower end of the shaft, and is supplied with a second outlet opening a short distance above the lower end. A strainer covers the inlet opening, and a brush is adopted to free its meshes.

J. H. CONRAD,

DEALER IN

ROOFING AND SPOUTING

GUTTERING, HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS.

Cutlery, Nails, Paints, Woodenware &c.

MAIN STREET,

ST. JOE, IND.

All work and goods guaranteed to give satisfaction. Give me a call.

WILLIAM CURIE,

PROPRIETOR OF

St. Joe Meat Market,

ST. JOE, IND.

Highest market price paid for Hides, Tallow &c. Give me a call.

M. TUSTISON,

DEALER IN

GROCERIES,

EARTHEN POTTS FOR HOUSE PLANTS

ORANGES, CANDIES, CIGARS &c.

MAIN ST.

ST. JOE, IND.

J. F. WALKER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

Harness, Collars,

WHIPS, HARNESS OIL &c.

ST. JOE, IND.

Repairing done promptly. Prices as low as the lowest. Call and see.

R. G. COBURN,

AGENT FOR THE

LEBION A SPRING Cultivator

AND FIELD HARROW.

AND DAISY RAKE.

Farmers will save money by seeing me before buying. I will call on you with a sample in a few days. R. G. Coburn, St. Joe, Ind.

Take Notice!

Having returned from Tennessee, I will assist again in

Raising & Moving Buildings,

in short all kinds of Rope, Tackle and Jack-screw Work. Having had 15 years experience, and improved machinery, I feel safe in guaranteeing satisfaction. Heavy and difficult work a specialty. Correspondence solicited. Direct all communications to H. or M. Milliman, St. Joe Station, Ind., or A. Monroe, Hicksville, Ohio.

Undertaker and Embalmer. Keeps on hand constantly, a stock of Undertaking Supplies, Collins, Caskets, Burial Robes &c. I can supply as fine goods as can be furnished. Will attend to making all arrangements for funerals. Calls responded to at all hours of the night. Office on corner of Main and Second Streets; residence on corner of Main and Fourth Streets, St. Joe, Ind.

Arthur James,

DEALER IN

Watches, Clocks,

AND JEWELRY.

Repairing done promptly and all work warranted. Call and see me at Bair & Son's store, Spencerville, Ind.

M. T. BISHOP,

DEALER IN

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS,

Shingles, Lime, Lath,

MOULDINGS &c.

Large Stock and Prices Low. Yard Near Depot, St. Joe, Ind.

F. A. ZEIGLER,

MAKER AND DEALER IN

HARNESS

COLLARS, WHIPS,

Fly Nets and Dusters,

HARNESS OIL &c.

Prices the Lowest. All work guaranteed. Call and see me.

THE ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. I.

ST. JOE, IND., FRIDAY, MAY 27, 1887.

NO. 18.

Churches.

DISCIPLE.

SERVICES every alternate Sunday evening, in the Lutheran church. Cottage prayer meeting every Friday evening.

J. A. THOMAS, PASTOR.

METHODIST PROTESTANT.

SERVICES every alternate Sunday at 10:30 A. M. Prayer meeting every Tuesday evening. Sunday School at 9:30 A. M.

J. M. LANGLEY, PASTOR.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN.

SERVICES every Sunday, one Sunday in the morning at 10:30, and the following Sunday in the evening. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Sunday School at 9:30 A. M.

S. P. FRYBERGER, PASTOR.

Societies.

G. A. R.

REGULAR meetings on Saturday evening on or before the full moon of each month, at their hall over Leighty's store.

O. H. WIDNEY, COMMANDER.

J. M. MILLIMAN, ADJUTANT.

Business Notices.

H. W. BOWMAN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Office opposite the Drugstore.

ST. JOE HOTEL, Wm. Leighty, proprietor. Special attention given to furnishing teams for commercial men.

B. S. SHEFFER, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, St. Joe, Ind. Prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to his care.

ST. JOE BARBER SHOP, one door west of hotel, Will. Gee, proprietor. Satisfaction guaranteed. Your patronage is solicited.

FILLEY, LOUNSBERRY AND SHULER, proprietors of the St. Joe Saw and Planing Mill. All work promptly done. Cash paid for Oak Logs.

CITY BARBER SHOP, St. Joe, Ind., John Hull, proprietor. Shaving, Hair Cutting &c. done in the best of style. Come and see me. Two doors west of Kinsey's Furniture Store.

SIMON. WINELAND, proprietor St. Joe Handle and Feed Mills. Feed grinding a specialty. Highest prices paid for second growth White Ash. Enquire at the mill for full particulars.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

PROF. TYNDALL says the sky is indebted for its blue color to the particles floating in the air.

It is reported that a depth of over 5,200 feet has been reached in boring at Schladerbach, near Halle.

A new adulteration of butter has been invented. By adding gelatine, which absorbs ten times its weight of water, the consistency of the butter is retained and the water adulteration is not noticeable.

OUT of 15,000 earthquakes observed on coastlines, the German seismologist, Kluge, found that only 124 were accompanied by sea waves, although a very large proportion of the shocks had probably originated under the sea.

OUT of some 10,000 species of birds recognized by ornithologists, there are 853 species and sub-species which make their home in North America. There are also eighty-two others which find their way to this continent as stragglers from other countries.

AN English company has perfected its arrangements for providing sick chambers with telephones. The object is to give persons suffering from contagious diseases a chance to talk with their friends. Speaking tubes are inadmissible on account of the infectious nature of the breath.

It is stated that the specimens of clay from the Royal Society's borings in the Nile delta have not at present yielded any but "derived" fossils; but beds of gravel found at a depth of 120 feet show that the whole surface was formerly 120 feet higher, and was that of an ordinary river valley.

AN English physicist has, it is said, made a perfect pendulum by suspending a lead shot by a single fiber of cocoon silk in a vacuum produced by a Sprengel pump. The shot, one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter, weighs one-third of a gram, is suspended by a two-foot fiber, and is placed in a tube three-quarters of an inch internal diameter. It has a vibrational range of a quarter of an inch on each side of mid-position, the vacuum being equivalent to one-tenth of a millionth of an atmosphere.

M. LEON ESQUILLE has perfected a marvelous invention in electricity and photography. By speaking into a photophone transmitter, which consists of a highly-polished diaphragm, reflecting a ray of light, this ray of light is set into vibration, and a photograph is made of it on a traveling band of sensitized paper. Now comes the wonderful part. If the image of this photograph tracing is projected by means of an electric arc or oxyhydrogen light upon a selenium receiver, the original speech is then heard. It is evident that there is no limit to the development of this peculiar combination of methods.

RECENT weather charts of the British Meteorological Council show that during the entire autumn a permanent area of high barometer is situated in the mid-Atlantic south of the parallel of forty degrees. North of this, low-pressure tracks are very frequent. Many of the storms originate over the United States, and they often gather force after starting on their eastward course over the Atlantic, sometimes even entirely crossing the ocean. The vicinity of Newfoundland, where hot and cold waters meet, and there are great differences of air-temperature in a very small area, has a great influence upon the weather of the Atlantic and of the British Islands. Here are formed many storms, while some are here stopped and suddenly broken up.

A COUNTRY paper in a notice of a lecture given by a phrenologist said: "Behind the platform is a large gallery of life-size portraits twelve feet high."

SOME SINGULAR ANNOUNCEMENTS.

A HANDBILL put forth at Exeter was headed: "Wanted a few healthy members to complete a sick society."

Is the extreme West a shanty bears the sign: "Here's where you get a meal like your mother used to give you."

A PICTURE dealer announced in an Irish journal that, among portraits, he had a representation of "Death as large as life."

A NOTICE said to have been seen over the entrance-gate to a French burying-ground was as follows: "Only the dead who live in this parish are buried here."

AN Irish provincial paper inserted the following notice: "Whereas, Patrick O'Connor lately left his lodgings; this is to give notice that if he does not return immediately and pay for the same he will be advertised."

A COUNTRY sculptor was ordered to engrave on a tombstone the following words: "A virtuous woman is a crown to her husband." The stone, however, being small, he engraved on it: "A virtuous woman is 5s. to her husband."

A COUNTRY notice is said to be given by a minister in Salem County, New Jersey, namely, that he will perform the marriage ceremony on the most accommodating terms: "Those who are not blessed with cash can pay the fee in cordwood, bacon, or corn."

IN a number of the London Magazine of 1767 was this curious announcement, addressed to all foreigners and others: "This is to give notice that the English vulgar tongue is taught at Billingsgate by a company of qualified fish-women, upon very reasonable terms."

AT Dieppe, that famous bathing-place, there are police established, whose duty it is to rescue persons from danger. This notice is said to have been recently issued to them: "The bathing-police are requested, when a lady is in danger of drowning, to seize her by the dress and not by the hair, which oftentimes remains in their grasp."

A LIVERPOOL furrier informs "those ladies who wish to have a really genuine article that he will be happy to make them muffs, boas, etc., of their own skins." This is matched by the proprietor of a bone-mill, who announces that "Parties sending their own bones to be ground will find their orders attended to with punctuality and dispatch."

THERE are many curious signs and business announcements to be found in London, of which a few are: "Sick Dogs Medically Treated by the Week or Month. Birds to Board. Ladies' and Gentlemen's Feet and Hands Professionally Treated by the Job or Season. Round-Shouldered Persons Made Straight. Babies or Children Hired or Exchanged. False Noses as Good as New, and Warranted to Fit. Black Eyes Painted Very Neatly."

AN old farmer employed a son of Erin to work for him on his farm. Pat was constantly misplacing the end boards in the cart—the front board behind and the tail board in front—which made the old gentleman very irritable. To prevent blunders he resolved to distinguish each board by some sign or notice thereon. Accordingly, he painted on both boards a large "B," then, calling Pat to him and showing him the boards, he said: "Now, you block-head, you need make no mistake, as they are both marked. This," pointing to one board, "is 'B' for before, and that," indicating the tail board, "is 'B' for behind." Whereupon the old gentleman marched off with great dignity.

A PRINTING-PRESS by which blind persons are enabled to print the raised letters, now universally used by them, has been invented.

—Clem, the 10-year-old son of Elwood McGuire, was almost frightened to death and badly hurt by a black Newfoundland dog at Richmond. It chewed up the boy's arm frightfully and then maimed him for life by completely biting off the end of his nose. McGuire borrowed a rifle and dispatched the dog, but the end of the child's nose could not be restored.

A 15-year-old boy, named Arby Hewitt, living near Danville, was kicked to death by a farm horse, which he tried to mount. His foot caught in the gears, causing the horse to take fright and run off. The horse ran a quarter of a mile, and when caught had kicked and bruised the lad until he was in a dying condition. He expired in half an hour.

The Christian Church congregation at Crawfordsville have been for some time talking about building a new church, and now the new edifice is an assured fact. At a meeting held recently about ten thousand dollars was subscribed, and it is now the intention to obtain that much more, and proceed at once to erect the new church.

—Greedy Palmer, a lad who has been working at Boyce's bagging factory, Muncie, had his clothing caught in the machinery of a carding machine, and before assistance could reach him his left arm was terribly mutilated to the elbow, and the ends of the fingers on the right hand were torn off.

—Harvey Hines and Alfred Stevens, both colored, aged respectively 13 and 15, became involved in a difficulty at Cannelton, in which Stevens stabbed his playmate in the throat, cutting the jugular vein. Hines died almost instantly. No cause is assigned for the bloody deed, as they were friends.

—Walsh College, at Crawfordsville, has just received another bequest from the Sabin estate at LaPorte, which has given the institution $85,000. Mrs. Sabin has given $5,000 to be devoted to the endowment of an alcove of books in the college library in memory of her son Chancey.

The jury in the case of Blair Mock, of Huntington, who has been on trial at Marion for the murder of Harry Vandevender, returned a verdict charging Mock with manslaughter and fixing the penalty at fifteen years in the penitentiary. Mock's father is a rich physician of Huntington.

The monument erected by the Odd Fellows of Indiana to the memory of the late Vice President Schuyler Colfax, in commemoration of his services in establishing the degree of the Daughters of Rebekah, was formally unveiled at Indianapolis with imposing ceremonies.

William Kruezer, in West Union, was practicing with a Flobert rifle, shooting at a target, when one ball passed through the crack of the fence, lodging in the thigh of Rudy Johnson, colored, inflicting a severe wound.

—Charles Ostrander, a brakeman on the L., N. A. & C. was killed at Salem, the caboose of a freight train running over him. He was on top of the car next to the caboose and slipped and fell on the track below.

—Louis Prenatt, aged 7, accidentally impaled himself on an iron fence at Madison. His injuries caused death.

—Lee Shields, near Elizabeth, Harrison County, died of lock-jaw, resulting from a gunshot wound accidentally received, recently, while killing rats.

—The brickmakers of Terre Haute, have decided to introduce molds into the union brickyard that will leave upon each brick the union imprint.

—Michael Rooney, aged 10 years, was drowned at the dam, near Crawfordsville, while bathing.

—Mrs Calvin Brown, of Kokomo, committed suicide by setting fire to her clothing.

The St. Joe News.

ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

THE WELL'S SECRET.

BY JOHN BOYLE O'REILLY.

I knew it all my boyhood; in a lonesome valley meadow.
Like a dryad's mirror hidden by the wood's dim arches near;
Its eyes flashed back the sunshine and grew dark and sad with shadow,
And I loved its truthful depths, where every pebble lay so clear.

I scooped my hand and drank it, and watched the serpents quiver
Of the rippling rings of silver as the drops of crystal fell;
I pressed the richer grasses from its little trickling river
Till at last I knew, as friends know, every secret of the well.

But one day I stood beside it, on a sudden, unexpected,
When the sun had crossed the valley and a shadow hid the place,
And I looked in the dark waters, saw my pallid cheek reflected,
And beside it, looking upward, met an evil, reptile face.

Looking upward, furtive, startled at the silent, swift intrusion;
Then it darted toward the grasses and I saw not where it fled.
But I knew its eyes were on me, and the old-time sweet illusion
Of the pure and perfect youth I had cherished there was dead.

Oh, the pain to know the perfidy of seeming truth that blossoms
My soul was scared like sin to see the falsehood of the place;
And the innocence that mocked me; while in dim, unseen recesses,
There were lurking fouler secrets than the furtive reptile face.

And since then, ah, why the burden?—when joy is faces greet me
With eyes of blithe innocence and words of art;
I cannot trust their seeming, but must ask what eyes would meet me
Could I look in sudden silence at the secrets of the heart.

FATE DID IT.

BY CHARLES WETHERILL.

"Ethel," said Mrs. Fleming, "whatever happens, you must dine at the Laramies. You made a great impression on Dr. Laramie last week, and he's a catch. I can tell you. Already he is making a name in his profession; and then he has a fortune of his own. His mother took a fancy to you also; and, really, I've quite congratulated myself on doing so much for you. When poor sister died I made up my mind to take you and marry you well. Of course, I have given up a good deal of time, and spent much money, but you're a grateful girl, I know, and I shall probably make a second marriage very soon, and naturally want you off my hands. Plain English, but you don't mind."

"I'm used to it, Aunt Myra," said Ethel, as she was usually called, "but I'm not sure Dr. Laramie is tremendously smitten as you think he is; and I can't be married as you would sell a goose—like it? Have it at the market price, or with a reduction, because I want to sell out and go home—Oh! I'll go as a governess first, auntie."

"I forget how many thousand young women want governess' places," said Mrs. Fleming—"want them because they want bread, and can't get them. It's better to marry well."

"But young women want husbands, too, and can't get them," replied Ethel. "Quite as many, perhaps."

"There you are right," said Mrs. Fleming; "but you have a husband in view. Really, I don't see how you did it. You are very ordinary. Like your papa's people. You ought to thank Fortune, and take her gifts."

"First the man must offer, then I must love him," said Ethel. "As yet, neither thing has happened."

But in her heart she felt that she could like Dr. Laramie very much indeed; and he had seemed to like her, only it might be his manner to all women.

"But about the dinner," said Mrs. Fleming. "Amber silk, and your amber pins in your hair. You have handsome black hair and natural crimps; that's one good point. Of course, amber earrings and black lace, and some Marochal Niel roses. I'd have made my fortune as a modiste. I can always see a costume ready made before it is even begun. I'll shop for you, and you must put on gloves, with crème du rose on them, at once, and sleep in them; your hands get so frightfully rough. White hands are the greatest boon. The Colonel thinks mine perfection; but I'm so particular, I'm not satisfied with the wrists. What are you laughing at me for when I'm just doing my very best for you?"

"For joy, auntie," said Ethel. "I'm so glad to be married off, you know. But, really, I can't make myself helpless for three days and nights for the sake of white hands. If I go to bed in grained gloves I shan't sleep, and if I do nothing all day I shall lose my mind."

"Then you can wear mits which you need not remove at table," said the aunt. "It is the style, but I don't like it."

With this compromise the aunt vanished, and revealed in shopping for the rest of the day. Then solid hard work began. A costume such as Ethel wore is not simply "sent home from the modiste's." To be sure, a celebrated French cutter did the fitting, but the complete thing was done at home. A fine seamstress and the eye of an artist in gowns (Mrs. Fleming had not said a word too much about herself) was necessary to produce that elegant effect. And Ethel stood two hours, not quite impatiently, to be "draped."

The modiste drapes on a "figure" of hops, or utilizes the girl nearest the size; and draping can only be artistic if done upon the figure of the person to wear the costume.

"It did not cost much, after all," said the delighted aunt; "but Worth never did better."

And Ethel was dressing in her room, and was all ready save for the roses, when an awful sound was heard through the house, evidently some one tumbling down stairs.

Into the hall all rushed. It was cook, who had gone up to her room in a flapping pair of loose old shoes, and had slipped on the polished stairs. Her ankle was sprained; and, when laid upon a lounge, she uttered awful moans and sighs, until Ethel, arriving with a bottle of liniment, and a towel pinned about her waist, assuaged the anguish.

"Ethel," cried her aunt, "you'll spoil your clothes and your nails."

But Ethel never heeded. She ministered to cook, who gradually grew black and blue all over, until at last that happened which Aunt Fleming had prophesied.

Over went the bottle, and down the side breadth of the amber silk poured a greasy flood of most unpleasant odor.

"I told you so! It is done for! What will you do?" cried Aunt Fleming. "How you look! and, oh, how you smell! I could taste black lace over it in what-do-you-call-cum; but the smell! And your hair is all crooked."

"Oh, go on applyin' of it. It don't hurt when you apply it," moaned cook, with the utter selfishness of a suffering person. "Put more on. There's a deary, do."

Ethel put "more on" both on her patient and her gown.

Mrs. Fleming began to cry.

"Don't do that," said Ethel, warningly.

"The Colonel won't praise your eyes if you do; and go to the dinner and say anything you like in the way of excuse for me. I do smell dreadfully of liniment. Perhaps the truth would be best; no one could eat near me."

"More, deary—on my back," said the cook, "just below the shoulder blade."

"The Colonel, mum," said Maria, the maid, looking in at the door, "and would I remind you it's getting late."

"Go, auntie," said Ethel. Mrs. Fleming lifted hands and eyes to heaven, but remarked: "If you are not going I might as well take your Marochal Niel roses with black velvet. I might mix them with the Jacques, and you can't have too many flowers this winter."

The carriage rolled away; they were gone.

At the hour when fashionable dinner-guests return home Mrs. Fleming reappeared. She looked very much as though the Colonel had been saying sweet things to her, and she was very amiable.

"I'm so sorry for you, dear," she said to Ethel, "but I think the cleaners can take the spots out; or, when it doesn't smell so, black lace or a new side breadth might be bought. Where is cook?"

"In bed, asleep," said Ethel, looking very bright and sweet. "And the doctor has put her to sleep with some little pills, and—"

"I never thought that peach-colored wrapper so becoming," said Mrs. Fleming. "Or have you grown prettier? Was the liniment the elixir of youth? Oh, the doctor! What doctor did you send for?"

"I didn't send. He came of his own accord. I thought you had sent him," said Ethel.

"No, I had not time," said Mrs. Fleming. "By the way, you didn't lose much of Dr. Laramie's society. He went out—called away, his mother said. So—well—you laugh so at nothing. I told him you were ministering to an aged and faithful servant. We have had cook a year, and I think she's honest. Well?"

"I hadn't quite finished, auntie," said Ethel. "The doctor was Dr. Laramie. He said he had heard how I was detained."

"Yes?" cried Mrs. Fleming, breathlessly. "Why, what is that on your finger—a ring?" "It is Dr. Laramie's ring," said Ethel. "We are engaged. He loves me, auntie, and as soon as he told me so I knew that I loved him."

"Of all awful creatures!" cried Mrs. Fleming; "but you have done it, and I am content."

"Fate did it," said Ethel; but this her aunt has never been quite brought to believe.

He Didn't Complain.

Jinks—Don't you object to your wife wearing such an enormously high hat, Binks?

Binks—No, not at all. I complained of it once, and she said she would take off an inch for every drink I refused.

Jinks—No wonder you don't complain any more.—Till Bits.

The Man and the Hen.

Your mission is to make the world about you a little brighter and happier. If you haven't thought of any other way of doing this permit me to suggest, if you have a little place in the country, that you should keep hens. By all means keep hens. I don't keep any myself; I am rather fond of easy missions, but my neighbor does, and the amount of sunshine that man throws across my daily path would be hard to estimate. Many an hour that would otherwise drag heavily away is lightened with smiles by the amusing and at times thrilling and exciting drama of "The Man and the Hen." To watch him come out of the house to drive an old brown hen into the henery—I made up my mind that she was an old imbecile the first time I saw her fly upon the fence to lay an egg—to note the delicate shadings of thought and action, from easy, graceful confidence to sober earnestness, thence into calmness, thence to seriousness that deepened into dead earnestness, which passes into deep-rooted and eternal resolution, with indications of conscientious indignation, giving place to irritability and human anger, which in turn and at last sweeps away into one wild, chaotic cyclone of blind and destructive wrath that darkens the April day with bricks, clods, and other language, as the old brown hen, a magnificent blur of squaks and feathers, goes hanging with a cloud of dust into every door and window on the reservation except the one to which her attention is being most earnestly directed—to sit at the easement of my lair and watch this instructive drama of life and its varied possibilities, is reading one of those dear, old, ever new books that we love. Most of my neighbor's hens appear to be feeble-minded—very few hens are intellectually strong—but at times they display the cunning of the marmoset. Especially is this the case when they have succeeded in reducing their nominal master to the condition of one. Yesterday my neighbor discovered a loose board on the back of his henery, creating an adjustable aperture through which the restless fowls found egress into this world of care and trouble and early gardens. While he miled on the board the entire crew of hens walked sedately out of the door on the other side which he had left open. A general alarm was sounded and the man's whole family at last corralled the maudlin crew in the henery. Then they walked quietly out of the aperture of the loose board, which he had left ajar. No, I do not wish you could have heard what he said. Indeed, I am glad you did not. I did not hear it myself. He was too far away. I could see his mouth going, but I could hear no sound. I knew what he was saying all the time, because I used to say it myself. Oh, yes, I have kept hens. I once, in radiant, youthful days, builded a henery, saying within myself, "There is nothing better for a man than that he should eat and drink and that his should make his soul enjoy good in his labor." And when the last sun of that year set on the disheartening record of weasels, pip, cholera, rats, red spiders, gapes, cats, predatory freedmen, bumblefoot and ministers' conference, I evicted the cluster of omnivorous appetites that wandered about the place in the guise of hens, devouring my substance and all adjacent substance that happened to be left anywhere within fifty feet of the ground; turned the abandoned henery into a preserve for coal, which was the dearest thing then in the market, and "looked on all the works that my hands had wrought, and on the labor that I had labored to do, and behold all was vanity and vexation of spirit and there was no profit under the sun."—Bob Burdette.

Insect Mimicry.

There is a certain butterfly, says the Cornhill Magazine, in the Malay Archipelago which always rests among dead or dry leaves, and has itself leaf-like wings, all spotted over at intervals with wee speckles to imitate the tiny spots of fungi on the foliage it resembles. The well-known stick and leaf insects from the same rich neighborhood, in like manner exactly imitate the twigs and leaves of the forest among which they lurk; some of them look for all the world like little bits of walking bamboo, while others appear in all varieties of hue, as if opening buds and full-blown leaves and pieces of yellow foliage sprinkled with the tints and mold of decay had of a sudden raised themselves erect upon six legs and begun incontinently to perambulate the Maylayan woodlands, like vegetable Frankensteins in all their glory. The larva of one such deceptive insect, observed in Nicaragua by sharp-eyed Mr. Belt, appeared at first sight like a mere fragment of the moss on which it rested, its body being all prolonged into thread-like green filaments, precisely imitating the foliage around it. And there are also common flies which secure protection for themselves by growing into the counterfeit presentment of wasps or hornets, and so obtaining immunity from the attacks of birds or animals. Many of these curious mimetic insects are banded with yellow and black in the very image of their stinging originals, and have their tails sharpened, in terrorem, into a pretended sting, to give point and verisimilitude to the deceptive resemblance. More curious still, certain South American butterflies, of a perfectly inoffensive and edible family, mimicing every spot and line of color of sundry other butterflies of an utterly unrelated and fundamentally dissimilar type, but of so disagreeable taste as never to be eaten by birds or lizards.

The Preservation of Timber.

The cheapest operation to protect our woods, and quite sufficient for many purposes, is to season or thoroughly dry the timber, reducing the contained moisture from eight to twelve per cent. of the wood, and when in this condition, with a circulation of air around it, to prevent the collection and absorption of moisture, the wood will last indefinitely, as the fungi cannot grow in such surroundings. Everyone is more or less familiar with the soundness of timber in the upper parts of buildings, while in lower parts near the foundations it is often decayed because of moisture.

In many situations however, where timber must be used, the conditions of growth of the fungi are present, and it will decay; some species can be used which resist the attacks of the fungi for a long period, but the final result is decay unless the wood is treated by some process preventing the growth of the fungi, which must be capable of doing either one of two things: 1. It must keep the fibers dry, preventing the absorption of moisture. 2. If the wood must be in a damp place and kept moist some antiseptic must be present, sufficient to prevent the growth of any of the various kinds of destructive fungi. Timber entirely submerged does not come under these considerations. To use the first process successfully means more than a thin coat of paint or tar on seasoned wood when exposed to continued moisture. It must be some substance which penetrates the tissues of the wood sufficiently far, in case the exterior surface is broken, to any absorption of moisture. Wood impregnated with the heavy tar or the lighter oils are protected more from the fact of prevention of access of dampness to the fibers than by the contained antiseptics, unless in the exception of a great percentage of creosote. In the second method the moisture is permitted to come in contact with the fibers of the wood, and reliance depends upon the antiseptic. In this case, the entire wood should be saturated to give the greatest measure of success, not merely an exterior protection of a half-inch or so in depth, the latter fact as before explained, being the cause of many of the failures which have taken place. The antiseptic treatment, to succeed, must destroy all the germs which have found lodgement in the timber, and also those which may come from the exterior.—Popular Science Monthly.

Making His Son Work.

Jay Gould—Want a yacht, eh? Well, you've got to make the money to buy it. I'll take a walk down street.

Son George—Yes, father.

"I'll slip on the pavement."

"Yes, father."

"And have myself brought back in an ambulance."

"Yes, father."

"Then stocks will drop and you buy."

"Yes, father."

"Then I'll go out on the front pavement and dance a jig."

"Yes, father."

"Then stocks will go up and you sell."

Omaha World.

"JOSEPHINE," said a lady to her servant, "you have cracked another cup, I see." "Yes, madam, and luckily it just makes out the dozen: it was the only whole one left out of the lot."

BILL NYE

Tells All He Knows and Some Things He Don't Know About Oliver Cromwell.

Oliver P. Cromwell was born at Huntingdon, April 25, 1559. As soon as he had rested himself a little, he began to look about him and prepare to sock his person into a niche in history. He was a son of Robert Cromwell, and grandson of Sir Henry Cromwell.

He entered Sidney Sussex College at the age of 17 years, and began to get solid with the President. At college Mr. Cromwell was noted for his devotion to his studies and the length of time he could wear his linen without being mobbed. It is said of Cromwell that he managed to save enough out of his laundry expenses to buy himself a matriculation and a house and lot on the day of his graduation.

In 1620 he married Elizabeth Bourchier, on which occasion he and his wife received a triple-plated butter dish, three card receivers, and a photograph album. They then settled down.

Cromwell was a member of Parliament for eleven years at one pop, and only made a short speech during all that time.

Is it any wonder that Cromwell was beloved by his constituency?

I trow not.

Cromwell was not regarded as a fluent speaker, and once when he had just made a brief address, in which he had successfully called for the previous question, Lord Digby inquired of Hampden who "that sloven was."

Cromwell went into the army in 1642. He soon became a Colonel, and in 1644 commanded the left wing which was so victorious at Marston Moor on July 2.

He did not write an account of it for publication, with a large portrait of himself on a sporting war horse, with red nostrils, however, and thus he continued to endear himself to the people.

Col. Cromwell allied himself with the Independents and against the Presbyterians in the great dissension which occurred at this time.

Charles II. resigned as king in May, 1646, owing to brain fog, and in order to secure much needed rest he surrendered himself to the Scottish army, which turned him over to Parliament. For awhile Charles seemed to be on the road most of the time.

Cromwell was down on the Presbyterians from the word "go," as Macaulay has it, and in 1648 he fired forty-one Presbyterian Royalists out of Parliament, Col. Pride going the ejectment act under Oliver's orders. This was called "Pride's Purge" for many years, and you can still read on some of the old fences around here,

USE PRIDE'S PURGE.

Cromwell was a member of the court which, in January, 1649, tried the King and condemned him, giving him sixty days, together with a fine of $5 and trimmings, with the order that he stand committed till the fine and costs were fully paid.

He then went to Ireland to suppress a small but a very hot rebellion of which Ireland was at that time passionately fond.

The Scotch now espoused the cause of Charles II., and it became a contest between the Cromwell Close Communion Baptists, who wished to immerse the land in gore, and the Royal Presbyterians.

Cromwell was now made commander-in-chief, with $200 a month and a horse to ride.

At Dunbar Gen. Cromwell engaged the royal forces in a hand-to-hand conflict on the 3d of September, 1650, at which time he took 10,000 prisoners.

In April, 1653, he dissolved the long Parliament, commonly called the Rump, telling each Rumpist that his services would not be required any longer, and that he had better go home and hoe his corn. A new Parliament was then summoned, and Cromwell became the lord protector of the commonwealth, with an office over the First National Bank.

He was offered the job of king on the day shift that fall, but he said no, he preferred the position he then occupied. For he hated the trappings of royalty. It is said that he took the ermine off the edges of Charles II.'s reigning robe and made ear-taps for the poor, but this may be untrue. Still he had a great contempt for royalty, never having published a book on that plan.

Cromwell was stigmatized of course by the Royalists, but he never lost a day's work or a meal's victuals on that account, as Carlyle puts it. As soon as he found that he was stigmatized he would put a moist chew of tobacco on the place, take a large drink of Scotch whisky with a little ginger ale on the side, and you wouldn't know that he had ever been stigmatized.

He was long regarded by historians as a man of cruel temper and mediocre talents, but it is now thought that he was extremely otherwise. Col. Cromwell had his failings, it is true, and of course by many he will ever be regarded with loathing, aversion, and other things of that kind, but he was not what might be called a mediocre man, by any means.

On the contrary, he thought the world of his wife, and invariably spent his evenings at home.

Cromwell died on the 3d day of September, A. D., 1658, and people came for thirteen miles and brought their dinners in order to attend the funeral and see what kind of a sarcophagus he had.

Finding Pharaoh.

In a line of tombs beyond the Ramesseum lived four sturdy Arabs named Abdel-Rasoul. They supplied guides and donkeys to tourists who desired to visit the ruins of Thebes, and sold them genuine and spurious antiquities. When they found a mummy, it being forbidden by law to sell it, the head and hands and feet were wrenched off and sold on the sly, while the torso was kicked about the ruined temples until the jackals came and carried it away. I purchased a head and hand of one of the brothers amid the dark shadows of the temple at Qurneh.

Early in 1881 circumstantial evidence pointed to Ahmed Abdel-Rasoul as the one who knew more than he would tell. Prof. Maspero caused his arrest, and he lay in prison at Kenh for some months. He also suffered the bastinado and the browbeating of the women repeatedly; he resisted bribes, and showed no melting mood when threatened with execution. His lips told no more than the unopened tomb—and not as much. Finally his brother Mohammed regarded the offer of "bakshish," which Prof. Maspero deemed it wise to make, as worth more to him than any sum he might hope to realize from future pillaging, and made a clean breast of the whole affair. How the four brothers ever discovered the hidden tomb has remained a "family secret."

On July 5, 1881, the wily Arab conducted Herr Emil Brugsch Bey, curator of the Bulag Museum, to Deir-el-Bahari and pointed out the hiding-place so long looked for. A long climb it was, up the slope of the western mountain, till, after scaling a great lime-stone cliff, a huge, isolated rock was found. Behind this a spot was reached where the stones appeared to an expert observer and tomb-seeker to have been arranged "by hand," rather than scattered by some upheaval of nature. "There," said the sullen guide; and "there" the enterprising Emil Brugsch Bey, with more than Egyptian alacrity, soon had a staff of Arabs at work hoisting the loose stones from a well into which they had been thrown. The shaft had been sunk into the solid limestone to the depth of about forty feet, and was about six feet square. Before going very far, a huge palm-log was thrown across the well and a block and tackle fastened to it to help bring up the debris. When the bottom of the shaft was reached a subterranean passage was found which ran westward some twenty-four feet and then turned directly northward, continuing into the heart of the mountain straight except where broken for about two hundred feet by an abrupt stairway. The passage terminated in a mortuary chamber about thirteen by twenty-three feet in extent and barely six feet in height. There was found the mummy of King Pharaoh of the Oppression, with nearly forty others of kings, queens, princes, and priests.—The Century.

A Lockout.

"Is that you, Mr. Brown?" called out Mrs. Brown from the window above as Brown fumbled with his latch-key at the door.

"Yesh—hic—my dear, I've been—hic—to a meeting—hic—labor—hic—club, and—"

"Well, I've declared a lockout," snapped Mrs. Brown, as she slammed down the window.—New York Sun.

I own that there is a haughtiness and fierceness in human nature which will cause innumerable broils, place men in what situation you please.—Burke.

This represents a healthy life. Throughout its various scenes.

Just such a life as they enjoy. Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.

Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones, and Bright's disease. Send 3 cents postage for a sample package and test the TRUTH of what we say. Price, 25 cents per bottle, mailed to any address, postpaid. DOSE ONE BEAN. Sold by druggists.

J. F. SMITH & CO., PROPRIETORS, ST. LOUIS, MO.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RY

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest—in the only true middle-link in that transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oakdale, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie, Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodations is unequalled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

ALL EXPRESS TRAINS between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of comfortable DAY COACHES, magnificent PULLMAN PALACE PARLOR and SLEEPING CARS, elegant DINING CARS providing excellent meals, and—between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—restful RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains run daily to the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The rich wheat fields and grazing lands of interior Dakota are reached via Watertown. A short desirable route, via Seneca and Kankakee, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points.

All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employees of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly attention.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders—obtainable at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada—or any desired information, address,

R. R. CABLE, Pres't & Gen'l Mgr., Chicago. E. ST. JOHN, Ass't Gen'l Mgr., Chicago. E. A. HOLBROOK, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt., Chicago.

OAKLAWN The Great Nursery of PERCHERON HORSES.

200 Imported Brood Mares Of Choicest Families. LARGE NUMBERS, All Ages, both Sexes, IN STOCK.

300 to 400 IMPORTED ANNUALLY from France, all recorded with extended pedigrees in the Percheron Stud Books. The Percheron is the only draft breed of France possessing a stud book that has the support and endorsement of the French Government. Send for 120-page Catalogue, illustrations by Alphonse Bonheur.

M. W. DUNHAM, Waynes, DuPage Co., Ill.

Piac's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Price 3 Cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and restore the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only add to its popularity. Do not experiment—get GENUINE, and Bear

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS (Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

ADVERTISERS or others, who wish to examine this paper, or obtain estimates on advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St., the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

WARREN'S CATARRH BONE. Dressing for the hair, and body, and for the face. It is a most valuable and reliable remedy. It cures all kinds of Catarrh, and is sold by all druggists. Price 25 cents. For sale everywhere. Try it. WARREN'S CATARRH BONE COMPANY, Three Oaks, Mich.

St. Joe, Ind.

MORT & WILL OLDS, PUBLISHERS.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
One Year, in advance ..... 80.75
Six Months ..... 50
Three Months ..... 25

Entered at the Post Office at St. Joe
as second-class matter

FRIDAY MAY 27, 1887.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

Mrs. A. Hickett and Mrs. J. Hull were in Auburn last Wednesday

Sunday school was rather thinly attended last Sabbath, because of the quarterly meeting at Rehoboth.

For us, we know this week every body is enjoying usual health and prospering, but it is exceedingly dry and the farmers are wishing for rain.

Frank, who came all the way over to Hilderbrand's, one evening last week, after his girl to take her to a party in his neighborhood. It is so,
said he.

The devil of the St. Joe News, need not depend upon Harry Buchanan going to Ganett with him any more to see their girls, for Harry had come one else up to Rehoboth, and if he don't want to go home he can just come out this way and see the girl he has been "kinder hankerin'" after.

The men and women gathered at the church last Wednesday afternoon and gave it a thorough cleaning. Two of the ladies raised money enough to get a new carpet and window blinds.
After the church played to lunch. He walked into the water flinging it over the girls in a lively manner. A committee ought to have been appointed to go and tell his mother.

One day last week Mrs. Buchanan went to Spencer's, and when starting, looked her door and left the window open. On the way she met Ayle Shannon bringing her some flour and told her she could not get in the house, but leave it out side. In evening her conversation on going home in the evening to find her flour in the house. She had forgotten to close the window. (We don't understand the meaning of this item, but perhaps our readers can.)

Has Wancamaker sold the Star
Wind Engine last week.

One of the Butler papers quoted the price of wheat at 78 cents last week, while our buyers were paying 82 and 84 cents.

Some of our possibly can should not be so. Monday and assist in decorating the soldier's graves, and paying a tribute of respect and memory. This duty should be done alone to the members of the U. A. R., but it devolves equally as much upon every patriotic citizen throughout the land.
We ever hold in grateful rememberance the memory of those who fell in their country's defense.

At week we shall issue over 600 copies of this paper, and they will be sent to all parts of the county. As far as possible, we shall send a copy to every old settler in De Kalb county, and in this way give them a special invitation to attend the old set-tler's meeting to be held here on the 16th of June. It is safe to say that at least five persons will read each copy, which will make three thousand people, who will read the St. Joe News next week.

THE COMMENCEMENT.

The second annual commencement of the St. Joe school occurred in the Lutheran church last evening, and it was just like every thing else we have here in St. Joe, it was a success in every particular. The church was very tastefully arranged, and the stage was beautifully decorated with flowers and appropriate mottoes.

At 8 o'clock, Miss Leona Tustison stepped to the organ, and began playing a march, which was the signal for the entrance of the teachers and graduates, who filed in and took their places upon the stage. After the singing of an anthem, Rev. J. M.
Langley offered an invocation. This was followed by an oration by Miss Emma Curie, entitled "Whither are we drifting?" which was rendered in an excellent manner and contained many good thoughts. Next was a recitation by Miss Addie Widney, followed by a quartette. Miss Edie Hart's oration "Woven of Many Threads," came next upon the program, and was delivered in good taste, and showed that the speaker had given the subject thought.

"Who is the Freeman?" was the title of an oration by Frank Boyle, which was executed in a pleasing and forceful manner. Following this was a duet by Mrs. Patterson and Mrs.
Olds. The title of Frank Hart's oration was "Let us solve the Problem."

Frank usually speaks well, and upon this occasion acquitted himself in a creditable manner. Next came a recitation by Miss Nina Filley, followed by an oration by Miss Callie Copp, entitled "Morning, Noon and Night," which was well rendered for one who was not used to speaking in public. Miss Mattie White then sang a solo, after which Miss Eva Shutt gave a recitation, entitled "Tom, the Drummer Boy." The last oration "What shall we do with Our Girls?" by Miss Virginia Langley, was delivered in a very graceful and pleasing manner, and showed that care had been taken in the preparation of the subject. After another song by the quartette, County Superintendent Merica in a few well chosen and appropriate words presented the graduates with their well earned diplomas. Following this came a march, after which Rev. Fryberger pronounced the benediction and the exercises were over. The teachers, graduates, scholars and all connected with it, are to be congratulated on the complete success of the entertainment. The graduates gave a banquet at Leighty's hall at the close of the exercises, to which a large
